- 78 A New Heaven and a New Earth (Revelation 20:1-22:21) 29:02

Inter-Testamental Period

400 years of silence

- 400 years of silence – Time between the Old Testament and New Testament when God did not speak to the Jewish people

400 years

- 400 years of slavery before the exodus – Another 400 years when God was silent
 - One of the reasons that God allows this to happen is that it allows them to grow into a people with their own identity
 - Instead of studying Scripture to seek God and to prepare for the coming Messiah (Psalm 43-44), these 400 years of foreign military oppression blinded and deafened the nation to the point where most of the Jews could not even consider the concept of a humble Messiah (Zechariah 9:9; Isaiah 6:10; John 12:40).
 - Isa 6:10 Make the heart of this people calloused; make their ears dull and close their eyes. Otherwise they might see with their eyes, hear with their ears, understand with their hearts, and turn and be healed."
 - Jn 12:40 "He has blinded their eyes and deadened their hearts, so they can neither see with their eyes, nor understand with their hearts, nor turn—and I would heal them." 41 Isaiah said this because he saw Jesus' glory and spoke about him.
 - Zec 9:9 See, your king comes to you, righteous and having salvation, gentle and riding on a donkey, on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
- Almost two millennia have passed since the New Testament canon was completed, and though the Word is full of grace and truth, and though the birth, life and death of Jesus fulfilled a staggering array of prophecies, the Jews as a people have yet to open their eyes and ears. But Jesus is coming again, and one day a remnant will both see and hear.

430 BC – Malachi's warning

- 430 BC – Began with Malachi's warning because Jews were not honoring God – Closed the Old Testament
 - Ended with the coming of John the Baptist, the Messiah's forerunner.

Mal 4:5 "See, I will send you the prophet Elijah before that great and dreadful day of the LORD comes. 6 He will turn the hearts of the fathers to their children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers; or else I will come and strike the land with a curse."

331 BC – Greece defeats Persia

- 331 B.C. – Greece
 - Alexander the Great (Greece) defeats Darius (Persia), ending 200 years of Persian rule.
 - They adopted the Greek language and many of the Greek customs and manners
- Daniel 5 – The writing on the wall

323 BC – Alexander dies and his four generals divide the kingdom

- When Alexander the Great died in 323 B.C., his empire stretched from his homeland of Macedonia to India

- 323 BC – Alexander dies on his return from Persia and his four generals divide the kingdom:
 - Divided the kingdom
 - Antipater and Cassander get Macedon and Greece
 - Lysimachus gets Thrace and Asia Minor
 - Seleucus gets Syria
 - Ptolemy gets Palestine and Egypt
 - Daniel 8 – Ram and He-Goat

- 204 BC Greece – Antiochus the Great of Syria – recaptured Palestine
 - He and his successor, Antiochus Epiphanes, persecuted the Jews and sold the priesthood

167-160 BC – Maccabean Revolt

- 167-160 BC – Maccabean Revolt
 - 167 B.C. Antiochus Epiphanes IV, a Seleucid king of Syria, attacks Egypt
 - The Roman navy fought him off
 - He was angry and frustrated by the Roman defense and lashed out at Israel and on God's temple
 - Antiochus attacks Jerusalem and desecrates the temple Holy of Holies by offering pig flesh on the altar
 - Antiochus' suppression of the Jews came to a head in December of 168 BC – When returning in defeat from Alexandria, he ordered his generals to seize Jerusalem on a Sabbath
 - There he erected an idol of Zeus and desecrated the altar by offering swine on it and sprinkling the broth in the sanctuary
 - Sacrifice was ceased because the temple was desecrated
 - The Jews, especially their leaders, invited God's judgment upon them through Antiochus because of their sins and transgressions – Antiochus' 1st attack was to settle a rivalry for the high priesthood
 - A pious high priest, Onias III, was removed from office and replaced with his brother Jason, because Jason had bribed Antiochus
 - In 172 BC, another brother, Menelaus, gave Antiochus an even bigger bribe and replaced Jason.
 - In 171 BC, Menelaus started selling many of the gold utensils of the temple to raise money to pay off the bribe.
 - Onias III rebuked him, and Menelaus had him murdered
 - Meanwhile, Jason marshaled armies and tried to oust Menelaus by force; Antiochus came in 171 to defend his appointee
 - Mattathias, a priest of Judea, raises a revolt against Syria, which is led by his son, Judas Maccabaeus
 - 165 B.C. the Jews recaptured Jerusalem, cleansed the Temple and rededicated it
 - Judas Maccabees – leader of the revolt – Maccabees means hammer
 - The revolution results in a brief period of Jewish independence.
 - Rededication of the Temple

- Only enough oil for the Menorah to last 1 day but miraculously, the Menorah kept burning for the entire week of the rededication festival
- Hanukkah (Festival of Lights) – Remembers this miracle
- Fighting continued between the Jews and the Syrians until the Romans gained control

146 BC – Rome defeats Greece

- 275 BC – The Romans in Italy were beginning to expand out of Italy and conquer other parts of the Mediterranean
 - They started with Sicily, an island near Italy. The Romans were fighting the Carthaginians.
 - Some of the Greeks decided to help the Carthaginians fight the Romans, because the Greeks were afraid of the Romans. But the Carthaginians lost.
- 146 BC – Battle of Corinth
 - The Romans were very angry at the Greeks, and they started to take Greece over as well. At first the Romans pretended to let Greece be independent, but by 146 BC the Romans destroyed Corinth and made Greece into a province of the Roman Empire.
 - Beginning of the Roman Empire
 - Lasted until ??
 - In the late fourth century, the Western Roman Empire crumbled after a nearly 500-year run as the world's greatest superpower. Historians have blamed the collapse on hundreds of different factors ranging from military failures and crippling taxation to natural disasters and even climate change.
 - Still others argue that the Roman Empire didn't really fall in 476 A.D., since its eastern half continued for another thousand years in the form of the Byzantine Empire. While just how—and when—the Empire fell remains a subject of ongoing debate, certain theories have emerged as the most popular explanations for Western Rome's decline and disintegration.
- 63 B.C. – Rome
 - The Roman general, Pompey, takes Jerusalem and the people of Israel come under Roman rule.
 - Pompey walked into the Holy of Holies, once again shocking and embittering the Jews
 - Israel stays under Roman rule throughout the entire period of the New Testament.
- 47 B.C. – Caesar installed Antipater as procurator of Judea
 - Antipater was a descendant of Esau
 - Antipater subsequently appointed his two sons as kings over Galilee and Judea.
- 40 B.C. – The Roman senate appoints Herod as king of Judea.
- 31 B.C. – Caesar Augustus becomes Roman emperor, establishing Imperial Rome and displacing the Roman Republic.
- 19 B.C. – Herod the Great begins a major renovation and expansion of the temple in Jerusalem. The work continues throughout the New Testament period until Jerusalem and the temple are destroyed in the Jewish revolt of A.D. 66-73.
- As the New Testament opens, Antipater's son, Herod the Great, a descendant of Esau, was king
 - The priesthood was politically motivated and not of the line of Aaron.
 - Politics also resulted in the development of two major factions, the Sadducees and the Pharisees.
 - Synagogues, new places of worship and social activity, had sprouted up all over the country
 - Sadducees
 - Favored the liberal attitudes and practices of the Greeks
 - Held to only the Torah as regards religion, but like all aristocrats they did not think God should have any part in governing the nation.
 - Pharisees

- Conservative zealots who, with the help of the scribes, developed religious law to the point where the concerns and care of people were essentially meaningless
- Sanhedrins
 - Religious and civil matters were governed by the lesser and the greater Sanhedrins, the greater Sanhedrin being comprised of a chief priest and seventy other members that handed out justice, sometimes by 39 lashes administered with full force.
- Between the time of Malachi and the coming of the Messiah, several prophecies were fulfilled
 - Dan 8:14 He said to me, "It will take 2,300 evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary will be reconsecrated."
 - The 2,300 days of desecration between 171 and 165 B.C.

250 – 132 BC – Septuagint (LXX)

- The Old Testament was translated into Greek
 - That translation, the Septuagint, came into widespread use (and is quoted frequently in the New Testament)
- Around 250 B.C. the books considered by most to be inspired Scripture were translated from Hebrew into Greek, the lingua franca of the Mediterranean world.
 - Also known as the Greek Old Testament
- Legend has it that Ptolemy II commissioned 70 rabbinical scholars to make the translation for inclusion in the great library of Alexandria, Egypt. The story first appears in "Letter of Aristeas," and it is repeated, with embellishments, by Philo of Alexandria, Josephus, and later by St. Augustine himself.
 - This translation is known as the "Septuagint," or "the 70," and it is typically referenced with the Roman numerals, LXX (referring to the legendary 70 Jewish scholars who completed the translation).
- This is the "Scripture" quoted most often in the New Testament, especially in the Pauline epistles, and later by the early Church Fathers.
 - This is the "Scripture" that Jesus would have known.
- Between 250 B.C. and the later part of the 1st century A.D. books continued to be written, primarily in Greek, on "biblical" themes and topics—hundreds of them.
 - Some gained traction in both Judaism and in the early Church, expanding the loosely defined 1st century A.D. "canon" of Scripture to include:
 - Tobit
 - Judith
 - 1 & 2 Maccabees
 - Book of Wisdom
 - Sirach and
 - various additions to Daniel and Esther
- Throughout the 1st century nearly all "books" were in the form of scrolls, sheets stitched end to end, then rolled.
 - Each book of the Hebrew Scriptures would have been on an individual scroll (or scrolls).
 - Nearly all Jewish communities would have had the five Torah scrolls (Genesis – Deuteronomy), but most communities would only have had some of the other books considered "Scripture," depending upon availability and the resources of the community, since each was handwritten at considerable expense.

Herod the Great (37 BC – 4 BC)

Herod was an Edomite

- Herod was born c. 74 B.C. in Idumea (Edom)
 - Half-Jew/half-Edomite

- He considered himself a Jew
 - The Jewish leadership, observant Jews (Pharisees & Sadducees) & nationalist Jews (Zealots) did not
- Edom
 - Battle between 2 babies in the womb (Jacob & Esau)
 - Turned into a battle between 2 nations (Jews & Edomites)
 - Edomites refused passage on the Kings Highway after the Jews left Egypt
 - Jews were forced to go into the desert at Kadesh Barnea
 - Edomites pillaged Jerusalem when it fell to the Babylonians
 - Ended at the foot of the cross between 2 men (Jesus & Herod)
 - Herod is the only person in the Bible to whom Jesus had absolutely nothing to say

King Herod

- Rome appointed Herod governor of Galilee in 49 B.C.
 - In 40 B.C. the Roman Senate elected Herod “King of the Jews,” and placed him in charge of the entire land.
 - King appointed by Caesar Augustus – honorific title – more of an administrator
 - His job was to manage the land and collect taxes to send to Rome
 - His kingdom comprised Judea, Samaria, Galilee, Idumea, Batanea, and Peraea, which was approximately the same size as the kingdom of David and Solomon.
 - Though supported by Rome, the Jewish Sanhedrin condemned Herod and loathed him for his brutality.
- Herod secures the throne in 37 B.C.
 - To secure his position, Herod married the teenage niece of Antigonus, Mariamne
 - He banished his current wife Doris and his son Antipater
- Herod was a brutal, violent man
 - Known as the Bible’s bloodiest tyrant
 - Herod executed several members of his own family when he found them to be a threat to him
 - His wife Mariamne and 2 sons
 - He executed his son Antipater in 4 B.C. for plotting the murder of his father
 - Murder of the innocence
 - Orders that all the baby boys under 2 years old to be killed to get rid of Jesus
 - Herod the Great is in reference to his great building projects
- Herod dies in 4 B.C.
 - Chronic kidney disease complicated by a very uncomfortable case of maggot-infested gangrene of the genitals
 - Herod was buried at Herodium according Josephus, but his remains could never be found
 - 5/7/2007 Ehud Netzer of Hebrew University discovered Herod's tomb
 - Took 35 years of archaeological work
 - When he died, he appointed his son, Herod Antipas
- Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great
 - Reigned 4 BC to AD 39
 - Husband of Herodius
 - Put John the Baptist to death
 - Pilate sent Jesus to him
- Herod Agrippa I (37 – 44 AD)
 - Killed James, brother of John
 - Put Peter in prison
 - Struck down by an angel at the Theater in Caesarea
- Herod Agrippa II
 - Paul makes a legal defense before him

Herod's Fortresses

- Herod was hated by the Jews, loathed by most of the Romans, but he was Herod the Great because he was a great builder
 - Herod started enormous building projects in order to generate revenue in Jerusalem
 - Built huge aqueducts to run water into the Temple
- Cleopatra was a powerful opponent of King Herod
 - Herod unlawfully appointed Aristobulus as high priest then had him murdered – Cleopatra wanted him to be held accountable
 - Cleopatra was dating Marc Anthony – Caesar's powerful second-in-command
 - Herod built these fortresses to escape in the event that Marc Anthony or Cleopatra came for revenge
- Had several fortresses that he could escape to in times of trouble – Escape route back to Idumea
 - Fortress of Herodium
 - 7.5 miles south of Jerusalem on the outskirts of Bethlehem
 - Fortress of Masada
 - The place where the last Jewish stronghold against Roman invasion stood
- Masada
 - Spectacular fortress
 - Supplies for 10,000 men for 10 year
 - 4 Swimming pools
 - Drinking water diverted from the wadi into cisterns
 - After the battle that destroyed the Temple, the Zealots took refuge in the Fortress of Masada
 - Romans made Jewish slaves build a ramp to get to the battering ram to the fortress
 - Zealots did not want to kill Jews
 - When the Zealots knew that the Romans were coming in the next day, they all killed themselves – better to be dead than to show allegiance (as a slave) to anyone other than God
 - Only 2 women and 5 children were found alive – that's how we know the story
 - Currently, the Israeli Army takes their oaths at Masada, saying that Masada will never fall again

Augments the Temple in Jerusalem (37 BC)

- Expanded the size of the Temple platform to accommodate the influx of people during the Pilgrimage Festivals
 - To the size of 5 football fields
 - Would hold upwards of 400,000 people
- Turned the Temple into a 16 story glistening white limestone building trimmed in 24K gold
 - Golden doors that were 2 stories high
 - This is the Temple that Jesus knows
- Why did he do it?
 - God prescribes 3 Pilgrimage Festivals a year, where all good Jews throughout the world (who are able), are to go to the Temple and worship as one people

- Passover – Remembers the Exodus (springtime)
- Pentecost – Remembers the giving of the Law at Mt. Sinai (50 days after Passover)
- Tabernacles – Remembers the wanderings in the wilderness (fall time)
- At the time of Jesus, Jerusalem had a population of about 100,000 people
 - During the Pilgrimage Festivals, those numbers would swell to over 1,000,000 people
 - Similar to bringing to Major League football franchise to a city – creates a lot of tax revenue

Christ in the Old Testament

- After his resurrection, Jesus said to his disciples:

Lk 24:44 He said to them, "This is what I told you while I was still with you: Everything must be fulfilled that is written about me in the Law of Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms."

- Jesus established a hermeneutic for reading Scripture in a new light
 - A method of re-envisioning the Hebrew Scriptures through a new interpretative lens
 - A method that allows Scripture to be re-read, evolving in continuity with its original sense, while providing a depth and breadth unimagined in the old covenant.

Christ in the Law – Tabernacle and the Five Great Sacrifices of Leviticus

- The Tabernacle is the dwelling place of God
 - God's "glory" fills the Holy of Holies in the theophany of the Pillar of Cloud and Fire.
 - Heb 8:5 They serve at a sanctuary that is a copy and shadow of what is in heaven. This is why Moses was warned when he was about to build the tabernacle: "See to it that you make everything according to the pattern shown you on the mountain."
 - Heb 9:11 When Christ came as high priest of the good things that are already here, he went through the greater and more perfect tabernacle that is not man-made, that is to say, not a part of this creation. 12 He did not enter by means of the blood of goats and calves; but he entered the Most Holy Place once for all by his own blood, having obtained eternal redemption.
- Highlights the vast chasm between us and God
 - In the Tabernacle, God is with humanity, yet he is separated from us in his infinite holiness, alone in the Holy of Holies, separated by walls of pure gold, and covered by exquisite tapestries.
 - Only the High Priest can approach God in his sanctuary, and then only one day each year, the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur.
 - The very structure of the Tabernacle, with its many barriers between sinful humanity and a holy God, highlights the vast chasm between us and God.
- The five great sacrifices God prescribes in Leviticus 1-5 enable the chasm to be bridged, but only through the mediation of a priest, and only after the shedding of much blood, for as our author of Hebrews says, "without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness" (Heb 9:22).
 - 4 of the 5 are blood sacrifices.
 - Burnt Offering (Lev 1:1-17)
 - Grain Offering (Lev 2:1-16)
 - Communion Offering (Lev 3:1-17)
 - Sin Offering (Lev 4:1- 5:13)
 - Reparation Offering (Lev 5:14-26)
- We may divide the five great sacrifices into two categories:
 - Sweet Savor offerings (portray the person of Christ)
 - Burnt offering
 - Grain offering
 - Communion offering
 - Non/sweet Savor offerings (portray the work of Christ)
 - Sin offering
 - Reparation offering

Burnt offering (Lev 1:1-17)

- Sweet savor offering #1 – The person of Christ

- The burnt offering pictures Christ offering himself wholly and without blemish to God
 - The burnt offering is both atoning and substitutionary: Christ dies in our place.
- Each of the offerings pictures Christ in some aspect of his redeeming character:
 - the bull speaks of his strength and perfection;
 - the sheep speaks of his patience and unresisting abandonment to death
 - “He was led like a lamb to the slaughter” (Isaiah 53:7)
 - the goat typifies the sinner
 - When used of Christ, it speaks of he who was “numbered with the transgressors” (Isaiah 53: 12).
 - As Paul says, “God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God” (2 Corinthians 5:21);
 - Scapegoat – Our sins are transferred to our goat, which is taken outside the camp and slaughtered
 - the turtledove or pigeon speaks of:
 - mourning innocence (Isaiah 38: 14)
 - the poverty of the one who “though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that you through his poverty might become rich” (2 Corinthians 8:9).

Grain offering (Lev 2:1-16)

- Sweet savor offering #2 – The person of Christ
- The grain offering pictures the perfection of Christ's humanity:
 - the fine flour speaks of his even personality, of the loveliness of Jesus;
 - the bread without yeast speaks of his total lack of corruption;
 - the bread mingled with oil speaks of his being anointed by the Holy Spirit;
 - the lack of honey speaks of his honesty and forthrightness; there is no “sweetness” in him;
 - the salt speaks of his faithfulness.
 - Salt preserves
 - the “salt of the covenant” binds one’s word to an agreement.
- This represents the personality of Christ, in His perfect, unblemished full humanity
 - He was like fine flour, purely refined, perfect in every way
 - Did not include:
 - Yeast = sin
 - Honey = nothing artificially sweet about Him – never flattered people or told them what they wanted to hear, just the truth
 - Did include salt
 - make people thirsty for God

Peace/Fellowship/Communion offering (Lev 3:1-17)

- Sweet savor offering #3 – The person of Christ
- The communion offering pictures Christ as our peace.
 - At peace with God through the redemptive action of Christ, we are invited into communion with him, to share a meal.
 - Paul says, “He himself is our peace” (Ephesians 2: 14)
 - When Jesus leaves his disciples and goes to the cross he says, “Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you” (John 14:27).
 - As the penitent sinner at the Tabernacle is invited to share a meal with God in the Communion Offering, so are we invited to share in the body and blood of Christ in the Eucharist.
 - Eucharist/communion – Sacrifice is made, and then you consume the communion

- He offered himself totally to God in the burnt offering (fully God and fully human) and then He offers Himself back to us
 - Christ sharing Himself with us

Sin offering (Lev 4:1-5:13)

- Non-sweet savor offering #1 – The work of Christ
- The sin offering pictures Christ atoning for our sin:
 - “The high priest carries the blood of animals into the Most Holy Place as a sin offering, but the bodies are burned outside the camp. And so Jesus also suffered outside the city gate to make the people holy through his own blood” (Hebrews 13: 11-12).
 - Paul says, God sent “his own Son in the likeness of sinful man to be a sin offering” (Romans 8:3).
- Christ became our sin offering
 - As the sin offering is substitutionary in Leviticus, so is the sin offering of Christ substitutionary: “The Lord has laid on him the iniquity of us all” (Isaiah 53:6).
 - He went the cross on our behalf – He shed His blood in our place
 - He became a substitutionary offering for us

Guilt/Reparation offering (Lev 5:14-26)

- Non-sweet savor offering #2 – The work of Christ
- The guilt offering pictures Christ atoning for the damage caused by our sin.
 - It focuses not on the sin itself, but on its consequences.
 - Restitution – Making restitution for what one has done
 - Psalm 51:4 expresses this aspect of the offering very nicely:
“Against you [God], you alone, have I sinned. What is evil in your sight I have done, and so you may be justified when you give sentence and be without reproach when you judge.”

Typologically

- If we view the sacrifices in Leviticus typologically, we see in them as a perfect portrait of the Lord Jesus.
 - As God takes common sacrificial rituals from the ancient world and raises them to a higher moral and ethical plane in Leviticus, so too does he take the sacrifices in Leviticus and raises them to a higher plane in the sacrifice of Christ.
 - What begins in the ancient world with the blood of bulls and goats takes on a profound meaning as it foreshadows in Leviticus the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world.
- The epistle to the Hebrews summarizes the typology in Leviticus:
When Christ came as High Priest of the good things that are already here, he went through the greater and more perfect tabernacle that is not man-made, that is to say, not a part of this creation. He did not enter by means of the blood of goats and calves: but he entered the Most Holy Place once for all by his own blood, having obtained eternal redemption. The blood of goats and bulls and the ashes of a heifer sprinkled on those who are ceremonially unclean sanctify them so that they are outwardly clean. How much more, then, will the blood of Christ who through the eternal Spirit offered himself unblemished to God, cleanse our consciences from acts that lead to death, so that we may serve the living God! (Hebrews 9: 11-14)

Christ in the Prophets – Suffering Servant of Isaiah

Isa 53:7 He was oppressed and afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth; he was led like a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is silent, so he did not open his mouth. 8 By oppression and judgment he was taken away. And who can speak of his descendants? For he was cut off from the land of the living; for the transgression of my people he was stricken.

- Philip and the Ethiopian (Acts 8:26-40)
 - After the birth of the Church at Pentecost, A.D. 32, we read that Philip encountered on the road to Gaza an Ethiopian eunuch, a wealthy official of the Ethiopian royal court who had been visiting Jerusalem. While there he had acquired a scroll of Isaiah, and he was reading Isaiah 53: 7-8. Seeing Philip, the Ethiopian asked him whether Isaiah was writing about himself or about someone else. Philip then explained that Isaiah was writing about Christ. Listen to the story in Acts 8:26-40.
- Isaiah contains four “Suffering Servant” songs:
 - Isaiah 42: 1-9 The Servant of the Lord
 - Isaiah 49: 1-7 The Servant of the Lord
 - Isaiah 50: 1-11 Israel's Sin and the Servant's Obedience
 - Isaiah 52:13 – 53:12 The Suffering and Glory of the Servant
- The “prologue” to the songs identifies God’s “Suffering Servant” as Israel:
Isa 41:8 "But you, O Israel, my servant, Jacob, whom I have chosen, you descendants of Abraham my friend, 9 I took you from the ends of the earth, from its farthest corners I called you. I said, 'You are my servant'; I have chosen you and have not rejected you.
- The suffering servant figure in all four songs is clearly Israel personified.
 - Yet, when we read Isaiah 53: 7-8, as Philip instructs the Ethiopian eunuch to do, we rightly see Christ as the suffering servant, if we understand the passage as re/envisioned in light of the Christian experience and the broader Christian canon. Such a reading does not contradict the original textual intent of Isaiah; rather, it adds additional depth and breadth to it.

Christ in the Psalms – The Anointed One

- The Hebrew verb “to anoint” is mashach,
 - From it we get the noun “messiah,” which means “the anointed one.”
- “Anointing” elevates the status of a person or thing from the ordinary to a higher position
 - Moses anoints the Tabernacle and everything in it, as well as when he anoints his brother Aaron as High Priest (Leviticus 8: 10-12)
 - Samuel anoints David as king (1 Samuel 16: 4/13).
- The Psalms contain many references to people and things being “anointed,” but one reference is particularly notable – Psalm 2.
 - Jewish perspective – Technically a psalm for a royal coronation, most certainly in reference to David.
 - Christian interpretative lens, however, it is read as a “messianic” psalm, in reference to Christ.
 - The book of Revelation clearly sees it this way. When Christ returns in the end times as King of kings, we read: “Out of his mouth came a sharp sword to strike the nations. He will rule them with an iron rod . . .” (Rev 19:15), a direct allusion to Psalm 2.
 - And when Judas betrays Jesus with a kiss in the Gospels, we shudder at the chilling irony, when read in light of Psalm 2.
- Ps 110

The prophecies of his death, burial and resurrection

Of the more than three hundred prophecies about Jesus, twenty-nine speak of the betrayal, death and burial of Jesus. The prophets spoke at various times and with different voices from 1000 to 500 BC. All were fulfilled in one 24-hour period in Jesus' life! Here are a few of them with their corresponding fulfillment. This is amazing!

Prophecy	Scripture	Fulfillment
Betrayed by a friend	Psalm 41:9	Matthew 10:4
Sold for 30 pieces of silver	Zechariah 11:12	Matthew 26:15
Forsaken by his disciples	Zechariah 13:7	Mark 14:50

His side pierced	Zechariah 12:10	John 19:34
Buried in a rich man's tomb	Isaiah 53:9	Matthew 27:57-50

Statistically speaking . . .

Peter Stoner was chairman of the mathematics and astronomy departments at Pasadena City College until 1953 when he moved to Westmont College in Santa Barbara, California. There he served as chairman of the science division. At the time he wrote this book, he was professor emeritus of science at Westmont.

Peter Stoner in Science Speaks (Chicago: Moody Press, 1963) considered the probability of any one person fulfilling just 48 of the prophecies by chance. The odds are 1 out of 10 to the 157th power. That number would look like this:

[illegible]

Awesome!

There are over 300 prophecies in the Old Testament about the 1st coming of Jesus

Peter Stoner calculated the probability of just 8 Messianic prophecies being fulfilled in the life of Jesus. As you read through these prophecies, you will see that all estimates were calculated as conservatively as possible.

- The Messiah will be born in Bethlehem (Micah 5:2).
The average population of Bethlehem from the time of Micah to the present (1958) divided by the average population of the earth during the same period = $7,150/2,000,000,000$ or 2.8×10^{-5} .
- A messenger will prepare the way for the Messiah (Malachi 3:1).
One man in how many, the world over, has had a forerunner (in this case, John the Baptist) to prepare his way?
Estimate: 1 in 1,000 or 1×10^{-3} .
- The Messiah will enter Jerusalem as a king riding on a donkey (Zechariah 9:9).
One man in how many, who has entered Jerusalem as a ruler, has entered riding on a donkey?
Estimate: 1 in 100 or 1×10^{-2} .
- The Messiah will be betrayed by a friend and suffer wounds in His hands (Zechariah 13:6).
One man in how many, the world over, has been betrayed by a friend, resulting in wounds in his hands?
Estimate: 1 in 1,000 or 1×10^{-3} .

- The Messiah will be betrayed for 30 pieces of silver (Zechariah 11:12).
Of the people who have been betrayed, one in how many has been betrayed for exactly 30 pieces of silver?
Estimate: 1 in 1,000 or 1×10^3 .
- The betrayal money will be used to purchase a potter's field (Zechariah 11:13).
One man in how many, after receiving a bribe for the betrayal of a friend, has returned the money, had it refused, and then experienced it being used to buy a potter's field?
Estimate: 1 in 100,000 or 1×10^5 .
- The Messiah will remain silent while He is afflicted (Isaiah 53:7).
One man in how many, when he is oppressed and afflicted, though innocent, will make no defense of himself?
Estimate: 1 in 1,000 or 1×10^3 .
- The Messiah will die by having His hands and feet pierced (Psalm 22:16).
One man in how many, since the time of David, has been crucified?
Estimate: 1 in 10,000 or 1×10^4 .

Multiplying all these probabilities together produces a number (rounded off) of 1×10^{28} . Dividing this number by an estimate of the number of people who have lived since the time of these prophecies (88 billion) produces a probability of all 8 prophecies being fulfilled accidentally in the life of one person. That probability is 1 in 1017 or 1 in 100,000,000,000,000,000. That's one in one hundred quadrillion!

Imagine filling the State of Texas knee deep in silver dollars. Include in this huge number one silver dollar with a black check mark on it. Then, turn a blindfolded person loose in this sea of silver dollars. The odds that the first coin he would pick up would be the one with the black check mark are the same as 8 prophecies being fulfilled accidentally in the life of Jesus.

The point, of course, is that when people say that the fulfillment of prophecy in the life of Jesus was accidental, they do not know what they are talking about. Keep in mind that Jesus did not just fulfill 8 prophecies, He fulfilled 108. The chances of fulfilling 16 is 1 in 1045. When you get to a total of 48, the odds increase to 1 in 10157. Accidental fulfillment of these prophecies is simply beyond the realm of possibility.

When confronted with these statistics, skeptics will often fall back on the argument that Jesus purposefully fulfilled the prophecies. There is no doubt that Jesus was aware of the prophecies and His fulfillment of them. For example, when He got ready to enter Jerusalem the last time, He told His disciples to find Him a donkey to ride so that the prophecy of Zechariah could be fulfilled which said, "Behold, your King is coming to you, gentle, and mounted on a donkey" (Matthew 21:1-5 and Zechariah 9:9).

But many of the prophecies concerning the Messiah could not be purposefully fulfilled — such as the town of His birth (Micah 5:2) or the nature of His betrayal (Psalm 41:9), or the manner of His death (Zechariah 13:6 and Psalm 22:16). One of the most remarkable Messianic prophecies in the Hebrew Scriptures is the one that precisely states that the Messiah will die by crucifixion. It is found in Psalm 22 where David prophesied the Messiah would die by having His hands and feet pierced (Psalm 22:16). That prophecy was written 1,000 years before Jesus was born. When it was written, the Jewish method of execution was by stoning. The prophecy was also written many years before the Romans perfected crucifixion as a method of execution.

Even when Jesus was killed, the Jews still relied on stoning as their method of execution, but they had lost the power to implement the death penalty due to Roman occupation. That is why they were forced to take Jesus to Pilate, the Roman governor, and that's how Jesus ended up being crucified, in fulfillment of David's prophecy.

The bottom line is that the fulfillment of Bible prophecy in the life of Jesus proves conclusively that He truly was God in the flesh. It also proves that the Bible is supernatural in origin.

New Testament

The New Covenant

New Covenant (Jeremiah 31:31-34). The New Covenant is a covenant made first with the nation of Israel and, ultimately, with all mankind. In the New Covenant, God promises to forgive sin, and there will be a universal knowledge of the Lord. Jesus Christ came to fulfill the Law of Moses (Matthew 5:17) and create a new covenant between God and His people. Now that we are under the New Covenant, both Jews and Gentiles can be free from the penalty of the Law. We are now given the opportunity to receive salvation as a free gift (Ephesians 2:8-9).

Jer 31:31 "The time is coming," declares the LORD, "when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. 32 It will not be like the covenant I made with their forefathers when I took them by the hand to lead them out of Egypt, because they broke my covenant, though I was a husband to them, " declares the LORD. 33 "This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time," declares the LORD. "I will put my law in their minds and write it on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people. 34 No longer will a man teach his neighbor, or a man his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' because they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest," declares the LORD. "For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more."

Mt 5:17 "Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them.

Ep 2:8 For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God— 9 not by works, so that no one can boast.

The World of the New Testament

- A world very different from that of the Old Testament
 - It was still patriarchal, monarchical, polytheistic and slaveholding
 - The world of the Old Testament:
 - Spans 2,000 years (2100 B.C. – 2nd century B.C.)
 - It is tribal and insular
 - It is centered in what we call the “Middle East,” with tribal warlords vying for land & resources.
 - The world of the New Testament:
 - Spans 100 years (4/6 B.C. – A.D. 95)
 - It is global (in 1st-century terms) with a centralized, highly-developed government and infrastructure
 - Consisted of the landmass surrounding the Mediterranean Sea, an authentic “Empire” that was already 500 years old as the New Testament opens.
- The New Testament Roman Empire was not insular and tribal like that of the Old Testament; rather, it was “global,”
 - Comprised not just Italy and Europe of today, but the entire land mass surrounding the Mediterranean, including all of Asia Minor and North Africa.
- Although fundamentally stable, New Testament times saw considerable political and religious turmoil within the Roman Empire, especially the Jews living in Palestine on the far-eastern edge of the Empire.

The Greek Scriptures—or “New Testament”—spans roughly 100 years, from the birth of Jesus in 4/6 BC through the apocalyptic vision of Revelation, A.D. 95.

- 63 B.C. Roman General Pompey conquers Jerusalem and the people of Palestine come under Roman rule.
- 40 B.C. Roman Senate appoints Herod as king of Judea
- 27 B.C. Augustus becomes the first Roman Emperor
 - Establishes Imperial Rome, displacing the 500 year old Roman Republic
- 4/6 B.C. Birth of Jesus.
- A.D. 14 Augustus dies and is succeeded by his son, Tiberius.
- A.D. 26 Pontius Pilate appointed Prefect of Judea (A.D. 26-36)
- A.D. 32 Death, burial and resurrection of Jesus.
- A.D. 37 Tiberius dies
 - Succeeded by a series of nine emperors: Caligula (A.D. 37-41) through Domitian (A.D. 81-96).
- A.D. 66-72 Jewish revolt against Rome
 - Destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in A.D. 70
 - 1.2 million Jews killed in the fighting.

Dating Systems (B.C. and A.D.)

- It is commonly thought that B.C. stands for “before Christ” and A.D. stands for “after death.” This is only half correct. How could the year 1 B.C. have been “before Christ” and A.D. 1 been “after death”?
 - B.C. does stand for “before Christ.”
 - A.D. actually stands for the Latin phrase anno domini, which means “in the year of our Lord.”
- The B.C./A.D. dating system is not taught in the Bible. It actually was not fully implemented and accepted until several centuries after Jesus’ death.
- The purpose of the B.C./A.D. dating system was to make the birth of Jesus Christ the dividing point of world history.
 - However, when the B.C./A.D. system was being calculated, they actually made a mistake in pinpointing the year of Jesus’ birth.
 - Scholars later discovered that Jesus was actually born around 6—4 B.C., not A.D. 1.
 - That is not the crucial issue. The birth, life, ministry, death, and resurrection of Christ are the “turning points” in world history.
 - It is fitting, therefore, that Jesus Christ is the separation of “old” and “new.” B.C. was “before Christ,” and since His birth, we have been living “in the year of our Lord.”

- Viewing our era as “the year of our Lord” is appropriate. Philippians 2:10–11 says, “That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.”
- In recent times, there has been a push to replace the B.C. and A.D. labels with B.C.E and C.E.
 - B.C.E “before common era”
 - C.E. “common era,”
 - The change is simply one of semantics—that is, AD 100 is the same as 100 CE; all that changes is the label.
 - The advocates of the switch from BC/AD to BCE/CE say that the newer designations are better in that they are devoid of religious connotation and thus prevent offending other cultures and religions who may not see Jesus as “Lord.”
 - The irony, of course, is that what distinguishes B.C.E from C.E. is still the life and times of Jesus Christ.

Roman Empire

- The Roman Republic began in the 6th century B.C.
 - The Roman Republic continued for half a millennium until Augustus became Emperor in 27 B.C., marking the birth of Imperial Rome.
- Contrary to popular belief, the Roman Empire was NOT a brutal oppressive dictatorship
 - Rather, it created unprecedented stability and prosperity in government and civil life for most of its 1,000-year history, while introducing extraordinary advancements in virtually every area of knowledge.
- On the whole, Roman civilization was a great blessing to humanity, bringing stability and prosperity to millions.
 - Of course, like any great civilization it had its share of rascals and rogues, heroes and villains, wars and brutalities, scandals and horrors.
- The New Testament mirrors a brief slice of Rome’s 1,000 year history, a time of great achievement but also of great turmoil and strife.
- The Roman Empire of Jesus’ time
 - Multicultural and multilingual
 - Fully developed maritime trade
 - A network of more than 58,000 miles of roads (what we would call an Interstate highway system)
 - A population of 50-60 million people
 - A large and robust economy
 - Vibrant cultural developments in art, theater, music, architecture and popular entertainment
- Romans persecuted the Christians. They were accused of being:
 - Atheist – They would not worship Caesar, only Jesus
 - Incest – thru loved their brothers and sisters
 - Cannibalism – Eat and drink the body and blood of Jesus
- The second half of the 1st century was a tumultuous time in the Roman Empire, politically, economically, culturally and religiously.
 - Fifty years see eight emperors: Claudius, Nero, Galba, Otho, Vitellius, Vespasian, Titus and Domitian—seven of whom met violent deaths.
 - A persecuted minority within the Roman Empire, the emerging Church became the target of two state-sponsored persecutions, one under Nero and the other under Domitian.
 - Rome burned twice.
 - Jerusalem and the Temple were destroyed in A.D. 70, bringing 1,000 years of Temple worship to an abrupt end.
 - Vesuvius erupted.
 - And as the last eyewitnesses of Jesus’ public ministry died out, a generation of oral teaching and preaching coalesced in the written Gospels

Demographics

- At its peak, under the Emperor Trajan (A.D. 98-117), the Roman Empire:
 - Consisted of 5 million square kilometers
 - Encompassed 40 different modern-day countries and as many different cultures
- Its three largest cities—Rome, Alexandria and Antioch—were over twice as large as any city on earth until the modern-day 18th century industrial revolution.
- 50-60 million people lived in the Roman Empire.
- Class system - high degree of social mobility
 - Unlike most other ancient cultures, the Roman Empire did not have a rigid class system, but evidenced a high degree of social mobility.
 - Freeborn women were Roman citizens, kept their family name (not their husband's), could own property independent of their husbands, could own and operate businesses, could inherit property and wealth, wrote their own wills and could travel freely throughout the Empire.
- Slavery
 - The Roman Empire practiced slavery. Overall, 10-20% of the population throughout the Empire were slaves. Slaves were primarily war captives or indentured servants; slavery was not racially based. Slaves could earn their freedom or be granted their freedom by those who owned them.

Commerce

- Built roads
 - Although commerce was conducted primarily by sea, the Roman empire built over 58,000 miles of roads, many of which are still evident today, over 2,000 years later.
- Fully-developed banking system
 - To encourage efficient and effective commerce the Roman Empire had a fully-developed banking system and common coinage.

Language

- Greek – Thanks to Alexander the Great, Greek was the common language of the empire until the 4th century A.D.
 - Created cohesion in a very geographically and culturally diverse population
- A plethora of local languages were also used
 - e.g., Jesus and his friends spoke Aramaic, the local language of Palestine
 - But the entire New Testament was written in Greek.

Law

- Roman law formed the basis for the entire Western legal tradition, including the United States.

Caesar Augustus

- Caesar Augustus – wanted to be worshipped as a God – known as the son of God – most powerful human in the world
 - Introduced a reign of peace
 - Issued the order that got Joseph back to Bethlehem to fulfill the prophecy of the real Son of God

Nero (54-68)

- Notoriously evil – especially toward Christians
- Mother – Julia Agrippina (A.D. 15-59)
 - Great granddaughter of Caesar Augustus; adoptive granddaughter of the Emperor Tiberius; sister of the Emperor Caligula; wife of the Emperor Claudius; and mother of the Emperor Nero.

- Through incestuous marriages, imperial intrigue and duplicitous assassinations, Agrippina engineered her son's rise to power. After poisoning Claudius (her uncle and 3rd husband), her seventeen year-old son Nero became Emperor in A.D. 54, with Agrippina controlling the reins of power.
- Quickly, however, Nero's relations with his mother deteriorated, ending by Nero having her murdered in A.D. 59.

Fire of Rome – 64 AD

- On July 18, 64 the Great Fire of Rome erupted, destroying a large portion of the city.
- According to the historian Tacitus, the fire raged for five days, destroying three of fourteen districts and severely damaging seven others.
- Both Suetonius and Cassius Dio point to Nero as the arsonist, who wanted to clear a large part of Rome so he could build a new palace complex.

Christian persecution

- To deflect blame, Tacitus writes that Nero blamed the fire on Rome's Christians:
Therefore, to put an end to the rumor Nero created a diversion and subjected to the most extraordinary tortures those called Christians, hated for their abominations by the common people. The originator of this name [was] Christ, who, during the reign of Tiberius had been executed by sentence of the procurator Pontius Pilate. Repressed for the time being, the deadly superstition broke out again not only in Judea, the original source of the evil, but also in the city [Rome], where all things horrible or shameful in the world collect and become popular. So an arrest was made of all who confessed; then on the basis of their information, an immense multitude was convicted, not so much of the crime of arson as for hatred of the human race.
- Both Peter and Paul were martyred in Rome during this time.
- The persecution ended with Nero's death.

Nero's death

- The Roman Senate had declared him a public enemy of the Roman people and announced their intention to have him executed. With that, Nero turned to suicide, but too cowardly to carry it out, he enlisted his private secretary, Epaphroditos, to do the deed.
- Nero died on 9 June A.D. 68, the 6th anniversary of his murdering his stepsister and first wife, Octavia.
- Following Nero's death, civil war erupted
 - 4 emperors reigned in quick succession:
 - Galba – 68-69 (8 months) – Assassinated
 - Otho – 69 (2 months) – Suicide
 - Vitellius – 69 (8 months) – Assassinated
 - Vespasian – 69-79 (10 years) – Natural death
 - The first three emperors were dispatched through murder or suicide within a year.

Fire of Rome – 64 AD

- On July 18, 64 the Great Fire of Rome erupted, destroying a large portion of the city.
- According to the historian Tacitus, the fire raged for five days, destroying three of fourteen districts and severely damaging seven others.
- Both Suetonius and Cassius Dio point to Nero as the arsonist, who wanted to clear a large part of Rome so he could build a new palace complex.
- To deflect blame, Tacitus writes that Nero blamed the fire on Rome's Christians:

Therefore, to put an end to the rumor Nero created a diversion and subjected to the most extraordinary tortures those called Christians, hated for their abominations by the common people. The originator of this name [was] Christ, who, during the reign of Tiberius had been executed by sentence of the procurator Pontius Pilate. Repressed for the time being, the deadly superstition broke out again not only in Judea, the original source of the evil, but also in the city [Rome], where all things horrible or shameful in the world collect and become popular. So an arrest was made of all who confessed; then on the basis of their information, an immense multitude was convicted, not so much of the crime of arson as for hatred of the human race.

Vespasian (69-79)

- With Nero's death in Rome, Vespasian's troops proclaimed him Emperor.
 - Support spread quickly, and in A.D. 69 Vespasian left Jerusalem for Rome to claim the throne, leaving his son Titus to conclude the war in Jerusalem.
- Vespasian dies on June 23, 79 and his son Titus succeeds him, the first Roman Emperor to follow his father to the throne.

Titus (79-81)

- Sixty-two days after Titus become Emperor, Vesuvius erupts.
 - Titus immediately organized a massive relief effort, funded by large donations from the imperial treasury.
 - In his Roman History, Cassius Dio reports that Titus made two personal visits to the disaster area, one shortly after the eruption and the second a year later (LXVI, 24).
- Titus died on September 13, 81, after a brief two-year reign.
 - The cause of his death is uncertain. In his Roman History Cassius Dio reports that as Titus lay dying he uttered his last words: "I have made but one mistake" (LXVI, 26), prompting great speculation, of course, as to what that mistake may have been.
 - Both Cassius Dio and Suetonius suggest that his mistake was allowing his brother Domitian to live, after having discovered that his brother was plotting against him.
 - In his Life of Apollonius of Tyana, Philostratus flatly accuses Domitian of murdering his brother by poisoning him with the flesh of a sea-hare, a culinary ingredient favored by Nero in dispatching his enemies (VI, 32).
- Although universally judged a stellar emperor by the Roman world, Jewish writings excoriate Titus.
 - He is, after all, the general who destroyed Jerusalem and the Temple in A.D. 70.
 - The Babylonian Talmud (Gittin 56b) claims that Titus had sex with a whore on a Torah scroll inside the Temple while it burned, and that his death was caused by an insect flying up his nose and gnawing at his brain for seven years, growing to the size of a bird in the process!

Great Jewish Revolt (66-73 AD)

- At a time of enormous political chaos—in A.D. 66—the great Jewish revolt broke out in Palestine.
- Nero chose the brilliant general (and future Emperor) Vespasian to suppress it.
 - Fielding more than 50,000 combat troops, Vespasian began operations in Galilee;
 - By A.D. 68 he had crushed opposition in the north, moved his headquarters to Caesarea Maritima, the deep-water port on the Mediterranean, and methodically began clearing the coast
- The defeated Jewish leaders in Galilee escaped to Jerusalem, where a bitter civil war among the Jews erupted, pitting the fanatical Zealots and Sicarii against the more moderate Sadducees and Pharisees.
 - By A.D. 68 the entire Jerusalem leadership and their followers were dead, having been killed by their fellow Jews, and the Zealots held the temple complex, using it as a staging area for their war against Rome.
- With Nero's death in Rome, Vespasian's troops proclaimed him Emperor.

- Support spread quickly, and in A.D. 69 Vespasian left Jerusalem for Rome to claim the throne, leaving his son Titus to conclude the war in Jerusalem.
- By the summer of A.D. 70, Titus had breached the city walls and captured the Temple.
 - During the fierce fighting, the temple complex caught fire, and on Tisha B'Av (29/30 July A.D. 70) the Temple fell – 1,000 years of Jewish temple worship ended in a single day.
 - The fire spread quickly to the city itself, destroying most of it.
- Tacitus writes that no fewer than 600,000 Jews fought the Romans in Jerusalem; those captured were crucified, up to 500 per day; and historians estimate that 1.2 million Jews died during the span of the Jewish revolt, A.D. 66-73. It was the greatest catastrophe in Jewish history until the Nazi holocaust of 1939-1944.

Eruption of Mt. Vesuvius (79 AD)

- During the Jewish Revolt of A.D. 66-73, thousands of Jews fled Jerusalem to other parts of the Roman Empire, many to the far west. In Pompeii, Mt. Vesuvius was heating up.
- Located a little over five miles east of modern-day Naples, a short distance from the Mediterranean shore
 - Pompeii sits at the foot of a somma volcano, a 4,203 foot high, humpbacked mountain with a summit caldera surrounding a newer cone
- It is one of the most dangerous volcanic mountains on earth
 - Erupting countless times throughout history. In modern times Vesuvius has erupted:
 - 6 times in the 18th century
 - 8 times in the 19th century
 - 3 times in the 20th century, the last in 1944.
 - On several occasions post-eruption ash blanketed all of southern Europe, and twice— A.D. 472 and 1631— Vesuvian ash fell on Constantinople (modern-day Istanbul), over 750 miles to the northeast!
- Never had there been an eruption like that of A.D. 79. Nothing like it had ever been seen.
 - On the morning of August 24th, a massive explosion occurred, blasting a column of ash and pumice 50,000 – 100,000 feet into the atmosphere at a rate of 1.5 million tons per second.
 - Studies suggest that the energy supporting the column came from steam superheated by magma
 - The cloud collapsed as expanding gasses lost the ability to support their solid contents, creating a pyroclastic surge, a huge turbulent mass of fluid rock and gas traveling at near supersonic speed, releasing over 100,000 times the thermal energy of the atomic bomb at Hiroshima.
 - Six such surges occurred over two days, dropping ash and debris at temperatures reaching 600° F and reaching a depth up to 75 feet, burying both Pompeii and neighboring Herculaneum.
 - 16,000 people died instantly in the surges and thousands more from poisonous gasses, falling debris and collapsed buildings.
- Pliny the Younger gives us the only eyewitness account of the Vesuvius eruption in his two letters to the historian Tacitus. Here's a sample, written by Pliny at Misenum, about 20 miles across the Bay of Naples from Vesuvius:

Though it was now morning, the light was exceedingly faint and doubtful; the buildings all around us tottered . . . we therefore resolved to quit the town. A panic-stricken crowd followed us . . . Being at a convenient distance from the houses, we stood still, in the midst of a most dangerous and dreadful scene. The chariots, which we had ordered to be drawn out, were so agitated backwards and forwards, though upon the most level ground, that we could not keep them steady, even by supporting them with large stones. The sea seemed to roll back upon itself, and to be driven from its banks by the convulsive motion of the earth; it is certain at least the shore was considerably enlarged, and several sea animals were left upon it. On the other side [of the bay], a black and dreadful cloud, broken with rapid zigzag flashes, behind it variously shaped masses of flame; these were like sheet-lightning, but much larger . . . Soon afterwards, the cloud began to descend, and cover the sea . . . a dense dark mist seemed to be following us, spreading itself over the country like a cloud . . . We had scarcely sat down when night came upon us, not such as we have when the sky is cloudy, or when there is no moon, but that of a room when it is shut up, and all the lights put out. You might hear the shrieks of women, the screams of children, and the shouts of men . . . some wishing to die, from the very fear of dying; some lifting their hands to the gods; but the greater part convinced that there were now no gods at all, and that the final endless night of which we have heard had come upon the world. (Pliny the Younger, “Letter 66,” to Cornelius Tacitus)

Fire of Rome – 80 AD

- During Titus’ second visit to Vesuvius in the spring of A.D. 80, fire broke out again in Rome, raging for three days and three nights, consuming large parts of the city. Although not as disastrous as the Great Fire of A.D. 64, it nevertheless destroyed a significant number of temples, as well as numerous public buildings, including the Baths of Agrippa, the Pantheon, the Diribitorium, the theater of Balbus and Pompey’s theater.
- In the wake of the fire, plague ravished Rome, prompting widespread belief that the fire and plague—not to mention the eruption of Vesuvius—were punishments visited on Rome by the gods.

Domitian (81-96)

- Domitian succeeded his brother as Emperor on September 14, 81 as the third and last emperor of the Flavian Dynasty (Vespasian, Titus and Domitian).
- New government
 - Quickly dispensing with the republican form of government favored by his father and brother, Domitian believed the Roman Empire should be governed as a divine monarchy, proclaiming himself dominus et deus, (“Lord and God”), moving the center of government to the imperial court, rendering the Roman Senate impotent and expelling those senators whom he deemed troublesome.
- Tolerated foreign religions
 - Although taking his deification seriously, Domitian tolerated foreign religions as long as they did not interfere with public order and could be assimilated into traditional Roman religion.
 - Egyptian religion flourished under Domitian, since the Egyptian gods Serapis and Isis were closely identified with the Roman gods Jupiter and Minerva.
 - Conversely, Judaism and Christianity were not tolerated, as both rejected the Roman gods outright and Christianity proclaimed Jesus of Nazareth not only as divine, but as “King of kings” and “Lord of lords,” who would return to usher in a new kingdom, the Kingdom of God—a treasonous claim to Roman ears.
 - Consequently, in his 4th-century Church History, Eusebius states that Domitian severely persecuted Christians in Rome and throughout the Empire:

“Many were the victims of Domitian’s appalling cruelty. At Rome great numbers of men distinguished by birth and attainments were for no reason at all banished from the country and their property confiscated. Finally, he showed himself the successor of Nero in enmity and hostility to God. He was, in fact, the second to organize persecution against us, though his father Vespasian had had no mischievous designs against us.” (Church History, XVII)
- Domitian was murdered on September 18, 96 in a palace conspiracy.

- Immediately after Domitian's murder the Roman Senate—who loathed him—proclaimed Marcus Nerva emperor and passed damnatio memoriae on Domitian's memory, the first of only two Roman Emperors in history to be so excoriated (the other is Publius Septimius Geta, A.D. 189 – 211), melting his coins and statues and erasing his name from all public records.
- Every major ancient source—Juvenal, Pliny the Younger, Tacitus and Suetonius—vilifies Domitian as a cruel tyrant; only Domitian's court poets, Martial and Statius, have anything good to say about him.

Nervan-Antonin Dynasty (96-192) – The Five Good Emperors

Domitian's successor was his advisor Nerva who founded the Nervan-Antonin Dynasty which ruled Rome 96-192 CE. This period is marked by increased prosperity owing to the rulers known as The Five Good Emperors of Rome. Between 96 and 180 CE, five exceptional men ruled in sequence and brought the Roman Empire to its height. Under their leadership, the Roman Empire grew stronger, more stable, and expanded in size and scope.

5 Good Emperors

- Nerva (96-98 CE)
- Trajan (98-117 CE)
 - 13th Emperor of the Roman Empire (AD 98-117)
 - The Roman Empire reached its greatest extent under emperor Trajan.
 - Ancient sources are unanimous in their praise of Trajan's personality and accomplishments.
 - Pliny the Younger (A.D. 61-112) celebrates him as a wise and just ruler and a moral man.
 - Dio Cassius (A.D. 155-235) praises him for being dignified and fair.
 - St. Thomas Aquinas (A.D. 1225-1274) discusses Trajan as a "virtuous pagan."
 - In the Divine Comedy Dante (A.D. 1265-1321) has a mural of Trajan helping a poor woman on the first terrace of Purgatory, as a lesson for the proud.
 - Dante also places Trajan among the saved in Paradise, residing in the Sphere of Jupiter.
 - In The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Edward Gibbon (A.D. 1737-1794) places Trajan 2nd among the "Five Good Emperors" who presided over eras of peace and prosperity.
- Hadrian (117-138 CE)
- Antoninus Pius (138-161 CE)
- Marcus Aurelius / Lucius Verus (161-180 CE)
 - Lucius Verus was co-emperor with Marcus Aurelius until his death in 169 CE and seems to have been fairly ineffective.

1 Bad Emperor

- Commodus (r. 180-192 CE)
 - Aurelius' son and successor, Commodus was one of the most disgraceful emperors Rome ever saw
 - He is universally depicted as indulging himself and his whims at the expense of the empire.
 - He was strangled by his wrestling partner in his bath in 192 CE, ending the Nervan-Antonin Dynasty and raising the prefect Pertinax (who most likely engineered Commodus' assassination) to power.

The Severan Dynasty (193-235)

- The Year of the Five Emperors
 - Pertinax governed for only three months before he was assassinated.
 - He was followed, in rapid succession, by four others in the period known as The Year of the Five Emperors, which culminated in the rise of Septimus Severus to power.
- Severus (193-211 CE), founded the Severan Dynasty, defeated the Parthians, and expanded the empire.

- His campaigns in Africa and Britain were extensive and costly and would contribute to Rome's later financial difficulties.
- He was succeeded by his sons Caracalla and Geta, until Caracalla had his brother murdered.
- Caracalla ruled until 217 CE, when he was assassinated by his bodyguard.
 - It was under Caracalla's reign that Roman citizenship was expanded to include all free men within the empire. This law was said to have been enacted as a means of raising tax revenue, simply because, after its passage, there were more people the central government could tax.
- The Severan Dynasty continued, largely under the guidance and manipulation of Julia Maesa (referred to as 'empress'), until the assassination of Alexander Severus (r. 222-235 CE) in 235 CE which plunged the empire into the chaos known as The Crisis of the Third Century (lasting from 235-284 CE).

The Crisis of the Third Century (Imperial Crisis) (235-284)

- This period was characterized by constant civil war, as various military leaders fought for control of the empire.
- The crisis has been further noted by historians for widespread social unrest, economic instability (fostered, in part, by the devaluation of Roman currency by the Severans)
- Finally, the empire dissolved into three separate regions.
 - The empire was reunited by Aurelian (270-275 CE)
 - His policies were further developed and improved upon by Diocletian who established the Tetrarchy (the rule of four) to maintain order throughout the empire.

Two Empires: East & West (285-311)

- Even so, the empire was still so vast that Diocletian divided it in half in c.285 CE to facilitate more efficient administration by elevating one of his officers, Maximian (r. 286-305 CE) to the position of co-emperor.
- In so doing, he created the Western Roman Empire and the Eastern Roman Empire (also known as the Byzantine Empire).
- Since a leading cause of the Imperial Crisis was a lack of clarity in succession, Diocletian decreed that successors must be chosen and approved from the outset of an individual's rule. Two of these successors were the generals Maxentius and Constantine.
- Diocletian voluntarily retired from rule in 305 CE, and the tetrarchy dissolved as rival regions of the empire vied with each other for dominance.
- Following Diocletian's death in 311 CE, Maxentius and Constantine plunged the empire again into civil war.

Constantine, Theodosius I & Christianity (312-395)

- In 312 CE Constantine defeated Maxentius at the Battle of the Milvian Bridge and became sole emperor of both the Western and Eastern Empires (ruling from 306-337 CE but holding supreme power 324-307 CE).
- Believing that Jesus Christ was responsible for his victory, Constantine initiated a series of laws
 - Edict of Milan (313 CE) – mandated religious tolerance throughout the empire and, specifically, tolerance for the faith which came to known as Christianity.
 - At the First Council of Nicea (325 CE), he presided over the gathering to codify the faith and decide on important issues such as the divinity of Jesus and which manuscripts would be collected to form the book known today as The Bible.
 - Jesus was the patron God of Constantine
 - In the same way that earlier Roman emperors had claimed a special relationship with a deity to augment their authority and standing (Caracalla with Serapis, for example, or Diocletian with Jupiter), Constantine chose the figure of Jesus Christ.

- Constantine stabilized the empire, revalued the currency, and reformed the military, as well as founding the city he called New Rome on the site of the former city of Byzantium (modern-day Istanbul) which came to be known as Constantinople.
- He is known as Constantine the Great owing to later Christian writers who saw him as a mighty champion of their faith but, as has been noted by many historians, the honorific could as easily be attributed to his religious, cultural, and political reforms, as well as his skill in battle and his large-scale building projects.
- After his death, his sons inherited the empire and, fairly quickly, embarked on a series of conflicts with each other which threatened to undo all that Constantine had accomplished.
 - His three sons, Constantine II, Constantius II, and Constans divided the Roman Empire between them but soon fell to fighting over which of them deserved more.
 - In these conflicts, Constantine II and Constans were killed.
 - Constantius II died later after naming his cousin Julian his successor and heir.
- Emperor Julian ruled for only two years (361-363 CE) and, in that time, tried to return Rome to her former glory through a series of reforms aimed at increasing efficiency in government.
 - As a Neo-Platonic philosopher, Julian rejected Christianity and blamed the faith, and Constantine's advocacy for it, for the decline of the empire.
 - While officially proclaiming a policy of religious tolerance, Julian systematically removed Christians from influential government positions, banned the teaching and spread of the religion, and barred Christians from military service.
 - His death, while on campaign against the Persians, ended the dynasty Constantine had begun.
 - He was the last pagan emperor of Rome and came to be known as 'Julian the Apostate' for his opposition to Christianity.
- After the brief rule of Jovian, who re-established Christianity as the dominant faith of the empire and repealed Julian's various edicts, the responsibility of emperor fell to Theodosius I.
- Theodosius I (r. 379-395 CE) took Constantine's and Jovian's religious reforms to their natural ends
 - Proclaimed Christianity Rome's state religion in 380
 - Outlawed pagan worship throughout the empire
 - Closed the schools and universities
 - Converted pagan temples into Christian churches
- Many of his reforms were unpopular with both the Roman aristocracy and the common people who held to the traditional values of pagan practice.
 - It was during this time that Plato's famous Academy was closed by Theodosius' decree.
 - The unity of social duties and religious belief which paganism provided was severed by the institution of a religion which removed the gods from the earth and human society and proclaimed only one God who ruled from the heavens.
- This new god, unlike the gods of old, had no special interest in Rome - he was the god of all people
 - This distanced the religion of Rome from the state of Rome.
 - Previously, Roman religious belief was state-sponsored and the rituals and festivals went to enhancing the status of the government.
 - Theodosius I devoted so much effort to promoting Christianity that he seems to have neglected other duties as emperor and would be the last to rule both Eastern and Western Empires.

The Fall of the Roman Empire (378-476)

- Gothic Wars (376-382)
 - From 376-382 CE, Rome fought a series of battles against invading Goths known today as the Gothic Wars.

- At the Battle of Adrianople, 9 August 378 CE, the Roman Emperor Valens (r. 364-378 CE) was defeated, and historians mark this event as pivotal in the decline of the Western Roman Empire.
- Various theories have been suggested as to the cause of the empire's fall but, even today, there is no universal agreement on what those specific factors were.
 - Christianity
 - Edward Gibbon has famously argued in his The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire that Christianity played a pivotal role, in that the new religion undermined the social mores of the empire which paganism provided.
 - The theory that Christianity was a root cause in the empire's fall was debated long before Gibbon, however, as the theologian Orosius (l. c. 5th century CE) argued Christianity's innocence in Rome's decline as early as 418 CE. Orosius claimed it was primarily paganism itself and pagan practices which brought about the fall of Rome.
 - Political instability due to size of empire
 - The ungovernable vastness of the empire, even divided in two, made it difficult to manage.
 - The self-interest of the two halves of the empire
 - The Eastern Empire flourished while the Western Empire struggled and neither gave much thought to helping the other. Eastern and Western Rome saw each other more as competitors than teammates and worked primarily in their own self-interest.
 - Invasion of barbarian tribes
 - Government corruption
 - The growing strength of the Germanic tribes and their constant incursions into Rome could have been dealt with more effectively if not for government corruption, especially among provincial governors, and fair treatment of the Goths by the Romans overall.
 - Mercenary armies
 - The Roman military, manned largely with barbarian mercenaries who had no ethnic ties to Rome, could no longer safeguard the borders as efficiently as they once had nor could the government as easily collect taxes in the provinces.
 - Over-reliance on slave labor lead to massive unemployment and inflation
 - The debasement of the currency, begun under the Severan Dynasty, had steadily encouraged inflation and slave labor, which was widespread, deprived lower-class citizens of jobs so unemployment levels soared.
 - The arrival of the Visigoths in the empire in the third century CE, fleeing from the invading Huns, and their subsequent rebellions has also been cited a contributing factor in the decline.
- The Western Roman Empire officially ended 4 September 476 CE, when Emperor Romulus Augustulus was deposed by the Germanic King Odoacer (though some historians date the end as 480 CE with the death of Julius Nepos).
- The Eastern Roman Empire continued on as the Byzantine Empire until 1453 CE
 - Though known early on as simply 'the Roman Empire', it did not much resemble that entity at all.
- The Western Roman Empire would become re-invented later as The Holy Roman Empire (962-1806 CE)
 - That construct was also far removed from the Roman Empire of antiquity and was an 'empire' in name only.
- Western Roman Empire = The Holy Roman Empire = Papal States, officially the State of the Church

- Also known as the Papal States – officially the State of the Church – these were a series of territories in the Italian Peninsula under the direct sovereign rule of the pope, from the 8th century until 1870.
 - They were among the major states of Italy from roughly the 8th century until the Kingdom of Piedmont-Sardinia successfully unified the Italian Peninsula by conquest in a campaign virtually concluded in 1861 and definitively in 1870.
 - At their zenith, the Papal States covered most of the modern Italian regions of Lazio (which includes Rome), Marche, Umbria and Romagna, and portions of Emilia. These holdings were considered to be a manifestation of the temporal power of the pope, as opposed to his ecclesiastical primacy.
- By 1861, much of the Papal States' territory had been conquered by the Kingdom of Italy.
 - Only Lazio, including Rome, remained under the pope's temporal control.
- In 1870, the pope lost Lazio and Rome and had no physical territory at all, except the Basilica of St Peter and the papal residence and related buildings around the Vatican quarter of Rome, which the new Italian state did not occupy militarily.
- In 1929 the head of the Italian government, at the time the Italian Fascist leader Benito Mussolini, ended the crisis between unified Italy and the Holy See by negotiating the Lateran Treaty, signed by the two parties. This recognized the sovereignty of the Holy See over a newly created international territorial entity, the Vatican City State, limited to a token territory.
 - The Holy See, also called the See of Rome, is the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Rome, known as the pope, which includes the apostolic episcopal see of the Diocese of Rome with universal ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the worldwide Catholic Church, as well as a sovereign entity of international law.

Legacy of the Roman Empire

- The inventions and innovations which were generated by the Roman Empire profoundly altered the lives of the ancient people and continue to be used in cultures around the world today.
- Advancements in the construction of roads and buildings, indoor plumbing, aqueducts, and even fast-drying cement were either invented or improved upon by the Romans.
- The calendar used in the West derives from the one created by Julius Caesar, and the names of the days of the week (in the romance languages) and months of the year also come from Rome.
- Even the practice of returning some purchase one finds one does not want comes from Rome whose laws made it legal for a consumer to bring back some defective or unwanted merchandise to the seller.
- Apartment complexes (known as `insula), public toilets, locks and keys, newspapers, even socks all were developed by the Romans as were shoes, a postal system (modeled after the Persians), cosmetics, the magnifying glass, and the concept of satire in literature.
- During the time of the empire, significant developments were also advanced in the fields of medicine, law, religion, government, and warfare.
- The Romans were adept at borrowing from, and improving upon, those inventions or concepts they found among the indigenous populace of the regions they conquered.
 - It is therefore difficult to say what is an `original' Roman invention and what is an innovation on a pre-existing concept, technique, or tool.
 - It can safely be said, however, that the Roman Empire left an enduring legacy which continues to affect the way in which people live in the present day.

Religious factions

Within Judaism intrigue, rebellion and infighting permeated society, with the Sadducees, Pharisees, Essenes and Zealots vying for political power and influence. Jesus was born into this tumultuous world, and he lived on the extreme edge of its radical fringe.

Religion

- Religion in the Roman Empire was an integral part of civil life, and it encompassed practices and beliefs the Romans considered their own.
- Religions of other cultures within the Empire were respected and protected
 - The Jews, for example, were free to practice their religion and to operate their temple in Jerusalem.

Judaism in the Roman Empire

- At the time of Jesus about 4,000,000 Jews lived in the Roman Empire (6-7% of the population)
 - Primarily in Jerusalem, Rome, Alexandria, Antioch and other urban cities and towns
 - Remote corner of the Roman Empire.
- The Jews were a small, insignificant minority group
- Jews were free to worship their own God
 - As monotheists in a polytheistic culture they tended to separate themselves from the Gentiles and cluster together for familiarity and mutual support.
- From the time of the Babylonian captivity onward (586-539 B.C.), Judaism experienced considerable social, political and religious contention from within and intermittent persecution from without.
 - At the time of Jesus Judaism had four major “sects” or “divisions”: Pharisees, Sadducees, Essenes and Zealots—along with countless “splinter groups.”

Pharisees

- The Pharisees are the people of the synagogues scattered throughout the Roman Empire.
 - Synagogues – Jewish houses of study and prayer
 - Synagogues emerged during the Babylonian Captivity when the Jews became a People of the Book
 - The Pharisees become established after the Maccabean Revolt, 167-160 B.C.
- The Pharisees are primarily the common people, striving to live good and holy lives.
 - Devout and holy people, the Pharisees observed the Mosaic Law, believed in immortality and resurrection, and held that the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures was the inspired word of God.
- The dark side of the Pharisees was excessive legalism and self-righteousness
 - Jesus did not attack the Pharisees per se; rather, he attacked the “dark side” of their religious piety: hypocrisy and self-righteousness.
- The Pharisees were the dominant sect of Judaism at the time of Jesus
 - Joseph, Mary and Jesus
 - Paul and most of the Apostles
 - most early Jewish Christians

Sadducees

- They were active in Judea from the 2nd century B.C. through the destruction of the Temple in A.D. 70.
- Emerged from the priesthood and those associated with it.
 - Drawn primarily from the upper socio-economic strata of Jewish society (high social status and wealth)
- They were actively involved in Temple operations (functioning and finances)
 - Had a vested political and economic interest in maintaining the status quo
- Theologically conservative

- They viewed the Torah (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy) as the highest form of divine inspiration, relegating the rest of Scripture to a secondary position.
 - They don't believe in resurrection (not in the Torah), so they are SAD U SEE (pneumatic device)
- After the Maccabean Revolt, the Sadduceean leadership became increasingly corrupt and the target of intense criticism.
- After the destruction of the Temple in A.D. 70, the Sadducees faded from the scene, being mentioned only rarely in extra-biblical sources, such as the Talmud.

Zealots

- Determined to end Roman oppression through violent revolutionary means.
 - Members of a movement in violent opposition to Roman rule, claiming that only God could be their king.
 - The Zealots' chief tactic was the targeted assassinations of Romans and Jews who opposed them.
 - We might think of them as Jewish patriots; the Romans thought of them as terrorists.
- Although active during the reign of Herod the Great (37 B.C. – A.D. 4) the movement solidified under the leadership of Judas of Galilee in A.D. 6 in opposition to Quirinius' Tax Reform, shortly after the Roman Empire declared that what had formerly been the tetrarchy of Herod Archelaus would henceforth be a Roman province.
- The reign of the Emperor Caligula (A.D. 37-41) triggered an open break between Rome and the Jews, culminating in the Jewish Revolt of A.D. 66-72 and the destruction of the Temple.
 - During the Revolt the Zealots took control of Jerusalem, using the Temple complex as a staging area for war.
 - The Zealots were eliminated during the Jewish Revolt, making their last stand against the 10th Roman Legion at Masada in A.D. 73.
- Jesus included Simon the Zealot among his disciples (Matthew 10:4).

Essenes

- The Essenes were a separatist group, highly critical of the Sadducees and to a lesser degree critical of the Pharisees.
 - Men who removed themselves from the constant strife of the battling Jewish sects and lived ascetic lives in remote desert communities, spending their time in prayer, fasting and communal life and awaiting the coming of the "Righteous One."
- Their thinking embraced a decidedly apocalyptic vision.
 - Jesus clearly shared their eschatological (end-times) thinking.
- The Essenes are first mentioned by Pliny the Elder (A.D. 23-79) in his Natural History, where he writes that they do not marry and possess no money.
- Josephus (A.D.37-95) discusses the Essenes in detail in his History of the Jewish War
 - They are celibate, have no possessions, live in community, practice extreme forms of asceticism, await the "coming of the righteous one," and have a decidedly apocalyptic vision of the future.
- The community at Qumran, where the Dead Sea scrolls were discovered in 1946/47, was most likely an Essene community.
 - Livelihood was in copying scrolls – what we found was their inventory
- John the Baptist may have been affiliated with the Essenes
 - His parents were very old when he was born. As a male community, the only way that they could add to their numbers would be through taking in orphans
 - Shares the extreme forms of asceticism
 - Where John was baptizing was just across the valley from Qumran
- The Essenes are not mentioned in Scripture, but Jesus possibly alludes to them in Matthew 19:11-12, as they renounced marriage, lived celibate lives and focused exclusively on the imminent coming of the kingdom of heaven.

Galilee

Galilee

E6 on the Map

Region

- The northern part of Palestine
- Also referred to as Galilee of the gentiles because of the Assyrian conquest (Is 9:1).
- S border was the Valley of Jezreel
- E border was to Sea of Galilee
- N border was Lebanon
- W border was the Plain of Acre.
- It is the highest region in the country, with the coolest temperature.
- It was well watered by the winter rains and had numerous and abundant springs.
- The area is divided into two parts by a deep valley, thus upper Galilee and lower Galilee. Upper Galilee rose to a height of more than 3000 feet above sea level. Galilee's lush territory and fertile soil for agriculture provide a basis for rich economy in this region. It also contained a major road which brought the peoples of the Mediterranean to the lands of the East.

Galilee in the OT

- Galilee is referred to only seven times in the O.T.
 - Jos 12:23
 - Jos 20:7
 - Jos 21:32
 - 1Ch 6:76
 - 1Ki 9:11
 - 2Ki 15:29

History of Galilee

- The territory was first conquered under Joshua – the tribes that inhabited the territory dwelt among the Canaanite inhabitants.
- In 732 Tiglath-Pileser III conquered Galilee, and a region became an Assyrian Satrapy, known in the Assyrian documents as the Satrapy of Megiddo.
- In the Persian period Galilee was outside the Jewish state, and Galilee and Samaria were both a single district.
 - Under the Seleucids this district was called an eparchy
 - Under the Ptolemies Galilee formed a separate hyparchy
 - At this time there were many Greeks and Phoenicians there, and some Jewish settlements.

- In 104-103 B.C. the Hasmonean Aristobulus conquered Galilee and added it to his kingdom.
- It remained a Jewish territory even after Palestine had been conquered by Pompey in 64 B.C., and later it became part of Herod's kingdom.
- After Herod's death in 4 B.C. Galilee and Perea was passed on to his son Herod Antipas who became Tetrarch, he founded the city of Tiberias and made it capital of Galilee.

Galilee in the NT

Most of the early ministry of Jesus took place in Galilee. He lived in Nazareth (Matt 21:11) and performed his first miracle at Cana (John 2:1-11). When he ministry in Galilee the crowds received him gladly (Mark 12:37), and it was in Judea where Jesus was put to death. During the last supper Jesus told his disciples that after he been raised from the dead, He would go before them to meet them (Mark 14:28). After his resurrection an angel informed the disciples that Jesus had preceded them in Galilee were they would see him as he had promised (Mark 16:7).

During the Jewish war against the Romans Galilee was where the first battles were fought and the city was fortified by Josephus. After the revolt was put down Galilee was made part of the Roman province of Judea. The area of thrived after the period of the Second Jewish Revolt (A.D. 132-135), with numerous cities and villages.

Luke 1:26; 2:4; 3:1; Mark. 1:9; 1:14, 28; Matt. 4:23; 28:26; John 7:1; Acts 9:31.

R. T. France, in his very fine commentary on The Gospel of Matthew (NICNT, 2007), laments:

Modern readers of the NT often know little about the geopolitical world of first-century Palestine. It is commonly assumed that “the Jews” were an undifferentiated community living amicably in the part of the world we now call “the Holy Land” united in their resentment of the political imposition of Roman rule to which all were equally subject.

But, he says, “this is a gross distortion of the historical and cultural reality.” The northern province of Galilee was decisively distinct—in history, political status, and culture—from the southern province of Judea which contained the holy city of Jerusalem.

Admitting that the following is a drastic oversimplification but hoping that it’s not a complete caricature, Professor France summarizes seven differences:

1. Racially the area of the former Northern Kingdom of Israel had had, ever since the Assyrian conquest in the eighth century B.C., a more mixed population, within which more conservative Jewish areas (like Nazareth and Capernaum) stood in close proximity to largely pagan cities, of which in the first century the new Hellenistic centers of Tiberias and Sepphoris were the chief examples.
2. Geographically Galilee was separated from Judea by the non-Jewish territory of Samaria, and from Perea in the southeast by the Hellenistic settlements of Decapolis.
3. Politically Galilee had been under separate administration from Judea during almost all its history since the tenth century B.C. (apart from a period of “reunification” under the Maccabees), and in the time of Jesus it was under a (supposedly) native Herodian prince, while Judea and Samaria had since A.D. 6 been under the direct rule of a Roman prefect.
4. Economically Galilee offered better agricultural and fishing resources than the more mountainous territory of Judea, making the wealth of some Galileans the envy of their southern neighbors.

5. Culturally Judeans despised their northern neighbors as country cousins, their lack of Jewish sophistication being compounded by their greater openness to Hellenistic influence.
6. Linguistically Galileans spoke a distinctive form of Aramaic whose slovenly consonants (they dropped their aitches!) were the butt of Judean humor.
7. Religiously the Judean opinion was that Galileans were lax in their observance of proper ritual, and the problem was exacerbated by the distance of Galilee from the temple and the theological leadership, which was focused in Jerusalem.

The result, he says, is that even an impeccably Jewish Galilean in first-century Jerusalem was not among his own people; he was as much a foreigner as an Irishman in London or a Texan in New York. His accent would immediately mark him out as “not one of us,” and all the communal prejudice of the supposedly superior culture of the capital city would stand against his claim to be heard even as a prophet, let alone as the “Messiah,” a title which, as everyone knew, belonged to Judea (cf. John 7:40-42).

This may at first blush sound like interesting background material that is not especially helpful for reading and interpreting the gospels. But Mark and Matthew have structured their narratives around a geographical framework dividing the north and the south, culminating in the confrontation of this prophet from Galilee and the religious establishment of Jerusalem.

Professor France writes: “To read Matthew in blissful ignorance of first-century Palestinian sociopolitics is to miss his point. This is the story of Jesus of Nazareth.”

Judea

- Southern territory
- Tribe of Judah
 - The tribe from which both David and Jesus came
- Jerusalem is the capital of Israel
- Center of both religious and political power and authority
 - Any location that is the center of both religious and political authority is conservative by its very nature
 - Not conservative in the modern sense, but conservative in that there is a vested interest maintaining the status quo
 - Jerusalem and Judea were, indeed, very conservative under this definition at the time of Jesus
 - Center of religious power at the Temple
 - Strong influence of Roman authority
 - Rome occupied all of this area
 - Roman troops were stationed at Ceaseria, the deep water port on the coast
 - When the 3 Jewish festivals took place (Passover, Pentecost, Tabernacles), these troops (with the governor, Pilate) moved to Jerusalem and took up residence in the Antonio Fortress, on the NW corner of the Temple area
 - Creates a profoundly conservative area in the sense of maintaining the status quo
- Galilee – Very radical place
 - 100 miles north
 - Every radical idea that originated during this time, originated in Galilee
 - Every revolution against Rome originated in Galilee
 - Jesus is 1st and foremost a radical reformer within Judaism

New Testament Manuscripts

- A Jew living in Palestine at the time of Jesus would have:
 - Understood Greek
 - Spoken Aramaic as his native language
 - Been able to read Hebrew
 - Most would also have had a working knowledge of Latin, since they were living under Roman rule.
- The New Testament was written entirely in koine Greek, that is, the “common” Greek
 - Understood by ordinary people living in Palestine at the time of Jesus.
 - They understood Greek because Alexander the Great had conquered the region in 331 B.C., establishing a long period of Greek rule that lasted until the Roman general, Pompey, conquered the area in 63 B.C.
 - Although the events in the New Testament happen in the first century A.D., the manuscripts that record those events date from much later.
- Manuscripts of the New Testament are divided into four types: papyri, uncials, minuscules, and lectionaries.
 - New Testament papyri – written on papyrus and generally more ancient
 - New Testament minuscules – written in minuscule letters and generally more recent
 - New Testament lectionaries – usually written minuscule (but some in uncial) letters and generally more recent
 - New Testament uncials – written in majuscule letters, on parchment or velum.

Example of a Papyrus Manuscript

This is the oldest existing manuscript of the new Testament, a fragment of the Gospel according to John, A.D. 125 (John 18: 31-34; 37-38). John Rylands Library, Manchester, England.

Example of an Uncial Manuscript

Codex Sinaiticus, perhaps the most important of the New Testament manuscripts. Dating from the 4th century, it contains part of the Old Testament and all of the New Testament. British Library, London.

Example of a Miniscule Manuscript

This is a parchment manuscript from the 10th century containing the Acts of the Apostles, and the general and Pauline letters (Philemon 10-25 is shown above). Mt. Athos, Greece.

Example of a Lectionary

This is a parchment codex containing a gospel lectionary dated A.D. 991. It is carefully written with elaborate decorative letters in yellow, blue, green and scarlet. The text is John 19: 10-16 and Matthew 27: 3-5. Vatican Library.

Common names in the NT

Jesus

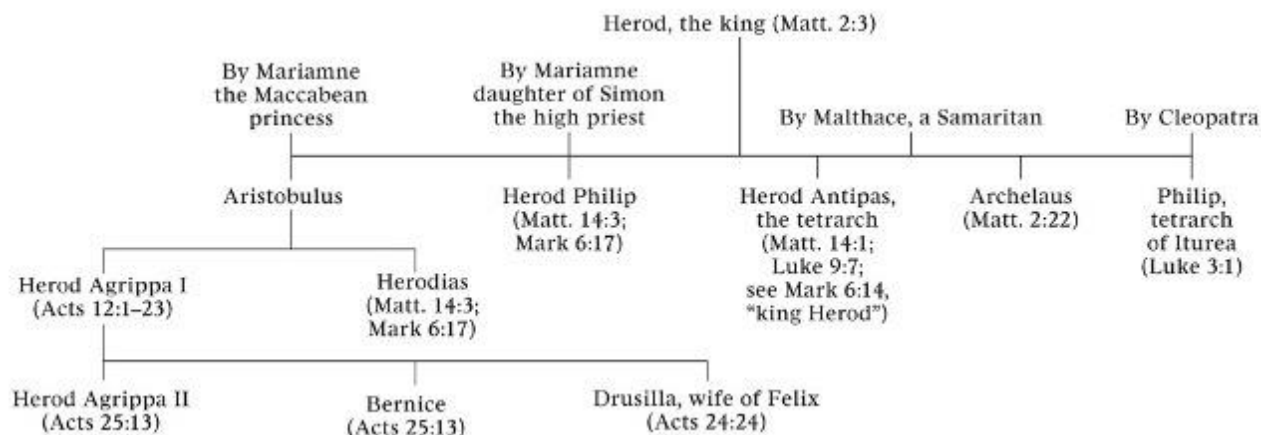

- Name is same as Joshua, which means ‘the Lord saves’

Mary

- Name is same as Miriam – named after Moses’ sister

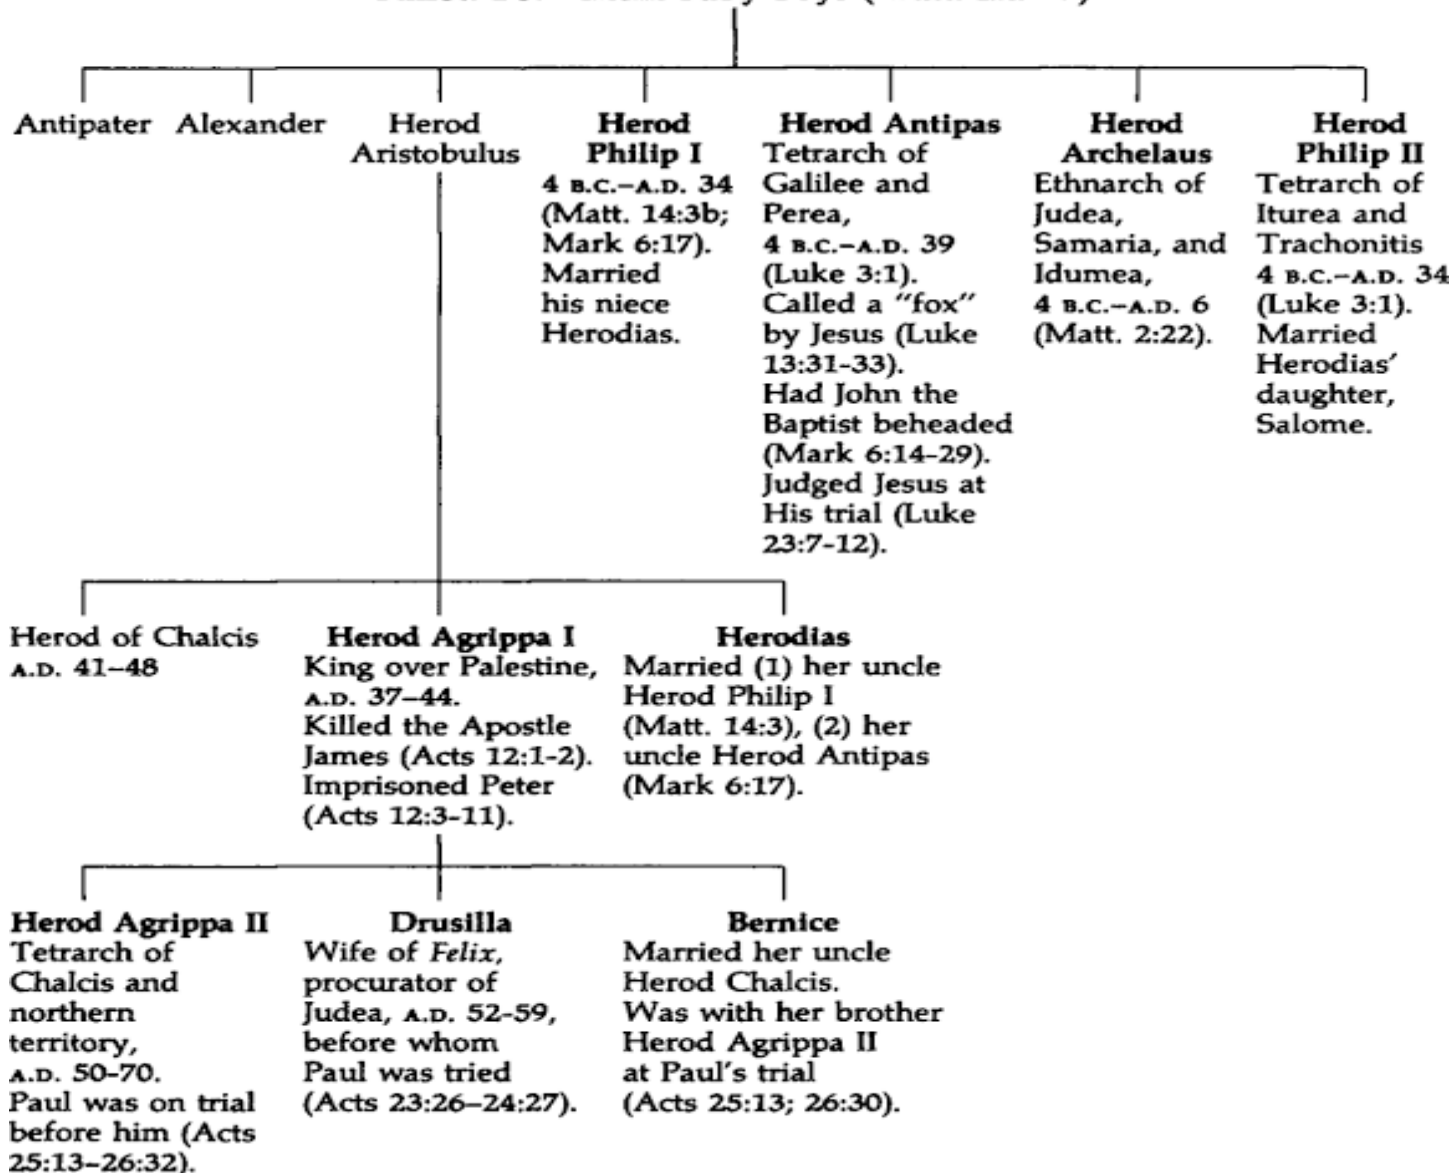

Herods

- Herod the Great (37 – 4 BC)
 - Present at the birth of Jesus
 - Slaughter of the Innocents – Orders the boys of Bethlehem to be killed (Mt 2:1-19)
 - Remains found at Herodium
- Herod Antipas (4 BC – AD 39)
 - Murders John the Baptist (Lk 9:9)
 - Pilate sent Jesus to him (Lk 23:7-12)
- Herod Agrippa I (37 – 44 AD)
 - Killed James, brother of John
 - Imprisons Peter
 - Struck down by an angel at the Theater in Caesarea and is eaten by worms and dies (Act 12:1-24)
- Herod Agrippa II
 - Paul makes a legal defense before him (Acts 25:13-26:32)

Herod the Great

King of Palestine, 37–4 B.C. (Luke 1:5)
Killed Bethlehem baby boys (Matt. 2:1-17)

The Gospels

- Narrative communication involves no fewer than four basic perspectives:
 - the author who fashions the story,
 - the narrator who tells it,
 - the audience or reader who experiences it,
 - the characters who enact it
 - Some critics also distinguish between an “implied” and “real” narrator (or narrators), as well as an “implied” and “real” reader (or readers).
- Prologue – Few things are more important to a story than how it begins.
 - In the first few pages the narrator sets the stage for what follows:
 - Introduces his major characters
 - Lays the groundwork for their relationships with one another
 - Plants seeds of conflict
 - Creates a mood that will shadow the rest of the story.
 - In the first few pages the narrator also establishes his own relationship with those who participate in the story:
 - the author
 - the narrator
 - the characters
 - the reader

Who was Jesus of Nazareth?

Christianity is arguably the single most important force in shaping the past 2,000 years of western civilization, and one may reasonably argue that Jesus of Nazareth is the single most influential person who ever lived. Yet, what do we really know about the historical Jesus?

- There is not a single piece of documentary evidence from the time of Jesus (4/6 B.C. – A.D. 32) to suggest that he ever existed. Nothing.
 - Not a birth certificate.
 - Not a death certificate.
 - Not a letter.
 - Not a property record.
 - Not a record of his trial.
 - Not a single document with his name on it.
- Apart from the NT—written decades after Jesus’ life on this earth—there are only a few references to him.
 - Flavius Josephus, c. A.D. 95 – Jewish Antiquities (18:3:3)
 - About this time there lived Jesus, a wise man, if indeed one ought to call him a man. For he was one who wrought surprising feats and was a teacher of such people as accept the truth gladly. He won over many Jews and many of the Greeks. He was the Messiah. When Pilate, upon hearing him accused by men of the highest standing amongst us, had condemned him to be crucified, those who had in the first place come to love him did not give up their affection for him. On the third day he appeared to them restored to life, for the prophets of God had prophesied these and countless other marvelous things about him. And the tribe of the Christians, so called after him, has still to this day not disappeared.
 - Josephus mentions Jesus again in passing (20.9.1) when he notes that the High Priest Ananias summoned the Sanhedrin, the Jewish governing council . . . and brought before them the brother of Jesus who was called Christ, whose name was James, and some others; and when he had formed an accusation against them as breakers of the law, he delivered them to be stoned . . . [Acts 12 chronicles the result of this incident].

- Gaius Cornelius Tacitus – Annals (XXV.44.2-8)
 - A longer account shows up in Tacitus' Annals (c. A.D. 116). He recounts the great fire in Rome under Nero (XXV.44.2-8): Nero fastened the guilt and afflicted the most exquisite tortures on a class hated for their abominations, called Christians by the populace. Christus, from whom their name had its origin, suffered the extreme penalty during the reign of Tiberius at the hands of one of our procurators, Pontius Pilate, and a deadly superstition, thus checked for the moment, again broke out, not only in Judea, the first source of the evil, but also in the city, where all things hideous and shameful from every part of the world meet and become popular.
- Pliny the Younger – Letters (10.96)
 - The earliest non-biblical report about the Christians comes from Pliny the Younger, governor of Bithynia (c. 112 A.D.) He isn't quite sure how to deal with the Christians, so he writes to the emperor Trajan for advice (Letters 10.96). Pliny had tortured a few Christians, and he passes on the information he received: They maintained, moreover, that the amount of their fault or error had been this, that it was their habit on a fixed day to assemble before daylight and recite by turns a form of words to Christ as to a god; and that they bound themselves with an oath, not for any crime, but not to commit theft or robbery or adultery, not to break their word, and not to deny a deposit when demanded. After this was done, it was their custom to depart, and to meet again to take food, but ordinary, harmless food . . . I discovered nothing else than a perverse and extravagant superstition.
- Lucian of Samosata – Passing of Peregrinus (11-13)
 - A final account of the Christian movement before the end of the second century comes from the satirist Lucian of Samosata (A.D. 120-180). In his Passing of Peregrinus he slams Peregrinus—the very model of the conman. Among those duped by Peregrinus was a group of Christians (Peregrinus 11-13): It was then he learned the wondrous lore of the Christians by associating with their priests and scribes in Palestine. And—how else could it be—in a trice he made them all look like children; for he was prophet, cult leader, head of the synagogue, and everything, all by himself. He interpreted and explained some of their books, and even composed many, and they revered him as a god, made use of him as a lawgiver, and set him down as a protector, next after that other, to be sure, whom they still worship, the man who was crucified in Palestine because he introduced this new cult into the world.
- Among Jewish writings, the Talmud contains only a few references to Jesus (Babylonian Talmud, Sanhedrin 43a, b; 103a; 106b; 107b), though later censors may have removed others. The ones that do remain are very brief and often veiled. If we did not know of Jesus from the New Testament, we would probably not recognize the allusions to him in the Talmud.
- During the first century after Jesus' death, the world took little notice of what it considered to be a minor Jewish sect. For the most part, Jewish and Hellenistic writers completely ignored both Jesus and Christianity.
- What happened?
 - After Jesus's resurrection, he said to his Apostles: "All power in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you." (Matthew 28: 18-20)
 - And that is precisely what they did.

Titles for Jesus

Christ

- Christ is a title which means the anointed one, or Messiah
 - Christ is not his last name.
 - It is the Greek word "Christós" meaning "anointed," which is the translation of the Hebrew word "Māšîaḥ", meaning "the Messiah, the anointed one"

- Paul almost always refers to the Lord as Christ Jesus, as opposed to the other Apostles refer to him as Jesus Christ
 - The Apostles knew Christ in a very personal, intimate way – they refer to him as Jesus, the Messiah
 - Paul never knew Jesus on earth. He persecuted the followers of Christ, then had a dramatic conversion on the road to Damascus.
 - He refers to him as the Messiah Jesus. It's almost like he saying 'Sir' with a salute.
 - It's a different relationship that Paul has with Christ than the other Apostles had

Son of God

- Jesus is not God's Son in the sense of a human father and a son.
 - God did not get married and have a son.
 - God did not mate with Mary and, together with her, produce a son.
- Jesus is God's Son in the sense that He is God made manifest in human form (John 1:1,14).
 - Jesus is God's Son in that He was conceived in Mary by the Holy Spirit.
 - Luke 1:35 declares, "The angel answered, 'The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. So the holy one to be born will be called the Son of God.'"
- To be the Son of God is to be of the same nature as God.
 - The Son of God is "of God."
 - The claim to be of the same nature as God—to in fact be God—was blasphemy to the Jewish leaders; therefore, they demanded Jesus' death, in keeping with Leviticus 24:15. Hebrews 1:3 expresses this very clearly, "The Son is the radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of His being."
 - During His trial before the Jewish leaders, the High Priest demanded of Jesus, "I charge you under oath by the living God: Tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God" (Matthew 26:63). "Yes, it is as you say," Jesus replied. "But I say to all of you: In the future you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Mighty One and coming on the clouds of heaven" (Matthew 26:64). The Jewish leaders responded by accusing Jesus of blasphemy (Matthew 26:65-66). Later, before Pontius Pilate, "The Jews insisted, 'We have a law, and according to that law He must die, because He claimed to be the Son of God'" (John 19:7). Why would His claiming to be the Son of God be considered blasphemy and be worthy of a death sentence? The Jewish leaders understood exactly what Jesus meant by the phrase "Son of God."
 - Another example can be found in John 17:12 where Judas is described as the "son of perdition." John 6:71 tells us that Judas was the son of Simon. What does John 17:12 mean by describing Judas as the "son of perdition"? The word perdition means "destruction, ruin, waste." Judas was not the literal son of "ruin, destruction, and waste," but those things were the identity of Judas' life. Judas was a manifestation of perdition. In this same way, Jesus is the Son of God. The Son of God is God. Jesus is God made manifest (John 1:1,14).

Son of Man

- Highly exalted title – Claim to divine authority
- Jesus is referred to as the "Son of Man" 88 times in the New Testament
 - Almost always spoken by Jesus himself.
- Jesus was the Son of God—He was in His essence God. Jesus was also the Son of Man—He was in His essence a human being. In summary, the phrase "Son of Man" indicates that Jesus is the Messiah and that He is truly a human being.
- Refers back to OT prophets
 - Messianic title

Da 7:13 "In my vision at night I looked, and there before me was one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. He approached the Ancient of Days and was led into his presence. 14 He was given authority, glory and sovereign power; all peoples, nations and men of every language worshiped him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed.

- Jesus is the One who was given dominion and glory and a kingdom.
 - When Jesus used this phrase, He was assigning the Son of Man prophecy to Himself.
 - The Jews of that era would have been intimately familiar with the phrase and to whom it referred. Jesus was proclaiming Himself as the Messiah.
- Title of humanity
 - God called the prophet Ezekiel “son of man” 93 times.
 - God was simply calling Ezekiel a human being. A son of a man is a man.
 - Jesus was fully God, but He was also a human being
 - Jn 1:1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.
 - Jn 1:14 The Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us.
 - 1Jn 4:2 This is how you can recognize the Spirit of God: Every spirit that acknowledges that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, 3 but every spirit that does not acknowledge Jesus is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist, which you have heard is coming and even now is already in the world.

What is the Gospel?

The person and work of Christ – Who He is and what He did – and we appropriate it by grace through faith

- The word “gospel” derives from the Old English godspel, which means “good news.”
 - Godspel is the Old English rendering of the Greek euangelion (eu = “good,” angelion = “message”).
 - Euangelion is the word Paul uses in 1Corinthians 15: 1 when he reminds the church at Corinth of “the gospel I preached to you.”
- A “gospel” is an account of the “good news” of the coming kingdom of God and the redemption of humanity through the life, death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ, as seen through the eyes of a living faith tradition, guided by the Holy Spirit, 30-60 years after the events it portrays.
- A “gospel” is NOT:
 - A biography of a person, although it does contain biographical information
 - An historical account of a person, although it is rooted in historical time
 - A fictional account of a person, although it does include miracles, wonders and a large dose of the supernatural
- Oral teaching of the Gospel
 - After Jesus’ death, burial and resurrection he commissions his disciples to take the gospel “to the ends of the earth” (Acts 1: 8). And they do just that. Those who were eyewitnesses to Jesus’ life and works travel throughout the Roman Empire, telling stories about him: what he said, what he did, miracles he performed, conversations and debates he had. Over time, those oral stories take on shape and form—not changing from telling to telling, as many insist—but solidifying into a standardized form
 - For the first 30+ years of the Church the “gospel” spread throughout the Roman Empire by the oral teaching and preaching of the Apostles and others.
- Written Gospels
 - By the early to mid-60s—30 years after Jesus’ life on earth—the eyewitness generation begins to die off, through natural death and through periodic persecutions, such as that of the Roman Emperor Nero (A.D. 64 – 68). With the eyewitness generation disappearing it seemed wise to write the stories down, lest they be lost. Thus the first written Gospels emerge.
 - Handwritten on scrolls and later in codex form (like our modern book), the Gospels spread throughout the Roman world as a final, stable text. They are the Gospels we read today.

- Many written “gospel” accounts emerged during the first three centuries of the Christian era, but common usage generally applies the term to the four canonical gospels: Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.
- Unique literary genre

How did the Gospel spread?

- For three years (A.D. 29-32) Jesus “went around all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and curing every disease and illness among the people” (Luke 4: 23).
- Disciples
 - During his 3-year public ministry Jesus gathered many followers, twelve of whom became his “inner circle,” his Apostles. They lived with him, traveled with him, studied with him: they were eyewitnesses to his public ministry and to his death, burial and resurrection.
 - After his resurrection, Jesus commissioned his inner circle to go and “make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you” (Matthew 28: 19-20).
 - His Apostles did exactly that, becoming his “witnesses in Jerusalem, throughout Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth [i.e., throughout the Roman Empire+” (Acts 1: 8).
- Oral Teaching
 - Between A.D. 32 and the mid 60s, teaching and preaching about Jesus was primarily oral, with occasional letters, such as those written by Paul. Faith communities formed throughout the Roman Empire based on such teaching and preaching.
 - Jesus’ Apostles—and other followers—traveled throughout the Roman Empire telling stories about him: they repeated his teaching; they told about his encounters with the religious authorities; and they told about the miracles God performed through him.
 - Virtually everyone in the early Christian communities believed that Jesus was crucified, buried and raised, and that he would return again, ushering in the Kingdom of God – They believed this would happen in their lifetime.

- Written Gospels
 - By the mid-60s the eyewitness generation was drawing to a close—either through natural death or persecution. Jesus had not yet returned, so it became imperative that the oral teaching and preaching about Jesus be written down, lest it be distorted or lost. Thus, the written Gospels begin to emerge in the mid to late 60s.
 - Over time, this oral teaching and preaching took on a fixed form and shape through repetition: expository teaching (e.g., Sermon on the Mount), parables (e.g., the Prodigal Son); dialectic (argumentation); healing stories; etc.

Cononical Gospels

- There were many “gospels” written during the 1st and 2nd centuries A.D., but the Gospels we shall study are the four canonical Gospels: Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.
- These are the gospels the early church believed were written by the Apostles (Matthew and John) or someone closely associated with the Apostles (Mark and Luke)—during the first generation of the Church.

Matthew (Mt)

- A tax collector
- Left his work to follow Jesus (Matthew 9: 9-13)
- One of the twelve apostles
- A Jew (probably a Levite) writing for a Jewish audience.
- Wrote his Gospel in late AD 60

Rembrandt. The Evangelist Matthew and the Angel
(oil on canvas), 1661.
Louvre-Lens Gallery, Pas-de-Calais, France.

Mark (Mk)

- John Mark, a young man
- He was not an apostle, but he was on the fringes of the group that followed Jesus
- He is first mentioned in Acts 12:12 “When this dawned on him (Peter), he went to the house of Mary the mother of John, also called Mark, where many people had gathered and were praying.”
- Mark was a nephew of Barnabas (Col 4: 10) and the spiritual son of Peter (1 Peter 5:13).
- A Jew writing for a Gentile audience.

Anonymous. The Evangelist Mark with a Lion (illumination on parchment), 1524. Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

Luke (Lk)

- Luke was not an apostle—nor was he a follower of Jesus during his 3-year public ministry.
- Luke, the “beloved physician” was a Gentile, a close friend and traveling companion of Paul during A.D. 50-68.
- Luke wrote both the Gospel according to Luke and the Acts of the Apostles.
- A Gentile writing to someone named Theophilus.

Andrea Mantegna. Luke the Evangelist [detail from the St. Luke altarpiece] (tempera on wood), 1454. Brera Art Gallery, Milan

John (Jn)

- John was an apostle
- The son of Zebedee and Salome, the brother of James, and one of Jesus’ cousins.
- Of all the apostles, John was the most intimate with Jesus.
 - He is the “beloved disciple” who rests his head on Jesus’ shoulder at the last supper
 - He is the one to whom Jesus entrusts the care of his mother, Mary, as he is dying on the cross.
- Traditionally, John is the author of the Gospel according to John; 1, 2 & 3 John and Revelation.

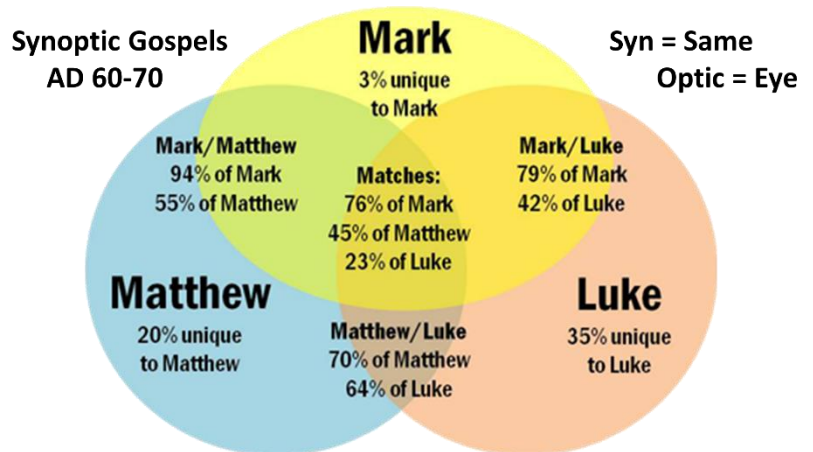

Synoptic Gospels

- Matthew, Mark & Luke
- Each of the synoptic Gospels draws on a similar body of oral teaching and preaching for their content
 - syn = “same,” as in synonym; optic = “eye”—“seen with the same eye”

- The Gospel according to John emerges 20-30 years after the synoptic Gospels, and it is written from an entirely different perspective with an entirely different purpose.

- Matthew, Mark and Luke organize the oral stories about Jesus and present them:
 - From three different perspectives
 - For three different audiences
 - For three different purposes.

- Each Gospel presents that material in radically different ways: theologically, structurally and stylistically.
 - Matthew
 - The Apostle Matthew is the traditional author of the Gospel according to Matthew
 - Jew writing principally to a Jewish audience
 - Structures his gospel in a balanced, chiasmic form, imbedded with the theme of the “hero’s journey”
 - His style employs carefully structured parallelism.
 - Presents Jesus in the fullness of his humanity, portrayed in later iconography as a winged man.
 - Mark
 - The cousin of Barnabas and traveling companion of Peter

- Jew writing principally to those in the Church at Rome during a period of intense persecution
- Structures his gospel in two parts, framed by a prologue and an epilogue that pivots on Peter's confession of faith
- His style creates a sense of great urgency, moving forward at a blistering pace, ending with an implied "call to action."
- Mark presents Jesus as a king, portrayed in later iconography as a lion.
- Luke
 - Paul's traveling companion
 - Author of both the Gospel according to Luke and the Acts of the Apostles, the two comprising one great work
 - Gentile writing to an individual person, a man named Theophilus
 - Structures his 2-part work like an "hourglass," opening his gospel with a vast panorama of the entire Roman Empire and narrowing it down to Jerusalem, the cross and the empty tomb, and then in Acts he begins with the cross and the empty tomb and opens the narrative back out to the entire Roman Empire
 - His style is at once elegant and colloquial, creating individual "voices" for his characters and allowing the interaction of his characters to move the story ahead, rather than depending upon his narrator to do so.
 - Luke presents Jesus as a servant, portrayed in later iconography as an ox.

The book of Matthew is a Gospel that contains Narrative History, Genealogy, Parables, Sermons, and some Prophetic Oracles. It was written by Matthew (Levi), the Disciple of Christ around 48-50 A.D. The key word in Matthew is "Kingdom" and is used 28 times.

The personalities of this book include the Messiah Jesus Christ, His parents Mary and Joseph, the Twelve Disciples, the prophet John the Baptist, and other kinds of leaders. These leaders include those in government like Pilate and religious leaders such as the Pharisees (who attempt to hinder the work of Jesus).

The book of Matthew is the first of the synoptic gospels and it was written to reveal the Lord Jesus as the Messiah, the King of the Jews, from the line of David. It also was written to convince the Jews that Jesus Christ was indeed their long-awaited Messiah.

- Chapters 1-4 in Matthew mainly deal with the miracle birth of Jesus and the events surrounding His early life. This primarily involves the commonly told Christmas story but also includes the genealogy of Jesus, which goes all the way back to Abraham. "She will bear a Son; and you shall call His name Jesus, for He will save His people from their sins" (1:21).
- Chapters 5-25 consist of the ministry of Jesus from the interdiction of John the Baptist up to the point of His death at Calvary. These chapters are vital to our knowledge of Jesus Christ and are much of what we know about God living as a perfect man on Earth. These passages include Jesus' famous Sermon on the Mount, numerous miracles, and priceless teachings to all who would listen and follow.

- Chapters 26-28, contain the death and resurrection of Jesus. These chapters present the truth of the "Good News" and about how Jesus took the sins of the world upon Himself. This is the central theme of salvation through faith alone in the complete and finished work of Christ Jesus on the cross. Salvation is possible only through His death, His burial, and His resurrection from the dead, all for the sake of sinners. Numerous and amazing Old Testament prophecies are fulfilled frequently in these final chapters. Some of these are His betrayal for thirty pieces of silver by Judas, crucifixion with two robbers, and those wagging their heads at Jesus while He was yet on the cross.

K. Minor Discourse: Jesus identifies the authority of the church (28:18-20)

- i. The great commission (28:19-20)

Biblical Placement – Transition from the OT to the NT

Matthew's narrative begins with a genealogy that reaches back into the Hebrew Scriptures and anchors the gospel in the Abrahamic and Davidic covenants. Like a swinging door, Matthew's gospel reaches back into the Old Testament and pulls the linear narrative up into the New, demonstrating the continuity of God's plan of redemption.

- Begins with a genealogy
 - Written by a Jew for a Jewish audience
 - The first verse swings back to the Hebrew Scriptures and God's covenant with Abraham in Genesis 12:2-3, picks up God's covenant with David in 1 Chronicles 17:10-14, and brings both forward to introduce his story.
 - In a metaphorical sense, the door of salvation swings on the hinges of the Abrahamic and Davidic covenants
 - Abrahamic covenant – Introduces the plan of redemption when God tells the great patriarch, "all the families of the earth will find blessing in you," (Genesis 12:3)
 - David covenant – God says, "I will raise up your offspring after you who will be one of your own sons, and I will establish his kingdom. He it is who shall build me a house, and I will establish his throne forever. I will be a father to him, and he shall be a son to me." (1 Chronicles 17:11-14)..
 - In one deft movement Matthew not only links the entire linear narrative of the Hebrew Scriptures to the birth of Jesus, but he also makes the birth of Jesus the culminating event in Jewish history.
- Hebrew parallelism – B exceeds A, transforms it, and fulfills it
 - Standing at the head of the New Testament, Matthew's story plays an important role in the literary structure of the Christian Bible.
 - The Gospel according to Matthew—the first book of the New Testament—reflects the pattern of "stepped-up" parallelism.
 - It is intimately linked to the Old Testament, but it fulfills it, and in fulfilling it, transforms it.
 - Harvard Professor Frank Kermode observes that the Old Testament is to the New Testament as A is to B in Hebrew parallelism. Consider the example in Psalm 6:10

A The Lord has heard my plea;
B The Lord will accept my prayer.

- The B line doesn't simply repeat A; it exceeds it, transforming the A line and fulfilling it.
- Note that the verb has heard in the first line is in the past tense, while the verb in the second line will accept is in the future tense.
 - The psalmist's condition hasn't changed, but the strength of his faith has.
 - A long, dark road of anguish and suffering lies behind the first line, while faith lies behind the second.
- Engage the text on ITS terms, not yours
 - Matthew is a Jewish author writing for a Jewish audience and that he uses literary techniques familiar to his readers. Our job as contemporary readers is to engage the gospel from this perspective:
 - Understand how the story is told
 - Understand the historical and cultural context from which it emerges
 - Engaging the gospel on its own terms, not imposing ours upon it.
 - In doing so we produce an authentic, nuanced reading and a much deeper understanding of the text. And that is what becoming an educated reader of Scripture is all about.
- 1. The Greek word seismos rumbles beneath the narrative.
 1. It occurs seven times: 8:24, 21:10, 24:7, 27:54, 28:2, and 28:4.
 2. It suggests an earthquake, a sudden shock that shakes the story's foundations, recalling Haggai 2:

Hag 2:6 "This is what the LORD Almighty says: 'In a little while I will once more shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry land. 7 I will shake all nations, and the desired of all nations will come, and I will fill this house with glory,' says the LORD Almighty.
- 2. Matthew uses narrative structures that were used in the OT:
 - Chiastic structure similar to that used in the story of Noah and the Flood
 - Inclusio techniques similar to that used in the story of creation

Theme

Jesus is king – he emphasizes the kingdom of God

Narrative Structure

Chiastic

Matthew's story is artfully structured, along the lines of Hebrew poetry:

- Matthew builds the entire chiastic structure of his story on an underlying 3-part Christological foundation:
 1. the person of Christ (1:1-4:16)
 2. the proclamation of Christ (4:17-16:20)
 3. the suffering, death and resurrection of Christ (16:21-28:20)
- The chiastic structure

A	Narrative: Jesus as Messiah , Son of God (1-4)
	Minor discourse: John the Baptist identifies the authority of Jesus (3:7-12)
B	Great Discourse #1 : Demands of true discipleship (5-7)
C	Narrative: The supernatural authority of Jesus (8-9)
D	Great Discourse #2 : Charge and authority of disciples (10)
E	Narrative: Jews reject Jesus (11-12)
F	Great Discourse #3 : Parables of the Kingdom of Heaven (13)
E'	Narrative: Disciples accept Jesus (14-17)
D'	Great Discourse #4 : Charge and authority of church (18)

- C' Narrative: Authority and invitation (19-22)
- B' Great Discourse #5: Judgment on false discipleship (23-25)
- A' Narrative: Jesus as Messiah, suffering and vindicated (26-28)
- Minor discourse: Jesus identifies the authority of the church (28:18-20)

- Inclusio – Notice that the whole chiastic structure is enveloped by the name of Jesus – Jesus as a Messiah.
 - Reaching back to Isaiah 7:14, Matthew says, “they will call him Immanuel—which means ‘God with us’” (1:23).
 - At the last line of the Gospel, Jesus says, “And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age” (28:20).
- In addition,
 - A-E (Ch 1-12) – Jesus directs himself to the Jewish people: they neither listen to him nor understand him
 - F (Ch 13) – the central element of the chiasm - Parables of the Kingdom of Heaven
 - E'-A' (Ch 14-28) – Jesus directs himself to his disciples, who accept him and believe in him.
- If we move from the gospel’s overall structure to a particular story within the structure, we see the same careful craftsmanship at work. For example, the Sermon on the Mount, Matthew 5-7:
 - It is a carefully structured, 4-part exposition of the Law.
 - Part 1 (5:3-16) - Introduces the teaching with nine striking and memorable statements:
 - Each statement takes the form of “Blessed are X for they shall be Y”
 - Each statement offers a paradox
 - The sequence ends with a final paradox: “blessed are you when they insult you and persecute you and utter every kind of evil against you because of me.”
 - The nine statements certainly capture the attention of Jesus’ audience!
 - And then he follows up the “blessedness” with two statements of responsibility:
 - 1) “you are the salt of the earth”
 - 2) “you are the light of the world.”
 - With the blessedness spoken of in the previous nine statements comes responsibility to make people thirsty for God and to be an example to the world
 - Part 2 (5:17-48) – Jesus introduces six propositions that exceed the Law.
 - He is very clear that he has not “come to abolish the law or the prophets . . . but to fulfill” them (5:17).
 - Again, we have a clearly defined form, “You have heard it said X, but I tell you Y.”
 - Each proposition takes us inside a principle of the Law.
 - Part 3 (6:1-7:6) – Addresses six concrete actions to implement the Law
 - The first three focusing on the three pillars of devotional Judaism: almsgiving, prayer and fasting.
 - Each takes the common expression of an action and presents it paradoxically:
 - 1) do not give to the needy with great show, but give anonymously;
 - 2) do not pray to be seen, but pray privately; and
 - 3) do not fast publicly, but fast in secret.
 - Acquiring wealth, worrying and judging function in the same way.
 - Part 4 (7: 1-29) – Jesus offers an nine-part dramatic “call to action,”
 - Capped by the astonishment of the crowd
 - The symmetry of the teaching adds to its impact & to his audience’s ability to remember it—9, 6, 6, 9
 - Part 1 begins with 9 statements;
 - Part 2 continues with 6 propositions that exceed the law;
 - Part 3 offers 6 concrete actions to implement the law; and
 - Part 4 closes with a dramatic 9-part call to action.
 - Such a carefully structured teaching is not accidental
 - It reflects a master teacher at work

- It also reflects a master narrator carefully crafting his story.

Hero's Journey

- “The Hero’s Journey” is a basic narrative pattern found in many stories across a variety of times and cultures.
 - Joseph Campbell describes it in The Hero with a Thousand Faces, his 1949 seminal work on the archetypal hero. Borrowing from James Joyce’s Finnegan’s Wake, Campbell calls the pattern a “monomyth.”
- Matthew draws on ancient literary antecedents as models for shaping and telling his story, especially “The Hero’s Journey” archetype.
 - Joseph, Mary and Jesus flee Bethlehem and take refuge in Egypt.
 - Recall that Abraham and Sarah flee the Promised Land to take refuge in Egypt.
 - Massacre of the Infants
 - Recalls the story of Moses as an infant in Exodus 1, when Pharaoh orders that all the newborn male Hebrew children be drowned in the Nile River.
 - It is Moses through whom God will redeem his people from slavery in Egypt.
 - It is Jesus through whom God will redeem all of humanity from slavery to sin and death.
- The narrative structure of Matthew’s Gospel reflects this “Hero’s Journey” pattern.
 1. Departure: Jesus’ supernatural birth (1:18–2:23);
 2. Initiation: Jesus baptism by John (3:1-17);
 3. First Trial: Jesus’ tempted by Satan (4:1-11);
 4. Movement from the familiar: Jesus relocates to Capernaum (4:12-17);
 5. Choosing Companions: Jesus gathers his disciples, his “inner circle” of companions (4:18-22);
 6. The Journey begins: Jesus travels throughout Galilee teaching, preaching and healing (4:23-18:35);
 7. Final Trial: Jesus leaves Galilee and heads for Jerusalem and the cross (19:1-20:34);
 8. Entering enemy territory: Jesus’ “Palm Sunday” entry into Jerusalem (21:1-17);
 9. Engaging the enemy: Jesus’ escalating encounters with the religious leaders (21:18-25:46);
 10. The climatic battle: The “Passion” (26:1-27:66);
 11. Victory: Resurrection (28:1-15); and
 12. Reward: The Great Commission (28:16-20).

MARK

	Introduction and Preparation A brief introduction sets Jesus's ministry in motion. John the Baptizer prepares the way. Jesus is tempted in the wilderness. CHAPTER 1:1–13	The Servant at Work An unbroken chain of events reveals Jesus helping people in need. Because people are in darkness, He enlightens. Because people are sick/afflicted, He heals. Because people are without hope, He encourages. Because people are in bondage to satanic control, He liberates. Because people are sinful, He forgives. CHAPTERS 1:14–8:30	The Servant Rejected . . . Then Exalted A growing discontent among the authorities leads to Jesus's suffering and death. He presses the claim, "Messiah." He spends more time alone with His disciples. He comes into open conflict with His enemies. He is hated, deserted, tortured, crucified, and buried. He is raised bodily from the dead! CHAPTERS 8:31–16:20

The book of Mark is a Gospel that contains Narrative History, Sermons, Parables, and some Prophetic Oracles. This Gospel has somewhat of an emphasis in miracles (27 total) which is significantly more than any of the other Gospels. The key word in Mark is "Immediately" which is used 34 times causing the reader to move from one account to the next rapidly. Mark is the shortest of the synoptic gospels and was written about 64 A.D. The key personalities of this book are Jesus Christ, His Twelve Disciples, Jewish religious leaders, Pilate, and John the Baptist.

It was written by John Mark who was one of the missionaries who accompanied Paul and Barnabas on their mission trips. It is possible that Mark wrote this Gospel at the urging of Peter (his companion in Rome) since he had firsthand knowledge of the things that Mark wrote about.

The purpose of the Gospel of Mark is to show that the Lord Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God who was sent to suffer and to serve in order to rescue and restore mankind.

The 16 chapters of the Gospel of Mark can be divided into two parts, 8 chapters each. In the first 8 chapters Jesus is essentially traveling north and preaching until chapter 8. In Chapter 8, Jesus is in the city of Caesarea Philippi where He asks His disciples, "Who do people say that I am?" (vs. 27). Peter replies, "You are the Christ". Throughout the last 8 chapters, Jesus is traveling south, back to Jerusalem; all the way to Calvary's Cross.

- In chapter 1, there is a quick introduction of John the Baptist and his preparation for the coming Messiah. It also includes the baptism of Jesus in the river Jordan, and the temptation in the desert by Satan. The focus quickly changes to the message and ministry of Jesus.
- In chapters 2-10, Jesus selects His Disciples, "And He appointed twelve, so that they would be with Him, and that He could send them out to preach" (3:14). The rest of these passages almost completely refer to Jesus as a Servant. It presents Jesus either teaching, healing, helping, performing miracles, blessing, feeding, challenging authority, and feeling compassion (8:2).

- Chapters 11-16 are the final chapters that declare the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ again another example of servanthood. He is betrayed, dragged through a faulty trial, and then unmercifully beaten, humiliated and crucified; all for the purpose of serving sinners. The final chapter is the miraculous resurrection of His physical body, numerous appearances, and command of the Great Commission, and finally His ascension to the right hand of God.

Traditional Author: John Mark

Traditional Date Written: A.D. 60-70

Outline

Mark stands shoulder to shoulder with any book in Scripture—indeed, any book in literature— as a world-class work of dazzling narrative.

- 2-fold structure, framed by a prologue and an epilogue that pivots on Peter’s confession of faith at Caesarea Philippi.
 - Prologue
 - Establishing Jesus’ identity (Mk 1:1-8:26)
 - Takes place on and around the Sea of Galilee
 - As readers, we know exactly who Jesus is, for we are told in the proclamation of 1: 1—“Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . .”
 - The characters in the world of the narrative, however, aren’t privy to this information; they have to learn his identity
 - Chapters 1:1-8:26 provide dramatic evidence of Jesus’ messianic credentials
 - Peter’s confession of faith – turning point in the story (Mk 8:27-9:13)
 - At Caesarea Philippi, the disciples finally understand who Jesus
 - Peter confesses, “You are the Christ,”
 - The statement that is confirmed at the Mount of Transfiguration by the voice of God the Father in the presence of two credible witnesses, Moses and Elijah.
 - Implications of Jesus’ identity (Mk 9:14-16:20)
 - Story then moves south from the Sea of Galilee to Jerusalem
 - Concentration is on the implications of Jesus’ identity – both for the characters in the story and for the reader.
 - Epilogue

- A. Jesus’ appearances (16: 9-13)
- B. Jesus’ final commands to his disciples (16: 13-20)

Author – Mark

- John Mark
 - Not an apostle, but he was on the fringes of the group that followed Jesus.
 - Mary, Mark’s mother, was a disciple of Jesus
 - Mark is first mentioned in Acts 12: 12— “When this dawned on him [Peter], he went to the house of Mary, the mother of John, also called Mark, where many people had gathered and were praying.”
 - Mark was a nephew of Barnabas (Colossians 4:10)
 - Mark was the spiritual son of Peter (1 Peter 5:13).
- Mark joined Paul and Barnabas in A.D. 50 for the 1st missionary journey (Acts 13:5)

- Mark turned back at Perga (Acts 13:13).
 - Paul & Barnabas had a falling out over this at the time of the 2nd missionary journey (Acts 15: 37-39).
 - Barnabas took Mark and headed in the opposite direction of Paul
 - In Colossians 4:10, we hear that Mark is back in Paul's good graces
 - The letter was written 12 years after the falling out with Barnabas
 - In 2 Timothy 4:11, Paul writes from Rome: "Get Mark and bring him with you, because he is helpful to me in my ministry."
 - Paul's last letter before his death in A.D. 68
- The early church unanimously agreed that John Mark wrote the Gospel According to Mark.
 - Papias (c. A.D. 140) quotes an earlier source saying the following:
 - Mark was a close associate of Peter, from whom he received the things said and done by Jesus
 - These things did not come to Mark as a finished, sequential account of the life of Jesus, but they came from Peter's preaching.
- John Mark wrote for a Gentile audience, probably those who lived in Rome.
- Founded the Coptic church in Alexandria, Egypt

Biblical Placement

- Follows Matthew
 - Provides a very different point of view toward the events that transpire during Jesus' public ministry.
 - Although Matthew and Mark draw on the same source material, Mark does something quite different with his.
 - Matthew provides the door that brings the OT people into the NT
- Mark's narrative begins abruptly, and it moves ahead at break-neck speed, jolting to a stop with the women at the tomb who "did nothing, for they were afraid."
 - Mark's gospel is a sudden and dramatic proclamation
 - Mark's prose style is dramatic and abrupt
 - Dominated by short phrases linked with "and"
 - Pushed forward by the repetitive use of "immediately"
 - Use of the "historical present" tense – shifts from past tense to present
 - Gives a sense of urgency to the message
 - The Gospel According to Mark is far from being a "primitive" gospel; it is a brilliant narrative, crafted by a superb prose stylist.

Narrative Structure

- Mark's structure is purely linear—a straight line from beginning to end.
Who is this man? → Peter's confession of faith → What does it all mean?
- 2-fold structure, framed by a prologue and an epilogue that pivots on Peter's confession of faith at Caesarea Philippi.
 - Prologue
 - Establishing Jesus' identity (Mk 1:1-8:26)
 - Takes place on and around the Sea of Galilee
 - As readers, we know exactly who Jesus is, for we are told in the proclamation of 1: 1—"Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . ."
 - The characters in the world of the narrative, however, aren't privy to this information; they have to learn his identity
 - Chapters 1:1-8:26 provide dramatic evidence of Jesus' messianic credentials
 - Peter's confession of faith – turning point in the story (Mk 8:27-9:13)
 - At Caesarea Philippi, the disciples finally understand who Jesus

- Peter confesses, “You are the Christ,”
- The statement that is confirmed at the Mount of Transfiguration by the voice of God the Father in the presence of two credible witnesses, Moses and Elijah.
- Implications of Jesus’ identity (Mk 9:14-16:20)
 - Story then moves south from the Sea of Galilee to Jerusalem
 - Concentration is on the implications of Jesus’ identity – both for the characters in the story and for the reader.
- Epilogue

Prose Style

“And immediately coming up out of the water he saw the heavens being torn apart and the Spirit like a dove descending into him, and there was a voice out of the heavens: ‘You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well-pleased.’ And immediately the Spirit drives him out into the desert . . .”

- Mark’s prose style is dramatic and abrupt
- Repetitive use of “immediately”
 - Used 41 times – Pushes the story forward
 - “and immediately” – Used 25 of those 41 times
 - “immediately” piled on “and immediately” creates a sense of urgency
 - Example above
 - Notice the intense action – Jesus is coming up out of the water; he sees the heavens being torn apart; the Spirit descends into him; he hears the voice from heaven, and the Spirit drives him into the desert.
 - The entire sequence bristles with activity
 - Physical movement goes up, down and out
 - The senses see and hear
 - and immediately thrusts the action forward
- Use of the “historical present” tense – shifts from past tense to present
 - Gives a sense of urgency to the message
 - Mark uses the historical present 151 times, while Matthew uses it 93 times and Luke only 9
- Dramatic tension
 - Mark creates dramatic tension by providing us—and the demons—with important information that the rest of the characters in the story lack

Narrative Strategy

- In Mark, the narrator drives the story.
 - The story depends upon the narrator to drive the action and to develop the characters.
 - In a story of 11,022 words, the narrator speaks 5,826 of them — 53%,
 - Jesus speaks 36%
 - The rest of the characters 11%.

Prologue

- In these first 15 verses Mark sets the narrative pace, creates spring-tight tension and begins building an urgency that reaches fever-pitch by the Gospel’s end. This is dazzling technique, bathing Jesus and the gospel message in a white-hot light; incandescent and dangerous.
- The prologue sets the stage for the story that follows. In a brief fifteen verses—249 words in the Greek—Mark has drawn together threads of prophecy reaching back to Moses, positioning God’s anointed Son on the stage of history where he will alter it forever.

- This is a very literal translation of Mark's prologue translated from the Greek in the Nestle-Aland, Novum Testamentum Graeca, 28th edition, and I am striving to replicate the prose style, verb tenses and rhetorical devices as closely as possible:

The Gospel According to Mark: The Prologue, 1: 1-15

1 Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God, as 2 it has been written in Isaiah the prophet:

Look! I send my messenger before your face who will prepare your way; 3 a voice of one calling: "In the desert prepare the way of the Lord; make straight paths for him."

4 John, the one baptizing in the desert, appeared proclaiming a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins, 5 and the entire Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem were going out to him, and they were being baptized by him in the Jordan river confessing their sins and 6 John was clothed with camel's hair and had a leather belt around his waist and ate locusts and wild honey and 7 he spoke out saying: "After me comes one who is mightier than I, the thong of whose sandals I am not worthy of stooping down to loosen; 8 I have baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the Holy Spirit."

9 And it came to pass in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth in Galilee and was baptized in the Jordan by John, 10 and immediately coming up out of the water he saw the heavens being torn apart and the Spirit like a dove descending into him, 11 and there was a voice out of the heavens: "You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well-pleased." 12 And immediately the Spirit drives him out into the desert, 13 and he was in the desert forty days being tempted by Satan, and he was with the wild beasts, and the angels were ministering to him. 14 After John had been arrested Jesus came into Galilee proclaiming the gospel of God and 15 saying: "The appointed time has been fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is fast approaching; repent and believe in the gospel."

- In these first 15 verses of Mark
 - The narrator roots his story in history and prophecy
 - He identifies John the Baptist as the forerunner of the Messiah
 - He establishes Jesus as the Christ, the Son of God.
- Mark accomplishes three things in the prologue as a narrator
 - He dramatically proclaims the beginning of a new era in history
 - For half a millennium God's people waited for this time.
 - When Mark says, "Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God," he announces its arrival.
 - In a fusion of deft allusions, Mark first brings on stage the Lord's forerunner, who prepares the way of the Lord by "proclaiming a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins," and then he brings on the Lord himself, who announces that "the appointed time is fulfilled and the kingdom of God is fast approaching."
 - Throughout the rest of the gospel, we see the kingdom of God breaking into history, spreading its roots and taking hold.
 - Mark creates a dramatic tension by providing us—and the demons—with important information that the rest of the characters in the story lack.
 - We know that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, the one spoken of by the prophets.
 - We also know that he has been commissioned by God to act with divine authority and power.
 - Satan and the demons know it, too. But no one else in the story does!
 - Withholding such critical information sets the stage for conflict, not only between Jesus and the disciples, but also between the Jesus and the religious leaders and Jesus and the crowds.
 - In addition, it creates conflict between the reader and the characters in the story.
 - As we bring our inside information to each scene, we respond differently to the events from the way they do.

- When the disciples see Jesus calm the storm and they say, “Who is this, that even the wind and the lake obey him?” we want to say, “Can’t you see, he’s the Son of God!”
 - Or when he teaches in his own town and his neighbors say, “Where did this one get these things . . .?” we grow impatient at their lack of understanding and perhaps judge them harshly.
- As we are drawn into the story with our privileged information, we become complacent; when we reach the second half of the story, however, that complacency crumbles as we confront the meaning of who Jesus is and of what that implies, not only for the characters in the story, but for us.
- Mark’s prologue presents a dangerous terrain, and we move through it at break-neck speed.
 - In only fifteen verses we abruptly begin a story that:
 - Moves us back and forth from the deep desert
 - We see God commission Jesus for conflict
 - We encounter Satan and the wild beasts
 - We hear of John’s arrest.
 - If the world has indeed been given into Satan’s hands, he is not going to relinquish it willingly
 - The kingdom of God will be established at a high cost – the prologue casts the ominous shadow of that cost across the pages that follow.
 - When Jesus says that the kingdom of God “is fast approaching,” we experience the speed of the kingdom bearing down upon us. The sense of urgency is overwhelming.
 - Sentences begin with strong, active verbs; “immediately” piles on “immediately”
 - Phrases and sentences link together with “and”
 - The historical present thrusts past events to center stage
 - We rush through the story.
 - In such a fast-moving story, the plot shifts abruptly, looming dangers suddenly erupt, and we come head-to-head with the unexpected at random turns.
 - As readers we have to stay on our toes. On the one hand, we are lulled into complacency by our insider knowledge; on the other, we approach turns in the story so quickly that we easily skid off track.
- This is critical information to the story
 - In these first fifteen verses the narrator provides it to us, but not to the characters themselves: as the story opens, we become privy to information that the characters will have to discover.
 - Providing us with such important information while withholding it from the characters creates an enormous tension that runs throughout Mark’s story.
- We might think of these first fifteen verses as an introduction to the story proper.
 - The first 8 verses focus on John the Baptist and his mission as forerunner
 - A desert landscape sets the opening scene
 - We hear “a voice of one calling: ‘In the desert prepare the way of the Lord . . .,’” and John appears from deep within the desert, clad as the prophet Elijah and baptizing “the whole Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem” in the Jordan River.
 - Most translations translate this ‘prepare the way of the Lord; make straight paths for him,’” Isaiah 40:3, however, clearly reads: “A voice of one calling: ‘In the desert prepare the way for the Lord; make straight in the wilderness a highway for our God,’”
 - Associates the desert with the place where one prepares for the Lord, not the place from which the voice is calling.
 - I believe this best reflects Mark’s intent, for in the following verses John comes in from the desert and Jesus goes out to the desert.
 - The last 7 verses spotlight Jesus as the long-awaited Christ, the Son of God.
 - Story’s action moves from the desert to the fringes of civilization
 - The second half of the prologue moves the story from the edge of civilization back to the desert: Jesus is baptized at the Jordan and he is immediately driven deep into the desert “with the wild beasts,” where he confronts Satan.

- As Israel passes through the Red Sea in Exodus and faces conflict in the desert for forty years before entering the Promised Land, so does Jesus reverse the movement in Mark, leaving the Promised Land and passing through the Jordan River to face conflict in the desert for forty days.
- Mark begins with a sudden and dramatic proclamation: “Beginning the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God, as it has been written in Isaiah the prophet . . .”
 - The word “beginning” in Greek is the same word that begins Genesis, “in the beginning.”
 - Mark announces the start of the gospel with a proclamation that echoes Genesis 1:1, positioning the unfolding events at the beginning of creation itself
 - Anarthrous construction
 - Anarthrous construction – Grammatically, the lack of a definite article before a verb
 - It is relatively common in Greek
 - In Mark, no definite article precedes “beginning,”
 - Most translators supply it: “The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . .”
 - It serves to create an abrupt start, a sudden proclamation rather than a measured introduction
 - Throughout the prologue events rush forward; sentences begin with strong verbs; we find Mark’s first use of “immediately,” and he begins to employ the “historical present” to intensify the drama.

Mark’s gospel is anchored in the OT

- Mark’s prologue is a fusion of three texts: Exodus 23:20-21, Malachi 3:1 and Isaiah 40:3
 - This fusion of three texts in Mark’s opening produces a dazzling rhetorical effect.
- In Mark, “John, the one baptizing in the desert,” fulfills the prophecy in Isaiah, a prophecy that has its roots in the Exodus and in Israel’s covenant with God. When Mark proclaims “the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God, as it has been written in Isaiah the prophet,” Isaiah 40: 1-5, 9-11 is his point of reference.
- Mark’s sudden proclamation sets the stage for the intrusion of the gospel into history with a deft allusion that gathers up a long history of Messianic promise and drops it on the edge of the desert, on the bank of the Jordan River. In three short verses, Mark sets the stage for the Messiah’s entrance into the story.

Mark 1:2-3

Mk 1:2 ...Look! I send my messenger before your face who will prepare your way; 3 a voice of one calling: “In the desert prepare the way of the Lord; make straight paths for him.”

Exodus 23:20-21

God’s Angel to Prepare the Way – Ex 23:20 “See, I am sending an angel ahead of you to guard you along the way and to bring you to the place I have prepared. 21 Pay attention to him and listen to what he says. Do not rebel against him; he will not forgive your rebellion, since my Name is in him.

- Mark does not quote this, but it lies at the foundation of his reference.
- God has already freed his people from Egyptian slavery; he has given them his law at Mt. Sinai, and he is about to reaffirm his covenant with them. Before he does, though, he promises a guide who will lead them through the desert and into the land.
- God promises to send an “angel” to lead the way through the scorching heat, danger and desolation of the desert, an “angel” who will “go ahead of you and bring you into the land.”
 - In both Hebrew and Greek the word “angel” literally means messenger.
- The messenger that God sends to lead his people to the Promised Land in Exodus is a foreshadowing of the messenger promised in Malachi 3:1, the text that Mark quotes.

Malachi 3:1

Mal 3:1 “See, I will send my messenger, who will prepare the way before me. Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come,” says the LORD Almighty.

- The passage begins with the same imperative as Exodus 23:20 “See!”
- “I will send my messenger who will prepare the way before me”
 - Literally, “before the face of me,” a vivid Semitic idiom
 - Mark moves the line, with its idiom, directly to his text: “Look!” I send my messenger before your face who will prepare your way ...”
- Although Mark does not quote the second half of Malachi 3: 1, he does incorporate it into his reference by following the exact sequence of references:

	Mal 3:1	Mark 1:1-15
Speaker	God	God
Messenger prepares the way	Elijah (confirmed in 4:5)	John the Baptist
“will come to his temple”	“the Lord”	“Jesus Christ, Son of God”

Isaiah 40:3

Is 40:3 A voice of one calling: "In the desert prepare the way for the LORD; make straight in the wilderness a highway for our God.

- As we move into the second half of Mark’s quote, we at last encounter Isaiah the prophet
- The context here is extremely important.
 - King Hezekiah shows Babylon his palace
 - King Hezekiah has recovered from his illness and has received envoys congratulating him and bearing gifts from the king of Babylon. In gratitude—and pride—he shows them his palace, Is 39:2 “his storehouses—the silver, the gold, the spices, the fine oil, his entire armory and everything found among his treasures. There was nothing in his palace or in all his kingdom that Hezekiah did not show them”
 - Isaiah’s bone-chilling prophecy
 - Isaiah enters, asks what Hezekiah has done, and replies with a bone-chilling prophecy: Is 39:5 "Hear the word of the LORD Almighty: 6 The time will surely come when everything in your palace, and all that your fathers have stored up until this day, will be carried off to Babylon. Nothing will be left, says the LORD. 7 And some of your descendants, your own flesh and blood who will be born to you, will be taken away, and they will become eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon."
 - This terrible prophecy is literally fulfilled some 125 years later, when in 586 B.C. the Babylonians sack Jerusalem and carry the surviving population into captivity.
- Comfort for God's People
 - Is 40:1 Comfort, comfort my people, says your God. 2 Speak tenderly to Jerusalem, and proclaim to her that her hard service has been completed, that her sin has been paid for, that she has received from the LORD's hand double for all her sins. 3 A voice of one calling: "In the desert prepare the way for the LORD; make straight in the wilderness a highway for our God. 4 Every valley shall be raised up, every mountain and hill made low; the rough ground shall become level, the rugged places a plain. 5 And the glory of the LORD will be revealed, and all mankind together will see it. For the mouth of the LORD has spoken."
 - Here, God tells Israel that the time will come when her hard service will end, a time when there will be “a voice of one calling: ‘In the desert prepare the way for the Lord; make straight in the wilderness a highway for our God,’” a time when sin will be paid for.
 - The immediate reference is freedom from the Babylonian captivity; the eschatological reference is Messianic.
- If we move ahead a few verses we read more about the Lord who will come
 - Is 40:9 You who bring good tidings to Zion, go up on a high mountain. You who bring good tidings to Jerusalem, lift up your voice with a shout, lift it up, do not be afraid; say to the towns of Judah, "Here is your God!" 10 See, the Sovereign LORD comes with power, and his arm rules for him. See, his reward is with him, and his recompense accompanies him. 11 He tends his flock like a shepherd: He gathers the lambs in his arms and carries them close to his heart; he gently leads those that have young.

- The shepherd simile is striking, and we shall see it closely associated with Jesus as ark's story progresses.
- Verse 9, however, is especially significant to Mark's prologue: "You who bring good tidings to Zion . . . you who bring good tidings to Jerusalem."
 - "Good tidings" in the Hebrew is translated in the Greek as "gospel."
 - This is the verbal link between the "voice of one calling" in Isaiah 40: 3 and the "gospel" proclaimed in Mark.
- It is this "gospel" which is rooted back in the Old Testament and that bursts forth in the New that so frightens the characters who people Mark's story.
 - When Jesus stills the storm, his disciples are terrified, saying: "Who is this, that even the wind and the lake obey him?" (4:41)
 - When he drives out "Legion" from the demonized man, and the Gerasenes see the man "sitting down, clothed and in his right mind . . . they were terrified," (5:15)
 - When the women at the empty tomb are told to tell Peter and the disciples of Jesus' resurrection, "trembling and amazement gripped them, and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid" (16:8).
 - The intrusion of the gospel into daily life shocks and disorients those it touches: they draw back, frozen with fear, bewildered. Like a vector shot from eternity into history, the gospel intersects reality at precisely Mark's moment in time, accompanied by the proclamation: "Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God ..."

Gospel

- Mark proclaims God's entrance into history, and he calls it the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God.
 - "Gospel" is the key word in Mark's prologue
 - It is his theme, the very substance and message of his narrative.
- Inclusio – The word "gospel" frames the prologue, bracketing it at the beginning and the end.
 - So important is the "gospel" in Mark that it frames his prologue and provides the launching pad for the story proper: Verse 1 reads, "Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . .," and verse 15 closes with Jesus proclaiming the gospel of God, saying: "The time is fulfilled and the kingdom of God is fast approaching; repent and believe in the gospel"
- Gospel
 - The Greek term means far more than "good news" or "good report," as it originally meant in classical literature and as Paul uses it in 1 Thessalonians 3:6
 - In Mark it embodies the entire Christian message—the person, words and works of Jesus.

Heavens are "torn apart"

- In verse 10, the heavens are "torn apart" and the Spirit descends into Jesus.
- The word "torn" reappears in Mark 15:38 when, at the instant of Jesus' death, "the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom," giving access to God once for all.
- The Greek word is vigorous, violent, intense and dramatic
 - Pronounced skhid'-zo, from which we get the word "schizophrenic," a person who is "torn apart"
- Inclusio
 - It opens the story as Jesus enters the narrative
 - It closes the story as he exits.
 - Just as "gospel" frames the prologue, so does "torn apart" frame Mark's entire story.

Epilogue

Mark's gospel ends at 16: 8, but a longer ending was appended later as an "epilogue," written in a very different vocabulary and style, sometime between the gospel's original composition and the end of the 2nd century. Although clearly a later addition to the gospel, the verses are mentioned by the Church Fathers: St. Ambrose, St. Augustine and Peter Chrysologus; they are included in St. Jerome's Latin Vulgate; and the Roman Catholic Church accepted the verses as canonical at the 4th session of the Council of Trent (1546) in the document “Decretum de Canonicis Scripturis,” (“Decree on the Canon of Scripture”).

The book of Luke is a Gospel that contains Narrative History, Genealogy, Sermons, Parables, and some Prophetic Oracles. The emphasis of Luke is Parables and contains more of them than any other Gospel (19 total). It is the third of the synoptic gospels. Luke, a doctor and a Greek Christian, wrote it circa 59-61 A.D. He accompanied Paul on mission journeys, as described in the book of Acts, which Luke also wrote. The key word in Luke is "Son of Man" which is used 80 times.

The key personalities of the book include Jesus Christ, His parents Mary and Joseph, the Twelve Disciples, John the Baptist, Herod the Great, Jewish religious leaders, and Pilate.

This book was written to record an accurate account “so that you may know the exact truth” (1:4), of the life of Jesus Christ as the perfect Savior of the world. He wrote to the Greeks to present Jesus in His perfect manhood as the “Son of Man,” the Savior of all men.

- In chapters 1-4, Luke writes a very detailed account of the birth of Jesus, a common Christmas story, yet always fascinating. He then explains John the Baptist’s preparation of the coming Messiah, then Jesus’ baptism in the Jordan River, which transitions into Jesus’ beginning ministry in Galilee.
- Chapters 5-21 consist of the ministry of Jesus. As Jesus travels, He teaches, preaches, heals the sick, and brings hope to the desperate and discouraged. He was also seeking those who were obedient and faithful, such as the Roman Centurion who sincerely pleads with Jesus to heal his servant from a far distance, “just say the word, and my servant will be healed” (7:7). Jesus met many religious leaders who relentlessly opposed Him and constantly tried to trick and kill Him.

- In chapters 22-24, one of His own (Judas) betrays Jesus. He was unlawfully convicted by a dishonest and hateful court, and sentenced to an excruciating death. However, death could not hold Him and after three days He resurrected and arose from the grave, just as He had miraculously raised others during His ministry.

- C. Jesus appears to his disciples in the upper room (24:36-49)
- D. Transitional conclusion (24:50-53)

Author – Luke

- Luke is not mentioned as the author of The Gospel According to Luke or The Acts of the Apostles in the text of either work. Nevertheless, the early Church unanimously ascribed both works to him.
 - The oldest extant copy of the gospel, p⁷⁵, which is dated A.D. 175-225, is titled “Gospel according to Luke”
 - The Muratorian Canon, dated A.D. 170-180, attributes the gospel to Luke and also identifies him as a physician and Paul’s companion
 - Tertullian, writing in the first decade of the third century, notes Luke as the author of the gospels
 - A steady stream of later tradition supports these earlier ascriptions.

Papyrus Bodmer (P⁷⁵) is the oldest surviving manuscript of the Gospel according to Luke, dating c. 175-225. It consists of 102 leaves, in whole or in part, and about half the text of Luke (3: 18 – 24: 53, with missing fragments) and John. In the above illustration we see where Luke ends and John begins. The manuscript resides at the Vatican Library.

- Luke is only mentioned on three occasions in scripture itself.
 - In Philemon 24 he is included among Paul’s “fellow workers.”
 - In Colossians 4:14, Paul refers to him as “our dear friend Luke, the doctor,” where he also includes him among his gentile helpers.
 - In 2 Timothy 4:11 he appears as Paul’s sole companion while Paul awaits death in Rome.
- The author of Luke-Acts includes his narrator among the travelers on Paul’s second missionary journey, joining them in Troas. As he tells his story, his pronouns shift from “they” to “we”:

Paul's Vision of the Man of Macedonia

Act 16:6 Paul and his companions traveled throughout the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been kept by the Holy Spirit from preaching the word in the province of Asia. 7 When they came to the border of Mysia, they tried to enter Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus would not allow them to. 8 So they passed by Mysia and went down to Troas. 9 During the night Paul had a vision of a man of Macedonia standing and begging him, "Come over to Macedonia and help us." 10 After Paul had seen the vision, we got ready at once to leave for Macedonia, concluding that God had called us to preach the gospel to them.

- From this point on, the pronouns include our narrator who places himself with Paul for eighteen years, from the second missionary journey (A.D. 50-52) through Paul’s death in Rome (A.D. 68).
- In Luke and Acts, our author does not identify himself, although I am content to view him as Luke, the “beloved physician” and traveling companion of Paul, as tradition holds. The narrator, however, is a distinct creation of our author.

Authenticity

- Textual criticism – Reconstructs the ancient texts based upon the manuscripts that do exist

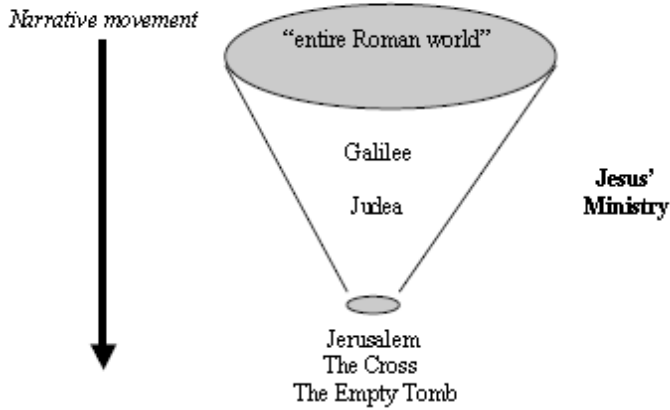

- Presently there are:
 - Over 5,800 complete or fragmented Greek New Testament manuscripts
 - Over 10,000 Latin manuscripts
 - Over 9,300 manuscripts in other languages
- These manuscripts date from AD 125 to the beginning of printing (1450)
 - The vast majority date after the 10th century AD

Narrative Structure

Narrative strategy

- A narrator takes the place of the author
 - Once we leave the prologue, the narrative voice abruptly shifts from first person to third person.
 - Shifting the narrative voice in such a fashion draws attention to what follows and it emphasizes the deliberate creation of a third person narrator, distinct from the voice in the opening lines.
 - This is the mark of a very sophisticated author.
 - Some critics have seen in this shift a gospel editor trained in classical rhetoric who was more interested in compiling sources than in crafting a narrative. See for example, W.L. Knox, Some Hellenistic Elements in Primitive Christianity. (London: Oxford University Press, 1944), Lecture 1. However, as Eduard Norden points out in Die Antike Kunstprosa, (Stuttgart: B.G. Teubner, 1958), 2:483, the reader is very aware that the author could have told his story in a superb classical style but did not. From a literary perspective, the shift in style and person suggests the intentional introduction of a third person narrator.
- Characters drive the story, not the narrator
 - 19,165 words in Luke
 - Narrator speaks only 7,690 words—40%,
 - Jesus speaks 47%
 - Rest of the characters 13%. In Mark, the narrator drives the story; in Luke, the characters do, reflecting a fundamentally different narrative strategy.
- Luke anchors his story in time by including time markers of events:
 - Lk 1:5 In the time of Herod king of Judea
 - Lk 2:1 In those days Caesar Augustus issued a decree that a census should be taken of the entire Roman world
 - Lk 3:1 In the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar—when Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea, Herod tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and Traconitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene—
- Luke incorporates parables into his narrative
 - All synoptic gospels include parables, but Luke includes several the others do not
 - In Luke, parables are a main feature of the narrative landscape
- Structurally, Luke-Acts make up one unified work, each the mirror image of the other.
 - Narrative structure looks like an hourglass
 - Census of the entire Roman world → Galilee/Judea → Jerusalem → The Cross → the empty tomb
 - Ascension → Jerusalem → Paul's journeys to spread the Gospel → our mission to spread the Gospel to the ends of the earth

Luke

Acts

Distinct, identifiable (Lukan) voices

- Distinct, identifiable voices for his narrator and his characters
 - Every story has at least 4 basic perspectives
 1. Author – Fashions the story
 2. Narrator – Tell the story
 3. Characters – Populate the story
 4. Reader – Experiences the story
- The author carefully develops distinct, identifiable voices for his narrator and his characters.
 - Like Mark Twain in Huckleberry Finn or William Faulkner in his Yoknapatawpha County stories, our Luke-Acts author creates voices for his narrator and characters that position them in time, distinguish them from one another and define who they are.
 - James M. Dawsey provides an excellent and comprehensive analysis of the voices in The Lukan Voice, Confusion and Irony in the Gospel of Luke (Macon, Georgia: Mercer University Press, 1986).
 - Very few (if any, at all) ancient literature writers use this technique

Author

- Though not positively identified in the story, it is traditionally held that Luke wrote this gospel
- Tells us the purpose and method of his work
- Tells us to who the work is addressed

Introduction

In as much as many have undertaken to draw up an account of the things that have been fulfilled among us, just as they were handed down to us by those who from the first were eyewitnesses and servants of the word, it seemed good to me also, having carefully investigated everything from the beginning, to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus, so that you may know the certainty of the things you have been taught. (Bill's translation)

- This introduction tells us several things:

Narrator

- Casual, oral voice
 - Unlike the formal voice in the prologue, the narrator's voice speaks words of few syllables in relatively short sentences consisting of clauses strung together by "and" and "but."
 - After he is introduced in 1:5, we find that his voice throughout is best characterized as an oral voice, that is, the voice of one who is telling his story aloud, rather than writing it.
 - Of the roughly 1,260 particles in the narrator's speech, 1,064 are one or the other.
 - This is not acceptable practice in written Greek, but it is very characteristic of oral Greek.
 - Recall that the use of "and" (often followed by "immediately") characterizes Mark's gospel as well. In Mark, however, it is much more than an indication of oral speech: it is a distinct feature of the narrator's written prose style, as I have argued in my introduction to Mark.
 - Of the 11,022 words in Mark, 1,084 of them are "and"—10%
 - Mark uses "immediately" 41 times
 - Mark's use is clearly exaggerated—even for oral language—and thus suggests a deliberate construct.
 - Of the 19,165 words in Luke, 1,435 are "and"—7%. Mark uses "immediately" 41 times;
 - Luke uses "immediately" only once.
 - The narrator's voice is distinctly "Christian"
 - In writing his story our author seems to have constructed a recognizably "Christian" narrator, one who speaks in a colloquial, oral voice, one who observes the characters in the story, who moves them from place to place, and who comments upon their actions and attitudes from a believer's perspective.
 - He uses formulaic constructions that hardly ever appear in the direct speech of the story's characters and are unusual outside of a Christian context
 - Examples: 1) "and it happened" 2) "answering, he said" 3) "and behold," 4) "when," with an infinitive 5) "praising God" and 6) "in that hour."
 - Such formulaic constructions identify the narrator as part of a believing community, much as the use of current "Christian jargon" identifies one as a believer today.

Jesus

- When we turn to Jesus we find a very different voice from that of the narrator.
- Jesus speaks the language of ordinary people in Luke
 - Creating a distinctive voice for Jesus is a difficult task, for any author runs the risk of turning him into a caricature, as John nearly does in his gospel when he places such unnatural phrases in Jesus' mouth as "Verily, verily I say unto you."
 - Rather than speaking in the unnatural or formulaic phrases of a believing community, Jesus speaks the language of ordinary people in Luke.
 - James Dawsey numbers 212 instances of popular phrasing in Jesus' speech.
 - Of those instances, 47 parallel Mark or Matthew, but the words themselves do not occur in either of those gospels, while 87 instances are unique to Luke.
 - Our author clearly has not taken the phrasing from his sources, but has deliberately used the phrasing to characterize Jesus' speech.
- Jesus' speech takes the form of a pronouncement or a question

- Although Jesus speaks the language of common people, the style of his speech is far from common.
- Notice how often in Luke Jesus' speech takes the form of a pronouncement or a question.
- Examples
 - Repent or Perish (Lk 13:1-9)
 - Crippled woman Jesus heals on the Sabbath (Lk 13:10-17)
- Of the eighty-some questions in Jesus' speech in Luke, nearly all are posed rhetorically.
 - Their answers do not depend upon Jesus' ability to construct logical, rational or clever arguments; they rely solely upon his authority as the speaker.
 - In this sense, we might say that in Luke Jesus speaks prophetically, wielding the authority of God himself through his words.

Prologue / Introduction (Lk 1-4)

In as much as many have undertaken to draw up an account of the things that have been fulfilled among us, just as they were handed down to us by those who from the first were eyewitnesses and servants of the word, it seemed good to me also, having carefully investigated everything from the beginning, to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus, so that you may know the certainty of the things you have been taught. (Luke 1-4)

- Creasy's translation – In the Greek, this is all 1 sentence.
- Author tells us the purpose and method of his work, and he also tells us to whom it is addressed
- Notice several things about this 'prologue.'
 - Our author knows that others have written works on the same subject
 - Based upon "eyewitness" accounts and those provided by "servants of the word."
 - A careful, word-by-word comparison of Luke with Matthew and Mark suggests that our author used The Gospel According to Mark as one of his primary sources
 - He also used The Gospel According to Matthew—or a source common to both—for additional material.
 - Moreover, Luke includes considerable material not mentioned in either Mark or Matthew, suggesting that our author drew on other sources, perhaps both written and oral.
 - Our author tells us that, using these sources, he "carefully investigated everything from the beginning" and that he wishes to arrange them in an "orderly account."
 - He writes for a very specific audience, a man named "Theophilus," who apparently is a recent believer.
 - He writes in order that Theophilus may know "the certainty of the things he has been taught," suggesting that his work is a factually accurate one, designed to provide a solid foundation for Theophilus's new faith.
 - Like a good historian, he carefully provides context for his narrative, creating a strong sense of verisimilitude and authorial credibility.
- Note, too, the prose style of this preface:
 - It is a single carefully structured sentence consisting of forty two words in Greek
 - Arranged in a very symmetrical, balanced fashion, with a protasis (verses 1 & 2) and an apodosis (verses 3 & 4), each containing three parallel phrases, all written in the first person.
 - Look at a schematic diagram of the sentence:

In as much as many have undertaken
 to draw up an account of the things that have been fulfilled among us, just as they were handed down to us by those who from the first were eyewitnesses and servants of the word, it seemed good to me also having investigated everything from the beginning, to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus, so that you may know the certainty of the things you have been taught.

- Notice the formal contrast between “many” and “me also,” between “draw up an account” and “write an orderly account” and the secondary subordinate clauses in both the protasis and apodosis, “just as”/ “so that.”
 - This is superb Greek—some of the best in the New Testament.
 - It is certainly the work of a writer trained in classical Greek rhetoric, who chooses to introduce his story in a clearly defined, classical style.
- Significantly, this is the last time we will encounter the first person, classical voice in Luke-Acts
 - Beginning with verse 5, the narrative becomes colloquial, with Semitic idioms and strings of coordinate clauses taking the place of the balanced and highly structured opening sentence.
 - The author starts with a distinct first person classical style to introduce his story and then how abruptly shifts that style to a third person colloquial one to distinguish himself from the narrator he creates

The book of John is a Gospel that contains Narrative History, Sermons, Parables, and a few Prophetic Oracles. It was written by the Disciple/Apostle John around 85-95 A.D. The key personalities of this book are Jesus Christ, His Twelve Disciples, Mary Magdalene, John the Baptist, Lazarus, his sisters Mary and Martha, Jewish religious leaders, and Pilate.

It was written so that all may believe in Jesus Christ the Son of God who gives eternal life. John's gospel uses the word “Believe” 98 times and the word “Life” 36 times, in an effort to embed the importance that one must believe in order to live eternally. John is not one of the three synoptic (common view) gospels, but instead was written with a more theological substance, yet equally as inspired and important as the first three gospels.

- Chapter 1 is the preamble of the Messiah's coming ministry. John gives clear evidence that Jesus is more than just a man, "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God" (1:1). John then describes that the "Word" is Jesus who became a man to "live among us" (1:14). The beginning verses in the first chapter teaches us that Jesus is more than just a man who came into existence but rather, He is infinite God.
- Chapters 2-12 consist of Jesus' ministry. He meets with a religious leader named Nicodemus and teaches him that no one can enter the Kingdom of Heaven unless they have are personally "Born-Again" (3:3). Several times throughout the book, Jesus claims that He Himself is God, "I am the Father are one" (10:30). Jesus also repeats and applies to Himself, the Jehovaic statement, "I AM" as found in Exodus 3:14, for example, when Jesus declares, "I am the resurrection and the life" (11:25), "I am the way the truth and the life" (14:6), "I am the door" (10:9), and "I am the bread of life" (6:35).
 - I am the bread of life (6:48)
 - I am the light of the world (8:12)
 - I am the door (10:9)
 - I am the good shepherd (10:11)
 - I am the resurrection and the life (11:25)
 - I am the way, the truth and the life (14:6)
 - I am the true vine (15:1)
- The events in Chapters 13-17 occur less than 24 hours before Jesus' death. They describe the details of the Last Supper with Jesus and His disciples. Jesus taught many important topics to the Disciples during this time. Some of these were topics about the Kingdom, and about the work of the Holy Spirit that would be sent to them. He also prays for Himself, His disciples, and for all the future believers.
- Chapters 18-21 portray the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. In these final chapters, He is on trial and then convicted illegally. After which He is appallingly beaten, humiliated, and then crucified. Jesus resurrected and arose from the tomb and appeared to Mary Magdalene and to His disciples. When John finishes his gospel he writes one of the most amazing truths about Jesus Christ, "And there are many other things which Jesus did, which if they were written in detail, I suppose that even the world itself would not contain the books that would be written" (21:25).
- John provides a summary of what it was that he felt – what it was that he understood about Jesus of Nazareth
 - Jn 1:1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.
 - 60 years of reflecting upon who Jesus was/is

John the Baptist

- End of the Old Testament is a prediction that John the Baptist will come

Mal 4:5 "See, I will send you the prophet Elijah before that great and dreadful day of the LORD comes. ⁶ He will turn the hearts of the fathers to their children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers; or else I will come and strike the land with a curse."

- John's mission is distinct and well-defined:
 - He prepares "the way of the Lord" making "straight paths for him,"
 - He does so by "proclaiming a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins."
 - The grammatical construction of "baptism of repentance"
 - "Repentance" in the genitive ("of repentance")
 - Defines and qualifies the baptism that John proclaims.
 - Hence, the baptism itself expresses repentance.
 - Enters the story very abruptly in Mark
 - The verse starts with a strong verb, appeared.
 - A literal translation would render the verse: "Appeared John, the one baptizing in the desert . . ."
 - In Mark we know nothing of John's history: he simply walks out of the Old Testament and appears on the pages of the New, proclaiming "a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins."
 - Placing the verb at the head of the sentence in the Greek intensifies the action and the suddenness of John's appearance.
 - John's message drew the entire Judean countryside
 - John's message at the Jordan is so compelling that "the entire Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem were going out to him."
 - A literal translation reads, "and were going out to him the entire Judean countryside . . ."
 - Again, the verb sits at the head of the verse in the Greek, stressing action
 - The imperfect tense ("were going out") stresses the continuous stream of people flowing out to hear John
 - "The entire Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem" is striking in its sheer boldness
 - John's preaching does not draw a curious few, but thousands flock to him.
 - The structure and word order of the Greek phrase emphasize the large number of people who went out to hear John. It reads:

entire

Judean countryside

and the Jerusalemites

B'

all
A'
 - "Entire" and "all" frame a chiastic phrase
 - Emphasizes the larger Judean countryside with the capital city of Jerusalem inside it
 - Josephus also suggests something of the effect that John had when he reports that the crowds he drew were so large that Herod became alarmed.

[John] "had so great an effect on mankind [that Herod was afraid] it might lead to some form of sedition, for it looked as if [the crowds] would be guided in everything that they did. Herod decided therefore that it would be much better to strike first and be rid of him before his work led to an uprising" (Antiquities 18. 117).
- Prophet
 - Dressed in camel's hair with a leather belt around his waist and eating locusts and wild honey, John presents a striking prophetic figure

- Elijah - 2 Kings 1:8 They replied, "He was a man with a garment of hair and with a leather belt around his waist." The king said, "That was Elijah the Tishbite."
- John the Baptist was prophesized in Malachi, Matthew

Birth of John the Baptist

- John precedes the Messiah - Preparing “the way of the Lord” and making “straight paths for him”
- Both Mark and Luke link the story of John the Baptist to Isaiah 40:3-5, identifying John’s arrival as the fulfillment of a seven-hundred year old prophecy.
- Every one of the Gospel writers start with John the Baptist (after the introductions)
 - You can’t understand Jesus without John – If we’re going to receive Jesus as your savior, you need John the Baptist to prepare the way through repentance
- The offer (1:5-17)
 - Gabriel speaks with Zachariah (1:5-25)
 - Zachariah’s question (1:18)
 - Gabriel’s response (1:19-20)
 - The result (1:21-25)

Parallels to Exodus

- It has been about 400 years since Malachi
- The Israelites go to the wilderness to be saved

Zechariah and Elizabeth

- Zechariah means ‘the Lord has remembered’
- Elizabeth was barren
 - There is a theme in the Bible of women who are unable to have children, who, by miraculous intervention by God, are able to have children – All lead up to the birth of Jesus by miraculous intervention
 - Sarah/Abraham – Isaac
 - Rebekah/Isaac – Jacob
 - Rachel/Jacob – Joseph
 - Sampson
 - Hanne – Samuel
 - Elizabeth – John

Gabriel speaks with Zachariah (Lk 1:5-25)

- Zechariah goes to the Temple for his 2 week reserve duty
 - He is chosen by lot to offer the prayers of the people before God
 - Very rare privilege – probably the only time that he ever had done it
 - Best job at the Temple – to enter the Temple & offer the prayers of the people on the Alter of Incense before God
 - Happens twice / day – once in the morning and once in the evening
 - Incense – Symbolic of the prayers of the people
 - This is what a priest is born to do – remember that a priest must be born into the tribe of Levi – but chances are still VERY slim that you will be chosen for this job – happens by lot
- Gabriel
 - Angel means ‘messenger’
 - Gabriel seems to have the job description of delivering messages about the birth of the Messiah
 - We meet him for the 1st time in Daniel 8 and 9
 - The structure exactly parallels his message to Elizabeth

The offer (Lk 1:5-17)

Zachariah's question (Lk 1:18)

Gabriel's response (Lk 1:19-20)

The result (Lk 1:21-25)

- Zechariah is rendered speechless (and possibly deaf)
 - Why is Zechariah rebuked but Mary is not? Because he did not believe his words
 - No difference in the outward words, but Gabriel knew their hearts
 - Great blessing – he is given a period of silence to ponder the events – to ponder the magnitude of what is about to happen
 - Elizabeth is also rendered speechless?
 - Not the only one that will be plunged into silence

Zechariah's song (Benedictus) (Lk 1:67-79)

- Great song of praise for God's salvation
- Themes
 - God is fulfilling every OT prophecy right now
 - John's Ministry – Prepare the Lord's way – Repentance unto forgiveness

John is born

- Birth of John the Baptist (Lk 1:57-80)
- Named him John at his circumcision
 - Not named after anyone in the family – very abnormal
 - Zechariah's can speak after he writes on a tablet that his name is to be John

Lifelong Nazirite

- Set apart for a Holy purpose – Turn people to God – repentance
- John is a lifelong Nazirite (Nazirite from birth)
 - Only Sampson, Samuel and John the Baptist
 - Nazirite vow – Numbers 6:1-21
 - Nu 6:1 ... 'If a man or woman wants to make a special vow, a vow of separation to the LORD as a Nazirite, 3 he must abstain from wine and other fermented drink and must not drink vinegar made from wine or from other fermented drink. He must not drink grape juice or eat grapes or raisins. 4 As long as he is a Nazirite, he must not eat anything that comes from the grapevine, not even the seeds or skins. 5 " 'During the entire period of his vow of separation no razor may be used on his head. He must be holy until the period of his separation to the LORD is over; he must let the hair of his head grow long. 6 Throughout the period of his separation to the LORD he must not go near a dead body
 - John is to be a lifelong Nazirite
 - Lk 1:13 But the angel said to him: "Do not be afraid, Zechariah; your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you are to give him the name John. 14 He will be a joy and delight to you, and many will rejoice because of his birth, 15 for he will be great in the sight of the Lord. He is never to take wine or other fermented drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit even from birth. 16 Many of the people of Israel will he bring back to the Lord their God. 17 And he will go on before the Lord, in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the fathers to their children and the disobedient to the wisdom of the righteous—to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

Qumran

- Lk 1:80 And the child grew and became strong in spirit; and he lived in the desert until he appeared publicly to Israel.
 - Zechariah and Elizabeth lived in the hill country of Judea, not the desert
 - Zechariah and Elizabeth were very old and probably died when he was young
- Qumran
 - Dessert just across the valley from Judea
 - Probably an Essene community – Quasi monastic community
 - The Essenes in Qumran lived very ascetic lives, much like John
 - What they taught at Qumran is very similar to what John taught and preached
- All male community
 - How do your numbers increase? Take in orphans
 - Zechariah and Elizabeth were very old when John was born – probably died when he was young
 - Qumran was just across the valley from Jericho where Zechariah and Elizabeth lived

Qumran, most probably an Essene community, where the Dead Sea Scrolls were discovered in 1946/47. This is Cave #4.

Ritual immersion

- Cleansing one's self by ritual immersion dates back to the purification laws in Leviticus.
- The Essenes practiced ritual immersion in a Mikevh, or ritual bath.
- There were ten mikva'ot at Qumran.
- Probably the precursor to baptism
- Scripture presents many examples:
 - A man or woman with a bodily discharge must wait seven days and then cleanse him/her self by immersion in "living water" (Leviticus 15);
 - In the David & Bathsheba story, when David see Bathsheba "she had been purifying herself from her monthly uncleanness" (2 Samuel 11);
 - The prophet Elisha tells Naaman, the commander of Aram's military, to dip himself seven times in the Jordan to cleanse himself of leprosy (2 Kings 5);
 - Jesus tells the leper he cures to present himself to the priest and offer the gift prescribed, which includes ritual immersion. (Matthew 8).

This is a Mikevh at Masada, Israel.

- Ritual immersion at Qumran, however, went considerably beyond the scriptural prescriptions.
 - Ceremonial purification was an integral part of community life among the Essenes, as indicated by the “Community Rule” found in Cave 1 (Q1S).
 - Ritual immersion was used for:
 - Initiation
 - Annual renewal
 - Daily purification

Dead Sea Scrolls

- Work that the community did was copying the Biblical scrolls to sell for food

John’s Message

Repent

Repenting is being sorry for sin AND turning away from your sin
 Changing the direction that your life is going
 Produce fruit – Show that you have changed your life

Impending judgement

If you don’t repent, you will be judged
 Creates a healthy dose of fear

Personal application

Being Jewish does not make you a child of Abraham

A true child of Abraham is someone that has the faith of Abraham
Brood of vipers = Satan's spawn
John 8
God has no grandchildren

Jesus

Jesus, separate from Jesus, will mean nothing
When you believe, you are baptized in your soul
Water represents what the Holy Spirit does in your hearts

Baptism

- Signs of the Old and New Covenants – Circumcision compared to baptism

Comparison Between Circumcision and Baptism

Circumcision (Old Covenant)		Baptism (New Covenant)
Has God's Command: Genesis 17:11 - Linked to faith: Deuteronomy 4:2		Has God's Command: Matthew 28:19-20 - Linked to faith: Mark 16:16; John 3:3-18
Physical Aspect: Genesis 17:11 - Removal of foreskin - Shedding of blood – reached forward to sacrifice for sin		Physical Aspect: 1 Peter 3:20-21, Titus 3:5 - Washing of water - Cleansing – Reaches back to sacrifice for sin: 1 Peter 3:20-21, Titus 3:5
God's Promise: Brought one into God's Old Covenant of salvation - Genesis 17:9-14		God's Promise: Brings one into God's New Covenant of salvation - John 3:3-7, 1 Peter 3:20-21, Titus 3:5
How Often: Once - Can't have 2 nd circumcision		How Often: Once - Ephesians 4:5: "one baptism"
Normative Age: Infant (on 8 th day) - Leviticus 12:3		Normative Age: Infant - Matthew 28:19-20 ("all" includes infants)
Exception to Norm: Adult Converts		Exception to Norm: Adult Converts

- John the Baptist took ritual immersion even further than ritual purification.
- Water associations with baptism – All linked by being God's visible covenant community
 - Sign of chaos – God hovered over the water (chaos) when He created the earth
 - Flood – Covenant of works was broken by Adam and Eve, Covenant of grace took over
 - Exodus – Red sea parted – Brought Israelites through death (sea) and into life
 - Crossing of the Jordan – Israelites coming into God's promises
 - Jesus' death and resurrection
- John's baptism was an initiation rite, requiring a candidate:
 - To reflect upon the condition of his soul;
 - To feel remorse for his sins;
 - To confess his sins;
 - To repent of his sins;
 - To show the fruits of his repentance;

- To prepare for the coming of the “Righteous One,” Christ; and
- To be incorporated into the covenant community by being baptized, fully immersed in water (Greek, baptidzo = “to dip”).
- “Baptism” is an act signifying “repentance,” or metanoia – A deliberate turning away from sin and toward God.
 - It is not a casual move but a deliberate one, accompanied by a cleansing with water.
 - First one repents; then one is baptized.

Baptism and repentance point TOWARD the forgiveness of sins

- Repentance and baptism precede “the forgiveness of sins” and point toward it; they do not accompany it or cause it.
 - The usual translation, “a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins,” misses the meaning entirely.
 - Together, baptism and repentance point toward the forgiveness of sins, not for the forgiveness of sins
 - The preposition toward “denotes the direction of an action to a specific end.”
 - A correct translation should emphasize the proper relationship: “a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins.”
- Only the Lord who will follow John can forgive sin, and it is in this sense that John prepares his way.
 - When John says, “After me comes one who is mightier than I . . . I have baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the Holy Spirit,” he supports the sequence of his “baptism of repentance” preceding Jesus’ “forgiveness of sins.”
- John’s message and actions lay the foundation for the work that Jesus will do.
 - John’s baptism in water precedes Jesus’ baptism in the Holy Spirit; it prepares the way and ushers in Jesus Christ, Son of God.

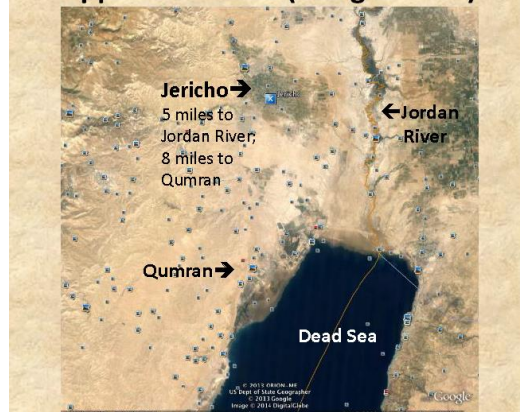

Baptism in the Old Testament

- Baptism itself does not appear in the Old Testament
- It has its antecedent in ritual cleansing of leprosy
 - Leprosy is an emblem of sin in the Old Testament
 - When a person who has been cured of leprosy “must wash his clothes, shave off all his hair and bathe with water; then he will be ceremonially clean” (Leviticus 14: 8),
 - Elisha commands Naaman to wash himself seven times in the Jordan: “So he went down and dipped himself in the Jordan seven times, as the man of God had told him, and his flesh was restored and became clean like that of a young boy” (2 Kings 5: 10, 14).
 - In the Naaman story the LXX translates the Hebrew “dipped” as baptisma; in both instances the cleansing involves leprosy, an emblem of sin in the Old Testament.
- Ez 36:25 I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you will be clean; I will cleanse you from all your impurities and from all your idols. 26 I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you; I will remove from you your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. 27 And I will put my Spirit in you and move you to follow my decrees and be careful to keep my laws.

John was baptizing in the wilderness

- Baptizing at the Jordan River opposite of Jericho
 - Major crossing point of the Jordan River during trip to Jerusalem
 - Not baptizing in the middle of nowhere
- A delegation from Jerusalem was sent to see what John was doing
- When John’s work was done, he stepped back and let Jesus take over
 - Jn 3:22-30

John was baptizing in the Jordan River, opposite Jericho (Google Earth)

John is arrested

John 3:22

I must become less so that Jesus can become more
His whole purpose was to prepare people for Jesus

Lk 3:19 But when John rebuked Herod the tetrarch because of Herodias, his brother's wife, and all the other evil things he had done, 20 Herod added this to them all: He locked John up in prison.

- When Jesus steps on stage, John steps off
 - “John had been arrested ...” The eschatological conflict is not without casualties.
 - This exit plants a seed of concern about the cost of the coming conflict
- “deliver up”
 - John’s arrest also foreshadows things to come
 - It is a legal term used about the police and the courts.
 - The verb “deliver up” occurs 20 times in Mark
 - It is the same term Jesus uses when he says: “The Son of Man is betrayed [literally, “delivered up”] into the hands of men, and they will kill him, and having been killed, after three days, he will arise” (Mark 9:31)
 - It is the same term he uses when he is arrested in Gethsemane: “Look, the Son of Man is betrayed [“delivered up”] into the hands of sinners. Rise up, let us go. See, the one betraying [“delivering up”] me is at hand” (Mark 14:41-42).

John sends servants to question Jesus

- John is related to Jesus – He was a cousin of Jesus
 - Lk 1:36 Even Elizabeth your relative is going to have a child in her old age, and she who was said to be barren is in her sixth month.
 - Elizabeth was maybe Mary’s aunt
- John knows Jesus
 - Lk 1:39 At that time Mary got ready and hurried to a town in the hill country of Judea

- Elizabeth lives in the hill country of Judea – 100 miles, 3 days journey – on the way to Jerusalem
 - They grew up together – they saw each other 3 times a year on their travels to Jerusalem
- John is questioning Jesus – He did not understand why Jesus was not doing what John expected
 - Mt 11:2 When John heard in prison what Christ was doing, he sent his disciples 3 to ask him, "Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect someone else?"
 - Doubt is OK – we are encouraged to question God
 - Jesus encourages John
 - Mt 11:4 Jesus replied, "Go back and report to John what you hear and see: 5 The blind receive sight, the lame walk, those who have leprosy are cured, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the good news is preached to the poor. 6 Blessed is the man who does not fall away on account of me."
- Jesus praises John
 - Mt 11:11 I tell you the truth: Among those born of women there has not risen anyone greater than John the Baptist; yet he who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.
 - John is the greatest man born of woman
 - Anyone that has been born again – and is a citizen in the kingdom of God – is greater than anyone born into this world
- Jesus condemn the world – there's no making them happy
 - John came and didn't eat or drink – they didn't like him
 - Jesus came and did eat and drink – they didn't like him
 - They are a generation of people that want to be unhappy

Jesus is the Messiah

Be of the offspring of the woman; shall bruise the serpent's head	Genesis 3:14, 15 So the LORD God said to the serpent . . . "And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head , and you will strike his heel."	Galatians 4:4 But when the time had fully come, God sent his Son, born of a woman , born under law, Hebrews 2:14 Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death . . . that is, the devil . 1 John 3:8 He who does what is sinful is of the devil, because the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work .
All nations shall be blessed through Abraham	Genesis 18:17, 18 Then the LORD said . . . "Abraham will surely become a great and powerful nation, and all nations on earth will be blessed through him ." Also Genesis 12:3; 22:18; 26:4; 28:14	Acts 3:25, 26 " . . . He said to Abraham, 'Through your offspring all peoples on earth will be blessed .' When God raised up his servant, he sent him first to you to bless you . . ." Also Matthew 1:1, 17; Galatians 3:16
Be of the tribe of Judah	Genesis 49:8-10 "Judah, your brothers will praise you . . . The sceptre will not depart from Judah , nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, until he comes to whom it belongs and the obedience of the nations is his." Micah 5:2 "But you, Bethlehem Ephratah, though you are small among the clans of Judah , out of you will come for me one who will be ruler over Israel , whose origins are from of old, from ancient times."	Matthew 1:1-3 A record of the genealogy of Jesus Christ the son of David, the son of Abraham . . . Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers, Judah the father of Perez and Zerah . . . Hebrews 7:14 For it is clear that our Lord descended from Judah . Revelation 5:5 Then one of the elders said to me, "Do not weep! See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah , the Root of David, has triumphed. He is able to open the scroll and its seven seals."
Be born in the town of Bethlehem of Judea (Judah)	Micah 5:2-5 "But you, Bethlehem Ephratah, though you are small among the clans of Judah , out of you will come for me one who will be ruler over Israel, whose origins are from of old, from ancient times." . . .	Matthew 2:1-6 After Jesus was born in Bethlehem in Judea , during the time of King Herod, Magi from the east came to Jerusalem and asked, "Where is the one who has been born king of the Jews? . . ."

A child to be born	Isaiah 9:6 For to us a child is born . . . he will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God . . .	Luke 2:11 Today in the town of David a Saviour has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord.
Be born of a virgin	Isaiah 7:13, 14 Then Isaiah said, "Hear now, you house of David! Is it not enough to try the patience of men? Will you try the patience of my God also? Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: The virgin will be with child and will give birth to a son, and will call him Immanuel (God with us)."	Matthew 1:18-23 . . . His mother Mary was pledged to be married to Joseph, but before they came together, she was found to be with child through the Holy Spirit. Luke 1:26-35 . . . God sent the angel . . . to a virgin pledged to be married to a man named Joseph, a descendant of David. The virgin's name was Mary. . . .
Kings shall bring him gifts, fall down before him	Psalms 72:10, 11 The kings of Tarshish and of distant shores will bring tribute to him; the kings of Sheba and Seba will present him gifts . All kings will bow down to him and all nations will serve him.	Matthew 2:1-11 After Jesus was born in Bethlehem in Judea, during the time of King Herod, Magi from the east came to Jerusalem . . . On coming to the house, they saw the child with his mother Mary, and they bowed down and worshipped him. Then they opened their treasures and presented him with gifts of gold and of incense and of myrrh.
Be born of the seed of Abraham	Genesis 17:7, 8; 26:3, 4	Matthew 1:1, 17; Galatians 3:16, 29; Hebrews 2:16

Jesus' Life and Ministry
Be called out of Egypt	Hosea 11:1 "When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son. . . . "	Matthew 2:13-15, 19-21 . . . So he . . . took the child and his mother during the night and left for Egypt . . .
Be rejected by his brethren	Psalms 69:8 I am a stranger to my brothers, an alien to my own mother's sons . . .	John 7:3-5 Jesus' brothers said to him, "You ought to leave here . . . so that your disciples may see the miracles you do. . . ." For even his own brothers did not believe in him.
Rulers take council against him	Psalms 2:1, 2 Why do the nations conspire and the peoples plot in vain? The kings of the earth take their stand and the rulers gather together against the LORD and against his Anointed One.	Matthew 12:14 But the Pharisees went out and plotted how they might kill Jesus. Matthew 26:3, 4 Then the chief priests and the elders . . . plotted to arrest Jesus in some sly way and kill him. Matthew 26:47 . . . Judas . . . arrived. With him was a large crowd armed with swords and clubs, sent from the chief priests and the elders of the people. See also Luke 23:11, 12
Be rejected as capstone	Psalms 118:22, 23 The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone; the LORD has done this, and it is marvellous in our eyes.	Matthew 21:42 Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures: "The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone . . ."
Was to enter the Temple	Malachi 3:1 ". . . Then suddenly the Lord you are seeking will come to his temple ; the messenger of the covenant, whom you desire, will come . . ." Haggai 2:7, 9	Matthew 21:12-16 Jesus entered the temple area and drove out all who were buying and selling there. . . . See also Mark 11:11; Luke 2:25-47; Luke 19:45-47
Call those who were not his people	Isaiah 55:4, 5 . . . Surely you will summon nations you know not , and nations that do not know you will hasten to you . . . Also Hosea 2:23	Romans 9:23-26 . . . even us, whom he also called, not only from the Jews but also from the Gentiles? . . .
The King comes to Jerusalem riding on a donkey	Zechariah 9:9 . . . See, your king comes to you, righteous and having salvation, gentle and riding on a donkey, on a colt , the foal of a donkey.	Mark 11:1-10 . . . When they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their cloaks over it, he sat on it. . . . Also Matthew 21:1-5 ; Luke 19:28-38 ; John 12:14, 15
Be a "stone of stumbling" to the Jews	Isaiah 8:14 . . . and he will be a sanctuary; but for both houses of Israel he will be a stone that causes men to stumble and a rock that makes them fall. And for the people of Jerusalem he will be a trap and a snare.	Romans 9:31-33 . . . Israel . . . stumbled over the "stumbling-stone." As it is written: "See, I lay in Zion a stone that causes men to stumble and a rock that makes them fall, and the one who trusts in him will never be put to shame." 1 Peter 2:7, 8 . . . They stumble because they disobey the message—which is also what they were destined for.
Upon his coming, the deaf hear, the blind see	Isaiah 29:18 In that day the deaf will hear the words of the scroll, and out of gloom and darkness the eyes of the blind will see. Isaiah 35:5 Then will the eyes of the blind be opened and the ears of the deaf unstopped.	Matthew 11:5 The blind receive sight , the lame walk, those who have leprosy are cured, the deaf hear , the dead are raised, and the good news is preached to the poor. Also John 9:39 ; Luke 7:19-22 ; Mark 7:37
Fulfill promises to Jews, be a light to the Gentiles	Isaiah 42:6 ". . . I will keep you and will make you to be a covenant for the people and a light for the Gentiles . . . " Isaiah 49:6 ". . . I will also make you a light for the Gentiles , that you may bring my salvation to the ends of the earth."	Luke 2:25-32 ". . . a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel. " Acts 26:23 ". . . that the Christ would suffer and, as the first to rise from the dead, would proclaim light to his own people and to the Gentiles. "
A new everlasting covenant	Jeremiah 31:31-34 ". . . I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. It will not be like the covenant I made with their forefathers . . . I will put my law in their minds and write it on their hearts. . . ." Also Jeremiah 32:37-40 ; 50:5	Luke 22:15-20 . . . "This cup is the new covenant in my blood . . ." Hebrews 10:15-20 . . . "This is the covenant I will make with them after that time . . ." a new and living way opened for us . . . Also Matthew 26:27-29 ; Mark 14:22-24 ; Luke 22:15-20 ; 1 Corinthians 11:25 ; Hebrews 8:8-12
Be a prophet like Moses, speaking God's words	Deuteronomy 18:15, 18, 19	Matthew 21:11 ; Luke 7:16 ; 24:19 ; John 6:14 ; 7:40 ; Acts 3:18-22
Be hated without reason	Psalms 35:19 ; 69:4	John 15:24, 25

Jesus' Death and Resurrection
Be Passover sacrifice with no bone broken	Exodus 12:46 It must be eaten inside one house; take none of the meat outside the house. Do not break any of the bones. Numbers 9:12 They must not leave any of it till morning or break any of its bones. When they celebrate the Passover, they must follow all the regulations. Also Psalm 34:20	John 19:31-36 . . . But when they came to Jesus and found that he was already dead, they did not break his legs. . . . These things happened so that the scripture would be fulfilled: "Not one of his bones will be broken."
Be hung upon a tree as a curse for us	Deuteronomy 21:23 . . . Be sure to bury him that same day, because anyone who is hung on a tree is under God's curse. You must not desecrate the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.	Galatians 3:13 Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us, for it is written: "Cursed is everyone who is hung on a tree."
Be thirsty during his execution	Psalms 22:15 My strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue sticks to the roof of my mouth; you lay me in the dust of death..	John 19:28 Later, knowing that all was now completed, and so that the Scripture would be fulfilled, Jesus said, "I am thirsty."
Be accused by false witnesses	Psalms 27:12 Do not hand me over to the desire of my foes, for false witnesses rise up against me, breathing out violence. Psalms 35:11 Ruthless witnesses come forward; they question me on things I know nothing about.	Matthew 26:60 . . . many false witnesses came forward. . . . Mark 14:55-61 . . . Then some stood up and gave this false testimony against him. . . .
Be struck on the head	Micah 5:1 . . . They will strike Israel's ruler on the cheek with a rod.	Matthew 27:30 They spat on him, and took the staff and struck him on the head again and again.
Have hands and feet pierced	Psalms 22:16 Dogs have surrounded me; a band of evil men has encircled me, they have pierced my hands and my feet. Zechariah 12:10 " . . . They will look on me, the one they have pierced, and they will mourn for him as . . . for a firstborn son.	Matthew 27:35 . . . they had crucified him . . . Also John 19:18, 34-37 John 20:25-29 . . . "Unless I see the nail marks in his hands . . . and put my hand into his side, I will not believe it." . . . Then he said " . . . Reach out your hand and put it into my side." . . .
Have soldiers cast lots for his coat	Psalms 22:18 They divide my garments among them and cast lots for my clothing.	John 19:23, 24 . . . This garment was seamless . . . "Let's not tear it," they said to one another. "Let's decide by lot who will get it." Also Matthew 27:35 ; Mark 15:24 ; Luke 23:34
Be given gall and vinegar (sour wine)	Psalms 69:20-22 . . . They put gall in my food and gave me vinegar for my thirst. . . .	Matthew 27:34 There they offered Jesus wine to drink, mixed with gall ; but after tasting it, he refused to drink it. Also Matthew 27:48 ; Mark 15:23 ; 15:36 ; Luke 23:36 ; John 19:29
Be beaten and spat upon	Isaiah 50:6 I offered my back to those who beat me, my cheeks to those who pulled out my beard; I did not hide my face from mocking and spitting.	Matthew 26:67 Then they spat in his face and struck him with their fists. Others slapped him. Matthew 27:26-30 . . . They spat on him, and took the staff and struck him on the head again and again. Also Mark 14:65 ; 15:15-19 ; Luke 22:63-65 ; John 19:1
Be betrayed by a friend	Psalms 41:9 Even my close friend, whom I trusted, he who shared my bread, has lifted up his heel against me. Psalms 55:12-14 If an enemy were insulting me, I could endure it; if a foe were raising himself against me, I could hide from him. But it is you, a man like myself, my companion, my close friend, with whom I once enjoyed sweet fellowship as we walked with the throng at the house of God.	Matthew 26:14-16 Then one of the Twelve . . . the one called Judas Iscariot . . . went to the chief priests and asked, "What are you willing to give me if I hand him over to you? " . . . Matthew 26:23 Jesus replied, "The one who has dipped his hand into the bowl with me will betray me." Also Matthew 26:47-50 ; Luke 22:19-23, 48 ; John 13:18-30 ; 18:2-5
Be despised and rejected	Isaiah 53:2, 3 . . . He was despised and rejected by men, . . . Like one from whom men hide their faces he was despised, and we esteemed him not.	Luke 17:25 But first he must suffer many things and be rejected by this generation. Luke 23:18 . . . "Away with this man! Release Barabbas to us!" Also Matthew 26:67 ; John 1:11
Be accused and afflicted, but did not open his mouth	Isaiah 53:7 He was oppressed and afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth; he was led like a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is silent, so he did not open his mouth.	Matthew 27:12 When he was accused by the chief priests and the elders, he gave no answer. Luke 23:9 He plied him with many questions, but Jesus gave him no answer. Also Matthew 26:62, 63 ; 27:14 ; Mark 14:61 ; 15:5 ; John 19:9
Commit his spirit into God's hand	Psalms 31:5 Into your hands I commit my spirit; redeem me, O LORD, the God of truth.	Luke 23:46 Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit. " When he had said this, he breathed his last.

Introduction

The passion of Jesus Christ stands alone as the most important event creation has ever known. The Bible tells us that long before the world began, God had planned that the crucifixion of Jesus would be the method and payment for sin – the only payment that would reconcile sinners to a holy and loving God.

1 Peter 1:19-20 – “He paid for you with the precious lifeblood of Christ, the sinless, spotless Lamb of God. God chose Him for this purpose long before the world began, but now in these final days, He was sent to the earth for all to see. And He did this for you.”

Down through history, God provided us a roadmap. He foretold various signs and conditions through His prophets. These prophets spoke of things that mankind should watch for so that the Messiah would be recognized and believed. These signs or prophecies were given to us in the Old Testament. The Old Testament is the part of the Bible written before Jesus was born. Its writings were completed in 450 B.C. The Old Testament, written hundreds of years before Jesus’ birth, contains over 300 prophecies that Jesus fulfilled through His life, death and resurrection.

Mathematically speaking, the odds of anyone fulfilling this amount of prophecy are staggering. Mathematicians put it this way:

1 person fulfilling 8 prophecies: 1 in 100,000,000,000,000,000 1 person fulfilling 48 prophecies: 1 chance in 10 to the 157th power 1 person fulfilling 300+ prophecies: Only Jesus!

It is the magnificent detail of these prophecies that mark the Bible as the inspired Word of God. Only God could foreknow and accomplish all that was written about the Christ. This historical accuracy and reliability sets the Bible apart from any other book or record.

The New Testament was written after the death of Jesus Christ. Archeologists have found thousands of manuscripts of the New Testament. Some of these pieces of manuscript are dated less than 100 years after the original letters were written. In terms of historical reliability, the Bible is superior to any other ancient writings.

This is the miraculous and reliable record of the Word of God. God gave us these prophecies to build our faith and point the way to His Son. As 1 John 1:1-3 states:

“The One who existed from the beginning is the One we have heard and seen. We saw Him with our own eyes and touched Him with our own hands. He is Jesus Christ, the Word of Life. This One who is life from God was shown to us, and we have seen Him. And now we testify and announce to you that He is the One who is eternal life. He was with the Father, and then He was shown to us. We are telling you about what we ourselves have actually seen and heard, so that you may have fellowship with us. And our fellowship is with the Father and with His Son, Jesus Christ.”

In this booklet, we will take a look at just a few of the prophecies concerning the life and passion of Jesus Christ. Our prayer is that your faith will be increased and your witness strengthened as you understand and are able to communicate more clearly that Jesus Christ is indeed the Lamb of God, slain before the foundation of the world. (See Revelation 13:8.) Our hope is that you will know beyond doubt that His death and resurrection are the sacrifice for our sins; and in His death, “He takes away not only our sins but the sins of all the world” (1 John 2:2).

A Word About God's Prophets

The prophets of God were often sent on dangerous missions. The prophets were to warn the people about God’s coming judgment against sin. They were sent to call the people back to God in repentance and to assure them of God’s continuing love and purpose for them.

PROPHECIES FULFILLED BY JESUS

The Messiah Will Be Born In Bethlehem

Micah 5:2 – “But you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, are only a small village in Judah. Yet a ruler of Israel will come from you, one whose origins are from the distant past.”

About the Prophecy of Micah

Micah was an eighth century B.C. prophet. He lived at the same time as the prophets Amos, Hosea and Isaiah.

The Book of Micah tells how the judgment of God will fall on Samaria and Jerusalem due to sin, and afterwards, God will give restoration.

Micah describes a wonderful future where the city of Bethlehem will give birth to a ruler greater than David. He also prophesies of a time when Jerusalem will become the religious center of the world.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 2:1-6 – “Jesus was born in the town of Bethlehem in Judea, during the reign of King Herod. About that time some wise men from eastern lands arrived in Jerusalem, asking, ‘Where is the newborn king of the Jews? We have seen His star as it arose, and we have come to worship Him.’ Herod was deeply disturbed by their question, as was all of Jerusalem. He called a meeting of the leading priests and teachers of religious law. ‘Where did the prophets say the Messiah would be born?’ he asked them. ‘In Bethlehem,’ they said, ‘for this is what the prophet wrote: ‘O Bethlehem of Judah, you are not just a lowly village in Judah, for a ruler will come from you who will be the shepherd for my people Israel.’”

Luke 2:4-5, 7, 15 – “And because Joseph was a descendant of King David, he had to go to Bethlehem in Judea, David’s ancient home. He traveled there from the village of Nazareth in Galilee. He took with him Mary, his fiancée, who was obviously pregnant by this time. She gave birth to her first child, a son. She wrapped Him snugly in strips of cloth and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the village inn. When the angels had returned to heaven, the shepherds said to each other, ‘Come on, let’s go to Bethlehem! Let’s see this wonderful thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about.’”

John 7:42 – “For the Scriptures clearly state that the Messiah will be born of the royal line of David, in Bethlehem, the village where King David was born.”

The Messiah Will Be Born Of A Virgin

Isaiah 7:14 – “All right then, the Lord Himself will choose the sign. Look! The virgin will conceive a child! She will give birth to a son and will call Him Immanuel – ‘God is with us.’”

Isaiah 9:6-7 – “For a child is born to us, a son is given to us. And the government will rest on His shoulders. These will be His royal titles: Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. His ever expanding, peaceful government will never end. He will rule forever with fairness and justice from the throne of His ancestor David. The passionate commitment of the Lord Almighty will guarantee this!”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

The prophet Isaiah lived in Jerusalem in the eighth century B.C. The book of Isaiah is one of the four major prophetic books in the Old Testament, along with Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel.

Chapter 7 of Isaiah was written about 735 B.C. King Ahaz was on the throne and Isaiah was sent with the message that God was sending Judah a sign – this sign would be a child called “God is with us.”

The Fulfillment

Matthew 1:20-23 – “As he considered this, he fell asleep, and an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream. ‘Joseph, son of David,’ the angel said, ‘do not be afraid to go ahead with your marriage to Mary. For the child within her has been conceived by the Holy Spirit. And she will have a son, and you are to name Him Jesus, for He will save His people from their sins.’ All of this happened to fulfill the Lord’s message through His prophet: ‘Look! The virgin will conceive a child! She will give birth to a son, and He will be called Immanuel (meaning, God is with us).’”

The Messiah Will Be A Prophet Like Moses

Deuteronomy 18:15 – “The Lord your God will raise up for you a prophet like me from among your fellow Israelites, and you must listen to that prophet.”

About the Prophecy in Deuteronomy

Deuteronomy 1:1a states: “This book records the words that Moses spoke to all the people of Israel while they were in the wilderness east of the Jordan River.” These words were written about 1260 B.C. Throughout the book of Deuteronomy, Moses talks to the people of Israel as they are about to enter the Promised Land. He reminds them of their covenant with God and their glorious future, if they obey Him.

The Fulfillment

John 7:40-42 – “When the crowds heard Him say this, some of them declared, ‘This man surely is the Prophet.’ Others said, ‘He is the Messiah.’ Still others said, ‘But He can’t be! Will the Messiah come from Galilee? For the Scriptures clearly state that the Messiah will be born of the royal line of David, in Bethlehem, the village where King David was born.’”

Acts 3:20-23 – “Then wonderful times of refreshment will come from the presence of the Lord, and He will send Jesus your Messiah to you again. For He must remain in heaven until the time for the final restoration of all things, as God promised long ago through His prophets. Moses said, ‘The Lord your God will raise up a Prophet like me from among your own people. Listen carefully to everything He tells you.’ Then Moses said, ‘Anyone who will not listen to that Prophet will be cut off from God’s people and utterly destroyed.’”

The Messiah Will Be Tempted By Satan

Psalms 91:10-12 – “No evil will conquer you; no plague will come near your dwelling. For He orders His angels to protect you wherever you go. They will hold you with their hands to keep you from striking your foot on a stone.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

The Psalms are a collection of the hymns of ancient Israel. Scholars divide them into five groups:

1. Hymns in praise of God’s glory

2. Community lamentations
3. Royal hymns for special occasions
4. Individual prayers
5. Individual praise and thanksgiving

It is difficult to date the individual psalms. King David is credited with writing many of them, and the collection of these hymns continued after the days of Israel's exile. It is believed the collection was finalized before the second century B.C.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 4:5-7 – “Then the Devil took Him to Jerusalem, to the highest point of the Temple, and said, ‘If You are the Son of God, jump off! For the Scriptures say, “He orders His angels to protect you. And they will hold you with their hands to keep you from striking your foot on a stone.”’ Jesus responded, ‘The Scriptures also say, “Do not test the Lord your God.”’”

The Messiah Will Enter Jerusalem Triumphantly

Zechariah 9:9 – “Rejoice greatly, O people of Zion! Shout in triumph, O people of Jerusalem! Look, your king is coming to you. He is righteous and victorious, yet he is humble, riding on a donkey – even on a donkey's colt.”

About the Prophecy of Zechariah

Zechariah the prophet came from a priestly family. He was a visionary, who with the prophet Haggai worked on the rebuilding of the Temple. The New Testament Gospels quote Zechariah more than any other prophet.

Part one of the book of Zechariah was written in 520 B.C. Zechariah spoke about the judgment and salvation of God and about the coming Messiah who would be a priest, governor, humble king and afflicted shepherd.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 21:8-11 – “Most of the crowd spread their coats on the road ahead of Jesus, and others cut branches from the trees and spread them on the road. He was in the center of the procession, and the crowds all around Him were shouting, ‘Praise God for the Son of David! Bless the One who comes in the name of the Lord! Praise God in highest heaven!’ The entire city of Jerusalem was stirred as He entered. ‘Who is this?’ they asked. And the crowds replied, ‘It's Jesus, the prophet from Nazareth in Galilee.’”

Luke 19:35-37 – “So they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their garments over it for Him to ride on. Then the crowds spread out their coats on the road ahead of Jesus. As they reached the place where the road started down from the Mount of Olives, all of His followers began to shout and sing as they walked along, praising God for all the wonderful miracles they had seen.”

John 12:12-15 – “The next day, the news that Jesus was on the way to Jerusalem swept through the city. A huge crowd of Passover visitors took palm branches and went down the road to meet Him. They shouted, ‘Praise God! Bless the One who comes in the name of the Lord! Hail to the King of Israel! Jesus found a young donkey and sat on it, fulfilling the prophecy that said: ‘Don't be afraid, people of Israel. Look, your King is coming, sitting on a donkey's colt.’”

The Messiah Will Be Rejected By His Own People

Isaiah 53:1, 3 – “Who has believed our message? To whom will the Lord reveal His saving power? He was despised and rejected – a man of sorrows, acquainted with bitterest grief. We turned our backs on Him and looked the other way when He went by. He was despised, and we did not care.”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

Chapters 40–55 in the book of Isaiah address the people in exile in Babylon – directly before the time of their return – about 538 B.C.

Chapter 53 is known as the great prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Fulfillment

John 1:10-11 – “But although the world was made through Him, the world didn’t recognize Him when He came. Even in His own land and among His own people, He was not accepted.”

John 12:37-38 – “But despite all the miraculous signs He had done, most of the people did not believe in Him. This is exactly what Isaiah the prophet had predicted: ‘Lord, who has believed our message? To whom will the Lord reveal His saving power?’”

Matthew 26:3-4 – “At that same time the leading priests and other leaders were meeting at the residence of Caiaphas, the high priest, to discuss how to capture Jesus secretly and put Him to death.”

The Messiah Will Be Betrayed By One Of His Followers

Psalms 41:9 – “Even my close friend, whom I trusted, he who shared my bread, has lifted up his heel against me.” (NIV)

Psalms 55:12-13 – “It is not an enemy who taunts me – I could bear that. It is not my foes who so arrogantly insult me – I could have hidden from them. Instead, it is you – my equal, my companion and close friend.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

Psalms 41 is a psalm of David. He speaks of his own isolation and his trust in God. He describes how the sharing of food unites people in loyalty and friendship.

Psalms 55 is a psalm of David as well. In this psalm, he outlines the betrayal of a trusted friend, who was seemingly a follower of God.

Both of these psalms prophesy the betrayal of Jesus by a close and trusted friend.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 26:47, 49-50a – “And even as He said this, Judas, one of the twelve disciples, arrived with a mob that was armed with swords and clubs. They had been sent out by the leading priests and other leaders of the people. So Judas came straight to Jesus. ‘Greetings, Teacher!’ he exclaimed and gave Him the kiss. Jesus said, ‘My friend, go ahead and do what you have come for.’”

Luke 22:21-22, 47b – “ ‘But here at this table, sitting among us as a friend, is the man who will betray Me. For I, the Son of Man, must die since it is part of God’s plan. But how terrible it will be for My betrayer!’ A mob approached, led by Judas, one of His twelve disciples. Judas walked over to Jesus and greeted Him with a kiss.”

John 13:18, 21, 26 – “ ‘I am not saying these things to all of you; I know so well each one of you I chose. The Scriptures declare, “The one who shares My food has turned against Me,” and this will soon come true’. Now Jesus was in great anguish of spirit, and He exclaimed, 'The truth is, one of you will betray Me!' Jesus said, 'It is the one to whom I give the bread dipped in the sauce.' And when He had dipped it, He gave it to Judas, son of Simon Iscariot."

The Messiah Will Be Betrayed For 30 Pieces Of Silver

Zechariah 11:12-13 – "And I said unto them, 'If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver. And the Lord said unto me, Cast it unto the potter: a goodly price that I was prised at of them. And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord.'" (KJV)

About the Prophecy of Zechariah

In chapter 11 of the book of Zechariah, the prophet refers to 30 shekels of silver as a "goodly price." This amount also refers to the amount paid for the life of a slave. Zechariah's prophecy speaks about the amount paid for the Lord and His life.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 26:14-16 – "Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve disciples, went to the leading priests and asked, 'How much will you pay me to betray Jesus to you?' And they gave him thirty pieces of silver. From that time on, Judas began looking for the right time and place to betray Jesus."

Matthew 27:3-4a – "When Judas, who had betrayed Him, realized that Jesus had been condemned to die, he was filled with remorse. So he took the thirty pieces of silver back to the leading priests and other leaders. 'I have sinned,' he declared, 'for I have betrayed an innocent man.'"

The Messiah Will Be Tried And Condemned

Isaiah 53:8 – "From prison and trial they led Him away to His death. But who among the people realized that He was dying for their sins – that He was suffering their punishment?"

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

Written in 538 B.C., chapter 53 of the book of Isaiah is known as the Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:1-2 – "Very early in the morning, the leading priests and other leaders met again to discuss how to persuade the Roman government to sentence Jesus to death. Then they bound Him and took Him to Pilate, the Roman governor."

Luke 23:1, 23 – "The entire council took Jesus over to Pilate, the Roman governor. But the crowd shouted louder and louder for Jesus' death, and their voices prevailed."

Acts 4:26-28 – "'The kings of the earth prepared for battle; the rulers gathered together against the Lord and against His Messiah.' That is what has happened here in this city! For Herod Antipas, Pontius Pilate the governor, the Gentiles, and the people of Israel were all united against Jesus, Your holy Servant, whom You anointed. In fact, everything they did occurred according to Your eternal will and plan."

The Messiah Will Be Silent Before His Accusers

Psalm 35:11 – "Malicious witnesses testify against me. They accuse me of things I don't even know about."

Isaiah 53:7-8a – “He was oppressed and treated harshly, yet He never said a word. He was led as a lamb to the slaughter. And as a sheep is silent before the shearers, He did not open His mouth. From prison and trial they led Him away to His death.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms and Isaiah

Psalm 27 is a psalm of David. In this hymn, he reassures those who are right with God that they have nothing to fear. He calls on God to pay back his enemies who have unjustly come against him. The prophecy in this psalm shows the confidence of the Messiah to entrust His life to God, who will answer and judge His accusers.

Again, the 53rd chapter of Isaiah was written in 538 B.C. It is known as the Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:12-14 – “But when the leading priests and other leaders made their accusations against Him, Jesus remained silent. ‘Don’t you hear their many charges against You?’ Pilate demanded. But Jesus said nothing, much to the governor’s great surprise.”

Mark 15:3-5 – “Then the leading priests accused Him of many crimes, and Pilate asked Him, ‘Aren’t You going to say something? What about all these charges against You?’ But Jesus said nothing, much to Pilate’s surprise.”

1 Peter 2:22-23 – “He never sinned, and He never deceived anyone. He did not retaliate when He was insulted. When He suffered, He did not threaten to get even. He left His case in the hands of God, who always judges fairly.”

The Messiah Will Be Smitten And Spat Upon

Micah 5:1 – “Mobilize! Marshal your troops! The enemy is laying siege to Jerusalem. With a rod they will strike the leader of Israel in the face.”

Isaiah 50:6 – “I give My back to those who beat Me and My cheeks to those who pull out My beard. I do not hide from shame, for they mock Me and spit in My face.”

About the Prophecy of Micah and Isaiah

The book of Micah, by the prophet Micah, was written in the eighth century B.C. He describes how the restoration of God follows His judgment of sin. Micah describes the future of Jerusalem as the center of religious activity for the whole world.

Chapter 50 in the book of Isaiah was written in 538 B.C. In the Servant Song of Isaiah, chapter 50, we see the first glimpse of the Messiah’s suffering and rejection.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 26:67-68 – “Then they spit in Jesus’ face and hit Him with their fists. And some slapped Him, saying, ‘Prophecy to us, You Messiah! Who hit You that time?’”

Matthew 27:30 – “And they spit on Him and grabbed the stick and beat Him on the head with it.”

Mark 14:65a – “Then some of them began to spit at Him, and they blindfolded Him and hit His face with their fists.”

Mark 15:19 – “And they beat Him on the head with a stick, spit on Him, and dropped to their knees in mock worship.”

John 19:1-3 – “Then Pilate had Jesus flogged with a lead-tipped whip. The soldiers made a crown of long, sharp thorns and put it on His head, and they put a royal purple robe on Him. ‘Hail! King of the Jews!’ they mocked, and they hit Him with their fists.”

The Messiah Will Be Mocked And Taunted

Psalms 22:7-8 – “Everyone who sees Me, mocks Me. They sneer and shake their heads, saying, ‘Is this the One who relies on the Lord? Then let the Lord save Him! If the Lord loves Him so much, then let the Lord rescue Him!’”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

Psalms 22 is a psalm of David, and in it he describes an execution. The early portion of the psalm speaks of the Messiah’s suffering; the later portion describes the universal deliverance the Messiah makes possible.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:39-40 – “And the people passing by shouted abuse, shaking their heads in mockery. ‘So! You can destroy the Temple and build it again in three days, can You? Well then, if You are the Son of God, save Yourself and come down from the cross!’”

Luke 23:11, 35 – “Now Herod and his soldiers began mocking and ridiculing Jesus. Then they put a royal robe on Him and sent Him back to Pilate. The crowd watched, and the leaders laughed and scoffed. ‘He saved others,’ they said, ‘let Him save Himself if He is really God’s Chosen One, the Messiah.’”

The Messiah To Die By Crucifixion, With Pierced Hands And Feet

Psalms 22:14-16 – “My life is poured out like water, and all My bones are out of joint. My heart is like wax, melting within Me. My strength has dried up like sunbaked clay. My tongue sticks to the roof of My mouth. You have laid Me in the dust and left Me for dead. My enemies surround Me like a pack of dogs; an evil gang closes in on Me. They have pierced My hands and feet.”

Zechariah 12:10a – “Then I will pour out a spirit of grace and prayer on the family of David and on all the people of Jerusalem. They will look on Me whom they have pierced and mourn for Him as for an only son.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms and Zechariah

Again, Psalms 22 is a Psalm of David. In this psalm he is describing an execution. The early portion of this psalm describes the Messiah’s suffering; the later portion describes the universal deliverance the Messiah makes possible.

In Chapter 12 of the book of Zechariah, the prophet speaks of God’s own representative who is killed at the hands of His people. At a future point, the people of God will realize whom they have pierced and will mourn for “the son” who died.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:31 – “When they were finally tired of mocking Him, they took off the robe and put His own clothes on Him again. Then they led Him away to be crucified.”

Mark 15:20 – “When they were finally tired of mocking Him, they took off the purple robe and put His own clothes on Him again. Then they led Him away to be crucified.”

John 19:15-16 – “‘Away with Him,’ they yelled. ‘Away with Him – crucify Him!’ ‘What? Crucify your king?’ Pilate asked. ‘We have no king but Caesar,’ the leading priests shouted back. Then Pilate gave Jesus to them to be crucified.”

The Messiah Will Suffer With Sinners

Isaiah 53:12a – “I will give Him the honors of One who is mighty and great, because He exposed Himself to death. He was counted among those who were sinners.”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

The prophet Isaiah lived in Jerusalem in the eighth century B.C. The book of Isaiah is one of the four major prophetic books in the Bible, along with Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel. Chapter 53 is known as the Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:38 – “Two criminals were crucified with Him, their crosses on either side of His.”

Mark 15:27 – “Two criminals were crucified with Him, their crosses on either side of His.”

Luke 23:32-33 – “Two others, both criminals, were led out to be executed with Him. Finally, they came to a place called The Skull. All three were crucified there – Jesus on the center cross, and the two criminals on either side.”

The Messiah’s Garments Will Be Divided By Casting Lots

Psalms 22:18 – “They divide My clothes among themselves and throw dice for My garments.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

Again, Psalm 22 is a psalm of King David. In this hymn he describes an execution. The early portion of the psalm speaks of the Messiah’s suffering and the later portion describes the universal deliverance He made possible.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:35 – “After they had nailed Him to the cross, the soldiers gambled for His clothes by throwing dice.”

Mark 15:24 – “Then they nailed Him to the cross. They gambled for His clothes, throwing dice to decide who would get them.”

John 19:23-24a – “When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they divided His clothes among the four of them. They also took His robe, but it was seamless, woven in one piece from the top. So they said, ‘Let’s not tear it but throw dice to see who gets it.’ This fulfilled the Scripture that says, ‘They divided My clothes among themselves and threw dice for My robe.’”

The Messiah’s Bones Will Not Be Broken

Numbers 9:12 – “They must not leave any of the lamb until the next morning, and they must not break any of its bones. They must follow all the normal regulations concerning the Passover.”

About the Prophecy of Numbers

Numbers is the fourth of the five books written by Moses. It is the travel history of Israel’s journey in the desert.

It begins two years after leaving Egypt and ends just before entry into Canaan. It is a 38-year record of the murmurings of the nation of Israel and the constant companionship of God. It is a record of God's ongoing work to produce repentance in His people.

Chapter 9 discusses the proper observance and preparation of Passover and prophetically describes Jesus, the Passover Lamb.

The Fulfillment

John 19:31-37 – “The Jewish leaders didn't want the victims hanging there the next day, which was the Sabbath (and a very special Sabbath at that, because it was the Passover), so they asked Pilate to hasten their deaths by ordering that their legs be broken. Then their bodies could be taken down. So the soldiers came and broke the legs of the two men crucified with Jesus. But when they came to Jesus, they saw that He was dead already, so they didn't break His legs. One of the soldiers, however, pierced His side with a spear, and blood and water flowed out. This report is from an eyewitness giving an accurate account; it is presented so that you also can believe. These things happened in fulfillment of the Scriptures that say, ‘Not one of His bones will be broken,’ and ‘They will look on Him whom they pierced.’”

1 Corinthians 5:7b – “Christ, our Passover Lamb, has been sacrificed for us.”

The Messiah Will Die As A Sin Offering

Isaiah 53:5-6, 8, 12 – “But He was wounded and crushed for our sins. He was beaten that we might have peace. He was whipped, and we were healed! All of us have strayed away like sheep. We have left God's paths to follow our own. Yet the Lord laid on Him the guilt and sins of us all. From prison and trial they led Him away to His death. But who among the people realized that He was dying for their sins – that He was suffering their punishment? I will give Him the honors of One who is mighty and great, because He exposed Himself to death. He was counted among those who were sinners. He bore the sins of many and interceded for sinners.”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

Isaiah the prophet lived in Jerusalem in the eighth century B.C. Chapter 53 of Isaiah is known as the Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Fulfillment

John 1:29 – “The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, ‘Look! There is the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!’”

Acts 10:43 – “He is the One all the prophets testified about, saying that everyone who believes in Him will have their sins forgiven through His name.”

Acts 13:38-39 – “Brothers, listen! In this man Jesus there is forgiveness for your sins. Everyone who believes in Him is freed from all guilt and declared right with God – something the Jewish law could never do.”

1 Corinthians 15:3-4 – “I passed on to you what was most important and what had also been passed on to me – that Christ died for our sins, just as the Scriptures said. He was buried, and He was raised from the dead on the third day, as the Scriptures said.”

Ephesians 1:7 – “He is so rich in kindness that He purchased our freedom through the blood of His Son, and our sins are forgiven.”

1 Peter 2:24 – “He personally carried away our sins in His own body on the cross so we can be dead to sin and live for what is right. You have been healed by His wounds.”

Revelation 1:5b – “All praise to Him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by shedding His blood for us.”

The Messiah Will See His Seed

Isaiah 53:10-11 – “But it was the Lord’s good plan to crush Him and fill Him with grief. Yet when His life is made an offering for sin, He will have a multitude of children, many heirs. He will enjoy a long life, and the Lord’s plan will prosper in His hands. When He sees all that is accomplished by His anguish, He will be satisfied. And because of what He has experienced, My Righteous Servant will make it possible for many to be counted righteous, for He will bear all their sins.”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

The Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant reveals the incredible purpose of God in sending the Messiah to suffer for our sins. Isaiah wrote this chapter in the eighth century B.C. He foretold that the Messiah would see His heirs, those who would find salvation through His sacrifice.

The Fulfillment

Ephesians 1:4-5, 21-23 – “Long ago, even before He made the world, God loved us and chose us in Christ to be holy and without fault in His eyes. His unchanging plan has always been to adopt us into His own family by bringing us to Himself through Jesus Christ. And this gave Him great pleasure. Now He is far above any ruler or authority or power or leader or anything else in this world or in the world to come. And God has put all things under the authority of Christ, and He gave Him this authority for the benefit of the church. And the church is His body; it is filled by Christ, who fills everything everywhere with His presence.”

Hebrews 12:2 – “We do this by keeping our eyes on Jesus, on whom our faith depends from start to finish. He was willing to die a shameful death on the cross because of the joy He knew would be His afterward. Now He is seated in the place of highest honor beside God’s throne in heaven.”

The Messiah Will Be Buried In A Rich Man’s Tomb

Isaiah 53:9 – “He had done no wrong, and He never deceived anyone. But He was buried like a criminal; He was put in a rich man’s grave.”

About the Prophecy of Isaiah

Once again, the Great Prophecy of the Suffering Servant reveals the incredible purpose of God in sending the Messiah to suffer for our sins. Isaiah wrote this chapter in the eighth century B.C. He foretold that the Messiah would die and be buried in a rich man’s grave.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 27:57-60 – “As evening approached, Joseph, a rich man from Arimathea who was one of Jesus’ followers, went to Pilate and asked for Jesus’ body. And Pilate issued an order to release it to him. Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a long linen cloth. He placed it in his own new tomb, which had been carved out of the rock. Then he rolled a great stone across the entrance as he left.”

The Messiah Will Be Raised From The Dead

Psalm 16:10 – “For You will not leave my soul among the dead or allow Your Godly One to rot in the grave.”

Psalm 30:3 – “You brought me up from the grave, O Lord. You kept me from falling into the pit of death.”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

The Psalms are a collection of the hymns of ancient Israel. The collection of Psalms was finalized before the second century B.C.

Psalm 16 is a psalm of David. In this hymn he reminds us that as we set our hearts on God and trust our lives to His care, we will find joy and security. David prophesies that the Messiah will not be abandoned in the grave, and His body will not decay.

Psalm 30 is a psalm written by David, for the dedication of the Temple. In it he prophesies that the Messiah will be raised from the grave.

The Fulfillment

Matthew 28:5-7 – “Then the angel spoke to the women. ‘Don’t be afraid!’ he said. ‘I know you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified. He isn’t here! He has been raised from the dead, just as He said would happen. Come, see where His body was lying. And now, go quickly and tell His disciples He has been raised from the dead, and He is going ahead of you to Galilee. You will see Him there. Remember, I have told you.’”

Mark 16:6-7 – “The angel said, ‘Do not be so surprised. You are looking for Jesus, the Nazarene, who was crucified. He isn’t here! He has been raised from the dead! Look, this is where they laid His body. Now go and give this message to His disciples, including Peter: Jesus is going ahead of you to Galilee. You will see Him there, just as He told you before He died.’”

Acts 2:27-31 – “‘For You will not leave my soul among the dead or allow your Holy One to rot in the grave. You have shown me the way of life, and You will give me wonderful joy in Your presence.’ Dear brothers, think about this! David wasn’t referring to himself when he spoke these words I have quoted, for he died and was buried, and his tomb is still here among us. But he was a prophet, and he knew God had promised with an oath that one of David’s own descendants would sit on David’s throne as the Messiah. David was looking into the future and predicting the Messiah’s resurrection. He was saying that the Messiah would not be left among the dead and that His body would not rot in the grave.’”

1 Corinthians 15:17, 20 – “And if Christ has not been raised, then your faith is useless, and you are still under condemnation for your sins. But the fact is that Christ has been raised from the dead. He has become the first of a great harvest of those who will be raised to life again.”

The Messiah Will Sit At God’s Right Hand

Psalm 110:1 – “The Lord said to my Lord, ‘Sit in honor at My right hand until I humble Your enemies, making them a footstool under Your feet.’”

About the Prophecy of The Psalms

Psalm 110 is a psalm of David. It is a prophetic psalm that seems to speak of a coming coronation. This royal psalm clearly speaks of the coming Messiah.

The Fulfillment

Mark 16:19 – “When the Lord Jesus had finished talking with them, He was taken up into heaven and sat down in the place of honor at God’s right hand.”

Acts 2:32-36 – “This prophecy was speaking of Jesus, whom God raised from the dead, and we all are witnesses of this. Now He sits on the throne of highest honor in heaven, at God’s right hand. And the Father, as He had promised, gave Him the Holy Spirit to pour out upon us, just as you see and hear today. For David himself never ascended into heaven, yet he said, ‘The Lord said to my Lord, “Sit in honor at My right hand until I humble Your enemies, making them a footstool under Your feet.”’ So let it be clearly known by everyone in Israel that God has made this Jesus whom you crucified to be both Lord and Messiah!”

Hebrews 10:12-13 – “But our High Priest offered Himself to God as one sacrifice for sins, good for all time. Then He sat down at the place of highest honor at God’s right hand. There He waits until His enemies are humbled as a footstool under His feet.”

JESUS AND YOU

As you have just read, it was God’s plan from before the world began that Jesus would come to earth and be crucified as a holy and final offering for sin. Because of God’s deep love for each one of us, He provided the way of salvation – the only way that we are able to enter a relationship with Him.

The Birth of the Messiah

Drawing primarily on Luke and Matthew this session focuses on Jesus’ birth.

John writes in his prologue: “In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . [and] the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us” (John 1: 1, 14). This is the great miracle in the Bible: God Almighty, creator of heaven and earth, became man and lived among us.

Luke begins his gospel with the Annunciation, God’s offer to Mary that she become the mother of his Son, an offer framed by God’s announcement to Zechariah that he will become the father of John the Baptist, Jesus’ cousin and forerunner.

Gabriel’s announcement in the Temple to Zechariah structurally parallels his announcement in Nazareth to Mary, followed by Mary’s visit to Elizabeth in the hill country of Judea, where she stays until John’s birth.

Creating an exact parallel between the announcements to Zechariah and Mary, and then sending Mary to Elizabeth’s home where she visits with Elizabeth and awaits the birth of John, creates a cohesive narrative with finely woven details, from which the gospel story will emerge.

Genealogy of Jesus

Differences between Luke's genealogy and Matthew's genealogy

- From Abraham to David, the genealogies of Matthew & Luke are almost the same.
 - Abraham/Sarah → Isaac (and Ishmael)
 - Isaac/ Rebekah → Jacob (and Esau)
 - Jacob/Leah → Judah
 - Judah/Tamar – Tamar was his deceased son (Er's) wife who posed as a prostitute & became pregnant → Perez
 - Salmon/Rahab – Rahab (prostitute from Jericho, helped the spies as they scouted out the promised land) → Boaz
 - Boaz/Ruth – From the book of Ruth → Obed
 - Obed → Jesse
 - Jesse → King David
- But from David on they are different.
 - Matthew follows the line of Joseph (Jesus' legal father through Solomon)
 - David/Bathsheba (Uria's wife whom David raped) → Solomon → Joseph
 - Matthew's genealogy swings back to the Abrahamic covenant in Genesis 12 and recalls the 2,000---year narrative of the Old Testament, leading directly to the birth of Christ and the fulfillment of God's promise to Abraham that "all the families of the earth will find blessing in [him]"
 - Luke emphasizes that of Mary (Jesus' blood relative through Nathan, Lk 3:31).
 - David → Nathan → Mary
 - Although tracing a genealogy through the mother's side was unusual, so was the virgin birth.
 - Luke's explanation here that Jesus was the son of Joseph, "so it was thought" (Lk 3:23), brings to mind his explicit virgin birth statement (Lk 1:34-35) and suggests the importance of the role of Mary in Jesus' genealogy. However, this view is less likely since Luke here so explicitly names Joseph (v. 23), without any reference at all to Mary.

- Another possibility is that Luke traces the direct bloodline of Joseph to David
- The genealogies in Matthew and Luke provide the legal (Matthew) and biological (Luke) claim of messiah
 - Joseph gives Jesus a legal claim to the throne of Israel
 - Joseph is Jesus's legal father, and Joseph is in the line of the kings
 - Matthew's genealogy: Abraham → David → line of kings → Joseph (who is in the line of kings)
 - Mary gives Jesus the biological link to Adam, Abraham, and David
 - With a virgin birth, the only way that can be is through the mother
 - Luke's genealogy: Mary → David (Nathan) → Abraham → Adam
 - Need both
- Difference in order and endpoints
 - Matthew
 - Old → New
 - Focus is on Joseph
 - Starts with Abraham (the father of the Jewish people) – Matthew is writing to Jews
 - David (through Solomon and the line of the kings)
 - Joseph (who is in the line of the kings) to Jesus
 - Luke
 - New → Old
 - Focus is on Mary – Mary was probably one of Luke's sources
 - Mary went to Ephesus, both Paul and Luke spent a lot of time in Ephesus
 - David (through Nathan)
 - Adam (the son of God) - showing Jesus' relationship to the whole human race

Matthew

- Matthew's genealogy accomplishes 4 things:
 - It places Jesus as a direct descendent of Abraham and David, positioning him to fulfill both the Abrahamic and Davidic covenants.
 - It establishes Jesus' legal claim to the throne of Israel by positioning him as a direct descendent of David, through the line of the kings.
 - It links the entire linear narrative of the Hebrew Scriptures to the birth of Jesus, making the birth of Jesus the culminating event in Jewish history.
 - It initiates the final step in God's plan of redemption, the introduction of Jesus into the world as Redeemer, the one who will "save his people from their sins" (1:21).
- Abraham → David (Solomon) → Joseph (Mt 1:1)
 - Matthew is writing to the Jews, who want to know how Jesus is related to Abraham (the father of the Jews)
 - In one deft movement Matthew not only links the entire linear narrative of the Hebrew Scriptures to the birth of Jesus, but he also makes the birth of Jesus the culminating event in Jewish history.
- Matthew introduces a genealogy that includes 3 sets of 14 generations:
 - Abraham through David (14 generations)
 - David through the Babylonian captivity (14 generations)
 - Babylonian captivity through the birth of Christ (14 generations)
 - 14 is the numerical value of the Hebrew letters forming the name "David"
 - 14 = 2 sets of 7
 - 7 is the number of completion
 - Genealogy give 6 sets of 7 – cries out for the 7th 7 to bring completion
 - Jesus is completion

- We know that there are more people involved in the sequential genealogy, but the Bible gives us the information that we need to know, not necessarily all the information that is available.
 - The authors are crafting stories with deliberate narrative techniques
 - That's how we should approach the Gospels – as narratives written by individual people, for an individual audience, for an individual purpose

Jesus Christ's Genealogy Matthew 1:1-17

Jeconiah Shealtiel Zerubbabel Abihud Eliakim Azor Zadok Achim Eliud Eleazar Matthan Jacob Joseph the husband of Mary, by whom Jesus was born, who is called the Messiah.

Luke

- Mary → David (Nathan) → Adam (Lk 3:23)
 - Luke is writing to the Gentiles – they would not care about the father of the Jews – they want to know how Jesus is related to mankind (Adam)
- Davidic Covenant
 - 2Ch 6:16 'You shall never fail to have a man to sit before me on the throne of Israel, if only your sons are careful in all they do to walk before me according to my law, as you have done.'
 - One of your own flesh will sit upon the throne of Israel forever – that means that Jesus has to be physically related to David
 - We get that through Luke's genealogy of Jesus' biological mother, Mary

Jesus as our Kinsman Redeemer

- The kinsman-redeemer is a male relative who, according to various laws of the Pentateuch, had the privilege or responsibility to act on behalf of a relative who was in trouble, danger, or need.
 - Qualities of the kinsman redeemer:
 - Next nearest relative of the person being redeemed
 - He must have the resources to redeem the person
 - He must be willing to redeem the person

- The Hebrew term (go el) for kinsman-redeemer designates one who:
 - Delivers or rescues (Ge 48:16; Ex 6:6)
 - Redeems property or person (Leviticus 27:9–25,25:47–55).
- The kinsman who redeems or vindicates a relative is illustrated most clearly in the book of Ruth
 - The kinsman-redeemer is Boaz.
 - The story of Ruth and Boaz begins when Ruth and her mother-in-law, Naomi, return to Bethlehem from Moab where they had been living. Naomi's husband and both sons, one the husband of Ruth, had died, leaving the women penniless and without a male protector. Upon arriving in Bethlehem, Naomi sends Ruth to glean in the fields of Boaz, a wealthy relative of Naomi to whom they, through a series of divinely appointed circumstances, appeal as their go el.
 - Boaz acquiesces, willingly takes Ruth as his wife, and together they bear a son named Obed who became the grandfather of David, the forefather of Jesus.
- Jehovah is Israel's Redeemer, the one who promises to defend and vindicate them.
 - He is both Father and Deliverer (Exodus 20:2).
 - There are numerous Old Testament appeals to God as rescuer of the weak and needy (Psalm 82:4; Daniel 6:27; Jeremiah 20:13) and preserver of the sheep of Israel (Ezekiel 34:10–12,22).
- Jesus is our Kinsman Redeemer
 - In the New Testament, Christ is often regarded as an example of a kinsman-redeemer because, as our brother (Hebrews 2:11), He also redeems us because of our great need, one that only He can satisfy.
 - In Ruth 3:9, we see a beautiful and poignant picture of the needy supplicant, unable to rescue herself, requesting of the kinsman-redeemer that he cover her with his protection, redeem her, and make her his wife. In the same way, the Lord Jesus Christ bought us for Himself, out of the curse, out of our destitution; made us His own beloved bride; and blessed us for all generations. He is the true kinsman-redeemer of all who call on Him in faith.
 - Christ fulfills all of the requirements:
 - Next nearest relative – Jesus must be fully man and fully God in order to redeem us
 - He must have the resources – If He is going to pay the penalty for our sin, then He must be sinless himself. Otherwise He wouldn't have the resources to pay the penalty for our sins.
 - He must be willing – He had to willingly go to the cross. He's not caught in a trap of political and religious intrigue. He willingly goes – and He is the one controlling all of the events, right to the very end.

Mary and Joseph

Lk 1:26 In the sixth month, God sent the angel Gabriel to Nazareth, a town in Galilee, 27 to a virgin pledged to be married to a man named Joseph, a descendant of David. The virgin's name was Mary. 28 The angel went to her and said, "Greetings, you who are highly favored! The Lord is with you."

29 Mary was greatly troubled at his words and wondered what kind of greeting this might be. 30 But the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, you have found favor with God. 31 You will be with child and give birth to a son, and you are to give him the name Jesus. 32 He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High. The Lord God will give him the throne of his father David, 33 and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever; his kingdom will never end."

34 "How will this be," Mary asked the angel, "since I am a virgin?"

35 The angel answered, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. So the holy one to be born will be called the Son of God. 36 Even Elizabeth your relative is going to have a child in her old age, and she who was said to be barren is in her sixth month. 37 For nothing is impossible with God."

38 "I am the Lord's servant," Mary answered. "May it be to me as you have said." Then the angel left her.

Nazareth

- On a finger ridge in the Jezreel Valley
- Never mentioned in the OT
- Village – 20 extended families – couple of hundred people
- Via Maris (way of the Sea)
 - Originates in Egypt
 - Comes through a narrow path at Megiddo and opens into the Jezreel Valley
 - Nazareth is just a truck stop on the Via Marisa
- Nazarene comes from the same root word as shoot
 - Jesus was called a Nazarene because he was the shoot that allowed the new growth

Engagement / Betrothal

Engagement

- An “engagement” in biblical times was much like an engagement today.
- Two people met, fell in love and agreed to marry.
- The engagement gave the bride time to prepare for her new role and adjust relationships within her family and with her future in-laws.
- The engagement gave the groom time to do the same, plus build a house (or make other arrangements) in which he would raise his family.

Betrothal (arranged marriages)

- In biblical times—and today in many cultures—arranged marriages were common.
 - Often, families would make such arrangements when children were very young, even at times before they were born. Such an arrangement is a “betrothal.”
- A betrothal involved a formal, binding contract between two families that included a “dowry” or “bride price”
 - A broken contract involved repayment of the dowry and restitution to the aggrieved family.
- A betrothal carried much more weight than a simple engagement; breaking a betrothal required the legal process of a formal “divorce.”
- He makes everything ready (house built, preparations) – Marriage is then consummated

Joseph

- Boys typically married around 18 years old
- Joseph is in the line of the kings from Judea
 - The bloodline of David
- Both Mary and Joseph are good Jews – we assume that they know the OT prophecies
- Joseph of the OT is very similar to Joseph of the NT
 - Both had strong conviction to always do what was right
 - Both had dreams as their communication from God
 - Both had great integrity
 - Both men were tried and tested by events in life that could have left them bitter or angry. Instead, they had close relationships with God in which they remained steadfast, regardless of the undeserved adversities and trials they were forced to endure.

- Both Josephs were men of great faith and open to hearing in their spirits what God intended for them and their lives to come.
- God proved through them that social position is of little importance to God, bringing them each from a meager standing to roles of great importance and example. God honors integrity, obedience, and faithfulness.

Joseph is living in Nazareth

- Carpenter = construction worker – working in stone, not wood
- People don't leave home – Why was he in Nazareth?
 - Construction worker and there is work in Sepphoris
 - Sepphoris
 - A wealthy Roman town between Cana and Nazareth
 - Was being built at the time of Jesus

Mary

- Girls married between 13-16 years old
- Both Mary and Joseph are good Jews – we assume that they know the OT prophecies

Gabriel speaks with Mary (Lk 1:26-38)

- 400 years since any word from God (prophets) – then Gabriel shows up out of nowhere
 - Angels – Literally translated as ‘You have received God’s grace’ – unmerited favor
 - You have found favor – better translation is you have found grace – that word is translated as grace everywhere else
- Mary is probably terrified – Angels are huge, magnificent warrior-like creatures and she is very young
- The offer (Lk 1:31-33) – You will be with child and give birth to a son
- Mary’s question (Lk 1:34) – Asking about the mechanics of how it is going to work
- Gabriel’s response (Lk 1:35-37) – Gabriel blushes, answers, and changes the subject immediately
 - Lk 1:35 The angel answered, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you.
 - Not a sexual act – other gods (Zeus) fathered human children
 - Impossible for a virgin to have a baby – it has to be a miracle
 - Hannah – name means grace – foreshadows Mary
 - The shadow/spirit of the Holy Spirit is always used in connection with creation
 - Creation of everything – Ge 1:2 ...the Spirit of God was hovering over the waters
 - Creation of Jesus – Lk 1:35
 - Creation of our life in God (Baptism) – Lk 3:21 ...heaven was opened and the Holy Spirit descended on him in bodily form like a dove
 - Between verses 37 and 38, there is a ‘pregnant pause’ where Mary considers the offer

Mary’s decision

- Mary had a decision/choice to make – she could have said no – not an easy choice
 - Risk of death
 - She is engaged to Joseph, but is going to be pregnant by someone other than Joseph
 - Dt 22:23 If a man happens to meet in a town a virgin pledged to be married and he sleeps with her, 24 you shall take both of them to the gate of that town and stone them to death
 - However, the Jews were not allowed to enforce capital punishment in the Roman occupation
 - Why Jesus had to be found guilty of breaking a Roman law
 - Risk of losing Joseph
 - Risk of family scandal

- Small town – everyone knows everything
 - You can't hide the fact that you are pregnant and you're not married to the guy that you are supposed to be married to
- The result (Lk 1:38) – Mary says yes
 - I am the Lord's servant – she is very humble
 - God brought down (humbled) the proud & exalted and exalts the humble
 - Jas 4:6 ... Scripture says: "God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble."
- James 4:6
 - Great statement of faith and courage
 - Mary is the first person to say yes to Jesus

Mary visits Elizabeth

Mt 1:18 This is how the birth of Jesus Christ came about: His mother Mary was pledged to be married to Joseph, but before they came together, she was found to be with child through the Holy Spirit. 19 Because Joseph her husband was a righteous man and did not want to expose her to public disgrace, he had in mind to divorce her quietly.

- Mary tells Joseph – How does Joseph respond?
 - Joseph probably talks to the Rabbi at the Synagogue who was going to marry them
 - Joseph had the right to accuse her and stone her to death
 - He loved her – he didn't want to publically humiliate her or have her dead
 - They could end the betrothal – which is what he did – initiated a divorce
 - Joseph ended the engagement
 - Mary couldn't stay in her village
 - The only place that Mary could go is to Elizabeth and Zechariah
 - Because they are part of the plan
 - The only person that would understand any of this is Elizabeth
 - Joseph had no idea where she was going – he never thought that he would see her again
- Mary visits Elizabeth
 - Mary lives in a small town (~250 people) – everyone knows everyone
 - She can't hide the pregnancy
 - Joseph has told her to leave while he files the divorce
 - Elizabeth lives in the hill country of Judea – 100 miles, 3 days journey
 - Mary is young, pregnant and alone
- Mary's greeting

Lk 1:41 When Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, the baby leaped in her womb, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit. 42 In a loud voice she exclaimed: "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the child you will bear! 43 But why am I so favored, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? 44 As soon as the sound of your greeting reached my ears, the baby in my womb leaped for joy. 45 Blessed is she who has believed that what the Lord has said to her will be accomplished!"

 - The prolonged period of silence given to Elizabeth and Zechariah has born fruit – they understand the plan
- Mary's song (Magnificat) (Lk 1:46-55)
 - Mary has had a lot of time to think on the journey
 - God has certainly spoken to her along the way
 - Song of praise
 - Mary recognizes that this is an act of God, not of herself – Mary gives glory to God
 - Very similar to the song of praise by Hannah, who was barren with a miraculous pregnancy, Samuel
 - Good song of praise for all women to know

- This hymn of praise is known as the Magnificat because in the Latin Vulgate the opening word is Magnificat, which means “glorifies.” This song is like a psalm, and should also be compared with the song of Hannah (1Sa 2:1-10 ; see note on 1Sa 2:1).

- Mary stays for 3 months
 - Gabriel visits Mary in Elizabeth’s 6th month of pregnancy, Mary goes home when John is born
 - Elizabeth is an older lady (advanced in years) and Mary is a teenager
 - They are both intimately involved in the plan of salvation
 - What did they talk about?
 - At some point, Elizabeth must have told Mary to go back to Joseph
- Mary goes back to Joseph when John is born
 - Joseph has a dream
 - Mt 1:20 But after he had considered this, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream and said, "Joseph son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary home as your wife, because what is conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. 21 She will give birth to a son, and you are to give him the name Jesus, because he will save his people from their sins."
 - Joseph wakes up
 - He now understands the plan, but he has lost her – he has no idea where she is
 - Mary comes knocking at the door, 3 months pregnant

Jesus' Birth and Youth (2:1-52)

- D. Jesus' Birth and Youth (2:1-52)
 - a. Jesus born (2:1-7)
 - b. Shepherds visit (2:8-20)
 - c. Jesus presented in the temple (2: 21-40)
 - 1. Jesus' circumcision (2:21)
 - a). Simeon's song (Nunc Dimittis) (2:29-32)
 - 2. Mary's purification (2:22-38)
 - d. Return to Nazareth (2:39-40)
 - e. Jesus at the temple at twelve years old (2:41-51)

Mary and Joseph return to Jerusalem

- Augustus issues a decree that causes Joseph to return to Bethlehem, thereby fulfilling the prophecy
 - Joseph returns to Jerusalem for the census – Mary is 9 months pregnant
- Bethlehem
 - City of David – where David was born to Jesse
- Donkeys – Don't ride on them. They are used for pulling carts or hauling cargo
 - Roman roads were made of paving stones
 - Mary had a bumpy ride in a donkey cart for 100 miles
- Remarkably humble circumstances (unlike Caesar) – Mary traveling to Bethlehem when her baby was due to be born

Jesus born (4/6 B.C.)

- Miracle of the incarnation – the greatest miracle of the Christian faith
 - Virgin birth is needed to be a Christian
 - Unless Jesus is God and man, he cannot redeem us
 - The incarnation is a microcosm of the Gospel
- The son of God exists for all eternity – he united with the human to become the man God
 - Muslims teach father (God), Jesus (son), and mother (Mary)

Name – Jesus

Lk 1:30 But the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, you have found favor with God. 31 You will be with child and give birth to a son, and you are to give him the name Jesus.

- Jesus means 'the Lord saves'
- Jesus is the Hebrew name for Joshua
 - Very common name
- Christ is a title which means the anointed one, or Messiah
 - Christ is not his last name.
 - It is the Greek word "Christós" meaning "anointed," which is the translation of the Hebrew word "Māšîaḥ", meaning "the Messiah, the anointed one"
- Paul almost always refers to the Lord as Christ Jesus, as opposed to the other Apostles refer to him as Jesus Christ
 - The Apostles knew Christ in a very personal, intimate way – they refer to him as Jesus, the Messiah
 - Paul never knew Jesus on earth. He persecuted the followers of Christ, then had a dramatic conversion on the road to Damascus.
 - He refers to him as the Messiah Jesus. It's almost like he saying 'Sir' with a salute.
 - It's a different relationship that Paul has with Christ than the other Apostles had

Inn

- Greek word translated "inn" here is kataluma
 - It means a place of rest, usually a guest room.

- Luke uses this very word later where it clearly refers to a guest room and not an inn. Notice Luke 22:11, where Jesus said to His disciples, “Then you shall say to the master of the house, 'The Teacher says to you, “Where is the guest room [kataluma] where I may eat the Passover with My disciples?’””
- In Luke 10:34, Luke uses a different Greek word when he writes about an actual inn— not the word kataluma. In the parable of the Good Samaritan, Jesus mentions that the injured man in the story was taken to an inn—and here Luke translates using the Greek word pandokheion, the normal word for an inn.
- Inn – Guest room in a home
 - “Was the 'inn' at Bethlehem, where Joseph and Mary sought a night's lodging, an upper guest room in a private home or some kind of public place for travelers? The question cannot be answered with certainty. It is thought by some that it may have been a guest chamber provided by the community. We know that visitors to the annual feasts in Jerusalem were entertained in the guest rooms of private homes” (International Standard Bible Encyclopedia, 1982, Vol. 2, “Inn,” p. 826).
- Inn – Open air courtyard
 - Wall-in open air courtyard with a big gate
 - No individual rooms, you camped in the courtyard
 - Around the courtyard were shops – Kitchen, blacksmith, etc
 - Slept 100-150 people comfortably
 - Medieval caravan stop in Iconium, Central Turkey
 - Medieval caravan stop very similar to what Joseph and Mary would have stayed at
 - Stable
 - Stable was private and enclosed
 - The inn-keeper probably sent his wife out to help – very generous

Manger

- Manger is a feeding trough
- This is not what Mary would have expected at all

Angelic Host (Song of the Angels) (Lk 2:14)

- Song of perfect peace – peace between men & God – everlasting peace
- An army of angels
- Gospel = Good news
 - Send important people to deliver important messages
 - Angels were sent
- Recipients were a bunch of shepherds

Shepherds visit

- Shepherds are the societal low of the low
- Sign – Shepherds are given a sign
 - Lk 2:12 This will be a sign to you: You will find a baby wrapped in cloths and lying in a manger."
- Shepherds response – They obey
 - They do as the angels told them – they go and see, then praise and glorify Him, then spread the good news
 - They demonstrate obedience, trust, faith

Mary

Lk 1:19 But Mary treasured up all these things and pondered them in her heart.

- Stranger in a strange land and gave birth in a manger
- Not treasured so much as gathered and struggled with everything, trying to come to terms with it all

- Pondered in Greek is _____ symbolion
 - ‘bol’ means to throw
 - Has the same root
 - Turbulent word
- What did she ponder?
 - The bumpy 100 miles donkey ride
 - The birth in a stable, in a feeding trough
 - Visit of the shepherds
- She must have had expectations of what it would be like to be the mother of God, and this was nothing close

Jesus is dedicated to God (Lk 2:21-38)

Circumcision

- Performed by a Rabbi on the 8th day
- Incorporates a person into the covenant community

Dedication

- Dedicated to God at the Temple in Jerusalem
 - After the time of purification – 40 days (Lv 12)

Simeon

- Simeon was expecting him
 - Knew the rough time
 - Daniel 9 dated the coming of the Messiah to AD 32
 - Expect him to become publically known at 30 years old. That’s the age that:
 - Priests take on full responsibility
 - David and Solomon became kings
 - Knew the place
 - Bethlehem, because Joseph was from the house and line of David
 - When the child is born, he will be dedicated at the Temple
 - Simeon see them and knows immediately

Simeon’s song of praise (Nunc Dimittis)

Lk 2:29 "Sovereign Lord, as you have promised, you now dismiss your servant in peace.
 30 For my eyes have seen your salvation, 31 which you have prepared in the sight of all people,
 32 a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel."

Simeon’s prophecy

Lk 2:34 ... "This child is destined to cause the falling and rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be spoken against, 35 so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed. And a sword will pierce your own soul too."

- Tells Mary that Jesus is going to break her heart
 - Not the normal ‘what a cute baby’ that Mary was expecting
 - More things for her to ‘ponder’

Magi (wise men) visit (Mt 2:1-12)

- Magi
 - Wise men from the east (Persia? – about a 4 month journey); Pagan astrologers
 - Or descendants from Daniel

- Historical book that discusses the Eastern Magi as the ‘good’ Magi – May explain why they were said to come from the east
- Get there sometime around November
- The coming of the Magi to visit the infant Jesus in Bethlehem fulfilled 2 prophecies:
 - Marks the recognition of the Messiah by the Gentile world, thus fulfilling the prophecy in Isaiah 49: 6—“It is too small a thing for you to be my servant to restore the tribes of Jacob and bring back those of Israel I have kept. I will also make you a light for the Gentiles that you may bring my salvation to the ends of the earth.”
 - Identifies the Magi as “kings,” fulfilling the prophecy of Isaiah 60: 3—“Nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawn.”
- Tradition holds there were three Magi
 - Based upon the three gifts they presented: gold, frankincense and myrrh
 - Tradition names the Magi: Melchoir, Caspar and Balthasar
 - No one knows exactly how many there were
- Tradition goes on to say that Saint Helena, mother of the Emperor Constantine, discovered the bones of the Magi on her famous pilgrimage to Palestine (A.D. 326-328), and that upon her return to Constantinople she deposited them at the great 4th-century church of Hagia Sophia.
 - Later, tradition holds, the bones were moved to Milan. In A.D. 1158 the remains of three bodies—said to be the Magi—were found in the Church of St. Estergio.
 - Emperor Frederick Barbarosa captured Milan in A.D. 1164 and moved the remains to Cologne, where today they are said to rest at the magnificent Gothic cathedral of Hohe Domkirche St. Peter und Maria in Cologne.
 - In Chaucer’s “Prologue” to the Canterbury Tales, we are told that the Wife of Bath visited the three kings on a pilgrimage to Cologne!
- Feast of the Epiphany – We remember the Magi liturgically on January 6th, the Feast of the Epiphany
- Theory
 - The Magi were not from the East - they saw the star rise in the east (like most stars do because of the rotation of the Earth)
 - They were the descendants of Daniel, who never left Babylon
 - Explains why they were so eager to worship the newborn King!

Star of Bethlehem

- Many have attempted to explain the “Star of Bethlehem,” the phenomenon that directed the Magi to Bethlehem.
- Explanations range from:
 - A miraculous event, fulfilling prophecy (Numbers 24: 17)
 - An astronomical object, such as a planet, comet or meteor
 - An astrological event, such as the convergence of two planets
 - A pious fiction.
- Sirius / Isis

- In the ancient literature of Egypt, Greece and Rome, astrological phenomenon were routinely associated with the birth of important people.
- Sirius is the brightest star in the eastern sky in Egypt
 - Starting in April, for a period of 70 days, Sirius disappears below the horizon, not emerging until the beginning of the summer solstice at the time of the Nile River's inundation, bringing renewed life to Egypt.
- Sirius was the star of the virgin goddess Isis
 - Consort of the great god Osiris and mother of Horus
 - Triumphs over evil and ushers in a new beginning.
- The rising of the star Sirius recalls the story.

- Astronomy
 - <http://www.bethlehemstar.com/>
 - 2 BC, the stars Jupiter (king planet) and Venus (mother planet) came together so close that they could not be separated by the naked eye
 - What John saw in his visions in Revelation, is exactly what happened at 2 BC at the birth of Jesus
 - 9 Points that the Bible states:
 - Lion of Judah
 - Birth of a King
 - Brightest star
 - Southern star
 - Coronation – Jupiter makes a halo around the lion constellation before it continues
 - Retrograde rotation – Stars are not moving, we are. Because of that, sometimes start appear to go backwards before continuing forwards
 - Sept 3BC
 - Star stopped over Bethlehem
 - Retrograde rotation – Stars are not moving, we are. Because of that, sometimes start appear to go backwards before continuing forwards
 - 12/25/2 BC – The point at which Jupiter/Venus ‘stopped’ and changed direction for the retrograde rotation
 - Date that the wise men showed up in Bethlehem, not the date the Jesus was born
 - Happened 9 months after the coronation
 - Moon will be turned to blood
 - Blood moon – earth eclipses the moon, so the only light that the moon gets is refracted around the earth and has a reddish color
 - Happened at Pentecost
 - Acts 2:19 I will show wonders in the heaven above and signs on the earth below, blood and fire and billows of smoke. 20 The sun will be turned to darkness and the moon to blood before the coming of the great and glorious day of the Lord.

Flight to Egypt \(Mt 2:13-18\)

- An angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream
 - Herod is going to search for Jesus and destroy him – flee Bethlehem and take refuge in Egypt.
 - Recall that Abraham and Sarah flee the Promised Land to take refuge in Egypt.
- Mary and Joseph are poor
 - We know this from their sacrifice at the Temple
 - How do they afford a trip to Egypt? The gifts from the Magi!
- How long do they stay? Couple of years probably
- Prophecy fulfilled – Hos 11:1 “out of Egypt I called my son.”
- Coptic church

- Dates itself back to the flight to Egypt
- “Coptic” means “Egyptian,” and Christians living in Egypt identify themselves as Coptic Christians.
- Originated in the city of Alexandria
 - As a denomination they originated in the city of Alexandria, one of the most faithful, respected, and fruitful cities during the Apostolic Period.
- Founded by John Mark
 - Proudly, the Coptic Christians acknowledge and herald John Mark, (author of the Gospel of Mark), as their founder and first bishop sometime between A.D. 42 - A.D. 62.
 - When John Mark arrived on a missionary journey to Egypt, the Coptic form of religion of that day was god-centered worship, but focused upon the pyramids. However, John Mark and the Gospel message were well received by the Coptic people as they also believed in “eternal life.”
 - The Coptic Christians were originally well founded in theology, and other churches in cities throughout the Roman Empire looked up to them with great admiration and respect, willingly following their lead in doctrinal like-mindedness and unity.
- Conversion to Islam
 - It is interesting to note that when the Coptics were under the rule of the Roman Empire, they suffered severe persecution and death for their steadfast faith and beliefs in Christ while refusing to worship emperors.
 - However, by A.D. 641, yet another tribulation began when the Arab conquest took place, overthrowing the Romans’ rule in Egypt and, at first, relieving the Coptic Church from persecution.
 - What appeared to be their liberty and freedom became yet again bondage.
 - The societal strength and control of the Arabs caused the Coptics to endure a major language and culture change as well as confront the Islamic faith.
 - Unfortunately, over the centuries, Christianity lost foothold and most Coptics converted to Islam.
- Coptic Christians today
 - Today, there is a small population of Coptic Christians remaining in Alexandria, but most are located elsewhere.
 - Estimates of the current population of the Coptic Church range from 10 million to 60 million members worldwide.
- Theology
 - Coptic Christianity is very similar to Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy.
 - They profess to be genuine followers of Jesus Christ and a part of His worldwide Church.
 - But, as with Catholicism, they tend to emphasize meritorious works in salvation along with liturgical ritual rather than salvation through a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Murder of the Innocence (Mt 2:16-18)

- The Massacre of the Infants
 - Herod the Great orders that all boys under 2 years old in Bethlehem be killed
- Recalls the story of Moses
 - The “Massacre of the Infants” recalls the story of Moses as an infant in Exodus 1, when Pharaoh orders that all the newborn male Hebrew children be drowned in the Nile River.
 - It is Moses through whom God will redeem his people from slavery in Egypt.
 - Likewise, it is Jesus through whom God will redeem all of humanity from slavery to sin and death.
- Herod dies in 4 BC. How does he order this 4 years before Christ was born?
 - Calendar change – the Julian calendar was changed to the Gregorian calendar
 - The Julian calendar was replaced because it did not properly reflect the actual time it takes the Earth to circle once around the Sun, known as a tropical year or solar year.
- Prophecy fulfilled – Jer 31:15
 - Mt 2:17 Then what was said through the prophet Jeremiah was fulfilled: 18" A voice is heard in Ramah, weeping and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children and refusing to be comforted, because they are no more."

Return to Nazareth (Mt 2:19-23)

- An angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in 2 dreams – once to leave Egypt, and another to leave Bethlehem
- Prophecy fulfilled - "He will be called a Nazarene."
- Recall that Moses also leaves Egypt to lead his people to the Promised Land.

Jesus at the temple at 12 years old

- Jesus is 12 years old – Becomes an adult
 - Bar Mitzvah
 - Bar Mitzvah – Son of the Commandments
 - Transition from child to man – you are now responsible for your relationship with God
 - The custom of bar mitzvah for a thirteen-year-old Jewish boy was not in place at this time (Fitzmyer 1981:440).
 - If the Mishna is relevant to the first-century Jewish practice, which is likely in this case, then religious instruction would have become more intense for Jesus upon his reaching twelve (m. Niddah 5:6; m. Megilla4:6; m. `Abot 5:12).
- Jesus now speaks for himself for the first time.
 - Shows the sense of mission and self-awareness Jesus possesses
 - Jesus has a unique relationship to God and a clear sense of his calling, one that transcends his relationship to his earthly parents.
- As Luke's infancy overture comes to a close, he makes a transition to John and Jesus' ministry through a single incident from Jesus' adolescence. This is the literary climax of Luke's initial section
 - Inclusio with Temple
 - Though strictly speaking not an infancy account, that this belongs in this initial literary division of Luke is indicated by the fact that it takes place in the temple, which is where the section started in Luke 1:5.
 - The note on Jesus' growth parallels the close of the discussion of John the Baptist in Luke 1:80.
 - Lk 1:80 And the child [John the Baptist] grew and became strong in spirit; and he lived in the desert until he appeared publicly to Israel.
 - The Problem: Jesus Is Missing (2:41-45)
- Annual Passover pilgrimage to Jerusalem
 - The parents of Jesus were devout Jews. The Old Testament commanded such a trip for three festivals a year (Passover, Pentecost and Tabernacles; Ex 23:14-17; 34:22-23; Deut 16:16).
 - But by the first century, God-fearing Jews made only one journey a year because of the distances involved (Josephus on Passover--Life 345-54; Antiquities 17.9.3 213-14; Jewish Wars 2.1.3 10-12; 2.14.3 280; Brown 1977:472).
 - The Passover was the major feast celebrated at the beginning of the Jewish year, Nisan 15, which falls in our month of March or April (Fitzmyer 1981:339-40).
 - Only men were required to make the journey, so Mary's presence shows her commitment (Preisker 1964:373).
 - Jerusalem was eighty miles from Nazareth, so the trip would take three days.
 - Though some have argued that women and children traveled separately from the men as a way to explain how Jesus got lost, there is no ancient text that describes this practice.
- After the seven days of celebration, Jesus' family returns home.
 - The text does not say why his parents fail to make sure that he was present in the caravan. Possibilities:
 - As verse 44 suggests, they assume he is with friends or relatives.

- Jewish children did not associate with the Jewish men, they stayed with the women. Perhaps Mary thought that he was with Joseph (now that he was a man) and Joseph assumed that Jesus wanted to walk back with his childhood friends and Mary.

- On the first evening of their homeward journey they notice that he is missing.
 - The road is marked by a steep vertical drop-off on 1 side into a wadi qelt below. Joseph and Mary must assume that he has fallen into the canyon and they check every nook and cranny. Takes 3 days to get back to Jerusalem.
 - They have searched everywhere, and are back at the Jerusalem. What do you do now? Your child is missing. You go to the Temple to pray.
- Jesus is at the Temple
 - Perhaps he ran back to ask 1 last question and when he came back, everyone is gone.
 - What do you tell your children to do if they become separated and lost – stay put and we will find you.
 - Jesus may have been doing what he was told by staying at the Temple.
 - Listening to and asking questions of the teachers
 - Jesus' discussion with the officials leaves those who listen amazed at his understanding and his answers.
 - At the tender age of twelve, Jesus already shows signs of possessing great wisdom.
 - Clearly Luke wants the reader to develop a sense of respect for this amazing, blessed child.
- Mary asks Jesus - "Son, why have you treated us like this? Your father and I have been anxiously searching for you."
- Jesus' self-declaration of mission
 - The mild parental complaint leads to Jesus' self-declaration of mission.
 - With the reply appears the first of many dei ("it is necessary") statements in Luke
 - 4:43; 9:22; 13:33; 17:25; 19:5; 22:37; 24:7, 26, 44
 - The key phrase in verse 49 is elliptical, making its meaning disputed.
 - (1) I must be about my Father's affairs (L. T. Johnson 1991:61)
 - (2) I must be in the house of my Father (Stein 1992:123; NIV).
 - This view also means that Jesus must be engaged in teaching God's ways, since for Luke the temple is a place where Jesus instructs (20:1--21:4).
 - Greek idiom supports this second view.
 - Jesus' parents--and Luke's readers--need to appreciate that Jesus understood his mission.
 - From the very beginning he is reflecting on the will of God.
 - He starts revealing himself right in the center of Judaism's religious capital.
- There is a second key detail. Jesus refers to God as his Father.
 - This alludes to the sense of family relationship and intimacy Jesus has with his heavenly Father (10:21-22).
 - Such closeness to God not only is something Jesus' parents need to appreciate but also is a point the disciples will struggle to grasp (9:59-62; 14:26; Mk 10:29-30).
 - In fact, Luke makes this the first note in a series of revelations that will build the case for who Jesus is.
 - The infancy material stresses Jesus as Messiah
 - This text is one of two hints early in Luke's Gospel that he is also much more. Luke reveals Jesus' identity gradually, bringing the reader along in an understanding of who Jesus is. So this first clue comes from Jesus himself. The other major clue comes in the infancy section, where Jesus' divine origin is tied to the Spirit (1:31-35).
- Jesus is breaking new ground with his parents here, and they need to understand who he is, just as Luke's readers do.
 - The text makes it clear that at the time they still did not understand what he was saying to them.

- But Mary treasured (or pondered) all these things in her heart, an appropriate response to Jesus' somewhat enigmatic remarks.
 - Mary does what Luke wants his readers to do as well. It is good to pause and contemplate who Jesus is and the mission he performs. Even two thousand years of history does not do away with the need for such reflection.
- Obedient to his parents, Jesus goes home with them to Nazareth.
 - While there he grows in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men (Lk 1:80; 2:40).
 - There he awaits God's timing to begin the ministry associated with God's house.
 - In the meantime he shows respect for his parents through his obedience, a model for us in a world where teenage rebellion is all too common.

Advent

Advent – Coming or looking forward to the 2nd coming of Jesus

- 4 weeks before Christmas – begins 4 Sundays before Christmas and ends on December 24
- The Season of Advent: Anticipation, hope, and preparation
- Advent is a season about John the Baptist more than Jesus – it's a season of preparation for the birth of Jesus
- Before the incarnation, Jesus was spirit. After the incarnation, Jesus was flesh.
 - Christmas is the celebration of Jesus taking on flesh so He could die for us

1. Prophecy / Hope
 - Old Testament prophets, esp Isaiah
 - Is 2:1-5
2. Bethlehem / Preparation
 - John the Baptist
3. Shepherds / Joy
4. Angels / Love
5. Christ candle

The Meaning of the Advent Wreath

Advent, from the Latin word adventus meaning arrival, is the 4-week period prior to Christmas. It is a time to ponder the great sacrifice that our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, made for us by coming to earth as an infant. He lived a perfect life, died a sacrificial death, and rose from the dead for us. He saved us from our sins and eternal damnation because of his great love, and adopts each person individually into his family through baptism and faith in him.

An advent wreath can be a teaching tool and a reminder for Christians of the true meaning of Christmas.

Traditionally, the Advent wreath symbolizes the passage of the four weeks of Advent. It is typically a circular candle holder that holds five candles. During the season of Advent one candle on the wreath is lit each Sunday until all of the candles, including the fifth candle, are lit on Christmas Day. Each candle customarily represents an aspect of the spiritual preparation for the celebration of the birth of our Lord, Jesus Christ. Most Advent wreaths use three colors of candles – purple, pink, and white. However, some may use blue in place of the purple. The Bible readings below can be read as each candle is lit.

1st CANDLE – (purple) THE PROPHECY CANDLE or CANDLE OF HOPE

We can have hope because God is faithful and will keep the promises made to us. Our hope comes from God!

“And again, Isaiah says, ‘The Root of Jesse will spring up, one who will arise to rule over the nations; the Gentiles will hope in him.’ May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace as you trust in him, so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.” ~ Romans 15:12-13

2nd CANDLE – (purple) THE BETHLEHEM CANDLE or THE CANDLE OF PREPARATION

God kept his promise of a Savior who would be born in Bethlehem. Preparation means to “get ready”. Help us to be ready to welcome you, O God!

“As is written in the book of the words of Isaiah the prophet: ‘A voice of one calling in the desert, ‘Prepare the way for the Lord, make straight paths for him. Every valley shall be filled in, every mountain and hill made low. The crooked roads shall become straight, the rough ways smooth. And all mankind will see God’s salvation.’ ~ Luke 3:4-6

3rd CANDLE – (pink) THE SHEPHERD CANDLE or THE CANDLE OF JOY

The shepherds received a message of joy!

“...and she gave birth to her firstborn, a son. She wrapped him in cloths and placed him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were shepherds living out in the fields nearby, keeping watch over their flocks at night. An angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified. But the angel said to them, ‘Do not be afraid. I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all the people. Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord. This will be a sign to you: You will find a baby wrapped in cloths and lying in a manger.’ Suddenly a great company of the heavenly host appeared with the angel, praising God and saying, ‘Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men on whom his favor rests.’ When the angels had left them and gone into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, ‘Let’s go to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about.’ ~ Luke 2:7-15

4th CANDLE – (purple) THE ANGEL CANDLE or THE CANDLE OF LOVE

The angels announced the good news of a Savior!

“...I bring you good news that will cause great joy for all the people. Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you; he is the Messiah, the Lord” ~ Luke 2:10b-11
God sent his only Son to earth to save us, because he loves us!

“For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but to save the world through him.” ~ John 3:16-17

5th CANDLE – (white) CHRIST CANDLE

The white candle reminds us that Jesus is the spotless lamb of God, sent to wash away our sins. His birth was for his death, his death was for our birth!

“The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, ‘Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!’” ~ John 1:29

Church calendar

- Advent is the beginning of the Church Year for most churches in the Western tradition.
- It begins on the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day, which is the Sunday nearest November 30
- It ends on Christmas Eve (Dec 24). If Christmas Eve is a Sunday, it is counted as the fourth Sunday of Advent, with Christmas Eve proper beginning at sundown.

The Meaning of "Advent"

- The word Advent means "coming" or "arrival."
- The focus of the entire season is preparation to:
 - Celebrate the birth of Jesus the Christ in his First Advent

- Anticipate the return of Christ the King in his Second Advent.
- Celebrates the revelation of God in Christ whereby all of creation might be reconciled to God
 - Advent is far more than simply marking a 2,000 year old event in history. It is celebrating a truth about God, the revelation of God in Christ whereby all of creation might be reconciled to God.
 - That is a process in which we now participate, and the consummation of which we anticipate.
 - Scripture reading for Advent will reflect this emphasis on the Second Advent, including themes of accountability for faithfulness at His coming, judgment on sin, and the hope of eternal life.
- Symbolizes the spiritual journey of individuals and a congregation
 - In this double focus on past and future, Advent also symbolizes the spiritual journey of individuals and a congregation, as they affirm that Christ has come, that He is present in the world today, and that He will come again in power.
 - That acknowledgment provides a basis for Kingdom ethics, for holy living arising from a profound sense that we live "between the times" and are called to be faithful stewards of what is entrusted to us as God's people.
 - So, as the church celebrates God's in breaking into history in the Incarnation, and anticipates a future consummation to that history for which "all creation is groaning awaiting its redemption," it also confesses its own responsibility as a people commissioned to "love the Lord your God with all your heart" and to "love your neighbor as yourself."

The Spirit of Advent

- Advent is marked by a spirit of expectation, of anticipation, of preparation, of longing.
 - There is a yearning for deliverance from the evils of the world, first expressed by Israelite slaves in Egypt as they cried out from their bitter oppression. It is the cry of those who have experienced the tyranny of injustice in a world under the curse of sin, and yet who have hope of deliverance by a God who has heard the cries of oppressed slaves and brought deliverance!
 - It is that hope, however faint at times, and that God, however distant He sometimes seems, which brings to the world the anticipation of a King who will rule with truth and justice and righteousness over His people and in His creation. It is that hope that once anticipated, and now anticipates anew, the reign of an Anointed One, a Messiah, who will bring peace and justice and righteousness to the world.
- Part of the expectation also anticipates a judgment on sin and a calling of the world to accountability before God.
 - We long for God to come and set the world right! Yet, as the prophet Amos warned, the expectation of a coming judgment at the "Day of the Lord" may not be the day of light that we might want, because the penetrating light of God's judgment on sin will shine just as brightly on God's people.
 - Because of this important truth, especially in the Eastern Orthodox Churches, the Season of Advent has been a time of fasting and penitence for sins similar to the Season of Lent.
 - However, a different emphasis for the season of Advent has gradually unfolded in much of the rest of the church.
 - The season of Advent has come to be celebrated more in terms of expectation or anticipation.
- Longing for redemption, not from personal guilt and sin, but from the systemic evil of the world
 - The anticipation of the Coming of the Messiah throughout the Old Testament and Judaism was not in connection with remembrance of sins. Rather, it was in the context of oppression and injustice, the longing for redemption, not from personal guilt and sin but from the systemic evil of the world expressed in evil empires and tyrants. It is in that sense that all creation groans for its redemption as we witness the evil that so dominates our world (Rom 8:18-25).
 - There is the problem of longing for vindication from an evil world when we are contributors to that evil.
 - This is the power of the images of Amos when he warns about longing for the "Day of the Lord" that will really be a day of darkness (Amos 5:18-20).
 - Still, even with Amos' warning the time of Advent is one of expectation and anticipation, a longing for God's actions to restore all things and vindicate the righteous.
 - This is why during Advent we as Christians also anticipate the Second Coming as a twin theme of the season.

- So, while some church traditions focus on penitence during Advent, and there remains a place for that, the spirit of that expectation from the Old Testament is better captured with a joyous sense of expectancy. Rather than a time of mourning and fasting, Advent is celebrated as a time of joy and happiness as we await the coming of the King. There will be time enough during the rest of the journey through the Church Year to remember our sins. It begins in Epiphany when we hear about the brotherhood of the Kingdom, and realize our failure to effect it. Then as we move toward and through Lent we realize that the coming of Jesus served more to lay bare our own sin than it did to vindicate our righteousness. There will be time to shed Peter's bitter tears as we realize that what started with such possibility and expectation has apparently ended in such failure.
 - It is only as we experience that full cycle, beginning with unbridled joy in Advent that slowly fades into the realization of what we have done with and to the Christ, that the awful reality of Good Friday can have its full impact. And in that realization we can finally be ready to hear the Good News on Resurrection Sunday! That is the journey that the disciples took. And so there is value in taking the same journey beginning with the anticipation and joy of Advent!
- So, we celebrate with gladness the great promise in the Advent, yet knowing that there is also a somber tone as the theme of threat is added to the theme of promise. This is reflected in some of the Scripture readings for Advent, in which there is a strong prophetic tone of accountability and judgment on sin. But this is also faithful to the role of the Coming King who comes to rule, save, and judge the world.
- Advent is a time of preparation marked by prayer
 - Because of the dual themes of threat and promise, Advent is a time of preparation that is marked by prayer.
 - Advent's prayers are prayers of humble devotion and commitment, prayers of submission, prayers for deliverance, prayers from those walking in darkness who are awaiting and anticipating a great light (Isa 9)!
 - The spirit of Advent is expressed well in the parable of the bridesmaids who are anxiously awaiting the coming of the Bridegroom (Matt 25:1-13). There is profound joy at the Bridegroom's expected coming. And yet a warning of the need for preparation echoes through the parable. But even then, the prayer of Advent is still: Come, O Come, Emmanuel, And ransom captive Israel!

4 songs of Advent

Mary's song (Lk 1:46) - Magnificat

12 days of Christmas

- December 25th → January 5th (beginning of Epiphany on January 6th)
- In some places it is traditional to give Christmas gifts for each of the Twelve Days of Christmas.

The song, "The Twelve Days of Christmas" is an English Christmas carol.

- From 1558 until 1829, Roman Catholics in England were not permitted to practice their faith openly.
- Someone during that era wrote this carol as a catechism song for young Catholics. It has two levels of meaning: the surface meaning plus a hidden meaning known only to members of the Church.
- Each element in the carol has a code word for a religious reality which the children could remember. To fit the number scheme, when you reach number 9, representing the Fruits of the Holy Ghost, the originator combined 6 to make 3, taking the 6 fruits that were similar: the fruit in each parenthesis is the that was not named separately. There are actually Twelve Fruits of the Holy Ghost.

According to Ann Ball in her book, HANDBOOK OF CATHOLIC SACRAMENTALS:

- 1 "True Love" = Jesus Christ, because truly Love was born on Christmas Day.
 - The partridge in the pear tree also represents Him because that bird is willing to sacrifice its life if necessary to protect its young by feigning injury to draw away predators.

Epiphany (January 6th) – Wise Men

- Epiphany is the climax of the Advent/Christmas Season. Celebrates:
 - The time the Wise Men or Magi arrived to present gifts to the young Jesus (Matt. 2:1-12)
 - Baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist in the Jordan River
 - Jesus's 1st miracle at the wedding at Cana
- The term epiphany means "to show" or "to make known" or even "to reveal."
 - In Western churches, it remembers the coming of the wise men bringing gifts to visit the Christ child, who by so doing "reveal" Jesus to the world as Lord and King.
- Adore
 - Adore – Pay divine honor; worship
 - Why adore
 - He was humble – He left perfection to come to our broken world
 - He came to save us – He came to serve us, when we should be serving him
- 3 Magi?
 - Traditionally there were three Magi, probably from the fact of three gifts, even though the biblical narrative never says how many Magi came.
- Three Kings Day, or simply the Day of the Kings
 - In some cultures, especially Hispanic and Latin American culture, January 6th is observed as Three Kings Day, or simply the Day of the Kings.

- Even though December 25th is celebrated as Christmas in these cultures, January 6th is often the day for giving gifts.
- Since Eastern Orthodox traditions use a different religious calendar, they celebrate Christmas on January 7th and observe Epiphany or Theophany on January 19th
- Gifts of the Magi
 - Myrrh
 - Used as an embalming spice in those days
 - It pointed to the death Jesus would die on our behalf, the payment for our sins.
 - Gold
 - So valuable that many commentators believe Joseph used it to cover the costs of traveling to Egypt, following the angel's command and keeping Jesus safe after Herod ordered the slaughter of all baby boys.
 - Frankincense
 - It's mentioned in the book of Exodus when God reveals His design for the tabernacle — the place where He would be present with His people. Exodus 30:22–38 has specific instructions about an incense that was to be offered to the Lord: “Never use this formula to make this incense for yourselves. It is reserved for the Lord, and you must treat it as holy. Anyone who makes incense like this for personal use will be cut off from the community” (Exodus 30:37–38). This incense was to be burned in front of the Ark of the Covenant at the place where God would meet the high priest.
 - Clearly, this incense signified the presence of God with His people. And what exactly was in this special incense? God instructed them to gather fragrant spices and “mix these fragrant spices with pure frankincense” (Exodus 30:34).
 - As the Magi placed their gifts before the Christ Child, the message was loud and clear: God has come to us!
- For many Protestant church traditions, the season of Epiphany extends from January 6th until Ash Wednesday, which begins the season of Lent leading to Easter.

Xmas (X=Christ)

In Greek, the language of the New Testament, the word Christos (Christ) begins with the letter "X," or chi. Here's what it looks like: Χριστός

So how did that word get abbreviated?

In the early fourth century, Constantine the Great, Roman Emperor from 306-337, popularized this shorthand for Christ. According to legend, on the eve of his great battle against Maxentius, Constantine had a vision that led him to create a military banner emblazoned with the first two letters of Christ on it: chi and rho.

These two letters, then, became a sort of shorthand for Jesus Christ.

When did the Greek letter start to be used in the word "Christmas?"

Most scholars agree that the first appearance of this abbreviation for Christmas dates to 1021, "when an Anglo-Saxon scribe saved himself space by writing XPmas," reported First Things. Parchment paper was quite expensive, so any techniques for saving space were welcome. The abbreviation stuck and eventually was shortened to Xmas.

The poet Samuel Taylor Coleridge used it in a letter, dated December 31, 1801, for instance: "On Xmas day I breakfasted with Davy." The verb "xmassing" was also used in the magazine Punch in 1884, according to The Guardian.

Are there any other Christian examples of this?

There's an ancient acronym many of us are familiar with, even if we don't realize it. Have a look:

IXΘΥΣ

It's pronounced Ich-thus, and it's the Greek word for fish. You may know it better as the so-called "Jesus fish" of bumper sticker fame. Early Christians used it as an abbreviated form of one of their creeds: "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior."

These shorthands happen in seminaries all the time. As they do with Christ, seminarians write a similar shorthand for the Greek word God, which is θεός (theos). When abbreviating the word, they'll just jot down the first letter, θ (theta).

Jesus' Public Ministry in Galilee

Jesus launches his public ministry when he is “about thirty years old” (Luke 3: 23); it lasts three years. During that time “Jesus went throughout Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people” (Matthew 4: 23).

Jesus never travelled much more than about 100 miles from home (journey to Jerusalem)

Nicodemus

- Wants a private conversation, and Jesus is always surrounded by people
- Read the gaps
- What must I do to have eternal life?
- I am who I am as a result of my accumulated experiences of my life within a community

Solomon rides into Jerusalem as king on a mule – the same way that Jesus did

- People shake palm branches as Jesus rides in – symbolic swords – represent the Kerethites and the Pelethites (mercenaries) who were there when Solomon rode into Jerusalem as king on a mule
- He is not entering Jerusalem in humility – he is entering as a king.
- It is a replica of Solomon’s entrance into Jerusalem as king (1Ki1) – he rides into Jerusalem exactly the way that Solomon did to assume the kingship
- All the people recognize it and do proclaim him king

John baptizes Jesus

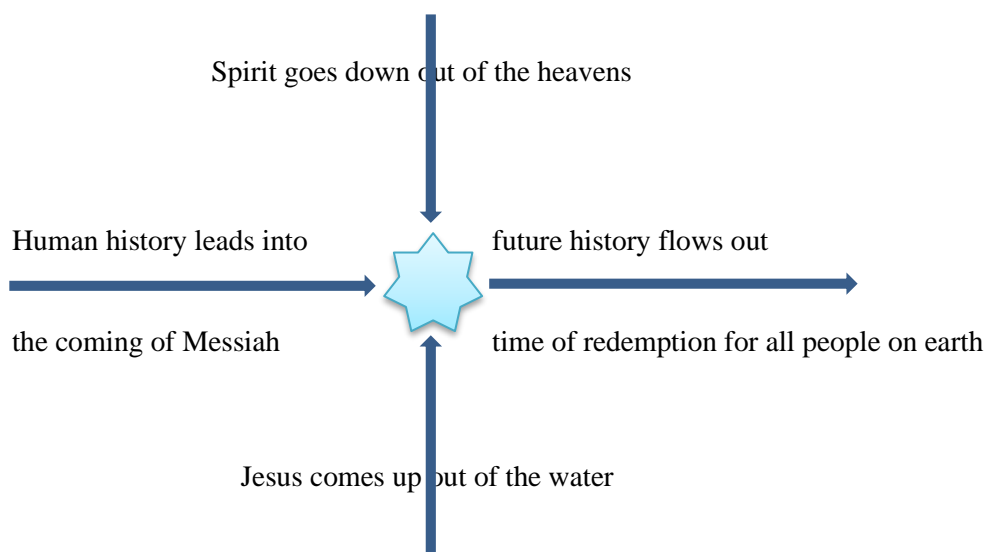

- John baptizes Jesus at Passover

Jesus is commissioned as Messiah

Mk 1:9 and immediately coming up out of the water he saw the heavens being torn apart and the Spirit like a dove descending into him 10 and there was a voice out of the heavens: “You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well pleased.”

- At Jesus’ baptism three things occur:
 - John baptizes him
 - When Jesus passes through the waters of the Jordan, he is identified with Israel and sinful humanity
 - The Spirit descends into him
 - When the Holy Spirit descends into him, he is equipped for his task as the Christ
 - We should understand “Spirit” as “Holy Spirit.” As Mark drops the initial inscriptions of “Christ, Son of God” from Jesus (v. 1) and “the one baptizing in the desert” from John (v. 4), so does his drop “Holy” from Spirit (v. 8)
 - God proclaims him as his Son
 - God proclaims Jesus’ authority for executing that role
 - From this point on, Jesus is fully acknowledged as commissioned to act with the authority and power of God, as God’s Spirit-filled, Spirit-led Son.
- The sequence and symbolism establish Jesus’ commission as Messiah, and they are rooted in the Old Testament:

- At Aaron's commissioning as high priest he is publicly washed with water and anointed with oil, just as Jesus is publicly washed in the waters of baptism and filled with the Holy Spirit;
- As Aaron has the turban placed upon his head with the sacred diadem reading "Sacred to the Lord," so does Jesus have the title placed upon him, "my Son, the Beloved"
- As Aaron is consecrated to the high priesthood, so is Jesus consecrated to his role as Messiah.
- Robert Tannehill notes that we are "to understand the baptism scene as the communication of this commission, for here we have a rare type of story, one in which God speaks directly to Jesus and declares who Jesus is."
- As readers, we have now been told of Jesus' identity twice in eleven verses:
 - Once by the narrator
 - Once by God himself
 - Lest we have any doubt, the narrator has provided the evidence of two credible witnesses.

Piero della Francesca. The Baptism of Christ (egg on poplar), c. 1450. National Gallery, London.

- Picture:
 - Horizontal plane:
 - All human history leads into this moment, to the coming of Messiah
 - All future history flows out of this moment, a time of redemption for all people on earth.
 - Vertical plane
 - Jesus comes up out of the water
 - The Spirit goes down out of the heavens.
 - As the horizontal and vertical intersect
 - God announces, "You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well-pleased."
 - When God promised Abraham back in Genesis 12: 3 that "all peoples on earth will be blessed through you," he spoke of this moment when his Son would step onto the stage of history.
 - In a stroke of narrative brilliance, Mark captures the dramatic moment.

3 texts knitted together from the OT

Mk 1:9 and immediately coming up out of the water he saw the heavens being torn apart and the Spirit like a dove descending into him 10 and there was a voice out of the heavens: "You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well pleased."

- Psalm 2
 - Presents the clearest allusion.
 - Here “the kings of the earth take their stand and the rulers gather together against the Lord and against his Anointed One” (Psalm 2:2). God rebukes the kings and he says to them: “I have installed my King on Zion, my holy hill” (2:6), and then he turns to his King and says: “You are my Son; today I have become your Father. Ask of me, and I will make the nations your inheritance, the ends of the earth your possession” (2:7-8).
 - In Psalm 2, God appoints his anointed one king over the rulers of the earth, and he confers on him the title of Son.
- Genesis 22
 - The sacrifice of Isaac – with its emphasis on the sacrifice of “the only son.”
 - Here Abraham takes his only son Isaac to Moriah to sacrifice him to God as a burnt offering. Once they arrive at the site, not knowing that he is to be the offering, Isaac asks his father for the sacrificial lamb. Abraham replies, “God himself will provide the lamb for the burnt offering, my son.” Later, as Abraham is about to plunge the knife into Isaac, the angel of the Lord stays his hand, saying: “Do not lay a hand on the boy . . . Now I know that you fear God, because you have not withheld from me your son, your only son” (22: 12-13).
 - Significantly, God does not provide a lamb for the sacrifice, but a ram.
 - In the New Testament he provides the lamb, “the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world” (John 1: 29).
 - As John the Baptist tells us himself, “This is the one I meant when I said, ‘A man who comes after me has surpassed me because he was before me’” (John 1: 30).
- Isaiah 42:1
 - “Here is my servant, whom I uphold, my chosen one in whom I delight; I will put my Spirit on him and he will bring justice to the nations.”
 - Isaiah 42 records the first of four servant songs in Isaiah.
 - Here Isaiah tells us that the servant will become “a light for the Gentiles, to open eyes that are blind, to free captives from prison and to release from the dungeon those who sit in darkness” (42: 6-7).
 - “servant”
 - In the Old Testament, the Hebrew word for “servant” is linked to the phrase “servant of God”
 - In the four servant songs of Isaiah, it comes to denote the Messiah.
 - In the New Testament the phrase is normally rendered “Son of God,” where it refers to Jesus.
 - Important shift in terminology
 - It links Jesus with the servant in Isaiah
 - It links Jesus with the Son in Psalm 2:7
 - In Isaiah 42:1 God says, “I will put my Spirit on him [my servant/Son]”
 - At the baptism of Jesus, he does exactly that.
 - The phrase “servant of God” encompasses both a collective & individual understanding
 - In the collective understanding, “servant of God” refers to Israel as the “servant of God”
 - In the individual understanding—especially in Isaiah 52:13-53:12—it also refers to an individual: the Messiah
 - Although one can debate whether “servant of God” should refer to collective Israel or to the person of Messiah in any given context, clearly the New Testament read it as the latter
- C.S. Mann
 - C.S. Mann remarks that when God declares: “You are my Son, the Beloved; in you I am well-pleased” (Mark 1: 11), its importance “can hardly be exaggerated, since it combines motifs from the soteriological ideas of Genesis 22, a messianic designation in Psalm 2, and the Servant of Isaiah 42. The combination of motifs is startling, yet all the elements are at home in Palestinian Judaism.”
 - When the motifs converge, they clearly present Jesus as Son and Lord, acknowledged by God and commissioned for the task at hand.

Dove

- When we are told that Jesus “saw the Spirit like a dove descending into him,” it is the Spirit that is like a dove, not the manner in which the Spirit descends.
 - Placing “like a dove” after “the Spirit” instead of after “descending” in the Greek syntax favors “like a dove” modifying “Spirit,” not “descending.”
 - The phrase creates a striking and memorable image.
 - Leander Keck says: “Probably no detail of the account of Jesus’ baptism has evoked so diverse a range of suggestions as has the dove.”
- Use of the dove in the OT – A dove appears or is used as a literary device in five distinct ways in the OT:
 - Genesis 1:2 - “the Spirit of God was hovering over the waters.”
 - Just as the Spirit of God hovered over the waters at the creation, so does the Spirit of God hover over the waters at Jesus’ baptism, ushering in a new era of creation.
 - The Genesis reference draws on the same bird imagery explicit in Deuteronomy.
 - Dt 32:11 God compares himself to “an eagle that stirs up its nest and hovers over its young”
 - “Hovering” is the same verb used in Deuteronomy 32:11
 - A recently published Dead Sea scroll fragment confirms this link between the bird imagery in Genesis 1:2 and the dove at Jesus’ baptism.
 - In the “Messianic Vision” fragment, line six reads: “And over the Poor will His Spirit hover and the Faithful will He support with his Strength.”
 - Dale C. Allison, Jr. says, “This text strengthens—indeed, all but confirms—the judgment of those who understand the baptismal dove as an allusion to Genesis.”
 - In Genesis 1:2, then, we find the same three elements that appear at Jesus’ baptism:
 - the Spirit of God
 - water
 - the image of a bird implied in hovering.
 - This is the second allusion Mark makes to Genesis 1. In the first, he begins his gospel “Beginning the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . .,” recalling Genesis 1: 1, “In the beginning . . .”
 - Genesis 8 – Noah sends out a dove to see if the waters have receded from the flood
 - Delightful play on words – In Hebrew, “Noah” is no’-akh and “dove” is yo-naw’.
 - A careful reading of the story reveals a deep tenderness between Noah and the dove
 - When Noah releases the dove the first time, she returns to him, for she “found no resting place for her foot” (Genesis 8: 9).
 - “Resting place” is maw-no’-akh.
 - The word-play of “Noah-dove-resting place” links the three, suggesting that the dove looked for another Noah outside the ark, but finding none, she returned to the Noah she knew.
 - When she returned, Noah “reached out his hand and took the dove and brought it back to himself.”
 - G.W.H. Lampe suggests that as Noah’s dove was “the harbinger of the first covenant,” so the dove at Jesus’ baptism “opens the way toward the new covenant in which all Israel will ‘know the Lord’ through the indwelling presence of the Spirit.”
 - The psalms identify both David and Israel with the dove in vivid and beautiful terms:
 - Once as David says, “Oh, that I had the wings of a dove! I would fly away and be at rest” (Ps 55: 6)
 - Once again as a figure of Israel – In Psalm 68:13, David pictures God scattering Israel’s enemies, and while Israel herself sleeps among the campfires, God sees “the wings of my dove . . . sheathed with silver, its feathers with shining gold.” The psalms identify both David and Israel with the dove in vivid and beautiful terms.
 - In the Song of Songs, the dove provides a lovely metaphor for both the beloved and the lover:
 - “How beautiful you are, my darling! Oh, how beautiful! Your eyes are doves” (1:15),

- “My dove in the clefts of the rock, in the hiding places on the mountainside, show me your face; let me hear your voice . . .” (2:14),
- “I slept but my heart was awake. Listen! My lover is knocking: ‘Open to me, my sister, my darling, my dove, my flawless one . . .’” (5:2).
- Dove references:
 - The immediate reference is to the lover and his beloved
 - One may also read the Song of Songs as an allegory of God’s love for Israel.
 - The dove, then, provides a beautiful and gentle metaphor on both levels.
- In the prophets, the dove continues as a symbol of Israel, principally in her distress.
 - In the prophets, Israel moans like a dove and hides trembling in the rocks.
- Outside the Bible another important reference adds to our understanding of the dove at Jesus’ baptism.
 - “24th Ode of Solomon” - “The dove fluttered over the head of our Lord Messiah,/ because he was her Head./ And she sang over him,/ and her voice was heard” (vv. 1-2).
 - Although composed sometime around A.D. 100, the Odes of Solomon probably reflect the earlier pre-Christian motif that we see present in the Dead Sea scroll fragment.
- As we can see, the dove imagery draws on a rich fabric of allusion.
 - It would be too simplistic to trace its origins to one particular reference
 - When the Spirit descends into Jesus like a dove, it brings with it an entire complex of Scriptural allusion
 - Suggests the Spirit of God hovering over the waters at creation
 - Suggests the tenderness of Noah and his dove at the dawn of a new beginning
 - Recalls the intimate imagery inherent in God’s love for Israel, and it suggests Israel herself, vulnerable and broken.
 - When the Spirit descends into Jesus at his baptism like a dove, picture its wings “sheathed with silver, its feathers with shining gold” as it embodies the entire history of salvation tightly woven into the fabric of Scripture.
- In the presence of such beautiful imagery it is important to keep in mind that the dove is not a literal creature, but a simile: “. . . he saw the heavens being torn open and the Spirit like a dove descending into him.”
 - The Greek preposition is properly translated into, not “on,” and it suggests that the Spirit descends into him and disappears into him.
 - The fact that Jesus sees its descent into him suggests that he is aware of what he has received. Filled with the Holy Spirit he is equipped for the task at hand and will use the Spirit’s power throughout the rest of the story.

Jesus is tempted by Satan

Mk 1:12 At once the Spirit sent him out into the desert, 13 and he was in the desert forty days, being tempted by Satan. He was with the wild animals, and angels attended him.

A John baptizes Jesus in the Jordan (v. 9)

B The Spirit descends into him (v. 10)

C God proclaims Jesus as Son (v. 11)

D And immediately the Spirit drives him into the desert (v. 12)

C’ Satan tempts Jesus (v. 13a)

B’ The wild beasts are with him (v. 13b)

A’ Angels minister to Jesus in the desert (v. 13c)

- The symmetry of the two events, linked together as they are with “and immediately” in verse twelve, suggests an intimate connection between the two
 - The 3 events of verses nine through eleven are mirrored by their opposites in verse thirteen:
 - A/A’ – John baptizes Jesus in the Jordan, and angels minister to Jesus in the desert
 - B/B’ – The Spirit descends into him, and wild beasts are with him

- C/C' – God proclaims Jesus as his Son and Satan tempts him.
- The whole structure turns on verse twelve, moving Jesus from commission to action.
- Imbedded chiasm – Top half is mirrored by the bottom half
 - Common feature of both Hebrew poetry and narrative
 - Important element of Mark's narrative strategy

In the desert

- Parallels the 40 years of wilderness wanderings in the desert
 - Punishment for not trusting God
- God brought Jesus into the wilderness to be tempted
 - Jesus has declared/identified himself with sinners
 - He has to prove that he can resist the same temptations that we have
- 40 – Period of testing
 - 40 days and 40 nights of tempting
 - 40 years in the wilderness
- “the Spirit drives him out . . .”
 - The Greek word suggests strong—even violent—action.
 - Mark also uses the word for:
 - the expulsion of demons
 - the forceful removal of people
 - the plucking out of an eye.
- When Mark says: “the Spirit drives him out . . .,” it is in sharp contrast to:
 - Matthew's passive, “Then Jesus was led by the Spirit into the desert . . .” (Matthew 4: 1)
 - Luke's, “Jesus . . . was led by the Spirit in the desert” (Luke 4: 1).
 - Placing such a strong, vigorous word in the historical present intensifies the drama
 - The Spirit drives Jesus into the desert to demonstrate who he was.
- As Jesus moves into action, it is significant that his first encounter as Messiah is with Satan.
 - The verb being tempted suggests hostile intent – In the sense of “to wage war.”
 - Although the verb can mean “to test” (Mark uses it this way in 8: 11, 10: 2 and 12: 15), the fact that Satan initiates the testing suggests that he does so with the hostile intent that Jesus fail the test. The traditional translation, “tempted,” therefore, captures the meaning nicely.
 - In a very real sense, Mark portrays Jesus' temptation as the first engagement in a war.
 - The scene is set in the desert with the wild beasts, and it is fraught with danger.
 - Several scholars see the reference to animals as an allusion to Isaiah 11: 6-8; 65: 25 and Hosea 2: 18, saying that it is a restoration of paradise when “the wolf will live with the lamb, and the leopard will lie down with the goat.” In this view “Jesus is the promised deliverer whose ministry begins under the control of the Spirit (1: 12) in the wilderness (1: 12-13a) where he resists Satan (1: 13a) and lies in harmony with creation (1:13b, c) befitting the presence of the new age of salvation” (Guelich, p. 40). In my opinion, though, the scene is much too ominous for such an interpretation. We have already noticed in Psalm 74: 19—“do not hand over the life of your dove to wild beasts.” And one may well think of the desert as the haunt of jackals and the home of owls. When the Israelites spent forty years being tested in the desert, all but Joshua and Caleb were buried there.

Temptations

- Every one of Jesus' answers is the word of God – all from Deuteronomy
 - IF you are the son of God – introduces doubt
 - 2nd – Satan quotes Ps 91 – misinterpretation of the Scripture

- 3rd – Jesus does not deny that Satan has the ability to give him the kingdoms of the world
 - Jesus will already have dominion over the whole world after the crucifixion and resurrection – Satan is offering him a shortcut that doesn’t involve all the horrors that He will have to endure
 - Wouldn’t you rather take the easy path . . . one of Satan’s most common temptations
- Resist the devil and he will flee from you
 - Satan left after the 3rd temptation
 - It’s hard, but don’t surrender and Satan will leave you
- The temptations is not restricted to the three temptations that are presented - they are continuous, extending throughout the forty days
 - Know this by the grammar – Written as a passive present participle
- We should not read into “being tempted” the possibility that Jesus could have failed under Satan’s onslaught.
 - He could not.
 - The Spirit did not drive Jesus into the desert to risk failure; it drove him there to demonstrate who he was.
 - As the narrator tells the reader who Jesus is in the first eleven verses of the prologue, so does Satan learn who he is in the temptation scenes.
- Notice how the demons respond to him after this:
 - “Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are—the Holy One of God!” (Mark 1:24),
 - “The unclean spirits whenever they saw him were falling down before him and were crying out, saying, ‘You are the Son of God!’” (Mark 3:11),
 - “What do I have to do with you, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I implore you by God, do not torment me! . . . and he was begging him earnestly not to send them out of the region” (Mark 5:7, 10).
 - The demons’ words reflect the outcome of Jesus’ encounter with Satan in the desert.
 - When the demons meet Jesus, there is never any question of who Jesus is or of who has the upper hand.
- Parallels between the Satanic temptations of Eve and Jesus
 - Genesis 3 / Matthew 4

Eve	Jesus
“Good for food”	stones into bread
“pleasing to the eye”	throw yourself down
“desirable for gaining wisdom”	kingdoms of the world

Peter's Confession of Faith

Satan's theme – It's not proper for the Messiah to suffer

Mt 16:21 From that time on Jesus began to explain to his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things at the hands of the elders, chief priests and teachers of the law, and that he must be killed and on the third day be raised to life. 22 Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him. "Never, Lord!" he said. "This shall never happen to you!" 23 Jesus turned and said to Peter, "Get behind me, Satan! You are a stumbling block to me; you do not have in mind the things of God, but the things of men."

See John is arrested

Discipleship

- Talmide (Talmidim) – more than just students – they wanted to become the Rabbis
 - Consuming passion to be like their Rabbi
- Made a connection between religion and the way that they live
- Created a community – including accountability
- Faith – Passionate commitment to action

Jesus moves from Nazareth to Capernaum (Lk 4:31-9:50)

- Jesus rejected at Nazareth (Lk 4:14-30)
- Jesus relocates to Capernaum (Lk 4:31-9:50)

After Jesus' baptism and John's arrest, Jesus quickly relocates to Capernaum and chooses twelve disciples who will become his inner circle.

- Becomes known as Jesus of Nazareth
- About 1.5 hour drive north

Capernaum

- Relocates from the familiar village of Nazareth where he grew up, to Capernaum on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee, a distance of 40 miles.
- Lives with Peter
- Becomes the headquarters for his public ministry

Galilee was the Berkley of Jesus' time – hotbed of radical thinking

Basalt base – unlike Jerusalem

Along the Via Maris

Galilee was the source of basalt – needed for the olive press – exported throughout Israel

Olives were essential to the Jewish community

Anointing was done with olive oil

Used as fuel, food, skin care, etc.

12 Disciples/Apostles

12 Disciples represent the 12 tribes of Israel

- Jesus calls Simon (Peter), Andrew, James and John as disciples (Mt 5:1-11)
- Jesus calls Levi (Matthew) as a disciple (Mt 5:27-32)
- Jesus calls Philip, Bartholomew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Simon the Zealot, Judas son of James and Judas Iscariot as disciples, completing the twelve (Mt 6:12-16)

2 stages of sending

- At first, He sends the 12 disciples to minister to Israel (Jews), not Gentiles
- During a 2nd stage, he sends them to the Gentiles

Jesus gave the 12 disciples His authority

Peter (Simon), Andrew, James, John

- Jesus chooses his inner circle in Capernaum – Peter, James and John

- All are originally from Bethsaida—a few miles northeast of Capernaum
- Together, with Zebedee, they were partners in a commercial fishing business on the Sea of Galilee
 - That Zebedee was a man of considerable wealth may be inferred from the fact that he had "hired servants" with him (Mark 1:20), and that his wife was one of those women who ministered of their substance to Jesus and His disciples (Matthew 27:55,56).
- Peter and Andrew
 - Brothers
 - Now live in Capernaum
- James and John
 - Brothers, the sons of Zebedee and Salome
 - Still live in Bethsaida
 - They may be the cousins of Jesus
 - Their mother, Salome, may be Mary's sister or sister-in-law
 - Many infer from John 19:25 that Salome was the sister of Mary
 - Comparison of Matthew 27:55,56 with Mark 15:40,41 identifies the wife of Zebedee, John's mother, with Salome, and it seems a fair inference from John 19:25, though all do not accept it, that Mary, the mother of Jesus, and Salome, the wife of Zebedee, were sisters. On this view, James and John were cousins of Jesus, and were also related to the family of John the Baptist.
- When Jesus calls them from the boat, they already knew him
 - Andrew was disciple of John the Baptist
 - Jn 1: 29 The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world! 30 This is the one I meant when I said, 'A man who comes after me has surpassed me because he was before me.' ... 40 Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, was one of the two who heard what John had said and who had followed Jesus. 41 The first thing Andrew did was to find his brother Simon and tell him, "We have found the Messiah" (that is, the Christ). 42 And he brought him to Jesus.
 - They would have walked back and forth between Jerusalem and Galilee for the 3 festivals every year
- In Mt 4, Jesus is calling them to a formal discipleship
 - Immediately, they left their business, Peter left his wife, everything . . .

Was Peter the first pope?

Was Peter the first pope? The answer, according to Scripture, is a clear and emphatic “no.”

The Roman Catholic Church sees Peter as the first pope upon whom God had chosen to build His church (Matthew 16:18). It holds that he had authority (primacy) over the other apostles. The Roman Catholic Church maintains that sometime after the recorded events of the book of Acts, the Apostle Peter became the first bishop of Rome, and that the Roman bishop was accepted by the early church as the central authority among all of the churches. It teaches that God passed Peter's apostolic authority to those who later filled his seat as bishop of Rome. This teaching that God passed on Peter's apostolic authority to the subsequent bishops is referred to as “apostolic succession.”

The Roman Catholic Church also holds that Peter and the subsequent popes were and are infallible when addressing issues “ex cathedra,” from their position and authority as pope. It teaches that this infallibility gives the pope the ability to guide the church without error. The Roman Catholic Church claims that it can trace an unbroken line of popes back to St. Peter, citing this as evidence that it is the true church, since, according to their interpretation of Matthew 16:18, Christ built His church upon Peter.

But while Peter was central in the early spread of the gospel (part of the meaning behind Matthew 16:18-19), the teaching of Scripture, taken in context, nowhere declares that he was in authority over the other apostles, or over the church (having primacy). See Acts 15:1-23; Galatians 2:1-14; and 1 Peter 5:1-5. Nor is it ever taught in Scripture that the bishop of Rome, or any other bishop, was to have primacy over the church. Scripture does not even explicitly record Peter ever being in Rome. Rather there is only one reference in Scripture of Peter writing from “Babylon,” a name sometimes applied to Rome (1 Peter 5:13). Primarily upon this and the historical rise of the influence of the Bishop of Rome come the Roman Catholic Church's teaching of the primacy of the bishop of Rome. However, Scripture shows that Peter's authority was shared by the other apostles (Ephesians 2:19-20), and the “loosing and binding” authority attributed to him was likewise shared by the local churches, not just their church leaders (see Matthew 18:15-19; 1 Corinthians 5:1-13; 2 Corinthians 13:10; Titus 2:15; 3:10-11).

Also, nowhere does Scripture state that, in order to keep the church from error, the authority of the apostles was passed on to those they ordained (the idea behind apostolic succession). Apostolic succession is “read into” those verses that the Roman Catholic Church uses to support this doctrine (2 Timothy 2:2; 4:2-5; Titus 1:5; 2:1; 2:15; 1 Timothy 5:19-22). Paul does NOT call on believers in various churches to receive Titus, Timothy, and other church leaders based on their authority as bishops or their having apostolic authority, but rather based upon their being fellow laborers with him (1 Corinthians 16:10; 16:16; 2 Corinthians 8:23).

What Scripture DOES teach is that false teachings would arise even from among church leaders, and that Christians were to compare the teachings of these later church leaders with Scripture, which alone is infallible (Matthew 5:18; Psalm 19:7-8; 119:160; Proverbs 30:5; John 17:17; 2 Peter 1:19-21). The Bible does not teach that the apostles were infallible, apart from what was written by them and incorporated into Scripture. Paul, in talking to the church leaders in the large city of Ephesus, makes note of coming false teachers. To fight against their error does NOT commend them to “the apostles and those who would carry on their authority”; rather, Paul commends them to “God and to the word of His grace” (Acts 20:28-32). It is Scripture that was to be the infallible measuring stick for teaching and practice (2 Timothy 3:16-17), not apostolic successors. It is by examining the Scriptures that teachings are shown to be true or false (Acts 17:10-12).

Was Peter the first pope? The answer, according to Scripture, is a clear and emphatic “no.” Peter nowhere claims supremacy over the other apostles. Nowhere in his writings (1 and 2 Peter) did the Apostle Peter claim any special role, authority, or power over the church. Nowhere in Scripture does Peter, or any other apostle, state that their apostolic authority would be passed on to successors. Yes, the Apostle Peter had a leadership role among the disciples. Yes, Peter played a crucial role in the early spread of the gospel (Acts chapters 1-10). Yes, Peter was the “rock” that Christ predicted he would be (Matthew 16:18). However, these truths about Peter in no way give support to the concept that Peter was the first pope, or that he was the “supreme leader” over the apostles, or that his authority would be passed on to the bishops of Rome. Peter himself points us all to the true Shepherd and Overseer of the church, the Lord Jesus Christ (1 Peter 2:25).

Matthew the tax collector (Levi)

- Tax collector
 - Jewish people that have gone to work for the Roman government
 - Viewed as traitors and collaborators with the military occupation of this land
 - Very profitable to the tax collector because of the allowance to greed
- Per person example
 - $50 – Rome
 - $50 – Roman primary collector
 - $50 – Jewish primary collector
 - $50 – Jewish primary collector
 - $200 per person per year
- Matthew obeyed immediately
- Jesus then shared a meal with tax collectors and sinners
 - Sharing life with them – he’s saying to them “I’m not ashamed of you, embarrassed of you, I love you”
 - Caused a scandal with the most religious people
 - The religious leaders did not recognize that they were also the sick people that Jesus came for
 - Religious people were all outward appearance, dying on the inside
 - The religious people did not have mercy or compassion for sinners like Matthew
 - Mt 9:12 ...Jesus said, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick...'I desire mercy, not sacrifice.' For I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners."

Martyrdom

All the Apostles were martyred except John. The details of the martyrdoms are found in traditional early church sources. These traditions were recounted in the writings of the church fathers and the first official church history written by the historian Eusebius in AD 325.

- Matthew was martyred in Ethiopia, killed by a sword
- Mark died in Alexandria, Egypt after being dragged by horses through the streets until he was dead
- Peter was crucified upside down on a X-shaped cross, according to church tradition, because he told his tormentors that he felt unworthy to die in the same way that Jesus Christ had died
- Luke was hanged in Greece as a result of his tremendous preaching to the lost
- James the just – the leader of the church in Jerusalem – was thrown over a 100' down from the South East pinnacle of the Temple when he refused to deny his faith in Christ. When they discovered that he survived the fall, his enemies beat James to death with a fullers club. This was the same pinnacle where Satan had taken Jesus to during the temptation.
- James the greater – a son of Zebedee, a fisherman by trade when Jesus called him to a lifetime of ministry. He was a strong leader the church and was ultimately beheaded at Jerusalem.
- Bartholomew – also known as Nathaniel – was a missionary to Asia. He witnessed about our Lord in present day Turkey. Bartholomew was martyred for his preaching in Armenia when he was flayed to death by a whip.
- Andrew was crucified on an X-shaped cross in Patras, Greece. After being whipped severely by 7 soldiers, they tied his body to the cross with cords to prolong his agony. His followers reported that when he was lead down toward the cross, Andrew saluted and in these words “I have long desired and expected this happy hour. The cross has been consecrated by the body of Christ hanging on it.” He continued to preach to his tormentors for 2 days until he expired.
- Thomas was stabbed with a spear in India during one of his missionary trips to establish the church in the subcontinent
- Jude – the brother of Jesus – was killed with arrows when he refused to deny his faith in Christ
- Matthias – the apostle chosen to replace the traitor Judas Iscariot – was stoned and then beheaded
- Barnabas – one the group of 70 disciples – preached throughout Italy and Cyprus. Barnabas was stoned to death at Salonika
- Paul was tortured and then beheaded by the evil Emperor Nero at Rome in AD 67. Paul endured a lengthy imprisonment which allowed him to write his many epistles to the churches he had formed throughout the Roman Empire. These letters – which taught many that foundational doctrines of Christianity – form a large portion of the New Testament.
- John face martyrdom when he was boiled in a huge basin of boiling oil during a wave of persecution in Rome. However, he was miraculously delivered from death. John was then sentenced of the mines on the prison island of Patmos. He wrote his prophetic book of Revelation on Patmos. John was later freed and returned to serve as Bishop of Adicia in modern Turkey. He died as an old man – the only apostle to die peacefully.

How Did the Apostles Die?

Reports and legends abound and they are not always reliable, but it is safe to say that the apostles went far and wide as heralds of the message of the risen Christ. An early legend says they cast lots and divided up the world to determine who would go where, so all could hear about Jesus. They suffered greatly for their faith and in most cases met violent deaths on account of their bold witness.

Peter and Paul

Both martyred in Rome about 66 AD, during the persecution under Emperor Nero. Paul was beheaded. Peter was crucified, upside down at his request, since he did not feel he was worthy to die in the same manner as his Lord.

Andrew

went to the "land of the man-eaters," in what is now the Soviet Union. Christians there claim him as the first to bring the gospel to their land. He also preached in Asia Minor, modern-day Turkey, and in Greece, where he is said to have been crucified.

Thomas

was probably most active in the area east of Syria. Tradition has him preaching as far east as India, where the ancient Marthoma Christians revere him as their founder. They claim that he died there when pierced through with the spears of four soldiers.

Philip

possibly had a powerful ministry in Carthage in North Africa and then in Asia Minor, where he converted the wife of a Roman proconsul. In retaliation the proconsul had Philip arrested and cruelly put to death.

Matthew

the tax collector and writer of a Gospel, ministered in Persia and Ethiopia. Some of the oldest reports say he was not martyred, while others say he was stabbed to death in Ethiopia.

Bartholomew

had widespread missionary travels attributed to him by tradition: to India with Thomas, back to Armenia, and also to Ethiopia and Southern Arabia. There are various accounts of how he met his death as a martyr for the gospel.

James

the son of Alphaeus, is one of at least three James referred to in the New Testament. There is some confusion as to which is which, but this James is reckoned to have ministered in Syria. The Jewish historian Josephus reported that he was stoned and then clubbed to death.

Simon the Zealot

so the story goes, ministered in Persia and was killed after refusing to sacrifice to the sun god.

Matthais

was the apostle chosen to replace Judas. Tradition sends him to Syria with Andrew and to death by burning.

Bartholomew

There is a non-Biblical document called the "Martyrdom of Bartholomew," which claims that Bartholomew was martyred by King Astyages in Armenia:

"And when he had thus spoken, the king was informed that this god Baldad and all the other idols had fallen down, and were broken in pieces. Then the king rent the purple in which he was clothed, and ordered the holy apostle Bartholomew to be beaten with rods; and after having been thus scourged, to be beheaded." - Martyrdom of Bartholomew.

Bartholomew was one of the Twelve Apostles and is mentioned in the Bible's New Testament, in Matthew 10:3; Mark 3:18; Luke 6:14; and Acts 1:13.

According to Eusebius, Christian writer who lived during the 4th Century of this era (about 1600 years ago), Bartholomew traveled to India to preach to the people there, leaving behind a copy of the Gospel of Matthew: "Pantaenous is said to have gone among the Indians where a report is that he discovered there the Gospel according to St. Matthew among some who knew Christ; Bartholomew, one of the Apostles had preached to them and had left them the writings of St. Matthew in Hebrew letters."

James son of Alphaeus

James son of Alphaeus, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs, was beaten, stoned and clubbed to death.

Andrew

Andrew might have been martyred in Achaia or Patrae, both of which are places in the western part of Greece. According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, "It is generally agreed that he was crucified by order of the Roman Governor, Aegeas or Aegeates, at Patrae in Achaia, and that he was bound, not nailed, to the cross, in order to prolong his sufferings. The cross on which he suffered is commonly held to have been the decussate cross, now known as St. Andrew's, though the evidence for this view seems to be no older than the fourteenth century. His martyrdom took place during the reign of Nero, on 30 November, A.D. 60); and both the Latin and Greek Churches keep 30 November as his feast."

Peter

It is believed that Peter was crucified upside down in Rome during the 60s.

Judas

Judas Iscariot was not a martyr. He killed himself after betraying Jesus.

John

John is believed to have died of natural causes, and he might have been the only Apostle to have done so.

Thomas

Thomas was killed with a spear, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs: "Called Didymus, preached the Gospel in Parthia and India, where exciting the rage of the pagan priests, he was martyred by being thrust through with a spear."

James son of Zebedee

The martyrdom of James son of Zebedee is recorded in the New Testament of the Bible, in Acts 12:1-2. He was executed, with a sword, by order of King Herod Agrippa I in the year 44 AD:

It was about this time that King Herod arrested some who belonged to the church, intending to persecute them. He had James, the brother of John, put to death with the sword. - Acts 12:1-2.

We also learn in Acts, chapter 12, that King Herod Agrippa I also imprisoned Peter for a while.

Philip

Philip was crucified, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs: "He labored diligently in Upper Asia, and suffered martyrdom at Heliopolis, in Phrygia. He was scourged, thrown into prison, and afterwards crucified, A.D. 54."

Matthew

Matthew was killed with a spear, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs: "The scene of his labors was Parthia, and Ethiopia, in which latter country he suffered martyrdom, being slain with a halberd in the city of Nadabah, A.D. 60."

Thaddeus (Jude)

Jude was crucified, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs: "The brother of James, was commonly called Thaddeus. He was crucified at Edessa, A.D. 72."

Simon

Simon was crucified, according to Foxs' Book of Martyrs: "Surnamed Zelotes, preached the Gospel in Mauritania, Africa, and even in Britain, in which latter country he was crucified, A.D. 74."

The Twelve Disciples

Who Are the Twelve Disciples?

THEIR BACKGROUNDS

- They were twelve Jewish men whom Jesus called to follow him during his 3-year ministry on earth.
- The twelve disciples were from the Galilee region in the north except for Judas Iscariot, who was from Judea in the south.
- Their occupations ranged from fisherman to tax collectors and revolutionaries.
- Some were married. (Mark 1:29-31; 1 Cor. 9:3-6)
- Some were well-versed in Scripture. (John 1:46)

THEIR PURPOSE

- After being baptized by John the Baptist and spending 40 days in the wilderness, Jesus started teaching and many people started following him.
- After a night of prayer and meditation, Jesus chose twelve men out of all those who were following him.
- These twelve men would be Jesus' main focus of instruction.
- These disciples were selected to let the world know of God's love, that God sent Jesus to redeem the world. (see John 17:23)

THEIR MISSION

- These are the twelve men who, for the most part, would prove to be valuable companions to Jesus.
- Their instruction and conversations would become the teachings, knowledge, and instruction for the church that would later grow and spread.
- Jesus knew their personalities, both strong and weak.
- Jesus knew that these men would disappoint him, desert him, deny him, and betray him.
- Jesus knew that these men, once filled with the Holy Spirit, would be the first witnesses of the Gospel, carrying God's message of redemption to Judea, Samaria, and the ends of the earth.
- The twelve tribes of Israel were blessed in order to be a blessing to all nations. In a similar way, these twelve men, along with all disciples of Jesus who follow their lead, were to bless all nations. (Galatians 3:8) Followers of Christ are commanded to go out and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, The Son, and the Holy Spirit.

Being a Disciple of Christ

BEGINNING THE JOURNEY: COUNT THE COST

- Jesus said that whoever wants to follow him, that person must deny himself and take up his cross. He said that if one wants to save his life he will lose it, but if he loses his life for Jesus and for the gospel he will save it.
- When Simon Peter, James and John encountered Jesus, they pulled their boats up on shore, left everything and followed him.

FOLLOWING CHRIST TOGETHER: FELLOWSHIP

- Jesus prayed that his followers would be brought to complete unity.
- The followers of Jesus were not to give up meeting together and were to encourage one another.

SERVING CHRIST AND OTHERS

- Jesus said that whoever wants to become great among his disciples must be a servant, just as Jesus himself did not come to be served, but to serve, and "to give his life a ransom for many."

FAILURES AND FORGIVENESS

- When Jesus was arrested all the disciples deserted him and fled, and Peter denied knowing him because he feared for his life.
- Later Jesus said that the disciples would receive power when the Holy Spirit came to them and that they would share the good news in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and all over the earth.

IN THE POWER OF THE SPIRIT

- Jesus promised the disciples that he would send the Holy Spirit to them, and that the Holy Spirit would guide them and provide them with gifts that would help them carry out their mission.
- Paul wrote to the Corinthian church informing them that there is only one Spirit, but different kinds of gifts. There is only one God, but several kinds of good works.

- Was present for the Great Commission when Jesus sent his disciples to all nations. (Matthew 28:16-20)
- Witnessed Jesus being taken up into heaven. (Acts 1:8, 9)

Go out and eagerly share the good news about Jesus Christ.

Some suggest that Andrew preached in Greece, Asia Minor, and Russia.
A seventh-century story suggests that Andrew was crucified on an X-shaped cross by a Roman proconsul.
The symbol for Andrew is sometimes the X-shaped cross.

Philip

- None

- Born in Bethsaida. (John 1:44)
- Well versed in Scripture. (John 1:45, 46)
- Listed as one of Christ's twelve disciples. (Matthew 10:2-4; Mark 3:16-19; Luke 6:14-16)
- The disciple Philip is often confused with Philip the evangelist found in Acts.
- The name Philip derives from Greek, meaning "he who loves horses."
- Philip probably spoke Greek. (John 12:20, 21)

- Practical. (John 6:7)
- Helpful. (John 12:20, 21)
- Literal and confused. (John 14:8)

- The third disciple Jesus called. (John 1:43)
- Brought Nathanael (Bartholomew) to Jesus. (John 1:45, 46)

Key Lesson

Stories

- Nathanael

- Born and/or raised in Cana of Galilee. (John 21:2)
- Well versed in the Hebrew Scriptures. (John 1:46)
- Listed as one of Christ's twelve disciples. (Matthew 10:2-4; Acts 1:13)
- The name Bartholomew derives from Greek, meaning "son of Tolmai."
- The name Nathanael derives from the Hebrew, meaning "God has given."

- Skeptical. (John 1:46)
- Honest. (John 1:47)
- Faithful. (John 1:49)

- Jesus told Nathanael that he was an honest Israelite and informed him that he saw him sitting under the fig tree. (John 1:47, 48)
- Nathanael said that Jesus was the "Son of God" and "King of Israel." (John 1:49)
- Jesus enlightened Nathanael with what to expect (John 1:50, 51)
- Witnessed the miraculous catch of fish and ate breakfast with Jesus after his resurrection. (John 21:2-7)

Believers are called to test all things with Scripture and remain true to its principles.

Some suggest that Bartholomew ministered to Asia Minor and India and the Armenian church claims Bartholomew as their founder. Tradition suggests that Bartholomew was flayed alive in Armenia. The symbol for Bartholomew is sometimes a blade.

- Levi
- Levi the son of Alphaeus

- Son of Alphaeus. (Mark 2:14)
- From Capernaum. (Mark 2:1-17)
- Tax collector in Galilee. (Matthew 9:9)

Jesus Christ is for everyone, even sinners and outcasts.

Some stories suggest that Matthew ministered to Persia, Macedonia, Syria, Parthia, Media, and Ethiopia bringing the good news to kings. Some stories suggest that Matthew died a martyr. The symbol for Matthew is sometimes a bag of coins in reference to his occupation as a tax collector before he encountered Jesus.

- Didymus (Twin)
- Judas Thomas
- "Doubting Thomas"

- He was a twin. (John 20:24)
- Listed as one of Christ's twelve disciples. (Matthew 10:2-4; Mark 3:16-19; Luke 6:14-16)

- Inquisitive. (John 14:5)
- Doubtful. (John 20:24, 25)
- Courageous. (John 11:16)
- Faithful. (John 20:24-29)

- Courageously encouraged disciples to go to Bethany. (John 11:16)
- Asked Jesus how to know where Jesus was going. (John 14:5)
- Doubted Jesus' resurrection saying he would have to touch his wounds in order to believe. (John 20:25)
- Affirmed that Jesus was Lord and God. (John 20:28)
- Witnessed the miraculous catch of fish and ate breakfast with Jesus after his resurrection. (John 21:2-7)

Jesus can overcome doubts and lead believers to faithfulness.

Stories suggest that Thomas traveled to India and founded the Christian church there. Some suggest Thomas was killed by a spear for his faith, and was buried in India. Some say Thomas was a carpenter. Symbols for Thomas include the spearhead and the T-square.

James, son of Alphaeus

- James the son of Alphaeus
 - "James the Younger"
 - "James the Less"
- Son of Alphaeus. (Mark 3:18)
 - Possible brother of Matthew (Levi) the tax collector, also the son of Alphaeus. (Mark 2:14)
 - Listed as one of Christ's twelve disciples. (Matt. 10:3; Acts 1:13)
 - James the son of Alphaeus is often confused with James the brother of Jesus (who wrote the book of James) or James the brother of Joseph.

Jesus sends out the disciples

Once Jesus' disciples have witnessed his teaching, preaching and healing, Jesus sends them out to do the same, but he does so with a dire warning: You won't be welcomed; you will be hated, persecuted and killed!

- Jesus sends out the 12 (Mt 10; Lk 9:1-9; Lk 10:1-24)
- Jesus sends out seventy-two disciples (Lk 10:1-24)

After 2,000 years of Christian history, during which Christianity became the dominant world religion and profoundly shaped western civilization, it is easy to overlook how radical Jesus' message was, not only in his own time and culture, but also in ours. For the first 300 years after Jesus' life on this earth, Christianity was a persecuted, minority religion in the Roman Empire, triggering wave after wave of brutal persecutions; only in the 4th century did Christianity gain legitimacy, and by the end of the 4th century it became the official religion of the Roman Empire. By A.D. 1000, Christianity ruled all of Europe and the remains of the Roman Empire with absolute authority in both secular and religious affairs, at every level in society. Yet, Jesus was first and foremost a radical reformer, a revolutionary living on the bleeding edge of the apocalyptic vision. He made people—especially those in power—extremely uncomfortable.

Cost of Discipleship (Mt 8:18-22; Lk 9:57-62)

Discipleship requires a big commitment

Jesus wants followers that have counted the costs and have decided that they are willing to pay the costs of discipleship

We are Living Stones (disciples) once we are born again

1Pe 2:4 As you come to him, the living Stone—rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him— 5 you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.

Heb 13:1 Keep on loving each other as brothers. 2 Do not forget to entertain strangers, for by so doing some people have entertained angels without knowing it. 3 Remember those in prison as if you were their fellow prisoners, and those who are mistreated as if you yourselves were suffering.

Lev 19: 18 " 'Do not seek revenge or bear a grudge against one of your people, but love your neighbor as yourself. I am the LORD.

Lev 19:34 The alien living with you must be treated as one of your native-born. Love him as yourself, for you were aliens in Egypt. I am the LORD your God.

Lev 23:22 " 'When you reap the harvest of your land, do not reap to the very edges of your field or gather the gleanings of your harvest. Leave them for the poor and the alien. I am the LORD your God.' "

Ro 12: 13 Share with God's people who are in need. Practice hospitality.

God's Temple is Us

1Co 3:16 Don't you know that you yourselves are God's temple and that God's Spirit lives in you? 17 If anyone destroys God's temple, God will destroy him; for God's temple is sacred, and you are that temple.

Eph 1:13 And you also were included in Christ when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation. Having believed, you were marked in him with a seal, the promised Holy Spirit,

“Why do your disciples not fast?” (Mt 9:14-17; Lk 5:33-39)

Questions about what is appropriate

Ecc 3:1-8 – A time for everything – There is an appropriate time to do things

You have to do the right thing, at the right time, for the right reason

Appropriate actions

- Guests do not mourn while the bridegroom is still with them
- You feast at a wedding, not fast

Examples used to illustrate:

- New patch on old clothes
- New wine in an old wineskin

What is appropriate for us now?

- Live lives as if Jesus is returning at any moment
- We need to be watchful and wakeful

“Why do your disciples work on the Sabbath? (Lk 6:1-11)

Jesus’ foundational message – Repent, for the kingdom of Heaven is near Mk 1:15 "The time has come," he said. "The kingdom of God is near. Repent and believe the good news!"

- Jesus’ message picks up where John’s left off.
 - When John is arrested, Jesus steps in and takes his place, not simply continuing John’s work, but expanding it from Judea north to Galilee, the hotbed of radical thinking and revolutionary movements. Mark’s readers would have sensed the danger immediately, trembling at the inevitable conflict they knew would follow.
 - John came in from the desert “proclaiming a baptism of repentance toward the forgiveness of sins”
 - Lays the groundwork for Jesus’
 - John proclaims the need for a radical turning away from sin and to God as preparation for the forgiveness of sins
 - Jesus comes in from the desert “proclaiming the gospel of God.”
 - Jesus proclaims “the gospel of God,” which brings with it the forgiveness of sins and a fundamentally new relationship with God.
- Repent
- “the gospel of God”
 - The term “the gospel of God” is the gospel that proceeds from God; it is not a gospel that Jesus invents
 - Jesus is the messenger from God who both announces the gospel and who embodies it.
 - Verse fifteen presents the content of the gospel that Jesus proclaims: “The appointed time has been fulfilled and the kingdom of God is fast approaching; repent and believe in the gospel.”
 - As the preface starts with “Beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Son of God . . .,” so it ends with “Repent and believe in the gospel,” framing the preface with an inclusio.
- “the appointed time”
 - The term “the appointed time” has deep biblical roots.
 - Though a common phrase, it is frequently used throughout the LXX in the specific sense of a decisive, God-ordained point in time. In context, it is also one of the chief eschatological terms in the Bible.
 - When Jesus says, “The appointed time has been fulfilled . . .,” he reaches deep into Scripture and draws all the threads of prophecy together into his own hands. With this proclamation, Jesus boldly declares: “the appointed time is now; prophecy has been fulfilled before your eyes.” It is a startling declaration that brings in its wake the fast approaching kingdom of God.

- Gerhard Delling observes that by the New Testament “the appointed time” has obviously become an established term in salvation history”
 - Ezekiel 7: 12: “The [appointed] time has come, the day has arrived. Let not the buyer rejoice nor the seller grieve, for wrath is upon the whole crowd”
 - Daniel 12: 4: “But you, Daniel, close up and seal the words of the scroll until the [appointed] time of the end.”
- “is fast approaching”
 - The Greek verb which I’ve translated “is fast approaching” carries a sense of urgency that is hard to capture in English.
 - The single word creates a remarkable tension: the context suggests “fast approaching,” while the verb itself denotes spatial or temporal nearness.
 - The verb is in the perfect tense, suggesting an action completed in the past, but with present effects.
 - The tension is deliberate.
- “kingdom of God” / “kingdom of Heaven”
 - Central theme of Jesus preaching and teaching
 - Lord’s prayer – Let thy kingdom come – that is, let Your will be done on Earth as it is in heaven
 - Jesus is crucified as King of the Jews
 - The “kingdom of God” follows fast upon Jesus’ footsteps: it is both present in him and about to impact the world around him, changing it irrevocably.
 - Jesus never says precisely what the kingdom of God is
 - He always portrays it in simile: “the kingdom of God is like . . .”
 - What, where, when is the kingdom
 - What is it?
 - Not a kingdom with defined territories
 - It is not a place, it is the place where God reigns
 - Where is it?
 - My kingdom is not of this world
 - The kingdom of God is among you – it’s in you – a heart in submission to God
 - When is it?
 - It is near – it is now
 - Mt 12:28 But if I drive out demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you
 - It has already come, but it is not yet here in its fullness
 - The kingdom of God will:
 - Establish the kingship, rule and sovereignty of God in the hearts and minds of men and women who open their lives to him
 - This is an immediate effect.
 - Enable complete salvation
 - Since Adam, men and women have languished in sin, alienated from God and from each other. In the kingdom of God, men and women will be reconciled to God and to each other once and for all.
 - This, too, is an immediate effect.
 - Usher in a community of men and women upon whose hearts God will inscribe his words and into whose hearts he will pour his Spirit.
 - This is an effect in the near future.
 - Result in a redeemed universe, a new heaven and a new earth that will witness the final realization of God’s saving power.
 - This is an effect in the distant future.
 - As a means of preparing to receive the kingdom of God, Jesus repeats John’s message: “Repent!”
 - He adds, “and believe in the gospel!” — In the person and work of Jesus

- Both messages are in the imperative, stressing their importance.
 - “Believe in” is unusual, occurring only here in the New Testament: it conveys the sense of “put your trust in” the gospel—in the person and work of Jesus.
- Jesus of Nazareth
 - Virgin-born, sinless son of God
 - Took our sins upon himself and bore the weight of those sins upon the cross and enabled our salvation
 - God enfleshed

Teaching and preaching

- Public ministries lasted 3 years – Johns mentions Passover 3 time
- Teaching, preaching and healing formed the core of Jesus ministry.
 - Mt 4:23 Jesus “went around all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom, and curing every disease and illness among the people”
 - 204 cities and villages in Galilee (The Life of Flavius Josephus, [235])
- Teaching and preaching are 2 very different things
 - Teaching –
 - Preaching –
- Jesus’ teaching, preaching and healing forms a major component of Matthew’s gospel
 - Spans 9 chapters in Matthew (5-13)
 - Establishes his credentials as Messiah
- Jesus uses 3 types of teaching
 - Expository teaching
 - Ex – Sermon on the Mount
 - Didactic
 - Parables

- The law stands (16:16-17)
- Divorce (16:18)
- The rich man and Lazarus (16:19-31)
- Sin, faith and duty (17:1-10)

- gg. Jesus teaches on the kingdom of God (17:20-18:30)
- 1. “When will it come?” “You don’t know.” (17:20-37)
- 2. “What should we do in the meantime?” “Pray.” (18:1-8)
- 3. “What about our righteousness?” “Don’t count on it.” (18:9-14)
- 4. “Who will be in the kingdom?” “Those like little children.” (18:15-17)
- 5. “What must we do to enter the kingdom?” “Eliminate what stands in the way.” (18:18-30)
- hh. Approaching Jerusalem, Jesus predicts his death (18:31-34)
- ii. Up from Jericho (18:35-19:27)

Sermon on the Mount (Expository teaching) – Great Discourse #1

- Deals with hypocrisy in the church
- Jesus’ “Sermon on the Mount” is the first of five “discourses” that comprise the basic structural framework of the Gospel according to Matthew and they provide the foundation on which Matthew builds his theology:
 - A Narrative: Jesus as Messiah, Son of God (1-4)
 - Minor discourse: John the Baptist identifies the authority of Jesus (3:7-12)
 - B Great Discourse #1: Demands of true discipleship (5-7)
 - C Narrative: The supernatural authority of Jesus (8-9)
 - D Great Discourse #2: Charge and authority of disciples (10)
 - E Narrative: Jews reject Jesus (11-12)
 - F Great Discourse #3: Parables of the Kingdom of Heaven (13)
 - E’ Narrative: Disciples accept Jesus (14-17)
 - D’ Great Discourse #4: Charge and authority of church (18)
 - C’ Narrative: Authority and invitation (19-22)
 - B’ Great Discourse #5: Judgment on false discipleship (23-25)
 - A’ Narrative: Jesus as Messiah, suffering and vindicated (26-28)
 - Minor discourse: Jesus identifies the authority of the church (28:18-20)
- The Sermon on the Mount is a brilliant teaching, perfectly structured, consisting of four perfectly balanced parts:
 1. The “Beatitudes” (5:2-12) – A clever and memorable introduction
 1. 8 counter-intuitive statements, capped by a 9th
 - All linked together by a repetitive syntactic pattern and the repetition of consonant and vowel sounds
 2. Closed by two dazzling metaphors of responsibility (5:13-16).
 2. 6 propositions that exceed the Law (5:17-48)
 1. Presented as 6 counterintuitive statements, linked by a repetitive syntactic pattern.
 3. 6 concrete actions to implement the Law (6:1-34), presented again as six counter-intuitive statements.
 4. 9-part “call to action,” capped by the astonishment of the crowd (7:1-29).

The Beatitudes

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness:
for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake:
for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven.

Matthew 5:3-12, The Holy Bible

What Do the Beatitudes Mean?

Jesus surprised His disciples by telling them what kind of people would be blessed by God. His list of traits are called Beatitudes, meaning "to bless" or "to make happy."

Poor of Spirit

This word was taken from a Greek word meaning "to crouch." It can mean lowly, afflicted, helpless, powerless to solve a problem, lacking wealth and education, or begging. Is there a problem or situation in your life that is beyond your control? Are you reduced to begging God for help? God promises to help the poor of spirit.

Mourn

This word means "to wail." This is deeper than sadness; it is despond and despair. Do you know anyone who is crushed with the disappointments of life? God promises to comfort.

Meek

Meekness means humility, a gentleness of spirit, or a mild disposition. A meek person is one who trusts God and accepts today's circumstances as God's best for them, even if situations in their lives are painful, frightening, frustrating, or annoying. Two of the most powerful people in the Bible, Jesus and Moses, were considered "meek." (Numbers 12:3, Matthew 11:29, 21:5)

Hunger and thirst after righteousness

These people eagerly desire (or crave) righteousness. Righteousness is holy and upright living, conforming to God's standard.

Merciful

These people are kind, even to those who treat them without respect. They forgive. God is kind to us, even though sometimes we treat Him and His commands without respect. Isaiah 55:7 says, "Let the wicked forsake his way and the evil man his thoughts. Let him turn to the LORD, and He will have mercy on him, and to our God, for He will freely pardon." Is there someone you need to pardon? If we refuse to forgive, God will not forgive us.

Pure of Heart

This person approaches life with innocence and blamelessness. Psalm 73:1 says, "Surely God is good...to those who are pure in heart."

Peacemakers

These are people who want peace. They do not stir up fights or arguments. They do not look for reasons to complain or to say bad things about others. James 3:18 says, "Peacemakers who sow in peace, raise a harvest of righteousness."

Persecuted for righteousness

These people are teased, harassed, harmed or bothered by others because they choose to do what is right. Jesus said, "No servant is greater than his master. If they persecuted Me, they will persecute you also." He said, "Rejoice in that day and leap for joy, because great is your reward in heaven." You will have a great reward when you suffer for the Lord. (Luke 6:23; John 15:20)

- Beatitudes is Latin for “blessings”
- The “Beatitudes” introduce the “Sermon on the Mount”
 - 9 statements that are clever, counter-intuitive, and repetitive in pattern and sound
 - 8 statements structured syntactically as “Blessed is A, for they shall be B,”
 - Capped by “Blessed are you . . .”
 - All linked together by a repetitive syntactic pattern and the repetition of consonant and vowel sounds
 - Blessed are A, for they shall be B; Blessed are C, for they shall be D; etc
- What do we consider to be blessings – usually has to do with our own health and happiness
 - Jesus wants us to recalibrate how we think of blessings – none of these lead to health and happiness
 - We need to look at blessings in terms of eternity

Fruits of blessedness:

1. Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

- The poor in spirit are those who have a gaping hole in their heart and know their utter need for God
- Blessed
 - The word means more than “happy,” because happiness is an emotion often dependent on outward circumstances. “Blessed” here refers to the ultimate well-being and distinctive spiritual joy of those who share in the salvation of the kingdom of God. See notes on Ps 1:1 ; Rev 1:3 .
- poor in spirit
 - Humility, humble in heart
 - In contrast to the spiritually proud and self-sufficient. theirs is the kingdom of heaven. The kingdom is not something earned. It is more a gift than a reward.

2. Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.

- Not necessarily those who mourn as in bereavement, but rather those who mourn about the poverty of their spirit
- those who mourn – Over both personal and corporate sins (see Ezra 9:4 ; Ps 119:36)

3. Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth.

- Meekness is knowing the poverty of your spirit, mourning over it, and yet knowing that you are you - you are not God and nothing you do can fill that hole.
- This beatitude is taken from Ps 37:11 and refers not so much to an attitude toward people as to a disposition before God, namely, humility. the earth. The new promised land (see Rev 21:1 ; cf. note on Ps 37:9).

4. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled.

- hunger and thirst for righteousness
 - Have a deep longing for both personal righteousness and justice for the oppressed

5. Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy.

- Mercy implies that someone has wronged you

6. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God.

- heart. The center of one’s being, including mind, will and emotions (see note on Ps 4:7).

7. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called sons of God.

- peacemakers. Those who promote peace, as far as it depends on them (Ro 12:18). In so doing, they reflect the character of their heavenly Father and so are called “sons of God” (see Jas 3:17-18).

8. Blessed are those who are persecuted because of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

- Blessed. Because persecution provides an opportunity for believers to prove their fitness for the kingdom (see Heb 12:4-11 and notes). persecuted. Righteous living is often offensive to unbelievers (cf. v. 11). theirs is the kingdom of heaven. For the blessings of God's kingdom see 3:2 and note

9. Blessed are you when people insult you, persecute you and falsely say all kinds of evil against you because of me.

Responsibility of Blessedness (5:13-16):

- Closed by two dazzling metaphors of responsibility
- With blessedness comes responsibility

1. You are the salt of the earth (5:13)

- Uses of salt in the ancient world
 - Flavor enhancer – Food tastes better
 - Preservative of meat – can't eat a whole cow
 - Fertilizer – Makes the fruit grow better
 - Salt is the essential ingredient in all these that makes it better
 - We are the people that enhance, preserve, and make the world better
 - If we aren't doing that, then we have lost our saltiness
 - Our purpose – to be disciples in the world – When we've lost our saltiness, we do not bear fruit
- You are to make people thirsty for God
- Dead sea salt has magnesium – highly flammable
 - Used to spark up the fire for cooking
 - Once the magnesium is burned up, it's useless

2. You are the light of the world (5:14)

- Revelation – Lampstands – Light to the world
 - Ephesus – Jesus removed their lampstand – Turkey is 99% Muslim

6 propositions that exceed the Law (Mt 5:17-48)

1. The "Law" – A way to know God's character and will
 - The Old Testament
 - God's comprehensive teaching in both the Hebrew scriptures & in the oral & written Jewish traditions
 - More narrow → The Pentateuch (5 books of Moses)
 - More narrow → The 10 Commandments (Ex 20:1-17)
 - 613 specific mitzvot, or commandments
 - In the 3rd century AD, the Jewish Rabbi Simlai mentioned in a sermon (Talmud Makkot 23b) that Torah enumerates 613 specific mitzvot, or commandments.
 - The great medieval Spanish sage, Maimonides (AD 1125-1204), codified the commandments in Sefer Hamitzvot ("Book of Commandments")
 - Ceremonial law has been fully fulfilled by Jesus
 - This is why we do not have to follow these laws as Christians
- Jesus presents 6 propositions that exceed the Law with counterintuitive statements and repetitive syntactic structures
 - "You have heard it said A, but I tell you B; you have heard it said C, but I tell you D," and so on.

- Same as with the “Beatitudes”
 - He does so by probing the inner dynamics of the Law itself.
- Framed by a structural and theological Inclusio
 - until everything is accomplished (Mt 5:18)
 - Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect (Mt 5:48)
- More focus on the spirit of the law as opposed to the letter of the law
 - God cares about the heart, the motives, as much as whether you actually do the acts

Prologue (5:17-20)

- Jesus insists that the Law is the “gold standard,” the benchmark of behavior for God’s covenant people
- Mt 5:18 I tell you the truth, until heaven and earth disappear, not the smallest letter, not the least stroke of a pen, will by any means disappear from the Law until everything is accomplished.
 - Opening statement of the Inclusio
- Jesus begins this section by saying that he in no way seeks to eliminate or diminish the Law; rather, he strives to elevate the Law to an impossibly high level. (Mt 5:17)
 - The six propositions do not abolish the Law
 - Each proposition explores the inner dynamic of a mitavah or commandment, fulfilling and transforming it
 - Going far beyond simple “thou shalt not” statements, Jesus examines the behavior addressed by the Law
 - Explores the psychology of a person who breaks the Law – dissecting his motives and examining the addictive attraction that sin exerts on one’s heart and soul.
- Antinomianism – It’s all about grace – now that you’ve accepted Jesus, you can do what you want
 - One who holds that under the gospel dispensation of grace the moral law is of no use or obligation because faith alone is necessary to salvation.
 - It’s all about grace – now that you’ve accepted Jesus, you can do what you want
 - We can sin all we want if we ask for forgiveness
 - We should live right because we are grateful for what Jesus did for us
 - False teaching – very common today
 - Cheap grace – Justification of sin without the justification of the repentant sinner – doesn’t take sin seriously
- Unless your righteousness surpasses that of the Pharisees and the teachers of the law, you will certainly not enter the kingdom of heaven.

1. Murder (5:21-26)

21 "You have heard that it was said to the people long ago, 'Do not murder, and anyone who murders will be subject to judgment.' 22 But I tell you that anyone who is angry with his brother will be subject to judgment. ... anyone who says, 'You fool!' will be in danger of the fire of hell.

- Most people think that if they are on safe ground, this is where it is
 - I haven’t killed anyone
 - This ‘murder’ also includes anger felt in your heart
- retzach – The unlawful, premeditated taking of another person’s life
 - The Hebrew verb retzach in Ex 20:13 has a wide range of meaning in Scripture
 - “break”, “smash”, “slay”, “kill”, and “murder”
 - Context determines how retzach is to be translated

- Mt 5:23-26 – Jesus is describing the dangers of hell unless we deal with the disease of the heart that is separating us from God

2. Adultery (5:27-30)

27 "You have heard that it was said, 'Do not commit adultery.' 28 But I tell you that anyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart.

29 If your right eye causes you to sin, gouge it out and throw it away. It is better for you to lose one part of your body than for your whole body to be thrown into hell. 30 And if your right hand causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. It is better for you to lose one part of your body than for your whole body to go into hell.

- Hyperbole to emphasize the importance of our sin nature
- Do whatever it takes to stop sin

3. Divorce (5:31-32)

31 "It has been said, 'Anyone who divorces his wife must give her a certificate of divorce.' 32 But I tell you that anyone who divorces his wife, except for marital unfaithfulness, causes her to become an adulteress, and anyone who marries the divorced woman commits adultery.

- There were 2 schools of thought about divorce in Jesus' day
 - You can divorce for any reason at all – your wife burned your lunch
 - You can only divorce for serious reasons
- Jesus says that you should not divorce for any reason – that is the spirit of the law
- Addressed again in Mt 19

4. Oaths (5:33-37)

33 "Again, you have heard that it was said to the people long ago, 'Do not break your oath, but keep the oaths you have made to the Lord.' 34 But I tell you, Do not swear at all: either by heaven, for it is God's throne; 35 or by the earth, for it is his footstool; or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the Great King. 36 And do not swear by your head, for you cannot make even one hair white or black. 37 Simply let your 'Yes' be 'Yes,' and your 'No,' 'No'; anything beyond this comes from the evil one.

- In normal everyday life, God's people are expected to be honest people all the time
 - People should trust you enough that when you say yes, you mean yes
 - Underlying law – love your neighbor as yourself
- The devil is the father of lies
 - If you are not honest, you are following Satan, not God
- The heart of the Law – Love God and love your neighbor
 - Lev 19:18
 - Dt 6:5

5. Conflict (5:38-42) – An Eye for an Eye

38 "You have heard that it was said, 'Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth.' 39 But I tell you, Do not resist an evil person. If someone strikes you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. 40 And if someone wants to sue you and take your tunic, let him have your cloak as well. 41 If someone forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles. 42 Give to the one who asks you, and do not turn away from the one who wants to borrow from you.

- An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth

- Ex 21:24, Lev 24:20, Dt 19:21
- What did it mean when it was given? Mitigation of vengeance – Revenge stops at justice
- How did it get jumbled? You're going to get yours
- How did Jesus try to fix it? Do not resist an evil person.
 - My love for my neighbor is greater than my desire to exact my allowed revenge
 - Take up our cross, die to ourselves and serve God
 - This is the farthest thing from our natural reaction – we can only do it with the help of God

6. Love (5:43-48) – Love for Enemies

43 "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' 44 But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, 45 that you may be sons of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. 46 If you love those who love you, what reward will you get? Are not even the tax collectors doing that? 47 And if you greet only your brothers, what are you doing more than others? Do not even pagans do that? 48 Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

- Love your neighbor
 - Lev 19:18 " 'Do not seek revenge or bear a grudge against one of your people, but love your neighbor as yourself. I am the LORD.
- Love in the Bible is a verb – less about how you feel, more about what you do
 - What does it mean to love your enemies – to pray for those who persecute you – pray for good things, for God to bless them
- John 13:34 "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. 35 By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another."
- James 4:8 If you really keep the royal law found in Scripture, "Love your neighbor as yourself," you are doing right. 9 But if you show favoritism, you sin and are convicted by the law as lawbreakers. 10 For whoever keeps the whole law and yet stumbles at just one point is guilty of breaking all of it.
- James 5:22 Now that you have purified yourselves by obeying the truth so that you have sincere love for your brothers, love one another deeply, from the heart. 23 For you have been born again, not of perishable seed, but of imperishable, through the living and enduring word of God.

Conclusion / Call to action (5:48)

- Mt 5:48 Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect.
 - Perfect comes from the Greek work "telos". It carries a sense of the "end goal" or "completion"
 - We get the English word "telescope".
 - Closing statement of the Inclusio

6 concrete actions to implement the Law (Mt 6:1-34)

Beginning with the three pillars of devotional Judaism—almsgiving, prayer and fasting—Jesus explores the motives for devotional practices and for performing good works, or mitzvot, as well as what one might expect to get in return from doing them.

- Jesus now addresses the concrete actions demanded by the 6 propositions that exceed the Law
 - Probes the inner dynamics of each action, examining both the motive and means
- Almsgiving, Prayer and Fasting, the first three "Concrete Actions to Implement the Law,"
 - These are the three devotional pillars of Judaism

- They are also the three devotional pillars of Christianity during the Lenten season.
- All three express conversion in relation to others (almsgiving), God (prayer) and one's self (fasting).

Prologue (6:1)

Beware of hypocrisy – Doing good things for the wrong reasons

- Doing things with the wrong motivations
- What would be a blessing has now become sinful
- Calls for coherence between the inner man and the outer man

1: Almsgiving – Giving to the needy (6:2-4)

- Wealth is a blessing, a loan from God
 - According to Mosaic thinking, wealth is a blessing, a loan from God, and the poor have a spiritual claim on the possessions of the rich, while the rich are positively enjoined to share God's blessings with the poor.
 - For Greek-speaking Jews of Jesus' day, almsgiving meant offering charity to the poor out of a feeling of both compassion and righteousness (zedakah).
 - We need to help the needy because it is the right thing to do, not to be noticed by people

2: Prayer (6:5-15)

When you pray ... Jesus assumed that it was happening

Pray to God, to please God, not to impress men

The Lord's Prayer

See also: The Lord's Prayer

Meant to be a simple prayer – unlike the long, wordy prayers of the Pharisees

Part 1 – Glory to God

Our Father in heaven,
hallowed be your name,
your kingdom come,
your will be done
on earth as it is in heaven.

Part 2 – Please help us

Give us today our daily bread.
Forgive us our debts,
as we also have forgiven our debtors.
And lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from the evil one.

Part 3 – Added after, not in the original manuscripts

For yours is the kingdom, and power,
and glory
Forever and ever

14 For if you forgive men when they sin against you, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. 15 But if you do not forgive men their sins, your Father will not forgive your sins.

3: Fasting (6:16-18)

Prayer and fasting usually go together

Breakfast – Breaking the fast of overnight

Fasting – prayer amplifier – dependence on God

When you fast... Jesus assumed that it was happening g– normal practice

Fasting in Judaism

- Fasting means completely abstaining from food and drink, including water.
- Yom Kippur, the “Day of Atonement”
 - Scripture only requires fasting for Jews on one day each year: Yom Kippur (Lv 16)
 - It is the most important day of the Jewish year
 - Fasting is both an expression and means of repentance.
- Tisha B’Av
 - Today, traditional observant Jews observe a 2nd fast day: Tisha B’Av, which remembers:
 1. the destruction of Solomon’s Temple in Jerusalem by the Babylonians in 586 B.C.
 2. the destruction of the 2nd Temple in Jerusalem by the Romans in A.D. 70
 3. the Jews banishment from Jerusalem after the Bar Kokhba revolt in A.D. 136
 4. the many tragedies that have befallen the Jewish people, including the Holocaust

Fasting in Christianity

- Only two days of fasting are obligatory: Ash Wednesday and Good Friday
 - Only applies in the post-Vatican II Roman Catholic Church in the United States
 - Fridays during Lent are days of abstinence: no meat on Fridays during Lent!
- Fasting may be part of one’s private devotion at any time during the year
 - Especially important when you are making significant decisions in life

4: Serving God (6:19-24)

- The things in this life don’t last
- By serving God, you will build up eternal treasures in heaven
- Treasures in heaven
 - 21 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.
 - 24 ... You cannot serve both God and Money.
 - How do you do that?
 - Be generous
 - Spend a lot of time w/ people that have less than you – serve them
- 22 "The eye is the lamp of the body
 - The eye – our gateway to the world
 - Spiritual eye – the ways that we discern and understand the world
 - Do we have an eternal perspective or think/live in worldly terms?

5: Not Worrying (6:25-34)

6: Not Judging (7:1-6)

9-part “call to action” (Mt 7:1-29)

As the “Beatitudes” introduce the “Sermon on the Mount” with eight counterintuitive statements, structured syntactically as “Blessed is A, for they shall be B,” capped by “Blessed are you . . .,” so does the “Sermon on the Mount” conclude with a nine-part call to action, capped by the astonishment of the crowd.

1. Do not judge (condemn)

Mt 7:1 “Do not judge, or you too will be judged. 2 For in the same way you judge others, you will be judged, and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you.

The judgment that Jesus is referring to is condemnation – do not pass final judgement

Jesus is the judge, not you

There is a day coming when every wrong will be righted

We should exercise moral discernment

2. Ask, Seek, Knock (Mt 7:7-9)

Mt 7:7 “Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. 8 For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. 8 For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. 9 “Which of you, if his son asks for bread, will give him a stone? 10 Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake?”

Ask, seek, knock = Pray

3 ways of saying the same thing

Pray with faith – know that God answers prayer

This 1st series of “ask . . . seek . . . knock” consists of present, imperative, plural verbs in the active voice, and the “you’s” are 2nd person plural pronouns. Grammatically, this sequence addresses Jesus’ en=re audience, forcefully commanding them to engage in a set of on---going, repetitive actions.

3. Golden Rule – Do unto others

Mt 7:12 So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you, for this sums up the Law and the Prophets

Do unto others as you would have them do unto you

Ties to ask, seek, knock – Jesus is addressing the Pharisees in their prayer life and their treatment of one another

Jesus is the answer to everything addressed in the Sermon on the Mount

4. Choose the narrow path

Mt 7:13 “Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. 14 But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it.

- Choose the road and the gate that go to where you want to go, not the one that looks good
- Very exclusivistic statement
 - John 14:5 . . . how can we know the way?” 6 Jesus answered, “I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.
 - John 10:9 I am the gate; whoever enters through me will be saved.

5. Beware of false teachers (Mt 7:15-20)

Many warnings in Scripture

- Every book in the New Testament has a warning about false teachers
- 1Jn 4:1

- 1Ki
- Rev 6 – 1st horseman of the apocalypse – false teachers

1Jn 4:1 Dear friends, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God, because many false prophets have gone out into the world. 2 This is how you can recognize the Spirit of God: Every spirit that acknowledges that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, 3 but every spirit that does not acknowledge Jesus is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist, which you have heard is coming and even now is already in the world.

Most false teachers do not know that they are false teachers, they think that they are sincere

6. Do not be self-deceived (Mt 7:21-23)

False teachers live godless lives – look at the character of the teacher's lives

9.

Fra Angelico

This is a very stylized fresco fraught with symbolism:

- Notice that Jesus is teaching on a rock. As Moses delivered the message of the Law of Mt. Sinai, so Jesus delivers the message of grace on a rock mountain.
- Jesus is dressed in a red undergarment with a blue garment on top.
 - Red suggests His shed blood on the cross
 - Blue suggests His heavenly origin
- Light in the fresco moves from bottom to top, drawing our eyes from earth to heaven. In addition, Jesus points upward, reinforcing this movement of light, and the circle of the disciples draws our eyes upward as well
- Jesus seemed to be addressing Peter on the left, reinforcing Jesus' later statement, "on this rock I will build me church."
- Judah sits 2nd from the right. His halo is black, appropriate for the betrayer.

Sermon of the Plain (Lk 6:17-49)

Kingdom of Heaven

- The kingdom of heaven is God's rule during this present age and after.
- The expression, "kingdom of heaven," used over and over my Matthew, comes by implication from Daniel where the messianic "Son of Man" came in "the clouds of heaven" to God the Father, "Then to Him was given...a kingdom" (Daniel 7:13, 14).
 - Dan 7¹³ "I was watching in the night visions,
And behold, One like the Son of Man, Coming with the clouds of heaven!
He came to the Ancient of Days, And they brought Him near before Him.
¹⁴ Then to Him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom,
That all peoples, nations, and languages should serve Him.
His dominion is an everlasting dominion, Which shall not pass away,
And His kingdom the one Which shall not be destroyed.
- A basic theme of the kingdom of heaven parables involves:
 - a king giving a marriage feast or taking a journey,
 - followed by a long period in which some come to the marriage feast or work diligently for the king;
 - then comes the king's surprise return, his reward of the faithful, and his punishment of the wicked.
 - Thus these parables show how Christ will administer the church and the world during this present age, and how He will judge all upon His return.

Sower and the soils (Mt 13:3-8, 18-23; Mk 4:3-8, 14-20; Lk 8:5-8, 11-15)

The Parable of the Sower

13 On the same day Jesus went out of the house and sat by the sea. ² And great multitudes were gathered together to Him, so that He got into a boat and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

³ Then He spoke many things to them in parables, saying: "Behold, a sower went out to sow. ⁴ And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them. ⁵ Some fell on stony places, where they did not have much earth; and they immediately sprang up because they had no depth of earth. ⁶ But when the sun was up they were scorched, and because they had no root they withered away. ⁷ And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up and choked them. ⁸ But others fell on good ground and yielded a crop: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. ⁹ He who has ears to hear, let him hear!"

The Parable of the Sower Explained

¹⁸ "Therefore hear the parable of the sower: ¹⁹ When anyone hears the word of the kingdom, and does not understand it, then the wicked one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is he who received seed by the wayside. ²⁰ But he who received the seed on stony places, this is he who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy; ²¹ yet he has no root in himself, but endures only for a while. For when tribulation or persecution arises because of the word, immediately he stumbles. ²² Now he who received seed among the thorns is he who hears the word, and the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he becomes unfruitful. ²³ But he who received seed on the good ground is he who hears the word and understands it, who indeed bears fruit and produces: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty."

- This parable is easy to understand, because the Lord Jesus interpreted it for His apostles:
 - The sower is one who sows the Word of the kingdom in the world.
 - The seed is the gospel of Jesus Christ (1 Corinthians 15:1-4; cf. John 3:17, 18).
 - 1Co 15¹ Moreover, brethren, I declare to you the gospel which I preached to you, which also you received and in which you stand, ² by which also you are saved, if you hold fast that word which I preached to you—unless you believed in vain. ³ For I delivered to you first of all that which I also received: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, ⁴ and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures,

- Jn 3 ¹⁷ For God did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved. ¹⁸ “He who believes in Him is not condemned; but he who does not believe is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.
 - The soil/ground onto which the gospel seed is sown is the heart of man (Romans 10:9, 10).
 - Ro 10 ⁹ that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. ¹⁰ For with the heart one believes unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.
- 4 different responses to the gospel message – 4 different types of ground upon which the seed of the gospel falls.
 - Christ did not teach that all of the world would be converted during this age (Matthew 7:21-23).
 - Mt 7 ²¹ “Not everyone who says to Me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven. ²² Many will say to Me in that day, ‘Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?’ ²³ And then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!’
 - The various reactions are not caused by different qualities of seed – for example, more thrilling or compelling preaching. Christ placed the responsibility for faith or unbelief on the soil – the hearer.
- 1. The first response comes from a hard heart (cf. John 12:37-41; Hebrews 3:7-13).
 - ⁴ And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them.
 - Wayside soil is hard and unprepared for seed.
 - The fowls that devour the seed that fell on the hard ground are Satan and his demons.
- 2. The second response comes from a shallow heart
 - ⁵ Some fell on stony places, where they did not have much earth; and they immediately sprang up because they had no depth of earth. ⁶ But when the sun was up they were scorched, and because they had no root they withered away.
 - Such a person has no spiritual depth, no commitment to God’s Word.
 - He holds to his religious decision for a while; but when tribulation or persecution com, “because of the word” of God, he is offended and falls away from his profession of faith (cf. Matthew 7:21-23).
 - ²⁰ But he who received the seed on stony places, this is he who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy; ²¹ yet he has no root in himself, but endures only for a while. For when tribulation or persecution arises because of the word, immediately he stumbles.
- 3. The third response comes from a worldly heart
 - ⁷ And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up and choked them.
 - A heart that loves this world system is a heart alienated from God (1 Corinthians 3:1-4).
 - 1Co 3 ¹ And I, brethren, could not speak to you as to spiritual people but as to carnal, as to babes in Christ. ² I fed you with milk and not with solid food; for until now you were not able to receive it, and even now you are still not able; ³ for you are still carnal. For where there are envy, strife, and divisions among you, are you not carnal and ^[a]behaving like mere men? ⁴ For when one says, “I am of Paul,” and another, “I am of Apollos,” are you not carnal?
 - The love of money, success, and the pleasures of this world choke out the influence of the Word of God in the life of the professing believer so that he becomes unfruitful (v. 22).
 - ²² Now he who received seed among the thorns is he who hears the word, and the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he becomes unfruitful.
 - Many profess Christ but love the world and the things of the world more than they love God
 - 1Jn 2 ¹⁵ Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. ¹⁶ For all that is in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—is not of the Father but is of the world. ¹⁷ And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever.
- 4. The fourth response comes from an understanding heart (vv. 8, 23).

- ⁸ But others fell on good ground and yielded a crop: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.
 - ²³ But he who received seed on the good ground is he who hears the word and understands it, who indeed bears fruit and produces: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.”
 - Note that only one man understood the Word of God, and brought forth fruit (Acts 8:26-39).
 - Act 8 26-39 – Christ Is Preached to an Ethiopian eunuch
- The parable of the sower will apply to the ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ until the harvest at the end of the present age (John 4:35-39).
 - This parable should warn unconverted people that they need to receive the “good seed,” the message of Christ’s forgiveness, into their hearts.
 - It also should encourage Christians to witness boldly, because the seed does produce fruit.
 - However, the parable also puts to rest the unbiblical expectation that everyone who “hears” will enter the kingdom. Only those who hear, understand, and believe will make the true entrance.

Wheat and the Tares (Weeds) (Mt 13:24-30, 36-43)

The Parable of the Wheat and the Tares

²⁴ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field; ²⁵ but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way. ²⁶ But when the grain had sprouted and produced a crop, then the tares also appeared. ²⁷ So the servants of the owner came and said to him, ‘Sir, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have tares?’ ²⁸ He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’ The servants said to him, ‘Do you want us then to go and gather them up?’ ²⁹ But he said, ‘No, lest while you gather up the tares you also uproot the wheat with them. ³⁰ Let both grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, “First gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them, but gather the wheat into my barn.”’

The Parable of the Tares Explained

³⁶ Then Jesus sent the multitude away and went into the house. And His disciples came to Him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the tares of the field.”

³⁷ He answered and said to them: “He who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. ³⁸ The field is the world, the good seeds are the sons of the kingdom, but the tares are the sons of the wicked one. ³⁹ The enemy who sowed them is the devil, the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are the angels. ⁴⁰ Therefore as the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so it will be at the end of this age. ⁴¹ The Son of Man will send out His angels, and they will gather out of His kingdom all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness, ⁴² and will cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. ⁴³ Then the righteous will shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears to hear, let him hear!

As He did with the parable of the sower, our Lord interpreted this parable for us:

- The sower of the good seed is the Son of Man, the Lord Jesus Christ (vv. 24, 37).
 - ²⁴ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field;
 - ³⁷ He answered and said to them: “He who sows the good seed is the Son of Man.
- The field is the world (vv. 24, 38).
 - ²⁴ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field;
 - ³⁸ The field is the world
 - While here on earth He sowed the good seed in person
 - Before ascending into heaven, He commissioned His church to proclaim the gospel to every person in every nation (Matthew 28:19, 20).

- Mt 28 The Great Commission ¹⁹ Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, ²⁰ teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age.” Amen.
- The good seed in this parable is not the gospel, but rather the children of the kingdom (vv. 24, 38).
 - ²⁴ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field;
 - ³⁸ ... the good seeds are the sons of the kingdom
 - He began to sow (scatter) the good seed (the children of God) first in Jerusalem, then in Judea and Samaria;
 - He continues to scatter His children among all parts of the world.
 - The good seed, as they are sown, are to share their faith with that part of the world in which they have been scattered (Acts 1:8; cf. 8:1-4).
 - Act 1 ⁸ But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth.”
- “The tares are the sons of the wicked one,” Satan (vv. 25, 38).
 - ²⁵ but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way.
 - ³⁸ ... the tares are the sons of the wicked one.
 - Jesus said to the unsaved religious leaders of His day, “You are of your father the devil” (John 8:44).
 - Jn 8 ⁴⁴ You are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father you want to do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks from his own resources, for he is a liar and the father of it.
 - Where Jesus sends His children, Satan also sends his. You will find in most churches, children of God and children of the Devil (Matthew 7:21-23).
 - Mt 7 ²¹ “Not everyone who says to Me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven. ²² Many will say to Me in that day, ‘Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?’ ²³ And then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!’
- The enemy that sowed the tares is the Devil (vv. 28, 39).
 - ²⁸ He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’
 - ³⁹ The enemy who sowed them is the devil, the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are the angels.
- The harvest is the end of the age and the reapers are the angels (vv. 30, 39)
 - ³⁰ Let both grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, “First gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them, but gather the wheat into my barn.”
 - ³⁹ ... the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are the angels.
 - Christ’s second coming will conclude this age.
 - He will send His angels to reap the harvest and separate the wheat from the tares.
 - He will rapture the “wheat,” the children of the kingdom, and burn the “tares,” the children of Satan.
- Note the contrast:
 - The children of the Devil will be cast into “the furnace of fire” (hell),
 - The children of God “will shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father”
 - ³⁰ Let both grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, “First gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them, but gather the wheat into my barn.”
 - ⁴⁰ Therefore as the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so it will be at the end of this age. ⁴¹ The Son of Man will send out His angels, and they will gather out of His kingdom all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness, ⁴² and will cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. ⁴³ Then the righteous will shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears to hear, let him hear!
 - Rev 20 ¹⁵ And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire.

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

³¹ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field, ³² which indeed is the least of all the seeds; but when it is grown it is greater than the herbs and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the air come and nest in its branches.”

- “The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field” (v. 31).
 - The mustard seed is one of the smallest of seeds.
- The mustard seed is the church in its numerically insignificant beginning – Christ and the twelve apostles.
 - On the Day of Pentecost, the small kingdom began its phenomenal expansion.
 - Like the mustard tree it continued to grow, branching out into other nations of the known world.
- The man who sowed the seed is the God-Man, Christ Jesus.
- His field is the world.
- The fowls of the air that lodged in the branches are probably the same as in the parable of the sower – Satan and his demons (Matthew 13:4, 19).
 - Mt 13 ⁴ And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them. ... ¹⁹ When anyone hears the word of the kingdom, and does not understand it, then the wicked one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is he who received seed by the wayside.
- This mustard tree (the church), in its early existence, was pure and powerful – until Satan’s followers found a way to nest in its branches.
 - Christendom will continue with the true children of God, as well as the imposters who profess to be God’s children.
 - Just as the wheat and the tares will grow together until the harvest, so the saved and the unsaved will nest in the mustard tree until Jesus comes to separate the wheat from the tares, the sheep from the goats, the saved from the unsaved (Matthew 25:31-34, 41, 46).
 - Mt 25 ³¹ “When the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory. ³² All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. ³³ And He will set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. ³⁴ Then the King will say to those on His right hand, ‘Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: ... ⁴¹ “Then He will also say to those on the left hand, ‘Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels: ... ⁴⁶ And these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

The Parable of the Leaven

³³ Another parable He spoke to them: “The kingdom of heaven is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till it was all leavened.”

- This parable teaches that as the years and centuries roll on, the pure Christianity of the early church will become progressively corrupt until the entire lump (Christendom) is leavened.
- The woman is the harlot church
 - Revelation 17 – The Scarlet Woman and the Scarlet Beast
- The leaven represents the subtle working of evil
 - The same symbol is used elsewhere in Scripture (e.g. Exodus 12:15, 19; Matthew 16:6-12).
 - Ex 12 ¹⁵ Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. On the first day you shall remove leaven from your houses. For whoever eats leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that ^[d]person shall be cut off from Israel. ... ¹⁹ For seven days no leaven shall be found in your houses, since whoever eats what is leavened, that same person shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he is a stranger or a native of the land.
 - Mt 16 ⁶ Then Jesus said to them, “Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees.” ⁷ And they reasoned among themselves, saying, “It is because we have taken no bread.” ⁸ But Jesus, being aware of it, said to them, ... ¹¹ How is it you do not understand that I did not speak to you concerning bread?—but to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.” ¹² Then they understood that He did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees.
 - It is religious hypocrisy (Luke 12:1).
 - Lk 12 ¹ In the meantime, when an innumerable multitude of people had gathered together, so that they trampled one another, He began to say to His disciples first of all, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.
 - The leaven is the evil doctrine of the apostate church.
- The three measures of meal represent Christendom from its inception through the Tribulation.
 - After the true church is raptured, Christendom will be totally corrupt (1 Corinthians 5:6-9).
 - 1Co 5 ⁶ Your glorying is not good. Do you not know that a little leaven leavens the whole lump? ⁷ Therefore purge out the old leaven, that you may be a new lump, since you truly are unleavened. For indeed Christ, our Passover, was sacrificed for us. ⁸ Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, nor with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.
 - The “mystery of lawlessness” (2 Thessalonians 2:7) has been working as leaven in the church from its early days (Revelation 2-3) and will continue to work until the whole of Christendom is evil.
 - 2Th 2 ⁷ For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way.
 - Revelation 2-3 – 7 Churches

Hidden treasure (Mt 13:44)

The Parable of the Hidden Treasure

⁴⁴ “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and hid; and for joy over it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

- This profound parable is one of the deepest and most misinterpreted of all the parables.
 - It involves both revelation and mystery (Romans 16:25, 26; cf. Mark 4:11, 12).

1) The revelation is that the hidden treasure is the kingdom of God, not specifically the church, although the church is part of God’s kingdom. This parable deals with the total kingdom, and not merely with a part.

2) The mystery is that when the Lord Jesus found the treasure in the field, He hid it. The kingdom of God in its totality is still a mystery, hidden from man. However, Christ has revealed to us the King’s manifesto, found in the Sermon on the Mount.

3) The treasure is hidden in the field (the world). When Adam and Eve sinned and were driven from the Garden of Eden and God put a curse upon the world (Genesis 3:4-19), Satan, the God of this age, attempted to usurp a kingdom (2 Corinthians 4:4). Satan’s kingdom, the kingdom of evil, is seen everywhere. The treasure, the kingdom of God that is hidden in the world, will be revealed in all power when the King returns and establishes His kingdom. Jesus journeyed to Calvary with the promise of joy before Him (Hebrews 12:2). It was the joy of knowing that on the other side of the Cross was His purchased kingdom. After His resurrection He went back to heaven to await the Father’s time, when He will return to this earth as King of kings and Lord of lords to claim the kingdom (Matthew 25:31-46; cf. Revelation 19:16).

Valuable pearl (Mt 13:45-46)

The Parable of the Pearl of Great Price

⁴⁵ “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant seeking beautiful pearls, ⁴⁶ who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

47-6 The Pearl of Great Price

(Matthew 13:45, 46)

The “pearl of great price” (v. 46) is perhaps the easiest to understand of all of Jesus’ parables.

Again we have the merchant, representing the God-Man, Christ Jesus, who came into the world “to seek and to save that which was lost” (Luke 19:10). The merchant came seeking beautiful pearls, and found one pearl of exquisite beauty. This speaks of the church, the body of Christ (Colossians 1:18). It is a beautiful picture of the growth, unity, and purity of the church.

The seeking savior comes, and men, women, and children hear the gospel of how He was pierced, “wounded for our transgressions” (Isaiah 53:5). A pearl is formed in an oyster – a grain of sand lodged in the oyster’s shell causes irritation, triggering a secretion that surrounds the sand... and in time a pearl is formed. Similarly, through the centuries the Lord has been adding to the church those who are being saved (Acts 2:47). Thus, all born-again children of God together are valuable pearls in the eyes of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, because we were spiritually shaped by the blood that came from the Savior’s pierced side.

This is a great mystery: that billions of individuals, living and dead, of differing backgrounds, cultures, customs, and languages, are one body. Tragically, sometimes differences in doctrine, opinion, and will are so pronounced between believers that it seems there will never be unity among them. Many refuse to “speak the same thing” and “be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment” (1 Corinthians 1:10). Nonetheless they are alone in “the unity of the Spirit,” in “one body” (Ephesians 4:3, 4). And just as the merchant sold all that he had and bought the one pearl of great price, so “Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for her” (Ephesians 5:25).

This pure, pearl-like unity of the church may never be visible on this earth, during this age. It will be realized, though, when the dead in Christ are raised and, with those who are alive, are caught up to meet Him in the air (1 Thessalonians 4:16-18). Then we will be perfect in body and mind – “conformed to His glorious body” (Philippians 3:21) and knowing ‘just as [we] also [are] known’ (1 Corinthians 13:12). Then we shall be revealed as one body, one bride, or, as in the parable, “one pearl of great price” – paid for by His death, burial, and resurrection.

Net (Mt 13:47-50)

The Parable of the Dragnet

⁴⁷ “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet that was cast into the sea and gathered some of every kind, ⁴⁸ which, when it was full, they drew to shore; and they sat down and gathered the good into vessels, but threw the bad away. ⁴⁹ So it will be at the end of the age. The angels will come forth, separate the wicked from among the just, ⁵⁰ and cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth.”

⁵¹ Jesus said to them, “Have you understood all these things?”

They said to Him, “Yes, Lord.”

⁵² Then He said to them, “Therefore every scribe instructed concerning the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out of his treasure things new and old.”

47-7 The Net

(Matthew 13:47-50)

This parable depicts the consummation of what the foregoing parables describe, as the kingdom moves from mystery to open, visible presence.

- 1) The kingdom of heaven is a net filled with fish – a catch of all kinds.
- 2) The sea is the nations of the world who will come before the King to be judged.
- 3) The catch is made up of good and bad. Just as the King allows the tares to grow amid the wheat until He comes to establish His kingdom, so the good and bad fish will co-exist until the Master Fisherman casts his net and draws them into His presence at the end of the age (v. 49). The angels will then separate the good from the bad (Matthew 25:31-46). The good (the saved, who did the will of God – John 6:40) will be received God’s kingdom. The bad (the lost, who were disobedient) will be “cast... into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth” (v. 50).

Parables

- A New Testament parable is an earthly story that parallels a scriptural truth.
 - Why did Christ teach in parables?
 - He explained part of the answer in Matthew 13:10-17.
 - Parables vividly communicated from the known (earthly) to the unknown—unseen (spiritual), and providentially discriminated among the hearers.
 - Those whose ears had been opened by God would understand (Matthew 13:9) and be blessed (Matthew 13:16, 17), while the unsaved and uninterested would hear but not comprehend (Matthew 13:13-15; cf. 1 Corinthians 2:14).

- Today these parables still help our understanding of what is going on in the world, what God is accomplishing, how He is working, how different segments of mankind will react to the gospel message during our age, and what God will do when Christ returns to set up His earthly kingdom. Each one is a rare beauty capable of unending study and admiration.

The Purpose of Parables

Mt 13 ¹⁰ And the disciples came and said to Him, “Why do You speak to them in parables?”

¹¹ He answered and said to them, “Because it has been given to you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. ¹² For whoever has, to him more will be given, and he will have abundance; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. ¹³ Therefore I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. ¹⁴ And in them the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled, which says:

‘Hearing you will hear and shall not understand,
And seeing you will see and not perceive;
¹⁵ For the hearts of this people have grown dull.
Their ears are hard of hearing,
And their eyes they have closed,
Lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears,
Lest they should understand with their hearts and turn,
So that I should heal them.’

¹⁶ But blessed are your eyes for they see, and your ears for they hear; ¹⁷ for assuredly, I say to you that many prophets and righteous men desired to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

...

Prophecy and the Parables

³⁴ All these things Jesus spoke to the multitude in parables; and without a parable He did not speak to them, ³⁵ that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

“I will open My mouth in parables;
I will utter things kept secret from the foundation of the world.”

- “Parable” is a compound of two Greek words
 - para – meaning “along side” (as in paramedic or paralegal)
 - bollo – from the Greek verb “to throw.”
- A parable is a succinct, didactic story thrown alongside a common, ordinary truth to illuminate that truth in a striking and memorable fashion.
 - A parable is something “thrown along side” to illuminate or bring into sharp focus a common truth in a new or memorable way.
 - Typically, a parable draws from everyday experience and introduces a surprising or extravagant twist that catches the hearer’s attention and brings into focus the comparison he is making.
 - Frequently a parable includes terms that have special or symbolic meaning to the world and culture of Jesus’ day or it gains meaning from the events or words that precede it.
- Jesus did not invent the parable as a teaching device.
 - Parables are a type of mashalim, a form of comparison used in the Old Testament

- Nathan's story of the ewe-lamb in 2 Samuel 12:1-7
 - The story told by the woman of Tekoa in 2 Samuel 14: 1-13.
- In a technical sense, "a parable is something like a metaphor expanded into a story."
 - Greek rhetoricians used the term to describe a brief fictional narrative used for comparison, much like an extended metaphor.
- Although Jesus did not invent the parable, he was a master in using it.
 - Jesus' parables are clever and memorable, often delighting his audience with surprise and insight.
- History of parable research and analysis
 - Parables have been the subject of an enormous amount of research and analysis.
 - Throughout the centuries the Church has read Jesus' parables primarily as allegories and has applied them to the lives of individual believers as such.
 - 1910 - Adolph Jülicher initiated a new period of parable study in 1910 when he demonstrated the inadequacy of the allegorical method in understanding the parables and suggested the necessity of developing other approaches.
 - Following Jülicher's thinking, a group of German scholars began investigating the Jewish background of Jesus' parables.
 - 1935 - C. H. Dodd launched a massive reappraisal of the parables.
 - In his work, Dodd points out that no one would have crucified an itinerant preacher who went about encouraging people with entertaining and memorable stories that encouraged them to embrace higher moral and ethical principles.
 - Clearly, said Dodd, there is more to the parables than that, and he set out to discover the original setting of the parables in Jesus' ministry.
 - For Dodd, his research led him to believe that the parables contained a revolutionary message regarding the coming eschatological "Kingdom of Heaven," and it was being realized through Jesus' preaching. For Dodd, the parables contained a radical and revolutionary message.
 - Paying tribute to Dodd, Joachim Jeremias moved parable research forward again when he launched a deep investigation into their Palestinian background, probing cultural and rabbinical sources, as well as literature contemporary with Jesus, such as the Dead Sea scrolls.
 - At the same time G. V. Jones began investigating the parables as art forms, loosening them from their historical and cultural roots and viewing them as distinct works of art, focusing on their structural elements.
 - Today, parable research tends to focus more and more on such cultural and literary issues.

Unmerciful servant (Mt 18:23-34)

The Parable of the Unforgiving Servant

²¹ Then Peter came to Him and said, “Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Up to seven times?”

²² Jesus said to him, “I do not say to you, up to seven times, but up to seventy times seven. ²³ Therefore the kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who wanted to settle accounts with his servants. ²⁴ And when he had begun to settle accounts, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents. ²⁵ But as he was not able to pay, his master commanded that he be sold, with his wife and children and all that he had, and that payment be made. ²⁶ The servant therefore fell down before him, saying, ‘Master, have patience with me, and I will pay you all.’ ²⁷ Then the master of that servant was moved with compassion, released him, and forgave him the debt.

²⁸ “But that servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii; and he laid hands on him and took him by the throat, saying, ‘Pay me what you owe!’ ²⁹ So his fellow servant fell down ^[e]at his feet and begged him, saying, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you all.’ ³⁰ And he would not, but went and threw him into prison till he should pay the debt. ³¹ So when his fellow servants saw what had been done, they were very grieved, and came and told their master all that had been done. ³² Then his master, after he had called him, said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you all that debt because you begged me. ³³ Should you not also have had compassion on your fellow servant, just as I had pity on you?’ ³⁴ And his master was angry, and delivered him to the torturers until he should pay all that was due to him.

³⁵ “So My heavenly Father also will do to you if each of you, from his heart, does not forgive his brother ^[g]his trespasses.”

The Parable of the Wedding Feast

22 And Jesus answered and spoke to them again by parables and said: ²“The kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who arranged a marriage for his son, ³and sent out his servants to call those who were invited to the wedding; and they were not willing to come. ⁴Again, he sent out other servants, saying, ‘Tell those who are invited, “See, I have prepared my dinner; my oxen and fatted cattle are killed, and all things are ready. Come to the wedding.” ’ ⁵But they made light of it and went their ways, one to his own farm, another to his business. ⁶And the rest seized his servants, treated them spitefully, and killed them. ⁷But when the king heard about it, he was furious. And he sent out his armies, destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city. ⁸Then he said to his servants, ‘The wedding is ready, but those who were invited were not worthy. ⁹Therefore go into the highways, and as many as you find, invite to the wedding.’ ¹⁰So those servants went out into the highways and gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good. And the wedding hall was filled with guests.

¹¹“But when the king came in to see the guests, he saw a man there who did not have on a wedding garment. ¹²So he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you come in here without a wedding garment?’ And he was speechless. ¹³Then the king said to the servants, ‘Bind him hand and foot, take him away, and cast him into outer darkness; there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

¹⁴“For many are called, but few are chosen.”

Repent or Perish – Unfruitful fig tree (Lk 13:1-9)

¹Now there were some present at that time who told Jesus about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mixed with their sacrifices. ²Jesus answered, "Do you think that these Galileans were worse sinners than all the other Galileans because they suffered this way? ³I tell you, no! But unless you repent, you too will all perish. ⁴Or those eighteen who died when the tower in Siloam fell on them—do you think they were more guilty than all the others living in Jerusalem? ⁵I tell you, no! But unless you repent, you too will all perish."

⁶Then he told this parable: "A man had a fig tree, planted in his vineyard, and he went to look for fruit on it, but did not find any. ⁷So he said to the man who took care of the vineyard, 'For three years now I've been coming to look for fruit on this fig tree and haven't found any. Cut it down! Why should it use up the soil?'

⁸" 'Sir,' the man replied, 'leave it alone for one more year, and I'll dig around it and fertilize it. ⁹If it bears fruit next year, fine! If not, then cut it down.' "

Lesson

- As Jesus is teaching, someone in the crowd mentions a particularly heinous act committed by Pilate—the killing of a group of Galileans as they were offering sacrifices at the temple in Jerusalem.
- Lesson – Death can strike anyone at any time, so you'd better repent while you still can.

Illustrations

- "Do you think that these Galileans were worse sinners than all the other Galileans because they suffered this way? I tell you, no! But unless you repent, you too will all perish."
 - Jesus uses the comment to ask a question and to make a pronouncement (Jesus' typical pattern):
 - The question is rhetorical: he gives no time for an answer, nor does he expect one. Instead, he answers the question himself: "I tell you, no!"
 - He then follows his answer with an authoritative pronouncement: "But unless you repent, you too will all perish."
 - On the surface, comparing a group of Galileans deliberately and gruesomely murdered with the members of Jesus' audience seems odd.
- "...Or those eighteen who died when the tower in Siloam fell on them, do you think they were more guilty than all the others living in Jerusalem? I tell you, no! But unless you repent, you too will all perish."
 - Even more oddly, Jesus quickly follows this comparison with another in the same rhetorical question/pronouncement pattern
- In both instances, Jesus stresses the tenuous nature of human life.
 - The murdered Galileans were not greater sinners than others present at the temple that day
 - The eighteen who died when a tower fell on them were not more guilty than others in Jerusalem.
 - In both cases, ordinary people were simply in the wrong place at the wrong time.
 - The lesson Jesus drives home is this: Death can strike anyone at any time, so you'd better repent while you still can.

Parable

- Parable – Jesus then reinforces this lesson by introducing a parable, an extended metaphor "thrown along side" the two previous examples to illustrate and extend them in a memorable fashion.
 - In the parable the fig tree has born no fruit for three years. It is barren and worthless, so the owner of the vineyard tells the man who tends it to cut it down. Instead, the man asks for one more year, during which time he will "dig around it and fertilize it." If it does not bear fruit after that, he will cut it down.
- Throughout the Hebrew Scriptures Israel is compared to a vineyard planted by God in which each vine and fig tree is to yield good fruit.
 - The elements recall Micah 7:1—"What misery is mine! I am like one who gathers summer fruit at the gleanings of his vineyard; there is no cluster of grapes to eat, none of the early figs that I crave."
- Elements of the parable:
 - Man = God

- Vineyard = Israel
- Fig tree = individual Israelite
- Fruit = good works of the individual
- Man who takes care of the vineyard = Jesus
- All of this would be clear to Jesus' audience, as it draws upon commonplace metaphors in Scripture.
- The parable achieves its full meaning by pairing it with the two illustrations that precede it.
 - Jesus has already made the point in the previous questions/ pronouncements that life is tenuous and that death can strike at any time, so one had better repent while he can.
 - In the parable, Jesus offers his listeners a final chance.
 - As the one who tends the vineyard, he is "digging around and fertilizing it" by his teaching.
 - If his listeners do not repent and produce fruit after that, they will be cut down posthaste.
 - In the previous illustrations, neither group is guilty of a greater sin than anyone else
 - In the parable, though, one who does not produce fruit after being "fertilized" by Jesus' teaching is guilty of "a greater sin," for he has chosen to do nothing after having been warned.

Prodigal son / Lost son (Lk 15:11-32)

Luke 15:11 Jesus continued: “There was a man who had two sons. 12 The younger one said to his father, ‘Father, give me my share of the estate.’ So he divided his property between them. 13 “Not long after that, the younger son got together all he had, set off for a distant country and there squandered his wealth in wild living. 14 After he had spent everything, there was a severe famine in that whole country, and he began to be in need. 15 So he went and hired himself out to a citizen of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed pigs. 16 He longed to fill his stomach with the pods that the pigs were eating, but no one gave him anything. 17 “When he came to his senses, he said, ‘How many of my father’s hired servants have food to spare, and here I am starving to death! 18 I will set out and go back to my father and say to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. 19 I am no longer worthy to be called your son; make me like one of your hired servants.’ 20 So he got up and went to his father. “But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion for him; he ran to his son, threw his arms around him and kissed him.

21 “The son said to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. I am no longer worthy to be called your son.’

22 “But the father said to his servants, ‘Quick! Bring the best robe and put it on him. Put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. 23 Bring the fattened calf and kill it. Let’s have a feast and celebrate. 24 For this son of mine was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found.’ So they began to celebrate.

25 “Meanwhile, the older son was in the field. When he came near the house, he heard music and dancing. 26 So he called one of the servants and asked him what was going on. 27 ‘Your brother has come,’ he replied, ‘and your father has killed the fattened calf because he has him back safe and sound.’ 28 “The older brother became angry and refused to go in. So his father went out and pleaded with him. 29 But he answered his father, ‘Look! All these years I’ve been slaving for you and never disobeyed your orders. Yet you never gave me even a young goat so I could celebrate with my friends. 30 But when this son of yours who has squandered your property with prostitutes comes home, you kill the fattened calf for him!’

31 “‘My son,’ the father said, ‘you are always with me, and everything I have is yours. 32 But we had to celebrate and be glad, because this brother of yours was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found.’”

God (father) helps to explain – I will always celebrate when a lost son is found

Not a problem with having a different perspective, but you need to understand the other perspectives

What is the father’s heart in reconciling the differences?

Forgiving – For giving ... grace, mercy, love

Younger son’s view

Luke 15:12 The younger one said to his father, ‘Father, give me my share of the estate.’ So he divided his property between them. 13 “Not long after that, the younger son got together all he had, set off for a distant country and there squandered his wealth in wild living. 14 After he had spent everything, there was a severe famine in that whole country, and he began to be in need. 15 So he went and hired himself out to a citizen of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed pigs. 16 He longed to fill his stomach with the pods that the pigs were eating, but no one gave him anything. 17 “When he came to his senses, he said, ‘How many of my father’s hired servants have food to spare, and here I am starving to death! 18 I will set out and go back to my father and say to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. 19 I am no longer worthy to be called your son; make me like one of your hired servants.’ 20 So he got up and went to his father. ... 21 “The son said to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. I am no longer worthy to be called your son.’

- Perspective – Pride

- Give me attitude – heart is full of ego, arrogance, pride – leads to entitlement
- When he came to his senses and repented, God gave him what he didn't deserve – to go home and receive better

Older son's view

Luke 15:25 “Meanwhile, the older son was in the field. When he came near the house, he heard music and dancing. 26 So he called one of the servants and asked him what was going on. 27 ‘Your brother has come,’ he replied, ‘and your father has killed the fattened calf because he has him back safe and sound.’ 28 “The older brother became angry and refused to go in. - Perspective – Pride
 - All about me attitude – Angry and frustrated that things are unfair
- Rebellious – wrong perspectives
 - Has been angry for a long time. When the hurt comes home, he explodes

End Times

Scripture

Matthew 24 – Signs of the End of the Age

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

³Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to Him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign of Your coming, and of the end of the age?”

kingdom. And there will be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. ⁸ All these are the beginning of sorrows.

⁹ “Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake. ¹⁰ And then many will be offended, will betray one another, and will hate one another. ¹¹ Then many false prophets will rise up and deceive many. ¹² And because lawlessness will abound, the love of many will grow cold. ¹³ But he who endures to the end shall be saved. ¹⁴ And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come.

The Great Tribulation

¹⁵ “Therefore when you see the ‘abomination of desolation,’ spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place” (whoever reads, let him understand), ¹⁶ “then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. ¹⁷ Let him who is on the housetop not go down to take anything out of his house. ¹⁸ And let him who is in the field not go back to get his clothes. ¹⁹ But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! ²⁰ And pray that your flight may not be in winter or on the Sabbath. ²¹ For then there will be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until this time, no, nor ever shall be. ²² And unless those days were shortened, no flesh would be saved; but for the elect’s sake those days will be shortened.

²³ “Then if anyone says to you, ‘Look, here is the Christ!’ or ‘There!’ do not believe it. ²⁴ For false christs and false prophets will rise and show great signs and wonders to deceive, if possible, even the elect. ²⁵ See, I have told you beforehand.

²⁶ “Therefore if they say to you, ‘Look, He is in the desert!’ do not go out; or ‘Look, He is in the inner rooms!’ do not believe it. ²⁷ For as the lightning comes from the east and flashes to the west, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ²⁸ For wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will be gathered together.

The Coming of the Son of Man

²⁹ “Immediately after the tribulation of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. ³⁰ Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. ³¹ And He will send His angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they will gather together His elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

The Parable of the Fig Tree

³² “Now learn this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. ³³ So you also, when you see all these things, know that it is near—at the doors! ³⁴ Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. ³⁵ Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

³⁶ “But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, but My Father only. ³⁷ But as the days of Noah were, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ³⁸ For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, ³⁹ and did not know until the flood came and took them all away, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ⁴⁰ Then two men will be in the field: one will be taken and the other left. ⁴¹ Two women will be grinding at the mill: one will be taken and the other left. ⁴² Watch therefore, for you do not know what hour your Lord is coming. ⁴³ But know this, that if the master of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched and not allowed his house to be broken into. ⁴⁴ Therefore you also be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect.

The Faithful Servant and the Evil Servant

⁴⁵ “Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his master made ruler over his household, to give them food in due season? ⁴⁶ Blessed is that servant whom his master, when he comes, will find so doing. ⁴⁷ Assuredly, I say to you that he will make him ruler over all his goods. ⁴⁸ But if that evil servant says in his heart, ‘My master is delaying his coming,’ ⁴⁹ and begins to beat his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunkards, ⁵⁰ the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking for him and at an hour that he is not aware of, ⁵¹ and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Matthew 25 – The Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins

25 “Then the kingdom of heaven shall be likened to ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. ² Now five of them were wise, and five were foolish. ³ Those who were foolish took their lamps and took no oil with them, ⁴ but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. ⁵ But while the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept.

⁶ “And at midnight a cry was heard: ‘Behold, the bridegroom is coming; go out to meet him!’ ⁷ Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. ⁸ And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ ⁹ But the wise answered, saying, ‘No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.’ ¹⁰ And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding; and the door was shut.

¹¹ “Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, ‘Lord, Lord, open to us!’ ¹² But he answered and said, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, I do not know you.’

¹³ “Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming.

The Parable of the Talents

¹⁴ “For the kingdom of heaven is like a man traveling to a far country, who called his own servants and delivered his goods to them. ¹⁵ And to one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one, to each according to his own ability; and immediately he went on a journey. ¹⁶ Then he who had received the five talents went and traded with them, and made another five talents. ¹⁷ And likewise he who had received two gained two more also. ¹⁸ But he who had received one went and dug in the ground, and hid his lord’s money. ¹⁹ After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them.

²⁰ “So he who had received five talents came and brought five other talents, saying, ‘Lord, you delivered to me five talents; look, I have gained five more talents besides them.’ ²¹ His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you were faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’ ²² He also who had received two talents came and said, ‘Lord, you delivered to me two talents; look, I have gained two more talents besides them.’ ²³ His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’

²⁴ “Then he who had received the one talent came and said, ‘Lord, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed. ²⁵ And I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground. Look, there you have what is yours.’

²⁶ “But his lord answered and said to him, ‘You wicked and lazy servant, you knew that I reap where I have not sown, and gather where I have not scattered seed. ²⁷ So you ought to have deposited my money with the bankers, and at my coming I would have received back my own with interest. ²⁸ So take the talent from him, and give it to him who has ten talents.

²⁹ ‘For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have abundance; but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away. ³⁰ And cast the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

The Son of Man Will Judge the Nations

³¹ “When the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory. ³² All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. ³³ And He will set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. ³⁴ Then the King will say to those on His right hand, ‘Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: ³⁵ for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; ³⁶ I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.’

³⁷ “Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink?’ ³⁸ When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You?’ ³⁹ Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?’ ⁴⁰ And the King will answer and say to them, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.’

⁴¹ “Then He will also say to those on the left hand, ‘Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels:’ ⁴² for I was hungry and you gave Me no food; I was thirsty and you gave Me no drink; ⁴³ I was a stranger and you did not take Me in, naked and you did not clothe Me, sick and in prison and you did not visit Me.’

⁴⁴ “Then they also will answer Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to You?’” ⁴⁵ Then He will answer them, saying, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.’ ⁴⁶ And these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

Luke 17 – The Coming of the Kingdom

²² Then He said to the disciples, “The days will come when you will desire to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it.’ ²³ And they will say to you, ‘Look here!’ or ‘Look there!’ Do not go after them or follow them.’ ²⁴ For as the lightning that flashes out of one part under heaven shines to the other part under heaven, so also the Son of Man will be in His day. ²⁵ But first He must suffer many things and be rejected by this generation. ²⁶ And as it was in the days of Noah, so it will be also in the days of the Son of Man: ²⁷ They ate, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all. ²⁸ Likewise as it was also in the days of Lot: They ate, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they built; ²⁹ but on the day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven and destroyed them all. ³⁰ Even so will it be in the day when the Son of Man is revealed.

³¹ “In that day, he who is on the housetop, and his goods are in the house, let him not come down to take them away. And likewise the one who is in the field, let him not turn back. ³² Remember Lot’s wife. ³³ Whoever seeks to save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life will preserve it. ³⁴ I tell you, in that night there will be two men in one bed: the one will be taken and the other will be left. ³⁵ Two women will be grinding together: the one will be taken and the other left. ³⁶ Two men will be in the field: the one will be taken and the other left.”

³⁷ And they answered and said to Him, “Where, Lord?”

So He said to them, “Wherever the body is, there the eagles will be gathered together.”

Luke 21 – Signs of the End of the Age

Jesus Predicts the Destruction of the Temple

⁵ Then, as some spoke of the temple, how it was adorned with beautiful stones and donations, He said, ⁶ “These things which you see—the days will come in which not one stone shall be left upon another that shall not be thrown down.”

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

⁷ So they asked Him, saying, “Teacher, but when will these things be? And what sign will there be when these things are about to take place?”

⁸ And He said: “Take heed that you not be deceived. For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am He,’ and, ‘The time has drawn near.’ Therefore do not go after them. ⁹ But when you hear of wars and commotions, do not be terrified; for these things must come to pass first, but the end will not come immediately.”

¹⁰ Then He said to them, “Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. ¹¹ And there will be great earthquakes in various places, and famines and pestilences; and there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven. ¹² But before all these things, they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and prisons. You will be brought before kings and rulers for My name’s sake. ¹³ But it will turn out for you as an occasion for testimony. ¹⁴ Therefore settle it in your hearts not to meditate beforehand on what you will answer; ¹⁵ for I will give you a mouth and wisdom which all your adversaries will not be able to contradict or resist. ¹⁶ You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, relatives and friends; and they will put some of you to death. ¹⁷ And you will be hated by all for My name's sake. ¹⁸ But not a hair of your head shall be lost. ¹⁹ By your patience possess your souls.

The Destruction of Jerusalem

²⁰ “But when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know that its desolation is near. ²¹ Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains, let those who are in the midst of her depart, and let not those who are in the country enter her. ²² For these are the days of vengeance, that all things which are written may be fulfilled. ²³ But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! For there will be great distress in the land and wrath upon this people. ²⁴ And they will fall by the edge of the sword, and be led away captive into all nations. And Jerusalem will be trampled by Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

The Coming of the Son of Man

²⁵ “And there will be signs in the sun, in the moon, and in the stars; and on the earth distress of nations, with perplexity, the sea and the waves roaring; ²⁶ men's hearts failing them from fear and the expectation of those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of the heavens will be shaken. ²⁷ Then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. ²⁸ Now when these things begin to happen, look up and lift up your heads, because your redemption draws near.”

The Parable of the Fig Tree

²⁹ Then He spoke to them a parable: “Look at the fig tree, and all the trees. ³⁰ When they are already budding, you see and know for yourselves that summer is now near. ³¹ So you also, when you see these things happening, know that the kingdom of God is near. ³² Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all things take place. ³³ Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

The Importance of Watching

³⁴ “But take heed to yourselves, lest your hearts be weighed down with carousing, drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that Day come on you unexpectedly. ³⁵ For it will come as a snare on all those who dwell on the face of the whole earth. ³⁶ Watch therefore, and pray always that you may be counted worthy to escape all these things that will come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man.”

³⁷ And in the daytime He was teaching in the temple, but at night He went out and stayed on the mountain called Olivet. ³⁸ Then early in the morning all the people came to Him in the temple to hear Him.

Mark 13 – Signs of the End of the Age

Jesus Predicts the Destruction of the Temple

13 Then as He went out of the temple, one of His disciples said to Him, “Teacher, see what manner of stones and what buildings are here!”

² And Jesus answered and said to him, “Do you see these great buildings? Not one stone shall be left upon another, that shall not be thrown down.”

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

³ Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter, James, John, and Andrew asked Him privately, ⁴ “Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign when all these things will be fulfilled?”

⁵ And Jesus, answering them, began to say: “Take heed that no one deceives you. ⁶ For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am He,’ and will deceive many. ⁷ But when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be troubled; for such things must happen, but the end is not yet. ⁸ For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and troubles. These are the beginnings of sorrows.

⁹ “But watch out for yourselves, for they will deliver you up to councils, and you will be beaten in the synagogues. You will be brought before rulers and kings for My sake, for a testimony to them. ¹⁰ And the gospel must first be preached to all the nations. ¹¹ But when they arrest you and deliver you up, do not worry beforehand, or premeditate what you will speak. But whatever is given you in that hour, speak that; for it is not you who speak, but the Holy Spirit. ¹² Now brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child; and children will rise up against parents and cause them to be put to death. ¹³ And you will be hated by all for My name's sake. But he who endures to the end shall be saved.

The Great Tribulation

¹⁴ “So when you see the ‘abomination of desolation,’ spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not” (let the reader understand), “then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. ¹⁵ Let him who is on the housetop not go down into the house, nor enter to take anything out of his house. ¹⁶ And let him who is in the field not go back to get his clothes. ¹⁷ But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! ¹⁸ And pray that your flight may not be in winter. ¹⁹ For in those days there will be tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the creation which God created until this time, nor ever shall be. ²⁰ And unless the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh would be saved; but for the elect's sake, whom He chose, He shortened the days.

²¹ “Then if anyone says to you, ‘Look, here is the Christ!’ or, ‘Look, He is there!’ do not believe it. ²² For false christs and false prophets will rise and show signs and wonders to deceive, if possible, even the elect. ²³ But take heed; see, I have told you all things beforehand.

The Coming of the Son of Man

²⁴ “But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; ²⁵ the stars of heaven will fall, and the powers in the heavens will be shaken. ²⁶ Then they will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory. ²⁷ And then He will send His angels, and gather together His elect from the four winds, from the farthest part of earth to the farthest part of heaven.

The Parable of the Fig Tree

²⁸ “Now learn this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender, and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. ²⁹ So you also, when you see these things happening, know that it is near—at the doors! ³⁰ Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. ³¹ Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

³² “But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father. ³³ Take heed, watch and pray; for you do not know when the time is. ³⁴ It is like a man going to a far country, who left his house and gave authority to his servants, and to each his work, and commanded the doorkeeper to watch. ³⁵ Watch therefore, for you do not know when the master of the house is coming—in the evening, at midnight, at the crowing of the rooster, or in the morning—³⁶ lest, coming suddenly, he find you sleeping. ³⁷ And what I say to you, I say to all: Watch!”

Time of the End

- The GENERAL timing of His return was given – The season of His return

The Parable of the Fig Tree

³² “Now learn this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. ³³ So you also, when you see all these things, know that it is near—at the doors! ³⁴ Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. ³⁵ Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

- EVERYONE (that means everyone) agrees that the fig tree represents Israel
 - Returned on May 14, 1948 – just as the Bible said it would – see Ezekiel’s 2520 Prophecy
- The question then becomes – What is a generation
- 4 Possible definitions of a generation
 - 40 years
 - 40 is a significant number in the Bible generally representing a generation
 - Nu 32:13 So the Lord’s anger was aroused against Israel, and He made them wander in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the Lord was gone.
 - Many kings ruled for forty years and were considered a generation
 - 70-80 years
 - Ps 90:7 For we have been consumed by Your anger, And by Your wrath we are terrified.
8 You have set our iniquities before You, Our secret sins in the light of Your countenance.
9 For all our days have passed away in Your wrath; We finish our years like a sigh.
10 The days of our lives are seventy years; And if by reason of strength they are eighty years,
Yet their boast is only labor and sorrow; For it is soon cut off, and we fly away.
11 Who knows the power of Your anger? For as the fear of You, so is Your wrath.
12 So teach us to number our days, That we may gain a heart of wisdom.
 - Joel 2:2 {The Day of the Lord} ...A people come, great and strong, The like of whom has never been; Nor will there ever be any such after them, Even for many successive generations.
 - 100 years
 - Ge 15:12 Now when the sun was going down, a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and behold, horror and great darkness fell upon him. 13 Then He said to Abram: “Know certainly that your descendants will be strangers in a land that is not theirs, and will serve them, and they will afflict them four hundred years. 14 And also the nation whom they serve I will judge; afterward they shall come out with great possessions. 15 Now as for you, you shall go to your fathers in peace; you shall be buried at a good old age. 16 But in the fourth generation they shall return here, for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet complete.”
 - 120 years
 - Ge 6:3 Then the LORD said, "My Spirit will not contend with man forever, for he is mortal; his days will be a hundred and twenty years."
 - It has been 120 Jubilees since Adam and Eve
- ³³ ... when you see all these things, know that it is near—at the doors!

WATCH!

- We are told to watch for these things that Jesus mentions

- Lk 21 ³⁴ “But take heed to yourselves, lest your hearts be weighed down with carousing, drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that Day come on you unexpectedly. ³⁵ For it will come as a snare on all those who dwell on the face of the whole earth. ³⁶ Watch therefore, and pray always that you may be counted worthy to escape all these things that will come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man.”
- Mk 13 ³⁵ Watch therefore, for you do not know when the master of the house is coming—in the evening, at midnight, at the crowing of the rooster, or in the morning— ³⁶ lest, coming suddenly, he find you sleeping. ³⁷ And what I say to you, I say to all: Watch!”

Olivet Discourse – Signs of the End Times

Matthew 24 – Signs of the End of the Age

Mt 24 ³ Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to Him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign of Your coming, and of the end of the age?”

⁴ And Jesus answered and said to them: “Take heed that no one deceives you. ⁵ For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ and will deceive many. ⁶ And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. ⁷ For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. ⁸ All these are the beginning of sorrows.

⁹ “Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake. ¹⁰ And then many will be offended, will betray one another, and will hate one another. ¹¹ Then many false prophets will rise up and deceive many. ¹² And because lawlessness will abound, the love of many will grow cold. ¹³ But he who endures to the end shall be saved. ¹⁴ And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come.

Luke 21 – The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

⁷ So they asked Him, saying, “Teacher, but when will these things be? And what sign will there be when these things are about to take place?”

⁸ And He said: “Take heed that you not be deceived. For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am He,’ and, ‘The time has drawn near.’ Therefore do not go after them. ⁹ But when you hear of wars and commotions, do not be terrified; for these things must come to pass first, but the end will not come immediately.”

But he who endures to the end shall be saved.

Birthpains

- These signs are equated to birthpains
 - Mt 24 ⁸ All these are the beginning of sorrows.

Life as normal

- Life will be going on as normal
 - Mt 24 ³⁷ But as the days of Noah were, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ³⁸ For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, ³⁹ and did not know until the flood came and took them all away, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be.

Deception

- Mt 24 ⁴ “Take heed that no one deceives you. ⁵ For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ and will deceive many.
- Mt 24 ¹¹ Then many false prophets will rise up and deceive many.

Wars and rumors of wars – World Wars

- Mt 24 ⁶ And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. ⁷ For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.

Famines

- Mt 24 ⁷ And there will be famines.

Pestilences

- Mt 24 ⁷ And there will be ..., pestilences.

Earthquakes in various places

- Mt 24 ⁷ And there will be ... earthquakes in various places.

Persecution

- Mt 24 ⁹ “Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake.

- Lk 21 ¹² But before all these things, they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and prisons. You will be brought before kings and rulers for My name's sake.
- Lk 21 ¹⁶ ... and they will put some of you to death.

Lawlessness will abound

- Mt 24 ¹² And because lawlessness will abound

Hatred abounds – The love of many will grow cold

- Mt 24 ¹⁰ And then many will be offended, will betray one another, and will hate one another.
- Mt 24 ¹² And because lawlessness will abound, the love of many will grow cold.
- Lk 21 ¹⁶ You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, relatives and friends
- Lk 21 ¹⁷ And you will be hated by all for My name's sake.
- Mk 12 ¹² Now brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child; and children will rise up against parents and cause them to be put to death. ¹³ And you will be hated by all for My name's sake.

Fearful sights in heaven

- Lk 21 ¹¹ and there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven.

Warnings

Unpreparedness – Wise and Foolish Virgins – Matthew 25

The final exhortation indicates the main point of the parable— one is to watch and be prepared!

25 “Then the kingdom of heaven shall be likened to ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. ²Now five of them were wise, and five were foolish. ³Those who were foolish took their lamps and took no oil with them, ⁴but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. ⁵But while the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept.

⁶“And at midnight a cry was heard: ‘Behold, the bridegroom is coming; go out to meet him!’ ⁷Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. ⁸And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ ⁹But the wise answered, saying, ‘No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.’ ¹⁰And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding; and the door was shut.

¹¹“Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, ‘Lord, Lord, open to us!’ ¹²But he answered and said, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, I do not know you.’

¹³“Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming.

- As we take a good look at the Parable of the Ten Virgins, we must acknowledge up front that there has been much debate as to the meaning of these words of our Savior. At least one aspect of this parable can be known with absolute certainty – The bridegroom is Jesus Christ, and this parable describes His return.
 - In the Old Testament, God pictures Himself as the “husband” of Israel (Isaiah 54:4–6; 62:4-5; Hosea 2:19)
 - In the New Testament, Christ is pictured as the bridegroom of the Church (Jn 3:27–30; Mt 9:15; Mk 2:19–20)
 - The Church is described in Scripture as the bride of Christ (Ephesians 5:25–32).
- The historical setting can also be known with a fair amount of certainty.
 - In describing a first-century Jewish wedding, D.A. Carson in the Expositor’s Bible Commentary describes the setting this way: “Normally the bridegroom with some close friends left his home to go to the bride’s home, where there were various ceremonies, followed by a procession through the streets – after nightfall – to his home. The ten virgins may be bridesmaids who have been assisting the bride; and they expect to meet the groom as he comes from the bride’s house...Everyone in the procession was expected to carry his or her own torch. Those without a torch would be assumed to be party crashers or even brigands. The festivities, which might last several days, would formally get under way at the groom’s house.”
 - The torch was either a lamp with a small oil tank and wick or a stick with a rag soaked in oil on the end of it which would require occasional re-soaking to maintain the flame.
- Of interpretive significance is which return of Christ is this? Is it His return for the rapture of the Church, or is it His return to set up the Millennial Kingdom at the end of the Tribulation? Dispensational scholars divide over this issue, and no attempt will be made to answer that question here. Regardless of which return it is, the lessons to be learned are relevant to both.
- The overall and easily seen thrust of the parable is that Christ will return at an unknown hour and that His people must be ready.
 - Being ready means preparing for whatever contingency arises in our lives and keeping our eyes fixed on Jesus at all times while we eagerly await His coming.
 - As seen in the fact that all the virgins were sleeping when the call came indicates that it doesn’t matter what we are doing when Christ returns. We may be working, eating, sleeping, or pursuing leisure activities. Whatever it is, we must be doing it in such a way that we don’t have to “make things right” (get more oil) when He comes.
 - This would apply to either the coming of Christ for His Church or for the Tribulation saints as they await His second coming.

- Being ready for Christ's return ultimately involves one major thing which manifests itself in several areas of our lives – If we would be ready for Christ's return, we must be born again through saving faith in Jesus Christ...His death, burial and literal resurrection from the dead (John 3:16; 14:6; Romans 10:9 and 10; 1 Corinthians 15:1-4; Ephesians 2:1-10). Saving faith in Jesus Christ will manifest itself in every aspect of our lives.
 - The fruit of the Spirit (Galatians 5:22) will begin to show.
 - A desire for greater holiness and less sin will be apparent.
 - And a consistent looking for His coming will mark our lives.
 - One of the best passages articulating what saving grace and faith look like in a believer's life is Titus 2:11-14, "For the grace of God that brings salvation has appeared to all men. It teaches us to say 'No' to ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright and godly lives in this present age, while we wait for the blessed hope — the glorious appearing of our great God and Savior, Jesus Christ, who gave himself for us to redeem us from all wickedness and to purify for himself a people that are his very own, eager to do what is good."
- The five virgins who have the extra oil represent the truly born again who are looking with eagerness to the coming of Christ. They have saving faith and have determined that, whatever occurs, be it lengthy time or adverse circumstances, when Jesus returns, they will be looking with eagerness.
- The five virgins without the oil represent false believers who enjoy the benefits of the Christian community without true love for Christ. They are more concerned about the party than about longing to see the bridegroom. Their hope is that their association with true believers ("give us some of your oil" of verse 8) will bring them into the kingdom at the end.
 - This, of course, is never the case. One person's faith in Jesus cannot save another.
 - The "Lord, lord" and "I do not know you" of verses 11 and 12 fit very well with Jesus' condemnation of the false believers of Matthew 7:21-23, "Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father who is in heaven will enter. Many will say to Me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in Your name, and in Your name cast out demons, and in Your name perform many miracles?' And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness.'"
- May we not be found "going away to make the purchase" (v. 10) when Christ returns. Take the time now to fill your lamp with oil and take extra along. Keep waiting and watching with joy and anticipation.

Be ready! The kingdom of heaven is coming!

25 "Then the kingdom of heaven shall be likened to ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom.

- Then the kingdom of heaven: Matthew 24 ended with a parable meant to emphasize the idea of readiness for the coming of Jesus. Matthew 25 begins with another parable upon the same principle.
- Then the kingdom of heaven
 - This introductory formula is similar to 13:24; 18:23; 22:2 but here it is spoken of in the future tense.
 - Mt 13 ²⁴ Another parable He put forth to them, saying: "The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field;
 - Mt 18 ²³ Therefore the kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who wanted to settle accounts with his servants.
 - Mt 22 ² "The kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who arranged a marriage for his son,
- To ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom:
 - There were three stages to a Jewish wedding in that day.
 - Engagement – a formal agreement made by the fathers.
 - Betrothal – the ceremony where mutual promises are made.

- Marriage – approximately 1 year later when the bridegroom came at an unexpected time for his bride.
- “When the bridegroom came, the bride-maids, who were attending the bride, went forth to meet the bridegroom, with lamps lighted, to conduct him and his companions into the house, and to her who was to be the bride.”
- Some ask why Jesus described ten virgins and not another number. Reportedly, Talmudic authorities said there were usually ten lamps in a bridal procession. It was a common size of a wedding party.
- “The point is not these girls’ virginity, which is assumed, but simply that they are ten (a favorite round number...) maidens invited to the wedding.”
- To ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom:
 - The kingdom is compared to the story about ten “virgins” or “bridesmaids.” The word translated virgins is used in the general sense of unmarried maidens attending the bride. We should not press the term to find any other meaning (such as mature believers as opposed to carnal believers, those who are celibate, etc.). Neither should we attach any special meaning to the number ten. There does not seem to be any specific reason for this number. The analogy also breaks down when comparing the bridegroom to the character of God. As we saw with Jesus own interpretation of His parables (ch. 13) it was only the main details that had meaning.
- Went to meet the bridegroom: In this parable, the first two stages have already taken place. Now the wedding party (the ten virgins) waits for the coming of the bridegroom for the bride.
 - “To see the bridegroom as Jesus himself seems warranted in light of Matthew 9:15. This would be a bold figure for Him to use, as the Old Testament frequently describes God (not the Messiah) as the bridegroom, and Israel as the bride (Isaiah 54:4-5; 62:5; Jeremiah 2:2; Hosea 1-3, etc.).”

Wise vs Foolish

² Now five of them were wise, and five were foolish. ³ Those who were foolish took their lamps and took no oil with them, ⁴ but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

- Now five of them were wise, and five were foolish: Some in the wedding party were wise and prepared for the coming of the bridegroom. Some in the wedding party were foolish and unprepared.
 - “Foolish, wise, not bad and good, but prudent and imprudent, thoughtless and thoughtful.”
- Took their lamps and took no oil with them: The five foolish virgins appeared to be ready for the bridegroom, because they had their lamps in hand. But they really were not ready, because they took no oil with them.
 - “It is apparently a torchlight procession, the lamps probably being ‘torches’ (of oil-soaked rags wrapped on a stick) rather than standing lamps, which are described by a different word in Matthew 5:15 and 6:22; the word used here regularly means ‘torch’.”
 - “Their torches consisting of a wooden staff held in the hand, with a dish at the top, in which was a piece of cloth or rope dipped in oil or pitch.”
 - Oil in their vessels: The wise maidens had an extra supply of oil.

They ALL slept

⁵ But while the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept.

- While the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept: All ten of the maidens slept, because the bridegroom was delayed. In this parable both the wise and foolish maidens slept, but the wise ones were prepared to act immediately when they were unexpectedly awakened. The foolish maidens were not prepared.
 - “They are waiting to escort the bridegroom in festal procession, probably in the last stage of the ceremonies as he brings his bride home for the wedding feast.” (France)
 - Slumbered and slept: “‘Nodded off and were sound asleep’ would get the sense of the Greek tenses.”

- In the traditional weddings, it would be possible for the messengers to repeatedly announce the coming of the groom, yet there could be a delay of hours. The delay of the bridegroom in the parable is linked to the uncertainty concerning the time of the return of the Son of Man (see also verse 19, “after a long time). The inference, therefore, is that mankind will wait for a long time before the return of the Lord.
- The hours wore on as the bridegroom was delayed and all of them began to nod off. There is no fault attached to them for sleeping. Their preparedness was seen in the extra oil they brought for the possible delay.

Prepare!

6 “And at midnight a cry was heard: ‘Behold, the bridegroom is coming; go out to meet him!’ 7 Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps.

- At midnight a cry was heard: “Behold, the bridegroom is coming”...all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps: At an unexpected hour the bridegroom came for the wedding. The wedding party (all those virgins) immediately began to prepare their lamps for lighting.
 - “Trimmed their lamps is literally ‘put their torches in order’.”
 - “It is a warning addressed specifically to those inside the professing church who are not to assume that their future is unconditionally assured; all ten are expecting to be at the feast, and until the moment comes there is no apparent difference between them – it is the crisis which will divide the ready from the unready.”
- ‘Behold, the bridegroom is coming; go out to meet him!’ :
 - This was the actual historical practice. The members from the party of the bride would meet the members from the party of the groom. These processions, accompanied by much singing and dancing, were generally held at night. Hence the need for the lamps or torches.
 - The groom would have his own procession with his male friends. Jesus has already been identified as the bridegroom in another parable in Matthew (9:15). Note that the bride is not mentioned, it is her attendants that are the focus of the parable, the groom is mentioned his attendants are not.

Oil = Holy Spirit

8 And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ 9 But the wise answered, saying, ‘No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.’

- The foolish ones were not prepared and they now notice they their lamps are becoming dim.
 - The image of the lamps of the wicked going out is used in Proverbs 13:9 and Job 18:5 and may lie behind the imagery of the parable at this point.
 - Pro 13 9 The light of the righteous rejoices, But the lamp of the wicked will be put out.
 - Job 18 5 “The light of the wicked indeed goes out, And the flame of his fire does not shine.
- Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out: The foolish virgins were unprepared because they lacked oil for their lamps. In many Biblical passages oil, is an emblem of the Holy Spirit (such as Zechariah 4:1-7).
 - Zec 4 1 Now the angel who talked with me came back and wakened me, as a man who is wakened out of his sleep. 2 And he said to me, “What do you see?” So I said, “I am looking, and there is a lampstand of solid gold with a bowl on top of it, and on the stand seven lamps with seven pipes to the seven lamps. 3 Two olive trees are by it, one at the right of the bowl and the other at its left.” 4 So I answered and spoke to the angel who talked with me, saying, “What are these, my lord?” ... 6 So he answered and said to me: “This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: ‘Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit,’ Says the LORD of hosts.
 - Zechariah is shown a seven branched menorah flanked by two olive trees which fueled the flames.

- To the discouraged governor, Yahweh reminds, "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit." The power to rebuild the Temple came from God, and no man can stand against the Almighty.
 - God promises Zerubbabel that the project would indeed be finished, powered by "the two anointed ones, who stand beside the Lord of the whole earth."
- Without oil the wedding party was not ready for the bridegroom. Without the Holy Spirit, no one is ready for the return of Jesus.'
- Olive oil is a good representation of the Holy Spirit for many reasons.
 - Oil lubricates when used for that purpose
 - There is little friction and wear among those who are lubricated by the Spirit of God.
 - Oil heals and was used as a medicinal treatment in Biblical times (Luke 10:34)
 - The Spirit of God brings healing and restoration.
 - Oil lights when it is burned in a lamp
 - Where the Spirit of God is, there is light.
 - Oil warms when it is used as fuel for a flame
 - Where the Spirit of God is, there is warmth and comfort.
 - Oil invigorates when used to massage
 - The Holy Spirit invigorates us for His service.
 - Oil adorns when applied as a perfume
 - The Holy Spirit adorns us and makes us more pleasant to be around.
 - Oil polishes when used to shine metal
 - The Holy Spirit wipes away our grime and smooths out our rough edges.
- No one can be a true Christian without the indwelling Holy Spirit
 - As it says in Romans 8:9: *Now if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is not His.
 - In this parable Jesus probably did not intend a separation between "Spirit-filled" and "Non-Spirit-filled" Christians; the distinction is likely between true Christians and false believers.
 - Nevertheless, a key to Christian readiness is to be constantly being filled with the Holy Spirit (Ephesians 5:18). Much of the weakness, defeat and lethargy in our spiritual lives can be explained if we are not constantly being filled with the Holy Spirit.
- but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.'
 - Buying oil late at night likely would not have been difficult, even in a little village, in full celebration of a wedding.
 - The fact that they were told to go out and buy the oil seems to indicate that oil is not symbolic of the Holy Spirit or of good works. We cannot buy the Holy Spirit neither can we be saved by our good works.

Those caught unprepared are denied entry.

¹⁰ And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding; and the door was shut. ¹¹ "Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, 'Lord, Lord, open to us!' ¹² But he answered and said, 'Assuredly, I say to you, I do not know you.'

- The door was shut... "Assuredly, I say to you, I do not know you": The penalty was severe for the foolish maidens. They were not allowed to come to the wedding, and the door was shut against them in the strongest terms.
 - "The girls' appeal and the bridegroom's response recall the chilling words of Matthew 7:22-23; here, as there, I do not know you is a decisive formula of rejection, rather than a mere statement of fact."
 - Mt 7 ²² Many will say to Me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?' ²³ And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!'
 - The shut door points to the time when it is too late to alter the division between the saved and the lost

- Is 22 ²² The key of the house of David I will lay on his shoulder; So he shall open, and no one shall shut; And he shall shut, and no one shall open.
- Lk 13 ²⁵ When once the Master of the house has risen up and shut the door, and you begin to stand outside and knock at the door, saying, ‘Lord, Lord, open for us,’ and He will answer and say to you, ‘I do not know you, where you are from,’
- Rev 3 ⁷ “And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write, ‘These things says He who is holy, He who is true, “He who has the key of David, He who opens and no one shuts, and shuts and no one opens”’
- It also reminds us of God shutting the door to Noah’s ark (Genesis 6).
 - Ge 7 ¹⁶ So those that entered, male and female of all flesh, went in as God had commanded him; and the LORD shut him in.
- “When that door is once shut, it will never be opened. There are some who dote and dream about an opening of that door, after death, for those who have died impenitent; but there is nothing in the Scriptures to warrant such an expectation. Any ‘larger hope’ than that revealed in the Word of God is a delusion and a snare.”
- There are no last-minute conversions here. Instead, they hear the dreaded words that He does not know them. The foolish virgins, by being unprepared for the coming of the bridegroom with its unanticipated delay, are shut out from enjoying the wedding banquet and no appeal can change that reality.

Watch!

- ¹³ “Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming.
 - Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming: The point of this parable is simple – be ready. The price for failing to be ready is too high.
 - The final exhortation indicates the main point of the parable— one is to watch.
 - The point is not the avoidance of literal sleep (the wise virgins did sleep) but spiritual wakefulness, that is, keeping in a state of constant readiness for the coming of the Son of Man.
 - The vigilance is required because the day and the hour cannot be known in advance.

Lessons of the Parable

We can learn the following lessons from this parable:

- There will be a long period of time between the First and Second Coming of Christ
 - Mt 25 ⁵ But while the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept.
 - Mt 25 ¹⁹ After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them.
- Each one of us must be personally prepared for the coming of the Lord (25:7-9). We cannot expect the preparedness of those close to us to compensate for our lack of preparedness
 - Mt 25 ⁷ Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps. ⁸ And the foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ ⁹ But the wise answered, saying, ‘No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.’
 - Ps 49 ⁷ None of them can by any means redeem his brother, Nor give to God a ransom for him—
 - Pro 9 ¹² If you are wise, you are wise for yourself, And if you scoff, you will bear it alone.”
- Because we do not know the time of His coming we must always be prepared
 - Mt 25 ¹³ “Watch therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming.

- Ps 95 ⁷ For He is our God, And we are the people of His pasture, And the sheep of His hand. Today, if you will hear His voice: ⁸ “Do not harden your hearts, as in the rebellion, As in the day of trial in the wilderness,
- 2Co 6 ² For He says: “In an acceptable time I have heard you, And in the day of salvation I have helped you.” Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.
- Those who profess belief in Jesus are similar, in many respects. to those who truly believe
 - See the parable of the Sower in chapter 13
- There will be no doubt when Christ returns (25:6). It will be visible to everyone (24:31; Revelation 1:7).
 - Mt 25 ⁶ “And at midnight a cry was heard: ‘Behold, the bridegroom is coming; go out to meet him!’
 - Rev 1 ⁷ Look, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him; and all the peoples of the earth will mourn because of him. So shall it be! Amen.
- When the Lord returns, there will be no second chance for those who have not received Him.
 - This is an important theme in the New Testament
 - Mt 25 ¹⁰ And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding; and the door was shut. ¹¹ “Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, ‘Lord, Lord, open to us!’ ¹² But he answered and said, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, I do not know you.’
 - Mt 7 ²² Many will say to Me in that day, ‘Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?’ ²³ And then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!’
 - Mt 10 ³² “Therefore whoever confesses Me before men, him I will also confess before My Father who is in heaven. ³³ But whoever denies Me before men, him I will also deny before My Father who is in heaven.
 - Mt 24 ³⁷ But as the days of Noah were, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ³⁸ For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, ³⁹ and did not know until the flood came and took them all away, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. ⁴⁰ Then two men will be in the field: one will be taken and the other left. ⁴¹ Two women will be grinding at the mill: one will be taken and the other left. ⁴² Watch therefore, for you do not know what hour your Lord is coming.
 - Mt 25 ³⁴ Then the King will say to those on His right hand, ‘Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: ³⁵ for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; ³⁶ I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.’
 - 2Co 5 ⁹ Therefore we make it our aim, whether present or absent, to be well pleasing to Him. ¹⁰ For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive the things done in the body, according to what he has done, whether good or bad.
 - Gal 6 ⁷ Do not be deceived, God is not mocked; for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. ⁸ For he who sows to his flesh will of the flesh reap corruption, but he who sows to the Spirit will of the Spirit reap everlasting life.
 - 2Th 1 ⁸ in flaming fire taking vengeance on those who do not know God, and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. ⁹ These shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of His power,
 - Heb 9 ²⁷ And as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this the judgment,

Unfaithfulness – Parable of the Talents – Matthew 25

The idea behind the parable is that not everyone is entrusted with the same amount, but one must be faithful to that which he has been given

- This section of Scripture, including the Parable of the Talents, constitutes final warnings, prophecies, and encouragements to His people Israel prior to His departure.
 - He, who is their Lord, is leaving for an undisclosed period of time.
 - He is delegating to them the responsibility, as stewards, to care for His kingdom.
 - The Parable of the Talents impresses on them the weight of that responsibility and the serious consequences of neglecting to understand and apply His instructions.
 - This is also a message to all mankind
- In the larger context of Matthew 25, the main point of this parable is clear: our readiness for Jesus' return is determined by our stewardship of the resources that He has given us.
 - Some think that readiness for Jesus' return is a very spiritual and abstract thing. It really isn't – it is a matter of being about our business for the Lord.
 - In light of this parable, we must ask ourselves: What have we done with our knowledge? Our time? Our money? Our abilities? The sins of omission [what we don't do] may ultimately be more dangerous than the sins of commission [what we do].

The Parable of the Talents

¹⁴“For the kingdom of heaven is like a man traveling to a far country, who called his own servants and delivered his goods to them. ¹⁵And to one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one, to each according to his own ability; and immediately he went on a journey. ¹⁶Then he who had received the five talents went and traded with them, and made another five talents. ¹⁷And likewise he who had received two gained two more also. ¹⁸But he who had received one went and dug in the ground, and hid his lord's money. ¹⁹After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them.

²⁰“So he who had received five talents came and brought five other talents, saying, ‘Lord, you delivered to me five talents; look, I have gained five more talents besides them.’ ²¹His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you were faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’ ²²He also who had received two talents came and said, ‘Lord, you delivered to me two talents; look, I have gained two more talents besides them.’ ²³His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’

²⁴“Then he who had received the one talent came and said, ‘Lord, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed. ²⁵And I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground. Look, there you have what is yours.’

²⁶“But his lord answered and said to him, ‘You wicked and lazy servant, you knew that I reap where I have not sown, and gather where I have not scattered seed. ²⁷So you ought to have deposited my money with the bankers, and at my coming I would have received back my own with interest. ²⁸So take the talent from him, and give it to him who has ten talents.

²⁹‘For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have abundance; but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away. ³⁰And cast the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

- Matthew here records the Lord's heart of compassion and love mingled with unwavering holiness.
- If the talents are talents of gold, the value of what the master entrusted to the stewards would be immensely high, in the millions of dollars. Since the Lord uses only the term "talents" we must make some assumptions, but it seems reasonable to assume that the owner of the talents, the man traveling into a far country, was a wealthy man.

- He is entrusting his wealth to three men who become stewards of his money. One receives five talents. Another receives two talents. A third steward receives one talent.
 - Each is given a significant amount of money.
 - These are stewards entrusted with the care of the money.
- The stewards must know the personality and character of their Lord.
 - He expects them to know Him well enough to apply the spirit as well as the letter of His instructions.
 - Those that do are richly rewarded. The others receive severe judgment.
- The amount given is based on each steward's ability.
 - The first two understand the spirit and letter of instructions and the character of their Lord. They both use the resources by "trading" to gain a profit. Each of them makes a 100 percent profit.
 - The profitable stewards are praised, given increased responsibilities and invited to enter into the joy of their Lord.
 - Fear and mistrust of his Lord motivate the third steward. He buries the money in the earth and returns the original amount.
 - The untrusting steward is scolded, rejected, and punished.
- The application of this parable must be understood within the context of the message of Matthew 24-25.
 - It is first a message to the people of Israel that will live in the last days before the Lord returns.
 - The statement, in Matthew 24:13, "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved," is a key statement. This is the believing remnant that will receive the promise of the kingdom.
 - In Matthew 24:32-34, the Lord states, "Now learn a parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh: So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled."
 - These will be alive when He returns and will have understood and believed their Lord.
 - The application to the people of Israel is graphic and relevant.
 - Those that believe Him will be rewarded in His kingdom. The basis of the reward will be their stewardship of His resources entrusted to them.
 - Those who fear and do not believe will be rejected and judged.
 - There is also a universal application to all mankind.
 - From the time of the creation of mankind, each individual has been entrusted with resources of time and material wealth. Everything we have comes from God and belongs to Him. We are responsible for using those resources so that they increase in value. As Christians, we have additionally the most valuable resource of all – the Word of God. If we believe and understand Him, and apply His Word as good stewards, we are a blessing to others and the value of what we do multiplies. We are accountable to the Lord for the use of His resources.

Kingdom of heaven is like a master departing on a long journey

- We (the servants) are given responsibilities until the Kingdom of Heaven (master) returns
 - The underlying theme of this parable is the absence of the master (the Son of Man) and the interim responsibility of the servants. He calls His servants together and puts them in charge of his possessions. This is a parable related to the commissioning in 24:45. Here the responsibility is in terms of money

Mt 24 The Faithful Servant and the Evil Servant

⁴⁵ "Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his master made ruler over his household, to give them food in due season? ⁴⁶ Blessed is that servant whom his master, when he comes, will find so doing. ⁴⁷ Assuredly, I say to you that he will make him ruler over all his goods. ⁴⁸ But if that evil servant says in his heart, 'My master is delaying his coming,' ⁴⁹ and begins to beat his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunkards, ⁵⁰ the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking for him and at an hour that he is not aware of, ⁵¹ and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

¹⁴“For the kingdom of heaven is like a man traveling to a far country, who called his own servants and delivered his goods to them. ¹⁵And to one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one, to each according to his own ability; and immediately he went on a journey.

- A man traveling to a far country, who called his servants and delivered his goods to them: This was not a strange idea in the ancient world, where servants (slaves) were often given great responsibility. This was often the safest and smartest thing a man could do with his money.
 - “The best thing he could do with his money in his absence, dividing it among carefully selected slaves, and leaving them to do their best with it.”
 - “This parable takes up the question which that of the bridesmaids left unanswered: what is ‘readiness’?”
- To one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one:
 - A talent was not an ability (though this parable has application to our abilities), but a unit of money worth at least $1,200 in modern terms, and likely much more.
 - “The talent was not a coin, it was a weight; and therefore its value obviously depended on whether the coinage involved was copper, gold, or silver.”
 - The talent was a large amount of money, probably silver coinage. Our English word talent meaning “ability” is derived from this term.
 - “The English use of ‘talent’ for a natural (or supernatural) aptitude derives from this parable...But of course the Greek talanton is simply a sum of money...it was generally regarded as equal to 6,000 denarii.”
 - “If a talent were worth six thousand denarii, then it would take a day laborer twenty years to earn so much.”
 - The issue is not the amount of money given to each but what each did with that which was given to him.
 - In the application of this parable it is appropriate to see these talents as life resources – such as time, money, abilities, and authority.
- To each according to his own ability: The servants were given different amounts of money according to their ability. One servant only received one talent, yet we should see that this was not an insignificant amount. Some received more; but everyone received something and everyone received a large amount.
 - “The talent which each man has suits his own state best; and it is only pride and insanity which lead him to desire and envy the graces and talents of another. Five talents would be too much for some men: one talent would be too little.”
 - Since the amounts are different it probably refers to personal gifts and abilities rather than the gospel itself.
 - The key is that we are to be faithful with the gifts God has given us
 - 1Co 4 ¹ Let a man so consider us, as servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God. ² Moreover it is required in stewards that one be found faithful.
 - Lk 12 ⁴⁸ But he who did not know, yet committed things deserving of stripes, shall be beaten with few. For everyone to whom much is given, from him much will be required; and to whom much has been committed, of him they will ask the more.
- he went on a journey: This represents the period of time between His ascension and return.

The servants manage the master’s money

¹⁶Then he who had received the five talents went and traded with them, and made another five talents. ¹⁷And likewise he who had received two gained two more also. ¹⁸But he who had received one went and dug in the ground, and hid his lord’s money.

- He who had received the five talents went and traded with them:

- Each of those who had received talents from their master did with them as they saw fit. Two of them traded with their talents and earned more talents (made another five talents... gained two more also).
- Went and traded implies direct action. “The point is that the good servants felt the responsibility of their assignment and went to work without delay.”
 - We aren’t told how they traded with their talents. Perhaps they loaned the money at interest, perhaps they used the money and bought things and sold them for more money. The point is that they used what they had and gained more by using.
 - The parable does not describe how the man doubled that which was given to him, because it is unimportant. It is important the he made good and effective use of what was given to him.
 - We can say many good things about the work of the first two servants:
 - They did their work promptly.
 - They did their work with perseverance.
 - They did their work with success.
 - They were ready to give an account to their master.
- He who had received one went and dug in the ground, and hid his lord’s money: The third servant did almost nothing with his master’s money. He took some care that it would not be lost (by hiding it), but he did nothing positive with his master’s money, in contrast to the first two servants.

The faithful servants are judged.

¹⁹ After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them. ²⁰ “So he who had received five talents came and brought five other talents, saying, ‘Lord, you delivered to me five talents; look, I have gained five more talents besides them.’ ²¹ His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you were faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’ ²² He also who had received two talents came and said, ‘Lord, you delivered to me two talents; look, I have gained two more talents besides them.’ ²³ His lord said to him, ‘Well done, good and faithful servant; you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into the joy of your lord.’

- After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them:
 - The master gave the slaves a lot of time to use the money.
 - The long delay would tempt the servants to think that they would never give an account for their management, yet they most certainly would.
 - The idea of settling accounts refers to judgment.
 - It also reflects the lengthy time before the Second Coming
- You have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things: The reward was the same for both servants, even though one was given five talents and the other was given two talents. Each performed the same according to the resources they had received.
- Well done, good and faithful servant: This shows that the master looked for goodness and faithfulness in His servants. Whatever financial success these servants enjoyed came because they were good and faithful. The master looked first for these character qualities, not for a specific amount of money.
 - “It is not ‘Well done, thou good and brilliant servant;’ for perhaps the man never shone at all in the eyes of those who appreciate glare and glitter. It is not, ‘Well done, thou great and distinguished servant;’ for it is possible that he was never known beyond his native village.”
 - “It is better to be faithful in the infant-school than to be unfaithful in a noble class of young men. Better to be faithful in a hamlet over two or three score of people, than to be unfaithful in a great-city parish, with thousands perishing in consequence. Better to be faithful in a cottage meeting, speaking of Christ crucified to half-a hundred villagers, than to be unfaithful in a great building where thousands congregate.”

- Enter into the joy of your lord: Refers to the final joy of the believer.
 - This has the echo of heaven in it. The idea is that there is a place of joy belonging to the master of these servants, and they are invited to join the master in that place. There is a sense of heaven about this destiny for the two faithful servants.
 - “This is not the servant’s portion, but the Master’s portion shared with his faithful servants...not so much that we shall have a joy of our own as that we shall enter into the joy of our Lord.” (Spurgeon)
 - We can say of the reward for the first two servants:
 - They received praise from their master.
 - They received a promise of future blessing.
 - They received glory, “the joy of your lord.”

The unfaithful servant gives account

²⁴ “Then he who had received the one talent came and said, ‘Lord, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed. ²⁵ And I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground. Look, there you have what is yours.’

- Then he who had received the one talent came: The master judged each of the servants individually. If they were taken as a group, they did very well: 8 talents given and 15 talents returned. Yet each one was judged on their individual faithfulness and effort.
 - Unlike the first two slaves, the third one does not give an account of what he has earned but rather begins by justifying what he did with his one talent.
 - “Remember, my hearer, that in the day of judgment thy account must be personal; God will not ask you what your church did – he will ask you what you did yourself.”
- I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed.
 - The servant who merely buried his talent tried to excuse himself because of his master’s great power. In fact, he believed his master to be in some sense omnipotent: reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed.
 - This means letting others do the work for him.
 - A hard man: “Grasping, ungenerous, taking all to himself, offering no inducements to his servants.”
 - F.B. Meyer expressed the thinking of this servant: “I can do very little; it will not make much difference if I do nothing: I shall not be missed; my tiny push is not needed to turn the scale.”
 - “It is the genius of wicked men to lay the blame of their miscarriages upon others, oftentimes upon God himself.”
- And I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground.
 - Fear was the motivation for this man not increasing the master’s wealth. This man did nothing with his life.
- Look, there you have what is yours: The third servant seemed proud of himself. Because the master was so powerful and (in the mind of the servant) didn’t need his help, the third servant thought that the master would be pleased that he did nothing and could say, “Look, there you have what is yours.” He seemed to have no idea how much he had displeased his master.
 - We can say in the third servant’s favor that at least he still understood that what he had been given belonged to his master. He said, “you have what is yours.” Many modern servants of God think that when God gives them something, it no longer belongs to God; it belongs to them and they can do with it as they please.
 - Yet “albeit this man was doing nothing for his master, he did not think himself an unprofitable servant. He exhibited no self-depreciation, no humbling, no contrition. He was as bold as brass, and said unblushingly, ‘Lo, there thou hast that is thine.’” (Spurgeon)
 - We can say of the work of the third servant:

- He didn't think
- He didn't work
- He didn't even try
- He made excuses

The unfaithful servant is judged

²⁶ “But his lord answered and said to him, ‘You wicked and lazy servant, you knew that I reap where I have not sown, and gather where I have not scattered seed. ²⁷ So you ought to have deposited my money with the bankers, and at my coming I would have received back my own with interest. ²⁸ So take the talent from him, and give it to him who has ten talents.

²⁹ ‘For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have abundance; but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away. ³⁰ And cast the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

- You wicked and lazy servant, you knew that I reap where I have not sown: The condemnation of this third servant – here called a wicked and lazy servant – was strong. The sovereignty of the master never excused the laziness of the servant. It condemned that laziness all the more.
 - Those who don't work for the Lord, or pray, or don't evangelize because God is sovereign condemn themselves by their laziness. By their actions (or lack of action) they show that they are like the wicked servant in the parable. They do not know their Master's heart at all. “The lord of the unprofitable servant tells him, that the fault lay in his own sloth and wickedness, and his dread of his lord's security was but a mere frivolous pretence and unreasonable excuse.”
 - The charge against this servant who merely buried his talent was that he was wicked and lazy. We rarely see laziness as a real sin, something that must be repented of before the Lord. If laziness were a calling or a spiritual gift, this man would have been excellent.
 - “Not dishonest – the master had not misjudged as to that – but indolent, unenterprising, timid...Slothful, a poor creature altogether: suspicious, timid, heartless, spiritless, idle.”
 - We might say that this servant did not have a proper fear of his master, but an unfitting fear of risk and failure.
- So you ought to have deposited my money with the bankers, and at my coming I would have received back my own with interest: This man could have done something with what he had. Even if it had not doubled, it would have gained some interest for the master's money.
 - “If we cannot trade directly and personally on our Lord's account, if we have not the skill nor the tact to manage a society or an enterprise for him, we may at least contribute to what others are doing, and join our capital to theirs, so that, by some means, our Master may have the interest to which he is entitled.”
 - “The Old Testament forbade Israelites from charging interest against one another (Exodus 22:25; Leviticus 25:35-37; Deuteronomy 23:19; cf. Psalm 15:5...); but interest on money loaned to Gentiles was permitted (Deuteronomy 23:20)...By New Testament times Jewish scholars had already distinguished between ‘lending at interest’ and ‘usury’ (in the modern sense).”
- So take the talent from him, and give it to him who has ten talents.
 - This is the beginning of his judgment.
 - Note on a variant reading: One ancient manuscript has five instead of ten.
- For to everyone who has, more will be given... but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away: There are those who have things (like the servant with one talent), but hold them in such a way that it is as if they have nothing. These ones will find what they had taken away. Those who hold what they have received as faithful men and women, to them more will be given.
 - “See that ye receive not any grace of God in vain; neither envy those that have much; a proportion is expected.”

- “We need not wait for the great future, to obtain this multiplication or withdrawal of our talents. They are already waxing or waning in our hands.”
- Cast the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness:
 - Because he was wicked and lazy, the third servant demonstrated that he was not a true servant of his master at all. It is fitting that he (and those who show the same heart) was cast forever out of the master’s presence.
 - The evil slave is placed with those who are lost. He did not further the interests of his master.
 - Just as there was a sense of heaven in the destiny for the two faithful servants, there is a strong sense of hell in the destiny for the wicked and lazy servant.
 - In the larger context of Matthew 25, the main point of this parable is clear: our readiness for Jesus’ return is determined by our stewardship of the resources that He has given us.
 - Some think that readiness for Jesus’ return is a very spiritual and abstract thing. It really isn’t – it is a matter of being about our business for the Lord. In light of this parable, we must ask ourselves: What have we done with our knowledge? Our time? Our money? Our abilities? The sins of omission [what we don’t do] may ultimately be more dangerous than the sins of commission [what we do].

Lessons of the Parable

- Jesus did not expect to return immediately.
 - From this parable we learn that a long time will elapse before He comes again (Mt 26,41-45; James 4:17).
 - Mt 25 ¹⁹ After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them.
 - Mt 25 ⁵ But while the bridegroom was delayed, they all slumbered and slept.
- Believers should do everything with the view that there will be a day of judgment.
 - For the believer the judgment will be the receiving of rewards, not condemnation (Romans 8:1).
 - Therefore, all of our actions should be done in light of a day of reckoning (Mt 25:19,25-35; Luke 12:47; Romans 2:16; 2 Corinthians 5:10; Revelation 20:13).
- On this earth we all have important responsibilities, however, their importance should be seen in light of eternity (Mt 25:21,23).
- God gives us opportunities to serve Him based upon the ability He has given us. But all people have not been given the same abilities. Since all of us will not have the same opportunities, each of us will be judged based upon our faithfulness with the specific opportunities that we have.
 - The key issue is, “Have we been faithful to the use the gifts, abilities, and opportunities that God has given us?” (see Mt 7:24-27; 25:15,16,19-23).
- Any abilities or gifts that we have ultimately belong to God. We are not our own, we are His property. Therefore we are to be good managers with the abilities that He has given us (25:14; Luke 16:2; 1 Corinthians 4:1,2; 6:19,20; 1 Peter 4:10).
- Sin consists of not only doing wrong things such as murder, adultery, pride, and stealing, it also consists of not doing good things. Sins of omission are just as wrong as sins of commission (25:18,26,41-45, James 4:17).
- In the afterlife, believers will share in the Lord’s joy (25:21,23; Ephesians 3:15; 2 Timothy 4:8).
- The evil and lazy person will not be faithful to the gifts that God has given him. When confronted with his sin he will make excuses rather than confessing his wrongs (7:22,23; 25:24-30,44,45; Luke 13:26,27). However no excuse will be accepted.

Evil – Caesarea Philippi

Prepared the disciples to go into Asia Minor

Caesarea Philippi – Gates of hell

- Worshipped the God Pan – sexually erotic – very pagan
 - Is 44 – Isaiah makes fun of worshipping dead gods
- Jesus teaching there – Who am I?
 - Living God – in contrast to the wooden idols
- On this rock, I will build my church
 - Represents everything evil, sinful, broken and wrong in the world – the rock of pagan values
 - The gates of Hades will not prevail
- Take up your cross and follow me
- What good is it to gain the whole world yet forfeit his soul
 - We need to be willing to lose our lives for the sake of the gospel
- If you are ashamed of me, I will be ashamed of you before my father

Judgment

- Woe on unrepentant cities (Mt 11)
 - Liked the miracles, but unwilling to submit themselves to Jesus as their savior
 - Doesn't pick on the obvious bad places (ex: Rome)
 - Uses His harshest words for those that are closest to Him
- Tyre – Jezebel was from there – introduced Baal worship
- Sodom & Gomorrah – Sexual misconduct
- You have to be faithful with what you have been given
 - Squandering much is worse than squandering little
 - Lk 12:48 From everyone who has been given much, much will be demanded; and from the one who has been entrusted with much, much more will be asked.

Sheep and Goat Judgment (Gentile Nations Judged)

The core message of the Parable of the Sheep and Goats is that God's people will love others. Good works will result from our relationship to the Shepherd. Followers of Christ will treat others with kindness, serving them as if they were serving Christ Himself. The unregenerate live in the opposite manner. While "goats" can indeed perform acts of kindness and charity, their hearts are not right with God, and their actions are not for the right purpose – to honor and worship God.

The Son of Man Will Judge the Nations

³¹ "When the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory. ³² All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. ³³ And He will set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. ³⁴ Then the King will say to those on His right hand, 'Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: ³⁵ for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; ³⁶ I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.'

³⁷ "Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? ³⁸ When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? ³⁹ Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?' ⁴⁰ And the King will answer and say to them, 'Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.'

⁴¹ "Then He will also say to those on the left hand, 'Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels: ⁴² for I was hungry and you gave Me no food; I was thirsty and you gave Me no drink; ⁴³ I was a stranger and you did not take Me in, naked and you did not clothe Me, sick and in prison and you did not visit Me.'

⁴⁴ "Then they also will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to You?' ⁴⁵ Then He will answer them, saying, 'Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.' ⁴⁶ And these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life."

- After the tribulation (after His 2nd coming), the Lord Jesus will sit in judgment over the nations of the Earth.
 - Likely happens during the 45 days between the 1290th and the 1335th day (Dan 11:12)
 - They will be judged according to their treatment of Israel during the tribulation.

Joel 3 God Judges the Nations

3 "For behold, in those days and at that time, When I bring back the captives of Judah and Jerusalem,

² I will also gather all nations, And bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
And I will enter into judgment with them there On account of My people, My heritage Israel,
Whom they have scattered among the nations; They have also divided up My land.

³ They have cast lots for My people, Have given a boy as payment for a harlot,
And sold a girl for wine, that they may drink.

⁴ "Indeed, what have you to do with Me, O Tyre and Sidon, and all the coasts of Philistia?
Will you retaliate against Me? But if you retaliate against Me,
Swiftly and speedily I will return your retaliation upon your own head;

⁵ Because you have taken My silver and My gold, And have carried into your temples My prized possessions.

⁶ Also the people of Judah and the people of Jerusalem You have sold to the Greeks,
That you may remove them far from their borders.

...

¹² "Let the nations be wakened, and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
For there I will sit to judge all the surrounding nations.

¹³ Put in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe. Come, go down;
For the winepress is full, The vats overflow—For their wickedness is great."

¹⁴ Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision! For the day of the LORD is near in the valley of decision.

¹⁵ The sun and moon will grow dark, And the stars will diminish their brightness.

¹⁶ The LORD also will roar from Zion, And utter His voice from Jerusalem; The heavens and earth will shake; But the LORD will be a shelter for His people, And the strength of the children of Israel.

- At the second coming, He is going to gather all the people on Planet Earth, and He is going to judge the Jews, and He's going to judge the Gentiles. There's a Jewish judgment described over in Ezekiel. This is the judgement of the Gentiles.
- And what is the purpose of that judgment?
 - This is a judgment to determine who's going to go into the Millennium in the flesh.
 - There are 3 groups that are associated here – Jesus talks about the sheep and the goats and the My brethren.
 - He's talking about a judgment of those Gentile nations that responded to the needs of His brethren, the Jews, during that Tribulation period, whether they responded in kindness, or in animosity. And they are going to be judged based upon what they did with the Jews during that time.
 - Ge 12:3 God said to Abram, He said, "I will bless those who bless you, and I will curse those who curse you."
 - It also says that when He conducts this particular judgment, that those who are not found worthy to go into the Millennium in the flesh are going to be consigned to death. It says that they will be put where the vultures will eat their bodies, it's told over in Luke 17:37.
 - A lot of the decision is going to be based upon how they treated the Jewish people during the Tribulation period. Because the only people who are going to show any love and mercy toward Jews in the Tribulation period are going to be people who are believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. Nobody else would do it because they would be killed right away.
- This is called the judgment of the sheep and the goats because of the imagery Jesus uses in the Olivet Discourse
 - Those who showed faith in God by treating Israel favorably (giving them aid and comfort during the tribulation) are the "sheep" who will enter into the Millennial Kingdom.
 - Those who followed the Antichrist's lead and persecuted Israel are the "goats" who will be consigned to hell.
- Jesus begins the parable by saying it concerns His return in glory to set up His kingdom (Matthew 25:31).
 - Therefore, the setting of this event is at the beginning of the millennium, after the tribulation.
 - All those on earth at that time will be brought before the Lord, and He will separate them "as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. He will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left" (verses 32–33).
 - The sheep are those who were saved during the tribulation; the goats are the unsaved who survived the tribulation.
- Sheep
 - The sheep on Jesus' right hand are blessed by God the Father and given an inheritance.
 - The reason is stated: "For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me" (verses 35-36). The righteous will not understand: when did they see Jesus in such a pitiful condition and help Him? "The King will reply, 'I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did for me'" (verses 39-40).
- Goats
 - The goats on Jesus' left hand are cursed with eternal hell-fire, "prepared for the devil and his angels" (verse 41)
 - The reason is given: they had opportunity to minister to the Lord, but they did nothing (verses 42-43). The damned ask, "Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or needing clothes or sick or in prison, and did not help you?" (verse 44). Jesus replies, "I tell you the truth, whatever you did not do for one of the least of these, you did not do for me" (verse 45).

- Jesus then ends the discourse with a contrast: “They will go away to eternal punishment, but the righteous to eternal life” (verse 46). In the Parable of the Sheep and the Goats, we are looking at man redeemed and saved, and man condemned and lost.
- A casual reading seems to suggest that salvation is the result of good works.
 - The “sheep” acted charitably, giving food, drink, and clothing to the needy.
 - The “goats” showed no charity.
 - This seems to result in salvation for the sheep and damnation for the goats.
 - However, Scripture does not contradict itself, and the Bible clearly and repeatedly teaches that salvation is by faith through the grace of God and not by our good works (see John 1:12; Acts 15:11; Romans 3:22-24; Romans 4:4-8; Romans 7:24-25; Romans 8:12; Galatians 3:6-9; and Ephesians 2:8-10).
 - In fact, Jesus Himself makes it clear in the parable that the salvation of the “sheep” is not based on their works—their inheritance was theirs “since the creation of the world” (Matthew 25:34), long before they could ever do any good works!
 - The good works mentioned in the parable are not the cause of salvation but the effect of salvation.
 - As Christians we become like Christ (see Romans 8:29; 2 Corinthians 3:18; and Colossians 2:6-7).
 - Galatians 5:22 tells us that the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, gentleness, faithfulness, and self-control.
 - Good works in a Christian’s life are the direct overflow of these traits, and are only acceptable to God because of the relationship that exists between servant and Master, the saved and their Savior, the sheep and their Shepherd (see Ephesians 2:10).

The nations are gathered before God’s throne and separated.

³¹ “When the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory. ³² All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. ³³ And He will set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left.

- When the Son of Man comes in His glory: This is not really a parable; it is a description of a future scene of judgment after the glorious second coming of Jesus (described in Matthew 24:30).
 - Mt 24³⁰ Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.
- He will sit on the throne of His glory: Jesus here was either guilty of megalomania (delusion about one’s own power or importance) or He is indeed the Lord of glory, who will judge the nations from His throne. Seemingly this throne is present on earth, because it happens when the Son of Man comes in His glory.
 - In three days He would be crucified; yet He spoke of “When the Son of Man comes in His glory.”
 - He had around Him a handful of disciples – one would betray Him, one deny Him, and the others forsake Him; yet He spoke of “all the holy angels with Him.”
 - He lived in utter simplicity, almost poverty – and was rejected by almost all the great and mighty men of the world; yet He said He would “sit on the throne of His glory.”
- All the nations will be gathered before Him, and He will separate them one from another:
 - Though it speaks of the nations gathering together it is individuals that are judged.
 - The word translated them in Greek is in a different gender (masculine) than the word referring to nations (neuter).
 - This particular judgment seems distinct from the great white throne judgment described in Revelation 20:11-15. This judgment of the nations is distinct from the final judgment for several reasons.
 - It happens at a different time. The Great White Throne judgment of Revelation 20:11-15 clearly happens after the 1,000-year reign of Jesus Christ and His saints. The Judgment of the Nations of Matthew 25 happens immediately after the glorious return of Jesus (Matthew 25:31-32).

- It happens at a different place. The Great White Throne judgment of Revelation 20 happens in heaven; the Judgment of the Nations of Matthew 25 happens on earth.
 - It happens unto different subjects. The Great White Throne judgment of Revelation 20 emphatically includes all unredeemed men and women. The Judgment of the Nations of Matthew 25 seems only to include the nations – that is Gentiles who are judged in large measure on their kindness and care towards [in part] the Jewish people (My brethren). It may be that Jewish people who survive the Great Tribulation will not be in this Judgment of the Nations.
 - It happens on a different basis. This is described in the following section.
- He will set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left: The Son of Man – Jesus Himself – has the authority to divide humanity in this judgment. There are not three categories, but only two: sheep and goats, right and left.
 - The right hand is the place of honor while the left hand is the place of dishonor
 - The shepherd separating the sheep from the goats would be a very common sight among those people.
 - “In the countryside sheep and goats mingled during the day. At night they were often separated: sheep tolerate the cool air, but goats have to be herded together for warmth.”
 - This is true of the final judgment, when humanity will be divided into two groups and only two. Yet in the opinion of this commentator (definitely a minority opinion), Jesus spoke here not of the final judgment, but of the separation that will happen after the glorious return but before the final judgment to deal with those who have survived the Great Tribulation.
 - By the end of the Great Tribulation (mentioned in Matthew 24:21 and other passages), the population of the earth will be greatly reduced by several factors:
 - The rapture of the church (described in 1 Thessalonians 4:16-17) will take many millions of believers from the earth.
 - The persecution and martyrdom of many of those who believe on Jesus after the rapture and during the Great Tribulation will take many from the earth.
 - The terrible death and destruction of the Great Tribulation will take many from the earth.
 - The catastrophe of the Battle of Armageddon and Jesus’ glorious return to the earth will take many from the earth.
 - Nevertheless, one can assume that even with the greatness of all these, that there will be many people – perhaps 3 billion or more – still remaining on the earth after Jesus returns in power and glory at the end of the last seven-year period.
 - Among these will be the 144,000 who were specially sealed and preserved through the Great Tribulation and who stand with the Lamb of God on Mount Zion at His glorious return (Revelation 14:1-5).
 - It is fair to ask, “What happens with all these people – perhaps 3 billion or more – who survive the Great Tribulation and Armageddon?” This judgment of the nations answers that question.

The judgment and reward of those on the right hand.

³⁴ Then the King will say to those on His right hand, ‘Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: ³⁵ for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; ³⁶ I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.’

³⁷ “Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? ³⁸ When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? ³⁹ Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?’ ⁴⁰ And the King will answer and say to them, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.’

- Come, you blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you: The reward for those on His right hand (the sheep) is that they enter into the Father’s kingdom.

- For I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink: They were approved on the basis of their works. There is no mention of faith or even forgiveness here. This judgment was based purely on their moral kindness.
- Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to Me: This is another clear distinction between this judgment of the nations and the final judgment. The Great White Throne judgment of Revelation 20 is based on what is written in the Book of Life; the Judgment of the Nations in Matthew 25 is based on the humane treatment of others, especially Christians and the Jewish people (who will be particularly hated and persecuted the last half of the Great Tribulation).
 - Though the Christian and Jewish brethren of Jesus may be first in mind, knowing the nature of Jesus, we can say that it does not exclude others. “The brethren are the Christian poor and needy and suffering, in the first place, but ultimately and inferentially any suffering people anywhere.”

The judgment and condemnation of those on the left hand.

⁴¹ “Then He will also say to those on the left hand, ‘Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels: ⁴² for I was hungry and you gave Me no food; I was thirsty and you gave Me no drink; ⁴³ I was a stranger and you did not take Me in, naked and you did not clothe Me, sick and in prison and you did not visit Me.’

⁴⁴ “Then they also will answer Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to You?’ ⁴⁵ Then He will answer them, saying, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.’ ⁴⁶ And these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

- Inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me: The charge against the lost ones did not concern any obvious moral violation, but their indifferent attitude toward Jesus (and His people). Their indifference sealed their doom. Throughout this chapter, the point has been emphasized: the price of indifference is too high to pay.
 - We cannot afford to be indifferent towards Jesus and His return.
 - We can’t afford to be indifferent towards the Holy Spirit who makes us ready for the return of Jesus.
 - We can’t afford to be indifferent towards the resources that God gives us.
 - We can’t afford to be indifferent towards the needy people all around us.
 - We can’t afford to be indifferent towards lost humanity that will stand in judgment.
 - “The ‘guilt’ of the cursed arises not so much from doing wrong things as from failure to do right...to do nothing is seen as the road to condemnation.”
- Depart from Me, you cursed, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels: Jesus clearly points out that hell was prepared for the devil and his angels. Men only go there because they have willingly cast their lot with the devil and his angels.
 - The place of judgment was not prepared for humankind, but rather for the devil and his angels.
 - “They had joined the devil in refusing allegiance to the Lord; so it was but right that, imitating his rebellion, they should share his punishment.”
 - Everlasting fire...everlasting punishment: The literal meaning of this ancient Greek word is “age-long.” As Bruce says, “The strict meaning of [everlasting]: agelong, not everlasting.” Because of this, some have thought that the suffering of the cursed is not eternal.
 - Some suggest that the cursed are eventually rehabilitated and brought to heaven (the larger hope idea)
 - Others believe they will eventually cease to exist (the annihilation idea).
 - Yet there are good reasons for believing that the sense of aionion in this passage is indeed eternal.
 - “Aionion can refer to life or punishment in the age to come, or it can be limited to the duration of the thing to which it refers (as in Matthew 21:19). But in apocalyptic and eschatological contexts, the word not only connotes ‘pertaining to the [messianic] age’ but, because that age is always lived in God’s presence, also ‘everlasting’.”
 - In addition, in Matthew 25:46 everlasting and eternal both translate the exact same ancient Greek word. If the righteous experience life forever, then we must say that the guilty experience punishment forever.

- “But some are of opinion that this punishment shall have an end: this is as likely as that the glory of the righteous shall have an end: for the same word is used to express the duration of the punishment, as is used to express the duration of the state of glory.”
 - “They shall go into everlasting punishment, not a punishment for a time, as Origen thought.”
 - “But they have a will to sin ever; and being worthless they cannot satisfy God’s justice in any time; therefore is their fire everlasting.”
- Everlasting punishment...eternal life: This mention of eternal life makes most believe that Jesus spoke about the final judgment. But for those who survive the Great Tribulation, certainly entrance into the millennial kingdom is the gateway to eternal life. Those who do not enter the millennial kingdom will also certainly have everlasting punishment.
 - The purpose of this Judgment of the Nations is to separate peoples before the beginning of Jesus’ millennial kingdom. The wicked and cruel will not enter; the moral and good will enter.

Why the Sheep/Goat Judgment and Great White Throne Judgment Are not the Same Event

Amillennialists, Postmillennialists, and even some Premillennialists view the Sheep/Goat judgment of Matthew 25:31-46 and the Great White Throne judgment of Revelation 20:11-15 as being the same event. But a close examination reveals that these two judgments are not the same judgment.

1. The timing of the Sheep/Goat judgment happens in connection with the second coming of Christ (see Matt 25:31-32). Jesus comes in glory with His angels, sits on His glorious throne and all the nations are gathered before Him. The Great White Throne judgment takes place after the return of Christ (Rev 19) and the thousand year reign of Christ with the saints (Rev 20:4-7). After the thousand years are completed (20:7) the Great White Throne judgment takes place (20:11-15).
2. The purpose of the Sheep/Goat judgment is to see who will inherit the kingdom (Matt 25:34) and who will not (Matt 25:41). The purpose of the Great White Throne judgment is to see who will be sent to the lake of fire (Rev 20:15)
3. The subjects of the Sheep/Goat judgment are both believers and non-believers—sheep and goats (Matt 25:32). The subjects of the Great White Throne appear to be unbelievers. While Rev 20:11-15 does not exclude the presence of believers at this judgment believers are not mentioned as being at this judgment. But unbelievers who are sentenced to the lake of fire at the Great White Throne judgment are mentioned (Rev. 20:15).
4. The basis of judgment at the Sheep/Goat judgment is how the nations treated the “brothers” of Christ (Matt 25:40). The basis of the Great White Throne judgment is works (Rev 20:13).
5. The subjects of the Sheep/Goat judgment appear to be those alive at the time of the second coming of Jesus. There is no mention of a resurrection of the saved and unsaved dead. The Great White Throne judgment says it is the dead who are raised for this judgment (Rev 20:13). The sea and Hades give up their dead for this judgment.
6. The Sheep/Goat judgment does not mention a “Great White Throne” being present while the Great White Throne judgment does (Rev 20:11).
7. The Sheep/Goat judgment does not mention the “book of life” being present while the Great White Throne judgment does (Rev 20:12).
8. The Sheep/Goat judgment does not indicate that death and Hades are thrown into the lake of fire while the Great White Throne judgment does (20:14).
9. The fact that there are two resurrections separated by a thousand years (see Rev 20:4b-5) strongly suggests that there can be two judgments separated by a thousand years.

Rest for the weary (Mt 11:25-30)

Mt 11:28 "Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. 29 Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. 30 For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

- Jesus starts with a prayer of praise
 - Little children – disciples of Christ – Simple faith and trust in God
 - Revealed the truth to those with faith as opposed to the learned people
- Jesus ties rest to your soul to the yoke of an ox
 - Yoke – Big, heavy wooden bar that holds 2 oxen together to do the work
- Weary and burdened
 - Probably a reference to the “heavy loads” the Pharisees placed “on men’s shoulders” by insisting on a legalistic interpretation of the law (23:4).
- Rest for your soul
 - Jer 6:16 This is what the LORD says: “Stand at the crossroads and look; ask for the ancient paths, ask where the good way is, and walk in it, and you will find rest for your souls.
 - ancient paths - The tried and true ways of Judah’s godly ancestors (see 18:15 ; Dt 32:7).
 - walk in it. See Isa 30:21 .
 - you will find rest for your souls. Quoted by Jesus in Mt 11:29 (see Isa 28:12 ; cf. Ps 119:165).

Miscellaneous Teaching

- Jesus preaches at synagogue and drives out an unclean spirit (Lk 4:31-37)
- Jesus preaches the “Sermon of the Plain” (Lk 6:17-49)
- Jesus complements a Centurion’s faith (Lk 7:1-10)
- Jesus dines with Simon the Pharisee (Lk 7:36-50)
- Jesus travels about Galilee, “proclaiming the good news of the kingdom of God” (Lk 8:1-9:50)

End of Days

Miracles

Mt 4:23 Jesus went throughout Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people. 24 News about him spread all over Syria, and people brought to him all who were ill with various diseases, those suffering severe pain, the demon-possessed, those having seizures, and the paralyzed, and he healed them.

Surrounded by a massive crowd, Jesus says to a paralytic, “Child, your sins are forgiven.” The scribes—experts in the Mosaic Law—rightly point out that only God can forgive sins, triggering Jesus to heal the man instantly, and the crowds to gape in astonishment, saying: “We have never seen anything like this!”

We examined Jesus’ healing and his power over both the natural and the supernatural, elevating him far above the mundane. There have been many great teachers and preachers, and there have even been great healers—like Elijah and Elisha who raised the dead—but none who controlled nature and confounded the supernatural world as we see Jesus do. In this lesson Jesus rises above mere mortals, and we see the first signs of his divinity.

- Jesus always delivered benefits freely and never requested or accepted any form of payment for his healing miracles
 - Unlike some high priests of his time who charged those who were healed.
 - Mt 10:7 As you go, preach this message: 'The kingdom of heaven is near.' 8 Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse those who have leprosy, drive out demons. Freely you have received, freely give.
- Miracles – Only God can perform miracles
 - When He does it through a person, it suggests that person has a very intimate relationship with Him

- An outstanding miracle, it suggests that this person is really close to God
 - This is why Jesus' preaching and teaching is accompanied by miracles
 - The miracles validate His authority for what He is saying
 - He is so close to God, that God is working His miracles through Him
 - Jesus uses these miracles to confirm His identity for John the Baptist
 - Lk 7:20 When the men came to Jesus, they said, "John the Baptist sent us to you to ask, 'Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect someone else?' " 21 At that very time Jesus cured many who had diseases, sicknesses and evil spirits, and gave sight to many who were blind. 22 So he replied to the messengers, "Go back and report to John what you have seen and heard: The blind receive sight, the lame walk, those who have leprosy are cured, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the good news is preached to the poor.
- 2 Categories of miracles
 - Miracles affecting people (Healings)
 - Cures where an ailment is cured
 - Exorcisms where demons are cast away
 - Resurrection of the dead
 - Miracles controlling nature
 - The Kingdom of God vs the Kingdom of Satan – Jesus responds to the unbelievers
 - Mt 12:24 But when the Pharisees heard this, they said, "It is only by Beelzebub, the prince of demons, that this fellow drives out demons."
 - Even his enemies couldn't deny that he worked miracles – strong evidence that the miracles were real
 - Mt 12:28 But if I drive out demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.
 - The kingdom of God has come to take on Satan
 - Mt 12:29 "Or again, how can anyone enter a strong man's house and carry off his possessions unless he first ties up the strong man? Then he can rob his house.
 - The strong man is Satan
 - Satan's house is this world
 - By casting out demons, Jesus is giving notice that he has come to bind the strongman
 - Christ's death on the cross binds the strongman
 - Now the kingdom of God is advancing, and the kingdom of Satan is declining
 - How we speak matters – what we say about God matters
 - Only one unforgivable sin – Blasphemy of the Holy Spirit
 - Persistence in unbelief, refusing to believe in Jesus Christ as our savior
 - We come to judgement day with no forgiveness
 - Our words reflect the condition of our heart
 - Mt 12:36 But I tell you that men will have to give account on the day of judgment for every careless word they have spoken. 37 For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned."

Healings

Mt 4:23 Jesus went throughout Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people. 24 News about him spread all over Syria, and people brought to him all who were ill with various diseases, those suffering severe pain, the demon-possessed, those having seizures, and the paralyzed, and he healed them. 25 Large crowds from Galilee, the Decapolis, Jerusalem, Judea and the region across the Jordan followed him.

Every healing miracle has a lesson with it – it carries weight about deeper spiritual healing

5 ways in which the healings demonstrate the Gospel – the truth of who he is and what he's come to accomplish:

1. Demonstrates his identity – Identifies him as having a close relationship with God

- a. Miracles can only be done by God, not man
 - b. Jehovah Rapha – God the healer
- 2. The healings transform people
 - a. People a paralyzed one moment and healed the next – it transformed their lives
- 3. The power of God over the power of Satan
 - a. Casting out of demons
 - b. Every healing is a sign of God's dominion advancing, and Satan's retreating
- 4. Jesus is sovereign over our physical bodies
 - a. Resurrected bodies
- 5. Every healing miracle illustrates the healing of our souls
 - a. Mt 9:2 Some men brought to him a paralytic, lying on a mat. When Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, "Take heart, son; your sins are forgiven."
 - b. The outward healing illustrates the healing for the sin-sick soul

Blind

- Jesus teaching at the Synagogue in Nazareth
 - Lk 4:18 He [God] has sent me to proclaim freedom for the prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind
- Messianic secret – Don't tell about your miracle RIGHT NOW – you should tell about it later on, after His death
 - Jesus knows that once word gets out, the timetable of His death will come sooner

Blind Beggar Receives His Sight

- These could all be different versions of the same account
 - A Blind Beggar Receives His Sight (Lk 18:35-43) – On the roadside as Jesus approaches Jericho
 - Two Blind Men Receive Sight (Mt 20:30-34) – Sitting on the roadside as Jesus was leaving Jericho
 - Blind Bartimaeus Receives His Sight (Mk 10:46-52) – As Jesus is leaving Jericho

The Healing of a Blind Man at Bethsaida (Mk 8:22-26)

Jesus Heals a Man Born Blind (Jn 9:1-12)

- Spit in dirt to make mud, put it on his eyes, and had him wash in the Pool of Siloam
- Festival of Tabernacles, about six months before Jesus' crucifixion

Jesus at the Temple (Mt 21:14) – The blind and the lame came to him at the temple, and he healed them.

Jesus made mud and opened a blind man's eyes on a Sabbath (Jn 9:13-34)

Lepers

- Leprosy
 - Hanson's disease today
 - In Biblical times, it was any skin disease
 - Ceremonially unclean – social outcast (Lev 13:45) – worse than the disease itself
- Jesus heals a man with leprosy (Mt 8:1-4; Mk 1:40-45; Lk 5:12-16)
 - Having cured the man, he instructs him to offer the requisite ritual sacrifices, and not to tell anyone who had healed him; but the man disobeyed, increasing Jesus' fame.
 - Indicates total faith that Jesus has the ability to cure him, but questions whether Jesus is willing to
 - Jesus touches the man – He doesn't have to – does it to heal his heart, demonstrates His love
 - Jesus is now ceremonially unclean – Demonstrating His love for the man was more important
 - Everyone of us is unclean before a Holy God – Jesus loves us enough to enter into our brokenness
- Jesus heals ten lepers (Lk 17:11-19)

- While on his way to Jerusalem, Jesus sends ten lepers who sought his assistance to the priests, and they were healed as they go, but the only one who comes back to thank Jesus is a Samaritan.

Paralytics

- Jesus heals a paralytic at Capernaum (Mt 9:1-8; Mk 2:1-12; Lk 5:17-26)
 - Jesus hometown (when he was living with Peter)
 - A paralytic was lowered through the roof by his friends to Jesus on a mat
 - Due to the crowds blocking the door
 - Jesus told him that his sins were forgiven
 - He wants to prove that He has the authority to forgive sins
 - The proof of the physical healing indicates that He also has the ability to heal spiritually
 - The man was told to get up and walk, and the man did so
- Healing the paralytic at the Pool of Bethesda (Mt 12:9-13; Jn 5:1-18)
 - He had been an invalid for 38 years, but had no one to help him to the pool
 - Jesus also tells the man to take his mat and walk

Women

Jesus heals Peter's mother-in-law (Mk 8:14-15; Mk 1:30-31; Lk 4:38-39)

- When Jesus was visiting Simon's house in Capernaum, around the time of Jesus recruiting Simon as an Apostle
- Fulfills Isaiah 53:4 – one of the servant songs
 - Matthew sees a connection between Jesus healing and the suffering servant that dies for us to heal us eternally
- Peter has a mother-in-law, therefore Peter was married – Marriage of a pastor is OK

Jesus heals the woman bleeding for 12 years (Mt 9:18-26; Mk 5:21-43; Lk 8:40-56)

- While heading to Jairus' house, Jesus was approached by a woman who had been suffering from bleeding for 12 years. She touched Jesus' cloak (fringes of his garment) & was instantly healed.
- She spent all of her money seeking help – she is now poor
- Bleeding makes her ceremonially unclean – nobody will touch her (or has touched her for the past 12 years)
- Example of big faith
- Your faith has healed you
 - Can also be translated as your faith has saved you – healed and saved are the same word

Jesus heals the woman bent double (Lk 13:10-17)

- While teaching in a synagogue on a Sabbath, Jesus cured a woman who had been crippled by a spirit for 18 years and could not stand straight at all

Other healings

Healing a man with dropsy (Lk 14:1-6)

- At the house of a prominent Pharisee on the Sabbath

Healing of the man with a shriveled hand (Mt 12:9-13, Mk 3:1-6; Lk 6:6-11)

- Jesus entered a synagogue on Sabbath, and found a man with a shriveled hand there, and healed him
- Emphasizes that it is good to do good on the Sabbath
 - Pharisees spent their time and energy trying to make God happy by doing good – focused on themselves

Healing the deaf mute of Decapolis (Mk 7:31-37)

As Jesus passes through Gennesaret, all those who touch His cloak are healed (Mt 14:34-36 and Mk 6:53-56)

Healing the Centurion's servant (Mt 8:5-13; Lk 7:1-10; Jn 4:46-54)

- Jesus healed the servant of a Roman Centurion in Capernaum
- Servant is paralyzed and suffering
- Centurion does not ask for healing, he just makes the need known to the Lord
 - Guideline for prayer – just lay your needs before the Lord – He knows for to fix it better than us
- Doesn't want Jesus to come to his house
 - Doesn't want to bother Jesus with that – he knows that Jesus can heal from afar
 - Astonished Jesus by demonstrating amazing faith
 - Takes a lot to astonish Jesus
 - This man is a gentile – Centurion is the leader of 100 troops – head of the troops – very brave
 - Centurions are prevalent in the gospels
 - He has no background in faith – no knowledge of the promises – he had no reason to believe
 - Understands authority – authority is the right to command others
 - Jesus has the right and power to command healings because He is Lord – he has spiritual authority
 - Humility – a recognition of being under the authority of another
 - Jesus authority over us is always for our good

Exorcisms

There are 7 major exorcism accounts in the Synoptic Gospels which have details, and imply specific teachings, are:

Synagogue in Capernaum – Demons acknowledge Jesus (Mk 1:23-24; Lk 4:33-34)

- Exorcism at the Synagogue in Capernaum
- Jesus exorcises an evil spirit who cries out, "What do you want with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are—the Holy One of God!".

Gerasene demoniac man – Demons went into the pigs (Mt 8:28-34; Mk 5:1-20; Lk 8:26-39)

- Jesus exorcises a possessed man (changed in the Gospel of Matthew to two men).
- Exorcism of the Gerasene demoniac
 - Gentile territory – They are raising pigs
 - Lived in the tombs with extreme self-infliction
- Demon's name
 - Finding the name of the possessing demon was an important traditional tool of exorcists
 - When Jesus asks the demon's name, he is given the reply Legion, "...for we are many".
 - Roman legion is 6000 soldiers
- Demons know who Jesus is
 - Demons call Jesus the son of God – the disciples just asked who Jesus is
 - Demons know who Christ is, but they don't submit to His authority
 - There is an appointed time for demonic affliction
- When the demons asked to be expelled into a nearby group of pigs rather than be sent out of the area, Jesus obliges, but the pigs then run into the lake and are drowned.
 - Foretaste of judgement day – they will be cast to the 'sea of evil'
- Demonic possession
 - The Holy Spirit will not share space with demons
 - Christians are not open to demonic possession. Non-Christians can be possessed by demons.
 - Western society is spiritually apathetic – not in the devil's best interest to make demons known
 - Don't have a conversation with demons – just tell them to be gone in Jesus name
- Men are instantly in their right mind

- God cares are people more than the animals
 - Men were made in the image of God
- Jesus was asked to leave town
 - Pleaded with him to go away because they were overcome with fear
 - Most important part of the text

Canaanite woman's daughter (Mt 15:21-28 and Mk 7:24-30)

- Exorcising the Canaanite woman's daughter
- A Gentile woman asks Jesus to heal her daughter, but Jesus refuses, saying that he has been sent only to "the lost sheep of the house of Israel". The woman persists, saying that "dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table". In response Jesus relents and informs her that her daughter has been healed.

Blind and mute man (Mt 12:22-32, Mk 3:20-30, Lk 11:14-23)

- Exorcising the blind and mute man
- Jesus heals a demon-possessed man who was blind and mute. People are astonished and ask, "Could this be the Son of David?"

Boy possessed by a demon (Mt 17:14-21, Mk 9:14-29, Lk 9:37-49)

- Exorcising a boy possessed by a demon
- A boy possessed by a demon is brought forward to Jesus. The boy is said to have foamed at the mouth, gnashed his teeth, become rigid and involuntarily fallen into both water and fire. Jesus' followers could not expel the demon, and Jesus condemns the people as unbelieving, but when the father of the boy questions if Jesus could heal the boy, he replies "everything is possible for those that believe". The father then says that he believes and the child is healed.

Sunset (Mt 8:16-17, Mk 1:32-34 and Lk 4:40-41)

- Exorcising at sunset
- In this miracle Jesus heals people and cast out demons
- Day of many miracles – he is willing and able and wants to help
- Fulfills Isaiah 53:4 – one of the servant songs
 - Matthew sees a connection between Jesus healing and the suffering servant that dies for us to heal us eternally

Mute (Mt 9:32-34)

- Exorcising a mute and deaf man
- A man who is demon-possessed and could not talk is brought to Jesus, who exorcises the demon, and the man is able to speak.
- Pharisees respond, "It is by the prince of demons that he drives out demons."
 - Hardness of heart – words of disbelief

A Crippled Woman Healed on the Sabbath (Lk 13:10-17)

- Jesus heals the woman bent double
- While teaching in a synagogue on a Sabbath, Jesus cured a woman who had been crippled by a spirit for 18 years and could not stand straight at all
- Notice that Jesus' speaks his pronouncement in plain words and that those words have power over the "spirit"—later identified as "Satan"
 - It is a pronouncement that establishes Jesus' authority, an authority so great that Satan himself bows to it.
 - When the synagogue ruler responds, Jesus uses this authority to silence and humiliate his opponents.
 - Notice, too, that "opponents" is plural. Apparently, Jesus targets the synagogue ruler and his supporters, that is, all those who wield influence in the synagogue, thus exercising his authority over them also.
- Consistent with his exercise of authority, Jesus' two questions are rhetorical: they are not meant to be answered, for the clear answer to each is "yes," and Jesus provides no time for a response.

- The questions are posed and phrased in such a way that they put the synagogue rulers in their place, which is clearly beneath that of Jesus.
- Our narrator confirms the fact by telling us “all his opponents were humiliated.”
- At the same time he reinforces Jesus as a man of the people, for they were “delighted” with what he had done.

Cast seven devils out of Mary Magdalene (Mk 16:9, Lk 8:2)

- Jesus had cast seven devils out of Mary Magdalene

Exorcism while Herod wanted to kill him (Lk 13:31-32)

- Jesus continued to cast out devils even though Herod Antipas wanted to kill him.

Raising the dead

Only God can perform miracles – raising the dead indicates a particularly close relationship with God

Raises Jairus' 12-year old daughter (Mt 9:18-26; Mk 5:21-43, Lk 8:40-56)

- Raises Jairus' twelve-year old daughter who just died
- Jairus – A major patron of a synagogue
- Asks Jesus to heal his daughter, but while Jesus is on the way, Jairus is told his daughter has died.
- Example of big faith – Take your problems that are too big to deal with to Jesus
- Jewish funerals are loud with wailing women and flute players
 - Sense of community with the loss and grief – everyone knows and shares
- Takes in Peter, James and John and her parents
 - Jesus tells him she was only sleeping, and wakes her with the words Talitha kum!
- Jesus has defeated death!

Raises son of the widow of Nain (Lk 7:11-17)

- Raises the son of the widow of Nain who was about to be buried
- A young man, the son of a widow, is brought out for burial in Nain. Jesus sees her, and his pity causes him to tell her not to cry. Jesus approaches the coffin and tells the man inside to get up, and he does so.

Raises Lazarus (Jn 11:1-44)

- Raises Lazarus from 4 days in the grave
- A close friend of Jesus who had been dead for four days is brought back to life when Jesus commands him to get up.

Control over nature

The Gospels include eight pre-resurrection accounts concerning Jesus' power over nature:

Jesus turns Water into Wine (Jn 2:1-11)

- At a wedding, when the host runs out of wine, the host's servants fill vessels with water at Jesus' command, then a sample is drawn out and taken to the master of the banquet who pronounces the content of the vessels as the best wine of the banquet.

The miracle of draught of fishes (Lk 5:1-11)

- Takes place early in Jesus's ministry and results in Saints Peter, James, son of Zebedee and John joining Jesus as his Apostles.

The Feeding of the 5000 men (Mt 14:13-21, Mk 6:30-44, Lk 9:10-17, Jn 6:1-15)

- Jesus, praying to God and using only a few loaves of bread and several fish, feeds thousands of men, along with an unspecified number of women and children; there are even a number of baskets of leftovers afterward.

The Feeding of the 4000 men (Mt 15:29-30, Mk 8:1-13)

- Jesus, praying to God and using only a few loaves of bread and several fish, feeds thousands of men, along with an unspecified number of women and children; there are even a number of baskets of leftovers afterward.

Walking on water (Mt 14:22-36, Mk 6:45-56, Jn 6:16-24)

- Jesus walked on a lake to meet a boat.

Transfiguration of Jesus (Mt 17:1-13, Mk 9:2-13, Lk 9:28-36)

- Jesus in his perfect humanity
- Jesus climbed a mountain and was changed so that his face glowed
- The Old Testament prophets Moses and Elijah appeared next to him.

Calming the storm (Mt 8:23-27, Lk 8:22-25)

- During a storm, the disciples woke Jesus, and he rebuked the storm causing it to become calm.
 - In the midst of the crisis, they go to Jesus
 - Jesus was sleeping – he was totally unconcerned
- Jesus then rebukes the disciples for lack of faith.
 - Ps 27 – Psalm of trust
- Jesus rebukes the wind and the waves
 - Control over nature
 - The wind and the waves stop and there was a great calm – same description in Jonah
- Parallels to the story of Jonah
 - Same
 - They were both sleeping in the boat when the storm came
 - Jonah calms the storm
 - Both lay down their life to calm the storms of life
 - Contrasts
 - Runs away from the will of God
 - Calms the storm by laying down his life
- Sea of Galilee
 - Very deep – hundreds of feet
 - Has severe winds that cross the lake without warning
 - Sea represents all the powers of evil and darkness – the abyss

Finding a Coin in the fish's mouth (Mt 17:24-27)

The Cursing of the Fig Tree (Mk 11:13-14; 20-21)

- Jesus cursed a fig tree, and it withered.

Catch of 153 fish (Jn 21:1-14)

- Post-resurrection miracle
- A similar miracle to the miracle of draught of fishes

- Called the catch of 153 fish, to distinguish it from the account in Luke
- Reported in the Gospel of John but takes place after the Resurrection of Jesus

Crisis

Jesus warned us that anyone who follows him will pay a price, and it will be a high price, indeed. After the interlude of parables in Lesson #13, we find that Jesus' reputation has spread, and in Lesson #14 mounting tensions escalate into crisis: Jesus is rejected in his hometown of Nazareth; Herod Antipas takes notice of him; John the Baptist is executed; and Jesus aggressively confronts the religious leaders who oppose him. Jesus' high profile and radical message are quickly leading him into deep trouble.

- w. Cost of discipleship (14:25-35)

Demands of discipleship

With Jesus' identity fully known, his disciples struggle with the implications of that identity, both for Jesus and for themselves. For Jesus, being "the Messiah, the Son of the living God" means suffering and death at the hands of the religious and political leaders; for his disciples it means taking up their own cross, being a servant of all and possibly being killed themselves.

All of this directly contradicts everything people believed about the Messiah. Jesus' disciples are left dazed and confused, while as readers we are left to ponder our own position in light of this startlingly new "Kingdom."

Peter's Confession of Faith

As we enter Lesson #9 the overwhelming question posed in the Gospel according to Mark has been: "Who is this man who can say and do such things?" At Caesarea Philippi Jesus poses this very question directly to his disciples: "Who do people say that I am" (8: 27). After some discussion, Peter replies on behalf of the disciples: "You are the Messiah" (8: 29). After Peter's response, the second half of the gospel will focus on the question: "What are the implications of Jesus being the Messiah, for himself, his disciples and for us, Mark's readers?" If Mark's gospel is addressed to Christians in Rome during a time of intense persecution (almost certainly during the persecution under the Emperor Nero, A.D. 64-68), then this is an urgent question, indeed.

From Jesus' return to Capernaum through his entry into Jerusalem, Jesus' conversation and teaching addresses the implications of Peter's confession of faith. What does it mean that Jesus is the Messiah? In a brilliant series of vignettes, Mark explores this question from multiple points of view.

Jesus takes his disciples 69 km (about 43 miles) north of the Sea of Galilee to Pnias, (renamed Caesarea Philippi in A.D. 14 by Phillip II, in honor of Caesar Augustus), a Greco-Roman town at the southwestern foot of Mt. Hermon. Since the 3rd century B.C. Pnias had been a cult center for worship of the Greek God, Pan.

Here, only one thing happens: Jesus asks his disciples, "Who do people say the Son of Man is?" (16: 13), and Peter replies on behalf of the group: "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God" (16: 16). Six days later on the Mt. of Transfiguration, the voice of God the Father validates Peter's confession of faith in the presence of two credible witnesses, Moses and Elijah (as required by Deuteronomy 19: 15).

With Jesus' identity confirmed, Jesus tells his disciples that they are heading immediately south to Jerusalem, where he will suffer, be killed and on the third day be raised. This is stunning—and dreadful—news, news his disciples cannot comprehend and refuse to accept.

Mt 16:18 Peter is the rock on which the church is built

Catholic - took this literally. They built the church on Peter's bones (Vatican)

Protestant - the confession is the rock.

- Confessions of faith (9:18-50)
 - Peter's confession: "The Messiah of God" (9:18-27)
 - Jesus transfigured; God's "confession": "This is my Son" (9:28-36)
 - Response #1: Jesus heals a very difficult case (9:37-45)
 - Response #2: Disciples argue over "which of them will be the greatest" (9:46-50)

??

Rather than being accepted, those closest to him—the people of Jesus' hometown of Nazareth—firmly reject him, attempting to toss him off a cliff to his death.

As our story progresses the conflict intensifies: Jesus calls Levi, a hated Jewish tax collector (and a Levite, at that!), to become one of his inner circle; Jesus banquets with tax collectors and "sinners," breaking bread with them and enjoying their company; Jesus breaks the Law by picking grain on the Sabbath (recall the young man in Numbers 15: 32-36 who is stoned to death for gathering wood on the Sabbath, a similar action); after being chastised for picking grain on the Sabbath, Jesus deliberately provokes the religious leaders by healing a man with a withered hand on the Sabbath, resulting in the Pharisees and Herodians plotting his death; the huge crowds following Jesus continue to grow and become more threatening; demons flee before Jesus; Jesus' family arrives from Nazareth to "seize him," for they think he is out of his mind; Jesus rejects his family; and the scribes accuse him of being possessed by Beelzebub.

All the while people are astonished by Jesus' words and actions, prompting countless people to ask: "Who is this man who can say and do such things?"

Facing increasing opposition, Jesus sends his disciples, two-by-two into Galilee, giving them authority to teach and preach . . . and to drive out demons. While they are gone Jesus learns that Herod Antipas has murdered John the Baptist, beheading him and displaying John's severed head on a platter, as part of the entertainment at Herod's birthday party. The news delivers a stunning blow to Jesus. On the return from their mission, Jesus asks his disciples to accompany him to the east side of the Sea of Galilee—the Golan Heights side—to a remote area where he can pray and confer with God, where he can come to grips with John's murder, and where he can understand the implications of John's murder for himself and for his disciples. Arriving at a remote place on the east side of the Sea of Galilee, a crowd of thousands is waiting for Jesus: they saw him leave Capernaum and head for the far shore, so they followed him there, walking around the north shore of the lake. In his compassion, Jesus teaches them, heals them and feeds them, finally dismissing them and his disciples, as he goes up the mountain to pray. About the fourth watch (3:00 – 6:00 AM), Jesus comes back down the mountain, only to find that the crowd has stayed, milling about along the shore, and the disciples' boat is halfway out in the lake, 3-4 miles. Exhausted, Jesus wants to go home, so he simply walks on the water from point A (the Golan) to point B (the boat). The story adds comic relief to an otherwise grim scene. After spending the night on the mountain with God, Jesus knows what must be done: he must go to Jerusalem to die a brutal death on the cross.

The decision made, Jesus reengages the growing conflict that has accompanied his public ministry in Galilee. As we enter Lesson #8 we learn that Jesus' activities in Galilee have attracted the attention of the religious leaders in Jerusalem, for "when the Pharisees with some scribes who had come from Jerusalem gathered around him . . ." they began to question him regarding details of the Law: "Why do your disciples not follow the tradition of the elders but instead eat a meal with unclean hands" (7: 1; 5)? Juxtaposed to the murder of John the Baptist and Jesus' night on the mountain, this otherwise appropriate question on a minor point of the Law ignites a deep rage within Jesus: "He responds, 'Well did Isaiah prophesy about you hypocrites . . .'" (7: 6), and he goes on to savage the religious leaders, throwing gasoline on a smoldering fire. When his disciples question him about the encounter, Jesus blasts them, too: "Are you likewise without understanding" (7: 18)? Jesus' frustration and anger are visceral, virtually leaping off the page! Jesus then leaves Galilee and heads north toward Tyre (in modern-day Lebanon), where he encounters a Syrophoenician woman (whom he deeply insults!), and he then heads back by way of Sidon to the Sea of Galilee. Once home, nothing has changed. With that, Jesus makes a decision. He takes his disciples 43 miles north of the Sea of Galilee to Caesarea Philippi, a Greco-Roman town at the southwestern foot of Mt. Hermon, where the turning point in our story takes place.

As we move deeper into Matthew, Jesus takes on a decidedly sharper edge, not suffering fools gladly. He seems deliberately to antagonize his opponents, escalating his encounters with them at every turn. What is going on here?

Holy Week – Jesus in Jerusalem

From the time they left Caesarea Philippi, Jesus said to his disciple 4 times that they were going to Jerusalem, I will be arrested, tried, crucified, buried and raised on the 3rd day.

- Mk 9:9 As they were coming down the mountain, Jesus gave them orders not to tell anyone what they had seen until the Son of Man had risen from the dead. 10 They kept the matter to themselves, discussing what "rising from the dead" meant.
- Mk 9:30 They left that place and passed through Galilee. Jesus did not want anyone to know where they were, 31 because he was teaching his disciples. He said to them, "The Son of Man is going to be betrayed into the hands of men. They will kill him, and after three days he will rise." 32 But they did not understand what he meant and were afraid to ask him about it.
 - Mt 16:21 From that time on Jesus began to explain to his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things at the hands of the elders, chief priests and teachers of the law, and that he must be killed and on the third day be raised to life.
- Mk 10:32 They were on their way up to Jerusalem, with Jesus leading the way, and the disciples were astonished, while those who followed were afraid. Again he took the Twelve aside and told them what was going to happen to him. 33 "We are going up to Jerusalem," he said, "and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and teachers of the law. They will condemn him to death and will hand him over to the Gentiles, 34 who will mock him and spit on him, flog him and kill him. Three days later he will rise."
 - Mt 20:17 Now as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside and said to them, 18 "We are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and the teachers of the law. They will condemn him to death 19 and will turn him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified. On the third day he will be raised to life!"
 - Lk 18:31 Jesus took the Twelve aside and told them, "We are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written by the prophets about the Son of Man will be fulfilled. 32 He will be handed over to the Gentiles. They will mock him, insult him, spit on him, flog him and kill him. 33 On the third day he will rise again." 34 The disciples did not any of this. Its meaning was hidden from them, and they did not know what he was talking about.
- Mt 26:1 When Jesus had finished saying all these things, he said to his disciples, 2 "As you know, the Passover is two days away—and the Son of Man will be handed over to be crucified."

The date of Jesus' Triumphant Entry was given to us in the OT:

Dan 9:25 "Know and understand this: From the issuing of the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until the Anointed One, the ruler, comes, there will be seven 'sevens,' and sixty-two 'sevens.' It will be rebuilt with streets and a trench, but in times of trouble. 26 After the sixty-two 'sevens,' the Anointed One will be cut off and will have nothing. The people of the ruler who will come will destroy the city and the sanctuary.

The decree to rebuild Jerusalem came in 445 BC, in the month of Nissan

Ne 2:1 In the month of Nisan in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes (445 BC) ... 5 and I answered the king, "If it pleases the king and if your servant has found favor in his sight, let him send me to the city in Judah where my fathers are buried so that I can rebuild it." 6 Then the king, with the queen sitting beside him, asked me, "How long will your journey take, and when will you get back?" It pleased the king to send me; so I set a time.

Palm Sunday – Jesus triumphant entry into Jerusalem

- Palm Sunday – people arrive in Jerusalem and choose the lamb to be sacrificed
 - 3:00 time to choose the sacrifice – same time as Jesus gave up His spirit on the cross
- Hosannas – means please save – political statement
 - "save, rescue, savior"
- Rode in on a colt
 - Zach 9:9 prophecy
“Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion!
Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem!
Behold, your King is coming to you;
He is just and having salvation,
Lowly and riding on a donkey,
A colt, the foal of a donkey.
 - This is way that Solomon rode in when he became king
 - When kings ride into a town:
 - donkey means that they are bringing peace
 - stallion means that they are bringing war
- Passover
 - The largest of three annual pilgrimage festivals
 - The population of Jerusalem swells from 100,000 to 1,000,000 people
- Jesus enters Jerusalem on the most crowded day of the year
 - Jesus enters Jerusalem, not as a humble servant, but as a king to the cheers of thousands: “Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Blessed is the kingdom of our father David that is to come! Hosanna in the highest” (11: 9-10)!
 - Deliberately staged to invoke memories of Solomon entering Jerusalem when David elevates him to the kingship
 - The cheers of the crowd are incendiary, a call to arms, accompanied by the waving of thousands of palm leaves, symbolic swords
 - Viewed by the Jewish religious leaders and the Roman officials, Jesus “triumphal entry” into Jerusalem is nothing less than a blatant call to insurrection.

Jesus enters Jerusalem on the most crowded day of the year, the beginning of Passover—the largest of three annual pilgrimage festivals, during which the population of Jerusalem swells from 100,000 to 1,000,000 people. Jesus enters Jerusalem, not as a humble servant, but as a king to the cheers of thousands: “Hosanna to the Son of David, blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, hosanna in the highest!” (21: 9). At a time of escalating political tension; at a time of mounting religious turbulence; at a time of civil terrorism and treason— Jesus’ actions are utterly incendiary. And then he lights a match.

Luke 19:28-44
Matthew 24

- Before he enters Jerusalem, he stops at the Mount of Olives and weeps over the Israelites
- Enters on the donkey
 - Solomon enter Jerusalem on a donkey to claim the kingship
 - Fulfillment of Zechariah’s prophecy – Zec 9:9

- Zec 9:9 Rejoice greatly, O Daughter of Zion! Shout, Daughter of Jerusalem! See, your king comes to you, righteous and having salvation, gentle and riding on a donkey, on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
 - Nothing humble about it at all
- Palm Sunday
 - Lamb selection day for the sacrifice
 - Ps 118 – Jesus is our king
 - Palm – Symbolic swords

Conflict and Confrontation

With each passing day of “Holy Week” Jesus escalates his encounters with the religious leaders, culminating in seven scathing denouncements, calling them hypocrites, blind guides, a brood of vipers and murders—all this, as he whips the ever-growing crowds into a frenzy. Pontius Pilate, the Roman Prefect, along with a contingent of up to 3,000 Roman legionnaires, has moved up from their headquarters at Caesarea Maritima on the Mediterranean coast to the Antonia Fortress in Jerusalem, where they monitor closely Jesus’ activities—and go on high alert, fearing a revolt and the inevitable blood bath that would result. The religious leaders, too, fear that if Jesus continues down this path he will put Jewish religious freedom and the very survival of the nation at risk. As the physicist Carl Sagan once said of the 20th-century nuclear arms race: the United States and the Soviet Union “are like two sworn enemies standing waist deep in gasoline, one with three matches, the other with five.” And so it is with Jesus and the religious and political authorities.

Jesus enters the temple area and drives out the merchants (Lk 19:45-46)

Having attacked the merchants and money changers at the Temple, overturned tables and wreaked havoc, the religious leaders confront Jesus the next morning, demanding: “By what authority are you doing these things? Or who gave you this authority to do them” (11: 28)? Jesus rises to the occasion: “No, I’ll ask the questions around here!” And thus he engages the religious leaders in heated debate, besting them with each encounter, publicly humiliating them in the eyes of the ever expanding crowd. Day by day, Jesus ups the ante, fueling the anger and resentment of the crowds toward the religious leaders and the Romans. As the week progresses the possibility of a riot increases from a probability to a near certainty, and if such a riot occurs, thousands will die. Jesus plays a risky game, one designed to ensure his arrest, trial and crucifixion that very week.

Olivet Discourse

In the Olivet Discourse Jesus speaks of a time of tribulation, the destruction of the Temple, the end times and the coming of the Son of Man. Traditionally read as eschatological prophecy, the Olivet Discourse draws heavily on the Book of Daniel and it mirrors events at the time of the Gospel's composition.

After savaging the religious leaders in Matthew 23, Jesus abruptly turns his back on them and steams up the Mt. of Olives. His disciples—astonished and frightened—trail along behind him, speechless. Finally, one of them—to break the tension—points out how beautiful the Temple looks! Jesus spins around, jabs a finger at the Temple complex and explodes: "You see all these things . . . there will not be left here a stone upon another stone that will not be thrown down" (24: 2). Jesus' disciples are dumbfounded, and they ask, stuttering: "Tell us, when will this happen . . .?" (24: 3). Jesus answers with the "Olivet Discourse," a profoundly disturbing insight into a time of "great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until now, nor will ever be" (24: 21). Indeed, within the lifetime of many who lived in Jesus' generation, the Jewish revolt of A.D. 66-73 fulfilled Jesus' vision, resulting in the siege of Jerusalem and the total destruction of the Temple. The historian Tacitus writes that during the revolt of A.D. 66-73 no fewer than 600,000 Jews fought the Romans in Jerusalem; those captured were crucified, up to 500 per day; and historians today estimate that 1.2 million Jews died during the span of the Revolt. It was the greatest catastrophe in Jewish history until the Nazi holocaust of 1939-1944. Jesus' "Olivet Discourse" fits squarely into the genre of "apocalyptic literature," and foreshadows the masterpiece of that genre, the book of Revelation.

PASSOVER AND THE CRUCIFIXION

The death and resurrection of Jesus is central to the Christian faith. Christianity teaches that Jesus died to atone for our sins and because of this we have life beyond physical death. All four Gospels provide Scriptural accounts of the crucifixion and associated events. Yet, in reading the parallel accounts of events associated with the crucifixion, we find differences between what the synoptic authors (Matthew, Mark and Luke) write and what John writes as to how these events unfold.

For example, we see John showing that Jesus appears before Pilate about the 6th hour while the synoptic writers show Jesus on the cross at the 6th hour.

- John 19:14: It was the day of Preparation of Passover Week, about the sixth hour. "Here is your king," Pilate said to the Jews.
- Matthew 27:45: Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.
- Luke 23:44: And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour.
- Mark 15:25. And it was the third hour, and they crucified him.

John sees Jesus at about the 6th hour appearing before Pilate. This would be twelve noon according to Jewish reckoning of time. The synoptic Gospels show Jesus to already be hanging on the cross at the 6th hour as it is at the 6th hour that darkness covers the land and some standing near the cross are mocking Jesus as the context of Matthew 27 and Luke 23 shows.

Mark writes that "It was the third hour when they crucified him." The 3rd hour would be 9 AM according to Jewish reckoning of time. In looking at the accounts of Matthew, Mark and Luke, one could surmise that the crucifixion began at the 3rd hour (9:00 AM), was still going on at the 6th hour (12 noon), when darkness began to cover the land, and ended at the 9th hour (3:00 PM) when it is recorded Jesus died. John, however, seemingly has the crucifixion first starting sometime after the 6th hour, after 12 noon. Some see this as a major discrepancy between what the synoptic writers say and what John says.

In an effort to resolve this issue, some have proposed that an error in the translation of Mark 15:25 may be responsible for it being said Jesus was crucified at the 3rd hour. Some believe the Greek letter digamma was inserted in place of the letter gamma. Digamma was used for 3rd whereas gamma was used for 6th. However, there is no hard evidence for this. Furthermore, Matthew and Luke clearly show there was darkness over the land from the 6th to the 9th hour indicating Jesus was on the cross at the 6th hour and already had been on the cross for some time. Therefore, it is apparent Mark's account of Jesus being placed on the cross at the 3rd hour or 9:00 AM is correct. Can this apparent difference between Mark and John as to the time Jesus was nailed to the cross be in some way harmonized?

It is apparent Matthew, Mark and Luke were using Hebrew time in their writings. Hebrew time split the day and night into watches with the first day time watch beginning at 6 AM. The 3rd hour would be three hours removed from 6 AM which would be 9:00 AM. The 6th hour (twelve noon) would be six hours removed from 6 AM. and the ninth hour would be nine hours removed from 6:00 AM or 3:00 PM in the afternoon.

So why does John show Jesus appearing before Pilate at the sixth hour which would have been twelve noon when it is obvious Jesus was already on the cross and had been there for some time.

It is apparent John was using Roman time rather than Hebrew time. In Roman time a day begins at 12 midnight. Therefore, the 6th hour would have been 6:00 AM. When you read the Gospel of John, it appears he is using the Roman method of reckoning time in other of his writings. Therefore the 6th hour for John would be 6:00 AM. When reading through the events leading up to the crucifixion in all four Gospels, a 6:00 AM appearance before Pilate appears very likely.

Most Christian apologists see John's 6th hour as being Roman time a very reasonable solution to the apparent discrepancy between Mark's 3rd hour and John's 6th hour. This clearly allows for the crucifixion to have begun at the 3rd hour as seen in Mark and as indicated in Matthew and Luke. Therefore, this seeming discrepancy is easily resolved. Now let's turn to an issue that is not so easily resolved but, as you will see, can be resolved both from the Scriptures and by using a little common sense.

Passover and the Crucifixion:

Matthew, Mark and Luke show Jesus and His disciples eating the Passover the night before the crucifixion. John clearly shows the Passover being eaten after the crucifixion. Were their two Passovers eaten within a 24 hour period at the time of the crucifixion of Jesus?

It is generally believed within Christianity that the crucifixion of Jesus was foreshadowed by the Passover. We are all familiar with the account of the Israelites killing a lamb and spreading the blood from the lamb on the door posts of their homes so that the death angel would pass over their homes and not kill their firstborn as was the case with the Egyptian firstborn.

Jesus is seen as the ultimate fulfillment of the Passover. Jesus is seen as the lamb slain for the sins of the world. Just as the blood on the doorposts protected the Israelites from having their firstborn killed, the blood of Jesus is seen as protecting us from eternal death.

All four Gospels show that Jesus was crucified on the day of the Passover. However, if you carefully read the four Gospel accounts of the Passover during which Jesus was crucified, you will see what on the surface appears to be a conflict between what Matthew, Mark and Luke write and what John writes. Matthew, Mark and Luke have Jesus eating what appears to be the Passover meal the night before He is crucified. John indicates the time for the eating of the Passover meal was after Jesus was crucified. What's going on here?

Matthew 26:17-20: On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the disciples came to Jesus and asked, "Where do you want us to make preparations for you to eat the Passover?" He replied, "Go into the city to a certain man and tell him, 'The Teacher says: My appointed time is near. I am going to celebrate the Passover with my disciples at your house.'" So the disciples did as Jesus had directed them and prepared the Passover. When evening came, Jesus was reclining at the table with the Twelve.

Mark 14:12-17: On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, when it was customary to sacrifice the Passover lamb, Jesus' disciples asked him, "Where do you want us to go and make preparations for you to eat the Passover?" So he sent two of his disciples, telling them, "Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him. Say to the owner of the house he enters, 'The Teacher asks: Where is my guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?' He will show you a large upper room, furnished and ready. Make preparations for us there." The disciples left, went into the city and found things just as Jesus had told them. So they prepared the Passover. When evening came, Jesus arrived with the Twelve.

Luke 22:1, 7-16: Now the Feast of Unleavened Bread, called the Passover, was approaching. Verse 7: Then came the day of Unleavened Bread on which the Passover lamb had to be sacrificed. Jesus sent Peter and John, saying, "Go and make preparations for us to eat the Passover." "Where do you want us to prepare for it?" they asked. He replied, "As you enter the city, a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him to the house that he enters, and say to the owner of the house, 'The Teacher asks: Where is the guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?' He will show you a large upper room, all furnished. Make preparations there." They left and found things just as Jesus had told them. So they prepared the Passover. When the hour came, Jesus and his apostles reclined at the table. And he said to them, "I have eagerly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer. For I tell you, I will not eat it again until it finds fulfillment in the kingdom of God."

In reading these Scriptures, it certainly looks like Jesus kept the Passover with His disciples the night before He was crucified. Keeping of the Passover involved eating the meat of a slain lamb along with bitter herbs and unleavened bread. Is this what Jesus and His disciples did?

The synoptic Gospel writers all appear to equate the Passover with the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Luke actually calls the Feast of Unleavened Bread the Passover. The Hebrew Scriptures make it clear that the Passover is on the 14th day of the Hebrew first month and the Feast of Unleavened Bread begins on the 15th of the first month.

Leviticus 23: 5-6: The LORD's Passover begins at twilight on the fourteenth day of the first month. On the fifteenth day of that month the LORD's Feast of Unleavened Bread begins; for seven days you must eat bread made without yeast.

Now, it was customary in Israel to view the entire period of the Passover and the Day's of Unleavened Bread as the feast of Passover. After all, the Passover and Feast of Unleavened Bread were closely associated with the same event, the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage. During the Passover meal, unleavened bread had to be eaten and in preparing for the Passover meal all leaven had to be removed from the home. Since unleavened bread had to be prepared for the Passover meal, in a sense, the Feast of Unleavened Bread had already begun. This blending of the Passover and Feast of Unleavened Bread is already found to be the case during the time of Ezekiel.

Ezekiel 45:21: In the first month on the fourteenth day you are to observe the Passover, a feast lasting seven days, during which you shall eat bread made without yeast.

Even though there was this apparent blending of the Passover and Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Passover lambs were slain on the 14th of the month whereas the days of Unleaven Bread began on the 15th of the month.

Exodus 12:3, 6: Tell the whole community of Israel that on the tenth day of this month each man is to take a lamb for his family, one for each household.

Verse 6: Take care of them until the fourteenth day of the month, when all the people of the community of Israel must slaughter them at twilight (in the evening KJV, RSV)

We know that the Hebrew calendar has days beginning at sunset and ending at sunset. The Passover lambs were to be kept until the 14th and killed at twilight. When is twilight? Twilight is defined by some as the period of time between when the sun goes down and complete darkness occurs. This period of time is sometimes referred to as "between the two evenings." The view adopted by the Pharisees and the Talmudists is that the first evening is when the heat of the sun begins to decrease; roughly a period from 3-5 P.M. and the second evening begins at sunset. The Mishnah indicates the lambs were killed about 2:30 P.M. in the afternoon of the 14th.

Here is where the apparent disconnect occurs between the synoptic Gospels and the Gospel of John. The synoptic Gospels show Jesus and His disciples eating the Passover at the beginning of the 14th. John shows the Jews eating the Passover at the end of the 14th.

John 18:28: Then the Jews led Jesus from Caiaphas to the palace of the Roman governor. By now it was early morning, and to avoid ceremonial uncleanness the Jews did not enter the palace; they wanted to be able to eat the Passover.

Matthew, Mark and Luke have Jesus seemingly eating the Passover the evening before His trial and crucifixion. John shows the Passover as not yet having been eaten at the time of Jesus' trial. The eating of the Passover meal is seen as occurring subsequent to the trial and by implication, subsequent to the crucifixion.

It is believed by most Christians that Jesus was crucified and died at the exact time the lambs were being killed for the keeping of Passover. This conclusion is drawn from the fact John the Baptist refers to Jesus as the "Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world" (John 1:29), Paul refers to Christ as "our Passover lamb" (1 Corinthians 5:7) and Peter refers to Jesus as a "lamb without blemish or defect" (1 Peter 1:19).

If indeed Jesus kept the actual Passover the evening before his crucifixion as Matthew, Mark and Luke appear to indicate, the killing of the lambs and the eating of the Passover would have occurred before Jesus was crucified. The crucifixion would have occurred during the daylight part of the 14th after the lambs were killed and eaten the evening before.

John, however, indicates the eating of the Passover was to occur after Jesus died which allows for Jesus to be slain at the same time the Passover lambs were slain which coordinates with Scripture that pictures Jesus as our Passover lamb. So how do we resolve this apparent disconnect between the synoptic accounts and John's account?

Some Biblical scholars believe the synoptic Gospels were written much earlier than John and present a more accurate historical account of what took place at the time of the crucifixion. It is believed John wrote his Gospel much later than the synoptic writers and wrote from the perspective of a very high Christology. Therefore, some scholars believe John wanted to show Christ as fulfilling the Passover by being killed at the exact time the lambs were being slain for the eating of the Passover. It is believed John forced this perspective into his recording of the crucifixion to make this point.

This explanation places the integrity of John in question as it virtually accuses John of fictionalizing some of what he wrote relative to the crucifixion of Jesus in order to coordinate the death of Jesus with the killing of the Passover lambs.

As already noted, we see Paul picturing Jesus as the Passover lamb and thus appearing to write from the same perspective that John did. Paul's letters appear to have been written many years before John's Gospel was written. The association between Jesus and the Passover lamb is evident before the writings of John. So it is unlikely John forced this perspective into his account of the crucifixion. So why is there this apparent discrepancy between the synoptic Gospels and what John wrote regarding at what point the Passover was eaten?

All four Gospels show Jesus to have been crucified on the preparation day. The preparation day was the daytime part of the 14th. It was the daytime part of Passover day. The 15th of the month would start the Feast of Unleavened Bread which was a special High Day Sabbath. Jesus died shortly before the beginning of the High Day Sabbath, the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread.

Matthew 27:62-64: The next day, the one after Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees went to Pilate. "Sir," they said, "we remember that while he was still alive that deceiver said, 'After three days I will rise again.' So give the order for the tomb to be made secure until the third day.

Mark 15:42-43: It was Preparation Day (that is, the day before the Sabbath). So as evening approached, Joseph of Arimathea, a prominent member of the Council, who was himself waiting for the kingdom of God, went boldly to Pilate and asked for Jesus' body.

Luke 23: 52-54: Going to Pilate, he asked for Jesus' body. Then he took it down, wrapped it in linen cloth and placed it in a tomb cut in the rock, one in which no one had yet been laid. It was Preparation Day, and the Sabbath was about to begin.

John 19:14, 31, 42: It was the day of Preparation of Passover Week, about the sixth hour. "Here is your king," Pilate said to the Jews.

Verse 31: Now it was the day of Preparation, and the next day was to be a special Sabbath (NIV).

Verse 42: Because it was the Jewish day of Preparation and since the tomb was nearby, they laid Jesus there.

Matthew, Mark and Luke appear to teach that Jesus and his disciples kept the Passover at the beginning of the preparation day, the evening before the daytime part of the 14th. Matthew and Mark record that when evening came, Jesus and his disciples sat down to eat. Now we know the lambs for Passover had to be kept until the 14th and then slain. When was this done? The daylight part of the 14th is seen as the preparation day. What is it a preparation for? John sees it as a preparation for the Passover.

If indeed the daylight part of the 14th was the time of preparation for the Passover, how could Jesus and His disciples be seen as having made preparation for the Passover and as also eating the Passover the evening before the Passover was to be prepared?

John shows the Jews looking forward to eating the Passover after the crucifixion and Scripture indicates Jesus was crucified at the time the lambs were slain in preparation for the eating of the Passover. Therefore, it is evident the daylight part of the 14th was the preparation day for the eating of the Passover and it is during the preparation day that Jesus was crucified. So why do Matthew, Mark and Luke show Jesus keeping the Passover the evening before the preparation for the Passover?

How do we resolve the apparent contradiction between what Matthew, Mark and Luke write as to Jesus observing the Passover on the evening before His crucifixion and what John writes which shows the eating of the Passover to follow the crucifixion? It is apparent that the Preparation Day alluded to in all four Gospels is the preparation for the Passover.

In The Wars of the Jews, first century historian Josephus records that the Passover lambs were slaughtered on the 14th, "from the ninth hour till the eleventh" (Wars 6.9.3). This would correspond to our 3:00-5:00 P.M. This tells us the lambs were slaughtered during the afternoon of the 14th which means they were eaten near the end of the 14th or at the beginning of the 15th.

Yet Matthew, Mark and Luke indicate Jesus kept the Passover the evening before the Preparation Day. If this is the case, from where did they get a lamb for their Passover observance if the lambs weren't killed until the next day, the Preparation Day as John seems to indicate? More importantly, how would such a lamb have significance relative to the death of Christ if it was killed a day earlier than when Christ was killed?

So what are we to make of the synoptic writers showing Jesus to be observing the Passover at the beginning of the 14th, the evening before his crucifixion? Luke appears to clearly record that the disciples prepared the Passover. "So they prepared the Passover" (Luke 22:13). Mark records that Jesus told his disciples to ask "Where is my guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?" Mark says, "So they prepared the Passover" (Mark 14:14, 15). Matthew records, "I am going to celebrate the Passover with my disciples at your house" (Matthew 26:18).

From these statements it appears Jesus not only desired to eat the Passover with His disciples but actually did so. Yet how could this be if the Passover isn't eaten until after the crucifixion the next day as we plainly see in the Gospel of John?

Some have conjectured that Jesus kept the Passover at the beginning of the 14th according to how the Pharisees reckoned the time for eating the Passover while the Sadducees ate the Passover meal at the end of the 14th according to their tradition. There is no real evidence for this position. It is apparent from both the Scriptures and secular history that the lambs were killed during the daylight part of the 14th and all the Jews, regardless of doctrinal persuasion, kept the Passover at the same time.

In another effort to resolve the apparent discrepancy between the synoptic Gospels and John's Gospel, some have speculated that Jesus did not intend to eat the Passover with His disciples and plainly told them this was the case. Therefore it was not the Passover that Christ ate at the start of the 14th but simply a final evening meal before He was to die. The Fenton translation of Luke 22:15-16 is cited as support for this position.

Luke 22:15-16: And he said to them: 'I have longingly desired (Greek: epithumia epethumesa) to eat this Passover with you before my suffering; however, I tell you that I shall not eat of it, until it can be administered in the Kingdom of God.'

The Greek words translated here as "longingly desired" appear over fifty times in the NT. Their basic meaning is to desire, crave or long for something, often that which is forbidden. These words are often translated into the English word "lust." The thinking is that Jesus much desired to eat the Passover with His disciples but knew it was forbidden because he was going to die before the Passover was actually eaten and that is why He said he would not eat of it until the Kingdom is established.

Some scholars believe the wording of a number of Greek manuscripts such as Codex Vaticanus, Codex Sinaiticus and Codex Alexandrinus support this perspective. However, this approach to resolving this issue remains controversial as it is clear that the synoptic writers all indicate it was the Passover Jesus and His disciples ate. Is there another way to resolve this issue?

It is instructive that Matthew, Mark and Luke all show Jesus appearing to instruct his disciples to prepare for the Passover after the day of Passover has already arrived. The wording indicates the 14th had already arrived when Jesus gave instruction to His disciples as to where to prepare the Passover.

- Matthew 26:17: On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the disciples came to Jesus and asked, "Where do you want us to make preparations for you to eat the Passover?"
- Mark 14:12-17: On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, when it was customary to sacrifice the Passover lamb, Jesus' disciples asked him, "Where do you want us to go and make preparations for you to eat the Passover?"

- Luke 22:1, 7: Now the Feast of Unleavened Bread, called the Passover, was approaching. Verse 7: Then came the day of Unleavened Bread on which the Passover lamb had to be sacrificed. Jesus sent Peter and John, saying, "Go and make preparations for us to eat the Passover."

As already discussed, the Passover and the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread were blended together in Jewish thinking. Luke calls the Feast of Unleavened Bread the Passover. The synoptic writers make it appear that the 14th had already arrived when Jesus directed His disciples to prepare the Passover.

Preparing the Passover was a rather involved task. A lamb had to be killed and roasted to prepare it for the meal. This process would have taken several hours. Besides preparing a lamb, bitter herbs and unleavened bread were required for the Passover meal. When would this all have been done? The synoptic writers show Jesus and His disciples eating the Passover at the start of the 14th. We know this was the start of the 14th because it was dark when they all left to go to the Garden of Gethsemane.

Because of the obvious complications seen in concluding Jesus and His disciples were keeping the actual statutory Passover, it doesn't appear to be the actual statutory Passover they kept.

It is evident from John's Gospel that the eating of the Passover didn't take place until after the crucifixion which would place the eating of the Passover at the end of the 14th and not at the beginning of the 14th. So what was it that Jesus and His disciples were doing in having what the synoptic Gospels appear to show is a eating of the Passover the night before the day of preparation?

The disciple's preparations could not have included preparing a Passover lamb because the Passover lambs had not yet been killed. It is instructive that nothing is said in the four Gospel accounts about a lamb being eaten at the meal shared by Jesus and the disciples.

Matthew records Jesus saying, "As you know, the Passover is two days away--and the Son of Man will be handed over to be crucified" (Matthew 26:2). The indication here is that Christ was prophesying His death would take place on Passover. Therefore, he would not be keeping the Passover by eating it but by dying on it.

A number of scholars believe the meal He had with His disciples was not the Passover but a pre-Passover meal where He washed their feet, gave them much instruction and introduced the symbols of the bread and wine. It was a virtual memorial service in anticipation of his death. It's instructive that unlike the synoptic writers, John gives no indication it was the Passover that Jesus ate the night before His death.

John 13:1: It was just before the Passover Feast. Jesus knew that the time had come for him to leave this world and go to the Father. Having loved his own who were in the world, he now showed them the full extent of his love.

John writes that it was just before the Passover Feast that Jesus shows His disciples the full extent of His love. John goes on to describe Jesus washing the disciple's feet. John 13:2 shows the washing of the feet was done either during or after the meal depending on what translation you read. John indicates it was before the Passover Feast that Jesus performed the foot washing. Yet John shows it was either during or after the meal when Jesus washed their feet. Therefore, it is believed the meal they were having was not the Passover Feast but simply an evening meal eaten the evening before the Passover Feast would be eaten which would be at the end of the next day after Jesus had died.

John clearly shows it was the Preparation Day when Jesus was crucified. This Preparation Day was the daylight part of the 14th and the High Day Sabbath was to follow on the 15th. As already discussed, in describing the events associated with Jesus' trial, John says the following:

John 19:14: It was the day of Preparation of Passover Week, about the sixth hour. "Here is your king," Pilate said to the Jews \(NIV\).

Some translations read, "it was the preparation of the Passover," or "it was the day of preparation for the Passover,"(KJV, ASV, RSV, NET). It appears John is seeing the day Jesus died as the preparation day for the eating of the Passover. Therefore the eating of the Passover would first take place at the end of the 14th and not at the beginning. All four Gospels show it was the Preparation Day on which Christ was crucified.

That it was during the day of the 14th when Jesus died is clearly born out by the Jews insistence on making sure Jesus and the two criminals crucified with Him were not left on the cross during the Feast of Unleavened Bread which began at the start of the 15th which would have been around sunset of the 14th. It would have violated Jewish law to have the bodies remain on the cross during the feast of Unleavened Bread (Deuteronomy 21:22-23, Joshua 8:29). They had earlier determined that Jesus should not be killed on the Feast. The Feast was considered a High Day Sabbath when no ordinary work could be done.

- Matthew 26:4-5: and they plotted to arrest Jesus in some sly way and kill him. "But not during the Feast," they said, "or there may be a riot among the people."
- Mark 14:2: "But not during the Feast," they said, "or the people may riot."
- John 19:31: Therefore, because it was the Preparation Day, that the bodies should not remain on the cross on the Sabbath (for that Sabbath was a high day), the Jews asked Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away (NKJV).

It is apparent from a careful reading of all four Gospels that Jesus was tried during the night and early morning of Passover day and was placed on the cross around the 3rd hour which corresponds to our 9 A.M. He died at the 9th hour which corresponds to our 3 P.M. It was at 3 P.M. that the lambs began to be slain in preparation for the eating of the Passover which would have taken place at the end of the 14th and possibly at the beginning of the 15th which was the start of the High Day Sabbath, the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Remember, unleavened bread had to be eaten as part of the Passover.

In view of the foregoing, it can be safely concluded that what Jesus and His disciples ate at the beginning of the 14th was not the statutory Passover. John 13:2-4 shows it was a supper that Jesus and the disciples ate at the beginning of the 14th.

John 13:2-4: And supper being ended, the devil having already put it into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray Him, Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into His hands, and that He had come from God and was going to God, rose from supper and laid aside His garments, took a towel and girded Himself (NKJV).

The Greek here translated "supper" is dipnon which the Greek lexicons define as an evening meal. Six days before the Passover Jesus had a dipnon with Lazarus, an evening meal. Paul references the meal Jesus had the night before He was crucified as a dipnon.

John 12:1-2: Then, six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus was who had been dead, whom He had raised from the dead. There they made Him a supper (dipnon); and Martha served, but Lazarus was one of those who sat at the table with Him (NKJV).

1 Corinthians 11:20-21: When you come together, it is not the Lord's Supper (dipnon) you eat, for as you eat, each of you goes ahead without waiting for anybody else. One remains hungry, another gets drunk.

Verse 25: In the same way, after supper (dipneo) he took the cup, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood; do this, whenever you drink it, in remembrance of me."

The sixteen times the word dipnon appears in the NT, it is never associated with the Greek word for Passover (Pascha). The Passover was a one of a kind stand alone event that was very sacred to the Jews. It is never called the Passover supper or meal. It is simply called the Passover or Passover Feast. It appears to be quite distinct from a supper meal. It is instructive that Paul refers to the meal Jesus had the night before the crucifixion as a supper" (dipnon) and not Passover.

If Jesus and the disciples did not eat the actual Passover at the start of the 14th, why do Matthew, Mark and Luke make it look as though they did?

When all the Scriptures that bear on this issue are examined and compared, it is apparent that the synoptic writers were simply using the word Passover, Passover Feast or Days of Unleavened Bread as descriptive of the season they were in. We saw that the synoptic writers refer to the entire period of the Passover and Days of Unleavened Bread as the Passover even though the Passover was only a single day of that period of time.

The writers of Scripture take liberties with language just like we do. We may say, “I’m going to a Christmas party tonight even though the actual day of Christmas may be several days off. Nevertheless, it is the Christmas season. Well for Jesus and the disciples, it was the Passover season. While it wasn’t the statutory Passover that Jesus and His disciples ate, it was a Passover type meal inasmuch that Jesus was in essence substituting His body for the lamb by introducing the bread and wine as symbols of the sacrifice He would be making at the very time the Passover lambs were being slain the following afternoon.

It is important, when reading the Scriptures, that we don’t take too wooden of an approach to what is written. It is important we look at the Scriptures holistically which means we look at all the dynamics associated with an issue before drawing a conclusion. This is the approach we should always use in our study of the Scriptures or our study of anything.

The charge that there is some great inconsistency between the synoptic gospels and John regarding the time of the Passover relative to the crucifixion disappears when one looks at all the dynamics associated with these events.

Judas, the Betrayer

Judas is a much more complex character than we often experience in a liturgical context. A disciple from the start, Judas was with Jesus for his entire 3-year public ministry; Judas witnessed Jesus’ teaching, preaching and healing; Judas was present at Peter’s confession of faith, and Judas believed that Jesus was the Messiah. So why does Judas betray Jesus? In Lesson #15 we explore the character of Judas, drawing on Matthew, Luke and John—and a few outside sources—for additional information.

Judas is a far more complex character one might think. Judas was one of the original twelve disciples, part of Jesus’ “inner circle”; Judas witnessed the entire three years of Jesus’ public ministry, watching and listening to his teaching, preaching and healing; Judas was present at Caesarea Philippi, agreeing with Peter’s confession of faith; and Judas was told of the extraordinary events on the Mt. of Transfiguration, when God the Father validated Peter’s confession of faith in the presence of Moses and Elijah. Why would such a man “betray” Christ?

Prayer

“Abba, Father, all things are possible for You. Take this cup away from Me; nevertheless, not what I will, but what You will.”

Mark 14:32 Then they came to a place which was named Gethsemane; and He said to His disciples, “Sit here while I pray.” 33 And He took Peter, James, and John with Him, and He began to be troubled and deeply distressed. 34 Then He said to them, “My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even to death. Stay here and watch.” 35 He went a little farther, and fell on the ground, and prayed that if it were possible, the hour might pass from Him. 36 And He said, “Abba, Father, all things are possible for You. Take this cup away from Me; nevertheless, not what I will, but what You will.” 37 Then He came and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, “Simon, are you sleeping? Could you not watch one hour? 38 Watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” 39 Again He went away and prayed, and spoke the same words. 40 And when He returned, He found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy; and they did not know what to answer Him.

Arrest

Lk 14:27 And anyone who does not carry his cross and follow me cannot be my disciple.

Mt 16:24 Then Jesus said to his disciples, "If anyone would come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me.

Suffering

- 1Pe 1:3 Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In his great mercy he has given us new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, 4 and into an inheritance that can never perish, spoil or fade—kept in heaven for you, 5 who through faith are shielded by God's power until the coming of the salvation that is ready to be revealed in the last time. 6 In this you greatly rejoice, though now for a little while you may have had to suffer grief in all kinds of trials. 7 These have come so that your faith—of greater worth than gold, which perishes even though refined by fire—may be proved genuine and may result in praise, glory and honor when Jesus Christ is revealed. 8 Though you have not seen him, you love him; and even though you do not see him now, you believe in him and are filled with an inexpressible and glorious joy, 9 for you are receiving the goal of your faith, the salvation of your souls.
- 1Pe 4:12 Dear friends, do not be surprised at the painful trial you are suffering, as though something strange were happening to you. 13 But rejoice that you participate in the sufferings of Christ, so that you may be overjoyed when his glory is revealed. 14 If you are insulted because of the name of Christ, you are blessed, for the Spirit of glory and of God rests on you. 15 If you suffer, it should not be as a murderer or thief or any other kind of criminal, or even as a meddler. 16 However, if you suffer as a Christian, do not be ashamed, but praise God that you bear that name.
- Romans 5:1 Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, 2 through whom we have gained access by faith into this grace in which we now stand. And we rejoice in the hope of the glory of God. 3 Not only so, but we also rejoice in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; 4 perseverance, character; and character, hope. 5 And hope does not disappoint us, because God has poured out his love into our hearts by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given us.
- James 1:1 James, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, To the twelve tribes scattered among the nations: Greetings. 2 Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, 3 because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. 4 Perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.

- Ro 5:1 Paul, a servant of Christ Jesus, called to be an apostle and set apart for the gospel of God— 2 the gospel he promised beforehand through his prophets in the Holy Scriptures 3 regarding his Son, who as to his human nature was a descendant of David, 4 and who through the Spirit of holiness was declared with power to be the Son of God by his resurrection from the dead: Jesus Christ our Lord. 5 Through him and for his name's sake, we received grace and apostleship to call people from among all the Gentiles to the obedience that comes from faith.
- Ja 1:2 Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, 3 because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. 4 Perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.

Peter's Denial

At Caesarea Philippi Peter said with great certainty, “You are the Messiah” (8: 29); across the three years of Jesus’ public ministry, Peter emerged as leader of the disciples; after the Last Supper Peter pledged with conviction: “Even though all should have their faith shaken, mine will not be” (14: 29). And yet, Peter denies the Lord, not once, but three times.

The Trial

Mark gives us a terse version of Jesus’ trial before Pilate. In Lesson #17 we fill in the blanks, examining the issues involved in Jesus’ arrest and trial, as well as the possible motives of the principal characters in the story. Once again, we find that the issues are much more complex and layered than we typically experience liturgically.

The Jewish leaders accuse Jesus of blasphemy, a capital offense under Mosaic Law. But the trial must be kept quiet, lest it trigger the riot that the religious leaders and the Romans fear. Thus, Caiaphas the high priest calls an evening executive session of the Sanhedrin, the ruling Jewish body of elders. Key members of the Sanhedrin meet at the home of Caiaphas, where Jesus is found guilty of blasphemy and sentenced to death. Although the Jews are free under Roman rule to exercise their own religious laws and customs, they are not free to carry out capital punishment: that is the exclusive purview of the Roman government. The Jewish leaders therefore bring Jesus to Pontius Pilate, the Roman Prefect who has taken up residence in the Antonia Fortress during Passover, along with his troops, keeping a watchful eye on the crowds and maintaining security. As a Roman Prefect, Pilate has four primary responsibilities:

- 1) governance;
- 2) collecting taxes;
- 3) maintaining law and order; and
- 4) exercising criminal and civil judicial functions.

Wanting a death sentence, the Jewish leaders bring Jesus before Pilate and accuse him not of blasphemy (for blasphemy is not a capital offense under Roman law), but treason, claiming to be a king: that is a capital offense. Like Judas, Pilate is a more complex person than often thought. In this lesson we will not only follow the trial itself, but we will explore Pilate’s motives and actions as a Roman Prefect.

Death, Burial and Resurrection (Luke 19:28-24:53)

Jesus’ entire public ministry leads to his death, burial and resurrection. Indeed, Jesus tells us himself that he came “to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many” (Matthew 20: 28).

We often are given the impression that Jesus was the innocent victim of corrupt religious authority and political intrigue. That is wrong. Jesus knew exactly what he was doing when he left Galilee for Jerusalem on Passover in the third year of his ministry. He went to Jerusalem with the express purpose of being arrested, tried, convicted and crucified; and on the third day he would rise from the dead. He is in complete control of events, from his entry into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday through his resurrection on Easter morning.

The fateful time that we call “Holy Week” changes the world—forever.

Death – The Crucifixion

The King on a Cross

Luke 24²⁶ Now as they led Him away, they laid hold of a certain man, Simon a Cyrenian, who was coming from the country, and on him they laid the cross that he might bear it after Jesus.

²⁷ And a great multitude of the people followed Him, and women who also mourned and lamented Him. ²⁸ But Jesus, turning to them, said, “Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children. ²⁹ For indeed the days are coming in which they will say, ‘Blessed are the barren, wombs that never bore, and breasts which never nursed!’ ³⁰ Then they will begin ‘to say to the mountains, “Fall on us!” and to the hills, “Cover us!” ’ ³¹ For if they do these things in the green wood, what will be done in the dry?”

³² There were also two others, criminals, led with Him to be put to death. ³³ And when they had come to the place called Calvary, there they crucified Him, and the criminals, one on the right hand and the other on the left. ³⁴ Then Jesus said, “Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they do.”

And they divided His garments and cast lots. ³⁵ And the people stood looking on. But even the rulers with them sneered, saying, “He saved others; let Him save Himself if He is the Christ, the chosen of God.”

³⁶ The soldiers also mocked Him, coming and offering Him sour wine, ³⁷ and saying, “If You are the King of the Jews, save Yourself.”

³⁸ And an inscription also was written over Him in letters of Greek, Latin, and Hebrew:

THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

³⁹ Then one of the criminals who were hanged blasphemed Him, saying, ^[j]“If You are the Christ, save Yourself and us.”

⁴⁰ But the other, answering, rebuked him, saying, “Do you not even fear God, seeing you are under the same condemnation? ⁴¹ And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this Man has done nothing wrong.” ⁴² Then he said to Jesus, “Lord, remember me when You come into Your kingdom.”

⁴³ And Jesus said to him, “Assuredly, I say to you, today you will be with Me in Paradise.”

Jesus Dies on the Cross

⁴⁴ Now it was about the sixth hour, and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. ⁴⁵ Then the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was torn in two. ⁴⁶ And when Jesus had cried out with a loud voice, He said, “Father, ‘into Your hands I commit My spirit.’ ” Having said this, He breathed His last.

⁴⁷ So when the centurion saw what had happened, he glorified God, saying, “Certainly this was a righteous Man!”

⁴⁸ And the whole crowd who came together to that sight, seeing what had been done, beat their breasts and returned. ⁴⁹ But all His acquaintances, and the women who followed Him from Galilee, stood at a distance, watching these things.

Crucifixion

The Persians introduced crucifixion as a capital punishment as early as the 6th century B.C., and the Carthaginians, Macedonians and Romans employed it until the Emperor Constantine outlawed crucifixion in A.D. 337, out of deference to Christ. The Greeks had an aversion to crucifixion, although the historian Herodotus tells of the crucifixion of the Persian General Artayctes, who commanded forces in the 2nd Persian invasion of Greece under, Xerxes (a main character in the Book of Esther), 480-479 B.C.

The Romans used crucifixion frequently, however; indeed, Crassus, the Roman General who defeated Spartacus in the slave revolt of 73-71 B.C. crucified 6,000 captive slaves, lining the Via Appia with them, and the historian Tacitus tells us that during the siege of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 no fewer than 600,000 Jews fought the Romans and those captured were crucified, up to 500 per day. Crucifixion involved a prolonged, excruciatingly painful death by being nailed to a cross with tapered iron spikes, 7-9" long, generally taking three or more days to die.

Crucifixion is a brutal and extraordinarily painful way to die. Persian impalement was its antecedent, but the Romans practiced crucifixion from the 6th century B.C. through the 4th century A.D., the practice being abolished by the Emperor Constantine in A.D. 337, out of reverence for Christ. Crucifixion was intended to punish an offender in the most painful way possible and also to terrorize and dissuade others from committing similar crimes. The historian Tacitus records that in Rome the place of crucifixion was outside the Esquiline Gate where there were upright beams permanently fixed in the ground. The convicted criminal would typically carry the crossbeam, which could weigh over 100 pounds. At the place of execution he would be tied or nailed to it through the wrists and the crossbeam would be raised and affixed to the upright; his feet would then be nailed to the upright. Crosses today have been stylized in paintings, sculptures and other forms of art. Josephus, the Judean historian of the generation immediately after Christ, writes in his Siege of Jerusalem that "the soldiers out of rage and hatred nailed those they caught, one after one way, and another after another, to the crosses, by way of jest," suggesting that there was no standardized way to crucify a person: whatever worked at the time and place would do. In this lesson we will examine Jesus' crucifixion in detail, not just the physical act of crucifixion, but we will examine crucifixion from the much more important perspective of seeing it through Jesus' eyes.

Veil was torn

The fact that this curtain was destroyed symbolized Jesus Christ's finished work on the cross that removed the barrier between sinful mankind and holy God by becoming the ultimate High Priest and the ultimate sacrifice. Further, the fact that the curtain was torn "from top to bottom" symbolized that it was torn by God himself, not by effort of any man.

Dead in Christ came out their graves

Matthew adds:

Mt 27⁵⁰ And Jesus cried out again with a loud voice, and yielded up His spirit. ⁵¹ Then, behold, the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom; and the earth quaked, and the rocks were split, ⁵² and the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised; ⁵³ and coming out of the graves after His resurrection, they went into the holy city and appeared to many.

This is a fulfillment of Isaiah

Burial

Jesus Buried in Joseph's Tomb

⁵⁰ Now behold, there was a man named Joseph, a council member, a good and just man. ⁵¹ He had not consented to their decision and deed. He was from Arimathea, a city of the Jews, who himself was also waiting for the kingdom of God. ⁵² This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. ⁵³ Then he took it down, wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a tomb that was hewn out of the rock, where no one had ever lain before. ⁵⁴ That day was the Preparation, and the Sabbath drew near.

⁵⁵ And the women who had come with Him from Galilee followed after, and they observed the tomb and how His body was laid. ⁵⁶ Then they returned and prepared spices and fragrant oils. And they rested on the Sabbath according to the commandment.

Resurrection

He Is Risen

Luke 24 ¹ Now on the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they, and certain other women with them, came to the tomb bringing the spices which they had prepared. ² But they found the stone rolled away from the tomb. ³ Then they went in and did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. ⁴ And it happened, as they were greatly perplexed about this, that behold, two men stood by them in shining garments. ⁵ Then, as they were afraid and bowed their faces to the earth, they said to them, “Why do you seek the living among the dead? ⁶ He is not here, but is risen! Remember how He spoke to you when He was still in Galilee, ⁷ saying, ‘The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.’ ”

⁸ And they remembered His words. ⁹ Then they returned from the tomb and told all these things to the eleven and to all the rest. ¹⁰ It was Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them, who told these things to the apostles. ¹¹ And their words seemed to them like idle tales, and they did not believe them. ¹² But Peter arose and ran to the tomb; and stooping down, he saw the linen cloths ^[d]lying by themselves; and he departed, marveling to himself at what had happened.

Jesus resurrection is the single most important event in human history. In last week's lesson we followed Jesus through his death, burial and resurrection; this week we shall delve deeply into the resurrection, understanding it's full impact on both Jesus . . . and on us.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the single most important event in Scripture. Indeed, in addressing the church in Corinth Paul writes: “But if Christ is preached as raised from the dead, how can some among you say there is no resurrection of the dead? If there is no resurrection of the dead, then neither has Christ been raised. And if Christ has not been raised, then empty is our preaching; empty, too, your faith” (1 Corinthians 15: 12-14). Without the resurrection of Christ, our faith—no matter how authentic, how deeply felt, or how worthily expressed—is worthless.

The Gospel according to Mark gives only a brief account of Jesus' resurrection, but like the gospel itself, the repercussions of the resurrection—what it means to Mark's original readers and to us—is of enormous consequence. In Mark, after being told by an angel that Jesus has been raised, rather than telling the other disciples and the world, “[the women] said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid” (16: 8). And with that, the Gospel according to Mark abruptly ends. Mark's narrative erupts from the starting blocks, speeds forward at a lightening pace . . . and then slams into a wall! Mark's gospel simply stops at 16: 8.

What is going on here?

Mark's gospel ends at 16: 8, but a longer ending was appended later as an "epilogue," written in a very different vocabulary and style, sometime between the gospel's original composition and the end of the 2nd century. Although clearly a later addition to the gospel, the verses are mentioned by the Church Fathers: St. Ambrose, St. Augustine and Peter Chrysologus; they are included in St. Jerome's Latin Vulgate; and the Roman Catholic Church accepted the verses as canonical at the 4th session of the Council of Trent (1546) in the document "Decretum*de*Canonicis*Scripturis," ("Decree on the Canon of Scripture").

We will examine Jesus' resurrection from several perspectives:

- 1) the literal, bodily resurrection of Christ, as it is told in our four Gospels;
- 2) the central role that Jesus' resurrection plays in our salvation; and
- 3) the promise of resurrection that Jesus gave us.

 - Mt 27 ⁵¹ Then, behold, the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom; and the earth quaked, and the rocks were split, ⁵² and the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised; ⁵³ and coming out of the graves after His resurrection, they went into the holy city and appeared to many.
 - Is 26 ¹⁹ Your dead shall live; Together with my dead body they shall arise.
Awake and sing, you who dwell in dust;
For your dew is like the dew of herbs, And the earth shall cast out the dead.

Lent

The practice of observing Lent dates back to the early fourth century, where the term tessarakoste ("forty days," similar to pentekoste, "fifty days," or Pentecost) is first mentioned in the fifth canon of the Council of Nicea (A.D. 325). The term "lent" is an English word introduced during the Middle Ages to denote the forty days leading up to Easter. "Lent" originally meant "spring" (as in the German lenz and the Dutch lente), a period when the hours of daylight begin to lengthen.

Forty is a symbolic number of completion in the Bible: the flood lasts forty days and forty nights; Moses stays with God on Mt. Sinai for forty days and forty nights; the Israelite spies spend forty days exploring the Promised Land; the Israelites themselves spend forty years in the wilderness after the Exodus; Elijah spends forty days and forty nights traveling to Mt. Horeb; both David and Solomon reign for forty years, and so on. The forty-day period of Lent reflects the forty days that Jesus spent in the wilderness being tempted, prior to beginning his public ministry and the traditional forty hours he spent in the tomb, from 3:00 pm on Good Friday until 7:00 am on Easter morning.

In the Western Church Lent begins on Ash Wednesday and ends on Holy Saturday, a total of forty-six days. The six Sundays of Lent are not counted among the forty days, for each Sunday is considered a “mini-Easter,” celebrating Jesus’ resurrection. That leaves exactly forty days of fasting during the Lenten season.

In the Bible, God only commands his people to fast one time each year, on the Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur (Leviticus 16); it is a complete twenty-four hour fast: no food, no water. Fasting later becomes one of the three devotional pillars of Judaism: prayer, almsgiving and fasting. Jesus speaks of these practices in the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 6: 1-18).

Fasting continues as a devotional practice in the early church, especially during periods of preparation for rites such as baptism and receiving the Eucharist, or Holy Communion.

The three devotional pillars of Judaism—prayer, almsgiving and fasting—became dominant themes in the observance of Lent in the early church: prayer (discipline that focuses on God); almsgiving (discipline that focuses on others); and fasting (discipline that focuses on one’s self). All three serve as means to move into a closer and more intimate relationship with God.

The practice of observing Lent became universal in Christendom until the Reformation. Today the Roman Catholic Church, along with most Lutheran, Methodist, Anglican and Episcopalian churches continue to observe Lent with varying degrees of devotion, but many Protestant churches do not.

For those who do observe Lent, it is not an oppressive time of prayer and penance, nor a time of silly abstinence (“giving up” desserts for Lent), but a time set aside to reflect on who Christ is, on what he has done for us, on preparing for the joy of his resurrection and on living a life “worthy of the calling” we have received (Ephesians 4: 1).

Evidence for the Resurrection

The Bible teaches that Jesus is the Son of God, and that he was crucified and died for the forgiveness of sin, was resurrected from the dead, and lives today.

Over the centuries, skeptics have developed several objections to the resurrection of Jesus and have proposed several alternative theories about what actually happened to the body of Jesus Christ. Many believe that Jesus' resurrection is too difficult to prove beyond a reasonable doubt. Here is evidence to answer those doubts.

Skeptics' Theories

OBJECTION 1: Jesus Was a Mythological Figure

OBJECTION 2: Jesus Was Just a Man

OBJECTION 3: Jesus' Followers Made It All Up

OBJECTION 4: The Witnesses Were Unreliable

OBJECTION 5: The Resurrection Is Not Important

Answers

Evidence for Jesus Christ comes from many written documents from the first century, including 39 ancient sources in addition to the New Testament and early church leaders. An early statement of faith was probably written 8-20 years after the death of Jesus. The creed states that Jesus "was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures." (1 Corinthians 15:3-8) Most critical historians agree that documents take more than 20 years to become corrupted by mythological development.

Evidence supports that Jesus was all he claimed to be. For over three years, Jesus performed many miracles and signs such as controlling the weather, walking on water, giving sight to the blind, healing the lame and diseased, casting out demons, and raising people from the dead. These miracles convinced people of his day that Jesus was all he claimed to be. More than one hundred prophecies found in the Old Testament were fulfilled in Jesus Christ. Jesus predicted he would suffer, die, and rise again, months before his crucifixion. C.S. Lewis wrote in Mere Christianity that Jesus could not only be a good man. Because of Jesus' teachings, he could only be the Son of God, a liar, or a madman.

Evidence suggests that such a deception is highly unlikely. People will not knowingly die for a lie. The disciples were not fearless liars who wanted to fool the world. After the crucifixion, the disciples fled in fear for their lives. However, once they saw, touched, and spoke with the risen Lord, their lives were transformed. Furthermore, all of Jesus' followers doubted the resurrection until Jesus physically appeared to them; then they believed.

All four gospels agree that the first eyewitnesses to the proof of Jesus' resurrection were women. On the surface, this does not seem like a major proof for the resurrection. The significance of these eyewitnesses lies in understanding the role of woman in first century Judea. During the time of Jesus, a woman's testimony was considered worthless. In fact, a woman was not allowed to serve as a witness in court. If early believers wanted to fabricate the resurrection, they would have come up with witnesses who had political and religious influence in their community, not women who weren't even considered reliable witnesses. The greatest weapon against these early eyewitnesses would have been to produce the body of Jesus. The silence of those who opposed Christianity while Jesus' followers preached about the empty tomb only confirmed the fact that the tomb really was empty and its vacancy could not be explained otherwise.

The physical resurrection of Jesus Christ is important only if it is true. If Jesus did not rise from the grave, then the unbeliever is no worse or better off than before. However, if Jesus did rise from the dead, then it is reasonable to believe that everything Jesus claimed is true. If what Jesus claimed is true, then he died for the sins of the world and one receives eternal life by believing in Jesus.

Skeptics' Theories

Answers

THEORY 1: The Eyewitnesses Hallucinated

It is very unlikely, if not impossible for more than 500 people to have the same hallucination.

Those who saw Jesus after his death did not expect to see him and were surprised by his being there. Psychiatrists agree that hallucinations require expectation.

A psychiatric study performed in 1975 suggests that the content of the hallucination "reflects the efforts [of the one experiencing the hallucination] to master anxiety to fulfill various wishes and needs."

THEORY 2: Jesus Did Not Die on the Cross

If Jesus did not die, the Roman soldiers would have failed in their duties. Jesus had to survive massive blood loss, torture, and a stab wound in his side, and roll the stone away (which normally would take several men to accomplish).

Witnesses saw that when Jesus was stabbed in the side, water mixed with blood poured out, medically indicating that Jesus had already died.

According to studies of first century tombs, the tomb was likely sealed by a 2,000-pound rolling stone that fit in a sloping track, which would have been impossible for a sole individual to move from the inside of the tomb.

THEORY 3: Jesus' Body Was Stolen

The enemies of Jesus took several steps to prevent the disciples from stealing the body, such as sealing the stone and providing a guard of soldiers to watch the tomb. The soldiers at the tomb would not sleep for fear of death.

During the crucifixion, the disciples were cowards who had abandoned Jesus. One disciple denied that he knew Jesus to a young servant girl. The disciples did not understand his purposes, nor the importance of the resurrection. These men did not have the courage to pass by the guard at the tomb, silently move the extremely large stone, rob the grave, and leave undetected.

THEORY 4: Everyone Went to the Wrong Tomb

The women observed where Jesus' body was laid only a few days earlier.

After hearing the report from the women, Peter and John ran to the tomb without directions from the women. It is unlikely that Peter and John would make the same mistake as the women.

If Jesus' body were still in its correct tomb, his enemies could have produced the body immediately. Even if everyone went to the wrong tomb, Joseph of Arimathea, the owner of the tomb, would have corrected them.

On Pentecost, 50 days after the resurrection of Jesus, Peter addressed the crowd and specifically pointed out:

- Everyone there knew that Jesus of Nazareth was a man accredited by God by miracles and signs. (Acts 2:22)
- Everyone there knew that Jesus was crucified, and that his death was by God's set purpose. (Acts 2:23)
- Everyone there knew that David spoke about the resurrection of Jesus nearly 1000 years before. (Acts 2:24-31)
- Everyone there was a witness to the fact that Jesus was raised to life. (Acts 2:32)

The genre of the book of Acts is Narrative History with several Sermons. Luke, the author of the Gospel of Luke, was a doctor and Gentile. He wrote this book circa 60-62 A.D. It is Luke's sequel to the Gospel of Luke. It is titled "Acts" to emphasize that this book records the "Acts of the Apostles through the work of the Holy Spirit". The key personalities of Acts are Peter, Paul, John, James, Stephen, Barnabas, Timothy, Lydia, Silas, and Apollos.

Luke wrote the book of Acts (Acts of the Apostles) to record how believers were empowered by the Holy Spirit, worked to spread the Gospel of Christ, and are a model for the future church.

The book of Acts is also the history of the birth, the founding, and the spread of the Church from Jerusalem to Rome. It also records the transition of the Church from being almost exclusively a Jewish institution into becoming a Gentile and an international institution. Consequently, it records the transition of Christianity from a Jewish religion into an international faith. The Gospel of salvation is for all because Jesus Christ is Lord of all.

- Chapters 1-6:7, contains the events that surround Jerusalem and the infancy of the church. The contents of these passages surround the early evangelistic work in Jerusalem. It describes the events of Pentecost, and the amazingly bold sermon presented by the Apostle Peter to all the Jews who gathered for the Feast of Weeks. The result of this sermon was 3000 new believers surrendering to Jesus Christ.
- In chapters 6:8-9:31, there is a shift in the focus of evangelism to other areas. Although the ministry continued in Jerusalem, witnessing the Gospel also included those who were not completely Jewish (Samaritans and Proselytes). In 8:5, Philip traveled down to Samaria, "and began proclaiming Christ to them". Stephen is falsely accused and stoned to death while he preaches to the religious leaders. As Stephen was dying, he prayed to Jesus Christ, “Lord Jesus, receive my spirit!” (7:59). Stephen’s executioners laid their robes at the feet of a young persecutor named Saul, who would soon become known as “Paul the Apostle”. Saul spent his early days oppressing Christians and imprisoning them, until he had a life changing experience with Jesus Christ on the road to Damascus in chapter 9:3.

- From chapters 9:32-12:24, evangelism of the gospel among the gentiles begins. Peter received a revelation that the gospel was also to be shared among the Gentiles. Cornelius, a Roman Commander and some of his men become followers of Christ. Saul (the persecutor) has become a passionate follower of Christ and immediately begins preaching the gospel. We also find that the term “Christians” is first used in Antioch.
- In 12:25-16:5 the gospel is shared geographically to the Gentiles in a different region farther outside Jerusalem. Saul changes his Hebrew name to Paul, a Greek name, to reach the Gentiles. Paul and Barnabas begin their first and second missionary journeys to the Gentile world with both success and opposition. In chapter 15, the Jerusalem Council takes place to authorize spreading the gospel message to the Gentile nations.
- From 16:6-19:20, after they are forbidden to enter Asia, Paul receives a vision. He and Silas head farther West to Macedonia to preach the gospel message in the Gentile European regions. Lydia, a woman who sold purple fabric, became the first convert along with her entire household. Paul preached to the Greek philosophers on Mars Hill and next sets out on his third missionary journey. “The word of the Lord was growing mightily and prevailing” (19:20).
- The final chapters from 19:21-28, describe Paul’s travel to Jerusalem where he was arrested, and then his difficult travel to Rome to be put on trial. When he arrives, he is imprisoned in house arrest and the book of Acts abruptly ends without describing the events of his trial before Caesar.

 - d) Paul on trial before King Agrippa (25:13-26:32)
 3. Paul sails for Rome (27:1-28:10)
 - a) From Caesarea to Crete (27:1-12)
 - b) The storm (27:13-28:10)
 - 1) Caught in the “northeaster” (27:13-26)
 - 2) The shipwreck (27:27-44)
 - c) Ashore on Malta (28:1-10)
 4. Paul arrives in Rome (28:11-31)

Forty days after Jesus’ resurrection, he leaves Jerusalem and ascends back into heaven, leaving his Apostles with the command to be his witnesses “in Jerusalem, and Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth” (Acts 1:8). And that is precisely what happens. Ten days after Jesus’ ascension, the Holy Spirit descends from heaven and the Church begins moving out into the world, starting with Peter’s sermon on Pentecost at the temple mount in Jerusalem and moving with Paul through his first, second and third missionary journeys, each progressing farther and farther into the Roman world, ending with Paul in Rome awaiting trial before Caesar.

As Jesus is the driving force in Luke, the Holy Spirit is the driving force in Acts. The narrative begins with Jesus telling the Apostles to stay in Jerusalem and “wait for the gift my Father promised, which you have heard me speak about” (Acts 1:4). Ten days later, on the Jewish feast of Pentecost, the Holy Spirit arrives in Jerusalem and the job of being Jesus’ “witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth” begins in earnest. As the Apostles wait for the Holy Spirit, the believers number “about a hundred and twenty” (1:15). After Peter’s sermon on the temple mount at Pentecost, “three thousand were added to their number” (2:41). By the time Peter and John appear before the Sanhedrin, “the number of men grew to about five thousand” (4:4), and as the Apostles continue teaching at the temple mount, “more and more men and women believed in the Lord and were added to their number” (5:14). As the narrative takes us from Jerusalem to “Judea and Samaria and to the ends of the earth,” the numbers steadily increase.

Although Acts highlights the work of Peter and Paul in the Church’s growth, the Holy Spirit is the engine driving events. As you read through the narrative, notice the pervasive presence of the Holy Spirit. At Pentecost all of the Apostles “were filled with the Holy Spirit” (2:4); Peter tells his listeners on the temple mount to “repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins. And you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit” (2:38);

when Peter addresses the Sanhedrin, he is “filled with the Holy Spirit” (4:8); Peter tells Ananias that he has not lied to him, but “to the Holy Spirit” (5:3); on his second appearance before the Sanhedrin, Peter affirms that “we are witnesses of these things, and so is the Holy Spirit” (5:32); and the seven deacons chosen to assist the community are “known to be full of the Spirit” (6:3). The list goes on throughout the narrative. In a very real sense, The Acts of the Apostles could be more aptly dubbed The Acts of the Holy Spirit.

Roman Empire

As we learned in Lesson #1, the Gospel according to Mark was written sometime during the second half of the 1st century, probably in the mid to late 60s, a time of great turmoil in the Roman Empire. The back-story begins with Julia Agrippina (A.D. 15-59), great granddaughter of Caesar Augustus; adoptive granddaughter of the Emperor Tiberius; sister of the Emperor Caligula; wife of the Emperor Claudius; and mother of the Emperor Nero. Through incestuous marriages, imperial intrigue and duplicitous assassinations, Agrippina engineered her son Nero’s rise to power in A.D. 54. A brutal sociopath, Nero murdered his mother Agrippina in A.D. 59, set fire to Rome in A.D. 64 (blaming the fire on the Christians) and began the first state sponsored persecution of the Church in Rome, A.D. 64-68.

During Nero’s reign the great Jewish revolt of A.D. 66-73 began, a revolt that resulted in the death of 1.2 million Jews, the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, and the Jewish exile from Palestine that lasted nearly 2,000 years, until the founding of the modern state of Israel on May 14, 1948.

This is the lived experience of Christians in Rome, the world from which the Gospel according to Mark emerges; this is the world that is the backdrop for the Olivet Discourse recorded in Mark 13.

Birth of the Church (Acts 1-9)

Acts opens as our author once again steps into the story with his first-person voice saying: “In my former book, Theophilus, I wrote about all that Jesus began to do and to teach until the day he was taken up to heaven . . .” (Acts 1:1). If Luke tells what Jesus “began to do and to teach,” then Acts continues the story. In Luke, Jesus begins his ministry on earth; in Acts, the Holy Spirit continues it.

In Acts 1: 1 Luke writes: “In my former book, Theophilus, I wrote about all that Jesus began to do and to teach until the day he was taken up to heaven . . .” In Acts, Luke tells us the rest of the story. Ten days after Jesus’ ascension into heaven, the Holy Spirit enters Jerusalem in a very public manner, on the Jewish feast of Pentecost, A.D. 32. As Judaism was born as a covenant community under Law at the giving of the Law at Mt. Sinai, so is the Church born as a covenant community under Grace at the coming of the Holy Spirit to Jerusalem.

The Church grows VERY quickly, from about 120 people (Acts 1: 15), to 3,000 (Acts 2: 41), to 5,000 (Acts 4: 4). Built on “the apostles’ teaching,” “the fellowship,” “the breaking of bread,” and “prayer,” the early Church is on fire, fueled by the Holy Spirit. It is a thrilling story!

Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit illuminates the Scriptures to the believer

Jn 16 The Work of the Holy Spirit ⁵“But now I go away to Him who sent Me, and none of you asks Me, ‘Where are You going?’ ⁶But because I have said these things to you, sorrow has filled your heart. ⁷Nevertheless I tell you the truth. It is to your advantage that I go away; for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you; but if I depart, I will send Him to you. ⁸And when He has come, He will convict the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment: ⁹of sin, because they do not believe in Me; ¹⁰of righteousness, because I go to My Father and you see Me no more; ¹¹of judgment, because the ruler of this world is judged. ¹²“I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. ¹³However, when He, the Spirit of truth, has come, He will guide you into all truth; for He will not speak on His own authority, but whatever He hears He will speak; and He will tell you things to come. ¹⁴He will glorify Me, for He will take of what is Mine and declare it to you. ¹⁵ All things that the Father has are Mine. Therefore I said that He will take of Mine and declare it to you.

- Although Acts highlights the work of Peter and Paul in the early Church's growth, the Holy Spirit is the engine driving events.
 - In a very real sense, The Acts of the Apostles could be more aptly titled The Acts of the Holy Spirit.
- As we read through the narrative, notice the pervasive presence of the Holy Spirit.
 - At Pentecost all of the Apostles "were filled with the Holy Spirit" (2:4)
 - Peter tells his listeners on the temple mount to "repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins. And you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit" (2:38)
 - When Peter addresses the Sanhedrin, he is "filled with the Holy Spirit" (4:8)
 - Peter tells Ananias that he has not lied to him, but "to the Holy Spirit" (5:3)
 - On his second appearance before the Sanhedrin, Peter affirms that "we are witnesses of these things, and so is the Holy Spirit" (5:32)
 - The seven deacons chosen to assist the community are "known to be full of the Spirit" (6:3)
 - The list grows throughout the narrative.
- As we study through the entire Bible, Genesis through Revelation, each person of the Trinity plays a specific role in our story:
 - God the Father is the main character in the Hebrew Scriptures, Genesis through Malachi
 - Genesis introduces God the Father:
Ge 1 ¹ In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. ... 2 ⁷ And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living being.
 - God the Son is the main character in the Gospels, Matthew through John
 - Luke introduces God the Son:
Lk 1 ³⁵ And the angel answered and said to her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Highest will overshadow you; therefore, also, that Holy One who is to be born will be called the Son of God."
 - God the Holy Spirit is the main character in Acts through Revelation
 - Acts introduces God the Holy Spirit:
Act 2 ² And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. ³ Then there appeared to them divided tongues, as of fire, and one sat upon each of them. ⁴ And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

Pentecost (Acts 2)

- Pentecost – Holy Spirit is given to the church
- Before Jesus ascended to Heaven, He promised a helper, the Holy Spirit
 - Act 1 ⁴ And being assembled together with them, He commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the Promise of the Father, "which," He said, "you have heard from Me; ⁵ for John truly baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now."
- John the Baptist prophesied of the first Pentecost when Jesus would baptize with the Holy Spirit and with fire
 - Mt 3 ¹¹ I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but He who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire.
- Jesus confirmed this prophecy with the promise of the Holy Spirit to the disciples
 - Jn 14 ²⁶ But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all things that I said to you.

- Jesus showed Himself to these men after His death on the cross and His resurrection, giving convincing proofs that He was alive. Jesus told the disciples to wait in Jerusalem for the Father's gift of the Holy Spirit, from whom they would receive power to be His witnesses to the ends of the earth
 - Act 1 ⁴ And being assembled together with them, He commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the Promise of the Father, "which," He said, "you have heard from Me; ⁵ for John truly baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now." ⁶ Therefore, when they had come together, they asked Him, saying, "Lord, will You at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" ⁷ And He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons which the Father has put in His own authority. ⁸ But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth."
- After Jesus' ascension to heaven, the men returned to Jerusalem and joined together in prayer in an upper room. On the Day of Pentecost, just as promised, the sound of a violent wind filled the house and tongues of fire came to rest on each of them and all were filled with the Holy Spirit.
 - Act 2 ¹ When the Day of Pentecost had fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. ² And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. ³ Then there appeared to them divided tongues, as of fire, and one sat upon each of them. ⁴ And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.
 - In 20 ¹⁹ Then, the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled, for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst, and said to them, "Peace be with you." ²⁰ When He had said this, He showed them His hands and His side. Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord. ²¹ So Jesus said to them again, "Peace to you! As the Father has sent Me, I also send you." ²² And when He had said this, He breathed on them, and said to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit. ²³ If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you retain the sins of any, they are retained."
- They were given the power of communication, which Peter used to begin the ministry for which Jesus had prepared him. After the coming of the Holy Spirit, the disciples did not stay in the room basking in God's glory but burst out to tell the world. This was the beginning of the church as we know it.
 - Mt 28 ¹⁸ And Jesus came and spoke to them, saying, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. ¹⁹ Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, ²⁰ teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age." Amen.
- The celebration of Pentecost Sunday reminds us:
 - Of the reality that we all have the unifying Spirit that was poured out upon the first-century church in Acts
 - That we are co-heirs with Christ – to suffer with Him that we may also be glorified with Him
 - That the manifestation of the Spirit is given for the common good (1 Corinthians 12:7)
 - 1Co 12 ⁷ But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to each one for the profit of all: ⁸ for to one is given the word of wisdom through the Spirit, to another the word of knowledge through the same Spirit, ⁹ to another faith by the same Spirit, to another gifts of healings by ^[1]the same Spirit, ¹⁰ to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another discerning of spirits, to another different kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues. ¹¹ But one and the same Spirit works all these things, distributing to each one individually as He wills.
 - That we are all baptized by one Spirit into one body (1 Corinthians 12:13)
 - 1Co 12 ¹² For as the body is one and has many members, but all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ. ¹³ For by one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—whether Jews or Greeks, whether slaves or free—and have all been made to drink into one Spirit. ¹⁴ For in fact the body is not one member but many.
 - That the Spirit which raised Jesus from the dead lives inside believers (Romans 8:9-11).
 - Ro 8 ⁹ But you are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God dwells in you. Now if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is not His. ¹⁰ And if Christ is in you, the body is dead because of sin, but the Spirit is life because of righteousness. ¹¹ But if the Spirit of Him who raised

Jesus from the dead dwells in you, He who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through His Spirit who dwells in you.

- This gift of the Holy Spirit that was promised and given to all believers on the first Pentecost is promised for you and your children and for all who are far off whom the Lord our God will call (Acts 2:39).
 - Act 2 ³⁸ Then Peter said to them, “Repent, and let every one of you be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ³⁹ For the promise is to you and to your children, and to all who are afar off, as many as the Lord our God will call.”

Trinity revealed

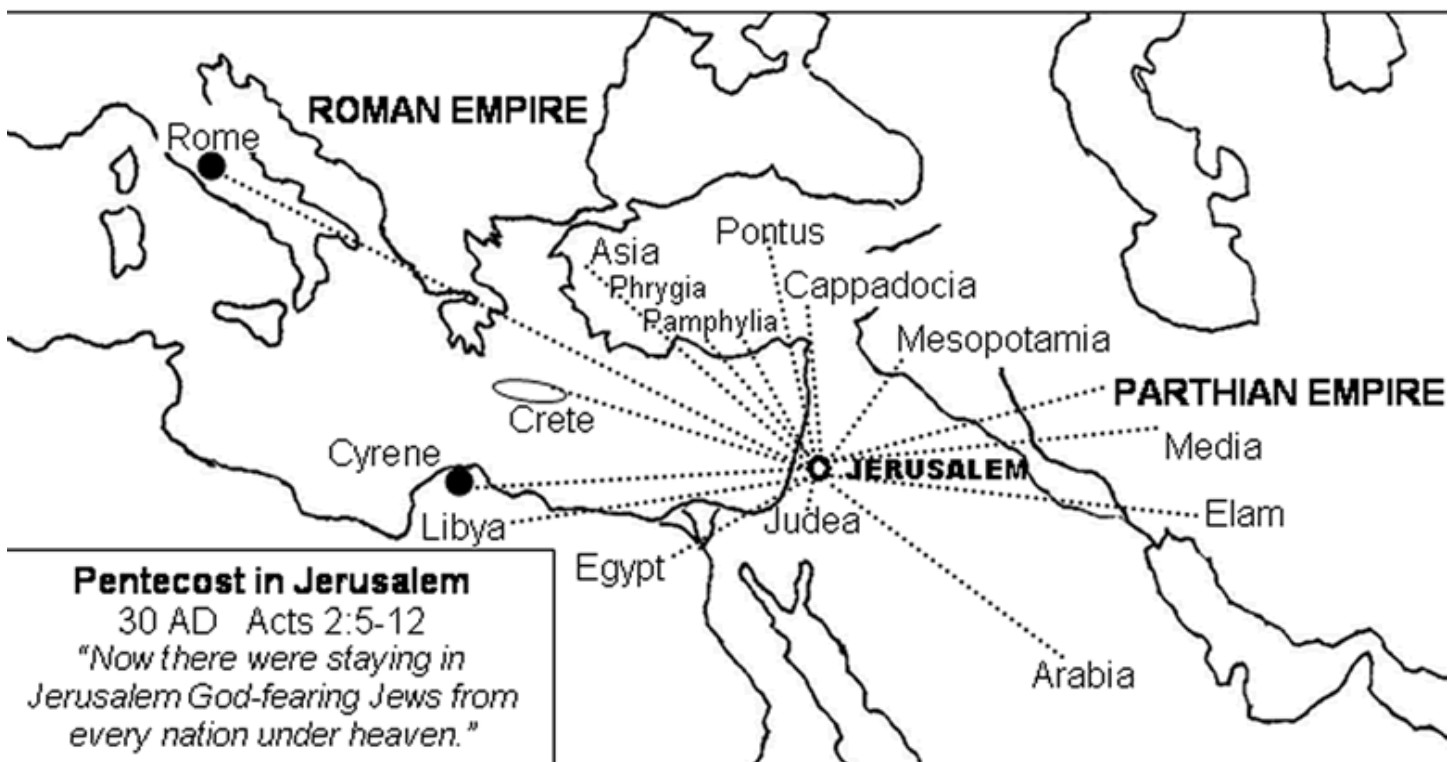

- John 14 ¹⁵ “If you love Me, keep My commandments. ¹⁶ And I will pray the Father, and He will give you another Helper, that He may abide with you forever— ¹⁷ the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and will be in you. ¹⁸ I will not leave you orphans; I will come to you. ⁹ “A little while longer and the world will see Me no more, but you will see Me. Because I live, you will live also. ²⁰ At that day you will know that I am in My Father, and you in Me, and I in you. ²¹ He who has My commandments and keeps them, it is he who loves Me. And he who loves Me will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him.”
 - Counselor – Paracletos – Alongside
 - Counselor, helper, advocate, friend
 - Another – Jesus was also the counselor
 - The Holy Spirit will be with you – he is another like me
 - Holy Spirit – Spirit of Jesus, Spirit of God
 - These verses refer to all 3 of the trinity – father, son and holy spirit
 - Jn 14:26 But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you all things and will remind you of everything I have said to you.
 - Jn 15:26 "When the Counselor comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who goes out from the Father, he will testify about me.

Speaking in Tongues

Acts 2 ⁴ And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. ⁵ And there were dwelling in Jerusalem Jews, devout men, from every nation under heaven. ⁶ And when this sound occurred, the multitude came together, and were confused, because everyone heard them speak in his own language. ⁷ Then they were all amazed and marveled, saying to one another, “Look, are not all these who speak Galileans?” ⁸ And how is it that we hear, each in our own language in which we were born? ⁹ Parthians and Medes and Elamites, those dwelling in Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, ¹⁰ Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya adjoining Cyrene, visitors from Rome, both Jews and proselytes, ¹¹ Cretans and Arabs—we hear them speaking in our own tongues the wonderful works of God.” ¹² So they were all amazed and perplexed, saying to one another, “Whatever could this mean?”

¹³ Others mocking said, “They are full of new wine.”

Paul addresses “speaking in tongues” in 1 Corinthians 14, where he insists that if a person speaks in tongues, someone should interpret what he or she is saying, since such utterance is unintelligible speech. That is not what is happening here, for those who hear the Apostles are amazed because they understand.

Jesus and the Apostles’ native language was Aramaic, but when the Apostles “speak in tongues” others hear them in their own native language (Greek, Latin, Egyptian, and so on). Amazing!

Peter's Pentecost Sermon

- Peter stands up and speaks to the crowd, a crowd now numbering in the thousands.
 - This is the man who only 50 days earlier was afraid of a servant girl in the courtyard of the high priest!
- Peter's "sermon" at Pentecost consists of 5 parts:
 1. Announcement that the age of fulfillment has arrived (14-21)

¹⁴ But Peter, standing up with the eleven, raised his voice and said to them, "Men of Judea and all who dwell in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and heed my words. ¹⁵ For these are not drunk, as you suppose, since it is only the third hour of the day. ¹⁶ But this is what was spoken by the prophet Joel:

Joel 2 – God's Spirit Poured Out
²⁸ "And it shall come to pass afterward That I will pour out My Spirit on all flesh;
Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, Your old men shall dream dreams,
Your young men shall see visions.
²⁹ And also on My menservants and on My maidservants I will pour out My Spirit in those days.
³⁰ "And I will show wonders in the heavens and in the earth: Blood and fire and pillars of smoke.
³¹ The sun shall be turned into darkness, And the moon into blood,
Before the coming of the great and awesome day of the LORD.
³² And it shall come to pass That whoever calls on the name of the LORD Shall be saved.
 2. The account of Jesus' death and resurrection (22-28)

²² "Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a Man attested by God to you by miracles, wonders, and signs which God did through Him in your midst, as you yourselves also know— ²³ Him, being delivered by the determined purpose and foreknowledge of God, you have taken by lawless hands, have crucified, and put to death; ²⁴ whom God raised up, having loosed the pains of death, because it was not possible that He should be held by it. ²⁵ For David says concerning Him:

Psalm 16 ⁸ I have set the LORD always before me; Because He is at my right hand I shall not be moved.
⁹ Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoices; My flesh also will rest in hope.
¹⁰ For You will not leave my soul in Sheol, Nor will You allow Your Holy One to see corruption.
¹¹ You will show me the path of life; In Your presence is fullness of joy;
At Your right hand are pleasures forevermore.
 3. The account of Jesus' exaltation (29-36)

²⁹ "Men and brethren, let me speak freely to you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. ³⁰ Therefore, being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that of the fruit of his body, according to the flesh, He would raise up the Christ to sit on his throne, ³¹ he, foreseeing this, spoke concerning the resurrection of the Christ, that His soul was not left in Hades, nor did His flesh see corruption. ³² This Jesus God has raised up, of which we are all witnesses. ³³ Therefore being exalted to the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, He poured out this which you now see and hear.
³⁴ "For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he says himself:

Psalm 110 ¹ The LORD said to my Lord, "Sit at My right hand, Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."

³⁶ "Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God has made this Jesus, whom you crucified, both Lord and Christ."
 4. A dramatic call to action (37-39)

³⁷ Now when they heard this, they were cut to the heart, and said to Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" ³⁸ Then Peter said to them, "Repent, and let every one of you be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ³⁹ For the promise is to you and to your children, and to all who are afar off, as many as the Lord our God will call.”

5. The result (40-41)

⁴⁰ And with many other words he testified and exhorted them, saying, “Be saved from this perverse generation.” ⁴¹ Then those who gladly received his word were baptized; and that day about three thousand souls were added to them.

- 3000

- If 3,000 were added to their number after Peter’s “Pentecost sermon,” there must have been considerably more than 3,000 who heard him speak! But I suspect there is more to it than that.
- After God raises up Moses to lead his people out of Egypt; after God slams Egypt with ten plagues; after God parts the Red Sea and saves his people; after God reaffirms his covenant with his people; and after God gives his two great gifts, the Law and the Tabernacle, the Israelites turn away from God and Moses to worship a golden calf!
- Exodus 32 marks the birth of Israel as a covenant community under Law, and 3,000 people die
 - While Moses was with the Lord, the people panicked and made a golden calf
 - Ex 32 ²⁵ Now when Moses saw that the people were unrestrained (for Aaron had not restrained them, to their shame among their enemies), ²⁶ then Moses stood in the entrance of the camp, and said, “Whoever is on the LORD’s side—come to me!” And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him. ²⁷ And he said to them, “Thus says the LORD God of Israel: ‘Let every man put his sword on his side, and go in and out from entrance to entrance throughout the camp, and let every man kill his brother, every man his companion, and every man his neighbor.’ ” ²⁸ So the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses. And about three thousand men of the people fell that day.
- Acts 2 marks the birth of the Church as a covenant community under Grace, and 3,000 are saved!
 - Act 2 ⁴¹ Then those who gladly received his word were baptized; and that day about three thousand souls were added to them.

- A description of what was happening in Jerusalem after Pentecost and a prescription of how life is to be lived under the new covenant of Grace

- Act 2 ⁴² And they continued steadfastly in the apostles’ doctrine and fellowship, in the breaking of bread, and in prayers. ⁴³ Then fear came upon every soul, and many wonders and signs were done through the apostles. ⁴⁴ Now all who believed were together, and had all things in common, ⁴⁵ and sold their possessions and goods, and divided them among all, as anyone had need. ⁴⁶ So continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, they ate their food with gladness and simplicity of heart, ⁴⁷ praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily those who were being saved.

Acts 5

- Blessings of Jesus
 - Acts 5:12-16 NKJV Continuing Power in the Church
12 And through the hands of the apostles many signs and wonders were done among the people. And they were all with one accord in Solomon's Porch. 13 Yet none of the rest dared join them, but the people esteemed them highly. 14 And believers were increasingly added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women, 15 so that they brought the sick out into the streets and laid them on beds and couches, that at least the shadow of Peter passing by might fall on some of them. 16 Also a multitude gathered from the surrounding cities to Jerusalem, bringing sick people and those who were tormented by unclean spirits, and they were all healed.
 - Acts 5:12 – The blessings/power of Jesus are always found through unity
- No Jesus allowed
 - People are afraid to share the good news
 - The government officials told the apostles not to preach Jesus
Acts 5:17 Then the high priest rose up, and all those who were with him (which is the sect of the Sadducees), and they were filled with indignation, 18 and laid their hands on the apostles and put them in the common prison. 19 But at night an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors and brought them out, and said, 20 "Go, stand in the temple and speak to the people all the words of this life." ... 27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council. And the high priest asked them, 28 saying, "Did we not strictly command you not to teach in this name? And look, you have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to bring this Man's blood on us!" 29 But Peter and the other apostles answered and said: "We ought to obey God rather than men. 30 The God of our fathers raised up Jesus whom you murdered by hanging on a tree. 31 Him God has exalted to His right hand to be Prince and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. 32 And we are His witnesses to these things, and so also is the Holy Spirit whom God has given to those who obey Him." 33 When they heard this, they were furious and plotted to kill them. . . . 41 So they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for His name. 42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they did not cease teaching and preaching Jesus as the Christ.
- Power of Jesus
 - There is great power when there is obedience
 - The enemy can do nothing unless Jesus allows it
 - Acts 5:19 But at night an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors and brought them out, and said, 20 "Go, stand in the temple and speak to the people all the words of this life."
 - Acts 5:39 but if it is of God, you cannot overthrow it—lest you even be found to fight against God."
- 4 Truths
 - Satan hates God
 - Satan uses people to accomplish his plans, but he's limited
 - The power of Jesus is much greater than Satan and those he influences, and he knows it
 - God also chooses people to keep sharing His good news!

Paul's conversion and missionary journeys (Acts 9-31)

Saul of Tarsus was one of the most brilliant young men of his generation. He was being groomed for leadership in the Jewish community, and he was destined for greatness. With the birth of the Church and its rapid growth, Saul saw the threat posed by this emerging, radical sect of Judaism, and he took it upon himself to lead a fierce persecution against it.

Confronted by the risen and glorified Christ on the Road to Damascus, Saul experiences a stunning conversion: from Saul of Tarsus, the great persecutor of the Church, he becomes St. Paul, the great Apostle to the Gentiles. With his conversion, Paul sets out to evangelize all of Asia Minor (modern day Turkey), a good chunk of Europe, and he 13 of the 27 books of the New Testament are attributed to him. No slouch, our Paul!

We continue our story of Paul as he begins his 2nd missionary journey, A.D. 50 – 52, leaving Syrian Antioch and making his way across Asia Minor, into Macedonia and finally arriving in Greece, where he spends 18 months at Corinth. Then it's on to his third missionary journey to Ephesus, A.D. 54 – 57, and finally he is caught in a thicket of legal problems that take him to Rome and an audience before Caesar himself. And what adventures he has along the way! Paul is beaten up, thrown in jail and run out of town on several occasions; he is shipwrecked on the island of Malta; he is bitten by a poisonous snake. And these are only a few of the highlights!

Damascus – Paul heads north to stop the message of the Gospel

He doesn't head south – that's the Negev desert

The 2 major trade routes merge at Damascus\

Ananias – Hebrew name Hananiah – means grace

The 1st thing that Paul saw when he opened his eyes was the grace of God.

Who was Paul

- Jew (Acts 22:3)
 - Hebrew, Israelite, Abraham's descendant (2Co 11:22)
- Pharisee (Acts 23:6)
- Educated (Acts 22:3)
 - Studied under Galatius (Acts 5) – Galatius was not only brilliant, but had common sense as well
 - Able to use the Hebrew roots (Old Testament) to teach the New Testament
- Roman citizen – Born in Tarsus (Acts 22:3)
- Zealous for God (Acts 22:3)
- Persecuted the church (Ph 3:4-6)
- From the tribe of Benjamin (Ph 3:4-6)
- Hebrew of Hebrews (Ph 3:4-6) – Colloquial expression
 - Unusual for a Roman citizen
- Compared to Moses
 - Paul was born in Asia Minor but grew up in Jerusalem
 - Moses was born a Hebrew but grew up in Pharaoh's household

Paul's Journeys

AD 46 Paul and Barnabas decide to make their 1st missionary journey from their home town in Syrian Antioch

1st Missionary Journey (Acts 13:4–14:26) – (Circa 46–47)

Barnabas and Paul first visited Barnabas's home region of Cyprus before sailing to the southern region of Asia Minor. When they reached Perga in Pamphylia, John Mark left the group and returned to Jerusalem. Making their way to Antioch (in Pisidia), Iconium, Lystra, and Derbe, Paul and Barnabas were driven out of each city by jealous Jewish religious leaders. Later they returned by the same route, strengthening the new churches as they went. From Attalia they set sail for their home in Antioch of Syria.

AD 46-48

- Learn about Antiochus Epiphanes IV in 1st and 2nd Maccabees and Daniel
- In Daniel 11:21-35, the prophet reveals the rise and rule of Antiochus IV Epiphanes, the Seleucid king who reigned from 175-164 B.C. Daniel's prediction involves the rise of Antiochus to power, the conflicts of Antiochus with Egypt (i.e., the king of the South), and his hostilities towards Israel.
- Attalia – Southern coast of Asia Minor (Turkey of today)
- Perga – Mark deserts them

2nd Missionary Journey (Acts 15:36–18:22) – (Circa 49–51)

Paul and Silas revisited the places in Asia Minor where Paul had preached on his first journey (cf. map), while Barnabas took John Mark and sailed to Cyprus. Paul and Silas visited Derbe, Lystra, and Antioch in Pisidia. From there Paul and Silas traveled to Troas, where Paul received a vision of a man from Macedonia calling to them. Crossing into Europe, they passed through several towns along the Egnatian Way and traveled to the cities of Athens and Corinth in southern Greece. Then, sailing to Ephesus and Caesarea, they visited the church in Jerusalem before returning to Antioch of Syria.

AD 50, Paul and Barnabas decide to revisit the churches that they had established on the 1st missionary journey

- Barnabas wants to take Mark again, but Paul says 'no way', and they go their separate ways
- Barnabas and Mark head for Cyprus, presumably retracing the 1st missionary journey
 - We never hear from Barnabas again
- Paul and Silas head north (in the opposite direction)

- Tarsus – Paul’s hometown
- Lystra – Timothy joins the group
- Pisidian Antioch
 - Something happens in Pisidian Antioch (Paul becomes ill?)
 - Instead of heading south, they head north over the big snowy mountains in the middle of Asia Minor into the territory of Galatia (to find medical care?)
 - From Galatia, they continue to move west to the west coast of Asia Minor to Troas (medical care in Galatia was not available or not adequate)
- Troas – Dr. Luke joins the group
 - Presumably, this is where Paul got the medical care that he needed, because we don’t hear anything more about his medical problem after this point
 - Luke joins the group in AD 50 and spends the next 18 years with Paul (until he is martyred in Rome)
 - Luke is Paul’s friend, travelling companion, personal physician, and biographer
- Naepolis – They cross the Aegean Sea to Macedonia (northern Greece of today)
- Philippi – Meet Lydia
- Thessalonica – Paul spends 3 weeks there and the church is formed in the flames of persecution
 - Within 3 weeks, people are dying in the name of Jesus
 - Paul has to get out of town quickly
- Berea – Little town nestled up against a mountainside
 - Things are really bad, and Silas and Timothy get Paul out of town quickly in the middle of the night
 - They take him (and Luke) to the coast and send him to Athens
 - Timothy and Silas stay in Berea and finish up the work in a very dangerous environment
- Athens

- One of the most glorious cities of its day
- Paul gives a short, but magnificent talk at the Areopagus – Paul at his best
 - Paul quotes from memory a 6th century BC Creten poet
- Had very little success in Athens and moves on
- Corinth
 - Paul continues 48 miles west to Cornith
 - Arrived in Corinth around mid AD50

3rd Missionary Journey (Acts 18:22–21:17) – (Circa 52–57)

Paul's third missionary journey traversed much the same ground as his second. Passing through Galatia and Phrygia, he proceeded directly to the great port city of Ephesus. After three years of preaching and teaching there, Paul traveled again through Macedonia and Achaia, strengthening the believers, and then finished with a visit to Jerusalem.

Paul's Epistles/Letters

Epistle – Written to a group of people and meant to be read publicly to everyone (Romans, Corinthians, etc)

Letter – Written to an individual (Timothy, Titus, etc)

Themes – Ground everything that you say and do in scripture

Chronological order of writing:

56 A.D. 1st and 2nd Corinthians

56-57 A.D. Romans – Most important of the epistles

Paul often inverts Jesus Christ as Christ Jesus

- Christ is a title that means the ‘anointed one’ – to raise status for use by God
- Anoint – Take an ordinary thing and elevate its status
 - Hebrew word is meshiahh – Root of the word Messiah, meaning ‘the anointed one’
 - When you anoint someone or something, you set it apart for use by God
- You can anoint people (ex. Saul & David) or things (All the items in the holy place of the Tabernacle)
- This is a more formal address than the other Apostles – like saluting and saying ‘sir’
 - Suggests that he had a different relationship with Christ, which he did

Romans (Ro)

Romans Overview

Although not the first of Paul's epistles, his Epistle to the Church in Rome (or simply, Romans) takes the place of first importance. Written from Ephesus in A.D. 57, Paul crafts a formal argument in Romans, employing the structure of a "scholastic diatribe," stating and defending his theses that we are "saved by grace through faith." Romans is a brilliant work, and it is foundational for understanding the all that Paul has written.

The book of Romans is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). The Apostle Paul wrote it roughly about 56-57 A.D. The key personalities in the book of Romans are the Apostle Paul, and Phoebe who delivered this letter. Paul wrote the letter to the believers in Rome, hence the name "Romans". He wrote it to give them a concrete theological foundation on which to construct their faith and to live for and serve God effectively.

The book of Romans reveals the answers to important questions and supplies information on many topics, such as salvation, the sovereignty of God, judgment, spiritual growth, and the righteousness of God. Many scholars also describe it as The Gospel and the Righteousness of God, which can be received only by faith in the atoning death of Jesus Christ.

The focus of the "righteousness of God" is foundational throughout the book of Romans. In fact, it is threaded through every section of the basic outline of this epistle. Paul reiterates this so that the reader may realize that salvation cannot be attained through man's good deeds but only through faith in God's righteousness: "I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes... For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed, a righteousness that is by faith" (1:16-17). You cannot repair your relationship with God through your good deeds; this is only accomplished through faith in the perfect and finished work of Jesus Christ.

- In chapters 1-8, Paul explains the fundamentals and foundations of the Christian faith. This is the Gospel Message, which all believers are commanded to share with the entire world. Some of the most popular and precious memorization passages about Salvation can be found in the first several chapters of Romans, “For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord” (6:23). Paul teaches about the sinful nature of all men in the eyes of God, justification by faith in Jesus Christ, freedom from sin, and victory in Christ.
 - Chapter 1 – Paul addresses the unrighteous heathen – Creation around them condemns the unrighteous
 - Ch 2 – Paul deals with the self-righteous hypocrite – Conscience within them condemns the self-righteous
 - Ch 3 – Paul speaks to the super-righteous Hebrew – The commandments given to them condemn the super-righteous
- Chapters 9-11, Paul explains God’s sovereignty over salvation. He also spells out how an individual may come into a right relationship with God: “if you confess with your mouth Jesus as Lord, and believe in your heart that God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved; for with the heart a person believes, resulting in righteousness, and with the mouth he confesses, resulting in salvation.” (10:13). Place your faith and trust only in what Jesus Christ has already done on the cross and make Him the Master of your life and trust He raised Himself from the grave conquering death. His promise is “You will be saved”.
- In chapters 12-16, Paul gives instructions for all Christians about how to live a holy lifestyle. In the beginning of chapter 12 he writes, “Present your bodies a living and holy sacrifice”, and “Do not be conformed to this world” (vss. 1-2). Much of the errors and trials that Paul dealt with in his “Epistles”, were because the believers had conformed their lives to the world and not to God.

This epistle lays the foundation for all the other epistles

- This book is a lynchpin for the New Testament
- It connects everything, it fills in all the blanks, it connects all the dots
- To understand this epistle is to understand the whole of the scripture

Rome

- Who started the church in Rome
 - Paul didn’t arrive in Rome until AD 60
 - Peter arrives in Rome sometime between 62-68 AD
 - The Holy Spirit
 - Acts 2: 1 When the day of Pentecost came, they were all together in one place. 2 Suddenly a sound like the blowing of a violent wind came from heaven and filled the whole house where they were sitting. 3 They saw what seemed to be tongues of fire that separated and came to rest on each of them. 4 All of them were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit enabled them. 5 Now there were staying in Jerusalem God-fearing Jews from every nation under heaven. ... [including] visitors from Rome 11 (both Jews and converts to Judaism);
 - On the day of Pentecost AD32, in Jerusalem, there were people visiting from Rome
- Paul knows Priscilla and Aquila from their time working together in Corinth
 - The church in Rome meets at the house of Priscilla and Aquila

Structure of Romans

Formal argument in the form of a scholastic diatribe

- I. Introduction (Ro 1:1-15)
- II. Thesis (Ro 1:16-17)
- III. Demonstration by Antithesis (Ro 1:18-3:20)
- IV. Thesis Restated (Ro 3:30-31)
- V. Demonstration of the Thesis by Example (Ro 4:1-25)

- VI. Exposition of the Thesis (Ro 5:1-21)
- VII. Objections to the Thesis (Ro 6:1-11:36)
- VIII. Practical Implications of the Thesis (Ro 12:1-15:13)
- IX. Conclusion (Ro 15:14-16:27)

I. Introduction (Ro 1:1-15)

Paul has never been to Rome – he is introducing himself to these people for the first time

- In a scroll, you have to introduce yourself first so the people know who the letter is from
 - You can't scroll down to the bottom to see – it needs to be at the top

Why Romans can change your life (Ro 1:1-7)

The reason why Romans needs to be both studied and taught, is the same reason why the Holy Spirit had Paul write it in the first place. "It's because of the profound impact this book has had on the lives of millions of people over the last two thousand years." Many a saint of old came to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ because of this Epistle, and countless more will be saved yet future.

- Martin Luther, of the Book of Romans, said; "It is the chief part of the New Testament and the perfect gospel . . . the absolute epitome of the gospel."
- G. Campbell Morgan said that it was; "The most pessimistic page of literature upon which your eyes ever rested . . . the most optimistic poem to which your ears ever listened."
- Charles Spurgeon said: "The Epistle of Romans is one of the greatest of Paul's writings, and is rather a treatise than a letter."
- Another said: "When any one understands this Epistle, he has a passage opened to him to the understanding of the whole of scripture."

It's from somebody not just anybody (Verse 1)

Ro 1:1 Paul, a servant of Christ Jesus, called to be an apostle and set apart for the gospel of God

- Paul introduces himself first as a slave then an apostle because as a slave he's somebody sent out to reach everybody with the gospel.
- In other words, not just anybody can change my life. It will come from that somebody who's surrendered to God, and sent out by God.

Doúlos – Slave / Servant (Ro 1:1)

Ro 1:9 God, whom I serve with my whole heart in preaching the gospel of his Son,

1st Paul is a servant/slave, 2nd he is an apostle

- Doúlos – Someone who is utterly, totally, completely, with every fiber of their being, devoted to another person
 - doúlos (a masculine noun of uncertain derivation) – Someone who belongs to another; a bond-slave, without any ownership rights of their own
- A bond-slave became a slave of their own volition – it is by their own choice because of their love of their master
 - Doesn't carry the pejorative sense of a slave that we have in English
 - Ex 21:2 "If you buy a Hebrew servant, he is to serve you for six years. But in the seventh year, he shall go free, without paying anything. 3 If he comes alone, he is to go free alone; but if he has a wife when he comes, she is to go with him. 4 If his master gives him a wife and she bears him sons or daughters, the woman and her children shall belong to her master, and only the man shall go free. 5 "But if the servant declares, 'I love my master and my wife and children and do not want to go free,' 6 then his master must take him before the judges. He shall take him to the door or the doorpost and pierce his ear with an awl. Then he will be his servant for life.
 - This is who Paul is to Christ – and he introduces himself first as a slave
- To be a slave means that you have no rights of your own

- Paul is not his own, he was bought at a high price – with the blood of Christ – He is owned by Christ
 - First and foremost, Paul is a bond slave – he is both set apart to and sent out for the gospel of God
- Ironically, doúlos ("bond-slave") is used with the highest dignity in the NT
 - Namely, of believers who willingly live under Christ's authority as His devoted followers.
 - Before God can set us apart, and send us out to further the Gospel, we must first, because of our love for Him, become a slave for life.
- Why does Paul identify himself 1st as a bond slave before identifying himself as an apostle
 - One would think that being an apostle would carry more weight than being a slave. However, that is not how it works in God's economy.
 - Paul knew that the source of greatness came from being a bond slave, not from being an apostle
 - One must first become a bond slave of his own volition before he can be sent out for the great commission
 - You can't be an apostle unless you first become a bond slave

Called

- Word order is not correct – should be Paul, a servant of Christ Jesus, a called apostle
 - He's not called to be an Apostle, he's a called Apostle
 - A call implies a response
 - Paul had no intention of being an apostle – quite the opposite, he was a persecutor of the church
- Called appears over and over in the introduction
 - Paul was called
 - 1 Paul, a servant of Christ Jesus, called to be an apostle and set apart for the gospel of God
 - Gentiles were called
 - 5 ... we received grace and apostleship to call people from among all the Gentiles
 - You, Gentiles, are called to belong to Jesus Christ
 - 6 And you also are among those who are called to belong to Jesus Christ
 - Most of the church in Rome were Gentiles
 - Called to be saints
 - 7 To all in Rome who are loved by God and called to be saints

Set apart

- Paul has been called and set apart to the gospel – the good news of the person and work of Christ, who He is and what He did
- The gospel will be the focus of all of his thought, all of his energy, all of the rest of his life

It's good news, not just good advice (Ro 1:2)

Rom 1:2 the gospel he promised beforehand through his prophets in the Holy Scriptures

- Paul identifies his calling and purpose as the good news
 - When Paul went to a new town, he went into the Synagogue and preached the good news of the gospel from the OT, namely from the prophets
 - It was preached by the prophets, but the good news is here now – we are free now!
- Good advice can't change my life, it's the Good News that can.
 - It's the truth of the Good News of Salvation in Christ that sets me free.

Why is it good news? We are free now!

The good news of the gospel – why is it good news? We are free now!

- Before we accepted Christ, we were not free
- In order for you to be free, you have to be a slave
 - In order to preach the good news, the gospel, you have to become a slave
 - You have to be a slave to preach the good news which sets you free

- Jon Courson in his commentary said it this way; "The Greek word translated "gospel" is ...[where] we get our word 'evangelist.' In the Septuagint, this was the word used when the people of Israel were released from their Babylonian captivity. It meant, 'You can go home. You're free. Good news!' Truly, the gospel is Good News—not just good advice. A lot of preachers, authors, and speakers try to make Christianity a bunch of good advice. Most best-selling Christian books today are full of good advice about child-rearing, financial planning, or marriage counseling. ...Paul wasn't separated unto the good advice of Christian living. He was separated to the Good News of God."

Not just good advice – this changes your life

- Good advice would advise that you be free – it is just information
- The gospel (good news) says that you are already free if you accept the person and work of Christ
- The gospel has powerful ramifications

It's a Person, not just a principle (Ro 1:3-4)

Principles are just that, principles. They may help me to live my life, but it's only the Person of Jesus Christ Who can change my life.

- 25 years ago on that road to Damascus Paul met a Person, not a principle or principle.
 - As one so aptly worded it; "Paul had an encounter, not with a theological principle or a philosophical ideal, but with the risen Lord."

Ro 1:3 as to his human nature was a descendant of David

Ro 1:4 who through the Spirit of holiness was declared with power to be the Son of God by his resurrection from the dead

- The Holy Spirit gives the Paul the perfect words to introduce the perfect person of Jesus Christ, the son of God
 - From David He's the Son of Man
 - By his resurrection the Son of God.
- The "Person" of Jesus Christ was fully man, as a descendant of David, in his birth, and fully God in the resurrection after His death.
 - Charles Spurgeon said "As to His flesh, He was of the seed of David, but His higher nature was by His resurrection manifested most powerfully to be divine. Had He not risen He could not have been God; His resurrection by His own power has made His Godhead plain."

Human nature of Christ (Ro 1:3)

Ro 1:3 as to his human nature was a descendant of David

- Human nature – Very important for him to be a substitution for us – our kinsman redeemer
- Davidic Covenant
 - 1Ch 17:10 ... 'I declare to you that the LORD will build a house for you: 11 When your days are over and you go to be with your fathers, I will raise up your offspring to succeed you, one of your own sons, and I will establish his kingdom. 12 He is the one who will build a house for me, and I will establish his throne forever. 13 I will be his father, and he will be my son. I will never take my love away from him, as I took it away from your predecessor. 14 I will set him over my house and my kingdom forever; his throne will be established forever.'
 - Clearly not Solomon
 - His policies plant the seeds of its destruction – Taxation, slavery
 - His son, Rehoboam, triggers a civil war and the nation is divided
 - Must be referring to the Messiah
 - 1Ch 17 – The Messiah will be the son of David
 - Mt 1:1 Genealogy of Jesus
 - Matthew's genealogy accomplishes 4 things:
 - It places Jesus as a direct descendent of Abraham and David, positioning him to fulfill both the Abrahamic and Davidic covenants.

- It establishes Jesus' legal claim to the throne of Israel by positioning him as a direct descendent of David, through the line of the kings.
- It links the entire linear narrative of the Hebrew Scriptures to the birth of Jesus, making the birth of Jesus the culminating event in Jewish history.
- It initiates the final step in God's plan of redemption, the introduction of Jesus into the world as Redeemer, the one who will "save his people from their sins" (1:21).
- Abraham → David (Solomon) → Joseph (Mt 1:1)
 - Matthew is writing to the Jews, who want to know how Jesus is related to Abraham (the father of the Jews)
 - In one deft movement Matthew not only links the entire linear narrative of the Hebrew Scriptures to the birth of Jesus, but he also makes the birth of Jesus the culminating event in Jewish history.

Divine nature of Christ (Ro 1:4)

Ro 1:4 who through the Spirit of holiness was declared with power to be the Son of God by his resurrection from the dead

- Divine nature – the son of God
- Demonstrated by his resurrection
 - Many people were brought back from the dead – resuscitated, not resurrected
 - Resurrection different – Same DNA, different look
 - Acorn vs oak tree
 - 1Co 15: The Resurrection Body

35 But someone may ask, "How are the dead raised? With what kind of body will they come?" 36 How foolish! What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. 37 When you sow, you do not plant the body that will be, but just a seed, perhaps of wheat or of something else. 38 But God gives it a body as he has determined, and to each kind of seed he gives its own body. 39 All flesh is not the same: Men have one kind of flesh, animals have another, birds another and fish another. 40 There are also heavenly bodies and there are earthly bodies; but the splendor of the heavenly bodies is one kind, and the splendor of the earthly bodies is another. 41 The sun has one kind of splendor, the moon another and the stars another; and star differs from star in splendor.

42 So will it be with the resurrection of the dead. The body that is sown is perishable, it is raised imperishable; 43 it is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; 44 it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body.

If there is a natural body, there is also a spiritual body. 45 So it is written: "The first man Adam became a living being"; the last Adam, a life-giving spirit. 46 The spiritual did not come first, but the natural, and after that the spiritual. 47 The first man was of the dust of the earth, the second man from heaven. 48 As was the earthly man, so are those who are of the earth; and as is the man from heaven, so also are those who are of heaven. 49 And just as we have borne the likeness of the earthly man, so shall we bear the likeness of the man from heaven.

- Charles Spurgeon "As to His flesh, He was of the seed of David, but His higher nature was by His resurrection manifested most powerfully to be divine. Had He not risen He could not have been God; His resurrection by His own power has made His Godhead plain."

It's a reality not just a theology (Ro 1:5)

Ro 1:5 Through him and for his name's sake, we received grace and apostleship to call people from among all the Gentiles to the obedience that comes from faith.

- Paul is making a very powerful distinction between the reality of Christianity, and the morality of a system of teaching theoretically.
 - He does this by saying it's through Jesus Christ that we receive the grace to, and are called to, the obedience that comes from faith.

Grace

- Why do we receive grace? For His sake
 - When the Lord protected Jerusalem and Hezekiah from Assyria, he said:
2Ki 19:34 I will defend this city and save it, for my sake and for the sake of David my servant."
- We receive grace for Him and by Him
 - Grace comes via Jesus – the conduit through which the grace passed
- Grace is what makes Christianity real and not just another theory.
 - The centrality of grace is the reality of the Good News.
 - Grace is received through Jesus Christ
 - Gayle Erwin once said; "Grace by its very nature is indefinable."
 - Ephesians 2:8-9 NKJV For by grace you have been saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, (9) not of works, lest anyone should boast.
- The entirety of the book of Romans is about grace
 - One has very poignantly outlined the book of Romans, and in so doing revealed how beautifully God's Grace is just all over the place.
 - Ch. 1-4: Coming under grace
 - Ch. 5-8: Living under grace
 - Ch. 9-11: The overflow of grace
 - Ch. 12-16: The church changed by grace
- How does grace change my Christian life and make it real.
 - With grace in its proper place, I can now understand how it's possible for a life of obedience to become a reality and not just a theory.
 - With grace at home-base, my obedience to God is now based on what I don't deserve, and not on what my disobedience does deserve.
 - Grace – Here's how grace works; "it's infinitely more difficult to sin against God, when I have been the undeserving recipient of grace from God."
 - Works – Here's how "works," works; "it's infinitely more difficult living in obedience to God, when I'm the recipient of what I deserve from God."
 - With "works" when I mess up, I deserve the hammer to come down, conversely with "grace" when I mess up, more grace comes down.
 - Romans 5:20 NKJV Moreover the law entered that the offense might abound. But where sin abounded, grace abounded much more,
 - This isn't theory, it's reality. God's grace doesn't just change me, it ruins me, even spoils me, making it difficult for me to hurt God's heart.

Apostleship

We received apostleship

- We have been sent to call people from among the Gentiles
- Great Commission – Mt 28:19 Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, 20 and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you.

It's a relationship not just a religion (Ro 1:6)

Ro 1:6 And you also are among those who are called to belong to Jesus Christ.

He specifically personalizes it by telling them that it is they who are also among those called to belong to Jesus Christ.

- In other words, this is a relationship not a religion.
 - This is you belonging to Him because of what He has already done for you.
 - Religion is what man does for God
 - Christianity is a relationship because of what God has already done for man
 - Grace-based relationship with Jesus Christ
 - Doesn't depend upon what I do or don't do
 - It's based on what He did do.
 - It changes your life when you no longer have to earn God's blessing
 - This is portrayed in the book of Numbers where Balaam and Balak who couldn't curse the Israelites.
 - Sadly, when the Israelites disobeyed God and committed sexual sin against God, they brought the curse of God upon themselves.
- When I'm saved by the grace of God, because of the love from God, I will be more likely to be obedient to God.
 - John 14:21 NIV Whoever has my commands and obeys them, he is the one who loves me. He who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I too will love him and show myself to him."

It's for Gentiles, not just Jews (Ro 1:7)

Ro 1:7 To all in Rome who are loved by God and called to be saints: Grace and peace to you from God our Father and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Saints

You're either a saint or you ain't

- saint – small 's' – One who is set apart to God
 - Anyone called out of the world and into the family of God and responds 'yes'
 - Not a perfect, pious person
- Saint – big 'S' – Heroic faith by a saint, and the church of God recognizes that heroism with a capital 'S'

Grace and Peace to you

Standard introduction from Paul in his letters/epistles

- Syntax is wrong – should say 'Grace to you and peace'
 - Grace and peace indicates equal importance
 - Grace to you and peace – You cannot have peace without first having grace
- Notice it's grace and peace and not peace and grace.
 - Why? You can't know the peace of God unless you first know the grace of God.
- It's important to understand that Paul is greeting them in the Greek way and not just the Jewish way.
 - To the Jews, it's always shalom.
 - To the Greeks it's "Charis" which means grace.
 - Why does Paul combine the Gentile and Jewish greeting?
 - "all in Rome who are loved by God and called to be saints," are both Jews and Gentiles alike.
 - Think about the enormity of this; if the Gospel was just to the Jews, and not the Gentiles, then it really wouldn't be the "Good News." What makes the Good News, the Good News is that it's to all, Jew and Gentile alike. We are all loved by God and called to be saints

How to love one another (Ro 1:8-15)

How can someone identify a spiritually mature and godly believer? By their love one for another

- John 13:35 By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another."
- In the text of Romans chapter one, it is abundantly clear that the Apostle Paul truly loved these people.
 - There are many who see the Apostle Paul as a hard driving evangelist with unflinching fearlessness.
 - While that may have certainly been who and how Paul was, I believe that he was also a very loving man, in that he truly loved people.
 - With that as the backdrop, he becomes an example to us, in how he, by the Holy Spirit, teaches us what loving one another looks like

"The churches of the land are sprinkled all over with bald-headed old sinners whose hair has been worn off by the constant friction of countless sermons that have been aimed at them and glanced off and hit the man in the pew behind." (Henry Ward Beecher 1813-1887)

This should be a template of sorts that we can place over our Christian lives to see how our lives really fit.

- In verses 1-7, we saw how the Book of Romans could change our lives
- In verses 8-15 can show us the love in our lives.

Paul is about to rise from the pages of scripture and show us how it is that we can be more loving towards one another. This letter to the Romans is really a love letter.

By being faithful to one another (Ro 1:8)

Ro 1:8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for all of you, because your faith is being reported all over the world.

- This verse would seem to indicate that word had spread all over the known world about the faith of these believers there in Rome. This is remarkable for a number of reasons:
 - Of all places, Rome was the most difficult to remain faithful
 - F. F. Bruce "The Christians of Rome were unpopular - reputed to be 'enemies of the human race' and credited with such vices as incest and cannibalism. In large numbers, then, they became the victims of the imperial malevolence - and it is this persecution of Christians under Nero that traditionally forms the setting for Paul's martyrdom."
 - We have no record in the scriptures of anyone planting this church there in Rome.
 - The thought amongst Bible commentators is that these Romans came to faith while in Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost.
 - It difficult to be of the faith in Rome, there were no Apostles there for them in Rome.
 - Perhaps it's for this reason that Paul was so eager to go to Rome, and furthermore, why it is that the Holy Spirit had him write to Rome.
 - The believers in Rome who were the recipients of this letter from Paul, had yet to meet Paul.
 - The Apostle Paul's letter to the Romans was written when he was in Corinth, during what is known as his second missionary journey. This will explain why the first three chapters Paul addresses some very serious matters as it relates to the immorality in that church.
 - When we are faithful in the faith, it will be celebrated throughout the community of faith.
 - Contrast this with what happens to the community of faith when we're unfaithful and falter or fall in our faith:
 - The message I communicate when I'm faithful is; "I love you."
 - Conversely, the message I communicate when unfaithful is; "I love self."

Adam Clarke "... [Their faith was spoken of and] ...celebrated, throughout the whole world - in every place where the Christian religion is professed, through all parts of the Roman dominions; for in this sense we should understand the words, the whole world.

By praying for one another (Ro 1:9-10)

Ro 1:9 God, whom I serve with my whole heart in preaching the gospel of his Son, is my witness how constantly I remember you 10 in my prayers at all times; and I pray that now at last by God's will the way may be opened for me to come to you.

- This door was opened, and his prayers are answered, when, as a prisoner appealing to Caesar, he goes to Rome.
 - Charles Spurgeon "Little did he dream that his prayers were to be answered by his being conveyed in chains to the great city. Very mysterious are the Lords' ways of granting our requests.
- Have you ever noticed you only pray for people you love and care about? Have you ever wondered why?
 - It's virtually impossible to stay angry at, or dislike someone for whom you're praying for.
 - You may not pray for someone for whom you don't love, however, the more you pray for someone you don't love, the more you'll love.
 - Paul loved the Romans so much, he prayed for them so much.
 - It's because Paul loved them much, that he prayed for them much, and the more he prayed for them, the more love he had for them.
 - The more we pray for someone the more we love them - then, again the more we will pray for them.
 - If we don't pray for someone because we don't love them, perhaps we will start loving them, if we will actually start praying for them.

By giving to one another (Ro 1:11)

Ro 1:11 I long to see you so that I may impart to you some spiritual gift to make you strong

- Notice how Paul writes using verbs that express such desire & emotion – He longs to see them so he can give to them
 - In our day, we would say; "I can't wait to see you! I'm so excited about the gift I have for you. It's a spiritual gift, and you need this gift."
- Just as I pray for those I love, so too will I give to those I love.
 - The one to whom I give the most is the one for whom I love the most.
 - The one to whom I give the least is the one for whom I love the least.
 - I believe this is why Paul couldn't wait to see them. He loved them, and it was because of this love for them that he wanted to give to them.
- If I'm having a problem loving another, I need to first try giving to another.
 - Once I start giving to them, I'll start having more love for them.
 - One might argue that I don't give to them, or even pray for them, because I don't feel like it.
 - However, the feeling will follow the giving.
 - The fact of the matter is; that's how God wired us. He made us in such a way that our feelings will follow the act of giving, and even praying.
 - When you consider what Jesus said in Matthew's gospel, you realize that it's an astonishing revelation about how our feelings follow giving.
 - Matthew 6:21 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

By encouraging one another (Ro 1:12)

Ro 1:12 that is, that you and I may be mutually encouraged by each other's faith.

- The "feelings" were mutual. Not only did Paul love them, they loved Paul. Therefore they would encourage each other
 - Once again, we see this common denominator in how it is that we will only encourage those for whom we love and care about.

- If you don't believe that, let alone do that, then just think about the people who you don't love or care about. Frankly, you don't even like them.
 - I would suggest to you that you are probably discouraging them, and you may even be very condescending in how you talk to them.
 - When we, like Paul, encourage others in the faith, we're making an investment, in that we have a vested interest in them doing well.
- The litmus test to know if you are doing this will be in how you respond and react to others when something good or bad happens to them.
 - Romans 12:15 KJV Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.
 - The truth of the matter is, we are more prone to rejoice when others weep, and weep when others rejoice.
 - Paul emphasizes that the encouragement is mutual. In other words, they would encourage one another.
- The question becomes; how can I be more encouraging to others? What, and from where, do I find that source of encouragement?
 - I think we need look no further than the comforting and encouraging Word of God. That's how they both blessed and encouraged one another.
 - Let's be honest, sometimes we just need a hug from someone, vis-a-vis the Word of God. Often times it comes in the form of a specific word.
 - Here's how it works; a friend sees you're down, and in prayer will lift you up. They'll speak to God for you, then speak a word from God to you.
 - Psalms 119:50 AMP This is my comfort and consolation in my affliction: that Your word has revived me and given me life.

By accepting one another (Ro 1:13-14)

Ro 1:13 I do not want you to be unaware, brothers, that I planned many times to come to you (but have been prevented from doing so until now) in order that I might have a harvest among you, just as I have had among the other Gentiles. 14 I am obligated both to Greeks and non-Greeks, both to the wise and the foolish.

Paul deems it his obligation to accept anyone so he can have a harvest among everyone.

- Jon Courson in his commentary put it best this way; "I'm a debtor to everyone," said Paul—"to the Greek and to the barbarian, to the sophisticated and to the simple, to the businessman and to the biker, to the housewife and to the hippie, to the jock and to the jailbird." Why did Paul feel this way? Because he was amazed at the goodness of God that saved him so radically at the very time he was erring so greatly.
- Charles Spurgeon "His office and his gifts placed him in debt to mankind to labor for their conversion and every Christian, according to his ability, is in the same condition. Are we paying the debts under which the Lord has laid upon us?"

The take away – your love for people will be predicated upon and proportionate to, your willingness to accept people.

- This is the 'why' behind the 'what' that Paul is writing – he himself had been the recipient of God's love when he met the Savior 25 years prior. Because the Lord would accept him and save him, he's now obligated to bring the gospel to them, that he might have a harvest among them.
- When you're the recipient of some bit of good news, don't you want to share it with the ones who are closest to you? You might even have a sense of obligation to do so. However, we only share it with those whom we love.

Romans 13:8 NKJV Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves another has fulfilled the law.

- How are we going to meet our obligation to love one another, except we accept one another?"
- The problem is, we won't meet our obligation to accept one another, because we think that it's our obligation to find the faults in one another.
- We don't need police in the body of Christ, we need paramedics.
 - Police, as the law, find who's at fault
 - Paramedics minister care to the injured.

By taking risks for one another (Ro 1:15)

Ro 1:15 That is why I am so eager to preach the gospel also to you who are at Rome.

- One can't help but feel the passion, the intensity, and the boldness in "how" Paul says "what" he says, in his unflinching fearlessness.
 - Much is missed in the written letter of God's Word.
 - Would to God we had the emotion and passion of how it was written, as if it were spoken.
- Paul was a risk taker for Jesus Christ, because of his love for Jesus Christ Who first loved him, while yet in his sin.
 - It's vital we understand how serious and even dangerous it was for Paul to go to Rome, let alone for anyone to be a Christian living in Rome.
 - Charles Spurgeon "He was not afraid of danger, and was willing to come right under the palace walls of Caesar. In due time his desire became a fact."
 - His desire to go and take this risk, was fueled by his love for God, and his love for God's people.
 - We will risk our lives for those whom we love.
 - In an instant, any fear of danger is quieted, even muted by the love we have for another.
 - To risk our life for another is the measure of our love.
 - John 15:13 KJV Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

William R. Newell

Rome was the center of the Gentile world: its emperors were soon to demand—and receive—worship; it was crowded with men of learning and culture from the whole world; it had mighty marchings;—great triumphal processions flowed through its streets. Rome shook the world. Yet here is Paul, utterly weak in himself, and' with his physical thorn; yet ready, eager, to go, to Rome! ... Talk of your brave men, your great men, O world! Where in all history can you find one like Paul. Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, marched with the protection of their armies to enforce their will upon men. Paul was eager to march with Christ alone to the center of this world's greatness entrenched under Satan, with "the Word of the cross," which he himself says is "to Jews, an offence; and to Gentiles, foolishness." Yes, and when he does go to Rome, it is as a shipwrecked (though Divinely delivered) prisoner. Oh, what a story! ...And what is the secret of this unconquerable heart? Hear Paul: "Ye seek a proof of Christ that speaketh in me." "To me, to live is Christ"; "It was the good pleasure of God to reveal His Son in me"; "By the grace of God I am what I am"; "I labor, striving according to Christ's working, who worketh in me mightily"; "I am ready to spend and be spent out for your souls."

If I have this kind of love, it will be the motivation that propels me to spend and be spent for another, proportionately.

- In other words, the degree to which I am motivated to risk my life for another, will be directly related to how much I love others.
- While I believe that fear and hate are a powerful motivator, love is the more powerful motivator.
- Early church historian and theologian Tertullian once quoted a pagan author who wrote of his astonishment at the love Christians of his day had for one another. He writes; "See how they love one another, ...how they are ready even to die for one another, for they themselves will sooner put to death."

II. Thesis (Ro 1:16-17) – God saved us from His wrath

Ro 1:16 I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. 17 For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed, a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith."

What is the gospel?

The person and work of Christ – Who He is and what He did – and we appropriate it by grace through faith

- 1Co 15:3 ... that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, 4 that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures

- The word “gospel” derives from the Old English godspel, which means “good news.”
 - Godspel is the Old English rendering of the Greek euangelion (eu = “good,” angelion = “message”).
 - Euangelion is the word Paul uses in 1 Corinthians 15:1 when he reminds the church at Corinth of “the gospel I preached to you.”
- A “gospel” is an account of the “good news” of the coming kingdom of God and the redemption of humanity through the life, death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ, as seen through the eyes of a living faith tradition, guided by the Holy Spirit, 30-60 years after the events it portrays.

We are born into sin

We are born in a condition of sin and are, by nature, the objects of God’s wrath

Ep 2:1 As for you, you were dead in your transgressions and sins, 2 in which you used to live when you followed the ways of this world and of the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient. 3 All of us also lived among them at one time, gratifying the cravings of our sinful nature and following its desires and thoughts. Like the rest, we were by nature objects of wrath. 4 But because of his great love for us, God, who is rich in mercy, 5 made us alive with Christ even when we were dead in transgressions—it is by grace you have been saved. 6 And God raised us up with Christ and seated us with him in the heavenly realms in Christ Jesus, 7 in order that in the coming ages he might show the incomparable riches of his grace, expressed in his kindness to us in Christ Jesus. 8 For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God— 9 not by works, so that no one can boast. 10 For we are God’s workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do.

- We are born into a condition of sin
 - We are dead in our transgressions and sins
 - Because of this, we are alienated from God and have no interest in God, no capacity for God
 - Because we have no interest in God, we are subject to the fallen world and the powers that rule it
- We are by nature, the subject of God’s wrath
 - Jn 3:36 Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life, but whoever rejects the Son will not see life, for God’s wrath remains on him.
 - We are born into this world in a condition sin and are, by nature, the objects of God’s wrath
- Although born in a condition of sin, living in a fallen world, and by nature objects of God’s wrath, God loved us so much that He made us alive in Christ, even while we were dead in our transgressions
 - Why does God do this? He loves us – the motive is love
- We are born into a condition of sin
 - We live in a fallen world and are subject to the powers that rule it
 - By nature, we are the objects of God’s wrath
 - God provides the grace that awakens us to His presence
 - We have to respond in faith to that awakening
- We are to live a life of active love or good works
 - Once we move into the family of God, the only thing that counts is our faith expressing itself in love
 - Good works will never get you into the family of God – that’s a response to God’s grace

Christ is our kinsman redeemer

- Christ fulfills all of the requirements to be our kinsman redeemer:
 - Next nearest relative – Jesus must be fully man and fully God in order to redeem us
 - He must have the resources – If He is going to pay the penalty for our sin, then He must be sinless himself. Otherwise He wouldn’t have the resources to pay the penalty for our sins.
 - He must be willing – He had to willingly go to the cross. He’s not caught in a trap of political and religious intrigue. He willingly goes – and He is the one controlling all of the events, right to the very end.

Why I'm Not Ashamed to be a Christian (Ro 1:16-17)

Ro 1:16 I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. 17 For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed, a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith."

- This is the "great theme of this Epistle," or as one said it; "the headline manifesto," for the whole book.
 - Here, he ever so beautifully weaves this grand purpose into the fabric of this powerful letter.
 - One commentator, of Romans 1:16-17, wrote; "These two verses have an importance out of all proportion to their length."
 - William Newell in his commentary on Romans said this about these two verses; "Here we have the text of the whole Epistle of Romans: First, the words "the gospel"—so dear to Paul, as will appear. Next, the universal saving power of this gospel is asserted. Then, the secret of the gospel's power—the revelation of God's righteousness on the principle of faith. Finally, the accord of all this with the Old Testament Scriptures: "The righteous shall live by faith."
- Paul introduces the idea first, with the intention of preparing the reader for expanding on it later in the letter.
 - This is the inspiration & wisdom of the Holy Spirit, as this is one of the most effective ways to communicate
 - It fits with the logical reasoning with which we assimilate information, especially when it's huge like this is.
 - It's easier to understand when we're:
 - First told what's going to be said
 - Then to have it said
 - Then to be told what was just said
 - - Having said that, I think that we're now ready to open up these two big verses so the Holy Spirit can begin to minister to us the truths in them.
- As a whole, the body of Christ here in America is ashamed of Christianity, especially as it becomes more unpopular
 - We cower and falter in the face of a world that is fast becoming more and more hostile to the Gospel of salvation found only in Jesus the Christ.
 - William Newell - In these days of "respectable" Christianity, with its great cathedrals, churches, denominations, colleges, seminaries, "uplift movements," etc., you may say, Men no longer have any temptation to be "ashamed of the gospel." But lo, and behold, it is not!.
 - Matthew 10:32-33 KJV Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. (33) But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven.

1. It's truth (Verse 16a)

(16a) I am not ashamed of the gospel...

- Paul will now explain why he said what he said in verse 15 about being so eager to get to Rome, to preach the gospel to all that are in Rome.
 - The reason he's so eager to preach the Gospel, is because he's not ashamed of the Gospel, because it is the power and truth of God.
 - "ashamed"
 - The word "ashamed" as Paul is using it, carries with it the thought of not being embarrassed, or put to shame in having been proved wrong.
 - 2 Timothy 2:15 NIV Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a workman who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth.
- If we work hard and correctly handle God's Word, we'll approve it and even prove it to be the word of truth.
 - In so doing, we will never need to be ashamed, or put to shame, by being proved wrong, because the Word of God is the truth.

- It was for this reason that Paul could so eagerly and boldly declare that the Gospel is the truth, thus there is no reason to ever be ashamed.

2. It's power (Verse 16b)

(16b) ...because it is the power of God...

- He goes on to say that the reason he is not ashamed is because the gospel is the power of God.
- He doesn't say that the Gospel "can" have power, he says the Gospel "is" the power to save
 - Please don't see this as a play on words, it is not.
 - If the Gospel "can have" the power to save as opposed to "being" the power to save, then you have just introduced an uncertainty.
 - If the Gospel "is" the power of God to save, then you remove all uncertainty and ambiguity
 - Why the distinction as it relates to the "power."
 - It's vital we understand the "why" behind the "what"
 - Of all people, the Romans would have known a thing or two about this thing we call "power."
 - Truly, Rome was all about having power.
 - Warren Weirsbe; "Power is the one thing that Rome boasted of the most. Greece might have its philosophy, but Rome had its power."
- Here's the take away; I should never be intimidated or cower in the face of opposition to the Gospel because it is "the" power of God to save.
 - We have "the" power and it's infinitely more powerful than anything or anyone we may encounter.
 - Here's a question; am I too timid to share the gospel with someone in a position of power when the Lord presents me with the opportunity?

2 Timothy 1:7 For God did not give us a spirit of timidity, but a spirit of power, of love and of self-discipline. 8 So do not be ashamed to testify about our Lord, or ashamed of me his prisoner. But join with me in suffering for the gospel, by the power of God, 9 who has saved us and called us to a holy life—not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, 10 but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. 11 And of this gospel I was appointed a herald and an apostle and a teacher. 12 That is why I am suffering as I am. Yet I am not ashamed, because I know whom I have believed, and am convinced that he is able to guard what I have entrusted to him for that day. 13 What you heard from me, keep as the pattern of sound teaching, with faith and love in Christ Jesus. 14 Guard the good deposit that was entrusted to you— guard it with the help of the Holy Spirit who lives in us. 15 You know that everyone in the province of Asia has deserted me, including Phygelus and Hermogenes. 16 May the Lord show mercy to the household of Onesiphorus, because he often refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chains.

3. It's for salvation (Verse 16c)

(16c) ...for the salvation...

- Paul says that the gospel is the power of God for the salvation of all people.
 - This is precisely what sets apart the Christian faith from every other religion of man, or philosophy of man.
 - Buddhism doesn't have any promise of salvation
 - Islam has no assurance of salvation, unless you murder Jews and Christians.
 - Christianity is virtually the antithesis of all these false religions,
- How it is that we can be so sure that Christianity is true and all the other religions are false? Because it's a relationship based on what God has done for me, not what I do for God.
- Christianity is a personal, saving relationship with the person of Jesus the Christ, Who saved my life eternally.

- A friend once said that he knows that the Bible is true because, in it, God spoke to him things only He could have known.
 - Then, the Word of God becomes 66 books filled with intimate love letters from my Father in Heaven, who loves me.
- In addition to all this, the Holy Spirit indwells me, and enables me to live a holy life, thus I am complete and fulfilled living a "whole" life.
 - Why would I ever be embarrassed as a Christian if my salvation is that God so loved me that He sent His only begotten Son to die for me?
- If I find myself faced with a God-given opportunity to share the Gospel, I should never be ashamed.
 - The eagerness and boldness comes from the Gospel as the power of God to save everyone including them because they need Jesus.

4. It's for everyone (Verse 16d)

(16d) ...of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile.

- Here Paul packs even more into the end of an already packed full verse by saying salvation is for everyone.
 - He even takes it a step further and says that it's for everyone who believes, then qualifies it as first for the Jews, then for the Gentiles.
- I think we take the everyone Gospel of Jesus Christ for granted.
 - The Gospel is good news because God will not withhold salvation from anyone, the only requirement is belief
 - It's not good news, and it's certainly not the Gospel, if it's not for everyone
 - Not just anyone can make such a claim that makes eternal salvation available to everyone
 - In all other religions, this would most certainly not meet the requirements for salvation.
 - This is where religion falls short
 - According to religion, it's only for those who are good enough to keep the rules and observe all the commandments – nobody can do that
 - That is why Somebody became man in order to do that for us – and instead of us – because of His infinite love for us
 - Taking the "everyone Gospel" for granted
 - Could this be the reason we're ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ?
 - I am the only one who has the good news for everyone, and not just anyone can offer that to someone.
 - When I come to the realization that this Gospel is that powerful and that's it's for all, then I'll have a sanctified strength and resolve.

5. It's for righteousness (Verse 17a)

(17a) For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed...

- Paul now takes it a step further – In the gospel, a righteousness from God is revealed and given to us who believe.
 - We, as sinners, can be recipients of this righteousness by putting our faith and trust in Jesus Christ.
- Have you ever had someone say something like this to you; 'and you call yourself a Christian?'
 - They are implying that you have just said something, or done something that, to them, is not very Christian.
 - In other words, they (as non-Christians) have this mistaken idea that Christians should always be and act perfect or they are just hypocrites.
- When you are accused of not being a very good Christian, are you manipulated into feeling guilt or shame?
 - There are most certainly times when we should feel the conviction of the Holy Spirit. However that's not what the text is talking about.
 - I am not and can-not be a perfect Christian but I am righteous as a Christian.

- It's not my own righteousness, lest it be as filthy rags
 - It's Christ's imputed righteousness because of the finished work on the cross at Calvary.
 - I'm declared innocent because the only One who was truly innocent became sin for me, and instead of me, when He did for me.
- Now, why would I ever need to be shamed, or intimidated?
 - God sees not my sin, God sees only His Son, in Whom righteousness is revealed
 - William Newell - ...This ... gives another reason why Paul was not ashamed of the good news: in this message concerning God's Son,—that He died for our sins, was buried, was raised,—there was brought to light,—made manifest—a righteousness of God which had indeed been prophesied...

6. It's by faith (Verse 17b)

(17b) ...a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith."

- Paul now qualifies this righteousness – by faith from first to last, saying that it was just as it was written: "The righteous will live by faith."
 - Paul is quoting the OT prophet Habakkuk as it relates to the prophesied righteousness of God being by faith.
 - Habakkuk 2:4b "...but the righteous will live by his faith—"
- William Newell - ...it is of imperative importance that we get the great fact quickly and forever fixed in our hearts that God declares men righteous ...wholly on the basis of Christ's atoning work,—to be believed in, rested upon, apart from all human works whatever. It was on the principle of faith by means of a message, and those exercising faith in the message that would be reckoned righteous,—apart from all "merit" or "works" whatever. This is the meaning of "from faith unto faith"—literally, out of faith [rather than works] unto [those who have] faith.
- By way of illustration, consider how we're quick to put our faith in modern medicine to cure all of the ills of society
 - In a spiritual sense, we have "the" cure for "the" birth defect, without which all of mankind will soon die
 - It's a blood born disease that we inherited when we were born
 - The cure for this disease, which leads to death, is to be born again.
 - To be born again, you need a blood transfusion from the one Who gave His blood for you, when He died your death for, and instead of, you.
 - Absent this, our incurable disease of sin will lead to your eternal death in hell forever and ever. You need to be "blood" born again to be saved.
 - If and when you are born again, you will live in heaven with Jesus in His Kingdom forever and ever, as the righteous who put your faith in Him.
- Have you put your faith in the great physician of physicians, the Lord Jesus the Christ as your Savior from the death sentence of sins disease?
 - If you answered that question with a yes, then here's another question for you; "are you ashamed of this? If so, why, and for what reason?"
 - Here's the take away – I won't be put to shame, or ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ for the following reasons: It's the truth, it's the power, it's for salvation, it's for everyone, it's for righteousness, and it's by faith.
 - God has said it, and that should settle it!

III. Demonstration by Antithesis (Ro 1:18-3:20)

There is no excuse for not knowing God (Ro 1:18-23)

- Paul looks at us in the fallen world and sees what things are like living in this condition of sin, prior to the thesis
 - Looking into the fallen world, we can see God's wrath against men
- There is no excuse for not knowing God – even without the gospel – because we have His creation

- You can know God through His creation – God’s creation is an intelligent design, not an incidental accident
- Ps 19:1 The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands. 2 Day after day they pour forth speech; night after night they display knowledge. 3 There is no speech or language where their voice is not heard. 4 Their voice goes out into all the earth, their words to the ends of the world.

Consequences for rejecting God (Ro 1:24-32)

- People are without excuse, but if they reject God anyway, there are consequences
- God gave them over (paradidomi)
 - In English, this has the sense of God doing something to them
 - In Greek, the word paradidomi has the sense of God taking his hands off, God lets go
 - to give into the hands (of another)
 - to give over into (one's) power or use
 - to deliver to one something to keep, use, take care of, manage
 - If you choose not to respond to God, God will respect that and he'll let go
 - Dr. John (Jack) Donne – 17th century poet
 - In a 1640 sermon, he states “it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God; but to fall out of the hands of the living God is a horror beyond our expression, beyond our imagination.”
 - If God punishes you for what you’ve done, that’s a fearful thing. But far worse is God taking His hands off and letting go.
 - In these verses, God takes His hands off and a natural sequence of events takes place
- Listed consequences
 - They exchanged the truth of God for a lie
 - They worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator
 - God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another – God gave them over to shameful lusts
 - They exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones
 - God gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done.
 - They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity
 - They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice.
 - They are gossipers, slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful
 - They invent ways of doing evil
 - They disobey their parents
 - They are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless.
- Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them.

Why God is Right to Damn Wrong (Ro 1:18-32)

God's Wrath Against Mankind

Ro:1:18 The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, 19 since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. 20 For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.

21 For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. 22 Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools 23

and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man and birds and animals and reptiles.

24 Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. 25 They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen.

26 Because of this, God gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural ones. 27 In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another. Men committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion.

28 Furthermore, since they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, he gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done. 29 They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, 30 slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; 31 they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless. 32 Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them.

- This teaching should carry with it a warning, as it will neither conform to the politically correct, or appeal to, the cotton candy Christian.
 - To put it bluntly, it deals with abhorrent sexual sin, and unspeakable evil, in man, and why God will bring His wrath on this wickedness of man.
 - Our hypocrisy – Lest we be too quick to assign this wrath of God in judgment of other sinful people, we would do well to judge ourselves first.
- We, as Christians, are prone to sanitize sin.
 - Seemingly, this casual and careless brand of modern day Christianity has made for a lackadaisical, lukewarm, Laodicean, last days church.
 - The clarion call to the church is to turn from our sin, lest we be judged.
 - Chuck Swindoll
 - The message of Christianity is quickly becoming a system of enlightened thinking instead of a simple call to turn from sin and pursue a relationship with God.
 - William Newell – “So You Want to be Like Christ”
 - It will not only fail to help us, but will seriously harm us, to study the awful arraignment of God against human sin, unless we apply it to ourselves, thereby discovering our own state by nature. Therefore we have sought to make plain these terms which Paul uses, in view of today's sin. Christendom is rapidly losing sin-consciousness, which means losing God-consciousness; which means eternal doom...
 - I believe this is why we have passages like we do here, as gnarly as it is, in our Bibles.
 - God wants us conscious of the seriousness of our sin.
 - Absent this sin-consciousness, we lose sins-seriousness. Then, when God brings His wrath and damnation, He is deemed harsh and unjust.
 - It's my hope that this series will bring the seriousness of sin back to the forefront of our conscience so as to see the rightness of God's wrath.
- “God is right to damn sin, but He's also right to save the sinner.”
 - Charles Spurgeon
 - "God provided no sanctuary for real guilt, murder was not winked at, else had the land become both polluted and unsafe. Mercy to murderers would be cruelty to the innocent."
 - From a sermon by Charles Haddon Spurgeon delivered, December 24, 1871
 - "From this day forth, when God beholds the sinner, if his wrath should burn, he will remember that his own Son, as man, stood in the sinner's place, and bore the sinner's doom."

- Envision a courtroom setting
 - Picture Paul as the prosecuting attorney in a case where unthinkable crimes warranting the death penalty have been committed.
 - Paul will argue the case for God's righteousness and Man's sinfulness
 - To this point, God has been the one on trial, not man
 - God has been accused of unjust crimes against the innocence of man.
 - In the court of human sin, God has been unjust in damning sin.
 - If God was innocent, if God was just, then He wouldn't allow evil into the world
 - However, in this courtroom of eternity, God is not the one that's on trial, but man is
 - With that as the backdrop, this becomes Paul's opening statement in our courtroom, where he will persuasively present his compelling case.
 - Opening statement – man is guilty of crimes warranting the death penalty
 - The purpose of an opening statement is for counsel to communicate to the jury what they believe to be the truth about the crime committed.
 - Furthermore, counsel will summarize that which they will support during the trial with competent testimony and evidence admissible in court.
 - Paul, in this his opening statement, is already accusing the defendants of suppressing evidence.
 - In a criminal case, a motion to suppress is filed in order to bring a challenge to the truth of the evidence and whether it should be admissible.
 - In a sense, Paul is denying them the filing of this motion by virtue of their knowing they're guilty, which is why they are suppressing this truth.
 - It's extremely important to take note of how this suppressing of the truth would need to be a deliberate act, as it infers a premeditated crime.
 - We're about to see that they knew the truth, because God Himself made it known to them, which is why they deliberately suppressed the truth.
 - The rest of chapter one deals with abhorrent sexual sin and why God's wrath will come upon the wickedness of man

1. They deliberately suppress the truth (Verse 18) – “What”

18 The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, NIV

18 the wrath of God being revealed against all the ungodliness and unrighteousness of men.

Paul goes from God's revealed righteousness → the revealed wrath against all godlessness of men who suppress the truth by wickedness.

- wickedness
 - Ungodliness of men is understood to be sinning against God
 - Unrighteousness of men is understood to be sinning against man
 - We see this in various places throughout the scriptures, including the law of God, the Ten Commandments
 - The first 5 commandments deal with our sinning against or obedience to God
 - The second 5 deal with sinning against our fellow man
 - When we understand this delineation, it will enable us to get a better grip on the “why” behind the “what” of God's wrath and how it is just and fair.

2. They plainly know God's truth (Verse 19) – “What”

19 since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them.

The reason God's wrath is against them – What may be known about God was plainly made known to them by God.

- The crime committed was premeditated
 - The defendant can't use the insanity plea, because they knew what they were doing was wrong, because what's right was made plain to them.
 - Because the forensic evidence shows that this was a deliberate act, the death penalty is just.
 - The reason for deliberately suppressing the truth that was made plainly known about God, one is not guilty when not judged by God.
 - We're all guilty of all charges, listed in this chapter. If we plead guilty, and sentenced to death, we can accept Jesus' death and go free.

3. They clearly see, but reject, God (Verse 20)

Paul will go from the "what" to the "why" & "how" of man's ungodliness and wickedness deserving a guilty verdict and the death sentence.

20 For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse.

- They're without excuse because God's invisible qualities, eternal power, and divine nature were clearly seen and understood since creation.
 - God made Himself visible to all thru His creation which displayed His power and His divine nature, thus man's wickedness is inexcusable.
 - It's this fact that will condemn everyone who, when standing before God, will have no excuse for rejection
 - Robert Jastrow – an Astrophysicist and the Director of NASA's Goodard Institute for Space Studies
 - "At this moment it seems as though science will never be able to raise the curtain on the mystery of creation. ...Now we see how the astronomical evidence supports the biblical view of the origin of the world. The essential elements in the astronomical and biblical accounts of Genesis are now the same. Consider the enormity of the problem. Science has proved that the universe exploded into being at a certain given moment. It asks what cause produced this effect. Who or what put the matter and energy into the universe? And science cannot answer this question. For the scientist who has lived by his faith in the power of his own reason, the story ends like a bad dream. He has scaled the mountains of ignorance. He is about to conquer the highest peak. He pulls himself over the final rock, and he is greeted by a band of theologians who have been there for centuries."

 - William Newell
 - "... the reason for God's wrath is stated: men are without excuse—Men had the light, and that from God. His eternal power and divinity were, from creation onward, plain to men, from His works. - Napoleon, on a warship in the Mediterranean on a star-lit night, passed a group of his officers who were mocking at the idea of a God. He stopped, and sweeping his hand toward the stars, said, "Sirs, if you wish to get rid the world of God, you must first rid of these stars!" Men secretly believe there is a Power above them, and that their evil deeds deserve the wrath of that Power."
- If man has clearly seen and understood, yet still rejected God (which they have), then what does this say about the fairness and justice of God.
 - Sadly, God is seen as being unfair in His judgment of sin because the implication is that man did not know or understand the nature of God.
- Man must come to the realization that God is not the one on trial, man is.
 - In our justice system, a man is presumed innocent until found guilty.
 - In God's system of justice, man is guilty until "pronounced" innocent, only through the finished work of Jesus Christ on the Calvary cross.
 - When man understands, and knowingly rejects this, he stands in his own righteousness before the Judge of the universe pleading not guilty.

- This is why it is, and how it is that God, as the creator and judge of the universe, is right in pronouncing man guilty and damning him to hell.
- J.C. Ryle, "Holiness: Its Nature, Hindrances, Difficulties, and Roots" p. 209, 210.
 - "Hell, hell fire, the damnation of hell, eternal damnation, the resurrection of damnation, everlasting fire, the place of torment, destruction, outer darkness, the worm that never dies, the fire that is not quenched, the place of weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth, everlasting punishment—these are the words which the Lord Jesus Christ Himself employs. Away with the miserable nonsense which people talk in this day, who tell us that the ministers of the gospel should never speak of hell! They only show their own ignorance, or their own dishonesty, when they talk in such a manner. No person can honestly read the four Gospels and fail to see that they who would follow the example of Christ must speak of hell."
- William Newell
 - "Now if someone objects, saying, This is a strange introduction to the gospel of God's grace, we answer, It lies here before us, this awful indictment of Romans One, and cannot be evaded! Moreover, until man knows his state of sin, he wants no grace. Shall pardon be spoken of before the sinner is proved a sinner? While the evidence is being brought in, the whole attention of the court is upon that. If the evidence of guilt be insufficient or inconclusive, there is no necessity for a pardon! Preachers and teachers have soft-pedalled sin, until the fear Of God is vanishing away. McCheyne used to Say, "A holy minister is an awful weapon in the hands of God" A preacher who avoids telling men the truth about their sin as here revealed, is the best tool of the devil."
- Dave Hunt (Facebook Post, March 8th, 2011)
 - God's loving purpose was that man would forever dwell with Him in intimate fellowship and love—not that he would suffer forever in the Lake of Fire. God knew what Adam and Eve and their descendants would do—but He did not predestine man to sin nor to be in torment eternally. The Lake of Fire was "prepared for the devil and his angels." God ...desires all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. Salvation is for "whosoever believeth on him." To forgive Christ-rejecters would undermine both God's integrity and His justice. No one who spends eternity in the Lake of Fire (and many will) can blame God.

4. They futilely become dark in their hearts (Verse 21)

21 For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened.

- Paul now drives it home even further by saying that the problem isn't that they didn't know God, the problem is that they indeed did know God. He even takes it a step further saying this is why they didn't glorify or thank God, and their minds became futile, and their hearts became dark.
 - When man is willfully rejecting the glorifying and thanking of God, he will descend into the futility and folly of darkness.
 - By not giving the Glory to God, we become vulnerable to, and susceptible to, the lies of the Devil.
 - While not excusing it, this helps in explaining it, because what we see next is unspeakable foolishness, and wickedness of those in darkness.

5. They wrongly claim to be wise as fools (Verse 22)

22 Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools

- Although they are wrongly claiming to be wise, that they had in fact actually become fools because of it.
 - Is this not what those who mock and deny God claim?
 - They fancy themselves of superior intelligence, and in so doing become ignorant fools.
 - Truly, there is no one more foolish than he who claims to be wise all the while ignorantly, and stupidly, denying God the glory due His Name.

- While it's not authenticated as being true according to the "Truth or Fiction," website, there's a great story illustrating this. "...An atheist became incensed over the preparation for Easter and Passover holidays and decided to contact the local ACLU about the discrimination inflicted on atheists by the constant celebrations afforded to Christians and Jews with all their holidays while the atheists had no holiday to celebrate. The ACLU jumped on the opportunity to once again pick up the cause of the godless, and assigned their sharpest attorneys to the case. The case was brought before a wise judge who after listening to the long, passionate presentation of the ACLU lawyers, promptly banged his gavel and declared, "Case dismissed!" The lead ACLU lawyer immediately stood and objected to the ruling and said, "Your honor, how can you possibly dismiss this case? Surely the Christians have Christmas, Easter and many other observances. And the Jews--why in addition to Passover they have Yom Kippur and Hanukkah... and yet my client and all other atheists have no such holiday!" The judge leaned forward in his chair and simply said "Obviously your client is too confused to know about, or for that matter even celebrate, the atheists' holiday!" The ACLU lawyer pompously said "We are aware of no such holiday for atheists, just when might that be, your honor?" The judge said, "Well it comes every year on exactly the same date---April 1st!" "April Fools Day"
- Psalms 14:1 Of David. The fool says in his heart, "There is no God." They are corrupt, their deeds are vile; there is no one who does good. 2 The LORD looks down from heaven on the sons of men to see if there are any who understand, any who seek God. 3 All have turned aside, they have together become corrupt; there is no one who does good, not even one.

6. They foolishly replace the immortal God (Verse 23)

23 and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man and birds and animals and reptiles.

- In their foolishness, they replaced the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like mortal man, birds, animals, and reptiles.
 - Because man has rejected the God Who created man in His image, man is now in the market for a new god.
 - As man now shops for a new god, to replace the true God, he will opt for one made in his image instead of God Who made man in His image.
 - One commentator said it best when they wrote; "Man cannot seem to resist the temptation to create God into his own corrupt image, or even in an image beneath himself; the great tragedy in this is that we inescapably become like the God we serve. It is absolutely essential that we constantly compare our conception of God against the reality of who God is as revealed in His Word; lest we too become guilty of worshipping a self-made God."
- We as believers are prone to – ever so subtly – become guilty of worshipping other image gods.
 - By way of example, and you can fill in the blank, _____ is a priority to me.
 - What is it that you glorify? Whatever I glory, in turn glorifies me.
 - I too can exchange the God who created me in His image, for His good pleasure, for a god created in my image, and for my good pleasure.
- Charles Spurgeon
 - "They must have known better. No man in his senses can worship birds and beasts without feeling degraded by so doing. Natural reason rebels against such an insult to God, and as they would not listen to its voice, the heathen were left to fall into abominable vices. Let us never slight the checks of conscience, lest we should be given over to our own corrupt hearts. No doom could be more terrible."
- William Newell
 - The silliness of these "modern" shallow-pan days! How men are rushing back to the old pagan pit out of which God's Word and His gospel would have delivered them! They suck up sin; they welter in wickedness; they profess to be wise! They sit at the feet of "professors" whose breath is spiritual cyanide. They idolize the hog-sty doctrines of a rotten Freud:24 and count themselves "wise"! They say, "God is not a person; men evolved from monkeys; morals are mere old habits; self-enjoyment, self-expression, indulgence of all desires—this,” they say, “is the path of wisdom.” It is the path of those who go quickly down to the pit and on to judgment! The very morals of Sodom, as our Lord foretold, are rushing fast upon us, and God will bring again the awful doom of Sodom.

7. They are given over to sexual impurity (Verse 24)

24 Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another.

- It's important we have a correct understanding of what it means when God gives them over to their sin
 - God giving one over to sin carries with it the idea of God's wrath releasing and allowing one to freely sin to his own destruction and damnation.
 - Paul will say this two more times
 - God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts – not sinful desires of their flesh
 - When Paul writes, by the Holy Spirit, this letter to the Romans, he is actually still in the corrupt and perverted city of Corinth. All that Paul would have to do was look out his window, and he would have seen all forms of unimaginable sexual perversion and debauchery.
 - William Newell – This is deeper than the mere lusts of the flesh. Flesh has natural desires, which may or may not be yielded to. The lusts of the heart continue after the flesh is dissolved; and even when, in the tormented bodies of the damned, the lusts of the flesh cannot be conscious or controlling, “the lusts of the heart” will forever exist. Notice that when man is delivered from Divine restraint, the lusts of his heart plunge him into ever deeper bodily uncleanness, and bodily vileness. History backs up this fact with terrible relentlessness.
 - History backs up this fact with terrible relentlessness, and present day local news backs it up as well.
- If God is not right to damn a man who's been given over to unthinkable perversion, then He's not God.
 - The damning forensic evidence proves in the courtroom of eternity that God is right to judge the guilt of man, sentencing him to death.

8. They are guilty of replacing the truth for a lie (Verse 25a)

25a They exchanged the truth of God for a lie...

- They have become guilty of exchanging what they know to be the truth of God for a lie in place of God.
- When man rejects the true God, he is now in the market for a new god, thus he exchanges the truth for a lie.
 - Their replacement god is no god at all, in that this false god is a lie they've believed because they're deceived, explaining what we see next.

9. They are serving created things not the Creator (Verse 25b)

25b ...and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen.

- It's because of this lie that they are both worshipping, and serving, created things rather than the Creator Who is to forever to be praised.
- In replacing the truth of God for a lie, man opens himself up to, and is given over to, acting as an animal serving the created not the Creator.
 - Japanese Shintoists and Middle East Islamists
 - The Shinto worship created things from rivers to rocks
 - The Muslim worship of the moon god Allah
 - Martyrs – Kamikaze and Jihad suicide missions.
- In these last days, not much has changed since Paul's day, as history is married to prophecy.

- I believe that it will be this same delusion that causes mankind to worship and serve the Anti-Christ, who replaces Christ during the tribulation.
- Notice how Paul writes of Creator God, that he is forever praised
 - William Newell - "Paul's adding these humble, worshipful words after "Creator" both glorifies God and also differentiates Paul from the abandoned devotees of sin thronging the dark alley of human history; showing him to be a child of light, as is every real saint of God, though passing through a world of thick darkness."
- An application of this teaching about rejecting God and worshipping animals.
 - Have I rejected a truth that God has revealed to me, replacing it with something or someone else that has become the object of my devotion?
 - If so, could that be the reason I'm having emotional, physical, or even sexual problems. Is that why I don't worship or serve God as I once did?

10. They are given over to their shameful lusts (Verses 26-27)

26 Because of what they had done, God gave them over to shameful lusts, and even their women exchanged natural relations for unnatural. 27 Likewise, men inflamed with lust, committed indecent acts with other men, and received in themselves the due penalty for their perversion.

- This is the second of three times that Paul will write how God is giving them over.
 - This time we read that they're given over to shameful lusts.
- Paul knows that the recipients of this letter there in Rome, are living in a culture that is steeped in the acceptable practice of homosexuality.
 - History tells us this was a normal way of life in Rome.
 - For 200 years, men who ruled the Roman Empire were open and flagrant homosexuals.
 - There were even taxes that would have to be paid on the income from legalized homosexual prostitution, and same sex marriage was legal.
- The translation of women and men should read female and male.
 - In describing homosexuals and lesbians as merely male and female, you rightly disconnect the human sexuality from animal acts.
 - One commentator wrote how that; "Paul doesn't even use the normal words for man and woman here; he uses the words for male and female, using categories that describe sexuality outside of human terms, because the type of sexual sin he describes is outside of human dignity."
 - William Newell - "...they forget not only the holy relations of marriage, but even the burnings of ordinary lust, and plunge into nameless horrors of unnatural lust-bondage, all, males and females,... What a fearful account is here! A lost race plunging ever deeper, by their own desire! Left in shameful, horrid bondage, unashamed,—not only immoral, but unmoral, hideous."
- F.B. Meyer - "The law of history, in virtue of which the forsaking of God is followed among men by a parallel growth of immorality, is not a purely natural order of things; the power of God is active in the execution of this law."

11. They are given over to a depraved mind (Verse 28)

28 God gave them over to a depraved mind to do what shouldn't be done, since they thought retaining the knowledge of God was of no worth.

- This is our third and last mention by Paul of God giving man over to his sin.
 - This time we read that God gives them over to a depraved mind.
 - There's been a progressive descent into unspeakable perversion and depravity

- Remember, Paul is arguing the case of man's sin deserving the death penalty, before the judge of the universe in the courtroom of eternity.
 - In order to achieve a guilty verdict, he must retrace every step, and even go back to the crime scene if need be, to find the smoking gun.
 - Paul's brilliance in how he does this comes from the wisdom of the Holy Spirit inspiring him to write this using this method.
- Because they didn't retain the knowledge of God, God gives them over to a depraved mind.
 - In other words, they saw fit to "cast-out" the knowledge of God, which is why God in turn then saw fit to give them over to an outcast mind."
 - Because God's on trial in the court of their own depraved minds, they reject and disapprove of God, thus they did not approve knowing God.
 - One commentator said it best when they wrote; "The human race has put God [on trial] for the purpose of approving Him should He meet the specifications which it laid down for a God who would be to its liking, and finding that He did not meet those specifications, it refused to approve Him as the God to be worshipped, or have Him in its knowledge."
- Homosexuality
 - Why is it sinful? Why does God condemn it? Why is God so intolerant of the alternative gay lifestyle?
 - It's been said, that sin isn't bad because it's forbidden rather, sin is forbidden because it's bad.
 - Homosexuality isn't only bad, it's deadly.
 - God is right to damn this sin because man disconnected himself from God and connected with animals.
- While I am keenly aware that this sin may not be committed amongst us, I want to close by looking at ourselves in this mirror of God's Word. What I mean by that is this; we are all too prone to quickly dismiss passages like this, and in so doing we become smug and self righteous.
 - If that's your response to this study, I want to encourage you to revisit that area of secret sin in your life, and how it could be destroying you.
 - William Newell - It will not do to hold up your hands in self-righteous dismay, and say, These verses do not in any particular describe me. For God will show you and me that this is exactly the race as we were born into it, and out of which the only rescue is being born again. All these things pertain to lost, fallen man. Man is a tenant of the earth only by Divine grace, since the Deluge.

12. They are filled with depraved wickedness (Verses 29-31)

29 They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, 30 slanderers, God-haters, insolent, arrogant and boastful; they invent ways of doing evil; they disobey their parents; 31 they are senseless, faithless, heartless, ruthless.

- There are a number of details that can be easily missed in reading this list
 - Paul says; "they have become filled..."
 - This implies that there is a descending into this evil and wickedness which further substantiates the evidence of God having given them over.
 - It's as if Paul paints a picture on the canvass of their depravity, portraying how they, of their own volition, have let go of, the hand of God. Once they let go, God let's go and gives them over to that which they become filled with as they descend into every kind of evil wickedness.
 - They go down into this dark abyss of greed, depravity, envy, murder, strife, deceit, malice, gossip, slander, hatred, insolence, arrogance, etc.
- 21 things that man had become filled with, in that which Paul, by the Holy Spirit, lists here in this letter to Rome.
 - I would like to ask you to give the Holy Spirit permission to show you, you, in this list.
 - Envy: Has my heart been filled with hate towards someone else because of what they possess, who they are, or even the ease of their life?

- Murder: Have I become so filled with anger in my heart for someone, that I've secretly wished harm upon them, or even that they would die?
- Strife: Am I one who is given to arguing with others, or contentious and antagonistic towards others, even to the point that I like a good fight?
- Gossip: Am I nosy, and one who talks about people in ways I would never talk directly to the one I'm gossiping about, and even enjoying it?
- Slander: Do I assassinate the character and reputation of another with no regard to the harm I cause even bearing false witness in a rumor?
- Notice how gossip and disobeying parents is listed along with murder and being a God-hater.
- Also, this list may remind you of a similar list the Apostle Paul writes of when he pen's his second letter to Timothy describing the last days.
 - 2 Timothy 3:1 But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. 2 People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, 3 without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, 4 treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God— 5 having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with them.

13. They are knowingly continuing to do evil (Verse 32)

32 Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them.

- Here's another one of those places where we are able to discover the "why" behind the "what," of both doing the evil and approving of the evil.
 - The reason "why" they do "what" they do is because they've "disapproved" of God, and in so doing they have "approved" of unspeakable evil.
 - In other words, man has created an environment that will be conducive to his evil, in so much as to have it both approved of, and accepted in.
 - The seriousness of mans deliberateness cannot be overstated, in that man knows God's righteous decree is that such things deserve death. Yet, not only do they continue in it, they manufacture an infrastructure, issuing their own permit, giving approval to those who also practice it.
- One commentator aptly wrote; "Paul's punch-line is that not only do they do what they know they ought not to do, they create a society in which these things are accepted and approved. They want others to approve of them, and so they approve of others when they behave like this. Every time I condone behavior in others, I make it easier to do it myself, because I create a climate of public opinion in which this is acceptable.
- "have I become guilty of, what's been coined as, 'tabloid' Christianity?"
 - Tabloid Christianity is when I, as a Christian, love to read about the wicked behavior of others because it makes me feel better about myself.
 - Let's be honest shall we? If the truth be known, we are all prone to, and all guilty of, seeing this much the same way as a supermarket tabloid. There's a disconnect between us and God's Word because we derive a sick and sinful satisfaction in the smugness of our self-righteousness.
 - Isaiah 64:6a NKJV But we are all like an unclean thing, And all our righteousnesses are like filthy rags;...
 - Luke 18:9 To some who were confident of their own righteousness and looked down on everybody else, Jesus told this parable: 10 "Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. 11 The Pharisee stood up and prayed about himself: 'God, I thank you that I am not like other men—robbers, evildoers, adulterers—or even like this tax collector. 12 I fast twice a week and give a tenth of all I get.' 13 "But the tax collector stood at a distance. He would not even look up to heaven, but beat his breast and said, 'God, have mercy on me, a sinner.' 14 "I tell you that this man, rather than the other, went home justified before God. For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted."

The Law (Ro 2)

- We should not judge others because we all started at the same position – outside of the family of God
 - Be thankful for God's mercy and grace to others, because it was this same mercy and grace that saved you
 - We move into the family of God by grace through faith. We live in the family of God by a life of active love.
 - A genuine saving faith will ALWAYS produce a life of good works
 - James 2:14 What good is it, my brothers, if a man claims to have faith but has no deeds? Can such faith save him? 15 Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. 16 If one of you says to him, "Go, I wish you well; keep warm and well fed," but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it? 17 In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead.
- Good vs evil
 - 7 To those who by persistence in doing good seek glory, honor and immortality, he will give eternal life.
 - 8 But for those who are self-seeking and who reject the truth and follow evil, there will be wrath and anger.
 - 9 There will be trouble and distress for every human being who does evil
 - 10 but glory, honor and peace for everyone who does good
- 10 Commandments – The law sets the standard by which all will be judged
 - Why does God give the law? It is God's requirements
 - God's law is not given for people in the family of God (who have been forgiven through the blood of Christ), but people outside of the family of God. It provides the straight line by which God will measure them.
 - No one is rewarded for obeying the law – that's what is expected (example – driving laws).
 - You are only punished for disobeying the law.
 - The Law was never meant to save anyone – it's meant to show God's requirements
- First for the Jew, then for the Gentile – For God does not show favoritism
 - The Jews are under a covenant with God to obey the Law
 - No one is able to obey the law fully
 - Ro 2:25 Circumcision has value if you observe the law, but if you break the law, you have become as though you had not been circumcised. 26 If those who are not circumcised keep the law's requirements, will they not be regarded as though they were circumcised?
 - Gentiles do not have the law
 - Some people obey it without understanding it, others understand it but don't obey it
 - When they do by nature things required by the law, they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts
 - It is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous.
 - All who sin apart from the law will also perish apart from the law. All who sin under the law will be judged by the law
- What advantage is there to being a Jew?
 - Ro 3:1 What advantage, then, is there in being a Jew, or what value is there in circumcision? 2 Much in every way! First of all, they have been entrusted with the very words of God.
 - Except for Luke and Acts, the Bible was written entirely by the Jews
 - God gives His Word through the Jews
 - God made 3 unconditional covenants with the Jews
 - Abrahamic Covenant
 - Land Covenant

We Need God's Leading (Ro 2)

God is leading all mankind to the conclusion that he is guilty before the Judge of the universe

- Thesis lynchpin: Romans 1:16-17 I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile. For in the gospel a righteousness from God is revealed, a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith."
 - "Romans 2 supports the manifesto message of Romans 1:16-17, [in that], the saving righteousness of God is revealed to anyone who bows the knee with the obedience of faith, but to no-one else."
- Paul, by the Holy Spirit, ever so beautifully, and brilliantly, moves from the guilt of the immoral to the moral.
 - In Ro 1:18-32, we saw God as right to damn the wrong of the evil practices of the immoral
 - Now it's those who fancy themselves as being moral.
 - It's for this reason, there is this need, for a righteous God to lead both the immoral and the moral to a plea of guilty in the courtroom of eternity.
 - The purpose is that God is leading all mankind to the conclusion that he is guilty before the Judge of the universe in the courtroom of eternity.
- William Newell - "We have traced the awful history of the human race in iniquity and idolatry, ...and have seen that fearful indictment of above twenty counts which ends Chapter One. We now enter upon the greatest passage in all Scripture as to the principles and processes of God in His estimate, or judgment, concerning His creatures. If God is 'Judge of all,' and if the whole world is to be 'brought under the judgment of God,' ...God will surely take pains to make known the great principles of His action, so that men may know beforehand how He will decide and act. Otherwise, men would 'imagine vain things' about the true God, and hug their delusions to their own damnation."
- religious morality vs spiritual maturity
 - As born-again Christian's, we tend to see ourselves as moral. Of course, morality should characterize the life of a believer but, it's when a religious morality becomes the replacement for a spiritual maturity.
 - The difference between religious morality, and spiritual maturity, is that one is plastic and manufactured, and the other is organic and grown.
 - By way of illustration, religious morality is the bowl of plastic fruit, whereas spiritual maturity is the real deal as the bowl of real delicious fruit.
 - I would suggest that the church today has become plastic, shallow, and fake. Outwardly, there's this morality, but inwardly, there's no maturity.
 - The danger for us as the church of Jesus Christ, is that we can misrepresent the grace we've been the recipient of when coming to Christ. Sadly, an un-Christian world sees this so called "religious morality" in the Christian world as judging, condescending, and even condemning.
 - I believe one reason we have chapters like this in the Bible, is so that the Holy Spirit can lead us back to that real deal Christianity of the Bible.
- What we're seeing is how that the beloved Apostle is ever so brilliantly, yet bluntly, leading those reading this Epistle to a critical conclusion. Namely, the need for mankind to both recognize and conclude that the state of his sinful condition, deserves the wrath of a just and holy God.

1. To Self-Judgment (Verse 1)

- 1) You, therefore, have no excuse, you who pass judgment on someone else, for at whatever point you judge the other, you are condemning yourself, because you who pass judgment do the same things.
- Paul says they're without excuse even seeing themselves as moral. They pass judgment on those doing what they themselves are guilty of.
 - In effect, Paul is telling them that every time they condemn someone else, they are condemning themselves before God.
 - God judges me by the same standard that I judge.
 - This principle is echoed throughout the scriptures and is replete in the pages of Holy Writ.

- Matthew 7:1-2 "Do not judge, or you too will be judged. For in the same way you judge others, you will be judged, and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you.
- Luke 6:37 "Do not judge, and you will not be judged. Do not condemn, and you will not be condemned. Forgive, and you will be forgiven.
- 1 Corinthians 11:31-32 But if we judged ourselves, we would not come under judgment. When we are judged by the Lord, we are being disciplined so that we will not be condemned with the world.
- Does this mean we should never judge the sinful practices of another?
 - No, being judgmental isn't synonymous with having good judgment.
 - As one so aptly put it, we should be fruit inspectors with good judgment not judges in a court of law simply passing judgment and condemning.
 - This is yet another "why" behind the "what" of God's Word as it relates to the text we have before us.
 - Judge self - not others.

2. To Truth (Verses 2-3)

(2) Now we know that God's judgment against those who do such things is based on truth. (3) So when you, a mere man, pass judgment on them and yet do the same things, do you think you will escape God's judgment?

- It's vital we remember that Paul is still arguing his case for man's ungodliness and unrighteousness, and God's justice and righteousness.
 - God's judgment is based on truth
 - He asks them how, knowing God's judgments are based on truth, they will escape judgment when they do the very things they're judging.
 - If man does the same things, even if he disapproves of them, he will also be judged
- Here's a question; "In light of a just and righteous God, why does Paul make such a big deal about being so judgmental and condemning?
 - It's because we, like them, are prone to think we're justified in our disapproval of the practices mentioned at the end of the previous chapter.
 - The truth is, we are right to disapprove of evil but, we are most certainly wrong if we falsely think our disapproval means we won't be judged.
 - We're all prone to see ourselves as rather good people as compared to the depraved and wicked people in Ro 1
 - I suppose you could say that the Holy Spirit, through Paul's epistle, is making it very clear that this is not based in reality nor truth.
 - God does not grade on a curve

3. To Repentance (Verses 4-5)

(4) Or do you show contempt for the riches of his kindness, tolerance and patience, not realizing that God's kindness leads you toward repentance? (5) But because of your stubbornness and your unrepentant heart, you are storing up wrath against yourself for the day of God's wrath, when his righteous judgment will be revealed.

- What Paul is not saying is that every single time we sin and don't repent, we're subject to God's wrath.
 - God's grace is not that ambiguous.
 - It is stubborn and unrepentant hearts that store up God's wrath, and they show contempt for God's kindness, which leads one to repentance.
- One commentator said it best when they wrote; "We must not misunderstand this - as those with sensitive consciences are likely to do - to mean that my security is only as strong as my most recent repentance, or that every time I sin, I place myself in danger of hell until I repent (because I fear that if I die with any unconfessed sin I will be condemned). That misunderstanding would be clean contrary to the gospel of grace which Paul expounds so wonderfully in this letter. Paul is not condemning shaky discipleship, but complacent and persistent hypocrisy, the pseudo-discipleship that thinks the need for repentance ended with my 'conversion.' What Paul wants to expose is not the life that sometimes falls into sin (and therefore needs repentance as an ongoing discipline), but rather the hard and impenitent heart that systematically will not repent. Paul speaks not to the penitent heart that lacks assurance, but to the impenitent heart that has a false assurance."

- Paul is speaking of the false, or fake, Christians, if you prefer.
 - These are the ones who have contempt for, thus see no need for, repentance.
 - It is to these who have both a stubborn and unrepentant heart that will one day stand before a just and Holy God on this day of God's wrath.
 - Very soon, the day is coming, when the righteous judgment of God will be revealed.
- William Newell - So they are today, in these last days: "Treasuring up unto themselves wrath" for that fearful "day of wrath." Remember, if the goodness of God toward you is not leading you to repentance, then every day, every hour, you live, drops another drop into the terrible "treasure" of indignation which will burst the great dam of God's long-suffering—in the great Day of Wrath, when God shall reveal His righteous judgment! (Of course, if you flee to Calvary, you will "not come into judgment" (John 5:24): for Judgment has already struck there!)
- This brings us to two questions:
 - Have you been led and fled in repentance to Calvary escaping judgment day?
 - If you have and are truly saved then what did the Holy Spirit show you today that you're needing God's leading to do?
 - Am I needing to repent of my religious morality, because God is leading me to spiritual maturity?

4. To Eternal-Life (Verses 6-8)

(6) God "will give to each person according to what he has done." (7) To those who by persistence in doing good seek glory, honor and immortality, he will give eternal life. (8) But for those who are self-seeking and who reject the truth and follow evil, there will be wrath and anger.

- It's important to note that the wrath of God here mentioned carries with it the idea of a heated anger.
 - Thumos in the Greek, thermos in English.
- God will give all of us either the gift of eternal life, or the wrath of His eternal anger, and the litmus test will be graded on the good we've done.
 - Herein lies the problem - no one, save One, has ever done good. The only way one who sees themselves as morally good is really good, is if they always do good, glorifying and honoring God.
 - William Newell - "Who will judge every one according to [what he has done?]." How could it be otherwise? You know that when a case comes to trial in courts of law, men first endeavor, through questioning witnesses, to discover the facts. Now God knows all the facts about every one of Adam's race, and His judgment must be in accordance with them. It is not that God desires you to be damned, but, contrariwise, to believe on His Son, upon Whom His judgment for human sin fell at Calvary."
- God's purpose is to lead man to His need for eternal life, but He must first lead that man to his need for mercy, or he receives eternal wrath.
 - If I don't see my need for it, I'll never allow you to lead me to it.
 - Conversely, if I see I'm guilty I'll throw myself before judge, begging for mercy.
 - However, if I see myself as not guilty, according to what I have done, then I will be deceived and believe that I deserve justice, and not mercy.

5. To Peace (Verses 9-10)

(9) There will be trouble and distress for every human being who does evil: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile; (10) but glory, honor and peace for everyone who does good: first for the Jew, then for the Gentile.

- Paul offers good, only to the good

- The Apostle Paul is doing the same thing here in verses 9 and 10, as he did in verses 6-8, by offering good, only to the good.
- In so doing, he makes it clear that God's bar of goodness is raised so much higher than their moral piety could ever reach.
- Then, Paul takes it a step further by contrasting the good with the evil, for Jew or Gentile, in that it's peace for the good, distress for the evil.
 - If man is not good, and the evidence proves he's not, then he will never drink from this cup of peace.
- Now, we still have a problem. If no one is good, save One, then why the contrast of good and evil?
 - Rather than Paul saying that it's sin versus sinlessness, he says it's an impenitent heart verses a repentant heart
 - Just as glory, honor, and peace will come by a repentant heart, so too does trouble and distress come by the impenitent heart.
- I've heard it said that one can never know the peace of God, until they have peace with God.
 - The antithesis of peace is turmoil and distress.
 - They need God's leading to that peace.
 - Maybe this would explain why it is that our lives are filled with turmoil and distress instead of peace. Maybe it's because of our impenitent hearts.

6. To Obedience (Verses 11-13)

(11) For God does not show favoritism. (12) All who sin apart from the law will also perish apart from the law, and all who sin under the law will be judged by the law. (13) For it is not those who hear the law who are righteous in God's sight, but it is those who obey the law who will be declared righteous.

- It's only those who do what's right in the sight of God that will be declared as right before God.
 - Only those who are obedient to God, will be declared as righteous before God.
 - Conversely those who are disobedient to God, will not be.
 - Paul stays on message and never veers off – Man needs God's leading understand that he is guilty before the Judge of the universe.
- God doesn't show favoritism
 - Why does Paul preface the contrast of those right in God's site, and those not, in this way?
 - I believe that the answer is found in the context in which he writes it. He refers to Gentiles as apart from the law, and Jews as under the law.
 - In the context of this passage, Paul paints the colors of graphic and stark contrast, on the canvass of their perceived goodness and morality.
 - Contrasts:
 - Eternal life with eternal wrath
 - Good with evil
 - Distress with peace
 - Under the law with apart from the law
 - Jew with Gentile.
 - Unless that priceless diamond of God's perfect righteousness, is placed on the black cloth of our sin and unrighteousness, we will not see it.
 - Unless Paul, as the prosecuting attorney, contrasts the black of man's sin with the white of Christ's sinlessness, then the verdict is; "not guilty."
- Have you noticed that there is a very profound progression in how needing God's leading will lead one to the other.
 - Judging one's self leads me to God's truth about my sinful condition.
 - This in turn leads me via the kindness of God, to a genuine repentance.
 - Repentance before God leads me to eternal life from God
 - Then knowing I have peace with God and the peace of God, I'm led to obey God.

7. To Honesty (Verses 14-16)

(14) (Indeed, when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature things required by the law, they are a law for themselves, even though they do not have the law, (15) since they show that the requirements of the law are written on their hearts, their consciences also bearing witness, and their thoughts now accusing, now even defending them.) (16) This will take place on the day when God will judge men's secrets through Jesus Christ, as my gospel declares.

- What Paul is not saying - to do what the law requires is to fulfill what it requires.
- Why does Paul make such a big deal about Gentiles doing things required by the law when they do not have the law?
 - The answer is found in verse 15 - though absent in writing, they have the writing on their hearts.
 - In concert with the law written on the tablets of their hearts, the conscience makes for a wonderful harmony bearing witness with obedience.
- People need to be honest with their selves and their God, whose law accuses otherwise.
 - Until a man is honest about his need for the Lord, he will never have hope of being honest before the Lord, and this only comes from the Lord.
- William Newell "...[The] Law [is] as an external revelation from God ...[and] does not mean that they are fulfilling the claims of the Law, for they do not have it, but that they are unconsciously aware, as moral beings, of what is right and wrong. ...God is describing how He has constituted all men: there is a "work" within them, making them morally conscious. ...Man's conscience bears witness to this law-work in his moral constitution; consequently men daily, hourly, constantly, are having "inward thoughts" which have voices of accusation or approval, according as a man's conduct may be."

8. To Integrity (Verses 17-21)

(17) Now you, if you call yourself a Jew; if you rely on the law and brag about your relationship to God; (18) if you know his will and approve of what is superior because you are instructed by the law; (19) if you are convinced that you are a guide for the blind, a light for those who are in the dark, (20) an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of infants, because you have in the law the embodiment of knowledge and truth— (21) you, then, who teach others, do you not teach yourself? You who preach against stealing, do you steal?

- Lest we see Paul as being seemingly sarcastic and even sort of caustic, we must remember what it is that he is needing to accomplish in this. Also, we must remember to whom it is he is needing to accomplish it with. He has to hit moral law-abiding Jews head on with their immorality. It's for this reason that he brings into question their integrity, by asking them in their piety how they can preach against stealing, while stealing.
- The only way man can hope to see himself as he really is before a holy God is to dismantle his self-perceived integrity
 - Integrity is defined as the adherence to moral and ethical principles.
 - Furthermore, and for the purpose of our study here, it's defined as the state of being whole, or undiminished, sound, or perfect in its condition.
 - In so much that, in the context of what Paul is writing, those adhering to the morality of the law are unable to preserve the integrity of the law.
- What's the difference between honesty and integrity?
 - The short answer is honesty tells the truth, integrity preserves the truth.
 - With honesty I can be faithfully trusted, with integrity I can be faithfully tested.
 - The integrity of God's Word exposes the dishonesty of man's words.
 - Honesty will say it, integrity will follow through and do it.
 - If I am honest with myself, and about myself, I will have integrity before God.
- Revelation 3:13-22 NKJV (13) "He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches." (14) "And to the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write, 'These things says the Amen, the Faithful and True Witness, the Beginning of the creation of God: (15) "I know your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish you were cold or hot. (16) So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of My mouth. (17) Because you say, 'I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing'—and do not know that you are wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked— (18) I counsel you to buy from Me gold refined in the fire, that you may be rich; and white garments, that you may be clothed, that the shame of your nakedness may not be revealed; and anoint your eyes with eye salve, that you may see. (19) As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent. (20) Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and dine with him, and he with Me. (21) To him who overcomes I will grant to sit with Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My Father on His throne. (22) "He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches." ' ' "

- One cannot help but notice that there is an eerie similarity between the moral Jews there in Rome, and the lukewarm Christians in Laodicea.
- It seems they both did not see themselves as God saw them, which explains why they did not see their need for God to lead them to repent.
- There are many similarities, the most interesting of which is that their dishonesty, and their lack of integrity, was the thing that blinded them.

9. To Purity (Verses 22-24)

(22) You who say that people should not commit adultery, do you commit adultery? You who abhor idols, do you rob temples? (23) You who brag about the law, do you dishonor God by breaking the law? (24) As it is written: "God's name is blasphemed among the Gentiles because of you."

- Paul tells them the reason God is dishonored is because of them, quoting Isaiah
 - Is 52:4 For this is what the Sovereign LORD says: "At first my people went down to Egypt to live; lately, Assyria has oppressed them. 5 "And now what do I have here?" declares the LORD. "For my people have been taken away for nothing, and those who rule them mock," declares the LORD. "And all day long my name is constantly blasphemed.
- We, like them, are prone to see ourselves in a favorable light.
 - Because we see ourselves as pure and holy, we need to be exposed in our impurity, because we're unholy
 - When non-Christians hear Christians talk about purity, yet they themselves are riddled with impurity, then God is blasphemed.
 - When we won't, thus don't, see ourselves in this way, then we won't see our need, and don't allow God to lead, to repentance in godly sorrow. This is a rough way to live the Christian life.
 - The unrepentant life is a hard life. Conversely a repentant life is a blessed life.
 - Proverbs 13:15 KJV Good understanding giveth favour: but the way of transgressors is hard.
- When I see myself, and present myself, as being good, moral pure and holy, I put a crushing pressure on myself to maintain an image of piety. However, when I see myself as not being good, moral, pure and holy, not only is the pressure off, I won't blaspheme God in my hypocrisy.
 - I not only don't blaspheme God in my hypocrisy, I actually bring glory and honor to God in my honesty, because He's the source of my purity.
 - This is why I can not only tell people they shouldn't commit adultery, I myself won't and don't commit adultery, or even idolatry for that matter.
 - The how of a holy life, is found in the purity, and the power, of the person of the Holy Spirit. Without Him, I'll never drink from the cup of purity.

10. To Sanctification (Verses 25-29)

(25) Circumcision has value if you observe the law, but if you break the law, you have become as though you had not been circumcised. (26) If those who are not circumcised keep the law's requirements, will they not be regarded as though they were circumcised? (27) The one who is not circumcised physically and yet obeys the law will condemn you who, even though you have the written code and circumcision, are a lawbreaker. (28) A man is not a Jew if he is only one outwardly, nor is circumcision merely outward and physical. (29) No, a man is a Jew if he is one inwardly; and circumcision is circumcision of the heart, by the Spirit, not by the written code. Such a man's praise is not from men, but from God.

- What in the world is Paul saying? How in the world does what Paul is saying apply to my life, in my world?
 - Going to church outwardly does not make a Christian. Who I am outwardly, must be who I also am inwardly
 - Going to a gym makes a body builder not, as going to a church makes a Christian not.
 - William Newell – For he is not a Christian who is one outwardly, nor is that ‘church-membership’ which is outward in the flesh; but he is a Christian who is one inwardly; and ‘church-membership’ is that of the heart, in the spirit not in the letter, whose praise is not of men, but of God.”
- Just as the Jews had the circumcision and the law outwardly, didn't mean that they were Jews inwardly though they most certainly thought so. So too is this true for Christians who, just because they act like it outwardly, doesn't mean they are Christians inwardly, though they think so.
 - How will one know? There will be a sanctification that comes from the cutting and removing of their flesh, in the circumcision of their heart. When one has circumcised their heart, it becomes an outward sign of an inward reality, as the evidence externally of sanctification internally.
 - Simply put, it's doing away with the flesh, without which we can never hope to experience a life of purification, consecration and sanctification.
 - A Jew is a Jew if he is one inwardly, so too is a Christian a Christian if he is one inwardly.
- This is a matter of eternal life and eternal death
 - The reason the Holy Spirit has Paul address this at length and with such strength, is that they thought circumcision guaranteed their salvation.
 - They were even affirmed outwardly by men praising them which is why Paul writes in verse 29 how that their praise came from men, not God.
 - Herein lies the problem, and it begs this question; "are men praising and affirming me outwardly, in the place of God affirming me inwardly?"
 - This comes from the pit of hell.
 - If I become like these Jews that Paul is confronting, and believe my salvation is guaranteed by my circumcision, I will go to hell for all eternity. If as a professing Christian I think I'm saved and affirmed outwardly, absent regeneration and sanctification inwardly, I'll go to hell for all eternity.
 - Just because you go to church, as a professing Christian, doesn't mean you're saved. Outward certainty, must come from the inward reality.
- Corrie Ten Boom - “If I’m at your house and I began to move from room to room straightening pictures on your wall, that’s commendable, but if your house is on fire, and I began to move from room to room straightening pictures, I’ve become evil, and wicked not choosing to use my time to save your life.”
- J.C. Ryle ~ A day will come when those who are not born again will wish that they had never been born at all.

Romans 1 – Sinful people are given over to a reprobate mind

God’s Wrath on Unrighteousness

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness, 19 because what may be known of God is manifest in them, for God has shown it to them. 20 For since the creation of the world His invisible attributes are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal power and Godhead, so that they are without excuse, 21 because, although they knew God, they did not glorify Him as God, nor were thankful, but became futile in their thoughts, and their foolish hearts were darkened. 22 Professing to be wise, they became fools, 23 and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like corruptible man—and birds and four-footed animals and creeping things.

24 Therefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, in the lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies among themselves, 25 who exchanged the truth of God for the lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 For this reason God gave them up to vile passions. For even their women exchanged the natural use for what is against nature. 27 Likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust for one another, men with men committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error which was due.

28 And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a debased mind, to do those things which are not fitting; 29 being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual immorality, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil-mindedness; they are whisperers, 30 backbiters, haters of God, violent, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31 undiscerning, untrustworthy, unloving, unforgiving, unmerciful; 32 who, knowing the righteous judgment of God, that those who practice such things are deserving of death, not only do the same but also approve of those who practice them.

Should we be unrighteous to demonstrate His grace? (Ro 3)

- We are, by nature, under God's wrath
 - Once in the family of God, if we keep spiraling down instead of up, we will still be subject to God's wrath
- If our falseness enhances God's truthfulness, and so increases His glory, why are we condemned as sinners
 - The more we sin, the better His grace looks
 - Ro 3:8 Why not say—as we are being slanderously reported as saying and as some claim that we say—"Let us do evil that good may result"? Their condemnation is deserved.
- This is the Jewish thought process – You take a principle, then push it to its extreme edge, and see if it breaks down
 - Ex – Mt 22:28 Marriage at the Resurrection – The seven husbands

Why Christians Don't Study Their Bibles (Ro 3:1-8)

- Paul will now begin to round a corner by both asking, and answering, several questions.
 - Paul is taking this approach in order to strip them of everything they have held onto as being true, so as to replace it with what's really true.
 - In their self-perceived righteousness and their privileged circumcision, they saw themselves as being a true Jew, when in fact they were not.
- Jon Courson – "... in chapter 1, Paul addresses the unrighteous heathen. In chapter 2, he deals with the self-righteous hypocrite. And here in chapter 3, he'll speak to the super-righteous Hebrew. - - "Creation around them condemns the unrighteous," Paul declared in chapter 1. "Conscience within them condemns the self-righteous," he proclaimed in chapter 2. And in chapter 3, we will hear him say that the commandments given to them condemn the super-righteous."
 - Chapter 1 – Paul addresses the unrighteous heathen – Creation around them condemns the unrighteous
 - Ch 2 – Paul deals with the self-righteous hypocrite – Conscience within them condemns the self-righteous
 - Ch 3 – Paul speaks to the super-righteous Hebrew – The commandments given to them condemn the super-righteous
- Paul will use the commandments of God, as the Word of God (the Scriptures), to condemn them in this condition.
 - Were Paul not do this in this way, they would be left to being deceived in what they've believed would guarantee their salvation.

- As God's chosen people, they had erroneously fancied themselves as being super-righteous so now Paul has to dismantle that with the Word. Paul does this, this way, because he needs to show them, in the mirror of God's Word, how that everything they saw as being true, was not.
 - They saw themselves as righteous in their privileged circumcision and in so doing thought they were a true Jew, when in fact they were not.
 - Paul has been dismantling this notion of how they falsely fancy themselves being guaranteed salvation vis-a-vis their circumcision, as Jews.
 - He will use the toolbox of God's Law to condemn them in this condition. Absent this, they're left to their own perception, which is a deception.
- The main reason we don't open up and study our Bibles is because we don't want our Bibles to open up and study us.
 - It's uncomfortable for the comfortable (Verses 1-2)
 - It's faithful for the faithless (Verses 3-4)
 - It's righteous for the unrighteous (Verses 5-6)
 - It's sinless for the sinful (Verses 7-8)

1. It's uncomfortable for the comfortable (Verses 1-2)

(1) What advantage, then, is there in being a Jew, or what value is there in circumcision? (2) Much in every way! First of all, they have been entrusted with the very words of God.

- After having confronted the Jews about being real Jews inwardly, Paul rhetorically asks what advantage or value there is in circumcision. He answers this question by saying there's much in every way, the first of which is that the Jews were entrusted with the very Word of God.
- They can no longer be comfortable and secure as Jews outwardly.
 - Paul has succeeded in making them very uncomfortable in that which they had become quite comfortable in, namely, outward circumcision as their assurance of salvation
 - He has to get them from Point A to Point B by showing them the fallacy of point A, and in so doing, discomfort them enough to consider Point B.
 - Point A represents the Jew in the circumcision outwardly
 - Point B represents the truly saved Jew in the circumcision of the heart inwardly.
 - This would explain why Paul says what he says in the way in which he says it.
 - He must shake their Jewish confidence to the core, outwardly. It's only then that they're unable to remain comfortable in their circumcision guaranteeing their salvation, as it's merely fleshly, only externally.
 - Now they're ready for that which is, instead, spiritual and internal – that being the double edged surgical knife of God's Word circumcising them.
- In application to us as professing Christians – "On which rack am I hanging the hat of my assurance that I'm saved?"
 - Are you comfortable with your church attendance, water baptism, or outward profession of faith as being enough to guarantee your salvation? It's not!
 - I'll go as far as suggesting that this should make you uncomfortable, if you've become too comfortable with this brand of Christianity.
- So, what then is the value in attending church or professing to be a Christian? There's much in every way!
 - First and foremost, the Word of God – When I get into God's Word, God's Word gets into me, and changes me from the inside out, by cutting away my flesh, circumcising my heart.
 - This is why it is so absolutely vital to study the Word of God, and allow God to make me uncomfortable by cutting between my soul and spirit.
 - Hebrews 4:12 NIV For the word of God is living and active. Sharper than any double-edged sword, it penetrates even to dividing soul and spirit, joints and marrow; it judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart.

- Absent the uncomfortable cutting and judging of the thoughts and attitudes in and of my heart, I'm abandoned and destined to perish in hell.
- In the Devilish deception of comfortable Christianity, studying God's Word is dismissed
 - Thus the discomfort of God's Word studying me is disallowed.
 - Would to God that we would be numbered amongst those who've submitted and surrendered to the sharpness of God's double-edged sword.

2. It's faithful for the faithless (Verses 3-4)

(3) What if some did not have faith? Will their lack of faith nullify God's faithfulness? (4) Not at all! Let God be true, and every man a liar. As it is written: "So that you may be proved right when you speak and prevail when you judge."

- Paul rhetorically asks another question, this time it's as it relates to those not having faith nullifying the faithfulness of God. He again answers the question saying; "not at all!" Then he tells them to let God be true and every man a liar and quotes David in Psalms.
 - Psalms 51:4 NIV Against you, you only, have I sinned and done what is evil in your sight, so that you are proved right when you speak and justified when you judge.
- Paul uses David as an example because, in spite of David's sin and unfaithfulness, God was still faithful to him.
 - God's faithfulness to David was not contingent on David's faithfulness to God – God's Word to David remained faithful
 - William Newell - "That nation was entrusted with the oracles of God—inestimable, eternal advantage! despite their unfaithfulness. Every writer of the Bible is, we believe from this, an Israelite. Jewish faithlessness could not annul God's faithfulness in carrying out those oracles. God must be found true, though every man be false (to whatever God entrusts to him). Paul instances David's most humble confession and ascription of righteousness to God, after David's own great sin had shown David himself faithless to the royal covenant Jehovah had committed to him."
- Here's the take away from all of this and it's yet another reason why it's so critical for us as believers in Jesus Christ to study the Word of God:
 - If we don't know the Word of God, we won't know this truth about God.
 - If we don't know the Word of God, we can't know the God of the Word.
 - When I don't know that God, true to His Word, is faithful to me, even when I am faithless to Him, it's devastating to my relationship with Him.
 - Here's why – I will wrongly adopt and embrace a "when I - then God" Christianity, that believes this notion of God only being faithful, when I am.
 - This brand of the Christian faith not only have it wrong, they have it backwards – thinking when we do for God, then He will do something for us. That's not how it works, it's the other way around. When I'm the recipient of God's goodness and faithfulness I respond in kind by faith, to Him!
 - Just as God was still faithful when they were faithless, so too is God's Word faithful to study us and expose us in our faithlessness

3. It's righteous for the unrighteous (Verses 5-6)

(5) But if our unrighteousness brings out God's righteousness more clearly, what shall we say? That God is unjust in bringing his wrath on us? (I am using a human argument.) (6) Certainly not! If that were so, how could God judge the world?

- If God uses man's unrighteousness for the purpose of revealing His righteousness, then punishing man for it seems unfair.
 - Paul is arguing from a human standpoint
 - To avoid judgment by God's Word, man will pass judgment on God's Word.
 - In our unrighteousness in this fallen world, we seek to dismiss God's righteousness in His perfect Word, because we don't want to be judged.

- We then cling on to this false hope that somehow we're good, and for God's Word or God's people to convince me otherwise is judgmental.
- William Newell - "What the apostle is attacking is the false hopes of men to evade that judgment. Christ has been judged and smitten in our stead. But, alas, how a man hates to come to the cross as one "to whom that stroke was due" (Isa. 53:8). But if you manage to escape conviction of sin, and thus miss personal faith in the Crucified One, you will go to hell forever."
 - Is 53:8 NAS By oppression and judgment He was taken away;
And as for His generation, who considered
That He was cut off out of the land of the living
For the transgression of my people, to whom the stroke was due?

4. It's sinless for the sinful (Verses 7-8)

(7) Someone might argue, "If my falsehood enhances God's truthfulness and so increases his glory, why am I still condemned as a sinner?" (8) Why not say—as we are being slanderously reported as saying and as some claim that we say—"Let us do evil that good may result"? Their condemnation is deserved.

- It seems that Paul is asking and answering the same question in verses 5-6 in a different way here in verses 7-8. Why?
 - It's extremely difficult to communicate the Gospel of Christ to those who don't see themselves as sinners
 - People don't see themselves as sinners because they won't open up and study the mirror of God's Law within God's Word.
 - It's so crucial to study the scriptures so the scriptures can study us, and show us, "us," in our sinful state. If not, I'm not interested in salvation.
 - I can sin all I want because I'm saved by grace and God will always forgive me anyway
 - This has been the source of much debate and controversy within Christendom
 - Paul answers this quite bluntly at the end of verse 8 - their condemnation is deserved.
- Application to us in our lives – This applies to two groups of people, both of whom see themselves as good
 - The common denominator with both is that they live their lives with the presupposition that, though false, they're good enough to go to heaven.
 - The first group are those who profess to be Christians because they go to church, have a Bible, have been baptized, or they prayed a prayer.
 - To the first group, the beloved Apostle would say; "you think you're a Christian and that you're saved, but you're not, thus you're condemned."
 - The second group may be Christians however, by the fruit of their carnal and worldly lives, you would never know it, and you can't confront it.
 - To the second group he'd say; "you can't keep sinning thinking you're a Christian, as it may be that you weren't born again in the first place."
- William Newell - "...if we, professing Christians, consign this whole passage to the Jew, we fall directly into the same terrible trap. Whole multitudes today in Christendom, sheltered in their imagination by the fact that they have "joined" some church, resent the very doctrines that Paul here insists on. Thousands of so-called "church-members" not only have never been brought under real conviction of sin and guilt and personal danger, but rise in anger like the Jews of Paul's day when one preaches their danger directly to them! Now if God paid no attention whatever to the claim of the Jew to be exempt from judgment because he was a Jew, neither will He pay any attention to the claim of the "Baptist" or "Presbyterian," "Episcopalian" or "Methodist,"—as such. For all men are alike guilty, common sinners! What avails before a holy God the special religious names sinners may call themselves? This book of Romans will do you and me no good if we apply it to Jews or Mormons only!"
- I see all this as the "why" behind the "what" of Biblical illiteracy in Christianity today. I won't study the Bible, because I don't want to hear this.

- A recent Barna study shows that “60%” of American’s are unable to name either half (five) of the Ten Commandments or the Four Gospels.” - I’m too comfortable in my faithless self-righteousness, thus instead of the Bible keeping me from sin, my sin has in fact kept me from the Bible.
- It’s for this reason, sound doctrine isn’t tolerated. This brand of Christian will flock to a church that tells them what their ears are itching to hear.
- 2 Timothy 4:1-5 NIV In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who will judge the living and the dead, and in view of his appearing and his kingdom, I give you this charge: (2) Preach the Word; be prepared in season and out of season; correct, rebuke and encourage—with great patience and careful instruction. (3) For the time will come when men will not put up with sound doctrine. Instead, to suit their own desires, they will gather around them a great number of teachers to say what their itching ears want to hear. (4) They will turn their ears away from the truth and turn aside to myths.

Comparing Myself With Other People (Ro 3:9-20)

- If you wanted to subtitle this teaching, it could be something like
 - "The Problems it Causes in my Life"
 - "The Danger it Brings into my Life"
- Comparing myself with other people
 - This is one of the most serious problems in our lives
 - It’s the cause of marriage problems, financial problems, et al.
 - It causes problems for pastors and churches
 - It’s an enormous problem when we share the gospel, hoping to lead someone to Christ.
- Why is this such a problem?
 - Comparing myself to others causes financial problems because I buy things I don’t need with money I don’t have to impress people I don’t like.
 - Comparing myself to others causes marital problems because the grass will start looking greener on the other side of the fence, so-to-speak.
 - Comparing myself to others causes spiritual problems because I won’t see myself as being as bad of a person as the one I’m comparing to.
 - Comparing myself to others causes ministerial problems because the other church is larger with more to offer making me try to grow mine.
- This explains why we have this writing by Paul here in the Epistle of Romans.
 - He’s up against a Jewish constituency who are doing just that. —
 - This is precisely the problem that he will now address, as we see the first danger of comparing myself to other people beginning in verse nine.
- Comparing myself with other people - the problems that it caused, and the dangers that came packaged with it
 - I will see myself as better than others (Verse 9)
 - Paul rhetorically asks, then answers the question, by way of conclusion, that Jews are no better than the Gentiles because both are under sin.
 - I will see myself as a good person (Verses 10-12)
 - Paul quotes scripture saying; no one’s righteous, or understands, nor seeks God. All turned away, are worthless, and no one is, or does good.
 - I will see myself as someone I’m not (Verses 13-18)
 - Paul describes their self-deception in graphic detail. He likens how God saw them through His eyes to why there’s no fear of God in their eyes.
 - I will see myself as being owed something (Verses 19-20)

1. I will see myself as better than others (Verse 9)

(9) What shall we conclude then? Are we any better? Not at all! We have already made the charge that Jews and Gentiles alike are all under sin.

- It's important to understand, when the Jews compared themselves with the Gentiles, they saw themselves as being superior to the Gentiles. So much so that even to this day millions of Jews all over the world will pray a prayer out of the Sidur (Jewish Prayer Book) that goes like this:
"Blessed are you, Hashem, King of the Universe, for not having made me a Gentile. Blessed are you, Hashem, King of the Universe, for not having made me a slave. Blessed are you, Hashem, King of the Universe, for not having made me a woman."
- Paul's conclusion and charge – that Jews and Gentiles are all alike, under sin – would have been explosive
 - Paul is speaking as a Jew, to the Jew, so that the Jew won't see himself as being better than the Gentile.
 - Here-to-fore, the beloved Apostle has had to, by the Holy Spirit, ever so bluntly yet brilliantly, demolish the structure of their Jewish superiority. He doesn't use a wrecking ball, he uses explosives to implode their high minded tower, trapping them, with Gentiles under the rubble of sin.
 - This is what God does with us, when we do, as did the Jew, and compare ourselves with those whom we've fancied ourselves as better than.
 - If the truth be known, I will only compare myself with someone whom I perceive to be inferior to me,
 - If they're not, I will tear them down.
 - When I become caustic, cutting, and condescending to another, it only exposes the insecurity of my inferiority, and my quest for a superiority.
- Romans 12:3 NIV For by the grace given me I say to every one of you: Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment, in accordance with the measure of faith God has given you.
- Matthew 26:31-35 NIV Then Jesus told them, "This very night you will all fall away on account of me, for it is written: 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.' (32) But after I have risen, I will go ahead of you into Galilee." (33) Peter replied, "Even if all fall away on account of you, I never will." (34) "I tell you the truth," Jesus answered, "this very night, before the rooster crows, you will disown me three times." (35) But Peter declared, "Even if I have to die with you, I will never disown you." And all the other disciples said the same.
 - Peter not only thought more highly of himself than he ought, he compared himself, seeing himself as better than the other disciples.

2. I will see myself as a good person (Verses 10-12)

(10) As it is written: "There is no one righteous, not even one (11) there is no one who understands, no one who seeks God. (12) All have turned away, they have together become worthless; there is no one who does good, not even one."

- Paul now begins the quoting of seven Old Testament scriptures
 - Ps 14:1 The fool says in his heart, "There is no God." They are corrupt, their deeds are vile; there is no one who does good. 2 The LORD looks down from heaven on the sons of men to see if there are any who understand, any who seek God. 3 All have turned aside, they have together become corrupt; there is no one who does good, not even one.
- This is straight up, and head on, and it needed to be – The Jews were smug in their self-perceived righteousness seeing themselves as good.
 - Not only are they not good, they do not understand, nor do they seek God. They've turned away, become worthless, and no one does good.
 - Like rotten fruit is worthless, so too are we rotten, and unrighteous, because everyone has turned away from God, and no one seeks God.

- William Newell - "No human being has in himself ever been [good]. Even Adam was not righteous: he was innocent—not knowing good and evil. Let us put far from our minds the fond falsehoods of philosophy, science, and human “religions,” that there have been men of our race who have attained to a standing before God in righteousness. ...Adam, sinning, turned his back and fled from a holy God. God had to take the place of the seeker: “Adam, where art thou?” So it has ever been. No human being has ever sought the holy God. ... Banish from your mind the idea that any human being has ever had a holy thought, or love for a holy God, in his natural heart! Grace is the old phrase expressing the truth that God Himself takes the place of the seeker, convictor, persuader, giver, and final perfecter of all man’s salvation. His sovereign grace goes ahead of, and brings into being, all human response to God."
- Question; "When you're sharing the Gospel with someone, don't they always say something like, I'm a good person, or, I'm still searching?" Or, they'll say something like; "I've never murdered anyone, or, I'm not as bad as some people are? Well, Paul just demolished all of them.
 - The fact of the matter is that when compared to others, I may think I'm good, but it's not good enough, and I'm not seeking or searching either.
- Seeing myself as good disables my ability to respond to God – I will see myself as being so good that I become a god
 - Then, when (not if) something bad happens, I will blame God, and accuse God, of allowing this bad thing to happen to me as a good person.
 - When I realize I'm not good, then, when something good happens, I'll thank God for allowing this good thing to happen to me as a bad person.
 - Seeing myself as a sinner, enables me to respond to other sinners, so when they do something bad, it's not so bad, because they're not good.
 - Conversely, when a bad person does something good, I will become enchanted with them, not disappointed in them, or worse, hurt by them.
 - Furthermore, when I compare myself with them, I will see that I'm a sinner, the same as them, and thus I am certainly not better than them.

3. I will see myself as someone I'm not (Verses 13-18)

(13) "Their throats are open graves; their tongues practice deceit." "The poison of vipers is on their lips." (14) "Their mouths are full of cursing and bitterness." (15) "Their feet are swift to shed blood; (16) ruin and misery mark their ways, (17) and the way of peace they do not know." (18) "There is no fear of God before their eyes."

- Paul gets quite graphic describing man’s condition out there in the world
 - 13 “Their throats are open graves; – Psalm 5:9
 - 13 their tongues practice deceit.” – Zephaniah 3:13
 - 13 “The poison of vipers is on their lips.” – Psalm 140:3
 - 14 “Their mouths are full of cursing and bitterness.” – Psalm 10:7
 - 15 “Their feet are swift to shed blood; – Psalm 14:3
 - 16 ruin and misery mark their ways – Isaiah 59:7
 - 17 and the way of peace they do not know.” – Isaiah 59:8
 - 18 “There is no fear of God before their eyes.” – Psalm 36:1
- Why do we have such detail in Paul's description of man’s condition? God is making a diagnosis to give the prognosis
 - Just as the physician will look down our throats so too does the Great Physician look down our spiritual throats to diagnose our state of health.
 - So, what does God find when He conducts this examination? Man is terminally ill, and beyond cure
 - His throat is like an open grave
 - His tongue practices deceit
 - His lips have the poison of a viper
 - His mouth is full of cursing and bitterness
 - His feet are swift to shed blood

- This is why there is no fear of God before his eyes – Man cannot see God with his eyes, because he sees himself as a god in his own eyes.
- God deals not with symptoms on the surface, only sin beneath the surface
 - The diagnosis is a heart of pride
 - The prognosis is death
- Notice how Paul uses throats, tongues, lips, mouths, feet, and finally, eyes. Why?
 - God is showing us how He sees us through His eyes.
 - God, Who is the same yesterday, today, and forever, has been doing this with us since the beginning.
 - Genesis 3:1-7 NKJV Now the serpent was more cunning than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said to the woman, "Has God indeed said, 'You shall not eat of every tree of the garden'?" (2) And the woman said to the serpent, "We may eat the fruit of the trees of the garden; (3) but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, 'You shall not eat it, nor shall you touch it, lest you die.' " (4) Then the serpent said to the woman, "You will not surely die. (5) For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil." (6) So when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree desirable to make one wise, she took of its fruit and ate. She also gave to her husband with her, and he ate. (7) Then the eyes of both of them were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves coverings.
 - Matthew 6:22-23 NIV "The eye is the lamp of the body. If your eyes are good, your whole body will be full of light. (23) But if your eyes are bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If then the light within you is darkness, how great is that darkness!
- It starts with the eyes!
 - If I see myself through my own eyes, and not God's eyes, I'm deceiving myself, believing myself to be someone I'm not. How I see me, affects and infects every part of me metaphorically, spiritually.
 - Like Eve, I eat with my mouth, that which is pleasant to my eyes. Thus the infection in my throat, the deceit of my tongue, the poison on my lips, the curse from my mouth, leads to the blood, shed by my feet.
- Deuteronomy 8 and 9 speak to this, and of this.
 - God had to humble the Israelites by showing them the deceitful wickedness of their heart, so they would see themselves as God saw them.
 - Only God knows man's heart, and man looks only on the outward appearance and cannot see the heart, so God shows man what He sees.
 - He does this because man becomes proud outwardly, and in order to humble him, He must show him; "him," inwardly, as He sees him, truly.
- This is how – and why – man has the propensity to deceive himself into thinking more highly of himself, and in so doing puffs himself up in pride.
 - When I'm self-deceived in this way, I'm then disabled in every way, and my disabilities are many, the chief of which is, I'm visually impaired. My blindness, will be proportionate to my haughtiness. Because I've been disabled in this way, I'm not enabled in any way, to see my true self.
- It's for this reason that God must show me, me!
 - Left to my self-deceptive pride I have no hope of seeing myself nor my need to humble myself.
 - I suppose you could say this is the why behind the what of the strong words from the Apostle Paul. He gets to the heart of the matter, literally. He gets to, and puts His finger on, the root cause of seeing oneself as someone they're not, namely comparing themselves with other people.
- God deals not with symptoms on the surface, only sin beneath the surface, and the diagnosis is a heart of pride, and the prognosis is death.
 - Jeremiah 17:9 NKJV "The heart is deceitful above all things, And desperately wicked; Who can know it?
 - As one commentator so aptly said it; "Pride is the ground in which all the other sins grow, and the parent from which all the other sins come."

4. I will see myself as being owed something (Verses 19-20)

(19) Now we know that whatever the law says, it says to those who are under the law, so that every mouth may be silenced and the whole world held accountable to God. (20) Therefore no one will be declared righteous in his sight by observing the law; rather, through the law we become conscious of sin.

- The owed reward of righteousness vis-a-vis observing the law
 - When I compare myself to other people – seeing myself as a good person (someone I'm not) and better than others, I'll think I deserve better. When I don't get what I think I deserve, I begin to complain because I see myself as being owed something, by virtue of who I see myself as.
 - Conversely, when I compare myself to the perfect righteousness of Jesus Christ I realize I'm owed nothing, and am silenced about everything.
- Paul and Moses – The connection between Paul in Romans, and Moses in Deuteronomy, is utterly profound, and provocative, in how God does the same thing.
- Dt 9 – God gives the promised land to the Israelites – not for the Israelites righteousness, but the nations wickedness
 - Moses tells the Israelites why God dispossesses the Promised-Land of nations who were greater and mightier than the Israelites. He tells them why He's doing it, by saying why He's not doing it. God does it not for the Israelites righteousness, but the nations wickedness.
 - Israelites were righteous – Not only do they need to understand that it's not because of their righteousness, they also need to understand the extent of their unrighteousness.
 - Moses reminds them that they're a stiff-necked people in how they complained about anything, thinking that God owed them everything.
 - He does this by recounting the Israelite's unrighteousness and not the other nations wickedness, and by doing this, silences their complaining.
 - He tells them of how, after 40 days and nights of fasting, he comes down from Mount Sinai because of God's anger for their unspeakable sin – The Israelites gave up on God and Moses when they didn't believe he was coming back as he promised, so they made themselves a new god. When Moses sees the golden calf he becomes angry and throws down the tablets of stone, with the commandments of God and breaks them.
 - The stone tablets are broken, as God's law was broken, and this is what God, through Moses, needed to show the Israelites under the law. So too is this what the Apostle had to do. God through Paul needed to show the Jews in Rome, that under the law, they've broken the law. When we see that, and realize that, we are all unrighteous at Mount Sinai, we will then come to the only One Who is righteous at Mount Zion.
- Hebrews 12:(18) NIV You have not come to a mountain that can be touched and that is burning with fire; to darkness, gloom and storm; (19) to a trumpet blast or to such a voice speaking words that those who heard it begged that no further word be spoken to them, (20) because they could not bear what was commanded: "If even an animal touches the mountain, it must be stoned." (21) The sight was so terrifying that Moses said, "I am trembling with fear." (22) But you have come to Mount Zion, to the heavenly Jerusalem, the city of the living God. You have come to thousands upon thousands of angels in joyful assembly, (23) to the church of the firstborn, whose names are written in heaven. You have come to God, the judge of all men, to the spirits of righteous men made perfect, (24) to Jesus the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.
 - The writer of Hebrews compares their Mount Sinai with our Mount Zion and draws some interesting parallels between them then; and us now.

Mount Sinai	Mount Zion
They came to this mountain	We come to a different mountain
Was the Old Covenant	Is the New Covenant
God's Law	God's Grace
Condemnation	Salvation

There was fear and terror	There is love and forgiveness
Was in a dry and desolate desert	Is in the city of the Living God
Was earthly	Is heavenly
Only Moses could come and meet God	An innumerable company comes as a general assembly
There were guilty men in fear	There are just men made perfect
Moses is the mediator	Jesus is the mediator
Ratified by the blood of animals	Ratified by the blood of God's precious Son, Jesus
Excluded people with barriers	Includes people because the barrier has been torn
Meant death	Means life

Conclusion (Ro 3:9-20)

- Ro 3:9 What shall we conclude then? Are we any better? Not at all! We have already made the charge that Jews and Gentiles alike are all under sin.
 - Out there in the world, we are all born into a condition of sin
- Ro 3:10 As it is written: "There is no one righteous, not even one; 11 there is no one who understands, no one who seeks God. 12 All have turned away, they have together become worthless; there is no one who does good, not even one." – Psalm 14 and Psalm 53
- A whole list of things describing what people are like out there in the world
 - 13 "Their throats are open graves; – Psalm 5:9
 - 13 their tongues practice deceit." – Zephaniah 3:13
 - 13 "The poison of vipers is on their lips." – Psalm 140:3
 - 14 "Their mouths are full of cursing and bitterness." – Psalm 10:7
 - 15 "Their feet are swift to shed blood; – Psalm 14:3
 - 16 ruin and misery mark their ways – Isaiah 59:7
 - 17 and the way of peace they do not know." – Isaiah 59:8
 - 18 "There is no fear of God before their eyes." – Psalm 36:1
- Ro 3:20 Therefore no one will be declared righteous in his sight by observing the law; rather, through the law we become conscious of sin.
 - God gave the Law as the straight line of God's requirements
 - Whether you have the Law or not, the Law is still the straight line and no one can keep it
 - Whether you are part of the Jewish Covenant or not, the Law is still the straight line
 - However, these requirements are unattainable
 - Even if you did – no one is saved by observing the Law – there's no reward, only punishment
 - If you try to be viewed as right by God by obeying the Law, you are not going to succeed
 - Every one of us can turn to God, even as we spiral downward
 - You can't take one step closer to a savior until you realized that you need to be saved
 - This is the purpose of the Law out in world, whether Jew or Gentile

Thank you Jesus!

God is known in our hearts and by what we see and what we know

- Where do we get truth from? Only from absolute truth – Jesus and the Bible

There is a depravity within all of our hearts – if it was up to us, we would always move away from God

- Entitlement – No responsibility for our actions, we just deserve everything just because
- Jewish entitlement to heaven
- The only thing that we are entitled to is condemnation and judgement by God

Thank you Jesus!

- The only way to be right with God is through Jesus
- Ro 3:25 – Propitiation – Jesus paid the price for us so that we can be right with God
- Jesus didn't wait for us to get it right through our own works, but rather through Jesus' sacrifice on our behalf

Make it personal – Jesus died for ME

- Belief in what Jesus did for us brings us forgiveness
- We aren't entitled, we are grateful and thankful
- We WANT to live lives dedicated to Jesus – our lives should be transformed
 - Our lives should not look like they looked before we were saved

IV. Thesis Restated – Salvation by grace through faith (Ro 3:21-31)

Righteousness Through Faith

21 But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known, to which the Law and the Prophets testify. 22 This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, 23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, 24 and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. 25 God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood. He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished— 26 he did it to demonstrate his justice at the present time, so as to be just and the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus.

27 Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded. On what principle? On that of observing the law? No, but on that of faith. 28 For we maintain that a man is justified by faith apart from observing the law. 29 Is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles too? Yes, of Gentiles too, 30 since there is only one God, who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through that same faith. 31 Do we, then, nullify the law by this faith? Not at all! Rather, we uphold the law.

- A righteousness from God, apart from law, comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe.
- Ro 3:21 But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known
 - 21... to which the Law and the Prophets testify.
- 22 This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe.
 - 22 ... There is no difference, 23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God,
 - 24 and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus.
- 25 God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood.
 - The shed blood of Christ on the cross is what enables our salvation
 - Heb 9:22 In fact, the law requires that nearly everything be cleansed with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness.
 - God is a God of love, but He is also a God of justice, holiness and righteous. There must be a penalty paid for sin. Without the shedding of blood, there is no forgiveness. Christ shed His blood on our behalf so that God could look at us and declare us righteous.
 - Why did God set it up this way?
 - To demonstrate that He is not only a God of love, but also of justice, holiness and righteous
 - Love is the motive for our salvation
 - Justice is important – who would want to live in a universe that was fundamentally unjust?
 - 25 ... He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished—
 - God is patient with us – He gives us time to repent of our sins, therefore there are not always immediate consequences.

- 26 he did it to demonstrate his justice at the present time, so as to be just and the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus.
 - There are eventually, however, consequences for all unrepented sin
- 27 Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded.
 - 27 ... On what principle? On that of observing the law? No, but on that of faith.
 - God doesn't save anyone because they are good
- 28 For we maintain that a man is justified by faith apart from observing the law.
- 29 Is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles too? Yes, of Gentiles too,
 - 30 since there is only one God, who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through that same faith.
- 31 Do we, then, nullify the law by this faith? Not at all! Rather, we uphold the law.

God Centered Solutions to Man Centered Problems

"God Centered Solutions to Man Centered Problems," as it's the only way to resolve the divine dilemma.

- Paul turns a huge corner beginning here in verse 21 – everything up to this point, has been leading to the main point
 - "There's a glorious transition from the judgment of Romans 3:20 to the justification of Romans 3:21."
 - Another commentator likened it to unfolding Paul's manifesto back in 1:16-17, where he declared that he was not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ because it is the power of God for salvation, by faith, and in it, a righteousness of God is revealed to those who believe by faith.
- There are some problems that have to be resolved in order for us to be the recipients of the power of God for salvation
 - All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God – there is no difference between the Jews and the Gentiles
 - All are law breakers, all have all sinned, all fall short of God's glory, so we all deserve condemnation under the law.
 - However, if you're self-righteous, and self-centered as these Jews in Rome were, and still fancy yourself as a law keeper, you've got a problem. Your problem is you've centered everything around your own righteousness. You have been deceived and believed that you're a good person.
 - The law is powerless to save us, yet because not one jot nor tittle can be done away with it, we're still condemned under it.
- God can't just "let us off the hook," because if He did, then He would cease to be just, and He would become evil. In other words, if the Judge of the universe, in the courtroom of eternity, let the guilty deserving the death penalty go free, He would be unjust.
 - That is the dilemma; how does a just and righteous God remain just bringing salvation when the law requires that we be condemned to death?
 - If God lets us off, then He's unjust
 - If God condemns us to death, He's deemed unfair or even worse yet, unloving.
 - It's a proverbial "Catch-22."
 - Divine dilemma – How does a righteous God remain both loving and just while keeping the law intact justifying the unrighteous man
- Any hope for any solution to this divine dilemma is lost by virtue of its sheer impossibility in the realm of our humanity. I believe this is precisely the point! A man centered problem remains impossible, until it comes to a God centered solution where it is possible.
 - This may explain, though not excuse, many of the problems in our lives today, even in the church today. We have become man/self-centered.
 - Replete throughout the pages of Holy Writ, we are given such horrific and graphic detail of great men of God, sinning so greatly against God.
 - Why? It's so I'll realize that my life is not centered on who or how I am, but rather, my life will be centered on Who God is, in spite of who I am.

- God reveals to me how good He is, by showing me how bad I am. In so doing He re-centers me from it being all about me, to being about Him.
 - Not only is this the solution to the divine dilemma, it can also be the solution to my problems if I'm centered on Him, and not made it about me. More specifically; if I've made it about me, then the solutions must come from me.
- Paul teaches us that it's not all about us, it's about God.
 - One commentator said it best this way; "The big danger in preaching this [passage] is that we treat it as if it were about us, when it is about God. It is not centrally about me... This God-centeredness is a problem for preachers, for we think people will pay more attention if the message is centered on human beings."
 - Actually, this is the problem! Man-centered problems are problems because they're man-centered, and this is the reason there are no solutions.
 - If we're wondering why it is that the church today is in such peril, perhaps we need look no further than to what's preached in the church today. There's no victory in our life, and there's no solutions to the problems in our life when all we ever hear are how to sermons on success in our life.
 - The problems get even worse when (not if) we fail after trying to keep the seven promises, or develop the seven habits of highly effective people. This brand of Christianity cannot work because the seed of its success was planted in the infertile soil of man-centeredness. It will not grow!
 - This is the reason the beloved Apostle writes this in this way in his epistle. It's not chiefly about me and salvation, it's about God and justification.
- Salvation
 - Comes from God apart from the law (Verse 21) – If it were under the law, and not apart from the law, then there can be no salvation, because according to the law, I receive only condemnation.
 - Comes through faith to those who believe (Verse 22) – It's not through self-righteousness. If it were, then instead of a righteousness from God through faith apart from the law, I could in self-righteousness, apart from God, keep the law.
 - The problem of our salvation comes vis-a-vis the solution of God's justification
 - Absent this, the divine dilemma of man's sin has no solution
 - As long as I insist and persist in trying to solve my problems, my way, there's no way.
 - The only way it comes is from the one Who is "the way."
- How is God going to bring about His solution to man's sin problem?
 - The solution comes vis-a-vis the one Who said; "I am the way, the truth and the life,"
 - There's no way I can do this, in my own way.
 - Salvation comes from God apart from the law
 - 21 – Now a righteousness from God apart from the law, testified to by both the Prophets and the law, has now been made known.
 - Salvation comes through faith to those who believe
 - 22 – This righteousness from God, comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. It's not through self-righteousness.
 - Salvation comes by grace for all have sinned
 - 23-24 – All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God – and are freely justified by His grace, through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus.
 - Christ comes as a substitute in our place
 - 25-26 – Jesus is the substitutionary atonement – and through faith in His blood, God demonstrates His justice while keeping the law intact.
 - The answer to the divine dilemma – How does a righteous God remains both loving and just while keeping the law intact in justifying the unrighteous man
 - Salvation comes at the expense of our own glory
 - 27 – Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded.
 - Salvation comes through the gospel while upholding the law
 - 28 – We are justified by faith apart from observing the law
 - 29 – He is the God of the Jews and the Gentiles

- 30 – Since there's only one God, He will justify the Jews and the Gentiles by the same faith
- 31 – Does faith nullify the law? Not at all! Rather, it upholds the law

1. Salvation comes from God apart from the Law (Verse 21)

21 But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known, to which the Law and the Prophets testify.

- God hasn't done away with the law – He's made known another way apart from the law
 - It comes vis-a-vis the only One Who fulfilled the law.
 - It comes by way, of the One Who said; "I am the way, the truth, and the life."
- There's no other way apart from this righteousness from God.
 - There's no way that I, in and of myself, can ever be righteous enough under the law to receive a verdict of "not guilty" according to the law.
 - Not only has God done this for me, He's done this instead of me, which is why this righteousness from God, has been made known by God.
- When Paul writes that the Law and Prophets testify to this, he is painting a portrait of Jesus Christ on the canvass of Old Testament scripture.

2. Salvation comes through faith to those who believe (Verse 22)

22 This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference,

- It's important that we note the order in which Paul presents this. Paul tells them that it doesn't come through keeping the law, it only comes through faith in Jesus Christ Who fulfilled the law.
 - Here-to-for he's introduced man's problem, so as to present God's solution.
 - He goes from first telling them how it does NOT come, before he tells them how it does come.
 - Sometimes we must unlearn, in order to learn.
- He writes this in this way for a number of reasons
 - In their minds the jury is still out related to their keeping the law.
 - We can become guilty of doing the same thing, and we don't realize that when we do, we're subtly and satanically putting God on trial instead.
 - Have you noticed that virtually everything we see – especially as it relates to whether or not someone is guilty – Is decided by us now?
 - We can simply text our vote, voicing our opinion, and seemingly decide a death penalty case, which gives us the sense of being the judges.
- "If God exists, do you approve or disapprove of 'IT'S' performance?"
 - Recently, a secular polling organization in North Carolina by the name of "Public Policy Polling" released the results of several polls – one group of questions engaged Americans' current feelings toward God, asking; "If God exists, do you approve or disapprove of 'IT'S' performance?"
 - 52% approve of God's performance
 - 9% disapprove of God's performance
 - 40% were "not sure" if they approved of God's performance.
- What's interesting is, that this describes what the condition of the world
 - Sadly, the church will be in this, the last lukewarm Laodicean days.
 - The church "of the Laodicean's" had voted God out, which is why Jesus is on the outside of this church knocking on the door to come back in.
 - This last day's lukewarm Laodicean church was neither "faithful" nor "true," nor was it "hot" or "cold," because they as the "laity" would "decide."

- Laodicea
 - The name is the nature and the interpretation
 - The name Laodicea is derived by the combination of two English words, both “laity” and “decide.”
 - Laodicea
 - Wealthy banking center of the region at that time.
 - The entertainment capital of the world
 - With their 30,000 seat amphitheatre, they became the Hollywood of their day.
 - Known for their trend setting fashions
 - They would export their garments all over the known world.
 - Known for their cutting-edge medical breakthroughs
 - Created a sophisticated eye salve to improve vision.
 - Built a 6-mile aqueduct from Hierapolis (Col 4:13) to have the water from their natural hot springs.
 - This is why Jesus rebuked them and warned them to repent. They were blind to how wretched, pitiful, poor, and naked they were in God's eyes. So much so, He wanted to vomit them out of His mouth. They were as lukewarm as the water from Hierapolis was when it reached Laodicea.
- Romans and Laodiceans
 - If everything is centered on me, and is about me, then it will be up to me, to decide whether or not, the jury is still out, or the verdict has come in.
 - Instead of a righteousness from God, through faith, apart from the law, I decide in self-righteousness, apart from God, that I have kept the law.

3. Salvation comes by grace for all have sinned (Verses 23-24)

23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, 24 and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus.

- All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God – there is no difference between the Jews, and the Gentiles
- All of our problems are because all are sinners!
 - Why do I have problems in the marriage? It's because there are sinners in the marriage!
 - It's not a marriage problem, it's a sin problem – and the only answer to this sin problem for man, is the grace solution from God. I am justified freely by God's grace through the redemption that comes by Jesus Christ. That's why it's not my salvation, it's His justification.
- Justification
 - As one so aptly put it; "Jesus writes the check of redemption to pay the price of propitiation."
 - This is the God-centered solution of salvation by way of justification. It's by the grace of God through the redemption of Jesus Christ
 - Jesus' redemption is how God solves man's sin problem
 - To define justification, by way of illustration; it would be like one of my sons hacking into my account and making exorbitant purchases online. Then, when the statement arrives, we have a serious problem. I see this enormous amount of debt that's owed, and my son cannot pay for it. Because of my grace he's justified freely, when I pay his debt in full, not requiring him to pay me back. He could say; it's just-if-I'd never done it.
 - In this illustration, were he under the obligation by law to pay in Paul's day, he would be sold into slavery for his debts. I redeem him by paying for him so he's freed from the slave market. Now, I've paid the debt of salvation at the cost of redemption.
 - The judge's wrath has been appeased – the debt that was owed has been paid for in full by another.
 - God's wrath was satisfied by Christ's sacrifice of atonement,
- Since God did all of this for our salvation eternally, will He not also take care of you in this world temporally?

- Psalms 55:22 Cast your cares on the LORD and he will sustain you; he will never let the righteous fall.
- 1 Peter 5:7 Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you.
- Matthew 6:26 Look at the birds of the air; they do not sow or reap or store away in barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not much more valuable than they? 27 Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to his life? 28 “And why do you worry about clothes? See how the lilies of the field grow. They do not labor or spin. 29 Yet I tell you that not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. 30 If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith? 31 So do not worry, saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘What shall we wear?’ 32 For the pagans run after all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them. 33 But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well. 34 Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own.

4. Christ came as a substitute in our place (Verses 25-26)

25 God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement, through faith in his blood. He did this to demonstrate his justice, because in his forbearance he had left the sins committed beforehand unpunished— 26 he did it to demonstrate his justice at the present time, so as to be just and the one who justifies those who have faith in Jesus.

- Jesus covered (atoned for) our sins by paying the penalty (expiation) and appeasing God’s wrath (propitiation)
- Definitions
 - Expiation – Removal of guilt through the payment of a penalty
 - ex means “out of” or “from” – Removing something or taking something away
 - Horizontal – Applies to things done on earth
 - Expiation is the act that results in the change of God’s disposition toward us
 - It is the act of what Christ did on the cross – His offering of an atonement on our behalf
 - Jesus covered (atoned for) our sins by paying the penalty (expiation) and appeasing God’s wrath (propitiation)
 - Propitiation – Satisfying God’s wrath against sin
 - propitiation has to do with the object of the expiation
 - pro means “for” – Propitiation brings about a change in God’s attitude, so that He moves from being at enmity with us to being for us.
 - Vertical – Applies to how the act of expiation applies to God
 - The result of Christ’s work of expiation is propitiation—God’s anger is turned away. Through the process of propitiation, we are restored into fellowship and favor with God
 - Jesus covered (atoned for) our sins by paying the penalty (expiation) and appeasing God’s wrath (propitiation)
 - Atonement – The foundational truth that Christ Jesus died on the cross for our sins
 - 1Co 15:3 For what I received I passed on to you as of first importance: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures,
 - In this way Christ fulfilled the old covenant sacrificial system and reconciled us to God
 - All men are sinners (Romans 3:9-18, 23). The penalty for our sinfulness is death (Romans 6:23).
 - Death in the Scriptures refers to a “separation.” Everyone will die, but some will live in heaven with the Lord for eternity, while others will live a life in hell for eternity. The death spoken of here refers to the life in hell. Without Christ, we are going to die and spend an eternity in hell as payment for our sins.
 - Eternal life in heaven is available through Jesus Christ – He is our substitutionary atonement
 - Jesus Christ died in our place when He was crucified on the cross. We deserved to be the ones placed on that cross to die because we are the ones who live sinful lives. But Christ took the punishment on Himself in our place—He substituted Himself for us and took what we rightly deserved.

- Christ was our atonement, meaning He satisfied the payment due for the sinfulness of man
2 Corinthians 5:21 God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God
- 1 Peter 2:24 He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness; by his wounds you have been healed
- 1 Peter 3:18 For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God. He was put to death in the body but made alive by the Spirit
- Isaiah 53:5 But he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was upon him, and by his wounds we are healed.
- We can only pay the price of sin on our own by being punished and placed in hell for all eternity. But God's Son, Jesus Christ, came to earth to pay for the price of our sins. Because He did this for us, we now have the opportunity to not only have our sins forgiven, but to spend eternity with Him. In order to do this we must place our faith in what Christ did on the cross. We cannot save ourselves; we need a substitute to take our place. The death of Jesus Christ is the substitutionary atonement.
- Redemption – the price that was paid to redeem the debtor that's sold at the slave market
 - Redeem means “to buy out.”
 - The term was used specifically in reference to the purchase of a slave's freedom.
 - The application of this term to Christ's death on the cross is quite telling. If we are “redeemed,” then our prior condition was one of slavery. God has purchased our freedom, and we are no longer in bondage to sin or to the Old Testament law.
 - Galatians 3:13 Christ has redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us (for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree”)
 - Galatians 4:5 to redeem those who were under the law, that we might receive the adoption as sons.
 - Everyone is in need of redemption.
 - Our natural condition was characterized by guilt: “all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God” (Romans 3:23).
 - Christ's redemption has freed us from guilt, being “justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus” (Romans 3:24).
 - The benefits of redemption:
 - Eternal life
 - Revelation 5:9-10 And they sang a new song, saying:
“You are worthy to take the scroll, And to open its seals;
For You were slain, And have redeemed us to God by Your blood
Out of every tribe and tongue and people and nation,
And have made us kings and priests to our God;
And we shall reign on the earth.”
 - Forgiveness of sins
 - Ephesians 1:7 In Him we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace
 - Righteousness
 - Romans 5:17 For if by the one man's offense death reigned through the one, much more those who receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness will reign in life through the One, Jesus Christ.
 - Freedom from the law's curse
 - Galatians 3:13 Christ has redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us (for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree”)
 - Adoption into God's family
 - Galatians 4:5 to redeem those who were under the law, that we might receive the adoption as sons.
 - Deliverance from sin's bondage

- Titus 2:14 who gave Himself for us, that He might redeem us from every lawless deed and purify for Himself His own special people, zealous for good works.
- Peace with God
 - Colossians 1:18 And He is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in all things He may have the preeminence. 19 For it pleased the Father that in Him all the fullness should dwell, 20 and by Him to reconcile all things to Himself, by Him, whether things on earth or things in heaven, having made peace through the blood of His cross.
- Indwelling of the Holy Spirit
 - 1 Corinthians 6:19 Do you not know that you are a temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you?
 - Ezekiel 36:27 I will put My Spirit within you and cause you to walk in My statutes, and you will be careful to observe My ordinances.
- To be redeemed, then, is to be forgiven, holy, justified, free, adopted, and reconciled.
 - The streets of heaven will be filled with former captives who, through no merit of their own, find themselves redeemed, forgiven, and free. Slaves to sin have become saints. No wonder we will sing a new song—a song of praise to the Redeemer who was slain (Revelation 5:9). We were slaves to sin, condemned to eternal separation from God. Jesus paid the price to redeem us, resulting in our freedom from slavery to sin and our rescue from the eternal consequences of that sin.
- See also Psalm 130:7-8; Luke 2:38; and Acts 20:28.
 - Psalm 130:7-8 O Israel, hope in the Lord; For with the Lord there is mercy, And with Him is abundant redemption. And He shall redeem Israel From all his iniquities.
 - Luke 2:38 And coming in that instant she gave thanks to [a]the Lord, and spoke of Him to all those who looked for redemption in Jerusalem.
 - Acts 20:28 Therefore take heed to yourselves and to all the flock, among which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church [a]of God which He purchased with His own blood.
- Justification – Declared righteous, to make one right with God
 - The action of declaring or making righteous in the sight of God – “just-if-I’d” never sinned
 - We are justified, declared righteous, at the moment of our salvation. Justification does not make us righteous, but rather pronounces us righteous. Our righteousness comes from placing our faith in the finished work of Jesus Christ. His sacrifice covers our sin, allowing God to see us as perfect and unblemished. Because as believers we are in Christ, God sees Christ's own righteousness when He looks at us. This meets God's demands for perfection; thus, He declares us righteous—He justifies us. (gotquestions.org)
 - Romans 5:18-19 Consequently, just as the result of one trespass was condemnation for all men, so also the result of one act of righteousness was justification that brings life for all men. For just as through the disobedience of the one man the many were made sinners, so also through the obedience of the one man the many will be made righteous.”
 - It is because of justification that the peace of God can rule in our lives. It is because of justification that believers can have assurance of salvation. It is the fact of justification that enables God to begin the process of sanctification—the process by which God makes us in reality what we already are positionally. “Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ” (Romans 5:1) (gotquestions.org)
- Reconciliation – To be reconciled is to be restored to friendship or harmony
 - We are now reunited to God, because of the atonement – We are now "at-one-ment" with God
 - 2 Corinthians 5:18-19 “All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation: that God was reconciling the world to himself in Christ, not counting men's sins against them. And he has committed to us the message of reconciliation.”
 - Christ reconciled us to God

- Romans 5:10 For if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved by His life.
 - 2 Corinthians 5:18 Now all things are of God, who has reconciled us to Himself through Jesus Christ, and has given us the ministry of reconciliation,
 - Colossians 1:20 and by Him to reconcile all things to Himself, by Him, whether things on earth or things in heaven, having made peace through the blood of His cross. 21 And you, who once were alienated and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now He has reconciled
- The fact that we needed reconciliation means that our relationship with God was broken.
 - God is holy – we are the ones to blame for our separation from God. Our sin alienated us from Him.
 - Romans 5:10 says that we were enemies of God: “For if, when we were God’s enemies, we were reconciled to him through the death of his Son, how much more, having been reconciled, shall we be saved through his life!”
 - When Christ died on the cross, He satisfied God’s judgment and made it possible for God’s enemies (us) to find peace with Him. Our “reconciliation” to God, then, involves the exercise of His grace and the forgiveness of our sin.
 - The result of Jesus’ sacrifice is that our relationship has changed from enmity to friendship.
 - “I no longer call you servants ... Instead, I have called you friends” (John 15:15).
 - Christian reconciliation is a glorious truth! We were God’s enemies, but are now His friends. We were in a state of condemnation because of our sins, but we are now forgiven. We were at war with God, but now have the peace that transcends all understanding (Philippians 4:7).
- The only way there can be this justification, redemption, reconciliation, and atonement, is by means of the propitiation with a substitute sacrifice. There is no remission of sin without the shedding of blood, and Jesus became our substitute as the sacrifice. His blood was shed, in our stead.
 - One commentator explained it: Redemption is an act of God by which He Himself pays as a ransom, the price of human sin which the outraged holiness and government of God requires.
 - Redemption undertakes the solution of the problem of sin
 - Reconciliation undertakes the solution of the problem of the sinner
 - Propitiation undertakes the problem of an offended God.
 - Now there is no condemnation to those that are in Christ Jesus
 - The wrath of God has now been appeased vis-a-vis this propitiation
 - Only the shed blood of Jesus Christ, in His once and for all substitutionary sacrifice has the power to satisfy God's wrath for the sins of mankind.
 - If the law is powerless to save, then so too is any sacrifice I make powerless to appease God's wrath for breaking the law of God.
 - Ro 8:3 For what the law was powerless to do because it was weakened by the flesh, God did by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh to be a sin offering. And so he condemned sin in the flesh, 4 in order that the righteous requirement of the law might be fully met in us, who do not live according to the flesh but according to the Spirit.
- Shouldn't God-centered solutions to man-centered problems come from Him by grace through faith in His blood?
 - We can use this template in our approach to the problems of this life.
 - Here's how it works
 - There's so much power in the blood of Jesus Christ that when I realize that I've been forgiven of much, I'll in turn love much.
 - No longer will I tie the hands of God's solutions with the ropes of my self-justified righteousness, and in so doing make my problems even worse.
 - God has permission to have the solution come from Him – by grace, through faith, in His substitutionary sacrifice with His blood shed in my stead.
 - Ex – Let's try using this template on a common man-centered problem – marriage

- For purpose of discussion, we won't define the problem, we'll just say that this couple has been experiencing a problem that they cannot solve. Here-to-fore, the problem has actually gotten even worse because everything they've tried to do in an attempt to resolve it is met with failure.
 - The husband blames the wife, and the wife blames the husband.
 - The husband argues that it's her problem, the wife argues that it's his problem.
 - The husband wants something from the wife, and the wife wants something from the husband
- Trying to get what they want just never works. They start losing hope in the marriage, and they begin to lose faith in each other.
- Then, it gets so bad that they start looking for a substitute.
 - Some turn to drugs and alcohol
 - Some turn to their career
 - Some turn to another person to get from them what they haven't had.
- At this point, the fate of this marriage has been sealed. It's doomed to fail and will end in divorce only to be repeated remarrying someone else.
 - I'm keenly aware, I've painted a very bleak picture of a very bad marriage however, that's precisely the man centered problem we can resolve. How? By now placing our template of the God centered solution onto this man centered problem.
- Let's see how this should play out instead.
 - First, the reason this couple has been powerless to save their marriage, is the same reason that the law is powerless to save us as sinners. Just as the law shows us that we are sinners, so too does the problem in this couple's marriage show them that they too are both sinners. They are both at fault, thus they are both to blame.
 - This will explain why the solution comes not from them, but from God (apart from the law).
 - This is why nothing they try works. It's not of works, it's all of grace, and it comes by grace from God. They don't deserve it, they receive it.
 - The reason this couple is losing faith in each other (ie, not getting what they needed from the other) is that the answer should come through faith in God, not from each other.
 - This presupposes that they're taking their needs to the Lord, Who is always faithful and from Whom there's no greater love that never fails.
 - By taking their needs to the Lord, they're acknowledging the substitutionary sacrifice of the Lord, and the blood shed in their stead by the Lord.

5. Salvation comes at the expense of our own glory (Verse 27)

27 Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded. On what principle? On that of observing the law? No, but on that of faith.

- Why does God do it this way? It's really for our own good.
- Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded.
 - How then can one boast? Is it boasting about observing of law? No. You can only boast about your faith.
 - This reinforces the template of God's salvation solution – It comes from God, by grace, through faith, in Christ, our substitutionary sacrifice, so there's no grounds upon which man can stand and boast.
 - Ephesians 2:8 For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God — 9 not by works, so that no one can boast.
 - 1 Corinthians 1:26 Brothers, think of what you were when you were called. Not many of you were wise by human standards; not many were influential; not many were of noble birth. 27 But God chose the foolish things of the world to shame the wise; God chose the weak things of the world to shame the strong. 28 He chose the lowly things of this world and the despised things—and the things that are not—to nullify the things that are, 29 so that no one may boast before him.
- This explains why it is – and how it is – that God did what He did in the Old Testament
 - He's the same, yesterday, today and forever.
 - It's His M.O. – We see time and time again where God chooses the Gideon's of this world, and he chooses the David's of this world to defeat the Goliath's.

- The common denominator with them, and many others like them, is that there's no way that they could ever boast about that which God did.
- How is God glorified?
 - The problem is the motive of my heart – If I can figure it out, and work it out, in my own savvy and strength, then in spiritual pride, I'll get the glory.
 - Conversely, when God does it for me – by grace and instead of me, through faith – then there's no way I can take the credit even if It tried to.
 - James 4:1 What causes fights and quarrels among you? Don't they come from your desires that battle within you? 2 You want something but don't get it. You kill and covet, but you cannot have what you want. You quarrel and fight. You do not have, because you do not ask God. 3 When you ask, you do not receive, because you ask with wrong motives, that you may spend what you get on your pleasures.

6. Salvation comes through the gospel while upholding the law (Verses 28-31)

28 For we maintain that a man is justified by faith apart from observing the law. 29 Is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles too? Yes, of Gentiles too, 30 since there is only one God, who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through that same faith. 31 Do we, then, nullify the law by this faith? Not at all! Rather, we uphold the law.

- 28 – A man is justified by faith apart from observing the law
- 29 – He is the God of the Jews and the Gentiles
- 30 – Since there's only one God, He will justify both the circumcised & uncircumcised by the same faith
- 31 – Does faith nullify the law? Not at all! Rather, it upholds the law
- This is how Paul seals the deal! Perhaps a better way of saying it would be; "the law is upheld, case closed!"
 - Justice has been served by establishing the law, upholding the law, and fulfilling the law.
 - Justice has come vis-a-vis the only one who kept the law.
- This was the purpose of the straight line of the law – It showed us our crookedness and need for a savior, Jesus Christ, who perfectly fulfilled the law.
 - Galatians 3:19 What, then, was the purpose of the law? It was added because of transgressions until the Seed to whom the promise referred had come. The law was put into effect through angels by a mediator. 20 A mediator, however, does not represent just one party; but God is one. 21 Is the law, therefore, opposed to the promises of God? Absolutely not! For if a law had been given that could impart life, then righteousness would certainly have come by the law. 22 But the Scripture declares that the whole world is a prisoner of sin, so that what was promised, being given through faith in Jesus Christ, might be given to those who believe. 23 Before this faith came, we were held prisoners by the law, locked up until faith should be revealed. 24 So the law was put in charge to lead us to Christ that we might be justified by faith.
- This is the Gospel
 - The word Gospel means good news. That suggests that in order for there to be good news, there must have been bad news.
 - By way of illustration, here's a simple graphic that communicates a simple message called; "the Gospel," which, again, means "Good News." In the beginning, God and man were together, but through Adam sin entered the world and separated man from God. (That's the bad news!) Because sin entered the world through Adam, Jesus entered into the world as the second Adam to die for and pay for our sin. (The good news!) The finished work of the cross, and the resurrection of the Christ, bridged the gap, and thus reunited man to God. It's for this reason the Christian faith is the truth, and all other religions are false. It's a relationship as opposed to a religion.

V. Demonstration by Example – Abraham & David (Ro 4)

Demonstration of the Thesis by Example – Abraham (Ro 4)

- Given the thesis and antithesis, what do we say? He goes back to the beginning – Abraham

Righteousness for all

- One becomes righteous by trusting God
 - Ro 4:4 Now when a man works, his wages are not credited to him as a gift, but as an obligation. 5 However, to the man who does not work but trusts God who justifies the wicked, his faith is credited as righteousness.
 - Ge 15:6 Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness
 - Ro 4:18 Against all hope, Abraham in hope believed
 - David – Ps 32:1 Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven, whose sins are covered. 2 Blessed is the man whose sin the LORD does not count against him

Ro 4:19 Without weakening in his faith, he faced the fact that his body was as good as dead—since he was about a hundred years old—and that Sarah's womb was also dead. 20 Yet he did not waver through unbelief regarding the promise of God, but was strengthened in his faith and gave glory to God, 21 being fully persuaded that God had power to do what he had promised. 22 This is why "it was credited to him as righteousness." 23 The words "it was credited to him" were written not for him alone, 24 but also for us, to whom God will credit righteousness—for us who believe in him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead. 25 He was delivered over to death for our sins and was raised to life for our justification.

- Is the blessedness/righteousness only for the Jews (circumcised)? Or also for the Gentiles (uncircumcised)?
 - Was Abraham considered righteous before or after circumcision?
 - Does this crediting of righteous only apply to the Jews? Or to everyone who believes?
 - The covenant was made when Abram was 70
 - At this point, Abram is 86 and still has no children
 - Ge 16:16 Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore him Ishmael.

Ge 15: 1 After this, the word of the LORD came to Abram in a vision: "Do not be afraid, Abram. I am your shield, your very great reward. " 2 But Abram said, "O Sovereign LORD, what can you give me since I remain childless and the one who will inherit my estate is Eliezer of Damascus?" 3 And Abram said, "You have given me no children; so a servant in my household will be my heir." 4 Then the word of the LORD came to him: "This man will not be your heir, but a son coming from your own body will be your heir." 5 He took him outside and said, "Look up at the heavens and count the—if indeed you can count them." Then he said to him, "So shall your offspring be." 6 Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness.

- The sign of circumcision is not given until Ge 17 when Abraham is 99
- His faith was credited to him as righteousness before circumcision
 - Therefore, Abraham is the father of all who believe

Ro 4:9 Is this blessedness only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? We have been saying that Abraham's faith was credited to him as righteousness. 10 Under what circumstances was it credited? Was it after he was circumcised, or before? It was not after, but before! 11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. So then, he is the father of all who believe but have not been circumcised, in order that righteousness might be credited to them. 12 And he is also the father of the circumcised who not only are circumcised but who also walk in the footsteps of the faith that our father Abraham had before he was circumcised.

- There is no distinction between Jew and Gentile
 - Abraham did nothing to deserve the promises that God made
 - Law only brings wrath, not reward
 - This was pre-law – where there is no law there is no transgression

Ro 4:13 It was not through law that Abraham and his offspring received the promise that he would be heir of the world, but through the righteousness that comes by faith. 14 For if those who live by law are heirs, faith has no value and the promise is worthless, 15 because law brings wrath. And where there is no law there is no transgression. 16 Therefore, the promise comes by faith, so that it may be by grace and may be guaranteed to all Abraham's offspring—not only to those who are of the law but also to those who are of the faith of Abraham. He is the father of us all.

- The Jews are natural children of Abraham, the Gentiles are adopted into the family
 - Natural – Isaac, Jacob, 12 sons
 - Adopted – People from all over the world that are adopted into the faith of Abraham

Grace Works

Here-to-fore, Paul's been dismantling their hyper-religious morality, with the hopes that they might realize it's grace, not works, apart from the law. He's got to get these Jews to abandon any notion that their good works under the law is good enough.

- Works won't work, because it's only grace that works.
 - It's for this reason that Paul, by the Holy Spirit, has been stripping these Jews in Rome of any notion that works, works.
 - It's important to understand that these Jews believed circumcision was synonymous with salvation – fancying themselves as religious and moral under the law. This explains why Paul has had to dismantle, and even demolish, their self-perceived piety so they will realize that grace is apart from the law.
 - Furthermore, in what would arguably be both explosive, and repulsive, he levels the playing field by saying this grace is for Jews and Gentiles.
- Why is it that grace works, and it is that it's not works that works?
 - Perhaps a better to say it would be; Paul has broken ground and the soil of their heart is now supple enough to receive the seed of God's grace. - This is where we see our first one found in verses one through three where Paul takes them back to the most esteemed figure in Israel's history.
- As one so aptly said it; "The Father thought it. The Son bought it. The Spirit taught it. The Bible brought it. Satan fought it. But, praise the Lord, by His grace, we got it!"
- In this chapter, Paul demonstrates grace (credited righteousness) through Father Abraham and King David
 - The reason he refers to the both of them – they share one thing in common, they were both recipients of God's credited righteousness.
 - It's not just that they were declared righteous, it's how they were declared righteous – Neither one of them were righteous vis-a-vis their works
 - These two men of God, who would have arguably been the most important figures in all Israel's history, had nothing to do with their credited righteousness.
 - They didn't do anything, or work for anything, that would have made them righteous before God, or pleasing to God, while under the law of God.
 - Paul communicates this, and illustrates this, by telling them that Abraham's credited righteousness came before the covenant of circumcision.
 - For Paul to say that Abraham's salvation, as it were, came not because of his circumcision but before his circumcision would've been explosive.
 - In effect, Paul has dismantled any hope of obtaining righteousness by their own works.
 - Paul knows he must do this first, by the Holy Spirit, because their works will not allow them to receive the message of the grace of God.
 - So too is this true for me and you. God's grace, in our lives, isn't even on the table, as long as our works have been given a place at the table.
 - Maybe another way of saying it is, works becomes the antithesis, even the enemy of grace, in that it strives and wars against all that grace is.

- Now that Paul has taken the works of Abraham's circumcision off the table of grace, they're ready to taste from the cup of God's amazing grace.

1. When it's not about what I am doing (Verses 1-3)

(1) What then shall we say that Abraham, our forefather, discovered in this matter? (2) If, in fact, Abraham was justified by works, he had something to boast about—but not before God. (3) What does the Scripture say? "Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness."

- Genesis 15:6 Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness.
- Abraham
 - How was their forefather Abraham justified before God?
 - Genesis 15:6 Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness.
 - It didn't have anything to do with Abram, nor did it have anything to do with what Abram did.
 - Abram was not justified by works
 - His willingness to leave Er of the Caldeas
 - His willingness to sacrifice his only begotten son Isaac.
 - Neither was it the covenant he had with God
 - God made a covenant with Abram, not vice-versa. Abram was in a deep sleep when God "cut-covenant" with Abram, so in effect, Abram didn't have anything to do with God's covenant
- It's not what we have done for God, it's what God has done for us.
 - If it had anything to do with what we've done, then we would be able to boast.
 - We're human beings, not human doings.
 - When Jesus preached His sermon on the mount, He gave us what are called the "beatitudes." They are not called the do-attitudes!
 - Replete throughout the pages of Holy Writ, "being" is woven into the fabric of scripture, not "doing."
 - Psalm 46:10 which says; "be still and know that I am God."
 - Notice that it's "be" still and not "do" still. You can't "do" still!
 - Grace works when it can "be" grace, and grace does not work when it has to "do" work.
 - In other words, grace is "being," and works is "doing."

2. When I'm not trying to earn God's blessing (Verses 4-5)

(4) Now when a man works, his wages are not credited to him as a gift, but as an obligation. (5) However, to the man who does not work but trusts God who justifies the wicked, his faith is credited as righteousness.

- By way of illustration, Paul uses an interesting analogy of an employer crediting his employers wages to him as a gift instead of an obligation. He contrasts this with the man who did not work to earn his paycheck, but rather trusts God to credit his account as righteousness by his faith. This in no way implies it was something this man did, i.e., working to have enough faith to justify his account being credited as righteousness.
 - William Newell - "To a man that works for wages, the wages are due as a debt. That is a simple enough principle. But do not seek to apply it to salvation! No one ever got righteousness by work or worth! Righteousness is not by doing right, strange and impossible as that may seem. ...to him who "casts his deadly doing down"; who, seeing his guilt, and his entire inability to put it away, ceases wholly from all efforts to [earn] God's favor by his own doings, or self-denyings,—even by his prayers: but believeth on the God that declareth righteous the ungodly—not the godly or the good!
- The greatest beneficiaries of God's grace are the ones who see it as unmerited, unearned and undeserved, because they're so utterly unworthy.

- Conversely, the ones who least benefit from God's grace do so because they see themselves as worthy having merited, earned and deserved it. If that's my posture before God, then I will ever be trying to "do" everything so as to merit, earn, and deserve the blessing of God in my life. It's as if we're working to give God every reason to bless us, and no reason not to bless us, based on our earning it, and or working hard for it.
 - If the truth be known, we really don't want to be in a position to earn God's blessing because if we had to work for it we would never be sure of it. If both salvation and sanctification were not grace based, then we would always be full of ambiguity and uncertainty based on if we earned it.
- As one so aptly said it; "The Father thought it. The Son bought it. The Spirit taught it. The Bible brought it. Satan fought it. But, praise the Lord, by His grace, we got it!"
- Grace works when I stop trying to work for it & earn it. That type of Christian life is a life that doesn't work – It can't
 - One of the characteristics of a Christian life of works is, it soon gives way to a life of legalism, which ultimately suffocates the joy out of that life.

3. When I receive God's credited righteousness (Verses 6-8)

(6) David says the same thing when he speaks of the blessedness of the man to whom God credits righteousness apart from works: (7) "Blessed are they whose transgressions are forgiven, whose sins are covered. (8) Blessed is the man whose sin the Lord will never count against him."

- Psalms 32:1-2. David writes; "Blessed are they whose sins are forgiven and covered, and never counted against them."
- King David
 - Paul now brings David in saying the same thing as Abram related to the blessedness of the man to whom God credits righteousness apart from works.
 - Why did Paul go from Abraham to David? What is the common denominator between them?
 - To the Jew, Abraham was their father, and David their king.
 - Both of them shared one thing in common – God's credited righteousness.
- God's righteousness credited nullifies man's sinfulness debited.
 - God did not credit both their accounts because they worked for it and earned it.
 - If that were the case, then it would've been a debit instead of a credit. The wages or earnings of sin is death/works, but the gift is life/grace.
 - Grace works when I have been the recipient of God's credited righteousness and not debited because of my sinfulness.
- 2 Corinthians 3:6 He has made us competent as ministers of a new covenant—not of the letter but of the Spirit; for the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.
- One commentator wrote; "No sinner, and try he ever so hard, can possibly carry his own sins away and come back cleansed of guilt. No amount of money, no science, no inventive skill, no armies of millions, nor any other earthly power can carry away from the sinner one little sin and its guilt. Once it is committed, every sin and its guilt cling to the sinner as close as does his own shadow, cling to all eternity unless God carries them away."

4. When I understand that it's unconditional (Verses 9-10)

(9) Is this blessedness only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? We have been saying that Abraham's faith was credited to him as righteousness. (10) Under what circumstances was it credited? Was it after he was circumcised, or before? It was not after, but before!

- Paul asks if Abraham's faith was credited to only the circumcised Jews, or is it also credited to the uncircumcised Gentiles as well? He then answers this by asking and answering two more questions about how Abraham's faith was credited to him "before" he was circumcised. Paul is going to great lengths to communicate that Abraham's faith was credited to him as righteousness with no conditions.
- The grace of God is unconditional
 - The grace of God, in concert with the righteousness from God, is unconditional, as evidenced by Abraham receiving it prior to the circumcision.
 - There were no conditions that had to be met in order for Abraham, by faith, to be the recipient of God's credited righteousness.
 - This would have been a smack in the face of these smug Jews in Rome, by virtue of the supreme importance in their being of the circumcision.
 - Lest we be too quick in being too harsh towards them for this, we would all do well to check our own hearts as it relates to this type of mindset. - If the truth were known, we're all prone to the thinking that being the recipients of God's grace is predicated upon our meeting certain conditions. - Just as they were hanging the hat of their salvation on the rack of their circumcision, so too do we do the same in our affiliation or denomination.
 - I would suggest that we can become just as guilty as they were, thinking the grace of God, the blessing of God, comes vis-a-vis the conditional.
 - Ask this question; "absent my circumcision (affiliation or denomination), where would I be?" Would I be less righteous, less blessed, less of a believer? If the answer is yes, then it's a good indication that I see God's love as conditional.
 - If this attitude takes up residence in my Christian life, it will be characterized by a spiritual pride, and come packaged with a spiritual superiority. Just as the circumcised Jews fancied themselves as being superior over the Gentiles, who were not, so too do we look down on others as well.
- One commentator captured this best when they wrote that; "Paul has turned the Jew's boast upside down. It is not the Gentile who must come to the Jew's circumcision for salvation; it is the Jew who must come to a Gentile faith, such faith as Abraham had long before he was circumcised."
- Another commentator connects the dots to us as Christians when he writes; "The sacraments and ceremonies of the Church, useful when viewed in their proper light, become ruinous when perverted into grounds of confidence. What answers well as a sign, is a miserable substitute for the thing signified. Circumcision will not serve for righteousness, nor baptism for regeneration"

5. When I have the faith to believe God (Verses 11-12)

(11) And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. So then, he is the father of all who believe but have not been circumcised, in order that righteousness might be credited to them. (12) And he is also the father of the circumcised who not only are circumcised but who also walk in the footsteps of the faith that our father Abraham had before he was circumcised.

- We must see this as God's grace coming before any ritual, not because of any ritual.
 - It's for this reason, Abraham received that which he had by faith, while he was still uncircumcised, so now all can walk in those footsteps of faith.
 - If this were not so, we'd all have to do what the Galatians were told they had to do, which was to become circumcised, before coming to Christ.
- Galatians 5:1 It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourselves be burdened again by a yoke of slavery. 2 Mark my words! I, Paul, tell you that if you let yourselves be circumcised, Christ will be of no value to you at all. 3 Again I declare to every man who lets himself be circumcised is obligated to obey the whole law. 4 You who are trying to be justified by law have been alienated from Christ; you have fallen away from grace.

- Grace, not works
 - This falling away from grace can come under the banner of doing something (works), such as performing some ritual, like baptism – it is simply not Biblical.
 - It's called by a couple of different names today – “Baptismal Regeneration” and “Lordship Salvation”
 - The common denominator with both of these false doctrines is that the "uncircumcised sinner's," faith in Christ alone is insufficient for salvation.
 - Baptismal Regeneration says that you must do something to be saved
 - Lordship Salvation says you must stop doing something to be saved
 - This is why Paul, by the Holy Spirit, says that it was by Abraham's faith alone, by God's grace alone, that he or any of us, are saved. Were this not the case, then it would not be grace, it would be works.
 - It's only grace that works, because none of our works, works!
- William Newell - Abraham just believed God: gave Him the honor of being a God of truth. And be it so that God saw that one day He would make Abraham as righteous in glory as He in that past day reckoned him in grace; yet it remains that God reckoned him what he was not, as yet, in experience; and that Abraham stood before God thus righteous the moment he believed! And not what Abraham would become, but what Christ would do on the cross for him was the ground of God's reckoning.

6. When it's not brought under legalism (Verses 13-15)

(13) It was not through law that Abraham and his offspring received the promise that he would be heir of the world, but through the righteousness that comes by faith. (14) For if those who live by law are heirs, faith has no value and the promise is worthless, (15) because law brings wrath. And where there is no law there is no transgression.

- Now that Paul has taken the works of Abraham's circumcision off the table of grace, they're ready to taste from the cup of God's amazing grace.
- Verses 1-12 – We saw 5 answers to why it is that grace works
- Verses 13-15 – Paul rounds a corner by addressing legalism. If you want to kill grace, just invite legalism over for dinner
- If there's no such thing as the law, there's no such thing as breaking the law
 - Where there is the law, and the breaking of the law, you will then have the wrath, or punishment, for the transgression of the law.
- Parenting illustration
 - Let's say that my wife and I leave our children home alone.
 - Before we leave, we lay down the law, and tell them not to open up our bedroom door while we are gone. What do you suppose they will do? I would suggest, because they're sinners just as your children are, they'll transgress the law, and open the door, bringing upon them my wrath. Now, what if I never laid down that law? They wouldn't even be tempted to open the door, thus where there is no law, there is no transgression.
 - Let's take our illustration a step further – and instead of laying down the law and bringing them under legalism, we made them a promise instead. Before we leave, we tell our offspring, as our heirs, through the righteousness that comes by faith they'll receive the promise of lots of ice cream. That would change the whole complexion of it, because now, instead of being brought under the law, they are being brought into the promise.
- That's why Paul says it wasn't the through law, but through righteousness that comes by faith, that Abraham and his offspring received the promise.
 - What was the promise? That they would be the heirs of the world.
 - However, for those heirs living under legalism the promise became worthless.
- As one Bible commentator so eloquently said it; "This promise given to Abraham wasn't given because of the law. It was given before the law."

- Here's the take away for all of us here today; I have no hope of enjoying the sweet taste of God's grace if I live under the bitterness of legalism.

7. When I trust God's promise is guaranteed (Verses 16-17)

(16) Therefore, the promise comes by faith, so that it may be by grace and may be guaranteed to all Abraham's offspring—not only to those who are of the law but also to those who are of the faith of Abraham. He is the father of us all. (17) As it is written: "I have made you a father of many nations." He is our father in the sight of God, in whom he believed—the God who gives life to the dead and calls things that are not as though they were.

- Paul is quoting Genesis 17:4 “As for me, this is my covenant with you: You will be the father of many nations. 5 No longer will you be called Abram; your name will be Abraham, for I have made you a father of many nations.
 - In so doing, he gives them a solid foundation of faith upon which to build and guarantee that it is by grace
- God had already guaranteed that Abraham would be the father of many nations both physically, and spiritually, long before it actually happened.
 - In God's eyes, He had already given life to the death of Sarah's barren womb, and called that which was not, as though it had already existed
 - Also, God had already given life to the death of Isaac being sacrificed by Abraham, calling into existence, that which had not already existed. In the sight of God, Isaac already existed, and Abraham had already been given life to the dead, calling things that are not as though they were.
- Salvation is through faith, but one who is truly saved will demonstrate this through their good works
 - Abraham was justified by his faith, not his works, when he offered Isaac on the altar
 - It's in this context that James writes that faith works.
 - James 2:17 In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead.
 - One said it's "faith alone that saves, but the faith that saves is not alone - it has good works with it."
 - Another said "What saves a man is not faith and works, nor is it faith or works. It is only faith that works."
 - If the truth be known we don't want it any other way. If works play a part, then I'm insecure with no guarantee, and I'll always be up and down.
 - William Newell - "Now if you introduce man's works (for man always says, "I must do my part"), you introduce an element of insecurity and uncertainty. For no man, trying to "do his part," is ever certain that he has done, or will do, his "part." Salvation is of God, not of man. It is of faith, and so, of grace; and thus, of God. For faith is unmixed with the vain promises and hopes of man to accomplish "his part"; but looks to what God has done, in sending His Son, to do a finished work on the cross; and to the fact that God has raised up Christ; and that Christ is our unfailing High Priest in heaven."

8. Grace works when my hope in God is unwavering (Verses 18-21)

(18) Against all hope, Abraham in hope believed and so became the father of many nations, just as it had been said to him, "So shall your offspring be." (19) Without weakening in his faith, he faced the fact that his body was as good as dead—since he was about a hundred years old—and that Sarah's womb was also dead. (20) Yet he did not waver through unbelief regarding the promise of God, but was strengthened in his faith and gave glory to God, (21) being fully persuaded that God had power to do what he had promised.

- Is there an impossible situation in your life right now that has become so bad that you're losing hope, and even losing your faith, because of it?
 - If so, then I'd encourage you to give the Holy Spirit permission to replenish your heart with that depleted hope from the passage that's before us.
 - God has given to us "the key," and all we have to do is accept it & put it on the keychain of our Christian lives
 - If we'll only take possession of that key, and the authority that comes with it, we can unlock the door of any impossible situation

- Much of the complexity and perplexity in our Christian experience is brought upon us, by us, and sadly, it's so unnecessary. We are truly our own worst enemy when it comes to simply believing God.
- Sometimes it's actually our unbelief that becomes the problem.
 - We tie the hands of God's grace, with the ropes of our unbelief.
 - We lose hope that God will do it, because we can't see how, or when, God will do it.
 - It's for this reason that now Paul can rise from these verses in this chapter, and demonstrate to us, how it is that God will do it for us.
- Didn't Abraham waiver in his faith?
 - At first glance, this may seem disingenuous at best, and dishonest at worst, by virtue of how Abraham did seemingly waver in his faith in God. Isn't his weakened faith the reason he and his barren wife took matters in their own hands with Hagar who as a surrogate gave birth to Ishmael?
 - It doesn't seem that Paul wants to draw too much attention to Abraham's unbelief when God comes to him after Ishmael had already been born.
 - Genesis 17:15 God also said to Abraham, "As for Sarai your wife, you are no longer to call her Sarai; her name will be Sarah. 16 I will bless her and will surely give you a son by her. I will bless her so that she will be the mother of nations; kings of peoples will come from her." 17 Abraham fell facedown; he laughed and said to himself, "Will a son be born to a man a hundred years old? Will Sarah bear a child at the age of ninety?" 18 And Abraham said to God, "If only Ishmael might live under your blessing!" 19 Then God said, "Yes, but your wife Sarah will bear you a son, and you will call him Isaac. I will establish my covenant with him as an everlasting covenant for his descendants after him.
 - It would seem from this account in Genesis, that Abraham is really wavering in his faith when he actually laugh's, to himself, about God doing this. You'd think that in light of Abraham's unbelief God wouldn't give him Isaac, and Paul certainly wouldn't portray Abraham as unwavering in faith.
- Matthew's gospel is of no help to us either – In it, we read of an account where Jesus seems to heal two blind men based on their faith.
 - Matthew 9:27 As Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, calling out, "Have mercy on us, Son of David!" 28 When he had gone indoors, the blind men came to him, and he asked them, "Do you believe that I am able to do this?" "Yes, Lord," they replied. 29 Then he touched their eyes and said, "According to your faith will it be done to you"; 30 and their sight was restored. Jesus warned them sternly, "See that no one knows about this."
- James 1:5 If any of you lacks wisdom, he should ask God, who gives generously to all without finding fault, and it will be given to him. 6 But when he asks, he must believe and not doubt, because he who doubts is like a wave of the sea, blown and tossed by the wind. 7 That man should not think he will receive anything from the Lord; 8 he is a double-minded man, unstable in all he does.
- So how is it, and why is it, that Paul would paint Abraham on the canvass of unwavering belief and unflinching hope in Isaac's birth by Sarah? - The answer to this, just so happens to also be the lesson in this. It's woven into the tapestry of how we, like Abraham can in the end, have hope. - I would suggest that prior to the work of God's grace, at work, in their lives, Romans chapter four would have been written about someone else.
- The number 5 symbolizes God's grace, goodness and favor toward humans
 - Name changes – Five is the number of grace
 - God changes Abram's and Sarai's name, and in so doing He changes their nature – God takes the fifth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (Heh ה) and puts it in the fifth place in the name of Abram, and then of Sarai.
 - Abram (Noble Father) becomes Abraham (Father of many)
 - Sarai (Princess) becomes Sarahah (Mother of Nations)
 - God does this before Isaac is born miraculously by Sarah, when it would have been impossible at their age.
 - There's a perfect and supernatural order to how God does, what God does, and it's ever so beautifully portrayed in the power of God's grace.

Five is the number of grace which is why God changes Abram and Sarai's name, and in so doing He changes their nature. Five is the total number of the books of Moses, known as the Pentateuch, and they declare the nature of God's goodness and grace. Five commandments on two tablets with the fifth commandment being the only one with a promise of grace. Five fingers and toes on two hands and feet, along with our five senses denote man being created in the image and the nature of God. Five offerings were given on the Altar of Sacrifice in the Tabernacle. Five smooth stones saved the Israelites from the Philistines by the grace of God through David defeating Goliath. Five books are contained in the Psalms closing with the doxology and they parallel the five books of Moses proclaiming the grace of God. Five is the number that Noah, Ruth, and David are mentioned as it relates to finding grace in the eyes of God the fifth time their name is listed. Five women are listed in the genealogy of Jesus Christ recorded in Matthew 1. Five books were written by the Apostle John, all of which are a declaration of God's grace towards those who believe in Jesus Christ. Five porches were at the pool of Bethesda found in John 5, where people came to be healed because of God's grace. Five ministries through which God's grace is revealed are listed in Ephesians 4:11. Five times only, in Romans 11:5-6, does the Apostle Paul use the word grace, and four times only the word works is used in just that chapter. Five virgins are saved in Matthew 25:1-13 when Jesus taught the parable of the ten Bridesmaids.

- Here's the bottom line; the reason that nothing we try works, and nothing changes, is because it's only God's grace that works when it changes. - Maybe you're like me and sometimes you feel like you don't have Abraham's faith. Abraham didn't have faith before receiving the grace of God. - We are saved by grace first, before it's through faith that we receive the gift of God, not of works lest any of us could boast that it was our works.

- This is how grace works and the way grace works. God's gift of grace changes me from the inside out. It comes packaged with unwavering faith. - This fills in more of the blanks, and connects more of the dots in what we saw in James 2:17 where he says that faith without works is dead. - It's not a contradiction, it's a confirmation in that, first comes the changing work of grace, through faith. When grace works, then faith works also.

1 Corinthians 15:10 NIV (10) But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace to me was not without effect. No, I worked harder than all of them—yet not I, but the grace of God that was with me.

- We are given this template of grace throughout the pages of Holy Writ. God's grace isn't based on my faith, God's grace is the base for my faith. - Let me say the same thing a different way; like Abraham, I too can have unwavering faith, when I too am the recipient of God's changing grace. - This explains why Paul writes this of Abraham. Grace changes me from unbelief to belief, from faithless to faithful, and from hopeless to hopeful.

- Looking forward to today's teaching which will be part six in a series I've titled; "Grace Works." Lord willing, we'll finally complete chapter four. - Last week, we failed in our attempt to get through to verse 25, however, in retrospect, I'm glad that we didn't rush through these last four verses. - Actually, verses 18-25 should be studied together by virtue of how the Apostle Paul ever so brilliantly uses the example of Abraham and Sarah.

- It's almost as if Paul is calling Abraham to the witness stand to testify how that God was, and always is, true to His Word in keeping His promise. - What was the promise? God promised Abraham something that in the arena of the natural, would have been utterly and absolutely impossible. - He miraculously gave them a son biologically, and He waited until Sarah was at the perfect child bearing age of ninety years old before doing it.

- Are you in an impossible situation? Perhaps the Holy Spirit will have permission to encourage your heart with Abraham and Sarah's testimony. - He was the recipient of a miracle from God, that came by the changing grace of God, and became the catalyst for his unwavering faith in God. - Absent God's changing grace, Abraham wouldn't have had unwavering faith. It was that faith that logged him into the account of God's grace.

- You'll forgive the use of the technology illustration, but I see God's changing grace as the user ID, and our unwavering faith as the password. - When you log into your account, you first need the name on your account. After that is entered you enter your password to access your account. - We'll see this next week, Lord willing, when we begin Romans chapter five. Paul describes the gaining of access by faith into the grace of God.

Romans 5:1-2 NIV (1) Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, (2) through whom we have gained access by faith into this grace in which we now stand. And we rejoice in the hope of the glory of God.

- We can gain access by faith, into this grace, and the moment we do, we too will believe that God can and will do the impossible in our lives. - This is how grace works, and this is the way grace works. When grace works, then faith works also, and when it does, it changes everything. - This explains why Paul writes this of Abraham. Grace changes me from unbelief to belief, from faithless to faithful, and from hopeless to hopeful.

- So, if that's "how" grace works, and if that's the "way" grace works, then all I need now is the "why" grace works. Verses 22-25 gives us the why.

9. Grace works when I hope in Christ's resurrection (Verses 22-25)

(22) This is why “it was credited to him as righteousness.” (23) The words “it was credited to him” were written not for him alone, (24) but also for us, to whom God will credit righteousness—for us who believe in him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead. (25) He was delivered over to death for our sins and was raised to life for our justification.

-v22-23 Paul cites Abraham's unwavering faith as the reason why it was credited to him as righteousness, and that it wasn't written for him alone. -v24-25 It's also for us who believe in Him Who raised Jesus from the dead, delivered to death for our sins, and raised to life for our justification.

- Have you ever wondered why the graphic details of Old Testament saints sins are conspicuously absent from the New Testament scriptures. - Not only are they not present, any mention of them is always in the context of their great faith like that of Abraham here in our study of Romans. - Why? The reason is because of the resurrection, and the subsequent justification that comes as a result. Sin isn't just covered, it's removed.

- It's only when I understand that the finished work of the cross vis-a-vis the resurrection of Jesus Christ, explains why grace changes everything. - That's the power of, the resurrection of, the Savior of, the world. To say it's a game changer, or even a life changer, is really an understatement. - It would be the resurrection of Isaac, a type of the resurrection of Christ, that would change how everything works, making it grace that works.

- Grace so changed Abraham, that he believed by faith, God had the power to resurrect Isaac from the death of Sarah's dead and barren womb. - Grace so changed Abraham, that he believed by faith, God had the power to resurrect Isaac from the death of sacrificing his only begotten son. - Grace so changes us that we believe by faith God had the power to resurrect Jesus, greater than Isaac, from death as God's only begotten son.

- This is why the Apostle Paul, by the Holy Spirit, ever so beautifully and eloquently brings Isaac, who is a type of Jesus Christ, into the picture.

Isaac	Jesus
A miracle child, born out of an old barren womb.	A miracle child, born out of a young virgin's womb.
Father Abraham gives his only begotten son whom he loves.	Father God gave His only begotten son because He so loved the world.
Isaac is to be offered up, which is translated; "lifted up."	Jesus said, "I will be lifted up from the earth". (John 12:32)
There were two men taken up with Isaac.	There were two men crucified with Jesus.
Isaac was 33 years old at that time.	Jesus was 33 years old when He was crucified.
They went to "the place," which is an idiom meaning the exact spot.	They were come to "the place," which is called Calvary. (Luke 23:33)
Isaac walked with his father Abraham three days.	Jesus walked with the Father three years in His public ministry.
Believing a resurrection, to those who followed; "we go, but come again."	To all believers in the resurrection, who follow Jesus, He will come again.
Father Abraham put upon Isaac the wood to carry for the sacrifice.	The Father put upon Jesus who carried the wooden cross the curse of sin.
Abraham took the fire (wrath) in his hand to burn his son as a sacrifice.	God took the wrath in His own hands and put it upon His Son, the sacrifice.
A knife (sword) was taken to stab him to his death.	Jesus was stabbed by a sword to make sure He was dead.
Abraham says "God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering".	God provides Himself, as a lamb, Jesus who is God as the offering.
Isaac was obedient and willingly bound, for his own death.	Jesus was obedient, and willingly bound, for His own death.

The Angel of the Lord calls from heaven.	This Angel of the Lord is Jesus Himself who calls from heaven.
All nations are blessed because of their obedience to sacrifice.	All are saved because of His obedience better than sacrifice. (1 Sam 15:22)
Isaac is not there when Abraham came back.	Jesus is not there in the tomb, when they came back.
After these things Abraham sees a bride (Rebekah) for the son Isaac.	After the crucifixion we see a bride (the Church) for His Son Jesus.

- I'll close with a question, and please know that I ask it of myself as well; "has my faith been weakening, and my hope been waning as of late?" - Wouldn't it stand to reason that God's changing grace works proportionate to our faith in the justification that comes from Christ's resurrection? - If God can resurrect Jesus from the grave, and for eternity I'm saved, then He most certainly can do for us that which is deemed impossible.

VI. Exposition of the Thesis (Ro 5)

Paul exposes the thesis – shines a light on it and analyzes it

Peace with God through Christ

Ro 5:1 Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, 2 through whom we have gained access by faith into this grace in which we now stand.

- Ro 5:1 Therefore, since we have been justified through faith,
 - Paul feels very certain that he has demonstrated that quite soundly
- Ro 5:1 ...we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, 2 through whom we have gained access by faith into this grace in which we now stand.
 - We are now at peace with God – we have gained access to Him through Christ
 - Ro 1:18 The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men
 - Ep 2:3 All of us also lived among them [the godless] at one time, gratifying the cravings of our sinful nature and following its desires and thoughts. Like the rest, we were by nature objects of wrath. 4 But because of his great love for us, God, who is rich in mercy, 5 made us alive with Christ even when we were dead in transgressions—it is by grace you have been saved.
 - We are, by nature, the object of God's wrath
 - We are born into a fallen world, in a condition of sin – In that condition of sin, we are, by nature, the object of God's wrath
 - But now, given the thesis, we have peace with God through Jesus – Christ enabled the peace

Rejoice in your suffering

Given that we have been justified through faith:

- We are at peace with God
- We have access to God through Christ
- We rejoice in the hope of the glory of God
- We can rejoice in our suffering because it shows God's endless love and faithfulness

As we grow in our faith, we move from putting out fires to walking through the fire and know that God is with you

- Faith triumphs in trouble (Ro 5:3-5) – Rejoice in your sufferings

Ro 5:3 Not only so, but we also rejoice in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; 4 perseverance, character; and character, hope. 5 And hope does not disappoint us, because God has poured out his love into our hearts by the Holy Spirit, whom he has given us.

- Most of Paul's letter were written through times of trial
- Trouble + faith = endurance
 - He 11:1 faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see.
- Trouble + faith + endurance = Strength of character
 - Knowing the God is with you and will get you through the trial will give you strength of character
- Trouble + faith + endurance + Strength of character = confident hope of salvation
 - Hope is a certainty that we know for sure – Nothing that we do in this life will affect my eternity
 - I'm going to stay faithful to God because he has been faithful to me
- Trouble + faith + endurance + Strength of character + confident hope of salvation = never disappointed
 - Faith + Holy Spirit + any situation = God's endless love and faithfulness to me

- We've been totally justified/cleansed by the blood of Christ (Ro 5:8-9)

Ro 5:8 But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us. 9 Since we have now been justified by his blood, how much more shall we be saved from God's wrath through him!

- Christ died for us while we were still sinners
 - While we were cursing Him to His face, giving Him the finger, ignoring Him, hating Him
 - Rarely will someone die for a good person, but Christ died for us who were sinners
- Justified – Just as if I never sinned
 - Jesus went to the cross for us and now God does not see our sin
 - It's the blood of Christ that saves us, not the love of God
 - The love of God is the motive for salvation
 - The shed blood of Christ on the cross is the operative active that enables salvation
 - God replaced our sin with Christ's righteousness
 - Similar to a pardon – Barabbas was pardoned – he was guilty, but let go
 - Points to Jesus as the sacrificial lamb to justify the world
 - We have been forgiven as far as the east is from the west
 - We did nothing to deserve this

- We've been reconciled to God (Ro 5:10-11)

Ro 5:10 For if, when we were God's enemies, we were reconciled to him through the death of his Son, how much more, having been reconciled, shall we be saved through his life! 11 Not only is this so, but we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

- We've been adopted into the family of God
- We are now a friend of God
- If Christ died for us while we were still sinners, how much more will He do for us now that we are part of the family!

- Grace (Ro 5:12-16)

Ro 5:12 Therefore, just as sin entered the world through one man, and death through sin, and in this way death came to all men, because all sinned— 13 for before the law was given, sin was in the world. But sin is not taken into account when there is no law. 14 Nevertheless, death reigned from the time of Adam to the time of Moses, even over those who did not sin by breaking a command, as did Adam, who was a pattern of the one to come.

15 But the gift is not like the trespass. For if the many died by the trespass of the one man, how much more did God's grace and the gift that came by the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, overflow to the many! 16 Again, the gift of God is not like the result of the one man's sin: The judgment followed one sin and brought condemnation, but the gift followed many trespasses and brought justification.

- We will never fully understand grace
- It is a free gift of God, but you have to receive it
- When you receive grace, you will be victorious over sin
- My devotion to Christ
 - If you are thankful for what Jesus did for you, then you should respond accordingly
 - We are no longer slaves to sin/disobedience, we are now slaves to righteousness
 - We have been bought – at a high price – He is now our Lord to whom we have to be obedient
 - We are now children of God!

Death Through Adam, Life Through Christ (Ro 5:12-21)

12 Therefore, just as sin entered the world through one man, and death through sin, and in this way death came to all men, because all sinned— 18 Consequently, just as the result of one trespass was condemnation for all men, so also the result of one act of righteousness was justification that brings life for all men. 19 For just as through the disobedience of the one man the many were made sinners, so also through the obedience of the one man the many will be made righteous. 20 The law was added so that the trespass might increase. But where sin increased, grace increased all the more, 21 so that, just as sin reigned in death, so also grace might reign through righteousness to bring eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

- Paul is drawing an analogy here
 - Sin entered the world through 1 person (Adam) → death
 - Salvation enters the world through 1 person (Christ) → eternal life
- 20 The law was added so that the trespass might increase. But where sin increased, grace increased all the more,
 - God gave the law so that might recognize how far short of it we fall
 - The greater the sin, the more grace was needed to counter it

Parenthetical remark inserted in the middle of a thought:

13 for before the law was given, sin was in the world. But sin is not taken into account when there is no law. 14 Nevertheless, death reigned from the time of Adam to the time of Moses, even over those who did not sin by breaking a command, as did Adam, who was a pattern of the one to come. 15 But the gift is not like the trespass. For if the many died by the trespass of the one man, how much more did God's grace and the gift that came by the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, overflow to the many! 16 Again, the gift of God is not like the result of the one man's sin: The judgment followed one sin and brought condemnation, but the gift followed many trespasses and brought justification. 17 For if, by the trespass of the one man, death reigned through that one man, how much more will those who receive God's abundant provision of grace and of the gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man, Jesus Christ.

- How do you know you are doing something wrong if there is no law? Yet there was sin in the world before the law.
 - 14 death reigned from the time of Adam to the time of Moses, even over those who did not sin by breaking a command, as did Adam
 - What's troubling Paul here – if you don't know sin unless there is law, then how is it that there was sin between the time of Adam and Moses?
- If the law enables us to recognize sin, what happened to the people between Adam and Moses?

- Answer – 15 But the gift is not like the trespass. For if the many died by the trespass of the one man, how much more did God's grace and the gift that came by the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, overflow to the many!
 - All died because of the sin of 1 man (Adam)
 - Many are brought to life because of the righteousness of 1 man (Christ)
 - What Christ did is infinitely greater than what Adam did
- Another example – 16 Again, the gift of God is not like the result of the one man's sin: The judgment followed one sin and brought condemnation, but the gift followed many trespasses and brought justification.
 - God's judgment for one sin brought condemnation to all
 - God's gift of grace and redemption for many sins brought justification
 - Adam sinned once and brought death to the world
 - We now have a gazillion sins, but the one act of Christ erased all of them for those that believe
 - What Christ did is infinitely greater than what Adam did
- Another example – 17 For if, by the trespass of the one man, death reigned through that one man, how much more will those who receive God's abundant provision of grace and of the gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man, Jesus Christ.
 - Adam sinned, all men died – 1 sin, all die
 - Christ died for many sins – 1 died for all the sins of the redeemed
 - What Christ did is infinitely greater than what Adam did

VII. Objections to the Thesis (Ro 6:1-11:36)

- Paul is going to anticipate our objections to his thesis, state each objection, then answer it to eliminate it
 - It's a very systematic way of supporting his argument
 - If we're saved by grace through faith, and God provides the grace that enables us to respond, then why not keep on sinning even bigger so God can provide even more grace, thus demonstrating His faithfulness & love even more?
 - If we're saved by grace through faith, then why did God give the Law?
- Jewish Argument
 - Take an idea and push it to its farthest limit and see if the logic holds up
 - Ex. Mt 22:23-28 Marriage at the resurrection
 - Mt 22:23 That same day the Sadducees, who say there is no resurrection, came to him with a question. 24 "Teacher," they said, "Moses told us that if a man dies without having children, his brother must marry the widow and have children for him. 25 Now there were seven brothers among us. The first one married and died, and since he had no children, he left his wife to his brother. 26 The same thing happened to the second and third brother, right on down to the seventh. 27 Finally, the woman died. 28 Now then, at the resurrection, whose wife will she be of the seven, since all of them were married to her?"
 - It's not a ridiculous question – it pushes the logic of the thesis of resurrection to the limit

Obj 1 – Shall we go on sinning so grace may increase?

Dead to Sin, Alive in Christ

1 What shall we say, then? Shall we go on sinning so that grace may increase? 2 By no means! We died to sin; how can we live in it any longer? 3 Or don't you know that all of us who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? 4 We were therefore buried with him through baptism into death in order that, just as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, we too may live a new life.

5 If we have been united with him like this in his death, we will certainly also be united with him in his resurrection. 6 For we know that our old self was crucified with him so that the body of sin might be done away with, that we should no longer be slaves to sin— 7 because anyone who has died has been freed from sin.

8 Now if we died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him. 9 For we know that since Christ was raised from the dead, he cannot die again; death no longer has mastery over him. 10 The death he died, he died to sin once for all; but the life he lives, he lives to God.

11 In the same way, count yourselves dead to sin but alive to God in Christ Jesus. 12 Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its evil desires. 13 Do not offer the parts of your body to sin, as instruments of wickedness, but rather offer yourselves to God, as those who have been brought from death to life; and offer the parts of your body to him as instruments of righteousness. 14 For sin shall not be your master, because you are not under law, but under grace.

- Question – Shall we go on sinning so that grace may increase?
 - If we're saved by grace through faith, and God provides the grace that enables us to respond, then why not keep on sinning even bigger so God can provide even more grace, thus demonstrating His faithfulness & love even more?
 - If grace is a good thing, how do you get more of it? Keep sinning and He'll provide even more
- Answer – Ro 6:2 By no means!
- Why? – Ro 6:2 ... We died to sin; how can we live in it any longer?
 - Once we respond to God in faith, that whole life of sin is over. We died to sin and been reborn into a new life. We are now dead to sin and alive in Christ.
 - In a fallen world of death and sin, sin will master you. But being reborn into a new life in Christ, you leave sin and death behind and you move into eternity with Christ.
 - When we were baptized into (identified with) Christ, we were also baptized into (identified with) His death and resurrection to new life
 - Baptism identifies us fully with Christ's life, death, burial and resurrection
 - Baptizo – Greek word meaning 'to dip'
 - "Baptism" is an act signifying "repentance," or metanoia
 - It is a deliberate turning away from sin and toward God.
 - It is not a casual move but a deliberate one, accompanied by a cleansing with water.
 - First one repents; then one is baptized.
 - Baptism is an outward sign that incorporates a person into the covenant community
 - Circumcision is to a Jew what baptism is to a Christian
 - We dip into the water as our old selves. When we come back up out of the water, we are our reborn.
 - Our old self has been crucified with Christ and our new self is resurrected
 - In identifying with Christ's life, death, burial and resurrection we are freed from our sin
 - Death has been conquered – our death is simply a movement into a new stage of life
 - You must be born again – a new life in Christ
 - John 3:4 "How can a man be born when he is old?" Nicodemus asked. "Surely he cannot enter a second time into his mother's womb to be born!" 5 Jesus answered, "I tell you the truth, no one can enter the kingdom of God unless he is born of water and the Spirit. 6 Flesh gives birth to flesh, but the Spirit gives birth to spirit. 7 You should not be surprised at my saying, 'You must be born again.'
 - You can't erase the past and start anew
 - Only God can make that happen through the Spirit born in you
 - The old man of sin has died, the new man has been born in the Spirit
 - You are no longer a slave to sin, but a willing slave to God, who freed you through His grace
 - 11 In the same way, count yourselves dead to sin but alive to God in Christ Jesus...13... [You] have been brought from death to life.... 14 For sin shall not be your master, because you are not under law, but under grace.
 - Therefore, do not:
 - 12 Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its evil desires.

- 13 Do not offer the parts of your body to sin, as instruments of wickedness,
- Do:
 - 13...offer yourselves to God, as those who have been brought from death to life
 - 13...offer the parts of your body to him as instruments of righteousness

Obj 2 – Shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace?

Slaves to Righteousness

15 What then? Shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace? By no means! 16 Don't you know that when you offer yourselves to someone to obey him as slaves, you are slaves to the one whom you obey—whether you are slaves to sin, which leads to death, or to obedience, which leads to righteousness? 17 But thanks be to God that, though you used to be slaves to sin, you wholeheartedly obeyed the form of teaching to which you were entrusted. 18 You have been set free from sin and have become slaves to righteousness.

- Question – Ro 6:15 Shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace?
- Answer – Ro 6:15 ... By no means!
- Why? – Ro 6:16...when you offer yourselves to someone to obey him as slaves, you are slaves to the one whom you obey
 - If I'm under grace, then transgression doesn't matter because I'm under grace. The Law punishes sin, but if you're not under Law, but under grace, is sinning then OK?
 - Ro 6:16...slaves to sin, which leads to death, or to obedience, which leads to righteousness
 - If you give yourselves to sin, then sin will control you
 - If you give yourselves to righteousness, then righteousness will control you
 - 23 For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.
 - Fundamental profound change in position
 - We're born in a condition of sin into a sinful world. Death follows sin. We are, by nature, the objects of God's wrath.
 - When God provides the grace and we respond in faith, we move positionally into the family of God
 - Example – What is the result of your life choices?

Rom 6:19 I put this in human terms because you are weak in your natural selves. Just as you used to offer the parts of your body in slavery to impurity and to ever-increasing wickedness, so now offer them in slavery to righteousness leading to holiness. 20 When you were slaves to sin, you were free from the control of righteousness. 21 What benefit did you reap at that time from the things you are now ashamed of? Those things result in death! 22 But now that you have been set free from sin and have become slaves to God, the benefit you reap leads to holiness, and the result is eternal life. 23 For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

- Ro 6:19...you used to offer the parts of your body in slavery to impurity and to ever-increasing wickedness, so now offer them in slavery to righteousness leading to holiness...
- Ro 6:20 When you were slaves to sin, you were free from the control of righteousness.
 - Result? Shame and death
- Ro 6:22 But now that you have been set free from sin and have become slaves to God
 - Result? Holiness and eternal life
- Another example – the law has authority over a man only as long as he lives

Ro 7 – An Illustration From Marriage

1 Do you not know, brothers—for I am speaking to men who know the law—that the law has authority over a man only as long as he lives? 2 For example, by law a married woman is bound to her husband as long as he is alive, but if her husband dies, she is released from the law of marriage. 3 So then, if she marries another man while her husband is still alive, she is called an adulteress. But if her husband dies, she is released from that law and is not an adulteress, even though she marries another man.

4 So, my brothers, you also died to the law through the body of Christ, that you might belong to another, to him who was raised from the dead, in order that we might bear fruit to God. 5 For when we were controlled by the sinful nature, the sinful passions aroused by the law were at work in our bodies, so that we bore fruit for death. 6 But now, by dying to what once bound us, we have been released from the law so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit, and not in the old way of the written code.

- Ro 7:1 ...the law has authority over a man only as long as he lives ... you also died to the law through the body of Christ
- God gave the Law to show us the straight line against which we measure our crookedness
 - The Law is God's requirements
 - We recognize how far short of them we fall and our need for a Savior
 - Once we accept that salvation – and identify with Christ through his life, death, burial and resurrection – we move positionally into the family of God. The Law does not apply to us anymore.
 - Ro 7:4 So, my brothers, you also died to the law ... that you might belong to another ... in order that we might bear fruit to God. 5 For when we were controlled by the sinful nature... we bore fruit for death. 6 But now ... we have been released from the law so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit, and not in the old way of the written code.
- How do we know how to live if we have no Law? You live in a way that will honor Christ
 - The Law is not for the Christian, it is for the unsaved world against which they will be judged
 - In the family of God, we live a relationship with God through Christ
 - We live that relationship in a way that is consistent with the nature of the relationship in a way that honors Christ
 - The requirements of the relationship are much higher than the requirements of the Law
 - Ex – Since we are no longer under the Law, can I now murder?
 - No – it would not be consistent with our relationship with God – it wouldn't honor Christ
 - Mt 5:21 "You have heard that it was said to the people long ago, 'Do not murder, and anyone who murders will be subject to judgment.' 22 But I tell you that anyone who is angry with his brother will be subject to judgment. Again, anyone who says to his brother, 'Raca,' is answerable to the Sanhedrin. But anyone who says, 'You fool!' will be in danger of the fire of hell.
 - Raca comes from the Aramaic term reqa. It was a derogatory expression meaning “empty-headed,” insinuating a person's stupidity or inferiority. It was an offensive name used to show utter contempt for another person. Jesus warned that the use of such a word to describe someone was tantamount to murder and deserving of the severest punishment of the law.
 - Ro 7:6 But now, by dying to what once bound us, we have been released from the law so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit, and not in the old way of the written code.

Obj 3 – Is the law sin?

Struggling With Sin

Ro 7:7 What shall we say, then? Is the law sin? Certainly not! Indeed I would not have known what sin was except through the law. For I would not have known what coveting really was if the law had not said, "Do not covet." 8 But sin, seizing the opportunity afforded by the commandment, produced in me every kind of covetous desire. For apart from law, sin is dead. 9 Once I was alive apart from law; but when the commandment came, sin sprang to life and I died. 10 I found that the very commandment that was intended to bring life actually brought death.

11 For sin, seizing the opportunity afforded by the commandment, deceived me, and through the commandment put me to death. 12 So then, the law is holy, and the commandment is holy, righteous and good.

- Question – Ro 7:7 Is the law sin?
 - Does the Law make sin a reality – if there were no Law, would there then be no sin?
 - If there were no law that said to not steal, would it then be OK to steal?
- Answer – Ro 7:7 ... Certainly not!
- Why? – Ro 7:7 ... I would not have known what sin was except through the law.
 - Ex coveting
 - If it weren't for the law, then we would not know that coveting was against the law
 - Now that I know about it, it's all that I think about – thanks to our sin nature
 - Ex lust
 - For the next 30 seconds, close your eyes and whatever you do, don't think of the person next to you being naked.
 - Now that it's been put into your head, it's all that you can think about
 - The law is the same way – when the law says don't do something, I now know that I'm not supposed to do it, but it's the only thing that I think about!
 - Does the Law then create sin?
 - Ro 7:8 ... For apart from law, sin is dead. 9 Once I was alive apart from law; but when the commandment came, sin sprang to life and I died. 10 I found that the very commandment that was intended to bring life actually brought death.
 - The more that you understand the Law, the more that you recognize that you break it continually
 - The problem is not the Law, the problem is me
 - Ro 7:11 For sin, seizing the opportunity afforded by the commandment, deceived me, and through the commandment put me to death. 12 So then, the law is holy, and the commandment is holy, righteous and good.

Obj 4 – Did the Law (which is good) produce death to me?

13 Did that which is good, then, become death to me? By no means! But in order that sin might be recognized as sin, it produced death in me through what was good, so that through the commandment sin might become utterly sinful.

14 We know that the law is spiritual; but I am unspiritual, sold as a slave to sin. 15 I do not understand what I do. For what I want to do I do not do, but what I hate I do. 16 And if I do what I do not want to do, I agree that the law is good. 17 As it is, it is no longer I myself who do it, but it is sin living in me. 18 I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature. For I have the desire to do what is good, but I cannot carry it out. 19 For what I do is not the good I want to do; no, the evil I do not want to do—this I keep on doing. 20 Now if I do what I do not want to do, it is no longer I who do it, but it is sin living in me that does it.

21 So I find this law at work: When I want to do good, evil is right there with me. 22 For in my inner being I delight in God's law; 23 but I see another law at work in the members of my body, waging war against the law of my mind and making me a prisoner of the law of sin at work within my members. 24 What a wretched man I am! Who will rescue me from this body of death? 25 Thanks be to God—through Jesus Christ our Lord!

So then, I myself in my mind am a slave to God's law, but in the sinful nature a slave to the law of sin.

- Question – Ro 7:13 Did that which is good, then, become death to me? By no means!
 - Is the Law good, but produces death?

- Answer – Ro 7:13 ... By no means!
- Why? – Ro 7:13 ... in order that sin might be recognized as sin, it produced death in me through what was good, so that through the commandment sin might become utterly sinful.
 - The Law produced in me a recognition of sin, and my own weakness in that sin.
 - Sin produces death
 - Through the Law, I can now understand the reality of sin and my inability to deal with it on my own
 - I need a savior!
 - 14 We know that the law is spiritual; but I am unspiritual,
 - The Law is good, I am not
 - 14 ... I am unspiritual ... a slave to sin.
 - 15 ... what I want to do I do not do, but what I hate I do.
 - 16 And if I do what I do not want to do, I agree that the law is good.
 - 17 As it is, it is no longer I myself who do it, but it is sin living in me.
 - 18 I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature.
 - 18 ... For I have the desire to do what is good, but I cannot carry it out.
 - 19 For what I do is not the good I want to do; no, the evil I do not want to do—this I keep on doing.
 - 20 Now if I do what I do not want to do, it is no longer I who do it, but it is sin living in me that does it.
 - This is the very nature of being part of sinful humanity
 - Underlying principle – 21 I find this law at work: When I want to do good, evil is right there with me.
 - Good angel on one shoulder and the bad angel on the other – each whispering into my ear
 - 22 For in my inner being I delight in God's law;
 - 23 but I see another law at work in the members of my body, waging war against the law of my mind and making me a prisoner of the law of sin at work within my members. 24 What a wretched man I am!
 - So then, I myself in my mind am a slave to God's law, but in the sinful nature a slave to the law of sin.
 - In my own natural condition, I can know from the Law what I should and should not do
 - Even though I want to do what is right, I am drawn to the wrong things
 - Irreconcilable conflict – This is a horrible, wretched way to live
 - 24 ... Who will rescue me from this body of death? 25 Thanks be to God—through Jesus Christ our Lord!

Obj 5 – There is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus

Life Through the Spirit

Ro 8:1 Therefore, there is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus, 2 because through Christ Jesus the law of the Spirit of life set me free from the law of sin and death. 3 For what the law was powerless to do in that it was weakened by the sinful nature, God did by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful man to be a sin offering. And so he condemned sin in sinful man, 4 in order that the righteous requirements of the law might be fully met in us, who do not live according to the sinful nature but according to the Spirit.

5 Those who live according to the sinful nature have their minds set on what that nature desires; but those who live in accordance with the Spirit have their minds set on what the Spirit desires. 6 The mind of sinful man is death, but the mind controlled by the Spirit is life and peace; 7 the sinful mind is hostile to God. It does not submit to God's law, nor can it do so. 8 Those controlled by the sinful nature cannot please God.

9 You, however, are controlled not by the sinful nature but by the Spirit, if the Spirit of God lives in you. And if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he does not belong to Christ. 10 But if Christ is in you, your body is dead because of sin, yet your spirit is alive because of righteousness. 11 And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead is living in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit, who lives in you.

12 Therefore, brothers, we have an obligation—but it is not to the sinful nature, to live according to it. 13 For if you live according to the sinful nature, you will die; but if by the Spirit you put to death the misdeeds of the body, you will live, 14 because those who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God. 15 For you did not receive a spirit that makes you a slave again to fear, but you received the Spirit of sonship. And by him we cry, "Abba, Father." 16 The Spirit himself testifies with our spirit that we are God's children. 17 Now if we are children, then we are heirs—heirs of God and co-heirs with Christ, if indeed we share in his sufferings in order that we may also share in his glory.

Life-changing question and answer

We are no longer bound by the Law – a visual example we can understand

Ro 7:1 Now, dear brothers and sisters—you who are familiar with the law—don't you know that the law applies only while a person is living? 2 For example, when a woman marries, the law binds her to her husband as long as he is alive. But if he dies, the laws of marriage no longer apply to her. 3 So while her husband is alive, she would be committing adultery if she married another man. But if her husband dies, she is free from that law and does not commit adultery when she remarries.

4 So, my dear brothers and sisters, this is the point: You died to the power of the law when you died with Christ. And now you are united with the one who was raised from the dead. As a result, we can produce a harvest of good deeds for God. 5 When we were controlled by our old nature, sinful desires were at work within us, and the law aroused these evil desires that produced a harvest of sinful deeds, resulting in death. 6 But now we have been released from the law, for we died to it and are no longer captive to its power. Now we can serve God, not in the old way of obeying the letter of the law, but in the new way of living in the Spirit.

The Law is the straight line to show us our crookedness – the battle within

Ro 7:7 Well then, am I suggesting that the law of God is sinful? Of course not! In fact, it was the law that showed me my sin.

14 So the trouble is not with the law, for it is spiritual and good. The trouble is with me, for I am all too human, a slave to sin. 15 I don't really understand myself, for I want to do what is right, but I don't do it. Instead, I do what I hate. 16 But if I know that what I am doing is wrong, this shows that I agree that the law is good. 17 So I am not the one doing wrong; it is sin living in me that does it.

24 ...Who will free me from this life that is dominated by sin and death? 25 Thank God! The answer is in Jesus Christ our Lord. So you see how it is: In my mind I really want to obey God's law, but because of my sinful nature I am a slave to sin.

A life-changing question and answer

Ro 8:18 Yet what we suffer now is nothing compared to the glory he will reveal to us later. ... 23 And we believers also groan, even though we have the Holy Spirit within us as a foretaste of future glory, for we long for our bodies to be released from sin and suffering. We, too, wait with eager hope for the day when God will give us our full rights as his adopted children, including the new bodies he has promised us.

26 And the Holy Spirit helps us in our weakness. For example, we don't know what God wants us to pray for. But the Holy Spirit prays for us with groanings that cannot be expressed in words. 27 And the Father who knows all hearts knows what the Spirit is saying, for the Spirit pleads for us believers in harmony with God's own will. 28 And we know that God causes everything to work together for the good of those who love God and are called according to his purpose for them.

Nothing Can Separate Us from God's Love

31 What shall we say about such wonderful things as these? If God is for us, who can ever be against us? 32 Since he did not spare even his own Son but gave him up for us all, won't he also give us everything else? 33 Who dares accuse us whom God has chosen for his own? No one—for God himself has given us right standing with himself. 34 Who then will condemn us? No one—for Christ Jesus died for us and was raised to life for us, and he is sitting in the place of honor at God's right hand, pleading for us.

35 Can anything ever separate us from Christ's love? Does it mean he no longer loves us if we have trouble or calamity, or are persecuted, or hungry, or destitute, or in danger, or threatened with death? 36 (As the Scriptures say, "For your sake we are killed every day; we are being slaughtered like sheep.") 37 No, despite all these things, overwhelming victory is ours through Christ, who loved us.

38 And I am convinced that nothing can ever separate us from God's love. Neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither our fears for today nor our worries about tomorrow—not even the powers of hell can separate us from God's love. 39 No power in the sky above or in the earth below—indeed, nothing in all creation will ever be able to separate us from the love of God that is revealed in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Ro 9

- Paul's burden – 9:2-3
 - Paul is a Jew
 - He as a Jew that was deceived – Ro 10:2
 - He ministered to the Gentiles and Jews
 - Ro 9:3-4 – Paul was willing to give up his own salvation for his (the Jewish) people

Ro 11

1-11 Part 1 of Romans

12-16 – Application in every day life

Did God reject the Jewish people? No

Ro 10:20 And Isaiah boldly says, "I was found by those who did not seek me; I revealed myself to those who did not ask for me." 21 But concerning Israel he says, "All day long I have held out my hands to a disobedient and obstinate people."

Directed to the Jewish Christian – Has God rejected us?

God has revealed Himself to the Gentiles – they found him instead of the Jews

Elijah – felt alone – everyone turned their backs on God – God has a plan for the remnant

Ph 1:6

God preserves His people

What God starts, He promises to finish

Only by God's grace will you be able to stand – there's nothing that you can do

Gentile Christians have been grafted into the Jewish family tree

Ro 1:29 for God's gifts and his call are irrevocable. – God's promises do not expire

Doxology – 11:36 – God is in control of all things

Ro 12 – What do you do in response to the good news of Ro 1-11? Present your bodies as a living sacrifice

Conform your lives to God's plan, do not conform to the world

How do you live this out in everyday life? Ro 12

VIII. Practical Implications of the Thesis (Ro 12:1-15:13)

1. Submit to spiritual authority

Healing = forgiveness

Restoration = realization that you can trust again

Ro 13:1-2

1Co 16:3 – The Holy Spirit resides in us – our bodies are a temple – When there is something that does not belong, it is heart-wrenching

Do not fear submitting to authority – Why Ro 13:3-4

Hurt does not come from God, it comes from a fallen man who is abusing the authority given to him

If you carry the hurt forward, you will question all new relationships

Healthy authority will govern and serve

2. Love fulfills God's requirements

Ro 3:8-10 (Voice)

The only debt that we should have is love for one another

It's hard to live in love if you have a constant fear of the motives of others

3. Darkness is dissolving

The Kingdom of God is advancing

Ro 13:12-13

4. If it's not a salvation issue, it's a matter of conviction

Unclean meats and which day to keep the Sabbath

Ro 14:2-3

Personal freedom must always give way to corporate accountability

Ro 14:5

How do you live out your convictions – Ro 14:6-13

When we are critical, we are not showing love

VIX. Conclusion (Ro 15:14-16:27)

The church must stay unified

Main message – Accept one another, even in their differences – Ro 15:5-8

The order is important

Look at people the way that Christ looked at you

Satan wants division

Focus on a unifying factor, not the dividing factors

Accept and love one another, even in their differences

Hope – Ro 15:13

Ministry grit – Ro 15:20-23

The purpose of God is much more important than our desires

What has God called you to do? And is it work done?

Honor those who have blessed you with the Gospel – Ro 15:24

Ro 15:25-27

Gratitude for the church and saints – Ro 16

The book of 1st Corinthians is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). The Apostle Paul wrote it about 56 A.D. The key personalities of this book are the Apostle Paul, Timothy and also Chloe’s household. Paul’s purpose in writing this letter to the church in Corinth was to address and correct the immorality and divisions that had arisen among them.

- Chapters 1-4, Paul received reports of problems in the church in Corinth and therefore addresses their problems and disorders, “there are quarrels among you” (1:11). Paul asks believers to “consider your calling” (1:26-30). He then declares three times that God “has chosen” them and “because of Him you are in Christ Jesus”. This truth is joyful and relieving to believers that God is in control and is the orchestrator of our lives.
- In chapters 5-11, Paul exposes all of the immorality that was occurring in the church at Corinth. These include sexual immorality, issues of marriage, and lawsuits with other believers. “Do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived; neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor homosexuals, nor thieves, nor the covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor swindlers, will inherit the kingdom of God” (6:9). Paul warns believers to be careful how you live, “For you have been bought with a price” (vs 20),
- In chapters 12-14, he clears up some of the confusion about practices of worship. He corrects difficult doctrines that had caused divisions. Some of these differences were the role of women in worship, the use of spiritual gifts, and observing the Lord’s Supper. “For God is not a God of confusion but of peace, as in all the churches of the saints” (14:33).

- Chapters 15-16 consist of Paul dealing with the topic of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. This is the topic that is, “of first importance” to Paul. It is here we find the most important information on planet Earth, the Gospel of Jesus Christ in verses 1-4. “Now I make known to you, brethren, the gospel which I preached to you, which also you received, in which also you stand, by which also you are saved, if you hold fast the word which I preached to you, unless you believed in vain. For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, and that He was buried, and that He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures” (15:1-4).

The book of 2nd Corinthians is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). The Apostle Paul wrote it about 56 A.D. The key personalities of this book are the Apostle Paul, Timothy, and Titus. Paul wrote this letter to the church in Corinth to defend and protect his Apostleship, and to teach and warn against false teachers who were spreading heresy.

- In chapters 1-7, Paul describes the characteristics of an Apostle. He explained that his ministry was to preach Jesus Christ alone and not himself, “For we do not preach ourselves, but Christ Jesus as Lord, and ourselves as bondservants for Jesus’ sake” (4:5).

Paul then explains that Christians will suffer. "we are afflicted in every way, but not crushed; perplexed, but not despairing; persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed". It is promised to followers of Christ that they will suffer. Paul states that compared to eternity with Christ the sufferings of this world are temporary and have a purpose for us: "For momentary, light affliction is producing for us an eternal weight of glory far beyond all comparison, while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal."

- In chapters 8-9, He urges the Corinthians to give the offering to the believers in Judea, as they had promised. He taught that if they gave generously they would also "reap generously" (9:6).
- Chapters 10-13 Paul defends his ministry and responds to attacks about his Apostleship. They had been questioning his authority and opposing him. Paul declares that if anyone preaches a different Gospel or a different Jesus, other than what Paul and the Apostles were preaching, they are false teachers and deceitful workers and should not be accepted.

In chapter 12 7-10, Paul explains a theology of his own suffering. He asks God to remove a suffering from His life but God refuses. God responds to him, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is perfected in weakness". Paul understood that God is sovereign and in control over even his sufferings. Therefore, Paul embraces his suffering because God allows them into his life for a purpose regardless of how difficult they may be. In times of calamity, he understood that these were times when he depended on God's strength and mercy the most. Paul responds, "Therefore I am well content with weaknesses, with insults, with distresses, with persecutions, with difficulties, for Christ's sake; for when I am weak, then I am strong". Paul knew he was the strongest when he felt the weakest because he depended on God, the one who has infinite strength.

- The last thing Apostle Paul teaches in 2nd Corinthians is how to test yourself. If you want to know if you are a Christian, if you want to know if you are a believer and follower of Jesus Christ, than you must test yourself, "to see if you are in the faith"; examine yourself with Scripture (13:5).

Corinth

Double sea-port town

- On the isthmus that links the Peloponnesian peninsula to the mainland of Greece
 - Rome → Northern coast of the Peloponnesian peninsula → Unload the ships on the west side of Corinth → Haul the cargo across the 4 mile isthmus → Reload the cargo onto a new ship on the east side → Continue onto Ephesus
 - This was the shortest, safest and fastest route to go
 - Many people tried to create a canal, but the ground was solid rock – wasn't built until 1893
- The double sea-port made it a wealthy city

Temple of Aphrodite (Goddess of Erotic Love)

- Corinth was the home of the Temple of Aphrodite – Goddess of erotic love
 - Stood on the top of a flat mountain
 - Double sea-post town – Sailors coming and going

2nd Missionary Journey (Acts 18)

- Paul leaves Athens and continues 48 miles west to Corinth
- Arrived in Corinth around mid AD50

Aquila and Priscilla

- Meets Aquila and Priscilla in the agora (open marketplace)
 - Claudius has ordered all the Jews to leave Rome
 - They are Jewish tent-makers – Not like Northface tents, but workers in canvas
 - Corinth is a good place for work – replacing and repairing the sails of ships
- Paul is a tent-maker by trade
 - He was one of the most brilliant men of his time
 - He was an adult student of Gamaliel – the greatest Rabbi of that century
 - He was being groomed for leadership in the Sanhedrin
 - Every Jewish boy learned a trade – All Jews knew everything can change in a heartbeat
 - After the formal education in a synagogue with the Rabbi – at about age 12 – the boys would apprentice with a relative (father, uncle, etc) to learn a trade
 - At about age 18, they would start working on their own – either in the family business or with someone else
 - Paul continued to study in Tarsus, and eventually moved to Jerusalem where he studied with the great Rabbis of the day – and eventually with the greatest Rabbi of the day, Gamaliel
 - When we meet Paul, he is in his early-mid 30s and he's still an adult student of Gamaliel
 - He essentially has a post-doctoral fellowship with a Nobel laureate
- Paul enters the community by helping Aquila and Priscilla until Timothy and Silas meet up with him
 - Doing something useful while he's meeting a lot of people as they came by
 - Teaches in the synagogue on the Sabbath

Paul teaches the Jews

- When Timothy and Silas get to Corinth, Paul devoted himself exclusively to preaching
- 1Co 3 – 4 metaphors
 - Infant
1Co 3:1 Brothers, I could not address you as spiritual but as worldly —mere infants in Christ. 2 I gave you milk, not solid food, for you were not yet ready for it. Indeed, you are still not ready. 3 You are still worldly.
 - Plants
1Co 3:6 I planted the seed, Apollos watered it, but God made it grow. 7 So neither he who plants nor he who waters is anything, but only God, who makes things grow.
 - Building
1Co 3:9 For we are God's fellow workers; you are God's field, God's building. 10 By the grace God has given me, I laid a foundation as an expert builder, and someone else is building on it. But each one should be careful how he builds. 11 For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid, which is Jesus Christ.

- God's Temple

- Every you is plural

1Co3:16 Don't you know that you yourselves are God's temple and that God's Spirit lives in you? 17 If anyone destroys God's temple, God will destroy him; for God's temple is sacred, and you are that temple.

Paul teaches the Gentiles

The Corinthian Correspondence

Paul arrives in Corinth in mid-A.D. 50 and spends 18 months forming a church there. Of all the churches Paul founded, the Church at Corinth presented the greatest challenges and the most difficult problems.

When Paul finally leaves Corinth in A.D. 52 he sails home via Ephesus, recognizing an enormous opportunity in that city. In A.D. 54 Paul begins his third missionary journey, going directly to Ephesus and spending most of his time there, A.D. 54-57. In the winter of A.D. 54 a delegation "from Chloe's household" in Corinth (1 Corinthians 1: 11) arrives in Ephesus with distressing news: the church in Corinth has 1) fractured into factions and divisions; 2) believers are suing one another in the secular courts; and 3) there is rampant sexual immorality throughout the church. Along with the oral report the delegation brings a letter from the new leaders at Corinth, a letter with specific questions of a very troublesome nature. In 1 Corinthians Paul addresses the three issues brought to him from Chloe's household, and in chapter 7 he addresses "the matters you wrote about" (1 Corinthians 7: 1).

Thus begins a tumultuous correspondence between Paul and the church in Corinth. We explore Paul's relationship with the church at Corinth and the correspondence that results in this lesson.

In 1 Corinthians 15 St. Paul defines the "gospel"—the "good news"—as the death, burial and resurrection of Christ—who he is and what he did on our behalf.

The church is the body of Christ

Paul was pastor at the church in Corinth for 1.5 years – also had Peter, Apollos, Aquillas and Percilla

Church was a mess – Factions (1Co 1:10), pride (ch 2-3), worldly (shaped by culture), sexual immorality (ch 5 & 6)

Lawsuits instead of grace, love & forgiveness

1Co 5 - Pornea – OT considers this to be incest

1Co5:5 hand him over to Satan

You have to discipline the people that you - approach them in love and on humility

5:5 hand this man over to Satan. Abandon this sinful man to the devil that he may afflict him as he pleases. This abandonment to Satan was to be accomplished not by a magical incantation but by expelling the man from the church (see v. 13 ; see also vv. 2 , 7 , 11). To expel him was to put him out in the devil's territory, severed from any connection with God's people. so that the sinful nature may be destroyed. So that being officially ostracized from the church will cause the man such anguish that he will repent and forsake his wicked way. For an alternative interpretation see NIV text note. In the latter view, Satan is allowed to bring physical affliction on the man, which would bring him to repentance. his spirit saved. Cf. 3:15 . day of the Lord. When Christ returns (see 1:7).

It is your responsibility to judge those inside the church

5:12 judge those inside. The church is to exercise spiritual discipline over the professing believers in the church (cf. Mt 18:15-18), but it is not to attempt to judge those outside its membership. There are governing authorities in place to judge them (see Ro 13:1-5 and notes), and their ultimate judge is God (v. 13 ; cf. Rev 20:11-15).

Galatians (Gal)

Galatians Overview

GALATIANS

	Personal Words from Paul Defense of the True Gospel For I would have you know, brethren, that the gospel which was preached by me is not according to man. For I neither received it from man, nor was I taught it, but I received it through a revelation of Jesus Christ. (1:11–12) CHAPTERS 1–2	Doctrinal Teaching Freedom from Legalism Therefore the Law has become our tutor to lead us to Christ, so that we may be justified by faith. But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a tutor. (3:24–25) CHAPTERS 3–4	Practical Exhortations Freedom to Love and to Serve For you were called to freedom, brethren; only do not turn your freedom into an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another. (5:13) CHAPTERS 5–6
Style	Vigorous, blunt, direct, and brief
Theme	Justification comes by faith in Christ Jesus, not by works of the Law.
Key Verse	2:16
Christ in Galatians	Jesus is the source and power of the believer's new life and the heir of the promises to Abraham's seed (2:20; 3:1–16).

The book of Galatians is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). It was written by the Apostle Paul about 49 A.D. prior to the Jerusalem Council which had taken place in 50 A.D. This quite possibly could have been Paul's first letter. The key personalities of this book are the Apostle Paul, Peter, Barnabas, Abraham, Titus, and false teachers. Paul writes this book to deal with the problem of circumcision and Jewish legalism toward Gentile believers.

- In chapters 1-2, Paul's gives his testimony about how he had received the authentic Gospel message. He warns that if anyone presents another Gospel message other than the one he was preaching, that person is "As we have said before, so I say again now, if any man is preaching to you a gospel contrary to what you received, he is to be accursed!" (1:9). Paul was speaking of the one true Gospel that he had received; Please read 1st Corinthians 15:1-4.

Paul then declares that Christ now lives within him, and directs, and empowers him to live as Christ's ambassador and instrument: "I have been crucified with Christ; and it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself up for me" (2:20).

- Chapters 3-5:12, Paul begins by declaring that salvation is through faith and trust in Jesus Christ "Alone", and cannot be obtained through the keeping of the Law. "You foolish Galatians! Who put you under a spell? Was not Jesus the Messiah clearly portrayed before your very eyes as having been crucified? I want to learn only one thing from you: Did you receive the Spirit by doing the works of the law or by believing what you heard? Are you so foolish? Having started out with the Spirit, are you now ending up with the flesh? (Galatians 3:1-3). The Law (10 Commandments) is our tutor to lead us to salvation in Jesus Christ, "the Law has become our tutor to lead us to Christ, so that we may be justified by faith" (3:24). No one can obey the 10 Commandments. It is impossible. Every person has broken them; therefore, we can only attain salvation through trusting in our Savior Christ Jesus.

- Chapters 5:13-6, He teaches the Fruits of the Spirit and tells us to “walk by the Spirit, and you will not carry out the desire of the flesh” (5:16). Good works does not save, but a Christian must have the desire to produce good fruit, obey God’s Law and live a holy and righteous life in the eyes of God. Christians should live this redeemed life.

Territory of Galatia

While Paul is in Corinth, A.D. 50 – 52 he writes three epistles, two to the church in Thessalonica and one to the churches in Galatia.

Galatia is a territory in central Asia Minor, not a city, and Paul writes his epistle as a circular letter to be read to all the churches in the territory. Paul had not planned to travel through Galatia on his second missionary journey, but it was “because of an illness” (Galatians 4: 13) that he did, sometime in early A.D. 50. Once settled in Corinth in mid-A.D. 50, Paul receives word that the churches in Galatia have adopted a new gospel, different from the one Paul preached. In Galatians, Paul straightens them out—in no uncertain terms: “Even if we or an angel from heaven should preach a gospel other than the one we preached to you, let him be eternally condemned” [in other words, tell him to “go to hell!”] (Galatians 1: 8).

Fruit of the Spirit (Ga 5:22-23)

THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT

Fruit of the Spirit (Galatians 5:22-23)	Descriptive Definition	Other Scriptures	Greek Definition
Love	Love is not based on emotions or feelings. It is a decision to be committed to the well being of others without any conditions or circumstances.	John 15:12-14	Agape: Love which seeks the highest good of others.
Joy	Joy is not based on financial success, good health, or popularity. By obeying God’s will, fellowship, ministering to others, and sharing the Gospel, believers will experience joy.	1 Peter 1:8, 9	Chara: Gladness, delight, a special presence of God.
Peace	Peace is a state of assurance, lack of fear, and sense of contentment. It is fellowship, harmony, and unity between individuals. Peace is freedom from worry, disturbance, and oppressive thoughts.	Philippians 4:7	Eirene: Peace between individuals, harmony, unity.
Patience	Patience is a slowness in avenging wrongs. It is the quality of restraint that prevents believers from speaking or acting hastily in the face of disagreement, opposition, or persecution.	1 Thessalonians 5:14,15	Makrothumia: Longsuffering, bearing trials without complaint.
Kindness	Kindness is an eagerness to put others at ease. It is a sweet and attractive temperament that shows friendly regard.	Proverbs 11:16,17	Chrestotes: Merciful, easy to bear. Morally good and upright.
Goodness	Goodness is the selfless desire to be open hearted and generous to others above what they deserve.	Titus 3:8	Agathosune: Useful, generous.
Faithfulness	Faithfulness is firm devotion to God, loyalty to friends, and dependability to carry out responsibilities. Faith is the conviction that even now God is working and acting on one’s behalf.	Revelation 2:10b	Pistis: Trust, conviction.
Gentleness	Gentleness is a humble non-threatening demeanor that derives from a position of strength and authority, and is useful in calming another’s anger. Gentleness is not a quality that is weak and passive.	1 Peter 3:15	Prautes: Humble, meek.
Self-Control	Self-control is to restrain one’s emotions, actions, and desires, and to be in harmony with the will of God. Self-control is doing God’s will, not living for one’s self.	Titus 2:11,12	Egkrateia: Being in control of one’s self.

The book of 1st Thessalonians is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). The Apostle Paul wrote it about 52-54 A.D. and it was one of his earliest written letters. The key personalities in this book are the Apostle Paul, Timothy, and Silas. Paul wrote this letter to strengthen and encourage the church in Thessalonica. To encourage and hearten the believers, Paul chose to emphasize the second coming of Jesus Christ. Throughout this letter, Paul focused on the principles of Faith, Hope, and Love.

- In chapters 1-3, the first principle is seen as Paul accentuates and commends them for their faithfulness to the Lord. He wrote, "thank God that when you received the word of God which you heard from us, you accepted it not as the word of men, but for what it really is, the word of God, which also performs it work in you who believe" (2:13).
- In chapters 4-6, Paul highlights Love and Hope. He encourages the church to walk in love; to (excel still more). He then expounds on the return of Jesus and "the day of the Lord". Paul teaches the church about the resurrection on the last day and that Christ will return in the clouds, this was exactly the encouragement that the church in Thessalonica needed. Lastly, before Paul finishes his letter he does not forget to add that they must pray constantly and "examine everything carefully". In today's world of lies, deception and carnival mirrors, everyone must apply these truths daily.

The book of 2nd Thessalonians is a Pauline Epistle (letter from Paul). The Apostle Paul wrote it about 52-54 A.D., several months after his first letter to the church in Thessalonica. The key personalities in this book are the Apostle Paul, Silas, and Timothy. Paul wrote this letter to reemphasize the coming return of Jesus Christ. Some of the people in Thessalonica had thought that Jesus had already returned, this letter was written to correct any misunderstandings.

- In chapter 1, Paul highlights the great hope of Jesus' future return although the exact time is unable to be known by anyone. He commends the church in Thessalonica for their perseverance in the midst of persecution, "we ourselves speak proudly of you among the churches of God for your perseverance and faith in the midst of all your persecutions and afflictions which you endure" (1:4). Paul teaches that God will punish those who are persecuting on the last day. "Dealing out retribution to those who do not know God and to those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus. These will pay the penalty of eternal destruction, away from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of His power" (1:8-9).
- In chapters 2-3, speaking of the return of Jesus Christ, Paul was sure to include the signs and setting that "the man of lawlessness" (the antichrist) had to arrive. For that to occur the "restrainer" (Holy Spirit) must be removed from restraining him. The Holy Spirit indwells all believers and when He is removed, all believers will be "caught up" in the clouds with the Lord Jesus (1 Thessalonians 4:17). Paul pushes them to pray and serve until this all transpires. "May the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God and into the steadfastness of Christ" (3:5).

Thessalonica

- Thessalonica
 - In Northern Greece (Macedonia in Paul's day)
 - Major harbor in the northern Again

- Port city – one of Rome’s main thoroughfares

Paul spends only “three Sabbath days” in Thessalonica (Acts 17: 2) and he encounters such opposition that “as soon as it was night, the brothers sent Paul and Silas away to Berea” (Acts 17: 16), lest they be stoned. Very quickly persecution against the Church begins, yet in a mere six months the emerging church in Thessalonica becomes “a model to all the believers in Macedonia and Achaia”; indeed, their “faith in God has become known everywhere” (1 Thessalonians 1: 7; 8). In 1 & 2 Thessalonians Paul addresses questions raised by the believers in Thessalonica, urgent questions asked by what is fast becoming a “martyr church.”

Three marks of true conversion: (1) turning from idols, (2) serving God and (3) waiting for Christ to return

Written in 49AD from Corinth

5 Characteristics of an Effective Preacher (1Th 2)

1. Courage to speak the truth

- 1Th 2:2 We had previously suffered and been treated outrageously in Philippi, as you know, but with the help of our God we dared to tell you his gospel in the face of strong opposition. 3 For the appeal we make does not spring from error or impure motives, nor are we trying to trick you.
- Courage requires speaking the truth, not telling people what they want to hear
- Paul gives the Gospel truthfully and does not compromise it
- Be a God-pleaser, not a people pleaser
 - 1Th 2:4 we speak as those approved by God to be entrusted with the gospel. We are not trying to please people but God, who tests our hearts.
- Don’t use flattery or be greedy
 - 1Th 2:5 You know we never used flattery, nor did we put on a mask to cover up greed
- Don’t look for praise
 - 1Th 2:6 We were not looking for praise from people, not from you or anyone else, even though as apostles of Christ we could have asserted our authority.

2. Gentleness in your relationship with the people

- 1Th 2:7 Just as a nursing mother cares for her children, 8 so we cared for you.

3. Love as your motive

- 1Th 2:8 Because we loved you so much, we were delighted to share with you not only the gospel of God but our lives as well.
- The motive for Paul sharing the Gospel is love

4. Hard work

- 1Th 2: 9 Surely you remember, brothers and sisters, our toil and hardship; we worked night and day in order not to be a burden to anyone while we preached the gospel of God to you.
- Temptations in ministry
 - Sexual scandal
 - Financial scandal
 - Laziness – most common – You can be as busy or unbusy as you wish to be

5. Holiness

- 1Th 2:10 You are witnesses, and so is God, of how holy, righteous and blameless we were among you who believed.
- Setting your life apart to serving God

Community

Paul also needed encouragement from the church

- 1Th 3:5 For this reason, when I could no longer endure it, I sent to know your faith, lest by some means the tempter had tempted you, and our labor might be in vain.
 - Paul was being persecuted and needed to hear that his work was worthwhile
 - Overcoming the deception of the mind includes honest conversations with the head (Jesus) and the body (church)
 - We are not the only ones that have dealt with life

Abundant Life (1Th 3)

- 1Th 3:12 And may the Lord make you increase and abound in love to one another and to all, just as we do to you, 13 so that He may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all His saints.
 - I want You to increase Lord – and me to decrease
 - Beware of common worldly practices
 - Passion/lust
 - Taking advantage or defrauding
 - Compromise and perversion
 - Aspire for these things (Th 4)
 - Love one another (1Th 4:5)
 - Lead a quiet life (1Th 4:11) – It's not all about us
 - Mind your own business (1Th 4:11) – No gossip
 - Work hard with your own hands for the Kingdom (1Th 4:11)
 - Be an example – be a doer, not just a sayer (1Th 4:12)

Sanctification (1Th 5)

1Th 5:12 And we urge you, brethren, to recognize those who labor among you, and are over you in the Lord and admonish you, 13 and to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. Be at peace among yourselves. 14 Now we exhort you, brethren, warn those who are unruly, comfort the fainthearted, uphold the weak, be patient with all. 15 See that no one renders evil for evil to anyone, but always pursue what is good both for yourselves and for all. 16 Rejoice always, 17 pray without ceasing, 18 in everything give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you. 19 Do not quench the Spirit. 20 Do not despise prophecies. 21 Test all things; hold fast what is good. 22 Abstain from every form of evil.

1Th 5

- Honor your spiritual authority (1Th 5:12)
- Be at peace with one another (5:13)
- Warn and encourage (5:14)
 - Comfort the fainthearted
 - Uphold the weak
 - Be patient with all
- No one render evil for evil / pursue what is good for you and for others (5:15)
- Always rejoice / be joyful (5:16)
- Pray without ceasing (5:17)
- Give thanks for everything (5:18)
- Don't quench the Holy Spirit (5:19)
- Do not despise prophecy (5:20)
- Test all things (5:21)
- Abstain from every evil (5:22)

Evidence that you belong to the Lord (2Th 1)

- Manifest evidence – Proof that you belong to the Lord
 - How do you know? 2Th 1:4 we ourselves boast of you among the churches of God for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that you endure
 - Faith – Believing in what you don't see (Hebrews)
 - Patient endurance and faith are evidence that you belong to God
- Rest for the weary
 - 2Th 1:7 and to give you who are troubled rest with us when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with His mighty angels,
 - Rest from evil – there will be a day when there is no bad – all good, all the time
- Glorified in you ... and you in Him
 - 1Th 1:12 that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and you in Him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.
 - He talks to God on our behalf every day

How to recognize the season of the 2nd coming (not rapture)

2Th 2 – The Great Apostasy

2 Now, brethren, concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to Him, we ask you, 2 not to be soon shaken in mind or troubled, either by spirit or by word or by letter, as if from us, as though the day of Christ had come. 3 Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition, 4 who opposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, so that he sits as God in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God.

5 Do you not remember that when I was still with you I told you these things? 6 And now you know what is restraining, that he may be revealed in his own time. 7 For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way. 8 And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. 9 The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, 10 and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved. 11 And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie, 12 that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

5 Reasons Why the Day of the Lord has not yet started

1. Apostasy – The spiritual falling away from the truth / physical departure
 - 3 Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first
2. Removal of the restrainer
 - 5 Do you not remember that when I was still with you I told you these things? 6 And now you know what is restraining, that he may be revealed in his own time. 7 For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way.
3. The lawless one (Antichrist) is revealed
 - and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition, 4 who opposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, so that he sits as God in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God.
 - Lawlessness – Sin is redefined as OK, therefore not sin
 - Deception
 - Counterfeits the gifts of the Holy Spirit
 - Happens after the Holy Spirit is removed
 - Exalts himself above all gods – Proclaims himself as god
 - Will sit in the temple as god

- He cannot live in believers as the Holy Spirit does – he will need to bring back the temple as a place of worship
- All powers, signs and lying wonders – magic – has been around forever
 - Deception
- Jesus wins in the end
 - 2Th 2:8 And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming.

4. Destruction of the lawless one

- ⁸ And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. ⁹ The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders,

5. Destruction of the lawless one's followers

- ¹⁰ and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved. ¹¹ And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie, ¹² that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

2Th 2 – The Great Apostasy (Physical departure)

2Th 2 – The Great Apostasy

³ Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition,

- The English expression “apostasy” or “falling away” comes from the Greek noun apostasia.
 - There are two major views on what is meant through the noun apostasia.
 - The majority view is that it is speaking of a spiritual departure, such as the unbelieving world embracing the Antichrist. Most Christians today believe that this is what is meant and that is the sign that Paul gives here.
 - Deception – False Gospel – Paul writes about deception in every letter
 - According to the second view, the apostasia is not a spiritual departure but rather represents a physical or spatial departure. If this latter view is accurate, Paul's simple point to the Thessalonian believers is that they could not possibly be in the Tribulation period because their physical departure, or the pretribulation rapture that he had already taught you about, has not yet transpired.
- Andy Woods – The Falling Away
 - Woods, Andy. The Falling Away: Spiritual Departure or Physical Rapture?: A Second Look at 2 Thessalonians 2:3. Dispensational Publishing House. Kindle Edition.
 - “I believe that what is being spoken of here is not a spiritual departure but rather a physical departure, which would be a great source of evidence favoring the pretribulation view. What I would like to present are ten reasons why I believe that the physical or spatial understanding of apostasia in Second Thessalonians 2:3a is the correct interpretation, and why the spiritual departure view is an inadequate interpretation.”
 - 10 reasons why the Falling Away refers to a physical departure instead of a spiritual departure
 1. There have always been Doctrinal departures
 2. 2 Thessalonians was an early letter
 3. The definite article before the noun apostasia
 4. The noun apostasia can refer to a physical departure
 5. The verb aphistēmi can refer to a physical departure
 6. The extended context favors a physical departure interpretation of apostasia
 7. The immediate context favors a physical departure interpretation of apostasia
 8. 2 Thessalonians 2:3a is part of a review course
 9. Early Bible translations favor the physical departure view

10. The physical departure view is held by credible scholars

- 1599 Geneva Bible translation of 2Th 2:3

3 Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day [speaking of the tribulation] shall not come, except there come a departing first, and that that man of sin be disclosed, even the son of perdition.

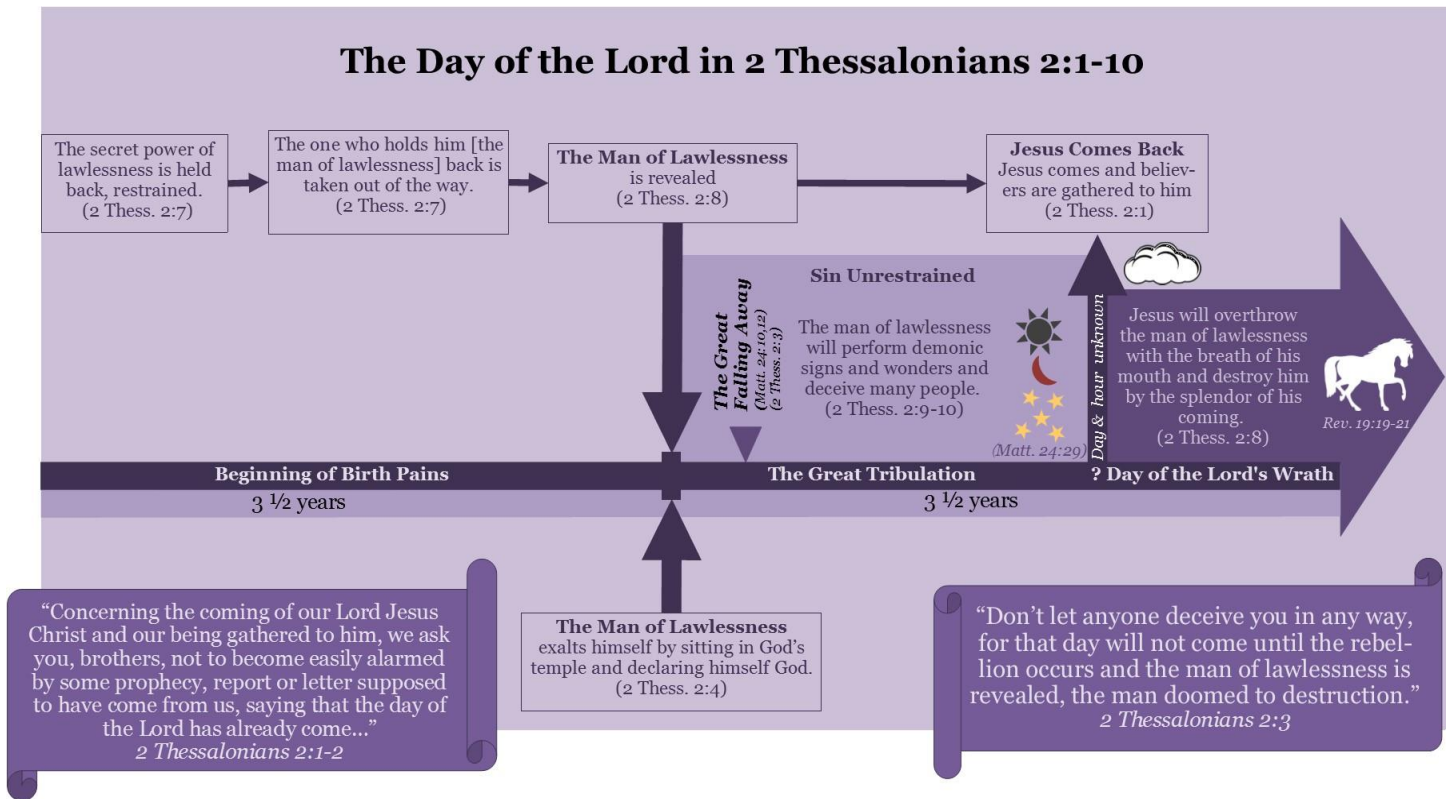

- When is it that the translators changed the noun apostasy from departure or departing to falling away in the later translations?
- Dr. Thomas Ice offers the following explanation:

Most scholars say that no one knows the reason for the translation shift. However, a plausible theory has been put forth by Martin Butalla in his Master of Theology thesis produced at Dallas Theology Seminary in 1998. It appears that the Catholic translation into English from Jerome's Latin Vulgate known as the Rheims Bible (1576) was the first to break the translation trend. "Apostasia was revised from 'the departure' to 'the Protestant Revolt,'" explains Butalla. "Revolution is the terminology still in use today when Catholicism teaches the history of the Protestant Reformation. Under this guise, apostasia would refer to a departure of Protestants from the Catholic Church." The Catholic translators appear eager to engage in polemics against the Reformation by even allowing it to impact Bible translation.

- Thus, the shift from a physical to a spiritual understanding of apostasia in Second Thessalonians 2:3a in the Roman Catholic Rheims Bible English translation appears to have been theologically rather than exegetically motivated.
 - Let me just insert parenthetically that the campaign now with a dying Catholic church in these last days is come back home.
- Furthermore, in 1611 the King James translators translated apostasia in Second Thessalonians 2:3a with the expression, "falling away." This is perhaps the second time that we begin to see a spiritual departure understanding of this verse enter an English translation. Why did the King James translators translate it as a spiritual departure when virtually everybody else, going back to Jerome, thought it was speaking of a physical departure? The answer most likely lies in the fact the KJV translation was created in the wake of the Protestant Reformation. Consequently, the translators wanted to apply the verse to the Roman Catholic Church, which represented a "falling away" from the truth. Thus, the translators of both the Rheims Bible and the KJV errantly embraced the theological interpretation "falling way" in lieu of the longstanding exegetical interpretation "departing" that had been faithfully handed down to them. Most modern translations follow the pattern established by the King James Version.

- What difference does it really make if Second Thessalonians 2:3a is speaking of a spiritual departure or a physical departure?
 - The reason it matters is because there has been for over at least the last century a vigorous debate amongst those who believe in a future Tribulation period and subsequent kingdom, concerning the question, "When the rapture will take place relative to the coming Tribulation period?"
 - Pre-tribulationists believe that the rapture takes place before the Tribulation period begins.
 - Mid-tribulationists believe that the rapture is going to take place in the middle of the tribulation period.
 - Post-tribulationists believe that the rapture will take place at the end of the tribulation period.
 - Prewrath rapturists contend that the rapture will take place at some point in the second half of the Tribulation period.
 - If verse 3a, is talking about a physical departure and not a spiritual departure, then the debate concerning when the rapture will transpire is all but over.
 - Paul says, "...that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first" (2 Thess. 2:3a).
 - The word translated "first" is the Greek adjective prōton, which means "first of all."

- If a physical departure must first transpire before the Day of the Lord can even begin, then it becomes a decisive victory for pretribulationism. Thus, how one interprets Second Thessalonians 2:3a is of grave consequence to the longstanding debate concerning the timing of the rapture.

Strong delusion (2Th 2)

2Th ⁹ The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, ¹⁰ and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved. ¹¹ And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie, ¹² that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

Question: "Why is God going to send a strong delusion in the end times?"

Answer: The Bible makes it clear why God is sending a strong delusion in the end times: "They perish because they refused to love the truth and so be saved. For this reason God sends them a powerful delusion so that they will believe the lie and so that all will be condemned who have not believed the truth but have delighted in wickedness" (2 Thessalonians 2:10-12). Simply put, God sends a strong delusion to those who chose not to believe the gospel of Christ. Those who take delight in mocking and rejecting Him, He will condemn.

It is man's choice whether to accept and believe the truth of Jesus Christ as presented in the Scriptures. To receive the truth and the love God offers is in keeping with its teachings, "This is love for God: to obey His commands" (1 John 5:3). Conversely, to know the truth and not obey it is to face the wrath of God: "The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness" (Romans 1:18). Frankly speaking, there is no more dangerous condition for man than to know the truth and refuse to obey it. To do so is to harden the heart and make God's condemnation sure.

When one knows the truth and refuses to obey it, he is subject to any lie, any deception, any untruth that man can conjure up. “For although they knew God, they neither glorified Him nor gave thanks to Him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools” (Romans 1:21-22). Paul goes on in the next few verses to describe the mindset and behaviors of those who disbelieve (see Romans 1:29-31). As a result of man’s foolishness and his arrogant disdain of the things of God, “God gave them over to a depraved mind, to do what ought not to be done” (Romans 1:28). And correspondingly, “Although they know God’s righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things, but also approve of those who practice them” (Romans 1:32).

Isaiah puts it succinctly: “They have chosen their own ways, and their souls delight in their abominations; so I [God] also will choose harsh treatment for them and bring upon them what they dread. For when I called, no one answered, when I spoke, no one listened. They did evil in My sight and chose what displeases Me” (Isaiah 66:3-4).

When men know the truth and refuse to receive it, when they refuse to obey it and hold it in unrighteousness, “they will be condemned for enjoying evil rather than believing the truth” (2 Thessalonians 2:12 NLT).

“God is love” (1 John 4:16). He is not some cruel monster who deliberately and inwardly delights in preparing people for everlasting condemnation. But He earnestly and lovingly proclaims the gospel of Christ, “not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance” (2 Peter 3:9).

Throughout the Scriptures, God urges people to accept the truth. But when people reject Him and spurn His message, then—and not until then—God hardens them and turns them over to a deluded mind to wallow in their wickedness to their eternal damnation. This is what the Lord says about those who choose to reject the truth: “They greatly love to wander; they do not restrain their feet. So the Lord does not accept them; He will now remember their wickedness and punish them for their sins” (Jeremiah 14:10).

Alien deception

- There has been a lot of alien activity lately – very likely will be the explanation for the rapture
 - 2021 Stimulus package – included was 180 days to disclose what they know about aliens
 - Uri Geller, the famous Israeli psychic, told us that the New Age would be ushered in through a crucible of change during which the entire world would experience unprecedented conflict and disaster. An advanced alien he called “IS” (Intelligence in the Sky) from a planet called “Hoova”, informed him that they had experienced the same crucible of change themselves and that they had been watching the human struggle for centuries. They would not interfere until, in a single night, at the peak of the conflict, they would remove millions of humans who resist this initiation into a higher spiritual consciousness and “re-educate” them before returning them to Earth a few years later.
 - Bringers of the Dawn: Teachings from the Pleiadians by Barbara Marciniak – The people who leave the planet during the time of Earth changes do not fit in here any longer, and they are stopping the harmony of Earth. When the time comes that perhaps 20 million people leave the planet at one time there will be a tremendous shift in consciousness for those who are remaining.

God’s Wrath on Unrighteousness

¹⁸ For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness, ¹⁹ because what may be known of God is manifest in them, for God has shown it to them. ²⁰ For since the creation of the world His invisible attributes are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal power and Godhead, so that they are without excuse, ²¹ because, although they knew God, they did not glorify Him as God, nor were thankful, but became futile in their thoughts, and their foolish hearts were darkened. ²² Professing to be wise, they became fools, ²³ and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like corruptible man—and birds and four-footed animals and creeping things.

²⁴Therefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, in the lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies among themselves, ²⁵who exchanged the truth of God for the lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

²⁶For this reason God gave them up to vile passions. For even their women exchanged the natural use for what is against nature. ²⁷Likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust for one another, men with men committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error which was due.

²⁸And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a debased mind, to do those things which are not fitting; ²⁹being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual immorality, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil-mindedness; they are whisperers, ³⁰backbiters, haters of God, violent, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, ³¹undiscerning, untrustworthy, unloving, unforgiving, unmerciful; ³²who, knowing the righteous judgment of God, that those who practice such things are deserving of death, not only do the same but also approve of those who practice them.

We have been in a civil war with the left for almost a year. The left, BLM and Antifa have been:

- Promoting riots and destruction
 - And the left pays to get the rioters out of jail (Harris is paying large amounts of money to put them back on the streets)
 - Funded and organized by the far left (Soros, Obama, Clintons, Gates)
- Promoting violence and lawlessness
 - Burning the cities (peaceful protests?)
 - Empty the prisons (because of covid? no)
 - Defunding the police (police driving past shootings as they are happening?)
 - Calling for the terrorizing and hurting/murdering the people you don't agree with
 - Destroying people's homes and businesses
- Promoting abortion
 - How else will they have enough fetal tissue for their mandatory vaccines?
- Reestablishing racism
 - We do NOT live in a racist society when we just tolerated 8 years of a horrifically bad black president
 - White privilege BS? I grew up in a trailer home - I don't think so!
- Destroying the nuclear family - no such thing as a mother, father and children - stated objective of BLM
- Promoting sexual deviance
 - Homosexuality / LGBTQ+
 - Transgender dysphoria
 - Legalized pedophilia
 - Child sex trafficking allowed to continue
- Destruction of absolute truths
 - Biology (boys are boys, girls are girls - there are only 2 and you don't get to choose!)
 - Past - Canceling culture so they can rewrite history as lies that promote their views
- Persecuting Christians and Republicans - anyone that disagrees with their insane views
 - Businesses intentionally targeted by LGBTQ+ because of their Christian beliefs
 - Forcing Christian organizations to go against their beliefs and pay for abortions and sex changes
- Anti-Israel / Anti-God
- Promoting a Marxist society - stated objective of BLM
 - IF Harris is allowed to take office, we will be at a one-world government within the year. Unfortunately, this is the more Biblically accurate scenario.
 - WEF - Great reset - You will have nothing and like it - and Harris is completely on board

- Pushing all children into liberal brainwashing education, no homeschooling option
- Promoting open borders
 - ILLEGAL immigrants taking our jobs and benefits
 - That's OK - soon their going to have to close the borders from people running away from this insanity. I am ashamed to say that I am part of this corrupt, Godless society.
- Using a virus as an excuse to force a vaccine that will have tracking information attached to it.
 - Using the masks as a way to condition the people to obey
 - You already can't buy or sell with a mark (mask) - we're a fraction of a step away from Revelation 13.

We have had it! Normal, rational, thinking people are done tolerating this insanity! Are ANY of the left held accountable for their actions? Why isn't Hilary in jail? or Obama? or Hunter? or Joe? Trump's biggest mistake was not holding them accountable. And now they want US to be accountable for a confirmed Antifa-lead breach?? They want to impeach Trump - who tweeted that the protesters should remain peaceful, even though they removed his Twitter account so no one could see it? We have had it! Trump won this election, by a LOT! There are a LOT more of us than them - and we have the guns (They'll be trying to decide which bathroom to use that day). The people will not tolerate horrific stated objectives of the Harris/Biden administration. War is already here, but a bloody war is around the corner.

The "Prison" Epistles (Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Philemon)

When Paul is arrested in Jerusalem in late A.D. 57, it plunges Paul into a legal morass that sees him held under protective custody in Caesarea for nearly two years, transported to Rome for his legal appeal, and two more years waiting in Rome for his court hearing. Altogether, Paul is sidelined for nearly five years, A.D. 58 – 62. It is important to understand that Paul is not a prisoner at this time: he is a Roman citizen, first arrested for inciting a riot, but quickly put under protective custody and sent to Rome for a legal appeal that he initiates. Indeed, we read in Acts 28: 30-31—“For two whole years Paul stayed there [in Rome] in his own rented house and welcomed all who came to see him. Boldly and without hindrance he preached the kingdom of God and taught about the Lord Jesus Christ.”

While in Rome, A.D. 60 – 62, Paul writes three epistles (Ephesians, Philippians and Colossians) and a personal letter (to Philemon). Often mistakenly called Paul’s “Prison Epistles,” Paul’s epistles are enormously rich, and his personal letter to Philemon is a masterpiece of persuasion. We engage these works in this lesson.

Conspicuously absent from Paul’s writing is any mention of him complaining about anything.

- Instead, his focus is on the grace and goodness of God in spite of the unfair, life and death situation in which he finds himself.
- The question becomes one of how he was able to do this. Answer – because he had drunk deeply from the cup of God’s grace

The book of Ephesians is a Prison Epistle (letter written while in prison). Paul wrote it about 60-62 A.D. The key personalities of Ephesians are the Apostle Paul and Tychicus. It was written to encourage believers to walk as fruitful followers of Christ and to serve in unity and love in the midst of persecution.

- In chapters 1-3, Paul begins with the joyful truth that every believer has been chosen by God before the foundation of the world, "He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we would be holy and blameless before Him. In love He predestined us to adoption as sons through Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the kind intention of His will" (1:4-5). Paul then teaches about the unity of believers. These are the truths and blessings that all believers have in common. He wrote that all Christians are "adopted as sons through Jesus Christ" (1:5). All believers are, "redeemed through His blood"(1:7), and "sealed by the Holy Spirit" (1:13). Paul continues on to clear up one of the most misconceived and/or often ignored subjects even to this day, "Salvation by Grace". He wrote that salvation is by the "Grace" of God and that it is through "Faith", and that no one can contribute to salvation, in any way, even with good deeds: "For by grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not as a result of works, so that no one may boast"(2:8-9).
- In chapters 4-5, Paul encourages the believer to "walk in a manner worthy of the calling". Every believer has a responsibility to live as servants of Jesus Christ. In these chapters, Paul teaches that it takes hard work to be in unity with others, and that we are to be "imitators of God" (5:1). He mentions imperative truths and advice for well-functioning families, including husbands and wives who upon the oath of marriage become as "one flesh" (5:31). Paul explains the concept of a biblical marriage. Marriage is a picture of Christ and the church (body of believers) and the way that Jesus Christ loved the church is the way that the husband must love his treasured wife, "Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself up for her" (5:25). Paul doesn't end there, he goes on to reinforce that husbands are to love their wives, "as their own bodies" and also to love their wives, "even as himself (vss 28;33).

When a husband learns to love his wife in this way, his wife usually has no issues fulfilling her role and even enjoys it, "the wife must see to it that she respects her husband" (vs 33).

- In chapter 6, Paul instructs believers how to prepare for spiritual battle by dressing in the "full armor of God" (6:11). Prayer is the key weapon of the Christian soldier. He emphasizes his principle with the repeated statement "stand firm".

Chapters 1-3 What God did for us

- God chose us
- Unity through Jesus
- Grace through faith

Chapters 4-6 Our response to what He's done

- Paul practically explains how our Christian lives can be lived as a result of what God did
- 4:1-16 How our lives can be lived in unity
- 4:17-5:18 How our lives can be lived in purity
- 5:19 - 6:9 How our Christian lives can be lived in harmony together with other people
- 6:10-24 How our Christian lives can be lived in victory specifically as it relates to spiritual attack

Ephesus

The city of Ephesus was one of the most occultic and sexually immoral cities in that day, home to the Temple of Diana.

Grace and peace (Ep 1:1-2)

¹Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God,

To the saints in Ephesus, the faithful in Christ Jesus:

²Grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

- He greets them by saying to them “grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.”
 - Notice its grace and peace, not peace and grace.
 - Why? You can't know the peace of God unless you know the grace of God.
 - The peace of God is based on the grace of God.
 - We cannot have peace with God, or of God, absent God's grace.
 - "Grace is always first, peace always second. This is due to the fact that grace is the source of peace. Without grace there is, and can be, no peace, but when grace is ours, peace must of necessity follow."
- With grace in its proper place, a victorious Christian life leaves the realm of theory and enters the realm of reality.
 - With grace at home base, my obedience to God is now based on what I don't deserve, and not on what I do.
 - When I realize that my relationship with God is based on grace and not works, it will change my Christian life
- We do err greatly when we try to live our Christian lives under the banner of, “if I do ____, then God will do ____”
 - To have this mindset is to live my Christian life based on what my works deserve, and not on God's grace that's undeserved.
 - Conversely, a grace-based relationship with Christ doesn't depend upon what I do, or don't do. It's based on what He did do
- This makes willful disobedience against God, more difficult because I've been the undeserving recipient of grace
 - When I come to this realization in my Christian life, it will totally change my life by virtue of how it changes the way I live my life.
 - Now, instead of thinking that God's hammer is going to come down when I mess up, it's God's grace that comes down instead.
- Scriptural truth about grace
 - The common denominator with Paul, Peter and the many others with them is that they were recipients of His magnificent grace.
 - They did nothing on their end to be deemed worthy of it; they simply embraced God's grace, which in turn changed everything.
 - Here in lies the key to living a victorious Christian life. It's all of grace in the power of the Holy Spirit and not in my own strength.
 - Paul
 - 1Corinthians 15:9 For I am the least of the apostles and do not even deserve to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. 10 But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace to me was not without effect. No, I worked harder than all of them—yet not I, but the grace of God that was with me.
 - Peter

- Matthew 26:69 Now Peter was sitting out in the courtyard, and a servant girl came to him. “You also were with Jesus of Galilee,” she said. 70 But he denied it before them all. “I don’t know what you’re talking about,” he said. 71 Then he went out to the gateway, where another servant girl saw him and said to the people there, “This fellow was with Jesus of Nazareth.” 72 He denied it again, with an oath: “I don’t know the man!” 73 After a little while, those standing there went up to Peter and said, “Surely you are one of them; your accent gives you away.” 74 Then he began to call down curses, and he swore to them, “I don’t know the man!” Immediately a rooster crowed. 75 Then Peter remembered the word Jesus had spoken: “Before the rooster crows, you will disown me three times.” And he went outside and wept bitterly.

Spiritual Blessings (Ep 1:3-14)

Spiritual Blessings in Christ

³Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in the heavenly realms with every spiritual blessing in Christ. ⁴For he chose us in him before the creation of the world to be holy and blameless in his sight. In love ⁵he predestined us to be adopted as his sons through Jesus Christ, in accordance with his pleasure and will— ⁶to the praise of his glorious grace, which he has freely given us in the One he loves. ⁷In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace ⁸that he lavished on us with all wisdom and understanding. ⁹And he made known to us the mystery of his will according to his good pleasure, which he purposed in Christ, ¹⁰to be put into effect when the times will have reached their fulfillment—to bring all things in heaven and on earth together under one head, even Christ.

¹¹In him we were also chosen, having been predestined according to the plan of him who works out everything in conformity with the purpose of his will, ¹²in order that we, who were the first to hope in Christ, might be for the praise of his glory. ¹³And you also were included in Christ when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation. Having believed, you were marked in him with a seal, the promised Holy Spirit, ¹⁴who is a deposit guaranteeing our inheritance until the redemption of those who are God's possession—to the praise of his glory.

God Really Likes Me!

- “God Really Loves Me” is a firm grasp of the obvious
- When I come to the realization that God actually likes me – and isn’t mad at me – It can completely changes the relational dynamic.
 - If I truly believe that God is mad at me, I’ll keep my distance, lest I be on the receiving end of his wrath and anger.
 - If I know that God is not mad at me and that actually He really loves me, then I’ll want to draw close to Him instead.

Spiritual Blessings

The common denominator with these blessings is that they are all spiritual, not material, which is of much greater value

- Charles Spurgeon - “Our thanks are due to God for all temporal blessings; they are more than we deserve. But our thanks ought to go to God in thunders of hallelujahs for spiritual blessings. A new heart is better than a new coat. To feed on Christ is better than to have the best earthly food. To be an heir of God is better than being the heir of the greatest nobleman. To have God for our portion is blessed, infinitely more blessed than to own broad acres of land. God hath blessed us with spiritual blessings. These are the rarest, the richest, the most enduring of all blessings; they are priceless in value.”

3-6 Blessings that are ours from God the Father

7-12 Blessings that are ours from God the Son

13-14 Blessings that are ours from God the Holy Spirit

³Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in the heavenly realms with every spiritual blessing in Christ. ⁴For he chose us in him before the creation of the world to be holy and blameless in his sight. In love ⁵he predestined us to be adopted as his sons through Jesus Christ, in accordance with his pleasure and will— ⁶to the praise of his glorious grace, which he has freely given us in the One he loves. ⁷In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace ⁸that he lavished on us with all wisdom and understanding. ⁹And he made known to us the mystery of his will according to his good pleasure, which he purposed in Christ, ¹⁰to be put into effect when the times will have reached their fulfillment—to bring all things in heaven and on earth together under one head, even Christ.

¹¹In him we were also chosen, having been predestined according to the plan of him who works out everything in conformity with the purpose of his will, ¹²in order that we, who were the first to hope in Christ, might be for the praise of his glory. ¹³And you also were included in Christ when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation. Having believed, you were marked in him with a seal, the promised Holy Spirit, ¹⁴who is a deposit guaranteeing our inheritance until the redemption of those who are God's possession—to the praise of his glory.

- Why does God choose us and bless us, with lavish extravagance and riches that are priceless in value?
 - Answer, the reason is He likes us, and it's according to His good pleasure, which is God's will for us.

Election / Predestination

Calvinism – You can't be saved unless God predestined you to be saved. You can not lose your salvation.

Armenianism – It's your free will that causes you to be saved, but you can lose your salvation.

Neither one is Scriptural

What Love is This: Calvinism's misrepresentation of God – Refutes Calvinism

- If God chooses us and predestines us, does that mean we don't choose Him?
 - "How can God choose us but still give us the free will to choose Him? It's as if, when a person decides to choose the Lord, he walks through a door over which is written the words, "Whosoever will, let him come" (Rev 22:17). Yet the moment he walks through the door, he looks back and sees the words, "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you" (John 15:16).
 - D. L. Moody - "I'm so glad God chose me before I was born, because I don't think He would have chosen me after I've lived!"
 - Ro 8:28 And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose. ²⁹For those God foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the likeness of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brothers. ³⁰And those he predestined, he also called; those he called, he also justified; those he justified, he also glorified.

Why Pray (Ep 1:15-23)

Thanksgiving and Prayer

¹⁵For this reason, ever since I heard about your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for all the saints, ¹⁶I have not stopped giving thanks for you, remembering you in my prayers. ¹⁷I keep asking that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the glorious Father, may give you the Spirit of wisdom and revelation, so that you may know him better. ¹⁸I pray also that the eyes of your heart may be enlightened in order that you may know the hope to which he has called you, the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints, ¹⁹and his incomparably great power for us who believe. That power is like the working of his mighty strength, ²⁰which he exerted in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly realms, ²¹far above all rule and authority, power and dominion, and every title that can be given, not only in the present age but also in the one to come. ²²And God placed all things under his feet and appointed him to be head over everything for the church, ²³which is his body, the fullness of him who fills everything in every way.

It's as if Paul has turned a corner, going from talking to them about the Lord, to talking to the Lord about them.

- It's not so much that Paul prayed for them, it's more when and what and why Paul prayed for them.

15-16 When he heard of their faith in the Lord & their love for God's people, he never stopped thanking God for them

17 God would give them wisdom and revelation to know Him better

18-21 The eyes of their hearts would be enlightened to:

- The hope to which God called them
- The riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints
- His incomparably great power for us who believe
 - This power is the same might strength exerted to raise Christ from the dead and seat Him at His right hand in heaven far above all demonic powers
 - Specifically, rulers, authorities, powers, and dominions,
 - Every name that is invoked, not only in the present, but all eternity.

22-23 Paul ends by declaring that God placed all things under Christ's feet appointing Him the head over everything.

- Namely, as the head of the church, which is His body, and is His fullness
- In so doing, He then fills everything in every way

Why pray? Because of Who we pray to!

- Alexander the Great - "Compassionate Day"
 - While known for conquering the entire "known world," of his time, what's not so well known is that he was compassionate towards his people. As the story goes, he set aside one day a year and called it, "Compassionate Day," in which he would randomly select people across his kingdom and allow them to ask the king for a special request that he would grant – whatever it was! What's so interesting is that most people would only ask for such things as food, clothes, money for medicine and the like. That is until one particular year, when a peasant requested that he be given a large palace, with a large banquet hall so he could host large meals for all his friends. To the astonishment of all present that day, Alexander granted his request. When the king's men asked him why he would grant this man's extravagant request, Alexander the Great told them that all the people are asking for mundane things could ask just anyone to give them. They don't need a king to give them such things. Anyone with extra goods could do that. "But a king...for the first time, this man has made me feel like the king I am. For only a king could grant such a request!"
- We pray to the God of everything! When we do pray, do we ask for too little?
 - The scriptures are replete with promise after promise; God will give us anything we ask Him for if it's for our good and His will.
 - 1 John 5:14 This is the confidence we have in approaching God: that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us. 15 And if we know that he hears us—whatever we ask—we know that we have what we asked of him.
 - Romans 8:32 He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?
 - James 1:17 Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows.
 - Matthew 7:7 "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. 8 For everyone who asks receives; the one who seeks finds; and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. 9 "Which of you, if your son asks for bread, will give him a stone? 10 Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake? 11 If you, then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good gifts to those who ask him!"

Why God allows adversity (Ep 2:10-13)

¹⁰For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do. ¹¹Therefore, remember that formerly you who are Gentiles by birth and called "uncircumcised" by those who call themselves "the circumcision" (that done in the body by the hands of men)—¹²remember that at that time you were separate from Christ, excluded from citizenship in Israel and foreigners to the covenants of the promise, without hope and without God in the world. ¹³But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far away have been brought near through the blood of Christ.

This is one of those places in God's Word where we're told what God desires to do in our lives by allowing adversity. As such, what follows are two reasons as to why it is we can better understand the trials that God will allow us to go through:

He's in the process of creating a masterpiece (Verse 10)

- We are God's handiwork
 - Other translations render this as "workmanship", "masterpiece", or "poem"
 - In other words, we are God's work of art, which means that God is in the process of creating this "masterpiece" with our lives.
 - The problem is in order for God to do this in and with our lives, He has to first remove the separation and draw us closer to Him.
- Ro 8:28 And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose. 29 For those God foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the likeness of his Son,

He's bringing us closer to Him in order to complete it (Verses 11-13)

- In verses 11 and 12, Paul reminds them as Gentiles, they were, at that time, separated as foreigners and without hope.
 - Then in verse 13 he says now those who were once far away, have been brought near by Christ's blood.
 - Now that we are in Christ and near to Christ, the process has begun in which we are made to be like Christ.
- The chief purpose of difficult trials in our lives is that God is using them to conform us into the image of Jesus Christ
 - We become like and even behave like those people that we spend the most time with
 - We become more like Christ the more time we spend with Christ

Adversity draws us close to God so He can finish His masterpiece

- Through the process of adversity, God finishes the process of perfection that He started
 - Is 48:10 See, I have refined you, though not as silver; I have tested you in the furnace of affliction.
 - It is the furnace of affliction that refines you, then God starts the decorating process
 - Once it's done, God puts his name on it
- When we become impatient with the process between "begun" and "complete," we do so to our own peril.
 - We fail to see the value of what God wants to create in and through His process of making us His masterpiece
 - And oh what a glorious and magnificent masterpiece we will be, so much so, that the Artist of artists will put His name on us!
- Ro 8:18 I consider that our present sufferings are not worth comparing with the glory that will be revealed in us. 19 The creation waits in eager expectation for the sons of God to be revealed. 20 For the creation was subjected to frustration, not by its own choice, but by the will of the one who subjected it, in hope 21 that the creation itself will be liberated from its bondage to decay and brought into the glorious freedom of the children of God.
- Ph 1:6 being confident of this, that he who began a good work in you will carry it on to completion until the day of Christ Jesus.

- Rev 2:17 To him who overcomes, I will give some of the hidden manna. I will also give him a white stone with a new name written on it, known only to him who receives it.
- Rev 3:12 Him who overcomes I will make a pillar in the temple of my God. Never again will he leave it. I will write on him the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which is coming down out of heaven from my God; and I will also write on him my new name.

Have Thine Own Way Lord (hymn)

Jer 18:1 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD : 2 "Go down to the potter's house, and there I will give you my message." 3 So I went down to the potter's house, and I saw him working at the wheel. 4 But the pot he was shaping from the clay was marred in his hands; so the potter formed it into another pot, shaping it as seemed best to him. 5 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 6 "O house of Israel, can I not do with you as this potter does?" declares the LORD. "Like clay in the hand of the potter, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel.

Jeremiah 18 sets the scene for this hymn written by Adelaide A. Pollard in 1902 after she was inspired by a simple prayer of an elderly woman at a prayer meeting: "It really doesn't matter what you do with us, Lord -- just have your way with our lives . . ."

"Have Thine Own Way, Lord" was composed during a time when Miss Pollard was trying to raise funds to make a trip to Africa. Her unsuccessful attempt to do this left her experiencing a "distress of soul." This crisis of the soul and the simple prayer of an elderly lady provided a setting for personal reflection on the will of God for her life. After the prayer meeting, she returned home and wrote the hymn as we sing it today.

Have Thine own way Lord
Have Thine own way
Thou art the potter I am the clay
Mold me and make me after Thy will While I am waiting yielded and still

Have Thine own way Lord
Have Thine own way
Search me and try me Master today
Whiter than snow Lord wash me just now
As in Thy presence humbly I bow

Have Thine own way Lord
Have Thine own way
Hold over my being absolute sway
Filled with Thy spirit till all can see
Christ only always living in me

Is There Anything Too Hard For The Lord? (Ep 2:14-18)

¹⁴For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility, ¹⁵by abolishing in his flesh the law with its commandments and regulations. His purpose was to create in himself one new man out of the two, thus making peace, ¹⁶and in this one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility. ¹⁷He came and preached peace to you who were far away and peace to those who were near. ¹⁸For through him we both have access to the Father by one Spirit.

- Jeremiah 32:27 - "Behold, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh. Is there anything too hard for Me?"
- Genesis 18:14a - Is anything too hard for the LORD?

- God brought unity between those at enmity – Jews and Gentiles
 - He united Jews & Gentiles together vis-à-vis a new identity in Christ, because of the finished work of Christ.
- Jews and Gentiles hated each other
 - The Jews saw the Gentiles as dogs and would thank God daily they weren't born a dog, a woman or a Gentile.
 - Jews believed that God had created the Gentiles as fuel for the fires of hell, to burn for all eternity.
 - A Jew who accidentally touched a Gentile, would immediately have to go through a ceremonial cleansing.
 - If a Jew were to ever marry a Gentile, the family would actually have a funeral service for them as if they no longer existed.
 - A Jew would never eat with a Gentile because doing so meant that they would form an intimate bond.
 - A Gentile could never go into the temple past the wall that had separated it from the outer courts.
 - Ironically Paul wrote this while under house arrest in Rome awaiting trial being falsely accused of taking a Gentile past that wall.
- If God can bring Jew and Gentile together, then God can do anything.
 - How did God do this? Answer; what united them was more powerful than what divided them.
 - Namely, the person of Jesus Christ, who not only brought unity from diversity, (university), but gave them a whole new identity
 - “it is not that Christ has brought one up to the level of the other, but that he has produced a greater: ‘as if one should melt down one statue of silver and another of lead, and the two together should come out gold.’ ”
 - Galatians 3:28 - There is neither Jew nor Gentile, neither slave nor free, nor is there male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus.
 - Colossians 3:11 - Here there is no Gentile or Jew, circumcised or uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave or free, but Christ is all, and is in all.
 - Paul says He made the two groups one by destroying the wall of hostility and hatred that divided them.
 - Now, they are no longer identified as a Jew or Gentile, because they are reconciled with, and have access to, the same God.
 - They're now part of the same family, with the same heavenly Father and are indwelt by the same Holy Spirit.
- Is there anything that God cannot do?
 - Salvation
 - Hebrews 7:25 - Therefore he is able to save completely those who come to God through Him, because He always lives to intercede for them.
 - Healing
 - Matthew 9:27–30a - 27 When Jesus departed from there, two blind men followed Him, crying out and saying, “Son of David, have mercy on us!” 28 And when He had come into the house, the blind men came to Him. And Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?” They said to Him, “Yes, Lord.” 29 Then He touched their eyes, saying, “According to your faith let it be to you.” 30 And their eyes were opened...
 - Guidance
 - Proverbs 3:5–6 - 5 Trust in the LORD with all your heart, And lean not on your own understanding; 6 In all your ways acknowledge Him, And He shall direct your paths.
 - Provision
 - Philippians 4:19 - And my God will meet all your needs according to the riches of his glory in Christ Jesus.
 - Luke 1:37 - For with God nothing will be impossible.”
 - Ephesians 3:20 Now to Him who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that works in us, 21 to Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus to all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

Surviving Life's Storms – Christ is our cornerstone (Ep 2:19-22)

Jesus Christ being the foundation upon which our Christian life is built by hearing and heeding the Word of God.

¹⁹Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, ²⁰built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. ²¹In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. ²²And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit.

19-20 Paul begins where it must always begin and that's with the foundation being built upon the Lord.

21 Paul goes from the foundation being built upon the Lord, to the building up, as the temple in the Lord.

22 With the foundation built upon the Lord, and the building up in the Lord, we are indwelt by the Lord.

The cornerstone

- It's important to understand just how essential the cornerstone was in establishing the foundation of any structure that was built – It was so crucial it was positioned at the extreme corner in order to bind the other stones together for stability and dependability.
- One commentator defined and explained the significance of the cornerstone this way, ...[Cornerstone] literally means at the tip of the angle. It refers to the capstone or binding stone that holds the whole structure together ... often the royal name was inscribed on it. In the East it was considered to be even more important than the foundation."

With Christ as your cornerstone, you can now survive anything that comes against

- You can now survive anything, by virtue of the chief cornerstone upon which you are built.

Absent the chief cornerstone, which is Christ, it's just a matter of time before everything comes crashing down.

- It's not if, it's when, and while any structure may appear to be sound outwardly, what will determine its fate is what's inwardly.
- So too is this true with every single one of us outwardly, that is until the storms of life hit and reveal the foundation inwardly.

"Which of the two foundations have we built our Christian lives upon?"

- Sometimes it may actually take a storm to know which foundation we have. By that I mean it would behoove us to not wait until the storm hits to expose that our foundation was built upon shifting sand.

How do we build our lives upon the rock-solid foundation of Jesus Christ as the chief cornerstone?

- By taking heed to, and being a doer of, God's Word
- James 1:22 Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says. 23 Anyone who listens to the word but does not do what it says is like a man who looks at his face in a mirror 24 and, after looking at himself, goes away and immediately forgets what he looks like.
- 1Pe 2:4 As you come to him, the living Stone—rejected by men but chosen by God and precious to him— 5 you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. 6 For in Scripture it says: "See, I lay a stone in Zion, a chosen and precious cornerstone, and the one who trusts in him will never be put to shame." 7 Now to you who believe, this stone is precious. But to those who do not believe, "The stone the builders rejected has become the capstone," 8 and, "A stone that causes men to stumble and a rock that makes them fall." They stumble because they disobey the message—which is also what they were destined for.
- Lk 6:46 "Why do you call me, 'Lord, Lord,' and do not do what I say? 47 I will show you what he is like who comes to me and hears my words and puts them into practice. 48 He is like a man building a house, who dug down deep and laid the foundation on rock. When a flood came, the torrent struck that house but could not shake it, because it was well built. 49 But the one who hears my words and does not put them into practice is like a man who built a house on the ground without a foundation. The moment the torrent struck that house, it collapsed and its destruction was complete."

One of the best examples of surviving a perilous storm by taking heed to the Word of God is found in the book of Acts 27

- Acts 27:20 When neither sun nor stars appeared for many days and the storm continued raging, we finally gave up all hope of being saved. 21 After the men had gone a long time without food, Paul stood up before them and said: "Men, you should have taken my advice not to sail from Crete; then you would have spared yourselves this damage and loss. 22 But now I urge you to keep up your courage, because not one of you will be lost; only the ship will be destroyed. 23 Last night an angel of the God whose I am and whom I serve stood beside me 24 and said, 'Do not be afraid, Paul. You must stand trial before Caesar; and God has graciously given you the lives of all who sail with you.' 25 So keep up your courage, men, for I have faith in God that it will happen just as he told me.

When Life Gets Hard (Ep 3:1-15)

Paul had experienced unspeakable hardship and difficulty

If there was ever a man of God who knew a thing or two about a hard life, it was the Apostle Paul who suffered great hardship. For over 25-years, Paul had experienced unspeakable hardship and difficulty, which he lists in his second Corinthians epistle.

2Co 11:23 Are they servants of Christ? (I am out of my mind to talk like this.) I am more. I have worked much harder, been in prison more frequently, been flogged more severely, and been exposed to death again and again. 24 Five times I received from the Jews the forty lashes minus one. 25 Three times I was beaten with rods, once I was stoned, three times I was shipwrecked, I spent a night and a day in the open sea, 26 I have been constantly on the move. I have been in danger from rivers, in danger from bandits, in danger from my own countrymen, in danger from Gentiles; in danger in the city, in danger in the country, in danger at sea; and in danger from false brothers. 27 I have labored and toiled and have often gone without sleep; I have known hunger and thirst and have often gone without food; I have been cold and naked. 28 Besides everything else, I face daily the pressure of my concern for all the churches.

It's important to understand as Paul writes this letter to the church in Ephesus he's under house arrest in Roman imprisonment. If this weren't bad enough, Paul could have easily avoided being in prison if he would have just compromised the Word of God.

How Paul was able to stand strong in the face of such unspeakable adversity in his life of hardship?

James 1:2 Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, 3 because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. 4 Perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.

What James is saying is that when life gets hard we can actually consider it pure joy because we know what God is doing in it. In other words, when I know what God is accomplishing in and through the hardships I go through, I can experience joy in it. This was how Paul got through all he went through.

What is God doing when life gets hard?

Ep 3:1 For this reason I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus for the sake of you Gentiles—

2 Surely you have heard about the administration of God's grace that was given to me for you, 3 that is, the mystery made known to me by revelation, as I have already written briefly. 4 In reading this, then, you will be able to understand my insight into the mystery of Christ, 5 which was not made known to men in other generations as it has now been revealed by the Spirit to God's holy apostles and prophets. 6 This mystery is that through the gospel the Gentiles are heirs together with Israel, members together of one body, and sharers together in the promise in Christ Jesus.

7 I became a servant of this gospel by the gift of God's grace given me through the working of his power. 8 Although I am less than the least of all God's people, this grace was given me: to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, 9 and to make plain to everyone the administration of this mystery, which for ages past was kept hidden in God, who created all things. 10 His intent was that now, through the church, the manifold wisdom of God should be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly realms, 11 according to his eternal purpose which he accomplished in Christ Jesus our Lord. 12 In him and through faith in him we may approach God with freedom and confidence. 13 I ask you, therefore, not to be discouraged because of my sufferings for you, which are your glory. 14 For this reason I kneel before the Father, 15 from whom his whole family in heaven and on earth derives its name.

In this text, there are four things that we can know God is doing:

- God is ruining me for Him (Verse 1)
 - Paul doesn't say he's a prisoner of Rome, rather, he says that he is a prisoner of Christ for the Gentiles.
 - Paul knows God has allowed him to be imprisoned so as to accomplish His will.
 - Often times, God will ruin us for Him in order to do that which God could not otherwise do, had He not allowed the hardship.
- God is revealing something to me (Verses 2-6)
 - Here Paul says in his hardship, God revealed the mystery of how that through the gospel the Gentiles are joint heirs with Jews.
 - God uses hardship to get our attention so He can show us something. – That's what it takes in order for us to see that which I would not otherwise see were it not for the hardship
- God is showing me His grace and power (Verses 7-12)
 - This is a much-needed reminder of how hardship and difficulty in life is the only way to embrace God's grace and power.
 - It's when we realize it's all of grace, and not of myself, in my own strength, that the power of God is manifest in and through me.
- God is allowing it for others to benefit (Verses 13-15)
 - This is amongst the most important of truths when it comes to knowing what God is doing in and through the hardships of life.
 - Sometimes God will allow it so that we can comfort others with the comfort God gave us while we were in the difficult hardship

2Co 1:3 Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion and the God of all comfort, 4 who comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves have received from God. 5 For just as the sufferings of Christ flow over into our lives, so also through Christ our comfort overflows.

My Prayer Life (Ep 3:14-19)

¹⁴For this reason I kneel before the Father, ¹⁵from whom his whole family in heaven and on earth derives its name. ¹⁶I pray that out of his glorious riches he may strengthen you with power through his Spirit in your inner being, ¹⁷so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith. And I pray that you, being rooted and established in love, ¹⁸may have power, together with all the saints, to grasp how wide and long and high and deep is the love of Christ, ¹⁹and to know this love that surpasses knowledge—that you may be filled to the measure of all the fullness of God.

Paul's truly had an amazing prayer life – It's not just that Paul prayed, it's what Paul prayed, and perhaps even more importantly why it is that Paul was a man of prayer.

- When – Paul was imprisoned as he awaited trial being falsely accused
- How – Verse 14 – We're told how Paul prayed namely, that of his humbling himself and kneeling to pray
- What - He prayed:
 - 16 That they would receive from God's glorious riches
 - 16 That they would be strengthened with power through His Spirit in their inner being
 - 17 That Jesus Christ would be at home in their hearts through faith
 - 17 That they would be rooted and established in love
 - 18 That they might have power, together with all God's holy people
 - 18 That they would grasp how wide and long and high and deep is the love of Christ

- 19 That they would know this love that surpasses knowledge
 - 19 That they would be filled to the measure of all the fullness of God
- Why
 - He prayed and received this himself
 - Paul loved them so much; he wanted them to experience what he had

All of these aforementioned blessings listed came vis-à-vis the prayer life of the Apostle Paul

- That also means that had Paul himself not asked for this in prayer, he would not have been the recipient of all of this.
- Every one of us should ask ourselves the question of what have we forfeited because we didn't pray.

God wants us to ask in prayer

- James 4:2b - You do not have because you do not ask God
- 1Jn 5:14T his is the confidence we have in approaching God: that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us. 15 And if we know that he hears us—whatever we ask—we know that we have what we asked of him.
- Romans 8:32 - He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?
- James 1:17 - Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows.
- Mat 7:7 “Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. 8 For everyone who asks receives; the one who seeks finds; and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. 9 “Which of you, if your son asks for bread, will give him a stone? 10 Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake? 11 If you, then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good gifts to those who ask him!
- Luke 18:1 -- Then Jesus told his disciples a parable to show them that they should always pray and not give up.

The church needs to be a praying church

- E.M. Bounds, Possibilities of Prayer - "Defeat awaits a non-praying church. Success is sure to follow a church given to much prayer. The supernatural element in the church, without which it must fail, comes only through prayer".

Hymn – “What a Friend We Have in Jesus”

- Written in 1820 by a man named Joseph Scriven.
- The numerous tragedies this man had experienced in his life inspired the writing of this hymn, which is all about our prayer life.

What a friend we have in Jesus, All our sins and griefs to bear!
 What a privilege to carry, Everything to God in prayer!
 Oh, what peace we often forfeit, Oh, what needless pain we bear,
 All because we do not carry, Everything to God in prayer!
 Have we trials and temptations? Is there trouble anywhere?
 We should never be discouraged—Take it to the Lord in prayer.
 Can we find a friend so faithful, Who will all our sorrows share?
 Jesus knows our every weakness; Take it to the Lord in prayer.
 Are we weak and heavy-laden, Cumbered with a load of care?
 Precious Savior, still our refuge—Take it to the Lord in prayer.
 Do thy friends despise, forsake thee? Take it to the Lord in prayer!
 In His arms He'll take and shield thee, Thou wilt find a solace there.
 Blessed Savior, Thou hast promised, Thou wilt all our burdens bear;
 May we ever, Lord, be bringing All to Thee in earnest prayer.
 Soon in glory bright, unclouded, There will be no need for prayer—
 Rapture, praise, and endless worship Will be our sweet portion there.

God is Able (Ep 3:20-21)

²⁰Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us, ²¹to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, for ever and ever! Amen.

- Paul is reminding the church that there is nothing that God is unable to do as he ends his prayer for them.
 - How – According to His power – How God is able is that He is all-powerful
 - Why – For His glory – He is able to because He works it out for our good and His glory in the end.
- Romans 8:32 - He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?
 - This captures the very essence of this grand and glorious truth.
 - If God would give us His only begotten Son to die for us and deliver us, there's nothing that He won't do for us.
 - If it's good, it's God! If it brings glory to God, we can be assured without question that we will be on the receiving end from God.
- God is able to do immeasurably even, infinitely more, exceedingly abundantly above all we ask or imagine.
 - Charles Spurgeon - "He has constructed here in the Greek an expression which is altogether his own. No language was powerful enough for the apostle, I mean for the Holy Ghost speaking through the apostle, —for very often Paul has to coin words and phrases to shadow forth his meaning, and here is one, 'He is able to do exceeding abundantly,' so abundantly that it exceeds measure and description."
 - Adam Clarke - "Therefore he is able to do all things, and able to do superabundantly above the greatest abundance."
- Apply this to our own personal situation – "God is able to _____."
 - God is able to restore and heal my broken marriage.
 - God is able to provide financially
 - God is able to bring my luke 15
 - or daughter back
- Sometimes, God does it for us and even instead of us in the sense that the battle belongs to Him and not us.
 - One of the best examples of this is found in the book of 2 Chronicles where God does this for Israel.
 - At the time God does this, Jehoshaphat is the king of Judah, and is faced with an impossible situation and certain annihilation

2 Chronicles 20:5-17 - 5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the Lord, before the new court, 6 and said, "O Lord, God of our fathers, are you not God in heaven? You rule over all the kingdoms of the nations. In your hand are power and might, so that none is able to withstand you. 7 Did you not, our God, drive out the inhabitants of this land before your people Israel, and give it forever to the descendants of Abraham your friend? 8 And they have lived in it and have built for you in it a sanctuary for your name, saying, 9 'If disaster comes upon us, the sword, judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and before you—for your name is in this house—and cry out to you in our affliction, and you will hear and save.' 10 And now behold, the men of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, whom you would not let Israel invade when they came from the land of Egypt, and whom they avoided and did not destroy— 11 behold, they reward us by coming to drive us out of your possession, which you have given us to inherit. 12 O our God, will you not execute judgment on them? For we are powerless against this great horde that is coming against us. We do not know what to do, but our eyes are on you." 13 Meanwhile all Judah stood before the Lord, with their little ones, their wives, and their children. 14 And the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the assembly. 15 And he said, "Listen, all Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem and King Jehoshaphat: Thus says the Lord to you, 'Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed at this great horde, for the battle is not yours but God's. 16 Tomorrow go down against them. Behold, they will come up by the ascent of Ziz. You will find them at the end of the valley, east of the wilderness of Jeruel. 17 You will not need to fight in this battle. Stand firm, hold your position, and see the salvation of the Lord on your behalf, O Judah and Jerusalem.’ Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed. Tomorrow go out against them, and the Lord will be with you.”

Living a Real Christian Life (Ep 4:1)

Chapters 1-3 What God did for us

Chapters 4-6 Our response to what He’s done

- Paul practically explains how our Christian lives can be lived as a result of what God did
- 4:1-16 How our lives can be lived in unity
- 4:17-5:18 How our lives can be lived in purity
- 5:19 - 6:9 How our Christian lives can be lived in harmony together with other people
- 6:10-24 How our Christian lives can be lived in victory specifically as it relates to spiritual attack

What does it really mean to live a real Christian life in unity, purity, harmony and victory?

¹As a prisoner for the Lord, then, I urge you to live a life worthy of the calling you have received.

- The main reason that we as Christians live joyless and defeated lives – we are trying in our own strength to do that which only God can do in us, vis-à-vis that which He’s already done for us.
 - The problem is that we get it backwards – we live our lives trying to obey God in order to get him to love us, which never works.
 - This is a relationship based on works instead of grace, in the sense that I have to earn God’s love to be worthy of it.
 - I would suggest that the majority of Christians live their lives in this way, and I say that as one who still struggles with this today.
 - We need to fully understand all that God has first done for us – Then our response is to obey Him out of my love and worship for Him.
 - 1 John 4:19 - We love Him because He first loved us.
 - John 14:15 - "If you love me, you will obey what I command.”
 - Innate within every one of us is this propensity to live our lives like we have to instead of we want to
 - I’ll want to respond in this way, not to earn His love and blessing, rather, to express my praise and thanksgiving.
 - The result of this response is a life lived that’s proportionate to what God has done reflected in our daily life with Jesus Christ.

What does living a real Christian life really look like?

- Paul will answer this in the last three chapters of Ephesians dealing with our interpersonal relationships – Specifically as it relates to husbands, wives, parents, children, employees, employers and especially related to other Christians
- King David – If there were ever a man who obeyed God and lived a life of purity and victory in response to what God did, it would be David
 - David tasted from the cup of God’s grace and mercy, it changed his life, for the rest of his life.
 - So too is this true for us, once we realize just how much we’ve been on the receiving end of all God did for us, it will change us.
 - So much so, that our response will become one of wanting to live a life that is pleasing and acceptable in the sight of the Lord.

Psalms 51:1 Have mercy on me, O God, according to your unfailing love;

according to your great compassion blot out my transgressions.

2 Wash away all my iniquity and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I know my transgressions, and my sin is always before me.

4 Against you, you only, have I sinned and done what is evil in your sight, so that you are proved right when you speak and justified when you judge.
 5 Surely I was sinful at birth, sinful from the time my mother conceived me.
 6 Surely you desire truth in the inner parts; you teach me wisdom in the inmost place.
 7 Cleanse me with hyssop, and I will be clean; wash me, and I will be whiter than snow.
 8 Let me hear joy and gladness; let the bones you have crushed rejoice.
 9 Hide your face from my sins and blot out all my iniquity.
 10 Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me.
 11 Do not cast me from your presence or take your Holy Spirit from me.
 12 Restore to me the joy of your salvation and grant me a willing spirit, to sustain me.
 13 Then I will teach transgressors your ways, and sinners will turn back to you.
 14 Save me from bloodguilt, O God, the God who saves me, and my tongue will sing of your righteousness.
 15 O Lord, open my lips, and my mouth will declare your praise.
 16 You do not delight in sacrifice, or I would bring it; you do not take pleasure in burnt offerings.
 17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, you will not despise.
 18 In your good pleasure make Zion prosper; build up the walls of Jerusalem.
 19 Then there will be righteous sacrifices, whole burnt offerings to delight you; then bulls will be offered on your altar.

Be Completely Humble (Ep 4:2-6)

2 Be completely humble and gentle; be patient, bearing with one another in love. 3 Make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace. 4 There is one body and one Spirit—just as you were called to one hope when you were called— 5 one Lord, one faith, one baptism; 6 one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

What does humility look like in the life of a Christian, and especially in the life of a church?

- We can't "do" humble, we must "be" humble, as humility is who we are.
- We'll be humble proportionate to how much we realize God in his love has done for us.
 - When you realize how gentle, patient, longsuffering and loving God has been with you, you will respond in kind towards others.
- Be like Jesus
 - I'm never more like the Lord than when I am humble. Conversely, I'm never more like the Devil than when I'm proud, which is why humility is so attractive and pride so repulsive.
 - It's for this reason that scripture is replete with passage after passage contrasting pride with humility particularly in Proverbs
 - Proverbs 11:2 - 2 When pride comes, then comes disgrace, but with humility comes wisdom.
 - Proverbs 29:23 - 23 A man's pride will bring him low, But the humble in spirit will retain honor.

Characteristics of humility

4 characteristics of humility that will be evidenced in the life of a believer and as such in the church

Humble people are gentle

- 2a Be completely humble and gentle...
- What's interesting about what Paul says here is that when we are completely humble, the result will be that we'll also be gentle.
- Someone who's humble is gentle and someone who's proud will be harsh.

Humble people are patient

- 2b be patient...

- Humble people are patient and proud people are impatient.
- If you really think about it, being impatient with someone is like saying that you and your time are more important than they are.
- Romans 12:3 For by the grace given me I say to every one of you: Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment, in accordance with the faith God has distributed to each of you
- Philippians 2:3 Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit. Rather, in humility value others above yourselves, 4 not looking to your own interests but each of you to the interests of the others. 5 In your relationships with one another, have the same mindset as Christ Jesus
- C.S. Lewis defined humility this way, “True humility is not thinking less of yourself; it is thinking of yourself less.”

Humble people are loving

- 2c bearing with one another in love.
- Here Paul is talking about just one aspect of a multifaceted love, in that humble people will manifest their love by longsuffering.
- This echoes what the Apostle Paul wrote to the church in Corinth in that famous chapter known as the love chapter.
 - 1 Corinthians 13:4 Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. 5 It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. 6 Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. 7 It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.

Humble people are united

- 3 Make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace.
- Notice here where Paul says we’re to make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace.
 - We don’t create unity in and of ourselves, the Holy Spirit does, and we are to keep unity.
 - Sadly, in our spiritual pride and arrogance thinking more highly of ourselves than we ought we do the exact opposite and divide.
- James 4:1 What causes fights and quarrels among you? Don’t they come from your desires that battle within you? 2 You desire but do not have, so you kill. You covet but you cannot get what you want, so you quarrel and fight. You do not have because you do not ask God. 3 When you ask, you do not receive, because you ask with wrong motives, that you may spend what you get on your pleasures. 4 You adulterous people, don’t you know that friendship with the world means enmity against God? Therefore, anyone who chooses to be a friend of the world becomes an enemy of God. 5 Or do you think Scripture says without reason that he jealously longs for the spirit he has caused to dwell in us? 6 But he gives us more grace. That is why Scripture says: “God opposes the proud but shows favor to the humble.”
- Charles Spurgeon - “We want unity in the truth of God through the Spirit of God. This let us seek after; let us live near to Christ, for this is the best way of promoting unity. Divisions in Churches never begin with those full of love to the Savior.”

We are one - unity in diversity

- In verses 4 through 6, Paul would say that there is one body and one Spirit.
 - This because we’re called to one hope, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all over all through all and in all.
- What Paul is saying here is that in light of this there is unity in diversity
 - Unity in diversity which just so happens to be where we get “university.”

Why We Need Others (Ep 4:7-16)

We as Christians are all different parts of the same body of Christ.

- Just as with our bodies physically functioning in a healthy way, so too do we all play a part in the body of Christ being healthy.
- In other words, while we are all diverse in our function, we are all the same in our unity and importance as the body of Christ.

We all have a gift (Verses 7-10)

7 But to each one of us grace has been given as Christ apportioned it. 8 This is why it says: "When he ascended on high, he took many captives and gave gifts to his people." 9 (What does "he ascended" mean except that he also descended to the lower, earthly regions? 10 He who descended is the very one who ascended higher than all the heavens, in order to fill the whole universe.)

Paul begins by writing that each one of us has been given gifts, as Christ apportioned it, when He descended & ascended.

- This is a reference to the fulfillment of a prophecy found in Psalm 68 about how Jesus first descended into Hades
 - Ps 68:18 When you ascended on high, you led captives in your train; you received gifts from men, even from the rebellious—that you, O LORD God, might dwell there.
- It also fulfilled Mathew 16:4, where Jesus said the only sign for a wicked generation is that of Jonah 3-days in the belly of a fish.
 - Mt 16:4 A wicked and adulterous generation looks for a miraculous sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah." Jesus then left them and went away.

We all are equipped (Verses 11-13)

11 So Christ himself gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the pastors and teachers, 12 to equip his people for works of service, so that the body of Christ may be built up 13 until we all reach unity in the faith and in the knowledge of the Son of God and become mature, attaining to the whole measure of the fullness of Christ.

- After establishing that we're all given a gift, Paul lists some of those gifts, all of which are to equip God's people.
 - The purpose of the gifts is for works of service, so that the body of Christ may be both built up and grow up.
 - He gave the apostles, prophets, evangelists, and the pastors/teachers in order to attain both unity & wholeness
- One commentator delineated this:
 - The prophetic ministry is a guiding ministry and refers to those who speak the Word of the Lord in the Spirit.
 - The evangelistic ministry is a gathering ministry and refers to those who bring people to the kingdom.
 - The pastoral ministry is a guarding ministry and refers to those who protect the flock from the wolves who seek to destroy them.
 - The teaching ministry is a grounding ministry and refers to those who ground God's people in the truths of His Word.

We all are joined together (Verses 14-16)

14 Then we will no longer be infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of people in their deceitful scheming. 15 Instead, speaking the truth in love, we will grow to become in every respect the mature body of him who is the head, that is, Christ. 16 From him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work.

Paul describes what a healthy and whole body that's joined and held together will actually look like and even function like

- Specifically, that of no longer being immature, such that we are not back and forth when it comes to crafty and cunning people. Instead, we're speaking truth in love because of our maturity and unity; joined together, and built up, as each part does its work.
- 1 Corinthians 12:12 Just as a body, though one, has many parts, but all its many parts form one body, so it is with Christ. 13 For we were all baptized by one Spirit so as to form one body—whether Jews or Gentiles, slave or free—and we were all given the one Spirit to drink. 14 Even so the body is not made up of one part but of many. 15 Now if the foot should say, “Because I am not a hand, I do not belong to the body,” it would not for that reason stop being part of the body. 16 And if the ear should say, “Because I am not an eye, I do not belong to the body,” it would not for that reason stop being part of the body. 17 If the whole body were an eye, where would the sense of hearing be? If the whole body were an ear, where would the sense of smell be? 18 But in fact God has placed the parts in the body, every one of them, just as he wanted them to be. 19 If they were all one part, where would the body be? 20 As it is, there are many parts, but one body. 21 The eye cannot say to the hand, “I don’t need you!” And the head cannot say to the feet, “I don’t need you!” 22 On the contrary, those parts of the body that seem to be weaker are indispensable, 23 and the parts that we think are less honorable we treat with special honor. And the parts that are unpresentable are treated with special modesty, 24 while our presentable parts need no special treatment. But God has put the body together, giving greater honor to the parts that lacked it, 25 so that there should be no division in the body, but that its parts should have equal concern for each other. 26 If one part suffers, every part suffers with it; if one part is honored, every part rejoices with it. 27 Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it.
- Sadly, many a Christian has resigned themselves to this notion that they're insignificant and unimportant within the body of Christ.
 - We do err greatly, when we mitigate the magnificence of those faithfully serving and ministering in obscurity and anonymity. Those unknown servants aren't perceived as having as much value in the body of Christ as those who are very well known.
 - The bottom line is, while some think more highly of themselves than they ought others think less of themselves than they ought. - I think the question we all need to ask ourselves is that of what is my part in the body of Christ, and what am I doing about it.

Change Your Mind – Change Your Life (Ep 4:17-24)

Here Paul is describing what our lives will be like and look like once God is allowed to change our hearts.

- We will no longer live our lives like we did before Christ, but instead live the new life in Christ, & because of Christ
- However, it all starts in the battleground of the mind, which is why Paul is emphasizing the need to change our way of thinking.

Why we're to change our thinking

17 So I tell you this, and insist on it in the Lord, that you must no longer live as the Gentiles do, in the futility of their thinking. 18 They are darkened in their understanding and separated from the life of God because of the ignorance that is in them due to the hardening of their hearts. 19 Having lost all sensitivity, they have given themselves over to sensuality so as to indulge in every kind of impurity, with a continual lust for more.

- Paul describes those futile in thinking, darkened in understanding, separated in ignorance, and hardened in heart.
- The reason for this is having lost all sensitivity, becoming callous, giving themselves over to impurity.
 - As such, they have given themselves license to indulge in every kind of sensuality, impurity, and they also become full of greed.
- The reason why we need to change our minds is because of the propensity for our hearts to be hard and minds set.
 - Just as we develop a callous on our hands and lose the sensitivity because of it, so too does this happen in our heart and mind
- Knowing the “why” I need to change is the catalyst for motivating the “how” I can really change.
 - Not knowing the “why” is the reason nothing ever changes in our Christian lives - it starts with how we think.

How we're to change our thinking

- In verses 20-24 he goes from the “why” to the “how”
 - It's by our putting off the old self and putting on the new self in Christ.
 - It's interesting to note that we are being made new in the attitude of our minds when we do.
 - By way of a computer illustration, it's like downloading a new file to overwrite the old corrupted file on the hard drive of our mind.

20 You, however, did not come to know Christ that way. 21 Surely you heard of him and were taught in him in accordance with the truth that is in Jesus. 22 You were taught, with regard to your former way of life, to put off your old self, which is being corrupted by its deceitful desires; 23 to be made new in the attitude of your minds; 24 and to put on the new self, created to be like God in true righteousness and holiness.

Once we will change our minds, God, in turn, will then also change our hearts.

- God will never force His way, or His will, upon us, rather, the onus is on us to make the decision to choose Him.
- Both the changing and the transforming of my mind come by way of the renewing of my mind. With this renewing of my mind, comes a new way of thinking, which not only changes my mind, but it changes what I believe. Not only will this change what I believe, it will also change my behavior and my decisions based on what I believe to be true.
 - 2 Corinthians 10:5 We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ.
 - Romans 12:1 Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship. 2 Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will.

We will become and behave as we think.

- Paul, in writing to the Philippians, lists those things that we're to think about for peace of mind and heart
 - Philippians 4:8 - Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things.
 - Proverbs 23:7a - For as he thinks in his heart, so is he Could the reason why nothing changes in your life be that you first need to change your mind?

What specific changes would you immediately and eventually see by changing, transforming, and renewing your mind? My prayer is that all of us, myself included, would take heed to this word in God's Word so as to experience a transformed life.

God Wants To Protect Me From Myself (Ep 4:25-32)

25 Therefore each of you must put off falsehood and speak truthfully to his neighbor, for we are all members of one body. 26 "In your anger do not sin": Do not let the sun go down while you are still angry, 27 and do not give the devil a foothold. 28 He who has been stealing must steal no longer, but must work, doing something useful with his own hands, that he may have something to share with those in need.

29 Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths, but only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen. 30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, with whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. 31 Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. 32 Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you.

- This passage of scripture relates to how God desires to protect us from ourselves.
 - He loves us so much and doesn't want us to needlessly suffer the consequences of own decisions and actions

- When God commands us to not do something; He does so because it's for our own good in the end.
 - One noted that the "Ten Commandments" are really to be seen as the "Tender Commandments" from a loving heavenly Father. In other words whenever God says, "thou shalt not," it's always because He wants to protect us from that which would harm us.
- Sadly, in addition to being destructive to us and those around us, it more importantly grieves the Holy Spirit of God when we do.
 - I think about how grieved I am as an earthly father when my children are angry and fighting each other.
 - How much more God.
 - Another way to think of it would be that of how hurt we become when someone hurts one of our children. How much more God.
- Paul lists what we are not to do to protect us from ourselves:
 - In verse 26 he says, "Do not let the sun go down while you're still angry."
 - In verse 27 he says, "Do not give the devil a foothold."
 - In verse 29 he says, "Do not let unholy talk come from your mouth."
 - In verse 30 he says, "Do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God."
- All these are in the context of 8 sins in which we unnecessarily subject ourselves and bring on ourselves harm and danger. The common denominator in all of these is that we do them to our own peril.
 - 1 lying (verse 25) – Paul says that we are all members of one body when he says we are to put off all lying
 - If one of the parts of our bodies (hand) lies to the other (brain), it could be dangerous, even deadly
 - One commentator explained it, "A body can only function properly if it tells itself the truth. If your hand touches something hot but your hand tells your brain that the thing is cool, your hand will be severely burned. That's why telling the truth is so important, because we are members of one another."
 - 2 anger (verse 26)
 - Presupposes an unrighteous anger
 - Righteous anger – injustice towards someone else
 - The best example of righteous anger is when Jesus was angry with the moneychangers in the temple overthrowing the tables.
 - Unrighteous anger – injustice against me.
 - When we become angry with someone for what they did to us, we, as a result, will give the devil a foothold. It's for this reason scripture is replete with how much damage anger will cause when we do the devil's work for him in anger.
 - Unrighteous anger is the catalyst for the rest of the sins that Paul lists here,
 - When I become angry with someone for a perceived injustice against me, I then resort to stealing in order to get back at them. So too is this true with how I talk about them, I slander and curse them in rage and bitterness towards them, fighting with them.
 - 3 stealing (verse 28)
 - 4 cursing (verse 29)
 - 5 bitterness (verse 31)
 - 6 rage (verse 31)
 - 7 fighting (verse 31)
 - 8 slander (verse 31).
- When we know why this can be so destructive, it will motivate me with the how of the Holy Spirit to overcome them
 - Once I know the "why" I will now want to know "how" I can change so as to not suffer the consequences of it
 - Thankfully, Paul, by the Holy Spirit, gives us the answer as to the how
 - Ep 4:32 Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you.
 - When we realize how much kindness, compassion, & forgiveness God has shown us, we in turn can show it to others

- This is what the Savior taught the disciples when they asked Him to teach them to pray, in what we call “The Lord’s Prayer.” Namely, “forgive us of our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us.” We forgive others because we’re forgiven.
- One commentator said it best this way, “Forgiveness is not a burden God places upon us, but rather a safeguard for our mental health and emotional stability. After teaching His disciples to pray, Jesus went on to underscore only one point: Forgiveness! ...Why? ...He was saying, “I want you to be free from the burden of holding a grudge.

The Source of Love (Ep 5:1-2)

1 Be imitators of God, therefore, as dearly loved children 2 and live a life of love, just as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us as a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God.

- While the Apostle Paul continues his exhortation, he will sort of set the stage for what’s in the rest of the epistle.
 - The paramount importance of love – without which, God’s people will have no hope of living a godly life.
- Ep 4:32 Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you.
 - Provides the “how” of the Spirit of God, in order to empower us to do the “what” of the Word of God.
 - It relates to how God enables us to forgive others, vis-à-vis the forgiveness that God has first given to us.
- Enter our text today, where Paul connects the dots between both forgiving one another and loving one another.
 - We are able to forgive each other because God forgave us
 - So too will we be able to love each other as God loves us.
 - The source of forgiveness and love for each other comes by way of God’s forgiveness and love for each of us
- “Follow God’s example,” or as the NKJV renders it “be imitators of God as dearly loved children.”
 - Children will naturally imitate their parents and so too will we supernaturally imitate our heavenly Father.
 - However, doing so presupposes that we will spend time with, and be close to God in order that we might end up imitating Him.
 - Acts 4:13 When they saw the courage of Peter and John and realized that they were unschooled, ordinary men, they were astonished and they took note that these men had been with Jesus.
 - Charles Spurgeon - “What are we sent into the world for? Is it not that we may keep men in mind of God, whom they are most anxious to forget? If we are imitators of God, as dear children, they will be compelled to recollect that there is a God, for they will see his character reflected in ours. I have heard of an atheist who said he could get over every argument except the example of his godly mother: he could never answer that.”
- The litmus test is love – It’s the test by which we will be known as believers in and followers of Jesus Christ.
 - John 13:34 “A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. 35 By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another.”
 - 1 John 4:7 Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and everyone who loves is born of God and knows God. 8 He who does not love does not know God, for God is love. 9 In this the love of God was manifested toward us, that God has sent His only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him. 10 In this is love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins.
 - 1 John 4:19 We love Him because He first loved us. 20 If someone says, “I love God,” and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen? 21 And this commandment we have from Him: that he who loves God must love his brother also.
- The more I’ve been forgiven of, the more I’ll then love.
 - The more I walk in love, the more I walk in obedience because of love, which results in being a good witness for Christ.
 - Forgiven of much → Loves much → obeying much

- John 14:23 - Jesus replied, “Anyone who loves me will obey my teaching. My Father will love them, and we will come to them and make our home with them. 24 Anyone who does not love me will not obey my teaching. These words you hear are not my own; they belong to the Father who sent me.
- Luke 7:36 When one of the Pharisees invited Jesus to have dinner with him, he went to the Pharisee’s house and reclined at the table. 37 A woman in that town who lived a sinful life learned that Jesus was eating at the Pharisee’s house, so she came there with an alabaster jar of perfume. 38 As she stood behind him at his feet weeping, she began to wet his feet with her tears. Then she wiped them with her hair, kissed them and poured perfume on them. 39 When the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he said to himself, “If this man were a prophet, he would know who is touching him and what kind of woman she is—that she is a sinner.” 40 Jesus answered him, “Simon, I have something to tell you.” “Tell me, teacher,” he said. 41 “Two people owed money to a certain moneylender. One owed him five hundred denarii, and the other fifty. 42 Neither of them had the money to pay him back, so he forgave the debts of both. Now which of them will love him more?” 43 Simon replied, “I suppose the one who had the bigger debt forgiven.” “You have judged correctly,” Jesus said. 44 Then he turned toward the woman and said to Simon, “Do you see this woman? I came into your house. You did not give me any water for my feet, but she wet my feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair. 45 You did not give me a kiss, but this woman, from the time I entered, has not stopped kissing my feet. 46 You did not put oil on my head, but she has poured perfume on my feet. 47 Therefore, I tell you, her many sins have been forgiven—as her great love has shown. But whoever has been forgiven little loves little.” 48 Then Jesus said to her, “Your sins are forgiven.” 49 The other guests began to say among themselves, “Who is this who even forgives sins?” 50 Jesus said to the woman, “Your faith has saved you; go in peace.”

Sexual Purity is Possible (Ep 5:3-4)

3 But among you there must not be even a hint of sexual immorality, or of any kind of impurity, or of greed, because these are improper for God's holy people. 4 Nor should there be obscenity, foolish talk or coarse joking, which are out of place, but rather thanksgiving.

- In order to better understand what Paul is writing to the church in Ephesus, we need to know about the worship there
 - Temple of Diana
 - Ephesus was one of the most occultic and sexually immoral cities in that day
 - The Temple of Diana was a place where male and female prostitutes would provide their services under the banner of religion.
 - It was one of the seven wonders of the ancient world, but it was like a magnet drawing the people to a cesspool of debauchery.
 - You can visit the site where this massive temple once stood in the ancient Ephesus. However, you should probably know that it’s now a swampland.
 - Specifically as it relates to living sexually pure lives in a sexually immoral culture, much like the church in Ephesus at that time.
- In this text, Paul exhorts us concerning the seriousness of sexual immorality as God’s people.
 - porneia – The word Paul uses for sexual immorality in the original Greek language of the New Testament
 - This is where we get our English word, “pornography,” which is a broad word that describes all matters of sexual sin.
 - In other words – any sexual intercourse outside of the marriage is sexual sin, which as a result makes a person sexually immoral.
 - Paul connects the dots of sexual immorality and impurity to obscenity, filthy talking and joking.
 - When sexual immorality takes up residence in one’s heart; it will be evidenced by what comes out of their mouth. I don’t think the importance of guarding one’s heart can be overstated, because what’s in our heart will come out of our mouths.
 - Proverbs 4:23–24 - 23 Above all else, guard your heart, for everything you do flows from it. 24 Keep your mouth free of perversity; keep corrupt talk far from your lips.
 - Luke 6:45 - A good man brings good things out of the good stored up in his heart, and an evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in his heart. For the mouth speaks what the heart is full of.

- How we are to live sexually pure lives as God's people, so there's no hint of this among us.
 - The answer is found in what Paul says at the end of verse 4 about thanksgiving coming out of our mouth.
 - When I am the recipient of God's forgiveness for my sins because of His love while I was yet a sinner, I will walk in obedience.
 - A life of purity comes vis-à-vis my response to all God has done for me, in the sense that I love Him because He first loved me.
 - Then, when I have this love for God, what comes as a result is that I will want to obey God, such that, it's a 'get to' not a 'got to'.
 - This is why the Apostle Paul listed in grand and glorious detail all God has done for us in the first three chapters of Ephesians.
- I am aware that there are those for whom this Christian experience seems not only unattainable but unsustainable. By that I mean there are those times that, as Christians, one can still fall prey to sexual temptation and in so doing, sin sexually. The truth of the matter is that, as Christians, it's not that we can ever, this side of heaven, be sinless. Rather, it's that we sin less.
 - 1 John 1:8–10 - 8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. 9 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.
 - Psalm 119:11 - Your word I have hidden in my heart, That I might not sin against You.
 - Romans 6:14 - For sin shall no longer be your master, because you are not under the law, but under grace.
 - This is one of the best and most freeing truths I've ever read concerning Romans 6:14, written by Roy Hession in "Forgotten Factors."

"If we are to experience sin not having dominion over us, we shall have to know truly what it is to be living under grace and not under law. ... If the dominion of sin over us is its power to condemn us, then the holy law of God only adds to that power. In that condition of despair we have little motivation but to commit further sin. ... To understand, then, the true nature of the dominion of sin and what are the devil's intentions in it is the first step into freedom. We are now ready to hear the message of grace. The grace of God is the love of God in action toward those who deserve nothing and can do nothing. ... Calvary shows us we are loved by God as we are, unconditionally without strings. There Jesus died not only for sin, but to sin. That is how Romans 6:10 puts it: "In that he died, he died unto sin once." What does that mean? It does not mean that He died to sin's solicitations (He was never alive to them); but that in paying our debt in His blood He died to sin's power to condemn Him any longer and therefore God raised Him from the dead. But if at that cross sin lost its power to condemn our Substitute, it has also lost its power to condemn all those whose Substitute He became. If each one of them now returns to the Cross in confession, they may all reckon on this fact, lose their burden of guilt, and step into freedom. ... If we take a long time to do that, we will be a long time under the dominion of sin. But the moment we humble ourselves and confess it all, we are forgiven, cleansed, set free from guilt and declared right with God ... The foundation of guilt on which Satan built his superstructure is removed by God Himself; the superstructure itself comes tumbling down and the one imprisoned within it is set free."

Doubting One's Salvation (Ep 5:5-7)

5 For of this you can be sure: No immoral, impure or greedy person—such a man is an idolater—has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God. 6 Let no one deceive you with empty words, for because of such things God's wrath comes on those who are disobedient. 7 Therefore do not be partners with them.

- This is a very important truth – and one for which there has been great misunderstanding – deception about salvation
 - Doubting and questioning their salvation
 - Doubting and questioning someone else's salvation
 - If you were to ask me what I thought was one of the most important concerns for a Christian, this would be at the top of the list.

- How do you know whether or not one's saved? Paul tells us
 - If you're saved and you know it, then your life will surely show it.
 - This is, in effect, what Paul is saying in verses 5-7 – If you're not saved, you will also show it.
 - The lifestyle someone practices will determine whether or not an individual has experienced a true conversion
 - In verse 5, Paul says we can be sure of this, no fornicator, impure, greedy idolater will enter the kingdom of God.
 - In verse 6 he says don't let anyone deceive you with empty words because God's wrath is on those who practice disobedience.
 - Then, in verse 7 he says we are not, therefore, to be partners, or partakers, in practicing a lifestyle of willful disobedience.
 - Supporting scriptures
 - Galatians 5:19 Now the works of the flesh are evident, which are: adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lewdness, 20 idolatry, sorcery, hatred, contentions, jealousies, outbursts of wrath, selfish ambitions, dissensions, heresies, 21 envy, murders, drunkenness, revelries, and the like; of which I tell you beforehand, just as I also told you in time past, that those who practice such things will not inherit the kingdom of God.
 - 1 John 3:7 Little children, let no one deceive you. He who practices righteousness is righteous, just as He is righteous. 8 He who sins is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that He might destroy the works of the devil. 9 Whoever has been born of God does not sin, for His seed remains in him; and he cannot sin, because he has been born of God. 10 In this the children of God and the children of the devil are manifest: Whoever does not practice righteousness is not of God, nor is he who does not love his brother.
 - Matthew 7:15 "Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravenous wolves. 16 You will know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes from thornbushes or figs from thistles? 17 Even so, every good tree bears good fruit, but a bad tree bears bad fruit. 18 A good tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a bad tree bear good fruit. 19 Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. 20 Therefore by their fruits you will know them. 21 "Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven. 22 Many will say to Me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?' 23 And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!'

How can you be sure your salvation

How is it that one can be sure of their own salvation, and as well, the salvation of someone they really care about.

1. I will have experienced a new birth

- In Matthew 7:15-23, the word "knew" in the original language of the Greek New Testament is Ginosko.
 - Ginosko is the same word that Mary used when the angel Gabriel told her she would conceive a son though a virgin
 - In Luke 1:34 Mary asks the Gabriel, "How can this be, since I do not know a man." It's a Hebrew idiom for sexual intercourse.
 - John 3:3 - Jesus replied, "Very truly I tell you, no one can see the kingdom of God unless they are born again."

2. I will sin less though not sinless

- This is where "practice" comes into play, in the sense that I will no longer practice habitual and willful disobedience.
- When I'm born again, there's spiritual regeneration, such that I cannot rest in the habitual practice of such things.
- Conversely, those who aren't saved (but think they are) will practice such sin with no hesitation, conviction, remorse or repentance.

- 1 John 1:8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. 9 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.

3. I will bear good fruit in my life

- This is the litmus test when it comes to knowing whether or not someone is truly saved or not.
- It's for this reason that Jesus used the analogy in Matthew 7 about a good tree bearing good fruit and bad tree bearing bad fruit.
- Here's the bottom line, if I'm truly saved, there will be the fruit of the Holy Spirit that is evident on the tree of my Christian life.
- Galatians 5:22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, forbearance, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, 23 gentleness and self-control. Against such things there is no law. 24 Those who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with its passions and desires.

From Darkness to Light (Ep 5:8-14)

8 For you were once darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. Live as children of light 9 (for the fruit of the light consists in all goodness, righteousness and truth) 10 and find out what pleases the Lord. 11 Have nothing to do with the fruitless deeds of darkness, but rather expose them. 12 For it is shameful even to mention what the disobedient do in secret. 13 But everything exposed by the light becomes visible, 14 for it is light that makes everything visible. This is why it is said:

"Wake up, O sleeper, rise from the dead,
and Christ will shine on you."

- In this text, the Apostle Paul paints a stark contrast between once being darkness and now being light.
 - In so doing, he continues his exhortation to the Christians in Ephesus concerning their response to all that God has done for us.
- It's interesting to note that Paul doesn't say we were once in darkness and are now in light – rather, we were darkness but now are light.
 - While it is true that we walk in the light in the sense of reflecting light from the Lord, it's also true that we, as Christians, are light.
 - We are not only in the light of the Lord, we also are the light of the Lord.
- Living as children of light will be evidenced by the fruit of the light; goodness, righteousness and truth.
 - As such, our lives will be pleasing to the Lord
- 11 Have nothing to do with the fruitless deeds of darkness, but rather expose them.
 - We should really pay attention to this – that we're not to have anything to do with the darkness.
 - Not only are we to have nothing to do with darkness, but we need to reprove the fruitless deeds of darkness.
 - 12 For it is shameful even to mention what the disobedient do in secret. 13 But everything exposed by the light becomes visible, 14 for it is light that makes everything visible.
 - 2 Corinthians 6:14 Do not be yoked together with unbelievers. For what do righteousness and wickedness have in common? Or what fellowship can light have with darkness? 15 What harmony is there between Christ and Belial? Or what does a believer have in common with an unbeliever?
 - Please know this is God's way of protecting us from that, which could pose a harm or danger to us by yoking with unbelievers.
- 14 ... This is why it is said: "Wake up, O sleeper, rise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you."
 - The sleeper is to wake up and rise from the dead so Christ will shine on them.
 - It seems that Paul is implying that, as Christian's, there's still this propensity for us to live as darkness instead of living as light.

- In other words, though we are now light, we're still prone to be partakers of and partners with those fruitless deeds of darkness.
- Actually, throughout the pages of scripture, God warns his people by way of forbidding his people to engage in such practices.
 - It reminds me of the saying that goes like this: "Sin is not bad because it's forbidden, rather, sin is forbidden because it's bad."
 - It's for this reason that Paul is emphasizing the good that comes from being light and having nothing to do with sinful darkness.
 - Paul, like the Savior Himself before him speaks to this important truth of being the light of the world in the darkness in the world.

3 truths about being light

1. Those in the light will be hated (John 3:16-21)

John 3:16 For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. 17 For God did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved. 18 "He who believes in Him is not condemned; but he who does not believe is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. 20 For everyone practicing evil hates the light and does not come to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. 21 But he who does the truth comes to the light, that his deeds may be clearly seen, that they have been done in God."

2. Those in the light will shine before others (Matthew 5:13-16)

Matthew 5:13 "You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt loses its saltiness, how can it be made salty again? It is no longer good for anything, except to be thrown out and trampled underfoot. 14 "You are the light of the world. A town built on a hill cannot be hidden. 15 Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a bowl. Instead they put it on its stand, and it gives light to everyone in the house. 16 In the same way, let your light shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven.

3. Those in the light will be ready for Christ's return (1 Thessalonians 5:4-8)

1 Thessalonians 5:4 But you, brothers and sisters, are not in darkness so that this day should surprise you like a thief. 5 You are all children of the light and children of the day. We do not belong to the night or to the darkness. 6 So then, let us not be like others, who are asleep, but let us be awake and sober. 7 For those who sleep, sleep at night, and those who get drunk, get drunk at night. 8 But since we belong to the day, let us be sober, putting on faith and love as a breastplate, and the hope of salvation as a helmet.

Being Wise in Evil Days (Ep 5:15-17)

15 Be very careful, then, how you live—not as unwise but as wise, 16 making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil. 17 Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is.

- This addresses a very important issue related to us today – Why and how we're to live in a world that's seemingly waxing more and more evil with each passing day.
- The word "circumspectly" comes from two Latin words meaning look around or be aware of.
 - KJV Ep 5:15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,
 - More specifically, looking in a "circular" direction, so as to be aware of everything that's happening in all directions. This makes perfect sense – It's very practical if I want to walk and not get blindsided or fall
 - In other words, if I'm walking, looking only in front of me, or only at what's behind me, it's just a matter of time before I stumble.

- If we're to be wise in how we live, we must be circumspect with respect to the world around us, lest we fail and fall.
- Why are we to live in this manner?
 - 16 ... the days are evil.
 - Certainly this was true then, and it's even more so now.
 - It's important to understand that Paul is contrasting the one who lives wisely, as opposed to the one who lives very foolishly.
 - 17 Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is.
 - We would do well to pay particular attention to this – how to understand the Lord's will
 - What is the Lord's will? It's His will that we live and walk wisely in these evil days, lest we suffer needlessly in this evil world.
 - This speaks to a truth as it relates to God warning us because He loves us so much.
- How do we walk wisely? Redeeming the time
 - KJV Ep 5:16 Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.
 - Paul says first and foremost to redeem the time, while there's still time.
 - Redeemed is a very interesting word because it carries with it the idea of buying back that which is perceived as having value.
 - The question becomes what is so valuable that we're to redeem – our time and opportunity
 - The reason time is so valuable is that of the age-old principal of "supply and demand."
 - An increased demand will bring about a depletion of supply, which in turn propels an increase of value. As such, the reason time is so valuable is that the supply is disproportionate to the demand, in that we're just about out of time.
 - Jesus paints a picture contrasting the wise and foolish servant's attitudes about time
 - Matthew 24:45 "Who then is the faithful and wise servant, whom the master has put in charge of the servants in his household to give them their food at the proper time? 46 It will be good for that servant whose master finds him doing so when he returns. 47 I tell you the truth, he will put him in charge of all his possessions. 48 But suppose that servant is wicked and says to himself, 'My master is staying away a long time,' 49 and he then begins to beat his fellow servants and to eat and drink with drunkards. 50 The master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he is not aware of. 51 He will cut him to pieces and assign him a place with the hypocrites, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
 - The wise servant redeems the time, whereas the foolish servant said to himself I have a long time. Because the foolish and wicked servant devalued time, he thinks to himself that he still has plenty of time.
 - The difference between these two servants is the wise one lived with urgency, whereas the foolish had no hurry and no worry. The reason the wise servant lived with urgency giving the servants their food at the proper time is that there wasn't much time.
- This is what Paul is saying in our text – be wise and make the most of every opportunity while there's time.
 - Here's the bottom line – like this wise servant, you should be wise proportionate to how you live with urgency redeeming the time.
 - It's when we circumspectly look at the world around me that we'll see just how evil the day is – and redeem the time as short as it is.
 - Proverbs 13:20 - Walk with the wise and become wise, for a companion of fools suffers harm.

Under The Influence (Ep 5:18-20)

18 Do not get drunk on wine, which leads to debauchery. Instead, be filled with the Spirit. 19 Speak to one another with psalms, hymns and spiritual songs. Sing and make music in your heart to the Lord, 20 always giving thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

- What Paul is not saying – a Christian should never drink wine

- What Paul is saying – a Christian should never get drunk on wine, because it leads to a wasted life of debauchery.
- Wasted on alcohol – I use the word wasted for a couple of reasons
 - The word ‘dissipation’ carries with it the idea of wasting away
 - Not only is a life wasted away by alcohol, but many lives are taken away by alcohol
 - National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) – Each year, nearly 9,967 people die on our roads due to drunk driving, which is equal to about 19 jumbo jets crashing each year.
- The emphasis is not so much on drinking wine, as much as it is on being filled with the Holy Spirit instead
 - Paul is contrasting constantly being filled with wine to constantly being filled with the Holy Spirit
 - In the original text, the grammatical sentence structure that Paul uses is that of “be constantly, being filled with the Holy Spirit.”
 - The point of the passage is be constantly under the influence of the Holy Spirit, not alcohol
 - Instead of ever being under the influence of alcohol, we should be under the influence of the Holy Spirit instead. Just as someone becomes a different person under the influence of alcohol in a bad way, so too is this true with the Holy Spirit in a good way
- Holy Spirit
 - Now this presupposes we’re filled with – and under the controlling influence of – the Holy Spirit
 - You must have been baptized with the Holy Spirit – To be baptized with the Holy Spirit is to have the Holy Spirit come upon (epi) you and fill you to overflowing, giving you power
 - There are three Greek pronouns describing the work of the Holy Spirit
 - Para – alongside as a helper
 - We get words like paramedic, paralegal, and parachute
 - John 14:16 - And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Counselor (parakletos) to be with you forever
 - En – in or indwelling
 - The Holy Spirit indwells us when we give our lives to Christ.
 - John 14:17 - the Spirit of truth. The world cannot accept him, because it neither sees him nor knows him. But you know him, for he lives with you and will be in you.
 - Epi – upon
 - This is the baptism with the Holy Spirit Who comes upon us and fills us.
 - Acts 1:8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth."
 - An illustration of all 3
 - The pitcher of water is alongside, (para) the glass
 - The pitcher of water is being poured in, (en) the glass
 - The pitcher of water is being poured upon (epi) the glass to overflowing.
 - An example of this subsequent work is in Acts 8
 - Acts 8:14 When the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them. 15 When they arrived, they prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit, 16 because the Holy Spirit had not yet come upon any of them; they had simply been baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus. 17 Then Peter and John placed their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.
- Evidence that a Christian is filled with – and under the controlling influence of – the Holy Spirit in their lives:
 - Those filled with the Spirit will speak with psalms, hymns and songs from the Spirit.
 - Ep 5:19 Speak to one another with psalms, hymns and spiritual songs. Sing and make music in your heart to the Lord,
 - They’ll always give thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.
 - Ep 5:20 always giving thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.
 - Simply put, those filled with the Holy Spirit have a song in their heart, and an attitude of gratitude and thanksgiving to the Lord.

- If we have no joy in our Christian lives, maybe it's because we're not overflowing with the Holy Spirit.
 - Luke 11:9 "So I say to you: Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. 10 For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. 11 "Which of you fathers, if your son asks for a fish, will give him a snake instead? 12 Or if he asks for an egg, will give him a scorpion? 13 If you then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him!"

What Submitting Really Means (Ep 5:21-24)

21 Submit to one another out of reverence for Christ. 22 Wives, submit to your husbands as to the Lord. 23 For the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is the head of the church, his body, of which he is the Savior. 24 Now as the church submits to Christ, so also wives should submit to their husbands in everything.

- Many of the best ancient Greek manuscripts do not have the word “submit” in verse 22 concerning wives.
 - One commentator explained it best this way, “Ephesians 5:22 ...simply reads wives, to your own husbands. The topic is submission and Paul focused on a particularly important realm of submission—the Christian marriage, from the wife unto the husband. ...It is as if Paul said this: ‘I commanded you to submit to one another in a very general way. Now, if you do it in a general way, how much more so should wives do it to their own husbands in this special relationship of marriage.’”
- Submit – Literally means that of being under in rank
 - In the sense of the military having different ranks – generals, colonels, majors, captains, etc.
 - While someone may have a higher rank than another, it in no way means that they are superior to the one with the lower rank.
 - I like how Warren Wiersbe said it, “Anyone who has served in the armed forces knows that ‘rank’ has to do with order and authority, not with value or ability. ...Just as an army would be in confusion if there were no levels of authority, so society would be in chaos without submission.”
- It's with this understanding that our text concerning wives begins to make sense – It speaks to this authority structure
 - The ordained authority structure is:
 - Christ is the covering head of the husband
 - The husband is the covering head of the wife
 - Covering in the context of the awesome responsibility that comes packaged with being placed in the position of authority
- Problems – Misinterpretations
 - Many husbands have bought into a misinterpretation of this text under the banner of being the final authority
 - Many wives have bought into another misinterpretation of this text under the banner of, “I will only submit when I agree.”
 - Neither is correct because both think they are right and worse yet, they think they are the one to decide what the Lord wants.
- Never submit if it unbiblical, illegal, or immoral
 - This in no way means that the wife should ever submit to her husband if it's unbiblical or even illegal.
 - Nor should the husband ever force his wife to do anything that is unbiblical, illegal, or immoral, as he's under God's authority.
- If that's what unto the Lord does not mean then what does it mean?
 - D. Martyn Lloyd-Jones answers that, this way, “It means: ‘Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands because it's a part of your duty to the Lord, because it's an expression of your submission to the Lord.’ Or, ‘Wives, submit yourselves to your own husbands; do it in this way, do it as a part of your submission to the Lord.’ In other words, you're not doing it only for the husband, you're doing it primarily for the Lord Himself ... You're doing it for Christ's sake, you're doing it because you know that He exhorts you to do it, because it is well-pleasing in His sight that you should be doing it. It's part of your Christian behavior; it's a part of your discipleship. ...There can be no more compelling motive for any action than this; and every Christian wife who is concerned above everything else to please the Lord Jesus Christ, will find no difficulty in this; indeed it will be her greatest delight to do what the Apostle tells us here."

- This misunderstanding one of the main reasons couples have conflict in their marriage
 - Specifically that of the husband abdicating his responsibility as the spiritual leader, and the wife trying to usurp his authority.
- This dynamic goes all the way back to the garden with Adam and Eve, when the curse of sin entered the world
 - Genesis 3:16 – To the woman He said: "I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception; In pain you shall bring forth children; Your desire shall be for your husband, And he shall rule over you."
 - At first read, you almost get the impression the woman's desire will be for her husband – but it's that she'll desire to rule her husband.
 - Perhaps better said, the curse causing the conflict in marriage will be centered on the husband's ruling authority over the wife. In other words the wife will desire to usurp the authority of the man just as Satan desired to usurp the authority of almighty God.
- Enter the Spirit filled life and the Spirit filled wife, who is then able to do that which she cannot otherwise do, which is to submit.
 - This is why Paul emphasizes the need to be filled with the Holy Spirit in the verses prior to this and even after
 - I suppose you could say that this is the "how" of the Holy Spirit that enables us to do the "what" of submitting to God's authority structure.
 - This truth could solve most marriage problems today
 - When God's ordained structure of authority is submitted to in a marriage, there is a harmony that ensues
 - Conversely, absent this submission, instead of harmony that ensues, the marriage will be riddled with both conflict and chaos.

Husbands Love Your Wives (Ep 5:25-33)

25 Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her 26 to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word, 27 and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless. 28 In this same way, husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. 29 After all, no one ever hated his own body, but he feeds and cares for it, just as Christ does the church— 30 for we are members of his body. 31 "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh." 32 This is a profound mystery—but I am talking about Christ and the church. 33 However, each one of you also must love his wife as he loves himself, and the wife must respect her husband.

- This is the go-to passage in a wedding because of the emphasis on the husband.
 - 3 times Paul says to the husband that they are to love their wives and he explains both the "what" and "how"
 - When you fully understand the "what" of this kind of love, you're driven to the "how" because the "what" is impossible
 - Paul used the word 'Agape'
- Love – 4 different words for love in the original Greek language of the New Testament
 - Eros – We get our English word for erotic, which is a physical and even a sensual love
 - Storge – A love of natural affection that a parent will have for a child and a child will have for the parent
 - Philia – Greek word meaning brotherly love – It's the kind of love that we have for one another as a friend
 - Agape – Describes the unconditional love God has for us
- We would err greatly to assume agape love is out of reach for husbands under the banner of being God's love for us.

- We can actually have agape love for the world and the things of the world, which is the word that's used in John and 1st John.
 - 1 John 2:15 Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. 16 For all that is in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—is not of the Father but is of the world. 17 And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever.
 - John 3:18 “He who believes in Him is not condemned; but he who does not believe is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.
- If we're capable of love for the world and the darkness in the world, then we're capable of loving our wives in this way as well.
 - It's for this reason that, absent the Holy Spirit, a husband will have no hope of loving his wife in the way that Paul describes here.
 - This is why the context is of paramount importance – Paul couches this in terms of being filled with the Holy Spirit.
- The way a husband is to love his wife:
 - Love her as Christ loved the church and gave Himself
 - Love her as he loves his own body
 - Love her as much as he already loves himself
- A husband who loves his wife this way makes marriage problems go away.
 - When the husband loves his wife this way, the wife will, as God made her, submit to her husband's leadership, and respect him.
 - The wife won't respect him until he loves her
 - The husband who won't love her until she respects him is full of pride.
 - D. Martyn Lloyd-Jones - No husband is entitled to say that he is the head of the wife unless he loves his wife ... So the reign of the husband is to be a reign and a rule of love; it is a leadership of love.”
- Bottom line – If a husband will love his wife as Christ loves the church, and gives himself up for her as the spiritual leader, making her holy and pure by way of God's Word, and will love her the same way he loves, cares, and provides for the needs of his own body, making her the most important person in his life next to the Lord, and loves her and values her as much as he loves himself, then his wife will have absolutely no problem whatsoever submitting to him and being respectful toward him.
- I would submit we can either have a marriage that's hell on earth, or we can have a marriage that's heaven on earth.

Obey and Honor Your Father and Mother (Ep 6:1-3)

1 Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. 2 "Honor your father and mother"—which is the first commandment with a promise— 3 "that it may go well with you and that you may enjoy long life on the earth."

- Children in the church
 - The book of Ephesians is actually a letter, or epistle, that the Apostle Paul wrote under the Holy Spirit's inspiration – as such, it would have been sent to and read aloud in the church, in which the children were present during the reading of it.
 - There's a time when a family should worship together sitting under the teaching of God's Word.
 - While I realize this isn't age appropriate for the younger children, it's a disservice to our older children who aren't in the service.
 - This is one of the main reasons children will disenfranchise themselves from the church when they are older.
 - Sadly, the statistics bear this out – 59% of millennials who grew up in church have dropped out
 - What makes these statistics so disturbing is millennials are currently the largest living generation in the United States today.

- Please know that this isn't the only reason this generation is not in church, I believe it's also a prophetic sign of the last days.
 - 2 Timothy 3:1–4 - 1 But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. 2 People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, 3 without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, 4 treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God—
- Lest we throw up our hands in despair and hopelessness, let me hasten to say that there is always hope and our text is proof.
- Paul by the Holy Spirit provides us with three very convincing reasons for children to obey their parents in the Lord
 - Because it's the right thing to do as unto the Lord.
 - In other words, to do what's right brings the blessing of God into the life of the child who obeys their parents for that reason.
 - The problem even for parents is that we tie the hands of God's blessing on our lives with the ropes of disobedience in our lives.
 - Things will go well for them in their lives.
 - Paul quotes the 5th commandment, which is the only of the Ten Commandments that has a promise
 - In scripture, the number 5 is the number of grace and grace changes everything.
 - Not only will the blessing and grace of God be on their lives, but they'll enjoy a long life as well.
 - An enjoyable and long life is a life that isn't cut short unnecessarily due to the child disobeying and dishonoring their parents.
 - This carries with it the idea of someone in battle disobeying orders meant to protect and direct only to have it cost him his life.
 - Proverbs 30:17 speaks to this untimely death in a very graphic way concerning disobedience, "The eye that mocks his father, And scorns obedience to his mother, The ravens of the valley will pick it out, And the young eagles will eat it."
- This brings up questions as it relates to obedience to and honoring of the father and mother.
 - Are children to obey an abusive parent? Answer-NO!
 - It is never okay for a parent to abuse a child, and any parent who does will answer to God.
 - Also, a child should never obey a parent if doing so means they would be disobeying God, which is why Paul says, "in the Lord."
 - What is the difference between respecting your father and mother, and honoring your father and mother?
 - Respect is earned
 - Honor is given – they're authority is to be honored
 - This means we're to still show them honor in their position of authority, even though they haven't earned our respect as well.
 - One commentator explained it this way, "What it means to honor our father and mother may change as we grow into adulthood, but the principle always endures. The adult child does not owe the parent obedience, but they do owe the parent honor.
 - "Why" is children obeying their parents is so important?
 - Spiritual reason
 - Like Jesus, Who was one with the Father, so too are we spiritually connected to and reflective of our father and our mother. When disobey and dishonor our parents, we do so to our own peril because of our spiritual reflection and connection to them.
 - Physiological reason
 - There a physical, emotional, and physiological connection genetically to them. When we dishonor them, we dishonor ourselves, made in their image, and it takes its toll on us, and will negatively impact us.
- Luke 2:51–52 is a fascinating account of Jesus submitting to his parents, "Then he went down to Nazareth with them and was obedient to them. But his mother treasured all these things in her heart. 52 And Jesus grew in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.

The Difficulty of Parenting (Ep 6:4)

4 Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord.

- It is utterly impossible to parenting our children in and of ourselves – by way of our own strength, skills and ability
 - Success in parenting comes because God extends both His grace and mercy to us. So much so that He has not paid us as our parenting failures deserved and instead has been faithful when we were faithless.
- Why Paul says that Fathers are not to exasperate their children and not mothers?
 - Because culturally the fathers are the authority, and naturally, the mother is more nurturing.
- Provoking
 - Most translations render it provoking, but it carries with it the idea of treating our children in such a way as to make them angry. I prefer the word exasperate because it means we have the propensity to irritate, frustrate, infuriate and as such embitter them.
 - Colossians 3:21 – Fathers, do not embitter your children, or they will become discouraged.
 - We as parents can place unrealistic and impossible expectations on our children.
 - While the intentions of a parent may be good, the reality is that they are trying to relive their lives vicariously through the child. The problem with doing this is we set our children up for failure by virtue of how often times that's not the way God wired them.
 - One commentator explained it, "Wise is the father who understands that his children are not to be molded, but to be unfolded. In other words, you have the privilege, Dad, of observing your child carefully, seeing how God made him—and then unfolding what God has built into him from the moment of conception, all for His glory."
- Proverbs 22:6 – Train up a child in the way he should go, And when he is old he will not depart from it.
 - This Proverb has been the source of much debate and it's also been largely misunderstood.
 - 'the way he should go'
 - To train a child according to their particular bent, and they will continue in it when they're older.
 - This is why the Amplified Bible parenthetically renders Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go [and in keeping with his individual gift or bent], and when he is old he will not depart from it."
 - This does not mean we just let them do whatever their particular bent is, rather, we're to train them, according to the ways of the Lord.
 - Training
 - Translated 'chastening in corrective discipline'
 - Paul uses is the same word in Hebrews 12:5-11
 - In other words, we customize our training according to the child's bent, correcting and directing them in the ways of the Lord.
- Ep 6:4 Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord.
 - 'instead' – not only provides the explanation, but with it, the application to our lives in our parenting
 - Instead of bringing them up in the training & instruction of the Lord, we pressure and push them to please us
 - Sadly, many a parent has been too harsh in demanding perfection from their children, which leaves them inadequate and bitter.
 - When this happens, it's only a matter of time before that child will see their acceptance, solely based upon their performance.
 - In other words, they won't feel loved for who they are, and instead, become discouraged because they are never good enough.
 - If this weren't bad enough, parents who push this way do so under the banner of challenging their children to be high achievers.
 - However, what they don't realize is that whether the child gives up or becomes successful, they can become bitter either way.

- We would do well to examine ourselves to see if we're a rancher who drives a herd, or shepherd who leads a flock.
 - If you're anything like me, you're probably experiencing a myriad of emotions about today's teaching – Everything from discouragement to hopelessness and everything in between, especially the emotion of guilt, which is the worst.
 - For some, the feeling of guilt set in because you think it's too late. You're children are older and you've made all the mistakes.
 - It's never too late for your children no matter their age. Never, ever give up on them, even if they are the quintessential prodigal who is as far away from you as they are from the Lord. The most powerful weapon we possess as a parent is prayer, and a wayward child is no match for that.
 - Let me encourage you to not only pray for your son or daughter, but also unconditionally love them as well.
 - By that I mean love them no matter what – that may be the very thing they have lacked growing up because of loving conditionally
 - One of the most encouraging verses that God has ministered to me in this regard is in Paul's epistle to the Romans chapter 2:4. Romans 2:4b ...the goodness of God leads you to repentance

Christians in the Workplace (Ep 6:5-9)

5 Slaves, obey your earthly masters with respect and fear, and with sincerity of heart, just as you would obey Christ. 6 Obey them not only to win their favor when their eye is on you, but like slaves of Christ, doing the will of God from your heart. 7 Serve wholeheartedly, as if you were serving the Lord, not men, 8 because you know that the Lord will reward everyone for whatever good he does, whether he is slave or free. 9 And masters, treat your slaves in the same way. Do not threaten them, since you know that he who is both their Master and yours is in heaven, and there is no favoritism with him.

- Have to understand the context of what Paul writes prior in the letter – being filled with the Holy Spirit and the results of what our lives will be and look like as Christians in this world.
 - This is what a Spirit filled marriage, a Spirit filled family, and now a Spirit filled employee looks like.
- When the Apostle Paul wrote this letter there were over 6-million slaves in the Roman Empire.
 - Sadly, these slaves were seen as being less than human in many cases, which makes what Paul writes seem to be unrealistic.
 - It's for this reason that it's of paramount importance that we're filled with the Holy Spirit in order to be able to work as unto the Lord. Certainly, this was the only way for slaves to serve wholeheartedly in that day, and so too is this true more so for us in our day.
- If they were to serve in this way as slaves then, it should be much easier for us to do so in our day as an employee.
 - If you were to ask me what I thought was the best indicator of spiritual maturity in a Christian, it would be how hard they work.
 - They never see themselves as working for man; rather, they know they're working as unto the Lord.
 - We err greatly when we separate the sacred from the secular
 - Whatever your occupation is, you're serving the Lord in that environment whether you realize it or like it or not. This goes for employees as well as employers in the sense that your business and your job is your ministry that's unto the Lord.
- Characteristics of the Christian employees and employers
 - Paul isn't saying we need to be this way, rather that, if we're Spirit filled, this is how we will be
 - 4 Characteristics of what Spirit filled employee:
 - A Spirit filled employee will obey their employer
 - A Spirit filled employee will respect their employer
 - A Spirit filled employee will be sincere with their employer
 - A Spirit filled employee will work with their whole heart for their employer
 - 1 characteristic of the Spirit filled employer:
 - A Spirit filled employer will not threaten their employee

- Why Christians are to be like this
 - For the Christian employee
 - It's a good witness for the Lord when Christians are the hardest workers, especially when their employer is not watching.
 - When a Christian works wholeheartedly, not as unto men but so as to please the Lord, there is a reward from the Lord.
 - For the Christian employer
 - We all have the same Master
 - God makes no distinction between the employee and employer such that He shows no favoritism or partiality
 - While the employer may be in a position of authority over the employee, it doesn't make the employer better than the employee.
- Summary
 - The Christian employee should be the hardest and most reliable worker in the workplace, regardless of the environment.
 - So too should the Christian employer be the best employer in how they treat their employees, regardless of if they're Christians or not.
 - When a Christian employee or employer does so; they are more likely to win others in the workplace to Christ.
 - Conversely, when a Christian employee or employer does not act in this way, they can turn the workplace away from Christ.
- Sadly, many professing Christians have done more harm than good.
 - The professing Christian is often times the laziest, most unreliable, even the most dishonest one, on the job.
 - Proverbs 10:26 As vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes, So is the lazy man to those who send him.
 - Proverbs 25:19 Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble Is like a bad tooth and a foot out of joint.
- This can be common in the church today.
 - Hebrews 13:17 Have confidence in your leaders and submit to their authority, because they keep watch over you as those who must give an account. Do this so that their work will be a joy, not a burden, for that would be of no benefit to you. 18 Pray for us. We are sure that we have a clear conscience and desire to live honorably in every way.
- Example
 - One of the best examples of serving faithfully and honorably regardless of the environment is Joseph as a slave in Egypt.
 - Joseph is a man that could have used every excuse in the book to complain about how he was treated, betrayed and enslaved.
 - Instead God enabled him and empowered him to prosper, so much so he was promoted to the most powerful position in Egypt.
- Charles Spurgeon - "Grace makes us the servants of God while still we are the servants of men: it enables us to do the business of heaven while we are attending to the business of earth: it sanctifies the common duties of life by showing us how to perform them in the light of heaven."

Satanic Attack (Ep 6:10-12)

10 Finally, be strong in the Lord and in his mighty power. 11 Put on the full armor of God so that you can take your stand against the devil's schemes. 12 For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms.

- Satanic attack
 - Satan is very powerful, but he is NOT God's opposite
 - Satan is not omnipotent (all-powerful), omniscient (all knowing) or omnipresent (all present)
 - One of his many successes is that he gets Christians to believe mistruths about him
 - We overemphasize how much power he has
 - We underestimate how powerful he is
 - Satan is very powerful, but he's not all-powerful
- Christian power
 - The fact of the matter is that the devil should be infinitely more afraid of us as Christians, than we should ever be afraid of him.
 - Yes, he can form weapons against us, but there is no way that any weapon he forges against us will ever prosper and prevail.
- 'Finally' – Seems to indicate that Paul is referencing everything written up to this point
- Then Paul tells us what to do, then why we're to do it and then perhaps more importantly how we are to do it.
 - What
 - Be strong in the Lord and in his mighty power and stand against the devil's schemes
 - It's not by our own strength and power – It's by our strength in the Lord that we can experience the power of the Lord
 - Our strength in the Lord is displayed when there's a show of His power
 - A man with muscles has strength, but the display of that strength is when he uses them to show his power
 - Why
 - So we'll be able to stand against the schemes of the devil instead of falling prey to the devil
 - Because of who we wrestle with – Entities in the spiritual realm all of which are against us
 - The book of Acts tells us Ephesus was filled with demonic possession
 - Ephesus was known for the "Ephesian Book of Spells," and many had come out of a very demonic background
 - How
 - We're to do this is by putting on the full armor of God
 - You need to know who the enemy is and is not, lest we fight the wrong battle against the wrong enemy
- Paul delineates the entities that we wrestle with as being 4 different rankings and authorities within the spiritual realm
 - Rulers
 - Authorities
 - Powers of this dark world
 - Spiritual forces of evil in heavenly realms.
- 'struggle' – better translated as 'wrestle'
 - Wrestling is a full contact and very intense and exhausting endeavor – an apt description
 - We do not wrestle with people as our enemies. Rather, these spiritual entities, through people, are our enemies
- 'schemes'
 - Some of your translations render it the "wiles" of the devil, which carries with it the idea of being very subtle under the radar.
 - The devil works through people behind the scenes and under the radar, so we don't even know that it's him
 - 2 Timothy 2:23 Don't have anything to do with foolish and stupid arguments, because you know they produce quarrels. 24 And the Lord's servant must not be quarrelsome but must be kind to everyone, able to teach, not resentful. 25 Opponents must be gently instructed, in the hope that God will grant them repentance leading them to a knowledge of the truth, 26 and that they will come to their senses and escape from the trap of the devil, who has taken them captive to do his will.

- Matthew 16:23 (NKJV) — 23 But He turned and said to Peter, “Get behind Me, Satan! You are an offense to Me, for you are not mindful of the things of God, but the things of men.”
- Bottom line - The devil influences people and circumstances to get us wrestling with flesh and blood, instead of him.
 - In order to be strong in the Lord and his mighty power, we must identify our enemy.
 - When we identify our enemy – in all of his subtle schemes behind the scenes – we will then be able to defeat our enemy as well.
 - This is the first step to standing, and not falling, when attacked by the enemy in the spiritual realm
 - The spiritual armor of God is the next step to defeating the enemy and walking in victory when (not if) we’re attacked spiritually

Recognizing and Resisting the Devil (Ep 6:13-14a)

13 Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand. 14 Stand firm then,

- Jesus has already won the victory over Satan – Satan is already defeated
 - Jesus defeated Satan for us, and instead of us, when He was resurrected
 - All that we need to do is recognize the devil, and his strategies, in order that we can stand against him and resist him.
- First step to walking in victory – Recognizing that Satan masquerades as an angel of light and is so subtle we don’t know that it’s him.
- ‘To stand against the Devil’ carries with it the idea of not falling when we’re in the battlefield
 - The reason we’re able to stand – we’re not just conquerors because of Christ, we’re more than conquerors through Christ.
 - To be more than a conqueror means we, as Christians, can know we will stand victorious in battle even before the battle begins.
 - This is what the Apostle Paul wrote to the church in Rome as it relates to both the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ.
 - Romans 8:34 Who then is the one who condemns? No one. Christ Jesus who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us. 35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall trouble or hardship or persecution or famine or nakedness or danger or sword? 36 As it is written: “For your sake we face death all day long; we are considered as sheep to be slaughtered.” 37 No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us.
 - To stand against the devil as more than conquerors in Christ is to resist the Devil so we stand and he flees.
 - James 4:7 Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.
 - Thankfully, the Savior Himself provides Himself as the perfect example of standing and resisting the Devil and having him flee. He did this in His humanity, not His divinity, so that we would have His example of how we too can stand and resist the Devil.
 - Actually, this is the very reason that the Devil seeks to deceive us so we’ll believe that we cannot stand and will once again fall.
- Satan uses an infrastructure of guilt and condemnation in our lives to cause us to fall instead of stand
 - 2 Timothy 2:13 If we are faithless, He remains faithful; He cannot deny Himself.
 - Romans 6:14 For sin shall not have dominion over you, for you are not under law but under grace.
 - Paul is saying the condemnation of my sins shall no longer be my master because I’m not under law, but under grace instead.
 - This is exactly what Satan doesn’t want me to know. He wants me to think that I’ll be controlled by sin and as such, fall into sin. Then, when I fall, Satan is right there to condemn us, so as to deceive us, into hiding our sin and keeping our distance from God.

- Roy Hession writes; “In that condition of despair we have little motivation but to commit further sin. Our spiritual situation is so dead and unsatisfying that we feel a further act of sin is not going to make things much worse – so why not? ... The most we can hope for in this situation is to try to hide some of the more shameful [sins]. But the longer we hide sin, the longer it goes on condemning us and we get more and more under its dominion. Is it not obvious from all this that the real purpose of Satan in provoking us to commit sin is not merely that we might do something unethical, but that when we have done it, he might have the opportunity to accuse us (he is called the accuser of the brethren in Revelation 12). And then in that condition we are rendered powerless... The Christian who has committed an impure act feels himself the next day an utter dog; he does not want to look God or his fellow-Christians in the eye; and as for undertaking some spiritual service – he would rather run away and hide. This is just the result the devil intended when he provoked that Christian to sin.”

Armor of God (Ep 6:10-18)

¹⁰Finally, be strong in the Lord and in his mighty power. ¹¹Put on the full armor of God so that you can take your stand against the devil's schemes. ¹²For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms.

¹³Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand. ¹⁴Stand firm then, with the belt of truth buckled around your waist, with the breastplate of righteousness in place, ¹⁵and with your feet fitted with the readiness that comes from the gospel of peace. ¹⁶In addition to all this, take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷Take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. ¹⁸And pray in the Spirit on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and requests. With this in mind, be alert and always keep on praying for all the saints.

- Paul provides us with what I would argue is the best analogy concerning our spiritual warfare.
 - The armor that God has given to us in order to equip us and enable us to stand against the attacks of the devil.

- Problem – Verse 12 For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms.
- Solution – Give before & after, surrounding the problem – Stand strong in the armor of God
 - 1 Peter 5:8 Be alert and of sober mind. Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour. 9 Resist him, standing firm in the faith, because you know that the family of believers throughout the world is undergoing the same kind of sufferings.
 - James 4:7 Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

- Ep 6:13 Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand.
- It's important to understand that each aspect of the armor symbolically applies to every aspect of our Christian lives practically – The full armor of God covers every area very specifically, as it relates to the attacks from the enemy spiritually.

DESCRIPTION	APPLICATION
The belt of truth around your waist	Truth holds everything together
The breastplate of righteousness in place	Righteousness protects the heart
The sandals of the preparation of the gospel of peace	The Gospel provides a firm foundation and footing
The shield was held up above all as a protection	The shield is impenetrable and extinguishes flaming arrows
The helmet protected the head	The blessed hope of salvation protects the mind
The sword is the only offensive weapon	The Word of God is sharper than any two-edged sword

We are in a Satanic War

The moment that you got saved, you entered into a spiritual war against a demonic host – whose sole purpose every day is to destroy you and extinguish your effectiveness for Jesus Christ.

This is why Ep 6:10-20 carries the same war verbiage

- Be strong in the Lord (v10)
- Put on the Armor of the Lord (v11)
- Take your stand against the enemy (v12)
- Stand your ground (v13)
- Stand firm (v13)
- Put on the Belt of Truth (v14)
- Wear the Breastplate of Righteousness (v14)
- Get feet fitted with the Gospel of Peace (v15)
- Grab the Shield of Truth (v16)
- Put on the Helmet of Salvation (v17)
- Use the Sword of the Spirit (v17)
- Pray to the Commander (v18)
- Be alert (v18)
- Obey without fear (v19-20)

We war for Christ

- Ro 7:23 but I see another law at work in me, waging war against the law of my mind and making me a prisoner of the law of sin at work within me.
- 2Co 10:3 For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does.
- 1Pe 2:11 Dear friends, I urge you, as foreigners and exiles, to abstain from sinful desires, which wage war against your soul.

We battle for Christ

- Jas 4:1 What causes fights and quarrels among you? Don't they come from your desires that battle within you?

We struggle for Christ

- Ro 15:30 I urge you, brothers and sisters, by our Lord Jesus Christ and by the love of the Spirit, to join me in my struggle by praying to God for me.

- Ep 6:12 For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms.
- Php 1:30 since you are going through the same struggle you saw I had, and now hear that I still have.
- He 12:4 In your struggle against sin, you have not yet resisted to the point of shedding your blood.

We fight for Christ

- 1Co 9:26 Therefore I do not run like someone running aimlessly; I do not fight like a boxer beating the air.
- 2Co 10: 4 The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds.
- 1Ti 1:18 Timothy, my son, I am giving you this command in keeping with the prophecies once made about you, so that by recalling them you may fight the battle well,
- 1Ti 6: 12 Fight the good fight of the faith. Take hold of the eternal life to which you were called when you made your good confession in the presence of many witnesses.
- 2Ti 4:7 I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith.

We are soldiers for Christ

- 1Co 9:7 Who serves as a soldier at his own expense? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat its grapes? Who tends a flock and does not drink the milk?
- Php 2:25 But I think it is necessary to send back to you Epaphroditus, my brother, co-worker and fellow soldier, who is also your messenger, whom you sent to take care of my needs.
- 2Ti 2:3 Join with me in suffering, like a good soldier of Christ Jesus.
- 2Ti 2:4 No one serving as a soldier gets entangled in civilian affairs, but rather tries to please his commanding officer.
- Phm 1:2 also to Apphia our sister and Archippus our fellow soldier—and to the church that meets in your home:

We have weapons of Christ

- 2Co 6:7 in truthful speech and in the power of God; with weapons of righteousness in the right hand and in the left;
- 2Co 10:4 The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds.

How do we win the war?

We must know and understand:

- Who the enemy is
- What your enemy is like
- The tactics of the enemy
- The destruction the enemy can cause
- The temptation of the enemy can provide
- The protection that God has given us from the enemy

Truths about the Armor of God

1. It's designed for war – Protection from Satan and demons
 - Context of Scripture
2. It's designed for victory
 - The need for victory
 - The solution for victory
3. It's designed to wear
 - It has to be put on by you – no one can do it for you
 - You have to understand what the symbolism means and apply it

- It protects from all angles
4. It is full body protection

Belt of Truth – Word of God

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UaUfhfeGC-c>

¹⁴Stand firm then, with the belt of truth buckled around your waist

- Belt – Cingulum militare – Roman military equipment in the form of a belt with metal fittings
 - The belt was broad and composed of sturdy leather
 - From it hung an overlapping skirt of leather straps, almost like an apron, with decorative rivets
 - It was worn with the tunic at all times and it formed the central piece of the soldier's armor holding all the rest of the equipment securely in place
 - From the belt hung specialized hooks and holders on which the scabbard that contained the dagger ('pugio'), the quiver which held the lances and an apparatus on which to rest a large battle shield
 - Also on the belt were clips to hold the large breastplate in its proper place and even supplies of bread, oil and water
 - Slackened belt meant
 - Soldier is off-duty – time to relax
 - Pants coming down
 - Purpose
 - It holds all things together – It keeps everything from falling apart
 - It has to be put on by you – no one can do it for you
 - It provides serious support for low back – girding your loins
 - It indicates readiness for war
 - Has gromets to hang your victories
- Truth
 - Alethea – that which is objectively true in any matter pertaining to God, the duties of man, and moral and religious truths
 - The Bible (Word of God) is truth
 - Jn 17: 17 Sanctify them by the truth; your word is truth.
 - Jesus is truth
 - Jn 14:6 Jesus answered, "I am the way and the truth and the life.
 - The Holy Spirit is truth
 - Jn 15:26 "When the Advocate comes, whom I will send to you from the Father—the Spirit of truth who goes out from the Father—he will testify about me.
 - Truth is of the utmost importance in the life of a Christian.
 - Without truth, the rest of the armor would be of no use to us
 - We are to actively lay hold of the truth and use it
 - Without an understanding of truth, we are left vulnerable to being "tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of people in their deceitful scheming." (Ep 4:14)
- Symbolism
 - The Bible is the linchpin of the armor – it is the central cohesive element that holds everything together
 - Every single piece of the armor depends on the belt of truth – the Word of God
 - Don't look like a fool with your pants on the ground
 - Absent the truth, everything falls apart – especially in spiritual warfare.
 - We're walking in the truth in the sense that we do not believe the lies from the father of lies
 - We need to read the truth every day to counteract the constant deception from the devil

- There is no day off
- When you go out the door every day, you need God's Word to support us so we can stand
- How do you know if the belt is not on?
 - The way you think and act in your life is set by some standard – and if that standard is not God's truth, you've already lost the battle
 - Critical spirit
 - Sarcastic attitude

Breastplate of Righteousness – Living a holy, righteous life

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ipdFhjhaZUY> with the breastplate of righteousness in place,

- Breastplate – Comes from the Latin phrase 'Lorica segmentata' meaning armor in pieces
 - Composed of 40 separate plates
 - Allowed the armor to be stored very compactly
 - 4 sections – 2 shoulder, front & back
 - Allowed the armor to be stored very compactly
 - Attached by brass hooks joined by leather laces
 - The broad iron or steel strips were fastened to internal leather straps and the metal strips were arranged horizontally on the body, overlapping downwards
 - Protects the vital organs – heart, lungs, liver
 - A hit in the vital organs was death
 - You could survive a hit to the arm
 - Protects from attacks from all directions
 - Front, back, above
 - Notoriously resilient to a majority of weapons – swords, missiles, spears, knives
 - Impenetrable to most direct hits and missile strikes
- Righteousness
 - Greek word dikaiosynēs means right living as defined by God
 - Integrity, virtue, purity of life, holy character
 - Satan is the father of unrighteousness
 - Ez 28:15 You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created till wickedness was found in you.
 - Hebrew word for wickedness is evil – means unrighteousness – All unrighteousness started from Satan – he's the unrighteousness one
 - God says that if you're going to counter the evil one's unrighteousness solicitations to do evil and to live an unholy life, you need the breastplate of righteousness
 - 2 options for righteousness
 - Positional/imputed righteousness – righteousness that is given to us through Christ when we are saved
 - Accounting term – His righteousness was credited to our account by His work on the cross
 - God takes all of our unrighteousness, our rottenness, our sins and places them on the cross with Christ. Then He takes all of Christ's righteousness and places it in our accounts.
 - 2Co 5:21 God made him who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

- This is a good thing to understand on the days that you fail to put on the breastplate of righteousness – there are times that we are going to blow it and sin. This understanding is really important for those days
- Salvation is based on the imputed righteousness of Christ
- This is a gift from God – we can't earn our way to heaven – This has nothing to do with our actions or inactions (aka, living a holy life)
- Practical righteousness
 - This involves an action on our part
 - Process of Christian maturity – the process of becoming more like Jesus
 - How much do you act like, look like, speak like and behave like Jesus
 - Jesus lived a holy life, therefore we are to live holy lives
 - Holy = purity
 - We don't become sinless, but we sin less
 - Ro 6:12 Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its evil desires. 13 Do not offer any part of yourself to sin as an instrument of wickedness, but rather offer yourselves to God as those who have been brought from death to life; and offer every part of yourself to him as an instrument of righteousness.
 - instrument – Greek word opla – instrument of war, weapon
 - Our bodies are instruments of warfare of God by being committed to a holy life
 - If you are not an instrument of God, then you are an instrument for Satan
- To have in place / To put on
 - Greek word enduo – means that you are to sink into (immerse) yourself in the breastplate of righteousness
 - Make sure that there is not one area exposed to Satan to attack from
 - You alone have to make a personal commitment to living a holy life
- Symbolism
 - Means to be committed to living a holy life every day
 - To protect our vital organs – especially the heart – we must intentionally live holy, righteous lives
 - It does not give Satan an 'in' – an area of sin that he can use to condemn us
 - Every day you need to wake up and say 'God, use me as your weapon so I will not be a weapon of Satan'
 - The enemy will attack from every direction until he succeeds
 - He encourages us to do everything that is unrighteous
 - Weakness in the armor that cause failure
 - Sin
 - Acts of disobedience – crack in the armor
 - Wrong attitudes
 - Unconfessed / unrepented sins
 - While it's certainly true Christ's imputed righteousness protects our heart, there is an aspect of living a righteous life in Christ. Not self-righteousness, rather righteous and holy Christian living that comes with purity
 - Psalm 66:18 - If I regard iniquity in my heart, The Lord will not hear.

Shoes of Peace – We have peace with God

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eV_DA_8ppTA

¹⁵and with your feet fitted with the readiness that comes from the gospel of peace.

- Caligae – Roman soldier's shoes
 - Latin for 'marching boots'
 - Heavily soled military boots worn by all ranks throughout the Roman Empire
 - Symbolic of the expansion of the Roman Empire
 - Design
 - Open design
 - To allow for the free flow of air and comfort of the feet – walked up to 25 miles/day
 - Specifically designed to reduce blisters
 - Woolen socks could be worn in colder climates, but not normally
 - Fitted with iron hobnails hammered into the sole – similar to today's cleat
 - Provided reinforcement and traction – strength and stability – keep you from stumbling
 - Could also be used as a weapon against a fallen enemy
 - Traction on hills and uneven terrain
- We have peace with God
 - God has forgiven you, you are His child
 - Keeps us from stumbling or backsliding when Satan attacks by reminding us of all the wrongs we have done
- Must be done every day by me – no one else can do it
 - Readiness that comes from putting these shoes on – must be done every day so we are ready
 - Greek for fitted – Hupodeo – to bind under one's self
 - Grammar – middle participle – which means do it on your own accord
- Shoes of the gospel of peace
 - Greek for gospel – euangelion – good news
 - We are no longer at war with God - We are God's children, He will go to war for us
 - All my sins are forgiven, forgotten, obliterated by God – I don't need to think about them again
- Peace – 2 interpretations
 - Peace that we proclaim through Christ – sharing the gospel, the good news of peace through Christ
 - Ro 10:13 for, "Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved." 14 How, then, can they call on the one they have not believed in? And how can they believe in the one of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them? 15 And how can they preach unless they are sent? As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!"
 - Every day, we need to have our feet fitted with the good news of peace – we need to be out there every day sharing the gospel (evangelizing)
 - Great commission to share the gospel is an order from Jesus – not a suggestion just for those that have that gift – it is an order that we all have to obey
 - 95% of professing Christians never lead a single soul to Christ
 - It is the great commission, not the grand suggestion
 - Probably not the correct interpretation
 - The emphasis from the context of the passage is to stand, not go
 - Ep 6:11 Put on the full armor of God so that you can take your stand against the devil's schemes ... 13 Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand. 14 Stand firm then

- Peace that we have through Christ
 - We are born under the wrath of God
 - Jn 3:36 Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life, but whoever rejects the Son will not see life, for God's wrath remains on them.
 - Ro 5:1 Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ ... 6 You see, at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly. ... 8 But God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us. 9 Since we have now been justified by his blood, how much more shall we be saved from God's wrath through him! 10 For if, when we were God's enemies, we were reconciled to him through the death of his Son, how much more, having been reconciled, shall we be saved through his life!
 - Saved from what? Before we were saved, we were under God's wrath
 - Eirene – Greek for peace
 - The exemption from the rage and havoc of war
 - Through the cross of Jesus, we are no longer at war with God, we are at peace
 - We are now God's children, He will take care of us
 - Not only are we not at war with God, He goes to war for me
 - A state of tranquility between individuals – security, harmony
 - I am forgiven of all my sins
 - My walk with Jesus Christ is secure for all of eternity
 - No matter how many times I mess up, my position is secure – positional truth
 - God uses me, in spite of me
- Forgive – Greek aphiemi – to send away, to disregard, to abandon, to give up, to leave behind, to let go, to no longer discuss
 - Forgiveness of sins does not mean ‘God, please don't send me to hell’ – that was secured the moment that you were saved
 - He will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness – not maybe
 - 1Jn 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness.
 - 1Jn 2:12 I write to you, dear children, because your sins have been forgiven on account of his name.
- Forgiveness – good news that God will disregard and no longer discuss your sin
 - 1Jn 2:12 I write to you, dear children, because your sins have been forgiven on account of his name.
 - Mic 7:18 Who is a God like you, who pardons sin and forgives the transgression ... 19 You will again have compassion on us; you will tread our sins underfoot and hurl all our iniquities into the depths of the sea.
 - Heb 8:12 For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more."
 - Is 43:25 "I, even I, am he who blots out your transgressions, for my own sake, and remembers your sins no more.
 - Blot – Greek word machah – Utterly wipe out, to destroy, to eliminate, to become invisible, to disappear, to obliterate and exterminate
 - Php 3:13 ... But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead,
 - Forget your past and move forward to Christ
 - Forget – Greek word epilanthanomai – Not just forget, but to give over to oblivion
- My walk with Jesus is safe and secure, even when I stumble
 - Positional truth – we are blameless through the work of Jesus on our behalf
 - Blameless – Greek amomos – No spots, no blemish, no flaw, no shame, no disgrace
 - Ep 1:4 For he chose us in him before the creation of the world to be holy and blameless in his sight.
 - Ep 5:27 and to present her to himself as a radiant church, without stain or wrinkle or any other blemish, but holy and blameless.
 - Col 1:22 But now He has reconciled you by Christ's physical body through death to present you holy in his sight, without blemish and free from accusation.

- Jude 1:24 To Him who is able to keep you from falling and to present you before his glorious presence without fault and with great joy
- The great accuser – These are very common accusations from Satan
 - He reminds you of things that you did 10 years ago
 - What did you just do! God can't possibly love you now.
 - You are really an enemy of God – God hates you and has now turned His back on you
 - God's not going to protect you after what you did
 - Demoralization – I know that God loves me, but I'm a worthless idiot. I can't do anything right. I might as well just quit and go AWOL (absent without official leave). I have no right serving Christ.
 - Scripture says that God will never turn His back on you
 - Heb 13:5 God has said, "Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you." 6 So we say with confidence, "The Lord is my helper; I will not be afraid. What can man do to me?"
 - Satan tries to make us a slave to our sins
 - He wants to make us feel horrible about something that Jesus has long since forgotten
 - Don't listen to the lies of the devil and keep fighting on the front lines of the war
 - Satan not only tries to get you to do the sin, but more importantly is when he attacks you for what you did
 - This is where the shoes of peace are so needed
- The Gospel provides us with that steady and ready footing to stand on when in the heat of the battle
 - Of this one commentator noted, "The military successes both of Alexander the Great and of Julius Caesar were due in large measure to their armies' being well shod and thus able to undertake long marches at incredible speed over rough terrain."

Shield of Faith – Belief in God and His promises to us

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Nh6c8JfqUZc>

¹⁶In addition to all this, take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one.

- Thureos

- Derived from the word ‘thura’ which literally means ‘door’
 - Looked just like a large rectangular door – 2.5’ x 4’
- Provided full body protection for the soldier
 - Protects the whole body
 - Well suited to the tactical needs of the day – border defense, skirmishes, and aerial attacks
- Made of wood, covered in leather, and dipped in water
 - Had a central spine down the back and a metal strip boss
 - Carried using a central handgrip
 - Leather dipped in water made it flame-retardant for protection from flaming arrows

- Importance of Christians working together
 - When they all put their shields together, they were all completely invulnerable to the attacks of the enemy
 - The front lines held their shields together side by side
 - Those in the middle put their shields overhead
 - In this formation, they were practically invulnerable to arrows, rocks, and spears
 - This doesn't mean the shield was more important – rather it meant that taking up the shield formed an impenetrable protection
 - If you were to ask me what I thought was one of the most successful strategies of the enemy, getting us all alone would be it.
 - It's for this reason that many a Christian has found themselves vulnerable to satanic attack, when they forsake the assembly.
- The shield was covered in leather and dipped in water to make it flame-retardant
 - The water is the Word of God
 - Keep the shield wet by continually staying in the Word of God
 - You have to not only quote God's Word, but obey it fully
 - You have to know the Scriptures to counteract each of the flaming arrows that are thrown at you
 - Ps 101:3 I will set nothing wicked before my eyes; I hate the work of those who fall away; It shall not cling to me.
 - Mt 6:22: "The lamp of the body is the eye. If therefore your eye is good, your whole body will be full of light. 23 But if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in you is darkness, how great is that darkness!
 - 1Co 6:18 Flee sexual immorality. Every sin that a man does is outside the body, but he who commits sexual immorality sins against his own body. 19 Or do you not know that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit who is in you, whom you have from God, and you are not your own? 20 For you were bought at a price; therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's.

- Our shield must be dipped in the water of God's Word
 - Ep 5:25 Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her 26 to make her holy, cleansing her by the washing with water through the word
 - Ro 10:17 Consequently, faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word about Christ.
- Flaming arrows
 - Doubt
 - Fear
 - Temptation
- Faith
 - Faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see. (He 11:1)
 - Faith is the Greek word pistis – a conviction of the truth (i.e. God's truth)
 - A belief or conviction in God's truth – not your own truth
 - Faith – Trusting; Taking God at His word
 - Belief in God and His promises to us
 - Belief in God's Word – the Bible
 - Rev 19:11 I saw heaven standing open and there before me was a white horse, whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice he judges and wages war.
 - This is God's fire insurance
 - Without the shield, the flaming arrows will turn us into crispy critters
 - The shield of faith won't stop the arrows from coming, but it will put every single one of them out.

The Christian soldier's shield is simply faith – a faith in God's trustworthy Word and in the One who is named Faithful and True, the Lord Jesus Christ. Such a faith firmly grounded on the Rock provides a sure defense against the fiery missiles of the evil one and his evil minions that are daily coming at us designed to hurt and harm the Christian.

Faith is an essential protection against these flaming arrows of temptation, or of doubt, or of fear, etc. Our unwavering belief in God's Word protects us from these harms. Where there is faith, there is nothing to fear.

And what is faith? Hebrews 11:1 "faith is being sure of what you hope for and certain of what you don't see." You're simply trusting God's Word no matter what things look like.

It is believing what God has said, for no other reason than He said it. It is taking God at His word. It is accepting His teaching, obeying His commands, heeding His warnings and laying hold of His promises. Where there is faith in God, defeat is unknown. Why? Because the Christian soldier who has it is never floored by anything. Faith in God and His Word makes us invincible.

- Paul says to, "take up" or "above all taking the shield of faith" to quench fiery darts.
 - Take - dechomai
 - Means to accept deliberately – to receive it steadily
 - It's in the Greek aorist imperative – implies an urgent command – do it now
 - The shield of faith must be 'taken up' to protect us from ALL the flaming arrows of Satan – makes us invincible
 - When in battle, the enemy would shoot fiery arrows above them, which is why they 'took up' their shields 'above all' of them.
 - You have to place your faith (Christian, individually) in the Word of God – In the midst of the temptation, in the midst of the flaming doubts, in the midst of the fiery fear – You place your faith in God's Word

- You have to be persistent and raise the shield of faith every time – over and over. And you can't slack off, because it only takes 1 flaming arrow to mess up your walk with Christ.

When Satan fires his flaming arrows, you need an invincible shield. So here's the good news – you not only get one this that isn't flammable, you get one that puts out fires every single time! And faith is that shield and God promises that shield for every single Christian. It can extinguish ALL the flaming arrows of the evil one. This is not a possibility – God says it is a certainty! And why is that shield so faithful? Why is that shield so strong? Because God is faithful and God is strong and when our faith is in Him and His word, He becomes our shield. And you can't lose because God never loses. So raise your shield of faith Christian. Put your faith in God. Reject all the insidious lies that burst into flames into your mind and trust in Christ. Trust Him wholly. Trust Him always. Trust him more and more. Go to Him today and enjoy his victory. And when the enemy comes, raise your shield and have a great day!

- Evil one
 - The Greek does not say 'extinguish all the flaming arrows of the devil', but rather evil one
 - Greek word ponéros
 - 2 Greek words for evil
 - κακός – Gives up when there is no apparent win
 - ponéros – Starts shooting when there is no apparent win
- How do you know if your shield is down?
 - Lot of sin in their lives
 - Attitude/behavior – When we complain and whine about our lot in life; a self-pitying attitude
 - Whining and complaining is distrusting God and His Word in action – the opposite of faith
 - When this is how you feel, you have to put the shield of faith up – it's the only thing that will help
 - You have to pay attention to your thought life, because there are a lot of arrows headed that way

Again and again, the Word of God shows us that the mark of a Christian – who has learned how to be a good, strong, mature Christian – is one that rejoices in everything and gives thanks in all things. This does not mean that God expects us to enjoy everything that happens in our lives. It doesn't mean that we should merely pretend to rejoice – there's nothing more ghastly than a fake, forced smile that people put on because they assumed that's what a Christian is supposed to do. No! Rather, the truth of the Scripture is it is genuinely possible to rejoice even in the midst of our tears, even the midst of our pain, if you just raise the shield of faith. Why? Because the shield of faith is trusting in God's Word – not just for spiritual warfare, but also about your life.

Helmet of Salvation – Hope in our eternal salvation

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mmbaLy0Ln0Q>

¹⁷Take the helmet of salvation

- Galea – helmet
 - Protects your head from injury
 - Has a band to protect the forehead
 - Has plates that extend down to protect the cheeks and neck
 - Has a visor to protect the face
 - Once the helmet was strapped into place, there was little exposed except the eyes, nose and mouth
 - Plumes for intimidation

- Some had plumes of horsehair to make the soldier look bigger to strike terror into the heart of their enemies
- Only put on during battle
 - The helmet was made of bronze and was equipped with pieces of armor that were specifically designed to protect the cheeks and jaws.
 - It was extremely heavy; therefore, the interior of the helmet was lined with sponge in order to soften its weight on the soldier's head.
 - This piece of armor was so strong, so massive, and so heavy that nothing could pierce it — not even a hammer or a battle-ax.
 - The helmets were hot and uncomfortable, and would only be put on if there was impending danger
 - The enemy would come at them with massive 3-4' long broadswords to take off their heads
 - The helmet deflects the crushing death blow to the head
- Very ornate and intricate
 - The Roman soldier's helmet was a fascinating and flamboyant piece of armor, very ornate and intricate.
 - Highly decorated with all kinds of engravings and etchings, the helmet looked more like a beautiful piece of artwork than a simple piece of metal formed to fit the head of a soldier.
 - It was not uncommon for a Roman helmet to be decorated with depictions of pastoral farm scenes, complete with all kinds of animals. Frequently the entire helmet was fashioned to look like an animal, such as an elephant or a horse. Some of the helmets had intricate engravings and etchings depicting fruit.
 - Furthermore, as if these fabulous engravings and etchings were not enough, a huge plume of brightly colored feathers or horse hair stood straight up from the top of the helmet. If the helmet was designed to be used in a public ceremony or parade, this brightly colored plume could be very long — long enough to hang all the way down the soldier's back!
 - Why would the Holy Spirit compare a piece of weaponry like this to salvation? Because your salvation is the most gorgeous, most intricate, most elaborate, most ornate gift God ever gave to you!

- Take - dechomai
 - Means to accept deliberately – to receive it steadily
 - It's in the Greek aorist imperative – implies an urgent command – do it now
- Helmet – perkephalaia
 - The word “helmet” in Greek is taken from the Greek word perkephalaia
 - peri means around or about
 - kephale is the word for the head
 - When you compound these two words into one, you discover that the word perkephalaia denotes a piece of armor that fits very tightly around the head.
 - When our minds are trained and taught to think correctly in terms of our salvation — that solid knowledge becomes a helmet in our lives! At that point, it doesn't matter how hard the devil tries to hack away at our spiritual foundation; we know beyond a shadow of doubt what Jesus' death and resurrection purchased for us. This knowledge has become a part of us, preventing the enemy from attacking our minds as he did in the past. That's how the full knowledge of our salvation puts a helmet on our heads!
- Salvation
 - We have salvation for all of eternity – we cannot lose our salvation
 - Jn 5:24 “Very truly I tell you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life and will not be judged but has crossed over from death to life.
 - Jn 6:37 All those the Father gives me will come to me, and whoever comes to me I will never drive away.
 - Jn 10:28 I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish; no one will snatch them out of my hand.

- 1Jn 5:13 I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God so that you may know that you have eternal life.
- The enemy tries to get you to doubt your salvation
 - If your salvation is not worn tightly around your mind like a helmet, the enemy will come to chop the multiple blessings of your salvation right out of your theology. He will try to hack away at your foundation, telling you that healing, deliverance, preservation, and soundness of mind were not really a part of Jesus' redemptive work on the Cross. By the time the enemy is finished with your mind, the only blessing he will leave you with is Heaven!
- Our intellectual comprehension of all that salvation encompasses must be ingrained in our minds. It includes:
 - healing
 - our deliverance from evil powers
 - God's desire to bless and prosper us
 - the benefits of our redemption in our everyday lives.
- Hope – There is hope in the salvation that we have
 - 1Th 5:6 So then, let us not be like others, who are asleep, but let us be awake and sober. 7 For those who sleep, sleep at night, and those who get drunk, get drunk at night. 8 But since we belong to the day, let us be sober, putting on faith and love as a breastplate, and the hope of salvation as a helmet.
 - Greek word for hope is elpis – joyful and confident expectation of eternal salvation
 - Implies something future that you haven't received yet
 - Ro 8:24 For in this hope we were saved. But hope that is seen is no hope at all. Who hopes for what they already have?
 - Our hope is our inheritance that comes with our salvation
 - Ep 1:18 I pray that the eyes of your heart may be enlightened in order that you may know the hope to which he has called you, the riches of his glorious inheritance in his holy people,
 - Not only is our salvation secure forever, but one day all this suffering is over
 - Rev 21:3 And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, "Look! God's dwelling place is now among the people, and he will dwell with them. They will be his people, and God himself will be with them and be their God. 4 'He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death' or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away. 5 He who was seated on the throne said, "I am making everything new!" Then he said, "Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true."
- Symbolism
 - The helmet is the Word of God
 - We have to think Biblically about everything, not worldly
 - God's Word renews your mind
 - We are to have the mind of Christ – a Christian mind, not a worldly mind
 - We are constantly bombarded by the evil ideals of this world – without the helmet of salvation, we will conform to those worldly ideals
 - Ro 12:2 Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will.
 - How you think determines how you behave – Your head determines how you think
 - The enemy is constantly striking at your head – the process of temptation starts with the mind
 - Satan's battlefield is in the mind – that's where he strikes to lead you away from God's Word
 - How does the enemy get us to behave like him instead of like Jesus? He changes the way that you think, which then changes the way you behave.
 - Warren Wiersbe said it best in his book, "The Strategy of Satan." ...[Satan attacks] your mind [because it] is the part of the image of God where God communicates with you – and reveals His will to you. It is unfortunate that some Christians have minimized the significance of the mind, because the Bible emphasizes its importance. ...If Satan can get you to believe a lie, then he can begin to work in your life to lead you into sin. This is why he attacks the mind, and this is why we must protect our minds from the attacks of the wicked one. ...Your thinking affects your feeling and your willing, (Proverbs 23:7)."

- Paul says to put on the helmet and keep it on
 - We are always in the battle – there is always impending danger
 - The helmet of salvation – the knowledge of our eternal salvation – protects your mind from discouragement, doubt, despair and the desire to give up
 - Satan attacks right after you’ve done something sinful
 - You’re not a Christian
 - Look at you – why would God bothering saving you
 - When you doubt your salvation, you now have daily insecurity instead of eternal security
- Sign that their helmet is not on – not thinking with a Christian mind
 - Angry people that think that the world owes them something
 - Relative morality – Lack of moral absolute – they believe that what is right for them is what is right
 - Not judging any behavior as wrong
 - You are full of doubt and fear

Sword of the Spirit – Word of God

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yFt8QYUD0Dw>

sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

- Machaira – Small dagger
 - Small dagger that Roman soldiers used for hand-to-hand combat in battle
 - 1½ - 2’ long
 - Made of iron
 - Double-edged so it could cut both ways
 - Light weight
 - ‘machaira’ literally means ‘a large knife used for cutting up flesh’
 - Precision instrument – used to cut up fish, etc
 - Soldiers were taught to stab and thrust instead of slash
 - Slashing frequently didn’t kill, but rather wounded because of their armor or human bone
 - A stab with this short sword almost always penetrated the body, hitting vital organs, killing their opponents
 - Light weight so it could be maneuvered quickly and with relative ease and allowed the soldier to carry a shield with the other hand
 - Had a big metal knob at the base of the hilt
 - Gave the soldier a better grip
 - Used to bash an enemy in the head or face with a back swing
 - Hung by the soldier’s side, attached via his belt
 - The belt (Word of God) holds everything together
 - Provided an offensive attack – all other pieces of the armor were defensive
 - Provides a way to stop the attack in the first place
 - If you had no other piece of armor, you still had a bit of hope
 - With only defensive armor, you would eventually be worn down and killed, but with the sword, you can make the enemy stop
 - rhomphaia – large broadsword used for slashing
 - Roman soldiers also carried a rhomphaia – large broadsword used for slashing
 - 6-8’ long Used to hack off limbs and heads of enemy soldiers
 - Because of its size and weight, it had to be used with 2 hands, which didn’t allow the soldier to hold his shield and left an opponent with a machaira with a distinct advantage
 - A machaira almost always beat a rhomphaia in battle

- Symbolism
 - The sword of the Spirit is the word of God
 - Provided an offensive attack – all other pieces have been defensive
 - It is used to take your enemy out
- The Bible is a spiritual book – the true Word of God
 - It's the perfect book for dealing with spiritual warfare
 - The Holy Spirit is the author of this Book
 - 2Pe 1:21 For prophecy never had its origin in the human will, but prophets, though human, spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit.
 - 2Ti 3:16 All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, 17 so that the servant of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work.
 - God's Word is a precision cutting instrument
 - Heb 4:12 For the word of God is alive and active. Sharper than any double-edged sword, it penetrates even to dividing soul and spirit, joints and marrow; it judges the thoughts and attitudes of the heart.
 - It cuts exactly where it needs to in our lives to grow us in our spiritual walk
- God uses a sword to defeat His enemies
 - Is 27:1 In that day, the Lord will punish with his sword—his fierce, great and powerful sword
 - Am 9:4 Though they are driven into exile by their enemies, there I will command the sword to slay them.
 - Rev 6:7 When the Lamb opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature say, "Come!" 8 I looked, and there before me was a pale horse! Its rider was named Death, and Hades was following close behind him. They were given power over a fourth of the earth to kill by sword, famine and plague, and by the wild beasts of the earth.
 - Rev 19:11 I saw heaven standing open and there before me was a white horse, whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice he judges and wages war. ... 13 He is dressed in a robe dipped in blood, and his name is the Word of God. ... 15 Coming out of his mouth is a sharp sword with which to strike down the nations.
- God has given us (His children) a sword to defeat our enemies
 - We have to know the Bible in order to have access to our sword
 - Take up - dechomai
 - Means to accept deliberately – to receive it steadily
 - It's in the Greek aorist imperative – implies an urgent command – do it now
 - You do not have access to the sword just by owning a Bible – you need to know the words in the Bible
 - Jn 14:26 But the Advocate, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you all things and will remind you of everything I have said to you.
- rhēma
 - sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God
 - word of God – Greek word used is rhēma – "any spoken word"
 - rhēma – A specific individual verse or passage from the Bible
 - logos – All of the written Word of God – The entirety of the Bible
 - When the Biblical authors wanted to refer to the whole Bible, they used the word logos
 - God didn't just give us 1 sword (the logos) – He gave us every word (rhēma) as a sword
 - God gave us a spiritual armory – swords by the tens of thousands
 - Every time you learn a new phrase in the Bible, you add a new sword to your arsenal
 - Every time you learn something new about a verse, you sharpen the blades on your sword
 - Every time you learn a new way to apply a verse, you become quicker and more deadly in using your sword
 - 2Ti 2:15 Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth.
 - These rhēmas give us specific, precision weapons (machairas) to take out the enemy, regardless of the angle that he attacks from
 - We don't throw the Bible at Satan, we throw specific verses from the Bible to defeat Satan

- If we keep throwing rhēmas at Satan, he will leave
- rhēma is the same word that Jesus used when He was tempted in the desert – he uses rhēmas to defeat Satan
 - Mt 4:1 4 Then Jesus was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. 2 After fasting forty days and forty nights, he was hungry.
 - 3 The tempter came to him and said, “If you are the Son of God, tell these stones to become bread.”
 - 4 Jesus answered, “It is written: ‘Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word (rhēma) that comes from the mouth of God.’”
 - 5 Then the devil took him to the holy city and had him stand on the highest point of the temple. 6 “If you are the Son of God,” he said, “throw yourself down. For it is written: “‘He will command his angels concerning you, and they will lift you up in their hands, so that you will not strike your foot against a stone.’” 7 Jesus answered him, “It is also written: ‘Do not put the Lord your God to the test.’”
 - 8 Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor. 9 “All this I will give you,” he said, “if you will bow down and worship me.”
 - 10 Jesus said to him, “Away from me, Satan! For it is written: ‘Worship the Lord your God, and serve him only.’”
 - 11 Then the devil left him, and angels came and attended him.
- How do we use rhēmas to defeat Satan? Take what the enemy throws at you and retranslate it
 - Finances getting to be in trouble – Satan tells you that God won’t take care of you
 - Ps 37:25 I was young and now I am old, yet I have never seen the righteous forsaken or their children begging bread.
 - 2Co 9: 8 And God is able to bless you abundantly, so that in all things at all times, having all that you need, you will abound in every good work.
 - Ph 4:19 And my God will meet all your needs according to the riches of his glory in Christ Jesus.
 - You really blew it with sin – Satan tells you that you don’t deserve to be a Christian
 - Ro 8:1 Therefore, there is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus
 - 1Jn 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness.
 - Ps 103:12 as far as the east is from the west, so far has he removed our transgressions from us.
 - Heb 8:12 For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more.”
 - You’re living a Christian life and are being persecuted
 - Heb 13:6 “The Lord is my helper; I will not be afraid. What can mere mortals do to me?”
 - Ps 18:2 The Lord is my rock, my fortress and my deliverer; my God is my rock, in whom I take refuge, my shield and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold. 3 I called to the Lord, who is worthy of praise, and I have been saved from my enemies.
 - Ps 27:1 The Lord is my light and my salvation—whom shall I fear? The Lord is the stronghold of my life—of whom shall I be afraid? 2 When the wicked advance against me to devour me, it is my enemies and my foes who will stumble and fall. 3 Though an army besiege me, my heart will not fear; though war break out against me, even then I will be confident.
 - Ps 91:1 Whoever dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty. 2 I will say of the Lord, “He is my refuge and my fortress, my God, in whom I trust.” 3 Surely he will save you from the fowler’s snare and from the deadly pestilence. 4 He will cover you with his feathers, and under his wings you will find refuge; his faithfulness will be your shield and rampart. 5 You will not fear the terror of night, nor the arrow that flies by day, 6 nor the pestilence that stalks in the darkness, nor the plague that destroys at midday. 7 A thousand may fall at your side, ten thousand at your right hand, but it will not come near you.
 - 1Jn 4:4 You, dear children, are from God and have overcome them, because the one who is in you is greater than the one who is in the world.

The Power of Prayer (Ep 6:18-24) – The missing piece of armor

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cFGiEpjs_gw

18 And pray in the Spirit on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and requests. With this in mind, be alert and always keep on praying for all the saints. 19 Pray also for me, that whenever I open my mouth, words may be given me so that I will fearlessly make known the mystery of the gospel, 20 for which I am an ambassador in chains. Pray that I may declare it fearlessly, as I should. 21 Tychicus, the dear brother and faithful servant in the Lord, will tell you everything, so that you also may know how I am and what I am doing. 22 I am sending him to you for this very purpose, that you may know how we are, and that he may encourage you. 23 Peace to the brothers, and love with faith from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. 24 Grace to all who love our Lord Jesus Christ with an undying love.

- Verse 18 – Pray on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and specific requests.
- Verse 18 – Pray for all the saints
- Verses 19-20 – Pray for Paul – that he be given a fearless boldness to preach the gospel
- Verses 21-23 – Paul ends the letter by saying Tychicus will give them the details concerning how he's doing to encourage them.
- Roman soldier communication
 - Roman officers would oversee the battle from an elevated position on a hillside
 - They would have a team of runners whose job it is to get information to the commanders in the battles
 - They would pass messages either verbally or written on a wax tablet
 - Short distances – Runners
 - Longer distances – Horseback
 - Even longer distances – Trumpets or fire signals or flags
 - Fire – They would light a series of bonfires on hilltops
 - Flags – “5 Flag Method”
 - Similar to Morris Code
 - 2 sets of 5 bright red rigid flags with letters that are raised or lowered on 12' poles
 - This is how they ensured victory in the battle
- Prayer is our communication with our Commander-In-Chief in the midst of the war
 - We need to be in constant contact with the One that has the vantage point and can see the big picture
 - This is how we will ensure victory in the battle
 - This is our spiritual walkie talkie to God in times of conflict

Prayer is a vital piece of warfare because the absence of it is a sure means of cutting yourself off from God and making yourself vulnerable in warfare. Prayerlessness produces a lack of spiritual perception and you cannot see what is coming ahead. No matter how complete your armor is, no matter how skilled you may be in the science of war, no matter how courageous you may be – you can be certain without prayer you will be defeated. Why? Because God alone can give the victory. When the Christian soldier goes forth armed for the conflict, if he looks to God by prayer he may be sure that he will triumph! Why wouldn't you access that!?

The fuel for the Christian life is prayer. Prayer is the energy that makes it possible for the Christian warrior to wear the armor of God and to wield that sword effectively. You cannot fight this battle in your own strength. No matter how talented you are, if you fight this spiritual battle in your own strength, you will be defeated.

FB Meyer – “With the perpetual use of the weapon called prayer, there is no enemy born of a hell that shall be able to withstand us.”

Christian – If you've got a bunch long standing problems, maybe it's time you start kneeling!

- Prayers and requests
 - Prayers – Greek word proseuchomai – Communication addressed to God
 - Requests – Greek word deēsis – Making a request of God
 - Both words emphasize who the communication is with
- Prayer
 - Repeated 5 times in 3 verses – Anytime something is repeated, we need to pay special attention
 - Prayer is the answer to how we put the armor on
 - Prayer is the answer to how we live victoriously
 - Prayer is the answer to our enduring and persevering through the trials in life, particularly when it comes to spiritual warfare
- Pray always
 - Repeated 4 times in verse 18 – Anytime something is repeated, we need to pay special attention
 - Why? Because the enemy is ALWAYS attacking us. Therefore, we ALWAYS need to be in connection with the Heavenly Commander for wisdom, direction and support
 - How often should we pray?
 - And pray in the Spirit on all occasions
 - Not speaking in tongues
 - 1 Corinthians 14:14 For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays, but my understanding is unfruitful. 15 What is the conclusion then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will also pray with the understanding. I will sing with the spirit, and I will also sing with the understanding.
 - In the spirit means to “pray in concert with the Spirit, consistent with His will and nature”
 - To pray in the Spirit is to pray directed by the Spirit in the sense that the Holy Spirit impresses upon your heart to pray.
 - with all kinds of prayers and requests
 - Public and private
 - Oral and mental
 - Formal and informal
 - always keep on praying
 - Persevering prayer
 - Watchful prayer – To be alert
 - Greek word ἀγρυπνοῦντες Agrupneo – To be without sleep
 - Prayer is to be a way of life
 - 1 Thessalonians 5:16 Rejoice always, 17 pray continually, 18 give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God’s will for you in Christ Jesus.
 - for all the saints

Prayer is not to be our last resort - it should be our first resort. It is not a spare tire in the trunk that you use only case of emergencies. It's our daily lifeline – it's our air supply – it's our oxygen support from God in a spiritually deflated atmosphere. It's the spiritual air the we Christians are to breath every second of the day. And that's why there is no period in life that should be without prayer. Prayer to God is the all-pervasive strategy in which warfare is fought.

The book of Ephesians begins by lifting us up into the heavenlies – a position in Christ. But it ends here in chapter 6 by pulling us down to our knees – you need to pray. And you need to pray and have your eyes open because the enemy is after you. We need to realize that this holy war cannot be carried out in our unholy strength – only in the power of God's Spirit. Don't fall into that trap or you will be defeated.

Praying is simply showing our dependency upon God! We demonstrate to Him that we need His strength and we need His wisdom by praying at all times and in every way. A lack of prayer is showing your independence from God. It is basically saying to Him "God, I don't need your strength. I can do this on my own." And yet we wonder why we're getting chewed alive. We pray all the time because we're being attacked all the time and the battle never stops. No soldier can afford to close his eyes - that would be suicide.

- Who should we pray for?
 - Pray for yourself – because you're in a spiritual war
 - 18 All the saints – all Christians, fellow soldiers
 - We need every soldier fighting this war
 - Stop fighting amongst each other over minor issues – start praying for each other

When we intercede for our fellow soldiers of Christ – be it for healing, be it for wholeness, be it for their spiritual well-being – we get back to what the church is supposed to be. We were called to be a spiritual infirmary – a holy heavenly hospital that's working together. Why? Because it's not about us – it's about our injured soldiers working together – being healed, praying, and helping one another – getting all of us back on the battlefield so we can all fight again! That's what we're called to be. And no wonder the enemy does not want us to not just pray, but he definitely doesn't want you pray always and he doesn't want you to pray for all the saints. The devil wants our supply of soldiers to be completely depleted so that we will always be in a state that's defeated.

- 19 Pray for me [Paul] – Church leadership
 - Boldly and fearlessly share the gospel
 - We are to intercede and pray to spread the good news
- Paul's secret was his prayer life
 - How does someone persevere through very difficult circumstances?
 - If I was going through something similar to what they had experienced, and survived, even thrived in the midst of it, I would want to know what their secret was so I too could get through what I'm going through as they had done.
 - Paul does not pray to be released from Roman custody
 - He is chained to a Roman guard wearing his full armor,
 - Instead, he's encouraging them to pray, and keep on praying, and he's even asking them to pray that he is bold and fearless.
- The disciples asked Jesus to teach them how to pray
 - They didn't ask how to preach or do miracles.
 - They saw the power Jesus had – the miracles Jesus performed – and they knew the source of it was prayer
 - They watched Jesus pray to the Father in every situation that was before Him
- Most Christians don't pray
 - One would think that knowing all of this about prayer, Christians would continually turn to prayer.
 - However, for many Christians, prayer has sadly become the last resort instead of a first response.
 - Satan knows that a prayerless Christian is a defeated Christian and a powerless Christian
 - It's for this reason that Paul says to pray in the Spirit because when we pray in the Spirit, we will receive the power of the Spirit.

A lack of prayer for the Christian is like fighting a one man battle - while that whole time, you've got all of heaven at your disposal!

What the church needs today is not more machinery, it's not new better organizations, it's not better novel methods. We need men whom the spirit of God can use - men who are mighty in prayer. Why? Because the Holy Spirit does not flow through methods, but through men! He does not come on machinery, but men! He does not anoint plans, but men of prayer! And that's why it's high time that we in the church learn what Paul was saying here – Satanic wars cannot be won on human energy, but they can be won in prayer. And that's why Satan trembles when he sees even the weakest saint upon his knees – because he's accessing the heavenly throne, God's power! And nobody can defeat God's power, not even Satan.

- Prayer is a 'get to', not a 'got to'
 - One of the main reasons we don't pray continually is because of how we see it.
 - We see prayer as a got to and not a get to, which to me explains why it is that Christians see prayer as a chore.
 - I think if we're honest with ourselves, we would all have to admit that prayer is hard in the natural, in that it's in the supernatural.
 - God doesn't demand I pray, rather, He will prompt me to pray.
 - He does this by bringing me to the end of myself and resources in the realm of the natural, so I turn to Him in the supernatural.
 - It's only when I realize that, for me, the situation is so impossible, that I'll go to the Lord as the One that can do the impossible.
 - When Jesus was asked about the impossibility of anyone being saved, his response in Matthew 19:26 was, "With man this is impossible, but with God all things are possible."
 - When Mary questioned the angel of the Lord who told her that she would give birth as a virgin to the Savior of the world, he told her in Luke 1:37, "with God nothing will be impossible."
 - In Genesis 18, we're told that Sarah laughed after Abraham was told that she would give birth to a son at 90-years of age, well passed childbearing age. Then in Genesis 18:14 Abraham is asked the rhetorical question of, "Is anything too hard for the Lord."
 - It may very well be that God has allowed that impossible situation in your life for this reason.
 - He wants for you to see Him do that which He may not have otherwise done had the situation not been as impossible as it was.
 - By doing it in this way, our faith grows and goes off the charts because if God can do that then there's nothing too hard for Him.

Spirit	His provision (1:19)	His fellowship (2:1)	His worship (3:3)	His peace (4:7)
Positive Reaction	To difficulty: "Now I want you to know, brethren, that my circumstances have turned out for the greater progress of the gospel." (1:12)	To others: "Do all things without grumbling or disputing." (2:14)	To the past: "Forgetting what lies behind and reaching forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize." (3:13-14)	To the "unchangeables": "Not that I speak from want, for I have learned to be content in whatever circumstances I am." (4:11)
Tone	Warm, encouraging, affirming
Key Words	"Rejoice," "Christ," "Mind," "Act"
Uniqueness	No major problem passages. "Joy" is found in each chapter. Not one quotation from the Old Testament. Christ mentioned over forty times. Most positive of all Paul's letters, yet written while he was chained to a Roman guard.
Theme	By centering our lives around Christ, we can experience true joy.
Key Verse	1:21
Christ in Philippians	Jesus is the Son of God from heaven, who humbled Himself by becoming human, who suffered for us, and who was exalted to heaven (2:5-11).

The book of Philippians is a Prison Epistle (letter written while in prison). Paul wrote it about 62 A.D. as he anticipated his release from prison. The key personalities are the Apostle Paul, Timothy, Epaphroditus, Euodia, and Syntyche. It was written to show his appreciation and love to the Philippians in a thank-you letter for their continued help and support, and also to encourage their growth.

- Chapter 1, Paul writes about his sufferings and that through his imprisonment the Kingdom was increased. "Now I want you to know, brethren, that my circumstances have turned out for the greater progress of the gospel" (1:12). Christians are to surrender their lives in service to Christ Jesus. And what should Christians expect in this life for doing this? Suffering. Paul explains that there are two things granted by God for a believer. The first is to believe in Him and the other is to suffer, "For to you it has been granted for Christ's sake, not only to believe in Him, but also to suffer for His sake, experiencing the same conflict which you saw in me, and now hear to be in me" (1:29-30). Jesus said, "Count the cost"... (Luke 14:25-33).
- Chapter 2, Paul explains the benefits of believers in unity with the "mind of Christ". He teaches a theological lesson about the humanity of Jesus Christ as He laid down His glory and became a perfect human man in order to rescue and restore mankind back to a relationship with God.
- Chapter 3, Paul expounds on the joys of a Christian and encourages the church to press forward with the Gospel. He displays his testimony when he said, "I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them but rubbish so that I may gain Christ" (3:8).

- Chapter 4, Paul again mentions joy in Christ as he encourages believers to rejoice in the Lord. It is important for the believer to be well grounded in prayer and thanksgiving. To offer praise and to give God thanks for the many provisions they are blessed with, “my God shall supply all your needs” (4:19).

The book of Colossians is a Prison Epistle (letter written while in prison). Paul wrote it circa 60-62 A.D. The key personalities include Paul, Timothy, Tychicus, Onesimus, Aristarchus, Mark, and Epaphras. It was written to counter and respond to heretical teachings and encourage believers to serve with fervor and passion.

The basic problem was a Judaic-Gnostic heresy that sought to mix Greek philosophy with Christian theology. Gnostic philosophy taught that matter was evil. In order to avoid having their pure god create evil, they had created a system of lesser deities that overflowed from their god. These lesser gods were far enough removed from the pure god that they were able to create the universe (which was composed of evil matter).

They named this lesser deity the Jehovah God of the Hebrews.

- In chapters 1-2, Paul sends words of thanks to the faithful believers “who are at Colossi”. Paul did not establish the Colossian Church and had never visited there. He teaches one of the most powerful passages attributing the divinity of Jesus Christ who is God in flesh. It is apparent that false teachers were spreading heresy by rejecting the deity of Jesus Christ, probably teaching that He was just a “unique man”. Paul warns not to allow anyone to lead them astray with Philosophy, trickery, or by traditions of men. Paul then assured the church that Jesus is God, “in Him all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form” (2:9), and that He, “reconciled all things unto Himself” (1:20), and He did it by, “having nailed it to the cross” (2:14) referring to our sins. Because Jesus Christ is God,

He was able to pay the penalty of sin in order to rescue mankind.

- In chapters 3-4, Paul encourages the church to focus on God, and keep their eyes on the goal, “set your mind on the things above” (3:2). He teaches believers how to live at home, how to manage family matters, and how to get along with other believers in Christ. His approach is for believers to put aside the petty situations that become obstacles in our lives, ultimately slow us down, and prevent the spread of the Gospel. Paul then explains what it means to forgive, “just as the Lord forgave you, so also should you” (3:13). Paul declares, “Beyond all these things put on love, which is the perfect bond of unity. Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts” (3:14-15)

The book of Philemon is a Prison Epistle (letter written while in prison), which Paul wrote circa 61 A.D. The key personalities of Philemon are Paul, Philemon, and Onesimus. It was written to Philemon as a plea to request forgiveness for his runaway servant Onesimus, who was a new believer in Jesus Christ. The book of Philemon consists of only one chapter.

- In verses 1-7, Paul gives his greetings to Philemon and presents his appreciation and gratitude for Him as a brother and worker in Jesus Christ. Philemon was most likely a wealthy member of the church in Colosse. It seems Paul begins by softening up Philemon, as to prepare him initially, before mentioning Onesimus his runaway slave. Philemon was apparently angry with his absent slave. “I pray that the fellowship of your faith may become effective through the knowledge of every good thing which is in you for Christ’s sake” (vs. 6).

- Verses 8-25, consist of Paul’s appeal for Onesimus, “I appeal to you for my child Onesimus, whom I have begotten in my imprisonment, who formerly was useless to you, but now is useful both to you and to me” (vs. 10). Onesimus had run away and traveled to Rome where he met Paul. While there, Onesimus surrendered his life to Christ. Philemon, under Roman law, could execute his slave for fleeing however, Paul pleas with Philemon to accept his servant. Paul goes one-step further and asks Philemon not only to accept his slave, but also to accept him as a brother in Christ and to overlook his faults and errors. “For perhaps he was for this reason separated from you for a while, that you would have him back forever, no longer as a slave, but more than a slave, a beloved brother, especially to me, but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord” (15-16). Onesimus would carry this letter back and give it to Philemon. Onesimus is later mentioned at the end of the book of Colossians as a faithful and beloved brother.

The book of 1st Timothy is a Pastoral Epistle (letter from Paul to a church leader). The author is Paul who wrote it approximately 62 A.D. The key personalities are the Apostle Paul and Timothy. It was written to give encouragement and leadership guidelines to a young pastor named Timothy at the church in Ephesus.

- Chapter 1 begins with a greeting to Timothy, then quickly turns to a warning against false teachings, and an emphasis on correct beliefs. Paul encourages him to “fight the good fight” (vs. 18).
- In chapters 2-4, Paul declares that God desires salvation for everyone, “Who desires all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth” (2:4).

Paul then teaches that, “For there is one God, and one mediator also between God and men, the man Christ Jesus” (2:5). Next, Paul lays some important guidelines and principles for church leadership. He taught the controversial subject of women in the church and what the two offices of leadership in the church were to be, the Overseer and the Deacon. He even taught some of the practices that should be carried out in the church such as, “give attention to the public reading of Scripture, to exhortation and teaching” (4:13).

- Chapter 5-6, Paul gives guidelines for relationships within the church as he explains how to deal with discipline and care for widows. He gives advice of how to minister and lays more guidelines for the wealthy instructing them to be generous. “Instruct those who are rich in this present world not to be conceited or to fix their hope on the uncertainty of riches, but on God, who richly supplies us with all things to enjoy” (6:17).
"Now to the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honor and glory forever and ever. Amen." (1:17)

The book of 2nd Timothy is a Pastoral Epistle (letter from Paul to a church leader). The author is the Apostle Paul who wrote it approximately 67 A.D. and is probably his last letter. After Paul's release from his first imprisonment in Rome in AD 61 or 62, and after his final missionary journey (probably into Spain), he was again imprisoned under Emperor Nero c. 66-67. The key personalities are Paul, Timothy, Luke, Mark, and many others.

Its purpose was to give direction to Timothy and urge him to visit one final time. From the somber nature of this letter, it is apparent that Paul knew that his work was done and that his life was nearly at an end (4:6-8).

- In chapters 1-2, Paul begins with thanksgivings and an announcement to remain faithful, strong, and to “Join with me in suffering for the Gospel” (1:8). In contrast to his first imprisonment (where he lived in a rented house), he now languished in a cold dungeon (4:13) chained like a common criminal (1:16; 2:9). He also reiterates the important work of “entrusting the faithful men who will be able to teach others” (2:2). Paul’s desire was to equip the saints with the knowledge of how to teach others.

- In chapters 3-4, Paul tells Timothy to remain faithful and “preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with great patience and instruction” (4:2), because difficult times would be in the future. He challenges him to endure reminding him that endurance is one of the main quality essentials for a successful preacher of the Gospel. Men would become just as they were in the time of Moses. He writes that, “all who desire to live godly in Christ Jesus will be persecuted” (3:12).
 - At the end of chapter 4, Paul writes about personal concerns asking that some of his personal items be brought to him. It appears that his imprisonment was completely unexpected. Soon after this letter, probably the spring of 68 A.D., it is likely that Paul was beheaded as a Roman citizen.
- “I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith; in the future there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will award to me on that day; and not only to me, but also to all who have loved His appearing” (4:7).

Who was Timothy

- From Lystra
- Family
 - Mother was a Jewish Christian
 - Father was a nonbelieving Greek pagan
 - Their son (Timothy) was a mamzer –
 - Dt 23:2 No one born of a forbidden marriage nor any of his descendants may enter the assembly of the LORD, even down to the tenth generation.
- Timothy (2Ti 1:5; 2Ti:3 14-15)
 - Spoken well of
 - Mother Lois
 - Grandmother Eunice
 - He had sincere faith
 - Knew the Hebrew Scriptures from infancy

Timothy, My Dear Son

Paul meets Timothy at the beginning of his second missionary journey. On the first missionary journey (A.D. 46 – 48), Paul visits Lystra, a city in central Asia Minor. It seems he had little success there, as in Lystra “they stoned Paul and dragged him outside the city, thinking he was dead” (Acts 14: 19). On his return to Lystra in A.D. 50, however, Paul meets Timothy, a young man whose grandmother Lois and mother Eunice had become believers, apparently during Paul’s first visit to Lystra.

On the second missionary journey at the beginning of A.D. 50, Timothy joins up with Paul, and Timothy will travel with Paul for the next eighteen years, A.D. 50 – 68. During that time, Paul comes to view Timothy as a son, and it is Timothy to whom Paul will pass on his ministry upon Paul’s death in A.D. 68.

Both of these letters are intensely personal, and they give us great insight into the father/son relationship that develops between Paul and Timothy.

The book of Titus is a Pastoral Epistle (letter from Paul to a church leader). The author is Paul who wrote it approximately 66 A.D. Key personalities include Paul and Titus. It was written to guide Titus, a Greek believer, in his leadership of the churches on the island of Crete, “For this reason I left you in Crete, that you would set in order what remains and appoint elders in every city as I directed you” (1:5). As was the case with the letter of 1st Timothy, Paul writes to encourage and guide young pastors in dealing with opposition from both false teachers and the sinful nature of men.

- In chapter 1, Paul gives qualifications about how to choose leaders in the church, “the overseer must be above reproach”. He also warned to be aware of the rebellious men and deceivers who “turn away from truth”, there were many to be aware of (vs. 10).
- In chapters 2-3, Paul teaches how believers may live healthy inside and outside of the church. He told them to live Godly lives and to be prepared for the coming Savior Jesus Christ. Paul describes how Jesus rescues us from sin in chapter 2 verses 11-13. When a person first places their faith and trust in Jesus Christ for salvation they are saved from the penalty of sin, this is Justification, “For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation to all men”. While the believer is worshiping and serving God on earth they are saved from the binding power of sin, this is Sanctification, “Instructing us to deny ungodliness and worldly desires and to live sensibly, righteously and godly in the present age”. When a believer’s life comes to an end they go to be with Jesus Christ. Here they live with Him for eternity and are safe and protected from the presence of sin, this is Glorification, “Looking for the blessed hope and the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior, Christ Jesus”.

General Epistles/Letters

The General Epistles are all those correspondences written by anyone other than Paul:

- Hebrews, once attributed to Paul, is now attributed to an anonymous author, someone in Paul’s inner circle;
- James is attributed to “James, the Lord’s brother” and the leader of the church in Jerusalem (Galatians 1: 19);
- 1 & 2 Peter are attributed to the Apostle Peter;
- 1,2,3 John are attributed to the Apostle John;
- Jude is attributed to Jude, another of the Lord’s brothers (Matthew 13: 55)

The book of Hebrews is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It was written mainly to the Hebrew believers. The author is anonymous, although either Paul or Barnabas was traditionally accepted as the author. It was written approximately 67 A.D. Its purpose was to present the Lord Jesus Christ as perfect and superior in comparison to anything Judaism and the old covenant had to offer. The author was writing to a group of Christians who were under intense persecution and some were contemplating a return to Judaism. He admonished them not to turn away from their only hope of salvation.

- In chapters 1-10:18, the author repeatedly demonstrates Jesus Christ as preeminent over the angels, “let all the angels of God worship Him” (1:6); over Moses, “He has been counted worthy of more glory than Moses” (3:3); over the Old Testament priesthood, “being designated by God as a high priest according to the order of Melchizedek” (5:10). The writer explains that the New Covenant is greater than the Old Covenant because Jesus was the perfect, permanent sacrifice, rather than the Old Testament sacrifices. The author also presents the power and authority of the Word of God, “For the word of God is living and active and sharper than any two-edged sword, and piercing as far as the division of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow, and able to judge the thoughts and intentions of the heart” (4:12).
- In chapters 10:19-13, the writer explains that Faith is superior to the work of the Old Covenant. He writes, “Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen” (11:1). Chapter 11 is Faith’s Hall of Fame where all of the faithful individual’s from the Old Testament are highlighted in this chapter. Faith in Jesus Christ is our source of salvation because He is “the author and perfecter of faith” (12:2).

All are able to trust in Jesus Christ knowing that He is “the same yesterday and today and forever” (13:8).

Heb 13 is the call to action.

Why does holiness look like?

1. Love each other, esp those inside the church family
 - Church family is eternal, blood family may or may not be
 - Persist in love, even in bad times and persecution
2. Entertain strangers - ESV - practice hospitality
 - Greek word - love of a stranger
 - You show love & compassion for people you do not know
 - Hospitality is a major value in the Old Testament
 - Lack of hospitality - hallmark of unbelievers
 - Number 1 problem today - loneliness - reach out to them
3. Minister to prisoners
 - Prisoners are believers in jail for their faith - persecution
 - Matthew text - what you did for the least of my people
 - Not just sympathy, but empathy - enter into the suffering
 - Be in prayer for the persecuted church daily
 - Voice of the martyrs

This applies the doctrine that was taught in the 1st 12 chapters - Jesus is absolutely everything that you will need.

James Overview

JAMES

Faith	When stretched, it doesn't break.	When pressed, it doesn't fail.	When expressed, it doesn't explode.	When distressed, it doesn't panic.
Deeds	Authentic stability	Authentic love	Authentic control and humility	Authentic patience
	Greeting	Partiality and prejudice	The tongue	Money matters
	Trials	Indifference and mere intellectualism	The heart	Sickness
	Temptation	Obedience and action	The will	Carnality and correction
	Response to Scripture

The book of James is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). James the half-brother of Jesus wrote it approximately 48-49 A.D. It was likely the first New Testament book (letter) to be written. The key personalities of this book are James and Persecuted Christians. James wrote this book to Jewish believers to encourage them to endure and live bold Christian lives. James is a book about practical Christian living that reflects a genuine faith that transforms lives. In many ways, it is similar to the OT book of Proverbs.

- In chapter 1, James teaches believers to test their faith and “prove yourselves doers of the word” (1:22). James encourages believers to put their faith into action, and to be servants of Jesus Christ.
- Chapters 2-3, James describes the relationship between faith and works. He teaches that a person of faith without works demonstrates useless faith. What good is a person’s faith if they don’t present it to the world? A believer’s good works are evidence of their faith in Jesus Christ. He also teaches that everyone is a sinner and that if one of the 10 Commandments are broken, than that person is guilty of breaking every one of them, “For whoever keeps the whole law and yet stumbles in one point, he has become guilty of all” (2:10).
- In Chapters 4-5, James gives wise instruction to believers. He said, “Submit to God, resist the devil and he will flee from you” (4:7). A faithful believer will desire to follow hard after God in service, obedience, and prayer. In the last chapter James stresses the weight and magnitude of prayer for every believer. He uses the word “Prayer” 7 times, signifying its importance. In the final verse of his book James expresses the magnitude of living faith in action saying:

“My brethren, if any among you strays from the truth and one turns him back, let him know that he who turns a sinner from the error of his way will save his soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.” (5:19-20).

Author and Date:

- James, was the oldest half-brother of Christ and brother of Jude.
 - He had first rejected Jesus as Messiah, but later believed.
- James wrote with the authority of one who had personally seen the resurrected Christ.
- He was recognized as an associate of the apostles, and who was a leader of the Jerusalem church.
- The epistle of James can be reliably dated A.D. 44-49 making it the earliest written book in the New Testament canon.

Historical and Theological Themes:

- The epistle of James's focuses on direct statements on wise and godly living for the Christian.
- He wrote with a passionate desire for the readers to be obedient to the Word of God and the emphasis on spiritual fruitfulness demonstrating true saving faith.

Outline:

Within the five chapters in James's epistle, he arranged it around a series of tests by which a person's faith may be measured.

Dead Faith (James 2:14-20)

James 2:14-20: Faith + Nothing = Nothing

A) Verse 14: Empty Confession

14. What use is it, my brethren, if someone says he has faith but he has no works? Can that faith save him?

A. James does not say that this person actually has faith, but that he claims to have it.

B. This describes someone who continually lacks any external evidence of the faith that he claims.

C. This is best understood in the broad sense, speaking of any degree of acceptance of the truths of the gospel.

Matthew 7:21 - Not everyone who says to Me, Lord, Lord, will enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father who is in heaven will enter. (The unfruitfulness of this sort of faith demonstrates its real character and the faith that says but does not do is really unbelief.)

B) Verses 15-17: Marked by False Compassion

15. If a brother or sister is without clothing and in need of daily food,

16. And one of you says to them, go in peace, be warmed and be filled, and yet you do not give them what is necessary for their body, what use is that?

17. Even so, faith, if it has no works, is dead being by itself.

A. & B. James illustrates his point by comparing faith without works, to words of compassion without acts of compassion.

C. Just as professed compassion without action is phony, the kind of faith that is without works is a mere empty profession, not genuine saving faith.

Matthew 5:16 - Let your light shine before men in such a way that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. (A godly life gives convincing testimony of the saving power of God. That brings Him glory).

C) Verse 18-20: Shallow Conviction

18. But someone may well say, you have faith and I have works; show me your faith without the works, and I will show you my faith, by my works.

19. You believe that God is one. You do well; the demons also believe, and shudder.

20. But are you willing to recognize, you foolish fellow, that faith without works is useless?

A. James' main point is the same; the only possible evidence of true faith is works.

B. Even fallen angels affirm the oneness of God and tremble at its implications. They know the truth about God, Christ, and the Holy Spirit, but hate it and them.

C. James contrasts two kinds of faith; living faith that saves and dead faith that does not save.

Ephesians 2:8-10 - For by grace you have been saved through faith; and not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not as a result of works, so that no one may boast. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand so that we would walk in them.

Living Faith (James 2:21-26)

James 2:21-26: Faith + Works = Genuine Saving Faith

D) Verses 21-23: Abraham Righteousness

21. Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he offered up Isaac his son on the altar?

22. You see that faith was working with his works, and as a result of the works, faith was perfected.

23. And the scripture was fulfilled which says, and Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness, and he was called the friend of God.

A. James quoted Genesis 15:6 which forcefully claims that God credited righteousness to Abraham solely on the basis of his faith.

B. This refers to bringing something to its end, or to its fullness.

C. Abraham is so called a friend because of his obedience.

E) Verse 25: Rehab's Saving Faith

25. In the same way, was not Rehab the harlot also justified by works when she received the messengers and sent them out by another way?

A. She demonstrated the reality of her saving faith when, at great personal risk she protected the messengers of God.

F) Verse 26: The Human Body & Sole

26. For just as the body without the spirit is dead, so also faith without works is dead.

Conclusion:

James is asking the question, to all of us?

Do you choose to honor Jesus Christ whatever the cost?

Jesus said, pick-up your cross and follow me.

The Fruit / Proofs of Authentic / True Christianity

- Love for God
- Repentance from Sin
- Genuine Humility
- Devotion to God's Glory
- Continual Prayer
- Selfless Love
- Separation from the world
- Spiritual Growth
- Obedient Living
- Hunger for God's Word
- Transformation of Life

Genuine Saving Faith

God's Regeneration - is the supernatural work of the Holy Spirit by which the divine nature and divine life are given (John 3:3-8; Titus 3:5).

It is instantaneous and is accomplished solely by the power of the Holy Spirit through the Living Word of God (John. 5:24), when the repentant sinner, as enabled by the Holy Spirit, responds in faith to the divine provision of salvation.

Genuine regeneration is manifested by fruits worthy of repentance as demonstrated in righteous attitudes and conduct. Good works will be its proper evidence and fruit (1st Corinthians 6:19-20; Ephesians 5:17-21; Philippians 2:12b; Colossians 3:12-17; 2nd Peter 1:4-11).

This obedience causes the believer to be increasingly conformed to the image of our Lord Jesus Christ (2 Co. 3:18).

Such a conformity is climaxed in the believer's glorification at Christ's coming (Romans 8:16-17; 2nd Peter 1:4; 1 John 3:2-3).

Note: However, there is a time in every Christian's life that we are barren, this is due to disobedience and non-repentance.

The book of 1st Peter is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It was written to all believers in general. The author is Peter who wrote it about 60 A.D. The key personalities are the Apostle Peter, Silas, and Mark. Its purpose was to encourage suffering Christians and to call them to personal holiness; Peter's central focus is persecution.

- Chapters 1-2, Peter addresses the issue that believers are to live a life of personal holiness as God's people, even during times of suffering and persecution. He teaches that all Christians are to expect suffering; it is normal and Scriptural for Christians to suffer persecution and even imprisonment and death. Peter explains that our salvation in Christ is secure and that He took our sin on the cross and, "for by His wounds you were healed" (2:24).
- In chapters 3-5, Peter explains that in living holy lives the believer is to, "sanctify Christ as Lord in your hearts, always being ready to make a defense to everyone who asks you to give an account for the hope that is in you, yet with gentleness and reverence" (3:15). A part of living a holy life is obeying the commands of Christ and Peter claimed that we are obligated to preach the "Hope that is in you". He expounds that believers should not be surprised when persecution comes upon them, "be on the alert" because Satan is continuously, "seeking whom he may devour" (5:8). In addition, if the believer does suffer persecution, they are to glorify God and entrust their souls to Him.

The book of 2nd Peter is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It was written to all believers in general. The author is Peter who wrote it about 63-64 A.D. The key personalities are the Apostles Peter and Paul. Its purpose was to warn against the increasing number of false teachers attacking the truth of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

- In chapters 1-2, Peter gives guidance and reassurance to the growing church and claims that the Gospel they are preaching is of Jesus Christ. He claimed, "We were eye witnesses of His Majesty" (1:16), and that men who were, "Moved by the Holy Spirit" wrote all of the teachings of Scripture (1:21). The trouble they were dealing with was the beginning of what we now know as "Gnosticism" a philosophical principal that was hurting the churches. Peter went on to teach that in the end God would judge all of the false prophets.
- Chapter 3, Peter encourages believers with the coming Day of the Lord. The Earth will receive its punishment and the righteous will dwell in the "New Heavens and the New Earth". His final warning is critical which he claims, "Be on your guard so that you are not carried away by the error of unprincipled men" (3:17).
 "For by these He has granted to us His precious and magnificent promises, so that by them you may become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world by lust" (1:4).

1, 2, 3 John (1Jn, 2Jn, 3Jn)

John is writing to the church leaders as well as the Gnostics

Gnosticism

There was a LOT of false teaching in the churches
 John brings truth and clarity against the false teaching

Gnosis – Greek for knowledge

- You can gain salvation by knowledge
- Spiritual is good, physical is evil – Jesus couldn’t be God, because the physical is bad
 - God can’t be light and dark at the same time
 - Sin doesn’t exist – the body is a tent filled with spirit
- Takes all the focus off of God and puts it on us
- God’s 1st teaching – choose the Tree of Life, not the Tree of Knowledge (Choose Me, not the world)
 - 1Jn 2:15 Stop loving this evil world and all that it offers you, for when you love these things you show that you do not really love God; 16 for all these worldly things, these evil desires—the craze for sex, the ambition to buy everything that appeals to you, and the pride that comes from wealth and importance—these are not from God. They are from this evil world itself.
- Spirit/Matter. Spirit is good; Matter is bad. Bodies are bad. Our souls are trapped in these material shells. We want to get rid of our bodies and get back to good spiritual realities. (Christianity doesn’t teach that matter is bad – God declared the Creation “very good.” The problem with the body and the soul is sin.)
- Two gods. There are two gods: the bad god, called the Demiurge, is the god of the Old Testament – he created everything, which is bad. The good god is the God of the New Testament – he is spirit and we want to get back to him.
- Secret Knowledge. Gnosticism gets its name from the Greek word gnosis, which means “knowledge.” All Gnostics taught that you needed to get some sort of secret knowledge to escape the bad body and get back to the good god. Salvation is essentially learning the secret handshake.
- Jesus and the Gnosis. Not all Gnostics claimed to be Christians, but some glommed on to Christianity because it seemed to offer a suitable vehicle for their secret knowledge philosophy. Jesus became the keeper of secret knowledge and you can get “saved” through him, though not in the orthodox sense of faith in his substitutionary atoning death for your sins. Rather, you get access through Jesus to the secret handshake that would open the door to the spiritual world.
- Weird Ethics. Because the Gnostics taught that the body was bad, they taught that it was good to punish the body by treating it poorly. Therefore, some Gnostics were very hard on the body, embracing a form of radical asceticism (intense fasting, absolute chastity even in marriage, etc.). Others pursued the opposite course and embraced a form of licentiousness – the body is bad so let’s punish it by doing all sorts of base things with it: drunkenness, sexual promiscuity, etc. Either course led in a direction contrary to orthodox Christian ethics.

The book of 1st John is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It is written by the Disciple/Apostle John around 85-95 A.D. probably from Ephesus. The key personalities are the Apostles Peter and Paul. Its purpose was to warn about the increasing threat of false teachings and to reassure Christians of their faith and love in Jesus Christ.

It was written to combat false teachings that had to do with the denial that Jesus had a genuine human body (1:1). This Gnostic view of matter as being evil led to two responses, asceticism or licentiousness. He very clearly writes to give the true tests of a true Christian. These tests also contradicted the Gnostic licentious approach to Christianity. He gives several means to measure the reality of one's conversion experience.

- Chapters 1-2, John reassures believers explaining, "God is Light and in Him is no darkness at all" (1:5). He wrote that if sins were confessed He would cleanse them, because Jesus is the propitiation for "the whole world" (2:2). Because John was aware of the continuing attack of false teachings, he then urged believers not to love and follow after the world because it was not of the Father, and would ultimately pass away. Discernment is necessary to thwart the constant attacks of heresy.
- In chapters 3-4, He teaches about the love of God and that through His love He sent Jesus, "To destroy the works of the devil" (3:8). Therefore, believers should love each other not only with words but also, "in deed and truth" (3:18), as Jesus commanded.
- Chapter 5, John exhorts Christians to live by faith because through our faith in Christ we overcome the wickedness of the world. In addition, John writes one of the most powerful and assuring statements concerning the work of Jesus on the cross, "These things I have written to you who believe in the name of the Son of God, so that you may know that you have eternal life” (vs. 13). John wanted all believers to know 100%, that because of their faith and trust in Jesus Christ they would spend all of eternity with Him.

The book of 2nd John is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It is written by the Disciple/Apostle John around 85-95 A.D. Key personality is John. It was written to encourage all Christians not to lose focus of Jesus Christ and to warn against persistent heresy. His key purpose is that his children (the children of God) may abide in the truth and the truth may abide in them.

- In verses 1-3, John sends greetings to “the chosen lady” (vs. 1, 4, 5), who is most likely one of the churches in his region. John is the “elder” who probably was still in Ephesus when he wrote this letter.
- Verses 4-11, are the body of the letter. John supports the commandment to “love one another”. He cautions them to watch for the deceivers and the antichrists that are abundant and active in the world spreading false teachings. Key Thought: “Walk in the truth”. John is still dealing with “Gnosticism” which denied that Jesus had a real human body composed of matter, since they viewed matter as being innately evil.
- Those who do not follow the teachings of Jesus Christ are false teachers and stretch the truth into heretical doctrine. John was writing to protect his readers from the evil deception of those who refused to remain in the teaching of Christ, but were going beyond the truth of apostolic teaching (vs. 9). He makes it clear that these people are anti-Christ and do not know the Lord (vs. 7, 9). He also reminds his readers of their responsibility as Christians to love other Christians (vs. 5). Although, above all things he wants them to “walk in truth”. This truth is still consistent in our modern day. We must also “walk in truth” in this world of deception.

- Verses 12-13, John wraps up his letter with the intentions of making a visit and discussing many topics “face to face”(vs. 12). He sends greetings from “the children of your chosen sister” (vs.13), this is probably his church in Ephesus.

The book of 3rd John is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). It is written by the Disciple/Apostle John around 85-95 A.D. The key personalities in this book are the Apostle John, Gaius, Diotrephes, and Demetrius. This book is the shortest book in the New Testament and was written to praise Gaius and Demetrius for their faithful service.

- In verses 1-12, John praises two teachers for “walking in truth”. He wrote that nothing gave him more joy than to see Christians walking in truth and acting faithfully, “Beloved, do not imitate what is evil, but what is good. The one who does good is of God; the one who does evil has not seen God” (vs. 11). Next, He criticized a false teacher named Diotrephes. John tells of a previous letter (that we do not have) that he sent to the church. However, Diotrephes rejected the letter out of pride and discouraged anyone from accepting or accommodating any of the brethren of the church.
- In verses 13-15, John brings to a close his letter with confident intentions of making a visit and discussing many topics “face to face” rather than by pen.

Credibility of the Bible

- More credible than any other book in all of history
- 1st hand eye witness of Christ’s ministry

- Truth
 - Absolute truth, not relative
 - Is 5:20 Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!
- 1Jn 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness.
 - Forgiveness of sins does not mean ‘God, please don’t send me to hell’ – that was secured the moment that you were saved
 - Forgive – Greek aphiemi – to send away, to disregard, to abandon, to give up, to leave behind, to let go, to no longer discuss
 - He will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness – not maybe

1Jn (TLB) 1 Christ was alive when the world began, yet I myself have seen him with my own eyes and listened to him speak. I have touched him with my own hands. He is God’s message of life. 2 This one who is life from God has been shown to us, and we guarantee that we have seen him; I am speaking of Christ, who is eternal Life. He was with the Father and then was shown to us. 3 Again I say, we are telling you about what we ourselves have actually seen and heard, so that you may share the fellowship and the joys we have with the Father and with Jesus Christ his son. 4 And if you do as I say in this letter, then you, too, will be full of joy, and so will we.

God is Light

Light has no darkness – it gives no shadow
 Shadows in heaven? Probably not – no lack of light anywhere

God is light – walk in His light

1Jn1 5 This is the message which we have heard from Him and declare to you, that God is light and in Him is no darkness at all. 6 If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth. 7 But if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin.

8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. 9 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.

Abide

1Jn 3:24 Now he who keeps His commandments abides in Him, and He in him. And by this we know that He abides in us, by the Spirit whom He has given us.

Abide – To remain in the same place for a period of time

- Stay focused on God’s Word. When we stumble, we get back up and keep going.
- Fellowship with Jesus and one another is the fullness of joy
- How do we abide in Christ? We follow his commandments

1Jn 2:3-8 TLB 3 And how can we be sure that we belong to him? By looking within ourselves: are we really trying to do what he wants us to?

4 Someone may say, “I am a Christian; I am on my way to heaven; I belong to Christ.” But if he doesn’t do what Christ tells him to, he is a liar. 5 But those who do what Christ tells them to will learn to love God more and more. That is the way to know whether or not you are a Christian. 6 Anyone who says he is a Christian should live as Christ did.

7 Dear brothers, I am not writing out a new rule for you to obey, for it is an old one you have always had, right from the start. You have heard it all before. 8 Yet it is always new, and works for you just as it did for Christ; and as we obey this commandment, to love one another, the darkness in our lives disappears and the new light of life in Christ shines in.

God tests us in order to show us our own potential

- When we fail, He will stay with us and have us take it over and over until we pass

Stay focused on the things that are eternal – only people are eternal, no things are

- How do you focus?
 - 1Peter 5:8 Be alert and of sober mind. Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour.
 - Abide in the Word of God and the lion will be powerless

1Jn 2: 15 Stop loving this evil world and all that it offers you, for when you love these things you show that you do not really love God; 16 for all these worldly things, these evil desires—the craze for sex, the ambition to buy everything that appeals to you, and the pride that comes from wealth and importance—these are not from God. They are from this evil world itself. 17 And this world is fading away, and these evil, forbidden things will go with it, but whoever keeps doing the will of God will live forever.

- Immorality is rampant – it's all around us
 - Commercials, music, billboards – all distractions
 - If you are allowing the immorality, you are being devoured by the lion

God's love – God's encouragement

When you feel like God doesn't love you – we have been anointed

God lives in us

1Jn 3:16 By this we know love, because He laid down His life for us. And we also ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

1Jn 2:20 But you have an anointing from the Holy One, and you know all things. ... 24 Therefore let that abide in you which you heard from the beginning. If what you heard from the beginning abides in you, you also will abide in the Son and in the Father. 25 And this is the promise that He has promised us—eternal life. 26 These things I have written to you concerning those who try to deceive you.

27 But you have received the Holy Spirit, and he lives within you, so you don't need anyone to teach you what is true. For the Spirit teaches you everything you need to know, and what he teaches is true—it is not a lie. So just as he has taught you, remain in fellowship with Christ.

Lead by example (2nd John)

- Walk in truth and in love – 2Jn 1:5-6
 - Love says that you correct deception and wrong doctrine
 - You need to love in the midst of disagreement – the world can't do that
- Deception – Things look and sound like they're from God, but it's been twisted
 - How do you know if it's from God – Scripture
 - Pattern of deceit – It is about us, not Jesus
 - Lot of deception in the church
 - Deceit will always be a counterfeit – an antichrist

- 2Jn 1:7 For many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist.
- Jesus vs Satan – Satan models everything in the pattern of Jesus
 - Trinity
 - Prince of peace, prince of the world
 - Mark of God (Holy Spirit) – Mark of Satan (Mark of the beast)
- Church community
 - We need to recognize truth – if it isn't about Jesus, then it's not truth
 - Sheep vs goats/wolves
 - 3Jn 1:2 Beloved, I pray that you may prosper in all things and be in health, just as your soul prospers.
 - 3Jn 1:5 Beloved, you do faithfully whatever you do for the brethren [a]and for strangers, 6 who have borne witness of your love before the church. If you send them forward on their journey in a manner worthy of God, you will do well, 7 because they went forth for His name's sake, taking nothing from the Gentiles.
 - I received God's love, and so I pass it onto you
 - 3Jn 1:9 I have already written you once about this, but Diotrephes, who loves to be in charge and recognized as first among you, does not acknowledge our authority. 10 So if I come, I will address what he's doing—spreading his malicious slander against us. And not content with that, he refuses to welcome our brothers, and he stands in the way of those who want to receive them and show them hospitality by throwing them out of the church!
 - Deception – they will not receive authority or correction

The book of Jude is a General Epistle (Apostolic Letter). The author is Jude the brother of James, both of who are half-brothers of Jesus Christ. Jude wrote it circa 75 A.D. The purpose of this book is to address false teachings and to illustrate a contrast between the error of heresy and the truth of Jesus Christ. Jude consists of only one chapter.

- In verses 1- 16, Jude identifies himself and quickly delves into the dilemma of false teachings. “For certain persons have crept in unnoticed” (vs. 4), heresy was obviously seeping into the region, disturbing the churches, and deceiving believers. He begins by illustrating similarities between false teachers and condemned individuals from the Old Testament citing Cain, Balaam, and Korah.
- Verses 17-25, Jude urges Christians to “remember the words that were spoken beforehand by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ” (vs. 17). He was referring to all of the apostles and disciples in the past, which had warned about false teachers and prophets that were coming to deceive. His advice is to focus on Jesus Christ and to watch out for each other so that no one is misled into error.

Those who place their faith and trust in Jesus Christ are secure in salvation, not by their own good deeds, because no one is good enough to do that, but believers are secure by the vicarious work of Jesus Christ on the Cross. It is only by, “Him who is able to keep you from stumbling, and to make you stand in the presence of His glory blameless with great joy, to the only God our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen.” (vs. 24-25).

Revelation (Rev)

Book of Revelation:

- the last book in the Johannine canon

- the final book in the Christian canon of Scripture
- the concluding narrative in the story of redemption

No other book in the Bible seems so cryptic as Revelation

No other book so extravagant in its symbolism and wild visions

No other book so given to misreading and misinterpretation

Inclusion in the canon

- From the 2nd century through the 4th, debate raged as to its inclusion in the canon
- Accepted at the Council of Hippo in 393
- Affirmed at the Council of Carthage in 397

Christians rejected Revelation

- As far back as the 2nd century, Syrian Christians rejected Revelation as heretical
- In the 4th century Gregory of Nazianzus viewed it as difficult and dangerous
- Martin Luther held it in contempt as being “neither apostolic nor prophetic”;
- It is the only New Testament book for which John Calvin did not write a commentary
- In modern times Thomas Jefferson omitted Revelation from his Jefferson Bible, considering it “the ravings of a maniac”
- Friedrich Engels dismissed it as no more than “a political and anti-Roman” work
- George Bernard Shaw thought it “a peculiar record of the visions of a drug addict.”

Yet, Revelation has always been and still is wildly popular. Although written nearly 2,000 years ago, Revelation still grips our imagination with its drama, nightmare visions, exotic imagery, stunning colors, full-tilt sound, and over-the-top, blood-soaked violence. Yet, most who read Revelation come away baffled and bewildered, scratching their heads. What are we to make of this puzzling work?

The literary genres of the book of Revelation are an Apocalypse, a Prophecy, and an Epistle (or Letter). The Disciple/Apostle John, who followed Jesus Christ and witnessed His crucifixion, authored it.

John wrote Revelation while a prisoner on the Island of Patmos, approximately 85-95 A.D. Its purpose is to give encouragement and hope for all Christians to continue watching for the return and triumph of the Lord Jesus Christ. It also is to warn of the Final Judgment that nonbelievers will endure on that Last Day.

John wrote that Revelation is special because, "Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of the prophecy, and heed the things which are written in it; for the time is near" (1:3).

- In chapters 1-3, John describes the details of the setting as he received this revelation (unveiling of truth). John was elderly and imprisoned on the Island of Patmos when he received an apocalyptic vision from an angel. With this vision he was instructed to write to seven churches about what he had seen. Revelation 1:19, describes a basic outline of the entire letter written by John, "Therefore write the things which you have seen, and the things which are, and the things which will take place after these things" this is the pattern that is followed by John. He describes of the seven churches their qualities and/or their weaknesses and failings (such as Sardis and Laodicea).
- In chapters 4-20, John depicts what he sees in his vision about the Spiritual Realm. He describes Jesus Christ as the "Slain Lamb" who is the only one able to open the book with 7 seals. Aside from the 5th seal, each will bring a judgment upon the populace of the Earth. The 7th seal introduces 7 angels who each possess 7 trumpets, another series of daunting judgments. Incredibly, after the 6th trumpet in which 1/3 of the Earth's population is killed, John claims, "The rest of mankind, who were not killed by these plagues, DID NOT REPENT" (9:20).

After this, John receives visions of which include the antichrist and Satan who is aware of his looming end. Next, John describes 7 more angles that will each carry 7 bowls of plagues to be poured onto the Earth. Again, amazingly, while hail is raining from heaven during the 7th plague, humankind does not repent but instead, “men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, because its plague was extremely severe” (16:21).

These fierce plagues demonstrate the wrath of God’s holy judgment upon the still wicked Earth.

John describes the eternity of Hell, the final resting place of the unbelieving. In 19:20, the antichrist and the false prophet are cast into the Lake of Fire. One thousand years later after the millennium reign of Jesus Christ in 20:10, the devil is also cast into the Lake of Fire. We also see that the antichrist and the false prophet are still in torment, “day and night forever and ever” because John describes Hell as an eternal place of conscious torment.

- Finally, in chapters 21-22, John writes the last of the canon of Scripture. Here he describes the New Heaven and the New Earth. In it is the holy city of the New Jerusalem. There will no longer be any crying or tears, pain, mourning, or death because, “the first things have passed away” (21:1). Only those who are written in the Lamb’s book of life can enter this place to live eternally with Jesus Christ who sits on His throne. “Come. “And let the one who is thirsty come; let the one who wishes take the water of life without cost” (22:17).

“Behold, I am coming quickly, and My reward is with Me, to render to every man according to what he has done. “I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end.” (22:12-13).

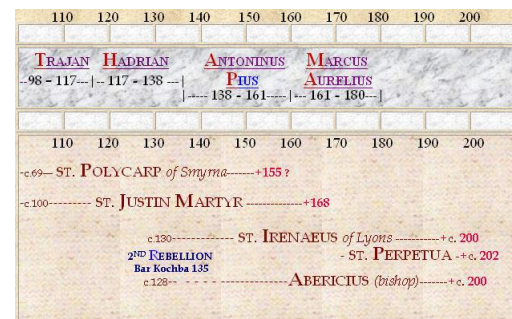

Author

- Rev 1:1 He made it known by sending his angel to his servant John, 2 who testifies to everything he saw—that is, the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ.
- Irenaeus (church father) tells us that Justin Martyr heard from Polycarp that heard it himself from John that John wrote the Book of Revelation
 - Justin Martyr knew Polycarp
 - Polycarp was the Bishop of Smyrna (current day Izmir)
 - Polycarp was a student of John

Justin Martyr (c. A.D. 100-165) claims that “a certain man with us, whose name was John, one of the apostles of Christ” received the vision (Dialogue with Trypho, 81), and St. Irenaeus (c. A.D. 130 – 202) claims it occurred “almost in our day, towards the end of Domitian’s reign” (Against Heresies, 5, 30, 3).

- Tradition builds on these two witnesses and consensus forms that the Apostle John was the author of Revelation and that he wrote his book around A.D. 95, as the persecution under Domitian reached its apex.

Other voices disagree.

- Revelation nowhere claims that the Apostle John is its author; indeed, we read simply: “I, John, your brother and companion in the suffering and kingdom and patient endurance that are ours in Jesus, was on the island of Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus” (Revelation 1: 9).
 - Based solely on the text, the best we can do is identify the author as “John of Patmos,” a rather ambiguous figure who appears nowhere else in Scripture.
- Eusebius quotes Dionysius, the bishop of Alexandria (c. 233-265)
 - Dionysius claims that “John of Patmos” could not be the Apostle John since John of Patmos mentions his own name in Revelation, but he never claims to be an apostle,
 - Dionysius notes that the rhetoric, language and style of Revelation differ markedly from John’s Gospel and the three epistles attributed to him (History, 7, 24.1 – 25.27).
- Many modern critics follow this line of thinking, arguing that the stylistic differences between the other writings attributed to John and Revelation are so radically different that the Apostle John and John of Patmos could not possibly be the same person.
 - The differences are undeniable, but few consider the possibility that the author deliberately employs such rhetorical and stylistic differences to address his apocalyptic content and audience.

- Paul does this frequently in his epistles: witness, for example, the dramatic rhetorical and stylistic variations between 1 & 2 Corinthians and Romans.

Date

The Book of Revelation was written sometime between A.D. 60 – 100, most likely during the persecution under Nero (A.D. 64 – 68) or the persecution under Domitian (A.D. 88 – 96)

- Written around 95-96 AD
 - Traditionally, the book of Revelation has been dated near the end of the first century, around A.D. 96.
 - Replacement theology claims that it was written around 70 AD because 90-95 AD does not fit with the narrative of replacement theology
- Clement of Alexandria

AD 90-96 (External Historians)

The evidence for this date is extremely strong.

External Evidence - The external evidence for the late dating of Revelation is of the highest quality. Upon the basis of external evidence, there is little contest between the earlier and later dates.

- Irenaeus
 - Irenaeus (A.D. 180), a student of Polycarp (who was a disciple of the apostle John), wrote that the apocalyptic vision “was seen not very long ago, almost in our own generation, at the close of the reign of Domitian” (Against Heresies 30).
 - The testimony of Irenaeus, not far removed from the apostolic age, is first rate. He places the book near the end of Domitian’s reign, and that ruler died in A.D. 96.
 - Irenaeus seems to be unaware of any other view for the date of the book of Revelation.
- Clement of Alexandria
 - Clement of Alexandria (A.D. 155-215) says that John returned from the isle of Patmos “after the tyrant was dead” (Who Is the Rich Man? 42)
 - Eusebius, known as the “Father of Church History” identifies the “tyrant” as Domitian (Ecclesiastical History III.23).
 - Even Moses Stuart, America’s most prominent preterist, admitted that the “tyrant here meant is probably Domitian.”
 - Within this narrative, Clement further speaks of John as an “old man.”
 - If Revelation was written prior to A.D. 70, it would scarcely seem appropriate to refer to John as an old man, since he would only have been in his early sixties at this time.
- Victorinus
 - Victorinus (late third century), author of the earliest commentary on the book of Revelation, wrote: When John said these things, he was in the island of Patmos, condemned to the mines by Caesar Domitian. There he saw the Apocalypse; and when at length grown old, he thought that he should receive his release by suffering; but Domitian being killed, he was liberated (Commentary on Revelation 10:11).
- Jerome
 - Jerome (A.D. 340-420) said, In the fourteenth then after Nero, Domitian having raised up a second persecution, he [John] was banished to the island of Patmos, and wrote the Apocalypse (Lives of Illustrious Men 9).
- Eusebius
 - To all of this may be added the comment of Eusebius, who contends that the historical tradition of his time (A.D. 324) placed the writing of the Apocalypse at the close of Domitian’s reign (III.18).

- McClintock and Strong
 - McClintock and Strong, in contending for the later date, declare that “there is no mention in any writer of the first three centuries of any other time or place” (1969, 1064).

Internal Evidence - The contents of the book of Revelation also suggest a late date, as the following observations indicate.

- The spiritual conditions of the churches described in Revelation chapters two and three more readily harmonize with the late date.
 - The church in Ephesus, for instance, was not founded by Paul until the latter part of Claudius’s reign: and when he wrote to them from Rome, A.D. 61, instead of reproving them for any want of love, he commends their love and faith (Eph. 1:15) (Horne 1841, 382). Yet, when Revelation was written, in spite of the fact that the Ephesians had been patient (2:2), they had also left their first love (v. 4), and this would seem to require a greater length of time than seven or eight years, as suggested by the early date.
- Another internal evidence of a late date is that this book was penned while John was banished to Patmos (1:9). It is well known that Domitian had a fondness for this type of persecution. If, however, this persecution is dated in the time of Nero, how does one account for the fact that Peter and Paul are murdered, yet John is only exiled to an island? (Eusebius III.18; II.25).
- Then consider this fact. The church at Laodicea is represented as existing under conditions of great wealth. She was rich and had need of nothing (3:17). In A.D. 60, though, Laodicea had been almost entirely destroyed by an earthquake. Surely it would have required more than eight or nine years for that city to have risen again to the state of affluence described in Revelation.
- The doctrinal departures described in Revelation would appear to better fit the later dating.
 - For example, the Nicolaitans (2:6, 15) were a full-fledged sect at the time of John’s writing, whereas they had only been hinted at in general terms in 2 Peter and Jude, which were written possibly around A.D. 65-66.
- Persecution for professing the Christian faith is evidenced in those early letters to the seven churches of Asia Minor.
 - For instance, Antipas had been killed in Pergamum (2:13). It is generally agreed among scholars, however, that Nero’s persecution was mostly confined to Rome; further, it was not for religious reasons (Harrison 1964, 446).

AD 70 (Preterist view)

- Preterist - from a Latin word meaning “that which is past”
 - The notion that all end-time prophecies were fulfilled with the fall of Jerusalem in A.D. 70
 - Contend that the Apocalypse was penned around A.D. 68 or 69, and thus the thrust of the book is supposed to relate to the impending destruction of Jerusalem (A.D. 70).
- A few prominent names have been associated with this position (e.g., Stuart, Schaff, Lightfoot, Foy E. Wallace Jr.), and for a brief time it was popular with certain scholars. James Orr has observed, however, that recent criticism has reverted to the traditional date of near A.D. 96 (1939, 2584).

In the absence of external evidence in support of an early date for Revelation, preterists generally rely on what they perceive as internal support for their view.

- Writing Style Differences
 - It is contended that the Gospel of John has a much smoother style of Greek than does the Apocalypse. Thus, the latter must have been written many years prior to the fourth Gospel—when the apostle was not so experienced in the literary employment of Greek.
 - In answer to this argument:

- R. H. Gundry: Archaeological discoveries and literary studies have recently demonstrated that along with Aramaic and Hebrew, Greek was commonly spoken among first century Palestinians. Thus John must have known and used Greek since his youth (1970, 365).
- B. B. Warfield contends that the Apocalypse betrays no lack of knowledge of, or command over, Greek syntax or vocabulary; the difference lies, rather, in the manner in which a language well in hand is used, in style, properly so called; and the solution of it must turn on psychological, not chronological, considerations (Schaff and Herzog 1891, 2036).
- R. H. Charles, author of the commentary on Revelation in the International Critical Commentary series, and perhaps the greatest expert on apocalyptic literature, regarded the so-called bad grammar as deliberate, for purposes of emphasis, and consistent with the citation of numerous Old Testament passages (Gundry, 365).
- It might be noted that in the 404 verses of Revelation, Westcott and Hort's Greek New Testament gives over five hundred references and allusions to the Old Testament.
- Finally, as McClintock and Strong point out: It may be admitted that the Revelation has many surprising grammatical peculiarities. But much of this is accounted for by the fact that it was probably written down, as it was seen, "in the Spirit," while the ideas, in all their novelty and vastness, filled the apostle's mind, and rendered him less capable of attending to forms of speech. His Gospel and Epistles, on the other hand, were composed equally under divine influence, but an influence of a gentler, more ordinary kind, with much care, after long deliberation, after frequent recollection and recital of the facts, and deep pondering of the doctrinal truths which they involve (1064).
- No Mention of Jerusalem's Destruction
 - It is claimed that Revelation must have been penned before A.D. 70 since it has no allusion to the destruction of Jerusalem; rather, it is alleged, it represents both the city and the temple as still standing.
 - In response we note the following points.
 - If John wrote this work near A.D. 96, there would be little need to focus upon the destruction of Jerusalem since the lessons of that catastrophe would have been well learned in the preceding quarter of a century.
 - However, it must be noted that some scholars see a veiled reference to Jerusalem's destruction in 11:8, where "the great city," in which the Savior was crucified (Jerusalem), is called Sodom—not merely because of wickedness, but due to the fact that it was a destroyed city of evil (Zahn 1973, 306).
 - The contention that the literal city and temple were still standing, based upon chapter eleven, ignores the express symbolic nature of the narrative. Salmon says that it is:

difficult to understand how anyone could have imagined that the vision represents the temple as still standing. For the whole scene is laid in heaven, and the temple that is measured is the heavenly temple (11:19; 15:5). We have only to compare this vision with the parallel vision of a measuring-reed seen by Ezekiel (ch. 40), in which the prophet is commanded to measure—surely not the city which it is stated had been demolished fourteen years previously, but the city of the future seen by the prophet in vision (1904, 238).
- Nero Associated with 666
 - Some argue for an early date of the Apocalypse by asserting that the enigmatic 666 (13:18) is a reference to Nero.
 - This is possible only by pursuing the most irresponsible form of exegesis.
 - To come up with such an interpretation one must:
 - add the title "Caesar" to Nero's name;
 - compute the letter-number arrangement on the basis of Hebrew, whereas the book was written in Greek; and
 - alter the spelling of "Caesar" by dropping the yodh in the Hebrew.
 - All of this reveals a truly desperate attempt to find a reference to Nero in the text.
 - Leon Morris has pointed out that Irenaeus discussed a number of possibilities for deciphering the 666, but he did not even include Nero in his list, let alone regard this as a likely conjecture (1980, 38).

- Noted critic Theodor Zahn observed that Nero was not even suggested as a possibility until the year 1831 (447).

In view of the foregoing evidence, a very strong case can be made for dating Revelation at about A.D. 96. Accordingly, the theory of realized eschatology, which is grounded upon the necessity of the Apocalypse having been written prior to A.D. 70, is shown to be without the necessary foundation for its successful defense, to say nothing of the scores of other scriptural difficulties that plague it.

Outline

Part One: What Was (Revelation, Chapter 1)

- Prologue (1: 1-3)
 - The revelation of Jesus Christ . . . to John, “unveiling” what must soon take place.
 - Audience is the general reader
 - The “unveiling” is by Jesus Christ
- Introduction (1: 4-8)
 - The message is addressed specifically to “the seven churches in the province of Asia.”
- The Commission (1: 9-20)
 - John is on the island of Patmos “because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.”
 - “One like a Son of Man” speaks to him (parallel figure to Daniel 7: 13-14 and 10: 4-6)
 - The commission is: “Write, therefore, what you have seen, what is now and what will take place later” (Revelation 1:19)

Part Two: What Is (Revelation, Chapters 2 & 3)

- The seven letters to the seven churches in Asia Minor
 - Ephesus (2: 1-7)
 - Smyrna (2: 8-11)
 - Pergamum (2: 12-17)
 - Thyatira (2: 18-29)
 - Sardis (3: 1-6)
 - Philadelphia (3: 7-13)
 - Laodicea (3: 14-22)

Part Three: What Will Be (Revelation, Chapters 4-22)

- Prologue, “The Throne in Heaven” (4: 1-11)
- Opening the Scroll (5: 1-14)
 - The Seven Seals
 1. White Horse, enforced peace (6: 1-2)
 2. Red Horse, war (6: 3-4)
 3. Black Horse, famine (6: 5-6)
 4. Pale Horse, sword, famine, plague and wild beasts (6: 7-8)
 5. Souls of the Slain (6: 9-11)
 6. Earthquake (6: 12-17)
 - Interlude (7: 1-17)
 - 144,000 Sealed (7: 1-8)
 - Great multitude in white robes praising God (7: 9-17)
 - The Seven Trumpets
 1. Hail and fire, mixed with blood (8: 6-7)
 2. Huge mountain, all ablaze (8: 8-9)
 3. Blazing star (8: 10-11)
 4. Sun, moon and stars turned dark (8: 12-13)

- 5. Star, fallen the earth (9: 1-12)
- 6. Four angels, released (9: 13-21)
 - Interlude (10:1-11:14)
 - Little scroll (10: 1-11)
 - Two witnesses (11: 1-14)
- 7. Temple in heaven, opened (11: 15-19)
- Flashback (back story of Revelation) (12: 1-17)
 - Woman clothed with the sun (12: 1-6)
 - War in heaven (12: 7-17)
- Setting the Stage for Armageddon (13: 1-14: 20)
 - The Enemy (13: 1-18)
 - Satan's grotesque parody of the Trinity (13: 1-18)
 - Dragon (Satan/God the Father) (13: 1a)
 - Beast 1 (Antichrist/God the Son) (13: 1b-10)
 - Beast 2 (False Prophet/God the Holy Spirit) (13: 11-18)
 - The Heroes (14: 1-20)
 - The Lamb and the 144,000 (14: 1-5)
 - The Three Angels (14: 6-13)
 - The Son of Man (14: 14-20)
 - The Seven Bowls (15: 1-16: 21)
 - Prologue (15: 1-16: 1)
 - 1. Ugly and painful sores (16: 2)
 - 2. Blood, like that of a dead man (16: 3)
 - 3. Rivers and springs of water turned to blood (16: 4-7)
 - 4. Sun, scorching people with fire (16: 8-9)
 - 5. Satan's kingdom plunged into darkness (16: 10-11)
 - 6. Euphrates River dried up (16: 12-16)
 - 7. Massive earthquake—"It is done!" (16: 17-21)
 - Profile: Rome, "The Whore of Babylon" (17: 1-18: 24)
- All Creation Praises God (19: 1-10)
- Armageddon! (19: 11-21)
- The Aftermath (20: 1-22: 21)
 - The Millennial Kingdom (20: 1-10)
 - The Last Judgment (20: 11-15)
 - The New Jerusalem (21: 1-22: 21)

Historical and cultural context within the Roman Empire

Persecution of the Church under Nero

- Nero 64-68
 - Set fire to Rome and blamed the Christians
 - Plot to bring together all the many factions against a common enemy
 - Wanted to clear a large part of Rome so he could build a new palace complex
 - Peter and Paul executed
- Persecution was limited to Rome

Both Suetonius and Cassius Dio point to Nero as the arsonist, who wanted to clear a large part of Rome so he could build a palace complex. To deflect blame, Tacitus writes that Nero blamed the fire on Rome's Christians:

Therefore, to put an end to the rumor Nero created a diversion and subjected to the most extra-ordinary tortures those hated for their abominations by the common people called Christians. The originator of this name [was] Christ, who, during the reign of Tiberius had been executed by sentence of the procurator Pontius Pilate.

Repressed for the time being, the deadly superstition broke out again not only in Judea, the original source of the evil, but also in the city [Rome], where all things horrible or shameful in the world collect and become popular. So an arrest was made of all who confessed; then on the basis of their information, an immense multitude was convicted, not so much of the crime of arson as for hatred of the human race.

Political instability within the Roman Empire

- Nero committed suicide when he heard that the Roman Senate declared him a public enemy and announced their intention to have him executed
- Following Nero's death, civil war erupted and four emperors reigned in quick succession:
 - Galba (8 months)
 - Otho (2 months)
 - Vitellius (8 months)
 - Vespasian (10 years)
 - The first three emperors were dispatched through murder or suicide within 2 years.
 - 5 (and possibly 6) of its 7 emperors are dispatched by murder or suicide
- 50 years see 8 emperors – 7 of the 8 met violent deaths
 - Claudius
 - Nero
 - Galba
 - Otho
 - Vitellius
 - Vespasian
 - Titus
 - Domitian
- Affects the economics, stock market, morale

The great Jewish revolt of A.D. 66-73

- 63 – Emperor Caligula pronounced himself a God and ordered a statue of him be put in all the Temples
 - The Jews refused
- 66 – War between Jews and Rome starts in Galilee
 - Nero had General Vespasian take care of the revolt
- Those that survived escaped to Jerusalem where civil war broke out between the Jews
 - Fanatical Zealots and Sicarii against the more moderate Sadducees and Pharisees
 - By 68, the entire Jerusalem leadership and their followers were dead, having been killed by their fellow Jews, and the Zealots held the temple complex, using it as a staging area for their war against Rome
- In 69, after Nero's death and the Roman civil war that kills 3 emperors quickly, Vespasian goes to Rome as Emperor
- Vespasian leaves his son Titus to conclude the war in Jerusalem
 - 70 – Jerusalem and the temple are destroyed and 1.2 million Jews are killed
- 73 – Jewish revolt concludes at Masada

Catastrophic eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in A.D. 79

- 79 – Vespasian dies and Titus becomes emperor
- Vesuvius erupts
 - Completely destroys Pompeii and kills everyone there
 - Blanketed a large part of the Roman Empire with volcanic ash – as far away as Constantinople
- While Titus is visiting Pompeii in 80, there is another great fire in Rome
 - In the wake of the fire, plague ravished Rome
 - Prompted widespread belief that the fire and plague — not to mention the eruption of Vesuvius — were punishments visited on Rome by the gods

Persecution of the Church under Domitian

- Titus dies in 81 and his brother Domitian becomes emperor
 - Titus was not liked by the Jews – Claim that Titus had sex with a whore on a Torah scroll inside the Temple while it burned, and that his death was caused by an insect flying up his nose and gnawing at his brain for seven years, growing to the size of a bird in the process
 - “I have made but one mistake”
 - Last words as Titus lay dying as recorded by Cassius Dio in his Roman History
 - Both Cassius Dio and Suetonius suggest that his mistake was allowing his brother Domitian to live, after having discovered that his brother was plotting against him.
 - In his Life of Apollonius of Tyana, Philostratus flatly accuses Domitian of murdering his brother by poisoning him with the flesh of a sea-hare, a culinary ingredient favored by Nero in dispatching his enemies (VI, 32)
- Domitian 81-96
 - Domitian believed the Roman Empire should be governed as a divine monarchy
 - Quickly dispensed with the republican form of government favored by his father and brother
 - Moved the center of government to the imperial court, rendering the Roman Senate impotent and expelling those senators whom he deemed troublesome
 - Proclaimed himself dominus et deus, (“Lord and God”)
 - Domitian tolerated foreign religions as long as they did not interfere with public order and could be assimilated into traditional Roman religion
 - Judaism and Christianity were not tolerated, as both rejected the Roman gods outright
 - Christianity proclaimed Jesus of Nazareth not only as divine, but as “King of kings” and “Lord of lords,” who would return to usher in a new kingdom, the Kingdom of God—a treasonous claim to Roman ears.
 - Roman senate passed Damnatio memoriae on Domitian
 - Latin phrase literally meaning "condemnation of memory," meaning that a person must not be remembered
 - Persecution was empire-wide
 - John exiled to the island of Patmos

The 2nd Jewish revolt (Bar-Kochba Revolt) of A.D. 132-136

Second Jewish Revolt, (AD 132–135), Jewish rebellion against Roman rule in Judaea. The revolt was preceded by years of clashes between Jews and Romans in the area. Finally, in AD 132, the misrule of Tinnius Rufus, the Roman governor of Judaea, combined with the emperor Hadrian’s intention to found a Roman colony on the site of Jerusalem and his restrictions on Jewish religious freedom and observances (which included a ban on the practice of male circumcision), roused the last remnants of the Jews to revolt.

A bitter struggle ensued. Bar Kokhba became the leader of this Second Jewish Revolt. Although at first successful, his forces proved no match against the methodical and ruthless tactics of the Roman general Julius Severus. The battle proved to be costly to both sides (although the Judeans suffered worse casualties with over 500,000 combatants killed, not counting many others). With the fall of Jerusalem and then Bethar (a fortress on the seacoast south of Caesarea where Bar Kokhba was slain), the rebellion was crushed in 135.

The Emperor Hadrian was so enraged by Jewish resistance that he re-named the province Syria Palaestina (after the two traditional enemies of the Jews, the Syrians and the Philistines) and banished all Jews from the region, building his city Aelia Capitolina on the ruins of Jerusalem. The Bar-Kochba Revolt was the last of the Jewish-Roman Wars and, afterwards, Rome held the region without further serious incident.

Genre of apocalyptic literature

To understand Revelation we must understand its historical and cultural context, for Revelation—like any other literary work—mirrors the time and place from which it emerged.

But we must understand, as well, that Revelation did not suddenly appear at the end of the 1st century A.D. in a literary vacuum; it is one of many works within the genre of apocalyptic literature, works that date all the way back to the 7th century B.C., such as portions of Isaiah, Ezekiel, Joel and Zachariah; Scriptural works from the 3rd century B.C. through A.D. 70, such as Daniel, portions of 1 & 2 Thessalonians, Matthew 24 (the Olivet Discourse), 2 Peter and Jude. The apocalyptic genre also includes many extra-biblical texts, such as the Sibylline Oracles (books 3, 4 and 5); the Dead Sea “War Scroll”; 1, 2 and 4 Enoch; 4 Ezra; 2 Baruch; and the 2nd Century Apocalypse of Peter and The Shepherd of Hermes.

And, of course, we must also understand the structural and the stylistic devices our author uses to bring his apocalyptic vision to life, blazing with color, tone and texture.

Finally, if we are to engage Revelation as educated readers of Scripture, we must also understand the message our author intends to convey. It is an urgent one. Revelation ends with Jesus’ assurance: “Yes, I am coming soon” and John’s response, “Amen. Come, Lord Jesus” (Revelation 22: 20). And John expected to see it.

Revelation mirrors the time and culture from which it emerges, and it does not emerge in isolation as a unique work. It is one of many in a long line of apocalyptic visions that stretch back as far as the canonical books of Isaiah, Ezekiel, Joel and Zechariah; the visions develop in Matthew 24 (and its parallels in Mark 13 and Luke 21), 1 & 2 Thessalonians and Jude; and they reach their climax in Revelation. Many non-canonical works reflect the genre, as well: the Sibylline Oracles, Books 4 & 5; The Apocalypse of Peter and The Shepherd of Hermes, just to name a few.

Characteristics of the Apocalyptic Genre:

- Contains dreams or visions
- Symbolic and mysterious revelation requiring interpretation of a heavenly being
- Concerned with the future and especially an eschatological judgement
- Marked distinction between the physical and spiritual worlds

Concept of Time

- Judaism
 - Beginning (Genesis 1: 1, “in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth”)
 - Middle (the growth and development of Israel as a covenant community under God)
 - End (the advent of the Kingdom)
- Christianity – Inherits the linear view of time
 - Beginning (Genesis through Malachi)
 - Middle (Gospels and Epistles)
 - End (Revelation, the fullness of the Kingdom of God, ushered in by the return of Christ and the final judgment)
- A linear worldview creates an imperative to define meaning
- If history is linear in nature, it is moving toward a goal

- What is that goal?
 - And what is our role in it?
- The genre of apocalyptic literature offers a vision of that goal, an unfolding of God’s plan and the final steps toward history’s fulfillment

Prophecy shifts focus - apocalyptic refocusing

- The message the prophet speaks most often concerns events within his own historical time
- 200 BC – 200 AD – Prophecy begins to shift focus from:
 - Current events to future events
 - Current catastrophe to a coming Kingdom, one in which God will fulfill the linear course of history, ushering in the “Kingdom of God”
 - Largely as a result of the Babylonian captivity (586 – 539 B.C.)
 - The development of this apocalyptic refocusing spans roughly 200 B.C. - A.D. 200, with precursors as early as the 7th – 4th centuries B.C.
- As the apocalyptic genre develops, it moves from:
 - General to specific
 - From its own historical context to a time in the near future.
- We have concrete examples of this movement in the New Testament.
 - Jesus was, first and foremost, a radical prophet living on the bleeding edge of the apocalyptic vision. In the Olivet Discourse (Matthew 24:29-30) he speaks prophetically of events soon to come:

²⁹"Immediately after the distress of those days
 " 'the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light;
 the stars will fall from the sky,
 and the heavenly bodies will be shaken.'

³⁰"At that time the sign of the Son of Man will appear in the sky, and all the nations of the earth will mourn. They will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of the sky, with power and great glory.

- Of course, Jesus’ disciples want to know when all these things will happen. Answering, Jesus states flatly that “this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place. Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away” (24:34-35)
- Stunned, his disciples ask for a specific time, but Jesus deflects the question, cautiously replying: “Of that day and hour no one knows, neither the angels of heaven, nor the Son, but the Father alone” (24:36)
- He does warn his disciples, however, to “be prepared, for at an hour you do not expect, the Son of Man will come” (24:44)

Prophet	Context
Major prophets
Isaiah	Period:	740 – 686 B.C. (set in Judah)

Structural and stylistic devices

- In the book of Revelation John crafts an intricately structured, tightly woven apocalyptic vision, with:
 - the death throes of “the old order of things” (Revelation 21:4)
 - the triumphant return of Christ
 - the climactic battle between good and evil
 - the Last Judgment
 - the birth of “a new heaven and new earth, where righteousness dwells” (2Peter 3:13)

21 symbols used in the book of Revelation

- 1:12 7 Lampstands = 7 Churches
- 1:16 7 Stars = 7 Angels of the 7 churches

3. 1:16 Two-edged sword = Word of commendation & condemnation from Jesus to the 7 churches

God's redemptive story comes full circle

Genesis	Revelation
God lives with his people (Ge 1 / Rev 21)
We start out where we belong – Garden of Eden (Ge 1 & 2)	We are brought back to where we belong – New Heaven and New Earth (Rev 21)
Sin enters the world and takes us to where we don't belong (3)	Christ brings us back to where we do belong (Gospels)
Satan kills man (3:1)	Satan punished (20:10)
Rebellion begins (3:6)	Rebellion ends (21:27)
Earth cursed (3:17)	Curse removed (22:3)
Tears shed (27:34)	Tear wiped away (21:4)
Paradise lost (3:22-24)	Paradise regained (22:2)
God lives with his people (Ge 1 / Rev 21)

- U-Shape narrative
 - The entire Bible, viewed as a "divine comedy," is contained within a U-shaped story of this sort, one in which man, as explained, loses the tree and water of life at the beginning of Genesis and gets them back at the end of Revelation. (The Great Code, Northrop Frye)

- The Bible—in its final, finished form—is a unified literary work
 - The Bible—in its final, finished form, in the Christian canon—is a unified literary work
 - Linear narrative:
 - Genesis – Curtain goes up
 - Main character – God
 - Conflict – Sin
 - Theme – Redemption
 - Revelation – Curtain comes down
 - Written over 1500 years by many different authors, then goes through the hands of many different scribes, editors and redactors
 - We are going to look at the scriptures as a 2000 page novel with 66 chapters as opposed to an loose anthology of 66 books

Narrative framework of 3s and 7s

John builds his narrative on a framework of 3s and 7s – Prime numbers, complete and indivisible.

Part One: What Was (Rev 1)

1. Prologue (1:1-3) – The revelation of Jesus Christ . . . to John, “unveiling” what must soon take place
2. Introduction (1:4-8) – The message is addressed specifically to “the 7 churches in the province of Asia”
3. The Commission (1:9-20)

Part Two: What Is (Rev 2-3) - The seven letters to the seven churches in Asia Minor

1. Ephesus (2:1-7)
2. Smyrna (2:8-11)
3. Pergamum (2:12-17)
4. Thyatira (2:18-29)
5. Sardis (3:1-6)
6. Philadelphia (3:7-13)
7. Laodicea (3:14-22)

Part Three: What is to come (Rev 4-22)

1. 7 Seals (6-8:5)
2. 7 Trumpets (8:6-11)
 - Interlude
 1. The woman clothed with the sun (12:1-12:6)
 2. The war in Heaven (12:7-12:17)
 3. Preparing for Armageddon (13-14)
3. 7 Bowls (15-16)
 - Profile: Rome, the “whore of Babylon” (17-18)
1. All creation praises God (19:1-10)
2. Armageddon (19:11-21)
3. The aftermath (20-22)
 1. Millennial kingdom (20:1-20:10)
 2. Last judgement (20:11-20:15)
 3. New Jerusalem (21-22)

The message of Revelation

Its message, as our author intended it, for his audience. Like all prophecy, the Book of Revelation speaks first and foremost into its own historical context, through the conventions of its own literary genre.

Revelation’s context is the tumultuous time of the Roman Empire in the 2nd half of the 1st century, and Revelation is a masterpiece of the era’s apocalyptic genre.

For those living at the time, history seemed to be careening toward a cliff:

- Jewish prophet like Ezekiel, Zechariah, Daniel or Jesus witnessing the catastrophic events of their day
- Roman historian like Pliny the Younger witnessing the eruption of Vesuvius

It seemed clear that God—or the gods—was bringing history to a close through a series of great calamities. For Christians that meant the return of Christ and the advent of the Kingdom of Heaven, of God redeeming all creation. Indeed, Revelation ends with Jesus’ assurance: “Yes, I am coming soon” and John’s response, “Amen. Come, Lord Jesus” (Revelation 22: 20). And John expected to see it.

When the 1st century passes into the 2nd, the 2nd into the 3rd and the 3rd into the 4th, the imminent advent of the Kingdom fades into the past. By the 4th century the apocalyptic genre seemed anachronistic, a remnant of less sophisticated times. In A.D. 313 Constantine signed the Edict of Milan, officially tolerating Christianity in the Roman Empire, and on February 27, 380 Theodosius I declared Christianity the official religion of the Roman Empire. In A.D. 325 the Council of Nicea ended the Arian controversy by declaring Christ consubstantial with God the Father, laying the groundwork for the doctrine of the Trinity. Nicea marked the first of seven Ecumenical Councils—A.D. 325 – 787—that sought to form a consensus that would unify Christendom throughout the Empire, and that consensus was achieved—to a degree—by referring to the authority of inspired Scripture. These rough-and-tumble years saw the Church grow in wealth, power and influence; the Bishop of Rome supplant the Roman emperors; and Christian belief permeate the very fabric of society. By the 8th century the Church itself appears to have emerged as the Kingdom of God on earth.

Revelation = Apocalypse = Unveiling

ἀποκάλυψις [ah-po-kah'-lip-ses]

- Greek word apokalupsis
 - Literally means “unveiling, to take off the cover, to make naked”
 - Most translations render it “revelation”
 - Is 46:10 I make known the end from the beginning, from ancient times, what is still to come. I say: My purpose will stand, and I will do all that I please.
- That is key to the genre.
 - A “revelation” is the “unveiling” of a subject previously hidden, things that could not be known apart from the “unveiling.”
 - Typically, such an unveiling reveals a vision of the “end times,” most often provided by a messenger or “angel” sent from God.
- The book of Revelation is the unveiling of Jesus Christ
 - Revelation – not revelations
 - Revelation unveils Jesus’ relationship to the church, to judgement, and to the things to come in the future
- Daniel
 - Dan 12:9 He replied, "Go your way, Daniel, because the words are closed up and sealed until the time of the end. 10 Many will be purified, made spotless and refined, but the wicked will continue to be wicked. None of the wicked will understand, but those who are wise will understand.
 - Daniel did not understand – The truth will be unveiled at the time of the end
 - The wise – who are looking at the prophetic Word – it will be unveiled to them
 - They will be able to connect the dots – they will get it
 - If you look at prophecy literally, it all makes sense – everything that’s happening now
- We live in a generation in which Daniel’s and John’s visions make sense
 - Technology – Rev 13,
 - Dan 12:4 But you, Daniel, close up and seal the words of the scroll until the time of the end. Many will go here and there to increase knowledge."
 - Rev 13:16 He also forced everyone, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on his right hand or on his forehead, 17 so that no one could buy or sell unless he had the mark, which is the name of the beast or the number of his name.
 - Wars and rumors of wars – Rev 6
 - Lk 21:10 Then he said to them: "Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.

At the time of the end, the cover will come off, the truth will be revealed, and the wise will understand

Blessings promised in Revelation

- Rev 1 ³ Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written in it; for the time is near.
- Rev 14 ¹³ Then I heard a voice from heaven saying to me, “Write: ‘Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on.’ ”
- Rev 16 ¹⁵ “Behold, I am coming as a thief. Blessed is he who watches, and keeps his garments, lest he walk naked and they see his shame.”
- Rev 19 ⁹ Then he said to me, “Write: ‘Blessed are those who are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb!’ ” And he said to me, “These are the true sayings of God.”
- Rev 20 ⁶ Blessed and holy is he who has part in the first resurrection. Over such the second death has no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years.
- Rev 22 ⁷ “Behold, I am coming quickly! Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”
- Rev 22 ¹⁴ Blessed are those who do His commandments, that they may have the right to the tree of life, and may enter through the gates into the city.

Exodus	Revelation
Plague #1 – Water becomes blood
Ex 7:19 Then the Lord spoke to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Take your rod and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, over their ponds, and over all their pools of water, that they may become blood. And there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in buckets of wood and pitchers of stone.’ ” 20 And Moses and Aaron did so, just as the Lord commanded. So he lifted up the rod and struck the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants. And all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood. 21 The fish that were in the river died, the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink the water of the river. So there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt. Ps 105:29 He turned their waters into blood, And killed their fish.	Rev 8:8 Then the second angel sounded: And something like a great mountain burning with fire was thrown into the sea, and a third of the sea became blood. 9 And a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed. Rev 11:6 These have power to shut heaven, so that no rain falls in the days of their prophecy; and they have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues, as often as they desire. Rev 16:3 Then the second angel poured out his bowl on the sea, and it became blood as of a dead man; and every living creature in the sea died. 4 Then the third angel poured out his bowl on the rivers and springs of water, and they became blood. 5 And I heard the angel of the waters saying: “You are righteous, O Lord, The One who is and who was and who is to be, Because You have judged these things. 6 For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, And You have given them blood to drink. For it is their just due.” 7 And I heard another from the altar saying, “Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are Your judgments.”
Plague #2 – Frogs
Ex 8:5 Then the Lord spoke to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Stretch out your hand with your rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up on the land of Egypt.’ ” 6 So Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. Ps 105:30 Their land abounded with frogs, Even in the chambers of their kings.	Rev 16:12 Then the sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up, so that the way of the kings from the east might be prepared. 13 And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs coming out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. 14 For they are spirits of demons, performing signs, which go out to the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty. (Though not an infestation of frogs, this is undoubtedly a plague like the frogs in Egypt)
Plague #3 – Lice
Ex 8:16 So the Lord said to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Stretch out your rod, and strike the dust of the land, so that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt.’ ” 17 And they did so. For Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod and struck the dust of the earth, and it became lice on man and beast. All the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.	Rev 11:3 And I will give power to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy one thousand two hundred and sixty days, clothed in sackcloth.” 4 These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands standing before the God of the earth. 5 And if anyone wants to harm them, fire proceeds from their mouth and devours their enemies. And if anyone wants to harm them, he must be killed in this manner. 6 These have power to shut heaven, so that no

Ps 105:31 He spoke, and there came swarms of flies, And lice in all their territory.	rain falls in the days of their prophecy; and they have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues, as often as they desire. (Though lice are not mentioned specifically, they could be among the plagues brought by the two witnesses.)
Plague #4 – Flies
Ex 8:20 And the Lord said to Moses, “Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh as he comes out to the water. Then say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord: “Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 21 Or else, if you will not let My people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies on you and your servants, on your people and into your houses. The houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground on which they stand. 22 And in that day I will set apart the land of Goshen, in which My people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there, in order that you may know that I am the Lord in the midst of the land. 23 I will make a difference between My people and your people. Tomorrow this sign shall be.” ’ ” 24 And the Lord did so. Thick swarms of flies came into the house of Pharaoh, into his servants’ houses, and into all the land of Egypt. The land was corrupted because of the swarms of flies. Ps 105:31 He spoke, and there came swarms of flies, And lice in all their territory.	Rev 11:3 And I will give power to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy one thousand two hundred and sixty days, clothed in sackcloth.” 4 These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands standing before the God of the earth. 5 And if anyone wants to harm them, fire proceeds from their mouth and devours their enemies. And if anyone wants to harm them, he must be killed in this manner. 6 These have power to shut heaven, so that no rain falls in the days of their prophecy; and they have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues, as often as they desire. (As with the lice, flies are not specifically mentioned, but it’s believed that they may be among the plagues as well.)
Plague #5 – Food source (livestock) destroyed
Ex 9:2 For if you refuse to let them go, and still hold them, 3 behold, the hand of the Lord will be on your cattle in the field, on the horses, on the donkeys, on the camels, on the oxen, and on the sheep—a very severe pestilence. 4 And the Lord will make a difference between the livestock of Israel and the livestock of Egypt. So nothing shall die of all that belongs to the children of Israel.” ’ ” 5 Then the Lord appointed a set time, saying, “Tomorrow the Lord will do this thing in the land.” 6 So the Lord did this thing on the next day, and all the livestock of Egypt died; but of the livestock of the children of Israel, not one died.	Rev 8:9 And a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed. (Though not a direct correlation, there is a similarity in that the food source of God’s enemies is destroyed.)
Plague #6 – Boils
Ex 9:8 So the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, “Take for yourselves handfuls of ashes from a furnace, and let Moses scatter it toward the heavens in the sight of Pharaoh. 9 And it will become fine dust in all the land of Egypt, and it will cause boils that break out in sores on man and beast throughout all the land of Egypt.” 10 Then	Rev 16:1 Then I heard a loud voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, “Go and pour out the bowls of the wrath of God on the earth.” 2 So the first went and poured out his bowl upon the earth, and a foul and loathsome sore came upon the men who had the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image.

they took ashes from the furnace and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them toward heaven. And they caused boils that break out in sores on man and beast.
Plague #7 – Hail
Ex 9:22 Then the Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt—on man, on beast, and on every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt.” 23 And Moses stretched out his rod toward heaven; and the Lord sent thunder and hail, and fire darted to the ground. And the Lord rained hail on the land of Egypt. 24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, so very heavy that there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. 25 And the hail struck throughout the whole land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail struck every herb of the field and broke every tree of the field. 26 Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, there was no hail. Ps 105:32 He gave them hail for rain, And flaming fire in their land.	Rev 8:7 The first angel sounded: And hail and fire followed, mingled with blood, and they were thrown to the earth. And a third of the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up. Rev 16:21 And great hail from heaven fell upon men, each hailstone about the weight of a talent. Men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, since that plague was exceedingly great.
Plague #8 – Locusts
Ex 10:12 Then the Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land—all that the hail has left.” 13 So Moses stretched out his rod over the land of Egypt, and the Lord brought an east wind on the land all that day and all that night. When it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts. 14 And the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt and rested on all the territory of Egypt. They were very severe; previously there had been no such locusts as they, nor shall there be such after them. 15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they ate every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. So there remained nothing green on the trees or on the plants of the field throughout all the land of Egypt. Ps 105:34 He spoke, and locusts came, Young locusts without number, 35 And ate up all the vegetation in their land, And devoured the fruit of their ground.	Rev 9:1 Then the fifth angel sounded: And I saw a star fallen from heaven to the earth. To him was given the key to the bottomless pit. 2 And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke arose out of the pit like the smoke of a great furnace. So the sun and the air were darkened because of the smoke of the pit. 3 Then out of the smoke locusts came upon the earth. And to them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. 4 They were commanded not to harm the grass of the earth, or any green thing, or any tree, but only those men who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. 5 And they were not given authority to kill them, but to torment them for five months. Their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it strikes a man. 6 In those days men will seek death and will not find it; they will desire to die, and death will flee from them.
Plague #9 – Darkness

Ex 10:21 Then the Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, darkness which may even be felt.” 22 So Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and there was thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days. 23 They did not see one another; nor did anyone rise from his place for three days. But all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings. Ps 105:28 He sent darkness, and made it dark; And they did not rebel against His word.	Rev 8:12 Then the fourth angel sounded: And a third of the sun was struck, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of them were darkened. A third of the day did not shine, and likewise the night. Rev 9:1 Then the fifth angel sounded: And I saw a star fallen from heaven to the earth. To him was given the key to the bottomless pit. 2 And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke arose out of the pit like the smoke of a great furnace. So the sun and the air were darkened because of the smoke of the pit. 3 Then out of the smoke locusts came upon the earth. Rev 16:10 Then the fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, and his kingdom became full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues because of the pain. 11 They blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and did not repent of their deeds.

How do you understand Revelation?

- Use the plain meaning of terms where possible – The golden rule of interpretation
 - If the plain sense makes sense, look for no other sense, lest you end up with nonsense.
- Use the rest of the Bible – and Revelation itself – as context
- Look at the obvious
- Apply common sense

Why is the book of Revelation necessary?

- We learn that Christ really will come again
 - It pulls into focus an understanding of how Christ will fulfill the Old Testament prophecies that He did not fulfill in His 1st coming
 - Isaiah portrays 2 different pictures of the Messiah – Christ as the lamb (crucified) and Christ as the lion (conqueror) – how do they work together? Now we know – Jesus came the 1st time and was crucified and is coming back as the conqueror. Revelation helps us to connect the dots.
- Luke 4:16 He went to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and on the Sabbath day he went into the synagogue, as was his custom. And he stood up to read. 17 The scroll of the prophet Isaiah was handed to him. Unrolling it, he found the place where it is written:

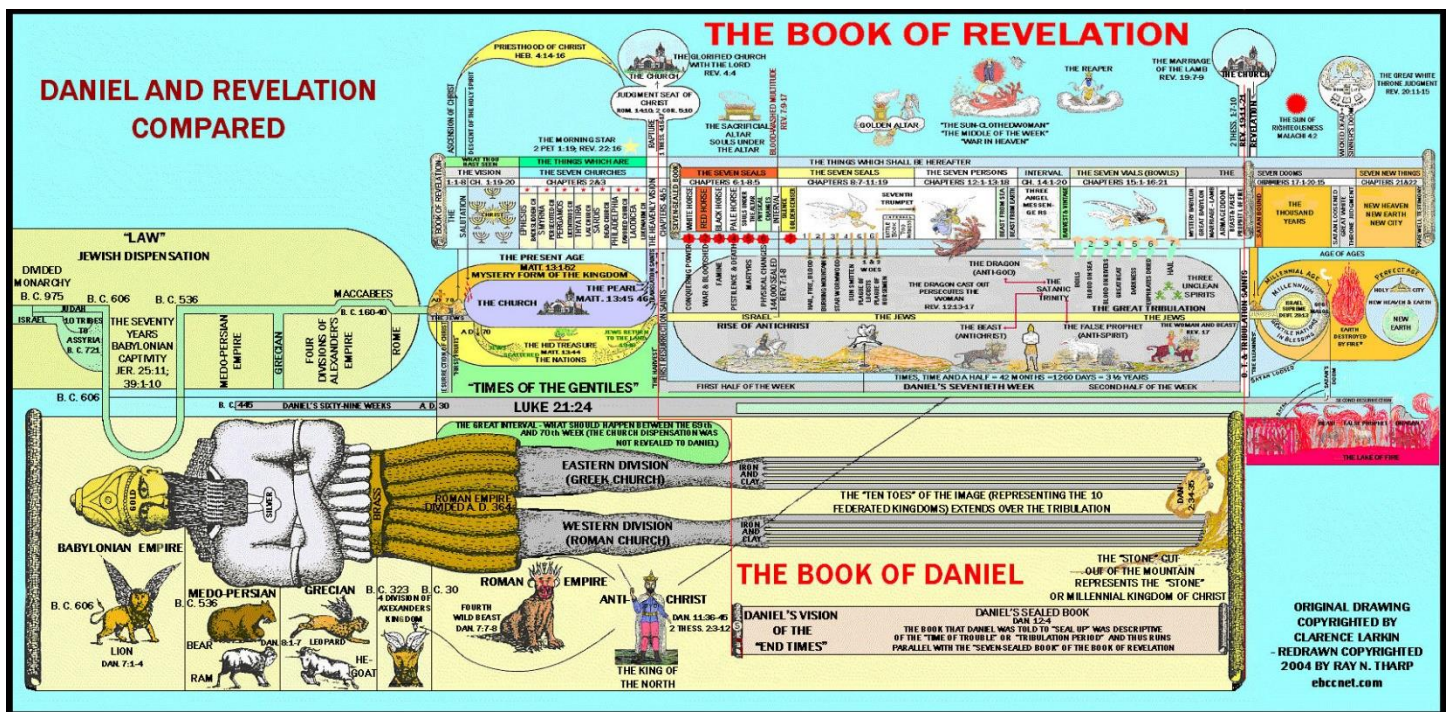

18 "The Spirit of the Lord is on me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim freedom for the prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind, to release the oppressed, 19 to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor."

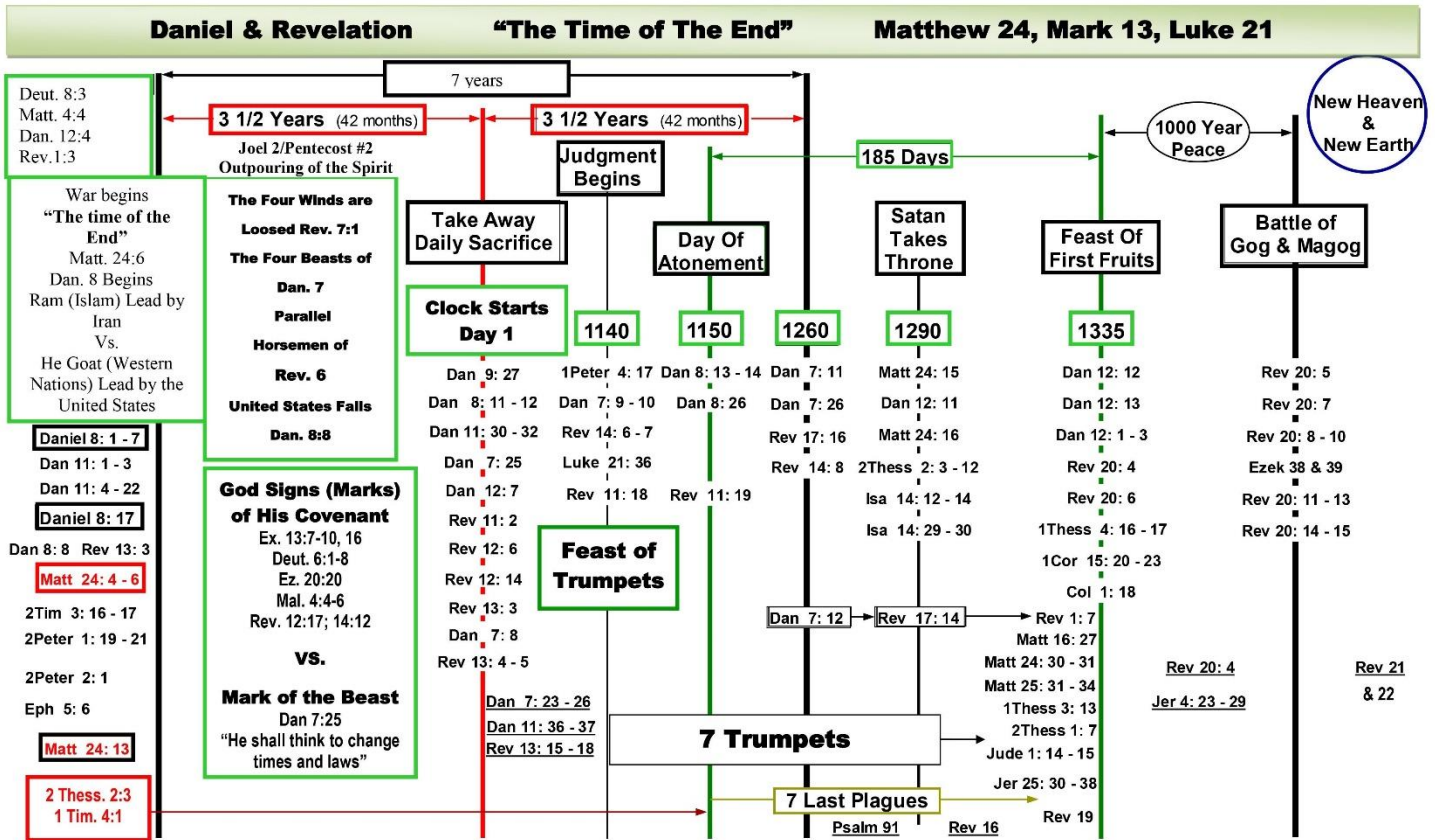

20 Then he rolled up the scroll, gave it back to the attendant and sat down. The eyes of everyone in the synagogue were fastened on him, 21 and he began by saying to them, "Today this scripture is fulfilled in your hearing."
- Is 61:1 The Spirit of the Sovereign Lord is on me, because the Lord has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim freedom for the captives and release from darkness for the prisoners, 2 to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor and the day of vengeance of our God, to comfort all who mourn,

- Jesus stops reading part way through because He was there as the suffering servant, not yet as the conqueror.
- Revelation is necessary in the same way that Genesis is necessary
 - We need to know how it all began and we need to know how it will all end – or rather how it will continue into eternity
- It demonstrates the magnificence of Jesus like no other writing
 - Revelation – from beginning to end – is a call for holy living and full-on commitment to Christ
 - This book is all about Jesus

Daniel and Revelation

What Was – Introduction to Revelation (Revelation 1-2:7)

Revelation is the easiest book in the Bible to read and to teach—providing you have read all the books in the Bible that precede it! We noted at the very start of our study together that the Bible—in its final, finished form—is a unified literary work: the curtain rises in Genesis and it falls in Revelation. In between we have a linear narrative: God is the main character; sin is the conflict; redemption is the theme. Thus, reading Revelation is like reading the final chapter in a 2,000-page novel. How could one expect to understand the final chapter without having read the chapters that precede it? Obviously, one could not.

Just so in the book of Revelation. In Revelation ten great biblical themes merge, like ten great trunk lines coming together in Grand Central Station. Nearly all the extravagant imagery and events we witness in Revelation is introduced earlier in such books as Ezekiel, Daniel, Zechariah, Matthew, 1 & 2 Thessalonians, and 2 Peter.

Introduction and Benediction

1 The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave Him to show His servants—things which must shortly take place. And He sent and signified it by His angel to His servant John, ² who bore witness to the word of God, and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, to all things that he saw. ³ Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written in it; for the time is near.

Greeting the Seven Churches

⁴ John, to the seven churches which are in Asia:

Grace to you and peace from Him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven Spirits who are before His throne, ⁵ and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler over the kings of the earth.

To Him who loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood, ⁶ and has made us kings and priests to His God and Father, to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

⁷ Behold, He is coming with clouds, and every eye will see Him, even they who pierced Him. And all the tribes of the earth will mourn because of Him. Even so, Amen.

⁸ “I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End,” says the Lord, “who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty.”

Vision of the Son of Man

⁹ I, John, both your brother and companion in the tribulation and kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was on the island that is called Patmos for the word of God and for the testimony of Jesus Christ. ¹⁰ I was in the Spirit on the Lord’s Day, and I heard behind me a loud voice, as of a trumpet, ¹¹ saying, “I am the Alpha and the Omega, the First and the Last,” and, “What you see, write in a book and send it to the seven churches which are in Asia: to Ephesus, to Smyrna, to Pergamos, to Thyatira, to Sardis, to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea.”

¹² Then I turned to see the voice that spoke with me. And having turned I saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³ and in the midst of the seven lampstands One like the Son of Man, clothed with a garment down to the feet and girded about the chest with a golden band. ¹⁴ His head and hair were white like wool, as white as snow, and His eyes like a flame of fire; ¹⁵ His feet were like fine brass, as if refined in a furnace, and His voice as the sound of many waters; ¹⁶ He had in His right hand seven stars, out of His mouth went a sharp two-edged sword, and His countenance was like the sun shining in its strength. ¹⁷ And when I saw Him, I fell at His feet as dead. But He laid His right hand on me, saying to me, “Do not be afraid; I am the First and the Last. ¹⁸ I am He who lives, and was dead, and behold, I am alive forevermore. Amen. And I have the keys of Hades and of Death. ¹⁹ Write the things which you have seen, and the things which are, and the things which will take place after this. ²⁰ The mystery of the seven stars which you saw in My right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands which you saw are the seven churches.

In this lesson we lay out a method for reading Revelation, and we get our foot in the door in Chapter 1.

When the risen and glorified Christ says to John, “Write down, therefore, what you have seen, and what is happening, and what will happen afterwards” (1:19), he lays out the basic 3-part structure of Revelation:

- 1) what was (past) (1) – Age of the Gentiles (Creation to the Cross)
- 2) what is (present) (2-3) – Church Age (Pentecost to Rapture)
- 3) what will be (future) (4-22) – Age to Come, Tribulation and Millennium (Future)

Part One: What Was (Revelation, Chapter 1)

- Prologue (1: 1-3)
 - The revelation of Jesus Christ . . . to John, “unveiling” what must soon take place.
 - Audience is the general reader
 - The “unveiling” is by Jesus Christ
- Introduction (1: 4-8)
 - The message is addressed specifically to “the seven churches in the province of Asia.”
- The Commission (1: 9-20)
 - John is on the island of Patmos “because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.”
 - “One like a Son of Man” speaks to him (parallel figure to Daniel 7: 13-14 and 10: 4-6)
 - The commission is: “Write, therefore, what you have seen, what is now and what will take place later” (Revelation 1:19)
- Sets of 3
 - The Prologue consists of 3 verses
 - The 3-verse Prologue addresses John’s general audience, telling us that what we are about to read is a “revelation” (apokalepsis, “unveiling”) of events that “must soon take place,” an “unveiling” by Jesus Christ himself, as it was revealed to him by God.
 - The message involves 3 persons
 - Notice that the message is:
 - 1) from God
 - 2) through Christ
 - 3) to the reader
 - The benediction elicits a 3-part response
 - John concludes his 3-verse Prologue with a 3-part benediction: “Blessed is the one who
 - 1) reads the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who
 - 2) hear it and
 - 3) take it to heart,” noting that “the time is near”

Prologue (1:1-3)

1 The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave him to show his servants what must soon take place.

- Purpose of the book

- Rev 1:1 ... to show his servants what must soon take place
 - Originated with God → who gave it to His Son (Jesus) for us (His servants) → so that we (His people) would be prepared for the events that would happen very soon.
- To give encouragement and hope for all Christians to continue watching for the return and triumph of the Lord Jesus Christ
- It also is to warn of the Final Judgment that nonbelievers will endure on that Last Day.
- John testifies to the supernatural origin of the book
 - 2 who testifies to everything he saw—that is, the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ.
- Revelation reveals the majestic and glorified person of Christ
 - The gospels revealed Jesus' purpose

- Revelation

- Greek word ἀποκάλυψις [apokalypsis, ah-po-kah'-lip-ses]
- Translated literally as “to make naked” or “to unveil”
 - Most translations render it “revelation”
 - A “revelation” is the “unveiling” of a subject previously unknown or hidden – things that could not be known apart from the “unveiling.”
 - The book of Revelation is not meant to be mysterious, cryptic, or confusing. It's meant to be a clear revealing of what must soon take place.

- Servant

- Greek word δούλος [doúlos]
 - Someone who is utterly, totally, completely, with every fiber of their being, devoted to another person
 - doúlos (a masculine noun of uncertain derivation) – Someone who belongs to another; a bond-slave, without any ownership rights of their own
 - A bond-slave became a slave of their own volition – it is by their own choice because of their love of their master
 - Doesn't carry the pejorative sense of a slave that we have in English
 - The servant often acted as an agent of his master – representing his authority and doing his will
- Title of honor
 - Ironically, doúlos ("bond-slave") is used with the highest dignity in the NT
 - Namely, of believers who willingly live under Christ's authority as His devoted followers.
 - Before God can set us apart, and send us out to further the Gospel, we must first, because of our love for Him, become a slave for life.
- Used 14 times in the book of Revelation

- Soon take place, shortly

- Greek word τάχει [tachei, ta'-khos] – literally means “must come to pass with rapidity”
 - Emphasis is on immediacy
- Same Greek word that we get the word ‘tachometer’ – an instrument used to determine the speed of an engine
- 1Th 5:3 While people are saying, "Peace and safety," destruction will come on them suddenly, as labor pains on a pregnant woman, and they will not escape.
 - Increase in frequency and intensity – especially at the end
- When it gets started, it will happen super fast
 - Like driving – when you are far away, the signs are distant. But as you get closer, the signs appear faster and faster and faster until you arrive
 - LA 500 miles, LA 300 m, LA 150 m, LA 50 m, LA 40 m, LA 30 m, LA 20 m, LA 15 m
LA 10 m, LA 8 m, LA 6 m, LA 5 m, LA 4 m, LA 3 m, LA 2 m, LA 1 m, LA ½ m, LA ¼ m

He made it known by sending his angel to his servant John, 2 who testifies to everything he saw—that is, the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ.

- Made it known
 - Greek word ἐσήμανεν [esēmanen] – literally means with ‘signs or symbols’
 - There will be many signs and symbols in Revelation. It conveys the teaching that there are signs that signify the return of Jesus.
 - Mt 24:3 As Jesus was sitting on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately. "Tell us," they said, "when will this happen, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the end of the age?"
 - Jesus then gave them many signs
 - We are told to watch for these signs
 - Mk 13:33 Be on guard! Be alert! You do not know when that time will come. ... 37 What I say to you, I say to everyone: 'Watch!'
 - Lk 21:36 Be always on the watch, and pray that you may be able to escape all that is about to happen, and that you may be able to stand before the Son of Man.
 - Mt 24:44 So you also must be ready, because the Son of Man will come at an hour when you do not expect him.
 - Revelation was not given to us so it would be misunderstood
 - The idea that it is confusing is Satanic – Satan does not want you to know the end of the story
- Angel
 - Greek word ἀγγέλου [angelou, an'-gel-os]
 - Jesus conveyed the message to John through his “angel” – Literally means a “messenger”
 - We’ll actually see this angel face-to-face in Rev 10:9 and 22:1
- John
 - John was the last disciple of Jesus that remained alive. He was the only disciple that was not martyred for Jesus
 - John wrote Revelation while a prisoner on the Island of Patmos, approximately 85-95 A.D.
 - John was elderly and imprisoned on the Island of Patmos when he received an apocalyptic vision from an angel.
 - He received visions and had to write – based on his own knowledge-base and understanding – about things that were to happen thousands of years later.
 - John face martyrdom when he was boiled in a huge basin of boiling oil during a wave of persecution in Rome. However, he was miraculously delivered from death. John was then sentenced of the mines on the prison island of Patmos. He wrote his prophetic book of Revelation on Patmos. John was later freed and returned to serve as Bishop of Adicia in modern Turkey. He died as an old man – the only apostle to die peacefully.
 - John testifies to the supernatural origin of the book – He confirms that the author is Jesus

3 Blessed is the one who reads the words of this prophecy and blessed are those who hear it and take to heart what is written in it, because the time is near.

- Prophecy
 - The “prophetic message” – Literally “words of the prophecy”
 - Like an epistle addressed to a group of people, is meant to be read aloud to the audience by a lector
 - So John says “Blessed is the one who reads aloud and blessed are those who listen” acknowledging the means by which the “revelation” will be delivered
- Blessings to those that read and believe
 - Means the “fullness of blessing”
 - This book opens and closes with a blessing to those that read, take to heart and keep the words written here
 - Also closes with a threat

- Rev 22:18 I warn everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: If anyone adds anything to them, God will add to him the plagues described in this book. 19 And if anyone takes words away from this book of prophecy, God will take away from him his share in the tree of life and in the holy city, which are described in this book.
- The book of Revelation is the only book of the Bible that offers a blessing to those who read, hear & keep
 - This is the same word used by Matthew in the “beatitudes” of the “Sermon on the Mount” (Mat 5: 3-11)
 - There are 7 beatitudes (blessings) found throughout the book of Revelation
 1. Rev 1:3 Blessed is the one who reads the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who hear it and take to heart what is written in it, because the time is near.
 2. Rev 14:13 Then I heard a voice from heaven say, "Write: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on." "Yes," says the Spirit, "they will rest from their labor, for their deeds will follow them."
 3. Rev 16:15 "Behold, I come like a thief! Blessed is he who stays awake and keeps his clothes with him, so that he may not go naked and be shamefully exposed."
 4. Rev 19:9 Then the angel said to me, "Write: 'Blessed are those who are invited to the wedding supper of the Lamb!'"
 5. Rev 20:6 Blessed and holy are those who have part in the first resurrection. The second death has no power over them, but they will be priests of God and of Christ and will reign with him for a thousand years.
 6. Rev 22:7 "Behold, I am coming soon! Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy in this book."
 7. Rev 22:14 "Blessed are those who wash their robes, that they may have the right to the tree of life and may go through the gates into the city."
- Take to heart
 - Greek word τηροῦντες [tērountes]
 - Literally means “to guard as treasure and to watch over”, “heed,” “attend to,” or “keep”
 - It is important that those who read and listen also “to guard as treasure and to watch over”, “heed,” “attend to,” or “keep” what the prophecy says. Those who do will be “blessed”
- Time is near
 - Greek words γὰρ καὶρὸς ἐγγύς – Urgency
 - The prologue is framed with the sense of immediacy
 - Rev 1:1 The revelation from Jesus Christ, which God gave him to show his servants what must soon take place. He made it known by sending his angel to his servant John, 2 who testifies to everything he saw—that is, the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ. 3 Blessed is the one who reads aloud the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who hear it and take to heart what is written in it, because the time is near.

Introduction (1:4-8)

This is a general introduction to the 7 churches of Asia Minor, John's immediate audience to whom he is writing.

Greetings and doxology

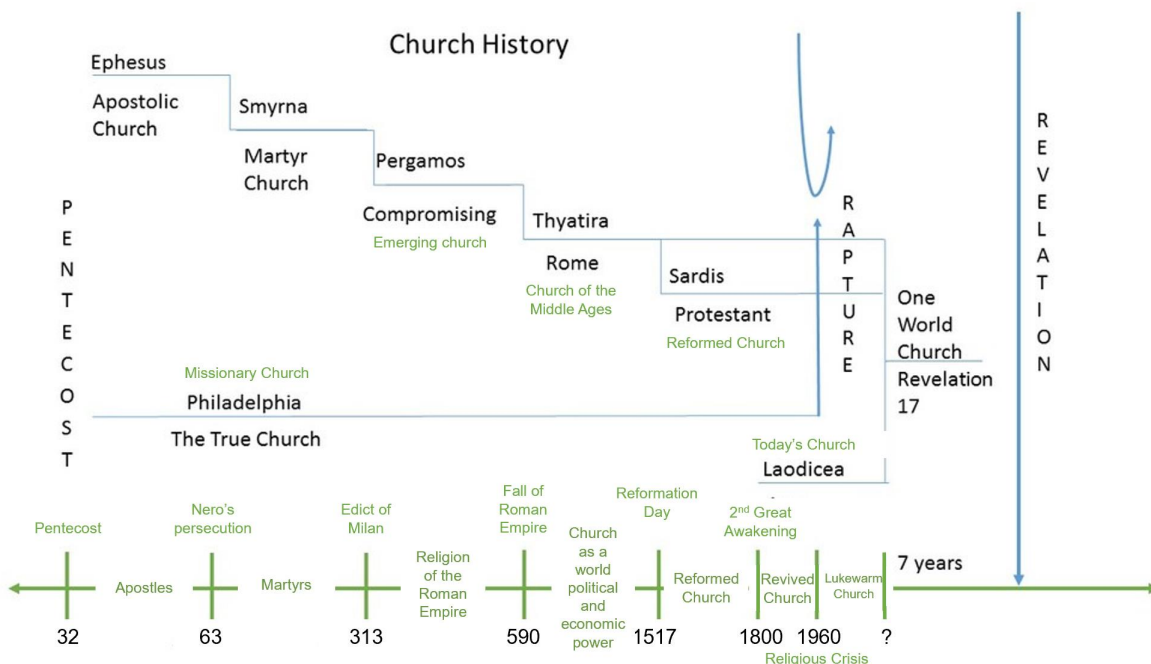

4 John, To the seven churches in the province of Asia:

- These 7 churches were chosen because they represent the history of the church
 - The church of that day
 - The church as it went through different periods
 - The church as it was to come

by Dr. Arnold Fruchtenbaum

hosted on www.ltradio.org

Grace and peace to you from him who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne, 5 and from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler of the kings of the earth.

- “Grace to you and peace” from the trinity:

1. God the Father

1. who is
2. was
3. is to come

2. God the Holy Spirit (the “seven-fold spirit”)

- Is 11:2 The Spirit of the Lord will rest on him—the Spirit of wisdom and of understanding, the Spirit of counsel and of might, the Spirit of the knowledge and fear of the Lord and he will delight in the fear of the Lord.

- 7 = completion. In Revelation, there are:

7 Churches

7 Eyes

7000 Slain in the great earthquake

7 Spirits

7 Angels

7 Heads

7 Golden candlesticks

7 Seals

7 Crowns

7 Stars

7 Trumpets

7 Mountains

7 Lamps

7 Bowls

7 Kings

7 Horns

7 Thunders

- Zec 4:2 ...I see a solid gold lampstand with a bowl at the top and seven lights on it, with seven channels to the lights. 3 Also there are two olive trees by it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left. ... 10 These seven are the eyes of the LORD, which range throughout the earth.
- Rev 4:5 From the throne came flashes of lightning, rumblings and peals of thunder. Before the throne, seven lamps were blazing. These are the seven spirits of God.
- Rev 5:6 Then I saw a Lamb, looking as if it had been slain, standing in the center of the throne, encircled by the four living creatures and the elders. He had seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth.

3. God the Son (Jesus Christ) who himself is three things:

1. The faithful witness

- Witness - Greek word μάρτυς [martys]
 - We get the word martyr from this word
 - Now means one that has died for his faith
 - Original idea is one that has a faith so strong that he would be willing to die for it
 - While He was on the earth He was a witness of God.

2. The firstborn from the dead

- Firstborn is the Greek word πρωτότοκος [prōtotokos]
- prōtotokos – literally signifies priority – He is the 1st risen from the grave
- 1st person to be resurrected from the dead
- 1st in importance or prominence – He is to be the most important person in our lives

3. The ruler of the kings of the earth.

- Rev 19:16 ... On his robe and on his thigh he has this name written: KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS.

In the book of Revelation, it sometimes seems like the term "kings of the earth" is used to refer to the chosen ones, but in other verses it looks like they are the damned ones.

The chosen ones:

- Revelation 1:5 ... Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler over the kings of the earth.
- Revelation 21:24 And the nations of those who are saved shall walk in its light, and the kings of the earth bring their glory and honor into it.
- Bonus: Psalm 89:27 Also I will make him My firstborn, The highest of the kings of the earth.

The damned ones

- Revelation 6:15 And the kings of the earth, the great men, the rich men, the commanders, the mighty men, every slave and every free man, hid themselves in the caves and in the rocks of the mountains, 16 and said to the mountains and rocks, "Fall on us and hide us from the face of Him who sits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb! 17 For the great day of His wrath has come, and who is able to stand?"
- Revelation 16:14 For they are spirits of demons, performing signs, which go out to the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.
- Revelation 19:19 And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army.
- Bonus: Isaiah 24:21 It shall come to pass in that day That the Lord will punish on high the host of exalted ones, And on the earth the kings of the earth.

The Kings of the earth can be put into two groups.

- There are the Kings of the earth who worship the beast
- There are the Kings of the earth who follow Christ.

Revelation 13:8 NIV, it is written, "All inhabitants of the earth will worship the beast--all whose names have not been written in the book of life belonging to the Lamb that was slain from the creation of the world."

- It is clear from the above scripture that the ones who do not worship the beast are the followers of Christ and all the rest, are worshipers of the beast. They are referred to as "the inhabitants of the earth," and they along with the Kings of the earth, choose to worship the beast instead of worshipping Christ.
- What one must understand with reference to Rev 13:8, is that not all the Kings of the earth will worship the beast, but some will follow Christ. Read into the scripture for understanding. It explains it well,

All inhabitants of the earth will worship the beast--all whose names have not been written in the book of life belonging to the Lamb that was slain from the creation of the world.

Taking into account the above scripture, one can say that some Kings of the earth, along with some inhabitants of the earth will follow Christ. This is further reinforced in Revelation 21:22-27, when the Kings of the earth, who are followers of Christ, will bring their glory into the "New Jerusalem."

Revelation 21:22-27 "I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb. And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God is its light, and its lamp is the Lamb. The nations will walk by its light, and the kings of the earth will bring their glory into it. Its gates will never be shut by day—and there will be no night there. People will bring into it the glory and the honor of the nations. But nothing unclean will enter it, nor anyone who practices abomination or falsehood, but only those who are written in the Lamb's book of life."

Conclusion.

The Kings of the earth who are referenced in Revelation 21:24, are followers of Christ, this is why they are allowed to bring their "Glory" into the New Jerusalem. In short, their names have been written into the book of life which belongs to the lamb that was slain. All the other Kings of the earth do not have their name recorded in the lamb's book of life, because they are followers of the beast. These kings of the earth belong to the group called "inhabitants of the earth," as recorded in the above scriptures, and all inhabitants of the earth whose names are not written into the book of life, are considered shameful and deceitful, and are not allowed to enter the New Jerusalem.

Revelation 21:27 (NIV) "Nothing impure will enter it, nor will anyone who does what is shameful or deceitful, but only those whose names are written, in the Lambs book of life."

To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood, 6 and has made us to be a kingdom and priests to serve his God and Father—to him be glory and power for ever and ever! Amen.

- To him who
 1. loves us
 2. has freed us from our sins by his blood
 3. has made us to be a kingdom of priests to serve his God and Fatherto him be glory and power for ever and ever! Amen.
- Jesus loved us enough to suffer and die for us – that through his blood, our sins have been washed away and we have been given eternal life with Him
- Believers will reign with Christ in the Kingdom age to come

7 Look, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him; and all the peoples of the earth will mourn because of him. So shall it be! Amen.

- Look, he is coming with the clouds and
 1. every eye will see him,
 2. even those who pierced him; and
 3. all peoples of the earth will mourn because of him.So shall it be! Amen”
- Reference back to the Old Testament
 - Daniel 7:13: I was watching in the night visions, and behold, One like the Son of Man, coming with the clouds of heaven!
 - Zec 12:10 “And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and supplication. They will look on me, the one they have pierced, and they will mourn for him as one mourns for an only child, and grieve bitterly for him as one grieves for a firstborn son.
- Acts 1:6 So when they met together, they asked him, "Lord, are you at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel?" 7 He said to them: "It is not for you to know the times or dates the Father has set by his own authority. 8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes on you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." 9 After he said this, he was taken up before their very eyes, and a cloud hid him from their sight. 10 They were looking intently up into the sky as he was going, when suddenly two men dressed in white stood beside them. 11 "Men of Galilee," they said, "why do you stand here looking into the sky? This same Jesus, who has been taken from you into heaven, will come back in the same way you have seen him go into heaven."
 - Jesus does not say that he isn't going to restore Israel – He says that we are not to know the time – argument against replacement theology
 - 11...This same Jesus, who has been taken from you into heaven, will come back in the same way you have seen him go into heaven.
- “Pierced Him” refers to the crucifixion of Christ.
- Those who didn't believe in Christ will “mourn” with regret over their disbelief.
 - All will mourn because of what we did to Jesus
 - Why will they mourn?
- What an awesome sight it will be to see Jesus descending from the clouds!
 - Not the lowly servant, the humble shepherd, or the rejected prophet

- Now He is rightfully returning as the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords – and the whole world will know it!
- Everyone will see it – you will not be able to miss it

8 "I am the Alpha and the Omega," says the Lord God, "who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty."

- “I am the Alpha and the Omega” says the Lord God,
 1. who is,
 2. and who was,
 3. and who is to come,
 the Almighty."
- Alpha and the Omega
 - The first and last letters of the Greek alphabet – Signifies completion, as is the numbers 3
 - He was there at the beginning during creation and He will be there at the end at the Second Coming
 - He always was, always is, and always will be

Commission (1:9-20)

One like a Son of Man

9 I, John, your brother and companion in the suffering and kingdom and patient endurance that are ours in Jesus, was on the island of Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.

- John introduces himself as “your brother and companion in:
 - the suffering
 - and kingdom
 - and patient endurance
 that are ours in Jesus” (1:9a)
- He is on the island of Patmos “because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus” (1:9b).
 - Patmos – similar to our modern-day Alcatraz
 - He was imprisoned for teaching and preaching the Word of God
 - Would we be willing to be imprisoned for Christ? Are we undercover Christians? Or faith servants?

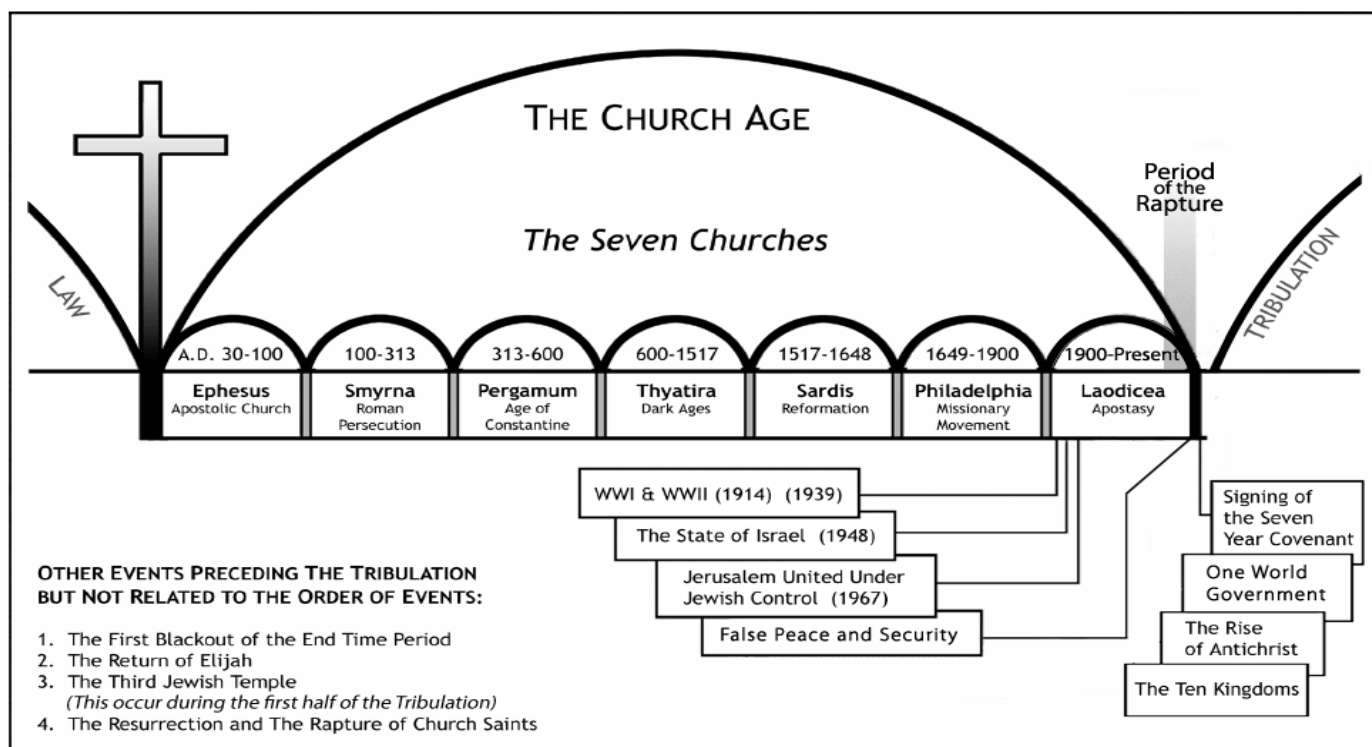

10 On the Lord's Day I was in the Spirit, and I heard behind me a loud voice like a trumpet,

- “On the Lord’s Day” – Sabbath
- John is deep in prayer, when suddenly he hears a voice behind him, startling him:
 - John was more than just tuned into the Holy Spirit. This was a special anointing – He was picked as the deliverer of a special message from the Almighty Lord Himself.
- loud voice like a trumpet
 - Rev 4:1 After these things I looked, and behold, a door standing open in heaven, and the first voice which I had heard, like the sound of a trumpet speaking with me, said, "Come up here, and I will show you what must take place after these things."
 - 1Th 4:16 For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. 17 After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever.

- 1Co 15:51 Behold, I show you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, 52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. 53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.
- Rev 11:15 ESV Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying, 'The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever!'

11 which said: "Write on a scroll what you see and send it to the seven churches: to Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea."

- John is told to write down all that he sees and send it to the 7 churches
- 7 churches – those in the province of Asia:
 - There were a lot more than 7 churches. These 7 churches were chosen because they represent
 - The history of the church
 - The church of that day
 - The church as it went through different periods
 - The church as it was to come
 - The life of the believer

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Ephesus (2:1–7)	Rejects sin and evil, stays fast in the Lord	No longer enthusiastic for Christ	Return to the works you once did	The tree of life
Smyrna (2:8–11)	Faithfully copes through trials	No criticism	Be faithful until death	The crown of life
Pergamos (2:12–17)	Is faithful	Allows immorality, false doctrines, and idolatry	Repent	Hidden manna, a stone with a new name
Thyatira (2:18–29)	Love, patience, faithful service	Allows cult activity, idolatry, and immorality	Judgment forth-coming, keep the faith	Rules over the nations, the morning star
Sardis (3:1–6)	Some have been faithful	The church is dead	Repent, empower, and strengthen what's left	The faithful will be honored and clothed in white
Philadelphia (3:7–13)	Is faithful, keeps the word of Christ, and honors Him	No criticism	Continue to be faithful	A place in the presence of God, a new name, and the New Jerusalem
Laodicea (3:14–22)	None, no praise at all	Apathy and indifference	Repent and be zealous	Share the throne of Christ

12 I turned around to see the voice that was speaking to me. And when I turned I saw seven golden lampstands, 13 and among the lampstands was someone "like a son of man," dressed in a robe reaching down to his feet and with a golden sash around his chest. 14 His head and hair were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes were like blazing fire. 15 His feet were like bronze glowing in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of rushing waters.

- As we have been working with sets of 3, now we move to sets of 7
 - Prefigured by the “seven-fold Spirit” of God in the introduction (1:4).
- John looks behind him to see “seven golden lampstands” (1:12)
 - 7 golden lampstands – 1 for each of the churches
 - Rev 1:20 The mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand and of the seven golden lampstands is this: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.
 - The light of the world is Jesus
 - The purpose of the church is to be a light in this world of darkness
 - The teaching of the Word of Jesus is the source of light for the church to shine
 - How bright does your church shine?
- Jesus was standing among the seven lampstands
 - This is the only description of Jesus in the New Testament
 - A robe fit for a king – clear down to his feet – showing righteousness and honor
 - A golden brass plate or girdle across his chest – with the names of his people engraved, ready to fulfill his role as a redeemer
 - His hair as white as snow – pure and tried, as the Ancient of Days
 - His flaming, penetrating eyes that pierce even the hardest of hearts
 - His feet sturdy and strong
 - His voice commanding, full of knowledge and wisdom
 - “son of man”
 - Used generically for “human beings” in both Ezekiel and the Psalms
 - In Daniel and Revelation, it refers specifically to a unique figure who approaches the “Ancient of Days” (God the Father)
 - Given “dominion, splendor, and kingship,”
 - “all nations, peoples and tongues” will serve and worship him
 - In the synoptic gospels, Jesus uses the term “Son of Man” in reference to himself, alluding directly to the figure in Daniel’s vision
 - It is a self-referential term used by Jesus – no one else calls him “Son of Man,” only he does.
 - When John observes that the one to whom the voice belongs is someone “like a Son of Man,” he makes a direct allusion to “one like a son of man,” the figure in Daniel’s vision (Daniel 7:13), prompting the reader to draw a direct correspondence between the two, which John then makes explicit in the seven-part comparison
 - The figure is startlingly similar to the figure Daniel sees in Daniel 7:13-14 and who speaks to him in Daniel 10:4-6. Also similar to the figure that Ezekiel sees in Ezekiel 8:2
 - Eze 8:2 I looked, and I saw a figure like that of a man. From what appeared to be his waist down he was like fire, and from there up his appearance was as bright as glowing metal.
 - Dan 10:4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing on the bank of the great river, the Tigris, 5 I looked up and there before me was a man dressed in linen, with a belt of the finest gold around his waist. 6 His body was like chrysolite, his face like lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and his voice like the sound of a multitude.

- Rev 1:12 I turned around to see the voice that was speaking to me. And when I turned I saw seven golden lampstands, 13 and among the lampstands was someone "like a son of man," dressed in a robe reaching down to his feet and with a golden sash around his chest. 14 His head and hair were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes were like blazing fire. 15 His feet were like bronze glowing in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of rushing waters. 16 In his right hand he held seven stars, and out of his mouth came a sharp double-edged sword. His face was like the sun shining in all its brilliance.
- Here is a point-by-point comparison of the figures, each consisting of seven elements:
 - These are the very same person
 - In Daniel, it is the pre-incarnate Christ who 'unveils' the future to Daniel and then has Daniel seal up the scroll 'until the time of the end' (Dan 12:4)
 - In Revelation, it is the risen and glorified Christ who unseal the scroll to reveal to John 'what must happen soon' (Rev 1:1)

Ezekiel 8:2	Daniel 10:4-6	Revelation 1:13-15
I looked, and I saw a figure like that of a man. From what appeared to be his waist down he was like fire, and from there up his appearance was as bright as glowing metal	"a man dressed in linen" (5a)	"someone like a 'Son of Man' dressed in a robe reaching down to his feet" (13b)
	"with a belt of finest gold around his waist" (5b)	"with a golden sash around his chest" (13b)
	"his body was like chrysolite" (6a)	"his head and hair were white as wool, as white as snow" (14a) his face like lightning" (6a)
	"his eyes like flaming torches" (6a)	his eyes were like blazing fire" (14b)
	"his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze" (6a)	"his feet were like bronze glowing in a furnace" (15a)
	"his voice like the sound of a multitude" (6b)	"his voice like the sound of rushing waters" (15b)

16 In his right hand he held seven stars, and out of his mouth came a sharp double-edged sword. ...

20 The mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand and of the seven golden lampstands is this: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.

- 7 Stars = 7 angels
 - Rev 1:20 The mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand and of the seven golden lampstands is this: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.
 - Angel literally means a “messenger”
 - Leadership of the 7 churches
 - Could refer to the pastors or the churches or the angels that are assigned to watch over each church
- Right hand – Hand of righteousness
- Double-edged sword
 - The Word of the Lord is a 2-edged sword – It can wound or heal
 - The Word of the Lord spoke the world into existence, and the Word of the Lord will defeat the antichrist and slay his armies
 - Format of the letters to the churches
 - Greeting
 - Words of commendation – what the church is doing right
 - Words of condemnation – what the church is doing wrong
 - Closes with an admonition
 - Jesus’ words themselves form the “sharp two-edged sword” in these letters

His face was like the sun shining in all its brilliance.

- Reinforces the comparison (item 4 in Daniel 10:6a above).

17 When I saw him, I fell at his feet as though dead.

- Another reference to Daniel
 - Daniel 10:7 I, Daniel, was the only one who saw the vision; those who were with me did not see it, but such terror overwhelmed them that they fled and hid themselves. 8 So I was left alone, gazing at this great vision; I had no strength left, my face turned deathly pale and I was helpless. 9 Then I heard him speaking, and as I listened to him, I fell into a deep sleep, my face to the ground.

Then he placed his right hand on me and said: "Do not be afraid. I am the First and the Last. 18 I am the Living One; I was dead, and behold I am alive for ever and ever! And I hold the keys of death and Hades.

- Confirmation that the figure John sees is, indeed, the “Son of Man,” the risen and glorified Christ.
- When He descended into hell, he freed the slaves of Hades. Now He wants to set us free from death.

19 "Write, therefore, what you have seen, what is now and what will take place later.

- Revelation 1:19, describes a basic outline of the entire letter written by John. When the risen and glorified Christ says to John, “Write down, therefore, what you have seen, and what is happening, and what will happen afterwards”, he lays out the basic 3-part structure of Revelation:

Rev 1	past tense	what you have seen	How John received his vision	Creation to the Cross
Rev 2-3	present tense	what is now	7 letters to the 7 churches Function as cover letters	Pentecost to Rapture Church age
Rev 4-22	future tense	what will take place later	What to expect	Age to Come

- We are currently living in the Church Age – Specifically the age of Laodicea (Chapter 3)
- Chapter 4 starts with the words “meta autos” which means “after these things”
 - 4 After these things I looked, and behold, a door standing open in heaven. And the first voice which I heard was like a trumpet speaking with me, saying, “Come up here, and I will show you things which must take place after this.”
- It is important to understand the structure of the book

20 The mystery of the seven stars which you saw in My right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands which you saw are the seven churches.

- The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches
 - Pastors, messengers
- The seven lampstands which you saw are the seven churches
 - Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea

What Is – The Seven Churches (Revelation 2-3)

The risen and glorified Christ commands John to write a letter to each of seven churches in Asia Minor: Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea – all in modern-day Turkey.

If, as tradition holds, our Apostle John is the leader of the church at Ephesus and the author of Revelation, then all six of the other churches are within John's geographical sphere of influence, and the letters are to serve as "cover letters" for the vision that John will receive and that he will transmit in writing to the other churches.

These letters were the only direct communication from Jesus to the church

The churches in Asia Minor were the engine powering the early church

- Paul's three missionary journeys
- the church of Syrian Antioch (home church of Paul and Barnabas)
- the Council of Nicaea

Today, Asia Minor (modern-day Turkey)

- A constitutionally secular state
- Has a population of nearly 80 million people
 - 99.8% Muslim
 - 0.2% Christians and "others"
- There are only 11 diocesan priests in Turkey and 50 religious priests
- Each church was situated along a major highway in the Roman Empire. The distance from one church to the next closest church was anywhere from 20 – 50 miles away.
- 7 is the number of completion and fulfillment
 - These are all speaking to the complete church, not just the 7 congregations
 - Jesus (via John) addresses 7 churches in his letters:
 - Ephesus
 - Smyrna
 - Pergamum
 - Thyatira
 - Sardis
 - Philadelphia
 - Laodicea
 - Paul addresses 7 churches in his epistles:
 - Rome
 - Corinth
 - Galatia
 - Ephesus
 - Colosse
 - Philippi
 - Thessalonica
 - Jesus give 7 kingdom parables
 - The Sower (Matthew 13:3-9; 18-23)
 - The Tares (Matthew 13:24-30, 36-43)
 - The Mustard Seed (Matthew 13:31, 32)
 - The Leaven (Matthew 13:33)
 - The Hidden Treasure (Matthew 13:44)
 - The Pearl of Great Price (Matthew 13:45, 46)
 - The Net (Matthew 13:47-50)

Part Two: What Is (Revelation, Chapters 2 & 3)

- The seven letters to the seven churches in Asia Minor
 1. Ephesus (Revelation 2:1-7) - the church that had forsaken its first love (2:4).
 2. Smyrna (Revelation 2:8-11) - the church that would suffer persecution (2:10).
 3. Pergamum (Revelation 2:12-17) - the church that needed to repent (2:16).
 4. Thyatira (Revelation 2:18-29) - the church that had a false prophetess (2:20).
 5. Sardis (Revelation 3:1-6) - the church that had fallen asleep (3:2).
 6. Philadelphia (Revelation 3:7-13) - the church that had endured patiently (3:10).
 7. Laodicea (Revelation 3:14-22) - the church with the lukewarm faith (3:16).

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Ephesus (2:1-7) Loveless, Preoccupied Church	Hard work & perseverance; Don't tolerate wickedness; Test false apostles; Patient endurance; Persevered - not grown weary	You have forsaken your first love; Focus is on correctness more than love	Remember; Repent and do the things you did at first	Right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God
Smyrna (2:8-11) Persecuted Church	Persecuted – Endured afflictions; Endured poverty; Endured slander; Faithfully coped through many trials	-- (none)	Remain faithful, even when facing prison, persecution or death	The crown of life – You will not be hurt at all by the second death
Pergamum (2:12-17) Compromising, Worldly, Political Church	Remain true to my name; Loyalty to Christ; Remained faithful - refused to deny Him	Sexual immorality; Follow false doctrines; Compromised; Tolerates cults, heresies, idolatry and immorality	Repent!	Hidden manna; White stone with a new name on it
Thyatira (2:18-29) Misguided; Wrong doctrine	Deeds, love, faith Patient endurance; Faithful service; Constant improvement	Tolerates cult activity, idolatry, and immorality; In darkness; Misguided	Judgement is coming – Repent! Hold fast until I come - keep the faith.	Authority to rule over the nations; gift of the morning star
Sardis (3:1-6) Spiritually Dead; Alive in appearance only	-- (none)	The church is dead; Church in appearance only; Incomplete deeds; Form without substance	Wake up! Repent! Empower and strengthen what little remains. Turn to Jesus again.	The faithful will be honored and clothed in white. Their names will never be blotted out from the Book of Life but will be acknowledged before God and the angels.
Philadelphia (3:7-13) Obedient; Spiritually alive	Though you have little strength, you have kept my word and have not denied my name; Obedient, powerful; Patiently endured persecution;	-- (none)	Continue to be faithful and I will keep you from the hour of trial	An eternal place in the presence of God; A new name; A place in the New Jerusalem

Laodicea (3:14-22) Materialistic; Complacent	-- (none)	Apathy and indifference; Lukewarm - Neither hot nor cold; Materialistic; Wealth over spirit; You rely on riches and don't realize your wretched condition	Turn from your indifference; Repent and be zealous	I invite those that overcome to sit with me on my throne - Share the throne of Christ
--	-----------	--	---	---

Of the seven church cities:

- The two good ones, Philadelphia & Smyrna, now the modern-day Alasehir and Izmir in Turkey, continue to thrive
- The two bad ones, Sardis & Laodicea, are now desolate, uninhabited locations
- Ephesus the great political center
- Smyrna was the great commercial center
- Pergamos the great religious center

Greetings

- The greeting to all the churches references the attributes of the risen and glorified Christ from the commission (Rev 1:13-15)
 - “To the angel of the church in ...
 - ἀγγέλου [angelou, an'-gel-os]
 - Greek translation is “angel”
 - Literally means a “messenger”
 - “angels” – messengers sent by God to speak to or to interact with humanity
 - It's nice to think that God has assigned an “angel” to watch over each church
 - But more likely, the “angel” of the church in Ephesus is the leader of that Christian community, the one who reads the gospel, the messenger (pastor or priest)
- We should recognize the intimacy of this greeting. The risen and glorified Christ walks among us. He knows every detail of our lives, commending us for our successes and admonishing us for our faults. He holds us in the very palm of his hand as both our protector and our guide.

Commendation

- In most cases, the Lord starts with the good

Condemnation

- In most cases, the Lord tells them what they need to improve

Admonitions

- They all end with a call to pay attention and there will be a reward for your perseverance

Church History Through Time

Each letter speaks to the current state of each church at the end of the 1st century.

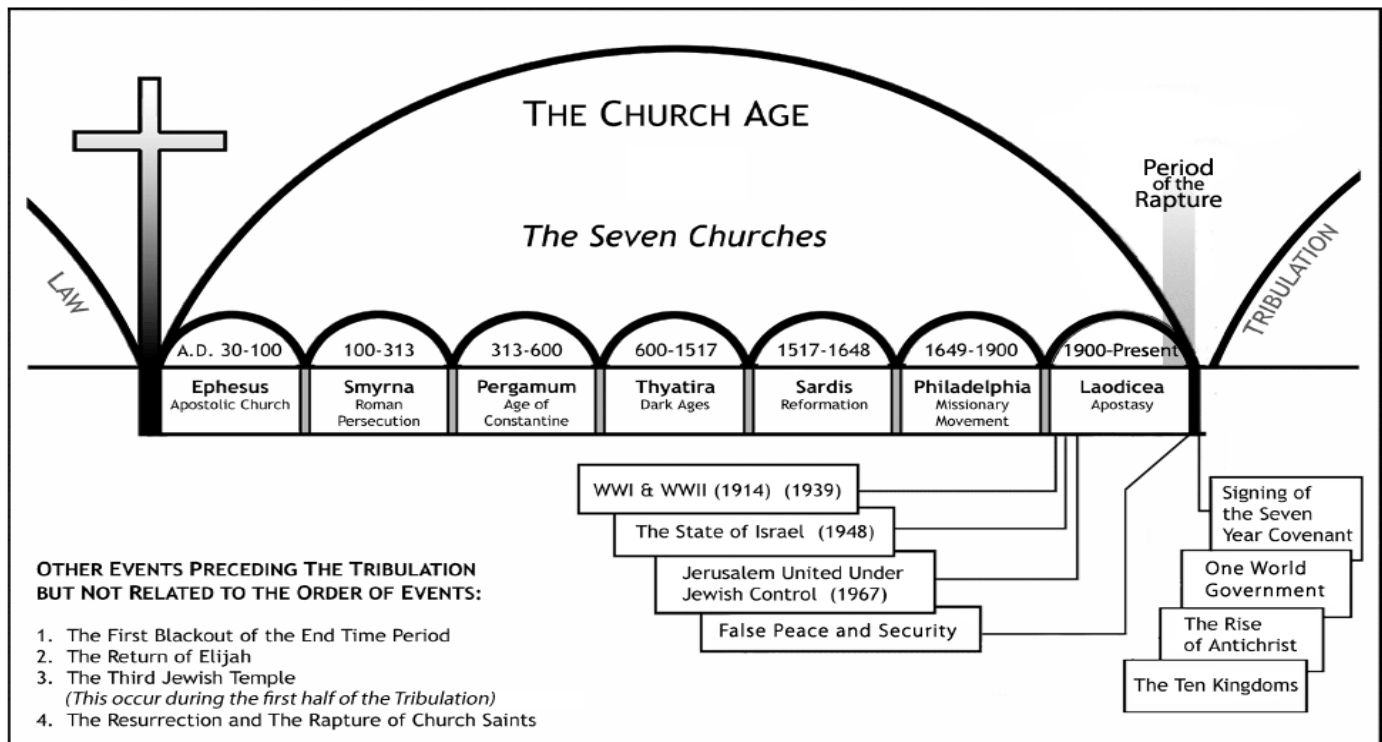

The sequence of the seven churches may also reflect the history of the church, from its apostolic beginnings until today:

- Ephesus—the apostolic church, Pentecost A.D. 32-63, the church at the time of the Apostles.
- Smyrna—the martyr church, A.D. 64-313, from Nero's persecution until the Edict of Milan.
- Pergamum—The emerging church, A.D. 313-590, the official religion of the Roman Empire.
- Thyatira—the church of the Middle Ages, A.D. 590-1517, the church as a world political and economic power.
- Sardis—the reformed church, A.D. 1517-1800, the church of the Reformation and counter-Reformation.
- Philadelphia—the revived church A.D. 1800-1960, the great age of the missionary church.
- Laodicea—today's church, 1960-present, the lukewarm, self-congratulatory church of a post-Christian era.

From a different perspective, we might well understand that all of today's parishes and Christian congregations can fit into one of the seven categories represented by the seven churches of Revelation

- Those whose faith and works are stellar
- Those many Christian communities in the Middle East who are martyr churches
- Those who have accommodated themselves to the dominant secular culture
- Those who are so tepid as to be irrelevant

Venerable Bartholomew Holzhauser (1613-1658) predicted seven ages of the church

- The Bible refers to these Seven Ages as "The Fullness of the Gentiles" - it is one and the same. Running parallel with the Seven Ages (or the Fulness of the Gentiles) is a period referred to in Scripture as "The Times of the Gentiles"
- Venerable Bartholomew Holzhauser was a holy priest of the seventeenth century, founder of an Institute for the formation of priests approved by Pope Innocent XI in 1680.
- The prophet Venerable Bartholomew Holzhauser predicted seven ages of the church.
 - Real prophet –Holzhauser accurately predicted the execution of Charles I of England and the persecution of the Catholic Church in England for 120 years (Prohibition of Mass under penalty of death lasted from 1658 until 1778.).
- The fifth age began in 1517 with the Protestant Revolution.
 - This period of tribulation comes to it's five hundredth anniversary in the year 2017.
 - This fifth age would culminate in terrible persecution of the church.
 - After that he predicted an era of peace and consolation. Our Lady at Fatima also predicted a period of peace after the difficulties to come.

"During the fifth period, we saw only calamities and devastation; oppression of Catholics by tyrants and heretics; execution of Kings, and conspiracies to set up republics . . . Are we not to fear, during this period, that the Mohammedans will come again, working out their sinister schemes against the Latin Church? . . . During this period men will abuse the freedom of conscience conceded to them . . . there will be laxity in divine and human precepts. Discipline will suffer. The holy canons will be completely disregarded, and the clergy will not respect the laws of the Church. Everyone will be carried away and led to believe and to do what he fancies, according to the manner of the flesh . . . But, by the hand of God Almighty, there occurs so wondrous a change during the sixth period that no one can humanly visualize it.

The sixth period of the Church will begin with the powerful Monarch and the holy Pontiff . . . and it will last until the revelation of Antichrist. In this period, God will console His Holy Church for the affliction and great tribulation she has endured during the fifth period. All nations will become Catholic. Vocations will be abundant as never before, and all men will seek only the Kingdom of God and His justice. Men will live in peace, and this will be granted because people will make their peace with God. They will live under the protection of the Great Monarch and his successors.

All nations will come to worship God in the true Catholic and Roman faith. There will be many Saints and Doctors on earth. Peace will reign over the whole earth because God will bind Satan for a number of years until the days of the Son of Perdition. No one will be able to pervert the Word of God since, during the sixth period, there will be an Ecumenical Council which will be the greatest of all councils. By the grace of God, by the power of the Great Monarch, by the authority of the Holy Pontiff, and by the union of all the most devout princes, atheism and every heresy will be banished from the earth. The Council will define the true sense of Holy Scripture, and this will be believed and accepted by everyone (emphasis added).[35]

Matthew chapter 13 describes the Seven Church Ages

2000 years of Christian history is divided into 7 church ages according to Matthew Chapter 13

MATTHEW 13:1

The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side.

The sea shore is important in Scripture. It is the dividing line between land and sea.

The sea represents the unrighteous, restless multitudes of people who shift with the changing currents of fashion and doctrine. The sand on the sea shore was chipped or worn off rock at some stage by the forces of nature. Christ, the Word, is our Rock. Believers are born again of Him and remain part of His Word (Scripture).

I CORINTHIANS 10:4

And did all drink the same spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ.

Thus the sand on the sea shore represents the righteous. The sea shore represents the limits of the sea. God will only allow the sea (the unrighteous) to go so far in their attempts to undermine and destroy the righteous (the sea shore sand). The righteous represent the limits that evil cannot go past.

JOB 26:10

He hath compassed the waters with bounds, until the day and night come to an end.

This Earth has its limits. An Earth day is 24 hours. Light and darkness cut each other off so that each has a limited time. The land is cut off by the sea. Life is cut off by death. Ultimately light will replace darkness and the sea will disappear. Death, the sea and dark night are symbols of what goes wrong on Earth. These are essential for our growth. Hardship, grief, sin, error, deception, worldliness etc. are essential to test us, strengthen us, punish us and to give us an adversary to struggle against. Struggle is the law of growth. Defeat and difficulty are the hammer and anvil where character is hammered out and made strong. When we compromise with error we simply become wishy washy Tribulation fodder. Thus what is wrong is simply an instrument that is there for a while to mould us into what God wants from our lives; not what we want from our lives.

REVELATION 21:1

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea

REVELATION 21:25

And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night there.

The time is coming when there will be no more sea and no more darkness.

Error and evil are temporary until they have served their purpose.

JOB 14:5

Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months are with thee, thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass;

No one can go beyond the limits that God has set for them. Fallen human nature needs to be cut off from its natural greed and selfishness. Each of us must learn to cope with the limits that God has set for us. These limits are essential for our survival. Each cell in our body is limited in terms of its size and function. Cancer is simply a cell that has rebelled against its limits, and it grows for the sake of growing. God uses evil and error to mould His church through seven different ages, but eventually evil will be done away with. Until then, the Church must contend with and oppose the error of its age.

JEREMIAH 5:22

Fear ye not me? saith the LORD: will ye not tremble at my presence, which have placed the sand for the bound of the sea by a perpetual decree, that it cannot pass it: and though the waves thereof toss themselves, yet can they not prevail; though they roar, yet can they not pass over it?

But equally, good sets a limit to evil. Evil will never eradicate truth. Believers can be dispersed but truth will spread due to their dispersion. Believers can even degenerate but new ones will rise up in other places. Salt limits the spread of decay. To save His children, God limits the spread and power of evil. Evil can only flow down the channels that God allows. So far, and no further. (The Mongol horde overran Russia and eastern Europe under their military genius and general Tsubodai. The Hungarian army was eliminated. Western Europe was at their mercy because the Pope was wasting his efforts on fighting the Holy Roman Emperor, who was German. Then Ogedai, the Mongol Khan who was son of Genghis Khan, after a brief reign of only 12 years died from excessive drinking. His son Guyuk then took the whole army back from Europe to Mongolia to claim the throne from Chagatai, his uncle and rival . Helpless Europe was saved by one man's death far away in Mongolia at this critical moment of time. Thus God pulls the strings so that His will triumphs)

ISAIAH 45:7

I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil: I the LORD do all these things.

AMOS 3:6

Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, and the LORD hath not done it?

To create depth in a picture, an artist uses light colours for highlights and dark colours for shadows. Light and dark are totally under the control of the artist. Each light and dark colour can only occupy a certain specific portion of the picture.

To create depth of character in us God has to paint across our lives with light and dark events. So good and evil people are used by Him to mould us. Both types are totally under His control.

AMOS 3:7

Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

The Bible is a Book of prophecy, giving us clues to future events.

REVELATION 13:1

And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy.

REVELATION 17:3

So he carried me away in the spirit into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

REVELATION 17:15

And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

Chapter 13 starts with John standing on the sea shore. Why? Chapter 13 ends with the mark of the beast which is linked to a man and his number 666. The sand of the sea shores cannot be numbered. This implies that the righteous, represented by the sea sand, will not take on the mark of the beast as that mark sweeps through the people on this over-crowded planet like waves sweeping through the sea, which represents the unrighteous. There is more sea than land. There are more sinners than saints on earth.

REVELATION 13:16

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.
18 Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

MATTHEW 15:8

This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

This is the problem with people. They move away from Scripture and accept the plausible traditions and doctrines of man. Try finding the 25th December in the Bible. Matthew Chapter 2 Verse 11 says the wise men went into a house, not a stable.

MATTHEW 2:11

And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

Joseph was not present. Jesus was not a baby in a manger, He was a young child in a house.

They gave gifts to Jesus, not to each other.

Our Christmas shopping spree of buying presents for friends and family has nothing to do with the Bible. December 25th is in the middle of winter. Shepherds could not be out with their flocks at night as they would freeze to death.

Only shepherds went to the stable, not the wise men. Rome could not try to tax people in the middle of winter and force Joseph and Mary to travel to Bethlehem when snow makes the roads impassible. Christmas cards are equally unscriptural. Christmas is the gospel of greed and material gain as it is certainly not the Gospel of Matthew and Luke. Yet most people spend themselves poor, thinking that they must do this for religious reasons. Then January is a desolate month of recovery.

Our Christmas time is emotionally pleasant but very unscriptural. Where does the date come from? The pagan Roman emperor Aurelian, a brilliant cavalry general, united the Roman empire that had split into three sections. He completed the task in the year 274 AD and returned to Rome where he then declared the 25th December as the birthday of the sun god to celebrate the re-uniting of the empire. The Persian god Mithras also had his birthday on 25 December. So this date became widely accepted as a key festival (which basically meant it was honoured as a big booze up). This date became such a widely accepted pagan festival that Christians also joined in. To stop the flood of Christians who were enjoying the pagan festival, the Catholic church, around 350 AD, created an alternative festival by hijacking the same date as the birthday of the sun god and called it the birthday of the Son of God. And so Christianity merged into paganism and became churchianity. Over the centuries paganism died out in Europe and only the Catholic church version of 25 December remained, the so-called celebration of Christ's mass. We are more concerned with following some emotional tradition or some great man and belonging to and being popular with some special church group or organization rather than following Christ, the Word. Special events in the Catholic church are referred to as a mass. So they called Christ's so-called birthday celebration Christ's mass. This soon became known as Christmas. Then people realized it had nothing to do with Christ. So "Christ" was crossed out of Christmas and it became known as Xmas.

GENESIS 32:12

And thou saidst, I will surely do thee good, and make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

JEREMIAH 33:22

As the host of heaven cannot be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites that minister unto me.

HOSEA 1:10

Yet the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; and it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God.

So the sea shore represents the righteous which, like the sand of the sea, cannot be numbered and thus cannot take on the number or mark of the beast. Staying with Scripture is the only way to avoid taking on the mark of the beast.

MATTHEW 13:2

2 And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

Jesus was in a boat so He was above the sea (the restless masses) and not in the sea. Fishermen pull fish out of the sea which symbolizes being saved. The people stood on the shore and thus represented the righteous because they were listening to Jesus who is the Word. Listening to the Scripture is the key to being righteous.

MATTHEW 13:3

And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow;

4 And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up:

The first church age began with the preaching of the Word.

The seed is the Word of God. The fowls were the enemy that got rid of the Word. Replacing it with human tradition and philosophy.

5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth:

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them:

8 But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.

9 Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

This parable represents the first church age that was influenced by the apostles. They sowed the seed which represents preaching the Word. The sower (the preacher) was not criticised. It was the soil, the hearts of the listeners, who were criticized.

LUKE 8:11

Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God.

The parable is lengthy which means that much Scripture was preached while the apostles influenced the age. The fowls got rid of the seed so they are the enemy. The sower is not criticized whether he sowed (i.e. preached) well or badly. The criticism is reserved for the soil which represents the hearts of the hearers. Don't complain that someone told you the truth in some inadequate way. How the seed was scattered is immaterial. The soil (the heart) where it falls is all that counts.

MATTHEW 13:10

10 And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?

11 He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

Scripture is written in a way that cannot be easily understood by the casual reader. Only when a person is born again of the Holy Spirit can his or her inner eyes of insight be opened so that they can link the Scriptures together to arrive at the truth.

God must also send a messenger at the end time to reveal the mystery of God.

REVELATION 10:7

But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

This angel or messenger will also be a prophet. That makes him a human messenger, not a supernatural messenger like the angel Gabriel. So we also need an inspired prophet, like Paul, Peter and John were, to teach us the mystery of Who God is and what His salvation plan over 2000 years is, etc.

The first church age where Roman persecution of Christians was started by the emperor Nero who burned down most of Rome in 64 AD in order to rebuild it and then conveniently blamed and killed the Christians. Christians were forced to meet in secrecy, often in small groups. They looked to the apostles for leadership and the influence and writings of the apostles was pre-eminent until around the year 170 AD.

Their goal was not to build up big church organizations.

ACTS 8:4

Therefore they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

The destruction of the Jewish Temple in AD 70 removed any obvious centre of Christian worship.

The meetings being held in private houses, or in any rooms that could be obtained, or in the open air, no special buildings were required. (The Pilgrim Church by E H Broadbent page 3)

But slowly the wisdom of man began to replace faith in the Bible.

Justin Martyr (100 – 165 AD) began to interpret certain aspects of Scripture in terms of Greek philosophy. He also drew a clear separation and distinction between the Son and then the Father who alone is the Creator and the only true God. He never referred to Christ as the “one true God”. Christ as the divine Logos (Word) is another God beside the Father, according to Justin Martyr, who says “by other I mean in number, not in will”. Thanks to the fame and influence of Justin Martyr, human opinion was beginning to replace the Scripture.

Then other men like Tertullian (160 – 220 AD) from Carthage in North Africa became famous and drew followers after themselves. The opinion of these so-called church fathers began to replace Scripture. People quoted clever men rather than just quoting what the apostles wrote in Scripture. Tertullian was the first writer to present the Trinity doctrine. When writing of Father, Son and Holy Spirit he said that “these three are one substance, not one person”. The word “Trinity” is unscriptural, but people no longer cared to stay with Scripture.

Clever men began to dominate the people. This is Nicolaitanism, the lifting up of holy men above the laity who are the ordinary people. As more believers joined in, unscriptural rules were made in the interests of a more efficient organization. Slowly the churches moved away from the Bible pattern of elders and accepted the leadership of a man. As each local church became controlled by one man instead of a group of elders, it was just a matter of time before a bishop came to mean a man who was in charge of a group of local churches. The Roman empire had political metropolitans who were in charge of certain regions. This office was copied by the churches and church metropolitans were promoted up to control a group of bishops in a region or province. These were lucrative positions and ambitious men competed shamelessly for these positions. In the interests of organizational efficiency there needed to be one person in charge. So as the church grew a cardinal had to be appointed to be in charge of a group of metropolitans. The final step was to appoint a pope to be in charge of the cardinals. A very efficient, though unscriptural, organization had been established which would spread around the world. Nicolaitanism (nico = conquer i.e. conquer the laity), the creation of an Aaronic priesthood between God and the laity (the ordinary people) was here to stay. From a human perspective this seemed a great way to serve God but unfortunately God hates this system.

REVELATION 2:6

But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

Matthew 15:9

But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

However good an idea seems to us humans, if it is unscriptural it simply takes us away from God.

MATTHEW 13:12

For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

Jesus never wanted Scripture to be interpreted in terms of clever Greek philosophy (human opinions) nor did He want us to use unscriptural words like “Trinity” to explain truth. So people read the Bible and then mess up their understanding by applying human intelligence and opinions which cannot interpret Scripture in terms of other Scriptures.

MATTHEW 13:14

And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive:

15 For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

MATTHEW 13:16

But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

The apostles always stayed with the Scripture. Paul went to Athens to convert the Greeks, not to learn philosophy from them. The apostles never used the words Trinity, Christmas, easter eggs or easter bunnies, archbishop, cardinal, pope etc. They never applied the word “church” to a building.

MATTHEW 13 :17

For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

Then Jesus gave the apostles the meaning of the parable as they understood truth. The concept of seven church ages was a hidden mystery that the Jews did not realize was part of God’s plan.

This explanation of Jesus implies that the early church understood the truth of Scripture, thanks to the influence of the apostles.

MATTHEW 13:18

Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.

The fowls are classified as the wicked one, the devil. He comes in many disguises with one aim in mind, to stop us believing the Bible. If you use unscriptural words to explain your beliefs, you are on the wrong track.

MATTHEW 13:20

But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it;

21 Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

Shallow Christians want truth as long as it is only accompanied by benefits. Any difficulty and unpopularity or sacrifice is not acceptable. They only believe in the Gospel of gain and easy living. A prosperity doctrine.

MATTHEW 13:22

He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.

This is the Gospel of popularity and the Gospel of Greed. I will serve God with my friends and my family in my church. I will serve God while I pursue my ambitions and make money my way (Any dubious deals and selfishness are just called “that is business”).

MATTHEW 13:23

But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.

Only one quarter of the seed fell on good ground. One group was good. Three groups were not good. One versus three. One God who is Jesus Christ versus the Trinity who is one God in three Persons.

The first church age ended around the year 170 AD as the influence of the apostles decreased and clever men with clever speculations took over the leadership of the churches. Each church had to have a bishop in charge of it. This system replaced the rulership of the local church by the local elders.

Now we come to the second parable.

The first parable was given and then explained at length. This indicates that the early church had a lot of truth.

The second parable is lengthy (showing that there was still a lot of people who, during their persecutions, wanted to believe the Bible as it was written) but no explanation was given. So understanding of the truth was diminishing.

Thus the traditions of man, based on unscriptural words and rituals and traditions were causing people to lose sight of basic Bible truths. Ignorance and misunderstanding formed a mist that stopped people from seeing the true Scripture. The forces of darkness began to slowly erode truth as human wisdom replaced faith in the written Word.

As the churches increased, their first zeal flagged and conformity to the world and its ways increased also. (The Pilgrim Church by E H Broadbent page 11)

Cyprian, born about 200 AD freely used the term “the Catholic church” and he saw no salvation outside it. This church excluded all who did not conform to it.

There was a growing distinction between laity and clergy. The clergy dominated then conquered the laity in a process called Nicolaitanism.

MATTHEW 13:24

Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.

30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

Truth and error would grow side by side. As Judas was one of the disciples, so preachers of error would be active in the congregations. Clever men with clever philosophies would blind many to the truth.

By the time of Origen (184 – 253) in Alexandria he took the concept of Trinity for granted and then blended Christianity with pagan philosophy.

Christianity (believing the Bible) and Churchianity were growing together. But people were losing sight of truth.

The second church age ended when Constantine killed his rivals and their followers in battles and became Roman emperor and claimed to be a Christian and stopped persecuting Christians in the year 312 AD. Starting with the emperor Nero in the year 64 AD, the Roman emperors unleashed at least ten savage persecutions against the Christians and killed about 3 million Christians in the process until Constantine stopped the slaughter.

Jesus gave no interpretation at the end of the second parable which implies that the church had drifted away from the Scripture and thus into darkness. Churchianity was replacing Christianity. Traditions replaced Scripture.

The Third parable.

MATTHEW 13:31

Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

Very little Scripture is written for this third parable. This means Bible truth is dying out.

The birds who were the enemies in the first parable are now in charge of the church. A big tree or structure has grown up which is a perversion. Mustard should be a small herb not a huge tree with unscriptural ranks like archbishop, cardinal, pope for the enemies of truth to lodge in. The early church consisted of small communities that usually met in houses, especially when they were persecuted and scattered as they often were. Slowly this changed into a big political and religious system under the control of totally unscriptural office bearers.

Constantine gave the Lateran palace to the bishop of Rome as well as enormous wealth from the Roman treasury. The bishop of Rome became Constantine's strong man in the West when Constantine shifted his capital to the East at Constantinople. Thus the bishop of Rome also gained political clout. Religion and politics have always been a dangerous combination that should be avoided.

It was now taken for granted that the church in each city was ruled by a bishop. The cities that were linked to the apostles were given greater prestige and their bishops became exalted. As they competed with each other for more power and prestige so the the bishops of Rome, Antioch, Jerusalem and Alexandria began to become even more influential. They were the main guys as they grabbed for power and prestige.

In 378 AD Theodosius became emperor and agreed to the persecution of pagans. Around 450 AD pope Leo had enlarged this to the persecution of Christians who disagreed with the Catholic church.

The third church age ended about the year 600 AD by which time the Roman bishop considered himself the universal bishop with power over all of Christianity.

The fourth parable

MATTHEW 13:33

33 Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

This parable has very little Scripture to describe it. Only one verse. This represents the dark ages, when there was very little Scripture in the established churches, which lasted from about 600 to 1500 AD. The fourth church in Revelation chapter 3 is addressed as Thyatira which means a dominating woman. The Roman church had now secured complete domination over the people.

Soon after the year 620 AD, when the Muslims conquered Antioch, Jerusalem and Alexandria this left Rome as the only main western centre that was linked to an apostle. Lacking his former rivals, the bishop of Rome became ever more influential and powerful.

Persecutions increased as the Roman church tried to stamp out all opposition. By the time they finally stopped killing their opponents they had killed 68 million non Catholics. "Meal" makes bread which represents Scripture. A woman represents the church. Leaven must rot as it forms carbon dioxide which rises as a gas to puff up the dough. So a woman (the Catholic church) took meal (the Word) and broke it into three sections (the Trinity breaks up God into three Persons) until this rottenness had spread through all the Word. Thanks to the Trinity doctrine Christians no longer know the name of God (Jesus Christ) and thus get baptized in the titles Father, Son and Holy Spirit instead of in the Name of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is the Name of Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Error keeps spreading which causes people to understand less and less of truth.

MATTHEW 13:34

34 All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them: (Truth is hidden behind the symbols in Scripture).

35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables; I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

MATTHEW 13:37

He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man;

38 The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one;

39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.(the great tribulation ends the last church age)

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity;(doing things that they know are wrong)

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. (The great Tribulation)

43 Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

When the fourth parable is complete, Jesus begins to reveal what happened in the second church age as the Catholic church dragged Christianity off into error. Thus at the end of the fourth church age, at the end of the dark ages or middle ages, men like Huss and Wycliffe came on the scene with enough light to bring the Christians back to salvation and also to make the people aware that the Roman church was the ancient enemy of Truth.

The fifth parable

MATTHEW 13:44

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Only one verse describes this age. Thus there was not much truth that was restored. But Luther, that bravest of reformers, restored the truth about salvation as a personal experience with Christ. People could not break with most of the Catholic doctrines that were unscriptural, but they did find Christ as their personal Saviour. So it was a big step forward.

The man referred to in the parable is Christ. He , at Calvary, paid the price for the whole world. That is when He bought the world (the field). He sold out all of His Heavenly glory to become a suffering Servant and sold out any sense of dignity by suffering the most undignified of deaths. Thus He paid the price in full, giving up His Own Life. Then He hid the treasure which is salvation. Salvation cannot be bought. So people can read the Bible and miss the whole point that they need to be saved. A personal salvation experience with Christ is the hidden treasure that can be found in Scripture. It is free as it cannot be bought. But God so loved the world that He paid the price for the entire world (the field). Thus anyone can be saved.

The other aspect of the word “treasure” was the translation of the Bible into the common language of the people instead of being in Latin which suited the Roman Catholics. The King James Version of the Bible was printed about 1610 AD and is still regarded as the Jewel of the English language. So much so, that all the great Christian movements that were to follow started in English speaking countries.

[Around 1750 AD John Wesley preached holiness and outreach in England which laid the foundation for the missionary age that began just before 1800 AD.

Around 1906 the Pentecostal revival that began in America restored the baptism of the Holy Ghost to individual believers.

From 1947 to 1965, William Branham, also in America, revealed a deeper insight into Scripture that gave us a bigger picture that welded so-called conflicting Scriptures together. The real truth was restored for those individuals who could dare to think differently from their church leaders and their church traditions.]

But in the days of Luther’s great reformation, roughly from 1500 AD to about 1750 AD, there was a lack of Gospel outreach to the whole world. The reformers like Luther, Calvin, John Knox did an impressive work as regards evangelism in Europe.

But there were two major problems : what about the rest of the world? What about all the truth that they did not yet know?

Coming out of the Dark Ages the world needed the great truth of salvation as well as the great need of the Bible in their own languages. But people also needed holiness (which John Wesley would preach) and the Holy Ghost baptism (which the Pentecostals would restore). People also needed Truth so that they would not have to use unscriptural words like Trinity to describe God and then be fooled into thinking that “Father, Son and Holy Ghost” are names. We also need to know what original sin was and who the antichrist is. William Branham would guide us down that difficult path.

The reformers escaped from Rome and the authority of the Pope but their followers (like Jacob stealing his father in law’s idols), preferred to be dominated by human leaders and , as an example, the Anglicans accepted Henry VIII, who practiced adultery and murder, as Head of the church and Defender of the faith. They established their own priests with ceremonial robes in imitation of the Catholic priesthood. The reformers escaped (Sardis means escaped ones) from Rome but the Reformation was unfulfilled as their followers were not watchful to move on with God and simply re-established the Catholic idea of churches with a human head which, despite some differences, soon incorporated many ideas of the Roman Catholic church such as Trinity, baptism in the name of Father, Son and Holy Ghost, a human leader (priest or pastor) who dominates the church with his power to welcome in or cast out any individual. Compliance and submission to church leaders became the biggest obstacle to accepting further truth as God revealed it.

The sixth parable

MATTHEW 13:45

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls:

46 Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

A bit more truth is restored to the church as this parable contains two verses.

The field was bought in the last parable so it cannot be bought again. John Wesley opened the door to evangelism outside the church buildings and this eventually led to the great missionary age that began around 1800 AD.

In Revelation a pearl is a gate to the heavenly city.

REVELATION 21:21

And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

REVELATION 3:8

I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

In the sixth church age of Philadelphia (brotherly love) the church has an open door set before it. A door is thus the symbol of missionary work. So Christ died at Calvary to purchase the right to the missionary age. He would raise up missionaries who would spread the gospel of salvation in the Name of Jesus Christ even though there was still much error in what the Christians believed.

The heroic age of the missionaries, despite incredible difficulties, cast a glow of light around the world. This was a golden age of brotherly love (Philadelphia) as salvation spread to other nations and John Wesley's emphasis on holiness upgraded human behaviour standards. So much so that Protestant England was spared the horrors of the French revolution which ripped apart Catholic France. No-one who wanted to live holy could use a guillotine to behead people, or watch this awful spectacle.

“and hast not denied my name.” Missionaries emphasize the Name of Jesus Christ. There is no other path to salvation. This emphasis also began to open a Door to a deeper insight into Scripture, the fact that Jesus is God and there is no Trinity. Deeper truths are difficult for people to accept when they are in the comfort zone of their established churches. But the Door to deeper revelation was opening and revealing that Jesus is the Lord God Almighty. Another deeper revelation was that denominational religion is the mark of the beast, following human pastors along their own paths which are a mixture of truth and error. They are unable to be corrected because they reject any opinion other than their own. A more difficult revelation to accept is that sex was the original sin. Satan has really blinded people to this truth. Muslim men live with the belief that 70 virgins await them in heaven. This inspires many of them to kill themselves and others in suicide attacks so that they can claim their reward in heaven. They forget one basic fact. The golden rule remains : thou shalt not kill.

The missionary age was remarkable but it lacked two things : the Holy Ghost baptism and the full Truth of Scripture that would come into view as the Door opened.

Notice how many Christians still say “ There is a mistake in the Bible” as they attempt to reconcile Scriptures that appear to contradict each other. There is no mistake in the King James Version Bible. It remains the Absolute. The mistake is always in our ignorance, our lack of the big picture. This would remain a problem until William Branham began to reveal his remarkable insights into Scripture. An eagle has a double eye. The outer perimeter keeps the big picture in focus. The inner portion of its eye can magnify a detail about 10 times which enables it to see things that other birds cannot.

The Lion age introduced the truth of the Bible with St Paul and the Apostles. The ox age saw millions of Christians die for their faith in the Dark Ages. The man age saw human intellect blessed with an ability to translate the Bible correctly into the King James Version. The last age, the eagle age, saw power from above come down on Pentecost in the form of the Holy Ghost baptism. But humans then split that movement up into pastor dominated Pentecostal denominations. Then a prophet, William Branham, restored the ancient Scriptural truths of the early church with his remarkable insights. But his followers would go down the same sad path of splitting the movement into pastor dominated versions of his quotes. Thus the last church age, the seventh parable, is ready to unfold. Outwardly it looks good and prosperous but actually the last church age is in bad shape.

MATTHEW 13:47

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind:

The sea is the restless multitude of people. The Gospel net goes out and collects all sorts of people. The word “net” also has the added meaning of internet, where people from all over the world can contact truth.

MATTHEW 13:48

48 Which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away.

Just like fishermen, some of the fish are good and some are not. Some people respond to the Truth and some do not. They think that they are rejecting truth but actually it is themselves that are being rejected by truth.

MATTHEW 13:49

49 So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just,

The real struggle is in the Spirit where it is God versus Satan. The flesh is little more than a shadow of the real spiritual struggle. We think we serve God but angels play a key role in separating us from evil and keeping us on the right path. In this confusing and deceiving age, we need all the help that we can get.

MATTHEW 13:50

50 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Those who reject truth will end up in the great Tribulation which ends the seventh church age.

MATTHEW 13:51

51 Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

In the seventh age, thanks to the revelations unfolded by William Branham, the understanding of Scripture returns so that the last church age can have the same basic beliefs as the first church age.

MATTHEW 13:52

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

The last age must understand all the new developments like the Jews going back to Israel as well as the Elijah who will restore us back to the early church of the first age so that we can serve God in the same ways and with the same understanding that they did in days of old.

MATTHEW 13:53

53 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

The seventh church age will end when Jesus returns to take His Bride, the true church, and then departs with her to Heaven for the wedding feast.

The rest go into the Tribulation. Please do not be amongst this group even though they are by far in the majority. But they will not go far.

Has the Church gone through Seven Church Ages?

The Christian church has always been trapped between the two most important events in human history (His story) which are the First Coming of Jesus to die for our sins, and the Second Coming of Jesus to catch up His Bride church from off the earth and take her to Heaven for the wedding supper of the Lamb. The Second Coming is often called the Rapture.

The roughly 2 000 years in between these two great events has been devoted to the history of the church.

The church can be compared to a seed that has to be buried in the ground. The seed dies and rots and then, miraculously in a way that Science cannot duplicate, leaves come shooting up from the ground before the tassels form which produces pollen that blows over the field. Then a husk forms to protect the seed that is developing in it. As the seed develops the whole plant begins to dry up. Then finally seeds appear which are identical to the original seed that was planted. Then comes the harvest where the seeds are pulled off the plant. Then the farm beasts like oxen and cows eat up the dried up plants that never went in the harvest.

During 2 000 years, the church went through four basic stages as seven different church ages faced different conditions for the Christians to fight against. But there was one constant opposition throughout all seven church ages, and that was the Roman Catholic church.

Stage 1.

This was the original seed that God established.

Church Age 1. The apostles established the truth between AD 33 and about AD 100 when the last apostle, John, died. By that time the New Testament was written and became the basis of the early church.

Church Age 2. Shortly before the year AD 200 the churches, in their attempts to combat error, became careless. Error is like the weeds of the field -- it will always be present. With good intentions, they established a man to be the head of each church. This looked efficient but it just introduced another error which was the human leadership of the church. To keep all these church leaders in line, each city elected a bishop to be in charge of all the churches in a city. When this bishop was a godly man like Irenaeus, then this did not seem to be a bad idea. But not many men were of his calibre. The human leaders, or bishops, began to bind their churches to their own opinions. God used a series of vicious persecutions by the Roman Empire to scatter the Christians and thus minimize the damage caused by human leaders.

Stage 2.

This led to the burial of the original seed truths of the New Testament under the dirt of the Dark Ages.

Church Age 3. Politics entered the church with Constantine as the Roman emperor in 312 AD. He used the Council of Nicea in AD 325 to dictate official church doctrine and establish a centralized church organization in Rome to make the bishop of Rome a strong yes-man of his in the western Roman empire, while he went east to Constantinople. Loaded with Constantine's money, the bishop of Rome could buy his way to power over other churches by giving other churches money when they needed it.

Paganism entered the church. Around AD 400 the bishop of Rome assumed the title of Pope which made him the boss bishop of all the local bishops that he could get under his authority. By 382 AD the bishop of Rome, Damasus, was called Pontiff (the high priest of the Babylonian mysteries) by the Roman emperor Theodosius. Truth became buried under layers of pagan tradition (think about the date 25 December which was the sun god's birthday, and the decorated pagan tree of Jeremiah Chapter 10 that became the church's Christmas tree) and church people degenerated into superstition. Making the sign of the cross, and praying to Mary and the dead saints for help.

Church Age 4. By the year AD 606, the Pope or bishop of Rome declared himself to be the Universal Bishop. He now claimed to be the Big Boss Bishop with authority over all the bishops in the world.

Tens of millions of dissenters were killed by the Roman Catholic church, which did its best to keep people away from the Bible. Europe became spiritually cold, dark, and dirty. The corruption and evil in the Roman church were sickening. These Dark Ages were the dirt that the original seed of the apostolic truth was buried in, out of sight. But the blood of tens of millions of martyrs would nourish that rotten soil.

Stage 3.

God begins to restore Life back into the church.

Church Age 5. Just after 1500 new leaves began to shoot up out of the blood-drenched soil as the Reformers, led by the brave Martin Luther in Germany, began to restore the truth of salvation by faith in the sacrifice of Jesus. Knox, Calvin, Zwingli, Melancthon, and other reformers sprouted up like green leaves, before the Protestant movement later stalled in a multitude of different denominational camps that gave their devotion to their human leaders. Human leadership again crept in, devoted to competitive Christianity. "My church is better than yours". Denominations built protective doctrinal walls around themselves.

Church Age 6. Around 1750 John Wesley in England started a movement based on holiness and outreach to the sinners who were outside the church. This laid the foundation for the great missionary age led by William Carey as the first missionary to India in 1793. His example inspired tens of thousands to enter the mission fields as they scattered the Life-giving pollen of salvation and holiness around the world. This golden century of outreach enabled Christians to develop a vision that extended beyond their denominational barriers. The mission fields were tough and harsh and dangerous. But God raised up a fantastic spiritual army of tough and determined people whose memories still live on as inspiring legends today. These missionaries were simply incredible. Satan got badly whipped in that century of selfless devotion and sacrifice. But a wounded Devil is dangerous. He licked his wounds and prepared for the last round of his titanic battle against God for the control of the minds of men and women.

Stage 4.

The Bride must be fully restored to the Spirit and Truth of the apostolic fathers of the New Testament. This has to happen in a gifted but dark age.

Church Age 7. Starting in 1906 in Los Angeles, the Pentecostal movement restored the baptism of the Holy Ghost and the supernatural gifts. It started as a free movement, but by 1917 Pentecost denominated and the fires died down. In the late 1940s, William Branham and Oral Roberts gave Pentecost a welcome boost, and the revival fires lit up again. But this age, thanks to an explosion of scientific knowledge and technology, became incredibly wealthy. Sadly, the spiritual renewal was ruined by wealth and carnal materialism. The prosperity doctrine unleashed human greed, which is a commodity that is never nice, nor does it ever achieve anything worthwhile.

In this modern nervous age that loves luxury, but is plagued with instability, uncertainty, nervous tension, stress, violence, and barbarity, the people are so self-obsessed and self-seeking that they cannot hear the Voice of Jesus as He calls to them from outside their church door. This is the ultimate tragedy of the age. The leaders of the church have effectively removed Christ from the people in the church. This is just what the scribes and Pharisees, the religious leaders of the Jews, achieved when Jesus first came to earth.

So the Bride individuals who seek Truth have to be restored back to the same New Testament beliefs of the apostles. They have to find Truth outside their churches where they fellowship. Like the missionaries, they are going to have to be brave and determined if they want to achieve this. But some will, in fear and trembling, search out their own salvation from the oncoming storms of judgement that will sweep the world in the Great Tribulation.

Just before that happens, the Bride that is exactly restored to the first church so that the first seed and the last seed look identical will be pulled off the dried-up church plant in the latter rain harvest, as God takes her up to the Heavenly feast of the Lamb. The rest of the world will go to the Beast. The Bride will eat, the rest will be eaten or destroyed by the ferocious antichrist Pope and his demon-controlled hordes.

Chapter 1 in the Book of Revelation is a brief introduction to the seven church ages.

Matthew Chapter 13 records seven parables of the kingdom. These parables relate to the seven church ages.

MARK 4:11 And he said unto them (His disciples), Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables:

:12 That seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them.

Jesus gave the apostles an insight into the mystery of the unfolding history of the church. The Jews would be rejected from God's plan when they crucified their Messiah. God would then turn to the Gentiles. This was a mystery that the Jews did not understand.

But then the truth that the apostles used to establish the early church would be lost as human leadership and human traditions took over the Gentile church. Then finally, at the end, in the seventh church age, the mystery of the history of the church ages would be made known. This would enable the end-time believers (the children) to be restored back to the understanding that the apostles (the fathers) once had.

REVELATION 10: 7 But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel the mystery of God should be finished as He has declared unto His servants the prophets.

ROMANS 11:25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

But the church as a whole would reject the idea of returning to the beliefs of the apostles. Jesus, the Word, would be locked out of the church in the last church age. Then God would catch up the true church to Heaven and turn His attention to the Jews.

ROMANS 16:25 Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began,

Paul established the mystery of the Gospel. The basis of Christianity was laid down by Paul. We have to return to his beliefs.

EPHESIANS 2:6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

:7 That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.

There are ages to come says, Paul. He was aware of the seven church ages. But each age had to fit into a certain pattern.

I PETER 2:5 Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

Each Christian is a living stone in God's great spiritual Temple that spans 2 000 years. Each Christian is part of the priesthood. The fivefold ministry is not an Aaronic priesthood that stands between a man and God. All believers are part of the priesthood. Thus all believers are equal. No human is elevated above the rest.

GALATIANS 1:8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

:9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

"Again". Why does Paul say this twice?

Those Christians in the first church age had to listen to him as he wrote down half of the Books in the New Testament. No apostle, not even Paul himself, can change what is written. The Bible is supreme. Man can only preach what is in the Bible.

II THESSALONIANS 2:3 Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;

Then the truth would be lost and buried in the Dark Ages and only in the last church age would Christians be restored back to Paul's teachings.

So the second time he is warning us in this last age. We had better believe what Paul said or else we will be accursed. If we disagree with Paul then we are in big trouble. The great Tribulation is moving in like a tsunami and our only way of escape is by getting back to what Paul taught. William Branham also has to line up with Paul's teachings.

I CORINTHIANS 3:9 For we are labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building.

:10 According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

:11 For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

Each Christian is a living stone in God's great temple that will be built over 2 000 years. But whatever you build for God, make sure you are building on the foundation that Paul built.

We build "together" with Paul. Do not think up your own bright ideas. Just get back to what Paul said.

ROMANS 16:25 Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began,

Paul's Gospel was the foundation for the church ages which were to follow. This was a great mystery that was hidden from the Jews. Then the church also lost this knowledge as they followed human leaders. So the doctrine of the church ages became lost to the Gentiles until it was finally restored back in the last or seventh church age.

EPHESIANS 1:9 Having made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure which he hath purposed in himself:

God has allowed the history of His church to unfold in a way that humans find mysterious. God's will is very different from our will.

EPHESIANS 3:3 How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote afore in few words,

:4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ)

:5 Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

"Other ages".

The Jews had also gone through seven church ages, starting with Abraham who "left his first love" when he claimed that Sarah was only his sister and not his wife. Then he produced Ishmael with the Egyptian Hagar. From her came the Muslims and today's Middle East crisis.

Finally John the Baptist came in the last or seventh age of the Jews to introduce Jesus Who died outside the camp of Jewish establishment-religion as their rejected King. The Jewish religious leaders, the scribes and Pharisees, blinded the people to their Messiah.

But throughout Jewish history the idea of a Gentile church stretching over 2 000 years was a complete mystery to them.

EPHESIANS 5:32 This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

COLOSSIANS 2:2 That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ;

The Godhead is a major mystery.

I TIMOTHY 3:16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh,

Somehow Jesus is both Man and God. This is not easy to understand. The church would lose sight of Jesus being Almighty God.

Irony -- The Jews could not believe that Almighty God could be a Man, Jesus. The church today cannot believe that the Man Jesus can be Almighty God. They only see Him as the Son of God.

But natural light is also a mystery. It behaves like a particle that can only move in one direction (like a bullet) but also behaves like a wave that can move in all directions at once (like dropping a stone into a pool of water and watching the ripples move outwards in all directions). Not easy to understand, but it happens anyway.

II THESSALONIANS 2:7 For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

"Let" means prevent. Religious deception started in the church right at the beginning. This deception is so subtle that it would fool the vast majority of churchgoers. Very few will properly expose church error. God combats this evil until He leaves the earth at the end of the seventh church age. Then humanity is in deep trouble. The Devil will go unchecked on his final rampage into the Tribulation.

EPHESIANS 1:10 That in the dispensation of the fulness of times he might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:

God wants to gather the last age and the first age into the same set of beliefs.

GALATIANS 1:11 But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man.

:12 For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

No man can add anything to the Bible. No man can change the Bible. The Book of Revelation lays out the whole history of the Gospel through the different conditions of each age. Satan kept throwing up different problems, and God somehow got His believers to overcome in the face of very different tactics and circumstances that confronted them at different times.

I PETER 1:13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

I PETER 1:17 And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear:

If we grasp the revelation of Jesus Christ we will realize the great danger of being fooled in our day, and our total dependence on God's grace will make us fear Him. We will not seek for our own selfish greed and lust.

The revelation of Jesus Christ puts the emphasis on Jesus. Not on some great man.

REVELATION 1: 1 The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John:

The Chapter starts with a focus on Jesus. If we do not have a revelation of Who He is, then we will take our eyes off Him and start focusing on some man.

'Things will shortly come to pass' -- which will later be known as the history of the church. Different challenges unexpectedly confront Christians. Stay with the Bible, not with your own ideas as you confront the enemy. Your own ideas on how to combat error will merely be another error of human opinion that enters the church.

A day with God is as a thousand years. So 2000 years of church history is just today and tomorrow as far as God is concerned. So, very shortly, in fact, the day after tomorrow, Jesus says to John that He will come.

REVELATION 1:2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

Stay with the Bible as it is the Word of God. The testimony of Jesus means that you do things His way, not your own way. His way is always written in the Bible.

REVELATION 1:3 Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

We read the Bible, not some man's opinion. You are only blessed when you hear someone read what is written in the Bible, but you must stay with what is written.

"Readeth" means to read with understanding.

If you do not understand what is read then it is meaningless and is not a blessing to you.

Keep God's Word. Do not change it to suit yourself. Truth does not always suit our human convenience and comfort. Nor will truth fit in with our human opinions.

"He that readeth". Only one man, the seventh angel, will be able to read the mysteries of Scripture with insight and understanding. We, in turn, must listen to his voice in order to understand the Scripture.

REVELATION 1:4 John to the seven churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from the seven Spirits which are before his throne;

This Book of Revelation is mainly addressed to the seventh church age. The first church age had the truth from the apostles. Their test was to believe the New Testament and be ready to die for what they believed. In 64 AD the Roman emperor Nero launched the first vicious persecution against Christians. Three million Christians were killed by Roman emperors in the first 250 years of the history of the church. They faced death as their major enemy.

Then the truth got lost, and during the church ages, people basically had no clue what the symbols in the Book of Revelation meant. In the last age, the symbols would be revealed again. Thus John is effectively writing to the Christians of the last church age. Only they could actually understand him.

God's grace is critical. Only He can help Christians. We need inner peace from God in our hostile and deceiving surroundings. The battle is His. We must learn to submit to His will.

Seven represents completion. Seven days complete a week. Seven dominant colours in a rainbow. Seven dominant notes in music "Doh, ray, me, fah, soh, lah, tee". Seven churches are all that God needs to convey the complete plan of church history.

He chooses Asia. This begins and ends with an A. The first and the last letter are the same. The last church age must be the same as the first church age. Asia is Gentile territory. This is a hint that the future church (at the time of writing the book of Revelation) will be mainly Gentiles.

"Which is" (our present tense seventh church age), "which was" (past tense. The first church age was past tense to every other age. Every church age only served God in so far as they were restored back to the first church age), "which is to come" (the future. Jesus "is to come" when the last age Christians are fully restored back to the first age Christians. This is the only group that has a great future, free from the Tribulation).

The seven spirits. God gives different attributes of His Spirit to each age to combat the challenges of that age. So each age seems different to the others because different attributes of God are manifest in each age. Our seventh age wallows in wealth, but the spread of wrong doctrine is so subtle that we need a good understanding of the Bible to withstand error. In the Dark Ages of the fourth age they had little truth, partly because Bibles were banned, but needed huge courage to be burnt at the stake and not deny the bit of truth that they had. So God manifested His Holy Spirit in seven different ways to sustain each age through its different problems.

For instance, a woman can be the wife of a man, the daughter of her mother, the mother of her daughter, a friend of her neighbours, a colleague at her work, a helper at a charity, and a rescuer of animals in distress. She behaves in completely different ways, depending on who she is with. But she is still one woman with seven different ways of manifesting the spirit that is within her. "My husband tells me what to do", says the wife but, "I tell my daughter what to do". Nevertheless it is the same woman.

REVELATION 1:5 And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

There is only one faithful witness that can be trusted in the changing circumstances of church history and that is Jesus, the Word.

He is the first one to be resurrected in a new immortal body. The last church age ends with the resurrection of the dead. So the Bible gives us all the clues that we need to be ready for the resurrection.

The prince takes over from the king. Jesus is the prince of all the kings on earth. When He returns, He will take over from every king as they fade off the scene and He sets up His kingdom on earth.

Jesus loves us and is struggling to get us to believe the truth so that He can save us from the Tribulation.

There is only one way to get saved from hell. Confess our sins and have them washed clean in the Blood of Jesus. That saves us from hell. That was a crucial doctrine running through the church ages.

But the last church has a further problem because it ends in the Great Tribulation and we need to be saved from that fate also, even though we are already saved from hell. That is what the restoration to the first church is all about. Only their beliefs will save us from the Tribulation.

REVELATION 1:6 And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

We will rule with Christ in the millennium as kings on earth. Every member of the Bride is also part of the priesthood. There is no Aaronic priesthood of a fivefold ministry that is elevated up between God and man. As kings and priests, we have no humans above us. Thus the church has to be run as a brotherhood that is based on equality. Not an elevated priest or pastor, with the people being in submission to him.

Every saved Christian is a priest. No priest is above another priest. The only person who is above a priest is the High Priest, Jesus.

Priests and pastors love the praise of people and a position of pre-eminence. They love the power that they have over people. It feeds their ego and self-importance. But glory and dominion over people only belong to Jesus. Praising man is the first step down the wrong path. Relying on a man establishes us in the wrong path.

REVELATION 1:7 Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

His Coming will be with clouds, plural. Clouds of glory will be seen with His physical body. He will not come as a cloud.

When every eye sees Him, that is His third Coming when He returns for Armageddon at the end of the Tribulation. All the sleeping virgins have been killed in the Tribulation. The 144 000 have also been killed. Only the beast and those who served him, by killing off those who refused to submit to the beast, are left. That is why everyone is wailing. They then know they will have to answer for their crimes and murders.

“Even so”. That is the way it has to be. The Scriptural Bride will escape the tribulation. The rest of the saved Christians will be slaughtered in the Tribulation.

ACTS 1:9 And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

He went up with a cloud. He did not go as a cloud.

:11 Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

He will come with a cloud. He will not come as a cloud.

The supernatural cloud of 1963 was not the coming of the Lord.

The cloud never came down. It stayed at an incredible height of about 27 miles but was only visible for 27 minutes after sunset. Besides, there were two clouds.

The above photograph was taken from Winslow in Arizona.

REVELATION 1:8 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

He stresses the first and the last two times. Why? He wants the last church age to end up believing exactly what the first church age believed. The seed that is planted in the beginning is identical to the seed that is harvested in the end. So Jesus warns us -- If we are not exactly like the early church, we will not be in the harvest when He pulls His Bride off the earth.

“which is”. Present tense. “Which was”. Past tense. Another warning -- In our present age we must go back to what the church was in the first age. When we are identical to them, only then will He be able to fulfill His plan which means that He “is to come” to take His Bride Home to Heaven. This is future tense. So the restored Bride has a great future.

But look at the succession of Popes.

REVELATION 17: 8 when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.

A Pope was ruling. He is not when he dies. Yet is when they elect a new Pope. The succession of Popes is the longest line of rulers in the western world. But notice. “was” is past tense. “is not” is present tense. “yet is” is present tense. So the succession of Popes is described by words in the present tense and the past tense. That tells us that there is no future tense. In other words, there is no future for the Roman Catholic church. The home of the Popes, the Vatican city, which is mystery Babylon, is to be destroyed by a nuclear bomb.

REVELATION 18:9 And the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning,

: 10 Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.

Why do they lament from far away? Why not get in and put the fire out? It is a nuclear inferno that cannot be put out because of all the deadly radiation will kill nearby people. No one wants to get close to a nuclear bomb explosion.

REVELATION 1:8 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

“the Almighty”. Jesus is Almighty God. No one can be compared to Him. Never try to elevate a man to be equal with God. If you believe something like that, it just shows that you have absolutely no idea Who God is. God is like the sun. Man is like a star. The brightest star cannot shine when the sun comes into view.

REVELATION 1:9 I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

Consider the human lust for church leadership. "Call me pastor. I am above you and you must be submissive to me." - - Look what John says, “I am your brother”. This great apostle does not try to intimidate us with his rank and title. He was one of the select twelve. He can claim that rank of apostle. But he does not. People who stress their leadership titles have caused so much damage to the church over the ages. Human leadership of the church has been a major disaster. So this great apostle sets the example, “I am your brother”. You are equal to me. There is no Aaronic priesthood with ministries above the people. Elevating a man is nicolaitanism. That is a bad space to be in.

“companion in tribulation”. The church has so many tribulations to endure. Tens of millions of martyrs will pay the price for their faith. Christianity is not for sissies. John does not offer you a bed of roses. He offers you tribulation. Just ask the thousands of missionaries who struggled and died on the mission fields. Not the TV evangelists and megachurch pastors in their luxury homes. They are missing something.

If you have an easy and prosperous Christian life, be careful. Maybe you are no threat to the Devil and that is why he leaves you in peace.

Patmos was an island prison for the scum of the Roman empire. John was unjustly banished to Patmos first by Nero, that worst of Roman emperors who ruled from AD 54 to 68. Nero died in AD 68 and all political prisoners were released on the death of the emperor who had imprisoned them. Then Domitian who ruled from 81 to 96 as emperor banished John again to Patmos during his reign of terror. John was finally released when Domitian died. Historians claim that John went to Ephesus, the nearest city to Patmos, and made the final compiling of the New Testament books as he was the only apostle left, and thus the last man who could get that depth of guidance from God. John knew God when God was on earth in the form of a Man, called Jesus.

John was imprisoned because of his stand for the Bible.

This will be our final test too. Can you stand for the Bible when all around you are standing on quotes of some man?

REVELATION 1:10 I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet,

The Lord's day is the Tribulation time, not a day of the week.

ISAIAH 13:6 Howl ye; for the day of the LORD is at hand; it shall come as a destruction from the Almighty.

:9 Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate; and he shall destroy the sinners thereof out of it.

AMOS 5:20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

JEREMIAH 46:10 For this is the day of the Lord GOD of hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his adversaries: and the sword shall devour, and it shall be satiate and made drunk with their blood: for the Lord GOD of hosts hath a sacrifice in the north country by the river Euphrates.

The Russian hordes. Russia is north of Israel. The king of the north, the Great Bear, will finally be destroyed in the Tribulation.

REVELATION 1:11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

Jesus emphasizes the first and last again. The last age must be restored to the first age.

Even the word "ASIA" is significant. The last letter is "A" which is the same as the first letter "A".

The seven red dots indicate the seven churches in Asia. Rome is marked with a green dot.

These seven cities lay on a postal road. God describes their characteristics and thereby sends a message, not just down this postal road to describe the condition of these seven churches but also down the "postal road of time" or the "pipeline of time", as He describes the events that will unfold during the future church ages. The Devil is defeated by time as he cannot see the future. God prophesies about the future to show His control over time. Prophecy is what makes the Bible unique. This is the stamp of God.

The postal road from Ephesus (1) to Laodicea (7) is shown on the above map as well as the two rivers that are in that area.

Now comes some real power. God made the characteristics of each city to match the characteristics of a future church age. And those future church ages would unfold in the same order as what the cities were on the postal road. This indicates the incredible control of human events that God has.

A pattern begins to unfold.

The road moves up away from Ephesus until it gets to the political capital Pergamos (3) then it does a drastic turn. This is the third church age where the emperor Constantine forced politics and paganism into the Roman Catholic church. With all the money and the magnificent Lateran palace that Constantine gave to the bishop of Rome, the Roman bishop became the powerful head of a centralized church, which was the only Roman organization that survived the breakup of the Roman empire, which had been caused by the barbarian invasions. Then followed the famine, plague, chaos, and the religious murder of the Dark Ages. The Popes also encouraged the murderous crusades into Palestine to kill the Muslims. There were flickering lights of revival like the Albigenses in southern France, the Waldenses in the Alps, and Jan Hus of Bohemia that the Roman Catholic church suppressed and opposed. Then the church began to return back to the same level as Ephesus with the Reformation of Martin Luther (5) and the missionary age of John Wesley (6) and the Pentecostal revival of the Holy Spirit that started the Laodicean church age in 1906 at Los Angeles (7).

Finally, the church needed a revival of Scriptural Truth. A prophet Elijah was needed to restore us back to the teachings of the apostolic fathers where it had all begun.

But the church tradition of having a one-man human head as pastor sidelined the movement. Then followed an obsession for these elevated pastors to be the interpreters of quotes that placed future events into the past. The great Cloud of 1963 became the Coming of the Lord and the descent of the mighty Angel of Revelation 10. Brother Branham's image in the eyes of "Message believers" changed from being a prophet who was the "voice of the seventh angel". He became regarded as infallible, and his quotes, which are uplifted to Deity as the "Voice of God", can replace Scripture where necessary. He became more than a man, as they claimed that he was the appearing of "The Son of Man". The enforced "worship" of an image of the prophet Daniel began in the first Gentile kingdom of Babylon. Subtle infusions of the Babylonian mysteries into revealed Bible truths have reduced Message believers to this same delusion that their prophet is the Absolute, with his quotes standing in the place of the Word of God, in the last Gentile age of Laodicea. (Vicarius Filii Dei means "In place of the Son of God". This is 666, the number of the mark of the beast. These Message believers are in a dangerous territory).

No one can replace Jesus or stand in His place.

So there is a final mystery to the seven church ages.

The need for individuals to come out of the Message groups that have built up unscriptural interpretations from selected quotes.

The need for a group of elders to replace a dominating pastor as the ones who feed the local flock.

No Scripture says that the tithes belong to the pastor.

No Scripture says that we have to meet in "church" buildings or tabernacles.

Early believers met in houses. So this is a safe example to be restored back to.

ROMANS 16:3 Greet Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus:

:5 Likewise greet the church that is in their house.

I CORINTHIANS 16:19 The churches of Asia salute you. Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, with the church that is in their house.

ACTS 8:3 As for Saul, he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

COLOSSIANS 4:15 Salute the brethren which are in Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the church which is in his house.

The last move is just for individuals who can escape from the church of Laodicea (7) back to Ephesus (1) so that we can be fully restored to the first church, free from the errors that are caused by splicing selected quotes together. Free from the domination of one-man human leadership.

REVELATION 3:14 And unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write

:20 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

Jesus stands outside the door of all the Laodicean churches. He mentions no exceptions. This includes Message churches, in all their varieties. He appeals only to individuals.

We can have only one goal today: somehow we have to get back to Ephesus where the church ages started. We must only do and believe what is written in the New Testament.

Even the names of the cities can be given meanings that tell the same unfolding story of events.

“unto Ephesus (relaxed, aimed at), and unto Smyrna (bitterness, death), and unto Pergamos (thoroughly married), and unto Thyatira (dominating woman), and unto Sardis (escaped ones), and unto Philadelphia (brotherly love), and unto Laodicea (peoples’ rights)”.

The first church age, thanks to Paul and the apostles, had the truth but after the apostles died, believers became relaxed. They aimed at being Scriptural but became less vigilant and more careless about the odd unscriptural human ideas that kept creeping in. As this human leadership established control over the church, God raised up persecution which scattered them into small groups to minimize human domination of the church. Three million Christians died in the Roman empire from these fierce and bitter persecutions. Bitterness and death were the Christians’ companions as the Roman Empire tried to stamp them out. The Roman emperor Constantine stopped the killing at the cost of forcing the church to marry thoroughly into his brand of political control. He also forced the church to get thoroughly married into pagan traditions so that pagans would feel at home in the church. Like claiming that 25 December, the birthday of the sun god, was also the birthday of Jesus. Then the Roman empire disintegrated under the barbarian invasions, and the Roman Pope rose to power as the barbarians depended on him to anoint their kings, which saved these kings from assassination. A man could only be a legitimate king if he was anointed or crowned by the Pope. So the barbarian kings defended the Roman Catholic church which consequently rose to power and ended up dominating Europe. A woman symbolizes a church. The true church is called the Bride of Christ.

Thus the Catholic church was the dominating woman of the Dark Ages.

Then came the Reformation as Martin Luther in Germany led the escaped ones who rejected the clutches of Catholicism, and joined the Protestant movement. Then John Wesley started an outreach movement to save those who were outside the church. This led to the great missionary age where the brotherly love of the missionaries for their pagan brethren took them overseas to labour and die in their great efforts to save the heathen.

Then came our nervous and uncertain modern age with its two awful world wars, amazing technological advancements, incredible production of goods and wealth, and free-thinking in the universities that “proved” evolution and the Big Bang which destroyed faith in the Bible. Taking their eyes off God, people became obsessed with their own rights and their entitlement to live in sin as they pursue their greed and selfishness. People’s rights made people demand the right to choose their own lifestyle and their own beliefs by being able to join whichever church they want to attend out of the more than 45000 different varieties or types of churches or denominations now available. Christians insist on their own right to elevate, uplift, and follow the pastor of their own choice. Their own right to interpret a man’s quotes and call this their Absolute. Thus very few will actually seek to be restored to the original teachings of the apostles as written in the New Testament. Sadly, a gifted but dark age, blinded by wealth and human brilliance, locks the Word of God Who is their true Head outside their church door. Inside the church is another head, the pastor. But inside is darkness because the Light stands outside.

JOHN 3:19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

On such a world the great Tribulation will burst like a horrific tsunami and earthquake.

REVELATION 1:12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks;

REVELATION 1:20and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

We are never where God wants us to be. We are never looking in the direction where God wants us to look. To see the Voice that spoke, John had to turn around. Turn around and go the other way is symbolic of repentance. The key to spiritual success is endless repentance. We have far more error than what we realize. But then our age is blind, and we do not know that. We think we are bright.

ISAIAH 55:9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

Whenever God reveals something from the Bible then it will be different to what we thought. So we must be endlessly repentant of our own way of thinking, because our thinking just cannot reach the level of God's thinking.

LUKE 17:10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

An unprofitable business makes more losses than gains. Since the Bible says we are all unprofitable servants it means that however hard we try, we do more wrong than what we do right. We have many wrong beliefs that we have picked up from books, priests, pastors, other people, as well as our own so-called bright revelations. So thinking that we are very clever, we are actually an endless loss to God. Only His grace can sustain us, not our works or our bright ideas.

REVELATION 1:13 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

The seven candlesticks represent the seven church ages. Only one Person is visible. Jesus. No man is seen with Him. No man can in any way compare with Him. John did not see Paul, nor William Branham. We Christians must learn to elevate Jesus way above any other person. Jesus is in the midst of His people during these seven ages. Whatever Christians have to go through, Jesus is there to help them endure their trials. Jesus is the only Person Who is present in all seven ages. Each man, however spiritual, could only be present for a portion of one church age. Thus no human can compare with Jesus.

REVELATION 1:14 His head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire;

The white woollen wig of a judge. Grey speaks of age, but white speaks of wisdom. We are not to judge one other, only Jesus has the wisdom to do this.

JOHN 5:22 For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

Jesus will judge us as a Man, not as God. As a fellow Man, He understands us.

JOHN 12:48 He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

We will be judged by what is written in the Bible.

His eyes glow with fire. His judgements will be hard. His eyes look right through people to discern their thoughts and motives. If we do not stay strictly with Scripture we will be in deep trouble.

Only one sentence will pass the Judgement seat: "It is written...".

If it is not written in the Bible, leave it alone.

REVELATION 1:15 And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and his voice as the sound of many waters.

Feet like brass.

DEUTERONOMY 28:15 But it shall come to pass, if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee:

:23 And thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

Brass is hard and is a symbol of judgement. He Himself suffered frightful agonies of death to establish the truth. The fiery trials of His faith were as if He had walked through the fires of hell on our behalf as He suffered for our sins and carried our sins through hellfire to dump them on the Devil. Yet His voice is life-giving like the soothing sound of waters to those who believe His Word. But His voice sounds like the oncoming storms of judgement to those who do not believe.

REVELATION 1:16 And he had in his right hand seven stars: and out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword: and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

EPHESIANS 6:17 ...and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God:

The Word of God is the sword wherewith we fight, not against people in the flesh to kill them physically, but rather to kill the ideas that Satan has put into their minds. It is a war of words, truth versus error.

A two-edged sword that cuts out our own sin even as it cuts out the sin of others. The truth blends the cutting edge of the Old Testament with the cutting edge of the New Testament. Both Testaments have to merge together if we are to claim that we have the truth.

His face is like the sun, dazzling in its brightness. Jesus is the Word of God and we cannot argue with Him. His brightness, His wisdom, His example just so far outshines any human efforts. Our man-made lights only illuminate a small area. The sun lightens up the whole world as the world spins on its axis. And sunlight is free. The King James Version Bible is free from copyright, except possibly in the United Kingdom. Anyone else can copy it. This makes sense as nobody can copyright God's Word. The other Bible versions are copyrighted as they are man's opinions. So God's Word freely illuminates everyone, just like the sun. Man's bright lights are like his bright religious ideas -- they are just limited puddles of light that last until the globe goes out.

The King James Bible is the River of Life. Do not misinterpret a puddle of quotes and call that Truth.

REVELATION 1:17 And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last:

In the presence of Jesus, the great prophet John became as nothing. If we truly come into the presence of Jesus then we will just die to ourselves and our own opinions. His right hand symbolizes power.

MATTHEW 26:64 Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

The power of God becomes more and more effective as we succeed more and more in dying to ourselves. We are so obsessed with our own ideas and traditions that our efforts to serve God are unprofitable to Him. If we die to ourselves, then God can use us to achieve His will, because we cannot comprehend God's will in our own wisdom. To serve God, He has to be able to push us in directions that we do not want to go in. That is why we fail when we choose the church that we do like. That is our will, not His will.

"I am the first and the last" -- Once again this emphasis. The first church age had the truth. The truth then got lost. Only in the last church age will the Bride be restored back to the first church age's teachings. We must have no bright ideas of our own. We must not rely on a plausible interpretation of quotes that produce ideas that the first church never believed. We must not follow some man. All we can do, if we are to please God, is to follow the teachings and example of the New Testament, and make sure that we add no "clever" trimmings to what they believed. We think we are bright. We think that our interpretations of quotes are clever. But we fool ourselves. Our wisdom is like a flickering candle. You cannot compare a candle with the sun. Only Jesus is bright like the sun. Only the Bible should be our illumination.

REVELATION 1:18 I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.

Again Jesus stresses that He is alive in His last church age, and refers back to His death and then His resurrection which launched the first church age. Thus He wants the last church to be like the first church because the truth established in the first church age will never change, as it will be forevermore the way Paul and the apostles preached it in the power of the resurrection. We have to get back to their example and teachings. Our modern interpretations, if they were not preached by the first church, are simply wrong.

Jesus went down to the regions of the lost and defeated the Devil, stripping him of his authority over death and hell. Since then no Christian can die unless Jesus grants permission. Christians do not have to fear death, as it only happens if God permits it, and then that death is in the will of God.

The third and fourth church ages would see the Christian church plunge into the abyss of religious deception, pagan traditions, and political involvement which are guaranteed to produce spiritual death. But Jesus has the keys of death and hell, so when all seemed lost in the Dark Ages, He would unlock the doors of human knowledge that would lead to the Renaissance of learning, the skill of printing, and then the courage of the Reformation to return to Biblical salvation by grace through faith that finally ended the Dark Ages. Justification by faith launched the fifth church age. This was the first step towards restoring the church back to the New Testament model of the apostles. The strength of Christianity lies in the extent that it has returned towards the first church.

REVELATION 1:19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;

John must write down what he saw in these visions which describe “the things that are”, the present state of the seven churches and the amazing way in which the characteristics of these seven churches will reveal the history of the seven church ages “which shall be hereafter”, as the 2 000 years of church history unfolds. Already he could see the way in which the first church age was being described by the characteristics of the Ephesian church. He could see how human leadership was infiltrating the early church, and leading the people away from the doctrines of the apostles.

III JOHN 1:9 I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

:10 Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us (the apostles) with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the church.

This early church leader, behaving just like a modern-day pastor, dominated the church, rejected the Scriptures that were written by the apostles, and threw people out of the church when they disagreed with him. John was giving us an insight into the way that human leadership would govern the church. It was not a pretty picture.

Yet John knew that the first church had the truth, for those who wanted to follow truth.

John introduces himself as an elder. Elders, plural, not a dominating pastor are to run the church. John did not refer to his rank as an apostle. He tries to stress the equality of brotherhood. Not the Nicolaitanism of elevating a human leader above the congregation just because he calls himself a pastor. The word “pastor” only appears once in the New Testament and is condemned six times in the Old Testament.

III JOHN 1:1 The elder unto the wellbeloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth.

:4 I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth.

“My children”. Those who followed the teachings of the apostles, as only the New Testament writers had the authority to write down the Word of God.

John made the final selection of Books which would make up the New Testament. After the deaths of all the other apostles and New Testament writers, John was the last apostle left on earth, a towering spiritual figure who could move with amazing authority between our physical dimensions of space and time and the much higher but hidden dimensions of the spiritual realms of Heaven. He alone was close enough to Jesus, having been trained by Jesus, to have sufficient inspiration to make these critical choices. He was gifted with a unique discernment to choose the right eight authors of the New Testament. Since that time, no one else can add anything to the Bible.

Our souls depend on his choice of new Testament Books. But John chose well.

MICAH 5:5 And this man shall be the peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land: and when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men.

The evil and bloodthirsty kingdom of Assyria symbolizes the Devil. Once the church accepted human leadership it was just a matter of time before the wrong men rose to power in the church and good men became corrupted by the love of power and wealth. Satan would rise high in the church world with its exorbitant wealth and palatial buildings. In AD 312 emperor Constantine gave the beautiful Lateran palace on the Caelian hill to the Roman bishop which still remains the official residence of the Pope. Then in the 1500s, the Vatican was established in Rome with its vast and beautiful buildings. The Roman Catholic church thus set the pace with its palaces for its top leaders. Protestants would not be slow to follow this example of luxurious buildings for their human leaders. But Satan would soon trample around inside those same buildings and make himself at home. Satan loves fancy buildings.

But God would raise up eight principal men to stand for truth. These were the eight men who wrote the New Testament. Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John wrote the Gospels. Luke wrote the Book of Acts. Paul wrote from Romans to Hebrews. James, Peter, Jude. And then that same John wrote his last three Books, as well as the Revelation of Jesus Christ.

Then God organized for seven angels to come down at different times in history, during the seven church ages, to guide the thinking of seven men so that each one could act as a guide or messenger to his church age. Paul was helped to write his New Testament books. The other six would each be helped by the specific angel for his age, knowingly or unknowingly, as they worked hard to steer the church back towards the beliefs of the New Testament. An angel is a messenger from heaven. Because these men were under this angelic help and guidance, God referred to these men as messengers from God and thus also called them angels, because they brought the message of the will of God for their church age to the people.

So there would be an ongoing battle between human leadership in the church that loved being important and created its own beliefs and traditions, and the true believers who died to themselves, never wanting to be anything in this world, and were content to simply follow the truth as laid down by the apostles.

REVELATION 1:20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

The first human messenger to the first age was Paul, and he was received as an angel by the people, despite having some physical infirmity. Maybe his eyes were damaged by looking at the Holy Spirit that shone as a dazzling Light on his way to Damascus.

GALATIANS 4:13 Ye know how through infirmity of the flesh I preached the gospel unto you at the first. And my temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me as an angel of God, even as Christ Jesus.

God also called each great man of each age, an angel. A messenger. A star. A burning light with the truth for that day. Then the seven candlesticks represent the seven church ages, with each candlestick representing a church age. Let us follow the church history by using the seven-branched candlestick of the Jews:

On the Day of Pentecost tongues of supernatural Fire lit the first church age.

This was God's best church, as described in the Book of Acts. This was the only guaranteed church.

God started His church the way He wanted it.
Now He wants it the way that He started it.

Then the standards declined as human leadership took over in the second church age. The original spiritual light of the Gospel dimmed as human opinions and traditions entered the church.

Then Roman emperor Constantine introduced politics and pagan ideas into the church. So the light dimmed further in the third church age. A centralized organization under the Pope developed.

Then brutal politics with mass murder sustained the church in the fourth church age as the Roman Catholic church clawed its way to power over Europe that had disintegrated during the barbarian invasions.

Hardly any truth remained as the Bible was banned.

The evil in the church was the fact that they had moved far away from the New Testament beliefs of the first church age.

But then God began a restoration back to the New Testament.

JOEL 2:25 And I will restore to you the years that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm, my great army which I sent among you.

There will be three church ages of restoration to restore what the enemy had chewed away.

Ezekiel said the same thing.

Water symbolizes God's Word for its life-giving qualities.

Each stage of the Reformation brought back deeper truth.

Luther restored salvation by faith in church age 5.

Wesley restored holiness and outreach in church age 6.

“LIVE” is the opposite to “EVIL”. Spell EVIL from right to left and you get LIVE.

The secret behind the word “live” is the desire to get right back to the original faith of the apostles.

Pentecost restored the gifts of the Spirit in church age 7.

But that was not enough. Jesus said we need Spirit and Truth.

JOHN 4:24 God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

Then in the seventh church age we also need to be restored back to the original Bible beliefs of the New Testament church. The seventh age must merge back into the first church age.

Thus there were two phases to the seventh church age.

Pentecostal power and the revelation of the Bible mysteries.

The seed that is harvested always looks identical to the seed that was planted.

These doctrines will run deep as they are traced through many Scriptures.

EZEKIEL 47: 3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the waters were to the ankles.

:4 Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters; the waters were to the knees. Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through; the waters were to the loins.

:5 Afterward he measured a thousand; and it was a river that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, waters to swim in, a river that could not be passed over.

At each stage of restoration, there was an increasing depth of Bible revelation that unfolded. The last stage was a very deep insight into the Bible. 1. Justification. 2. Sanctification 3. Holy Ghost baptism 4. Restoration of truth.

Ezekiel also saw a valley of dry bones.

It would take four steps to make them live. Sinews. Flesh. Skin. Breath

EZEKIEL 37: 3 And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live?

6: And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

Only then will the restoration of God's Word be complete.

Thus the seven-branched candlestick, with its central candlestick being the first church age, tells us the history of how the church was ignited by the Holy Spirit and then fell away from the truth and then God started a Reformation under Luther that will ultimately restore the Bride back to that full New Testament truth.

Ephesus (2:1-7) – The Loveless (Preoccupied) Church

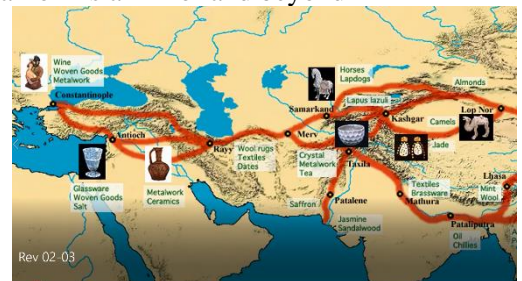

The Loveless Church

2 “To the angel of the church of Ephesus write,

‘These things says He who holds the seven stars in His right hand, who walks in the midst of the seven golden lampstands: ²“I know your works, your labor, your patience, and that you cannot bear those who are evil. And you have tested those who say they are apostles and are not, and have found them liars; ³ and you have persevered and have patience, and have labored for My name’s sake and have not become weary. ⁴ Nevertheless I have this against you, that you have left your first love. ⁵ Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent and do the first works, or else I will come to you quickly and remove your lampstand from its place—unless you repent. ⁶ But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

⁷ “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes I will give to eat from the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God.” ’

- Name Ephesus means: maiden of choice; darling; desirable
 - Meaning provided by "Hitchcock’s New and Complete Analysis of the Holy Bible” (published late 1800s)
- History
 - Founded in 1400 BC
 - Attic-Ionian colonists from Athens settled there around 1000 B.C.
 - 1 of 12 cities in the Ionian League
 - Lydians – The Lydians captured the city in the middle of the 6th century BC
 - Persians – 541 BC – Fell to the Persians
 - Macedonians – 334 BC – Fell to the Macedonians under Alexander the Great
 - Eventually became the Roman capital of the Province of Asia and home to the Roman governor
- Geography
 - Called the ‘Queen of Asia’ – an extremely wealthy and beautiful city
 - Located near the mouth of the Cayster River (now Lower Meander River) on the Aegean Sea
 - A natural deep-water port
 - Provided a major harbor and caravan gateway for trade to all of Asia Minor and beyond
 - One of the major roads ran through Ephesus
 - It was the main line of communication between Rome and its Eastern Provinces
 - Today, Ephesus has the appearance of an inland city because of the natural changes in the coastline
- Roman rule
 - Ephesus was the 2nd largest city in the Roman Empire
 - Population of around 250,000
 - Only Rome surpassed its size and grandeur
 - 1 of only 3 cities in the Empire with street lighting at night
 - Rome and Syrian Antioch were the other ones

- Pagan Religions

- Temple of Diana (Artemis)

- Roman goddess of nature and fertility, identified with the Greek goddess Artemis
 - Around 550 B.C. the Temple of Artemis (or Diana) was completed in Ephesus.
 - Around 550 B.C. the Temple of Artemis (or Diana) was completed in Ephesus.
 - The temple was 4 times larger than the Parthenon at Athens
 - It stood on a platform 425' by 225'
 - The building itself was 340' by 165'
 - 120 ionic columns, each 60' high

- One of the Seven Wonders of the ancient world

- Antipater of Sidon compiled the Seven Wonders. Here is what he had to say of the Temple of Artemis:

“I have set eyes on the wall of lofty Babylon on which is a road for chariots, and the statue of Zeus by Alpheus, and the hanging gardens, and the colossus of the sun, and the labor of the great pyramids, and the vast tomb of Mausolus, but when I saw the house of Artemis [in Ephesus] that mounted to the clouds, those other marvels lost their brilliance, and I said, ‘Lo, apart from Olympus, the sun never looked on anything so grand.’”

- The rise and fall of the Temple of Diana

- 550 BC – The Temple of Artemis was completed
 - 313 AD – Edict of Milan – Christianity was tolerated in the Roman Empire
 - 380 AD – Theodosius I made Christianity the official religion of the Roman Empire
 - 401 AD – The Temple of Artemis was destroyed in by a mob led by St. John Chrysostom, who was then Bishop of Ephesus

- Church at Ephesus

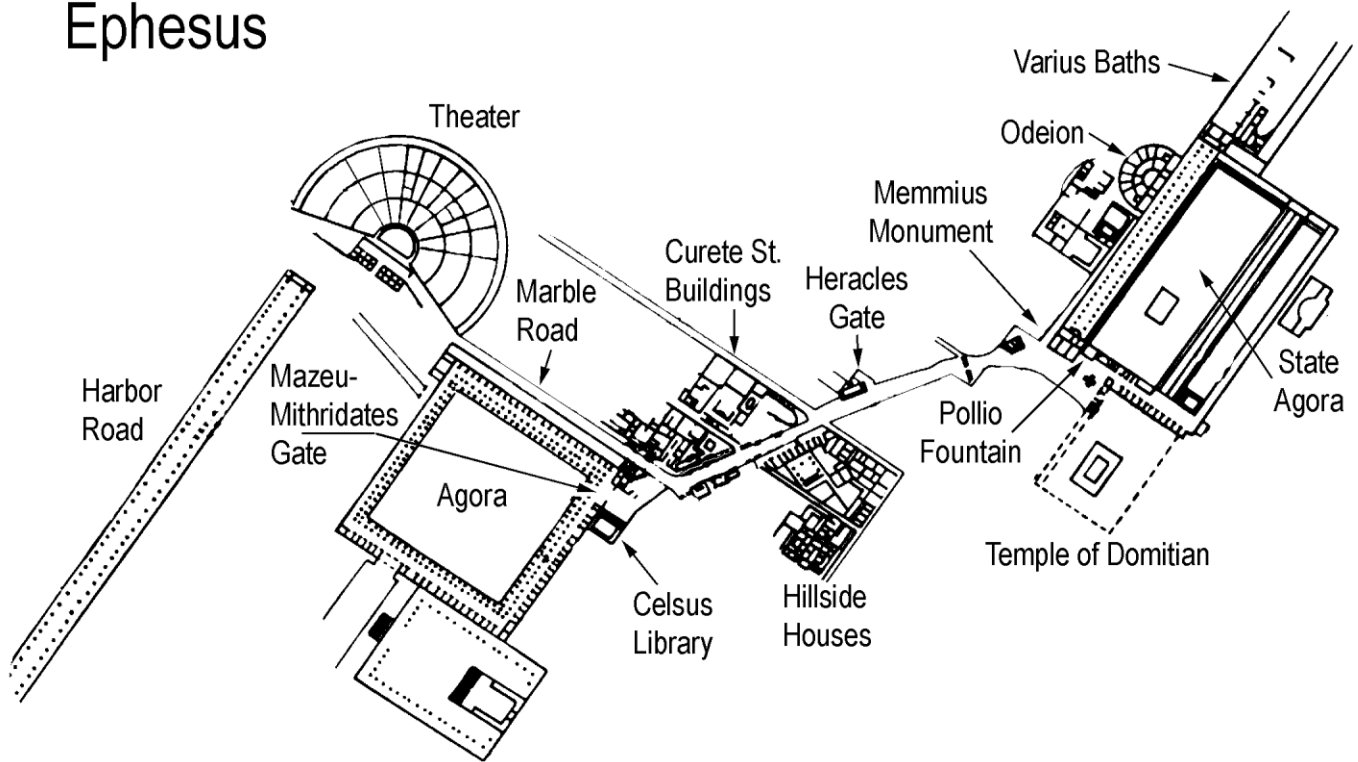

- Founded by Paul

- Decline of Ephesus:

- Destruction of the Temple of Artemis
 - Deep water port was silted in by the Cayster River
 - 614 AD Catastrophic earthquake

Ephesus – Ephesus was fabulous in every way!

Central Ephesus

- Ephesus
 - In the New Testament, Ephesus was the largest city of its day
 - Known for its great theater that held 25,000 people and its statue-line marble roads
 - The entire city was made of marble
 - The Cardo “Main Street” in Ephesus
 - Magnificent public buildings
 - Lush private residences
 - High-end shops
 - Fountain of Memnius on the Cardo
 - The Heracles Gate
 - Narrowed the access to the street, preventing the passage of vehicles thus making Curetes Street a pedestrian area.
 - Odeion
 - This building has the shape of a small theatre with the stage building, seating places and the orchestra.
 - It had double function in use.
 - Bouleuterion for the meetings of Boule (Senate)
 - A concert hall for the performances
 - The library of Celsus (131 AD)
 - Built by Gaius Julius Aquila
 - 1 of the 3 great libraries of the ancient world, along with Alexandria, Egypt and Pergamum
 - Housed 12,000 scrolls
 - Fountain of Trajan
 - Constructed for the honor of Emperor Trajan

- Theater of Ephesus seated 25,000 people
 - Indicated a population of 250,000
- Emphasis was the center for the study of arts and magic
 - Renowned over the world for talismans, incantations, charms, spell books, etc

Greeting

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Ephesus (2:1-7) Lost your first love	Hard work & perseverance; Don't tolerate wickedness; Test false apostles; Patient endurance; Persevered - not grown weary	You have forsaken your first love; Focus is on correctness more than love	Remember; Repent and do the things you did at first	Right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God

1 "To the angel of the church in Ephesus write:

These are the words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand and walks among the seven golden lampstands:

- If our Apostle John is the leader of the church in Ephesus, then the 1st letter in Revelation is addressed to him!
- Rev 1 ¹² Then I turned to see the voice that spoke with me. And having turned I saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³ and in the midst of the seven lampstands One like the Son of Man ... ¹⁶ He had in His right hand seven stars
 - Jesus is the one who:
 - Holds the 7 stars [angels] in his right hand
 - the 7 leaders of the 7 churches
 - Walks among the 7 lamp stands [churches]
 - the 7 churches themselves
- We should recognize the intimacy of this greeting:
 - The risen and glorified Christ walks among us
 - He knows every detail of our lives, commending us for our successes and admonishing us for our faults
 - He holds us in the very palm of his hand as both our protector and our guide

Commendation ☺

2 I know your deeds, your hard work and your perseverance. I know that you cannot tolerate wicked men, that you have tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and have found them false. 3 You have persevered and have endured hardships for my name, and have not grown weary.

- “Your”
 - Jesus addresses not only the “angel” of the church at Ephesus, but the entire community
- The Christian community at Ephesus not only has copious works to show for their faith, but they also labor hard and they don't give up.
 - Jesus said: “If you love me, you will keep my commands” (John 14:15)
 - Emphatically, “we are saved by grace through faith,” but a genuine saving faith will always manifest itself in a life of active love, a life of good works
 - As James said: “What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works” (3:14); such a faith is shallow at best, self-delusion at worst

- “Wicked” refers to false the teachers that John so opposes in his three letters
 - Men such as Diotrophese (3John1:9)
 - There were many people traveling about in John’s day claiming to be Apostles, but they were phonies, charlatans, and religious opportunists. At Ephesus they were exposed for what they are!
 - Simon the sorcerer (Acts 8:1-25)
- The Lord again emphasizes how hardworking and steadfast the Christians at Ephesus are, and he commends it.
- 7 Points of commendation
 - I know your deeds (works)
 - I know your hard work (labor)
 - I know your perseverance (patience)
 - I know that you cannot tolerate wicked men (stand against evil)
 - I know your that you have tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and have found them false
 - I know you have persevered and have endured hardships for my name (long-suffering)
 - I know you have not grown weary (endurance)

Condemnation ☹️

4 Yet I hold this against you: You have forsaken your first love. 5 Remember the height from which you have fallen! Repent and do the things you did at first. If you do not repent, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place. 6 But you have this in your favor: You hate the practices of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

- Although the Christians at Ephesus have worked hard, suffered and persevered, they have lost the fervor of their initial faith, the inner fire they first had when they fell in love with Christ.
- “left”, not “lost”
 - Notice it says ‘left’, not ‘lost’
 - God is saying: Remember when we first met? How much you loved me and longed to be with me? Now I hardly ever hear from you except when you're in trouble. I so long to be the first in your life again! I will never leave you nor forsake you. Please come back to me! I miss our long talks in intimate fellowship! I want to bless you. I want the best for you. You're the apple of my eye. If you do not seek me, if you do not ask me for guidance, how can I work through you?
- “repent”
 - Greek word is μετανόησον [metanoēson]
 - literally “to turn around” 180 degrees
 - to get back to where you were at the start
- Remove your lampstand means remove your church!
 - The churches in Asia Minor were the engine powering the early church
 - Paul’s three missionary journeys
 - The church of Syrian Antioch (home church of Paul and Barnabas)
 - the Council of Nicaea
 - Today, Asia Minor (modern-day Turkey)
 - A constitutionally secular state
 - Has a population of nearly 80 million people
 - 99.8% Muslim
 - 0.2% Christians and “others”
 - There are only 11 diocesan priests in Turkey and 50 religious priests
 - It appears that their lampstand has been removed

Teaching of Nicolaitans

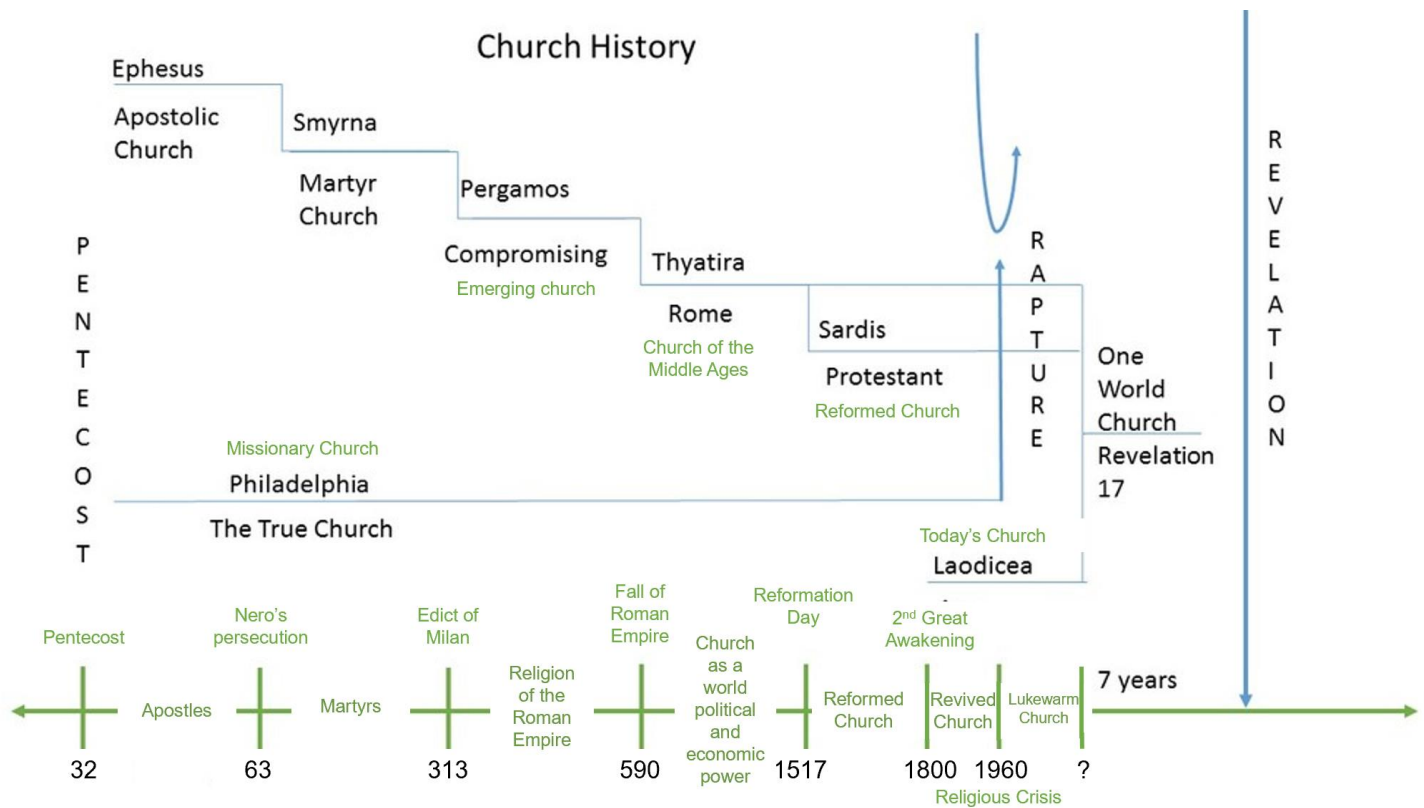

- Note that it was the ‘deeds’ of the Nicolaitans, not the Nicolaitans themselves
- “Nicolaitans” are possibly followers of Nicholas
 - It’s not absolutely certain who he was or what he taught
 - Thought to be a Gnostic sect, founded by Nicholas of Antioch
 - Known for their unbridled and excessive lusts
- Deeds of the Nicolaitans
 - ‘Nicholaus’ or ‘nikos’ – Priest or priesthood
 - ‘Laos’ – laody, the common people
 - Literally means ‘to conquer the people’
 - It is the establishing of a spiritual hierarchy, where a man comes between you and God (Catholics)
- The church at Pergamum is also infested with “Nicolaitans”
 - Rev 2 ¹⁵ Thus you also have those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.
- Whatever the teaching was, it falls into the same category as that of the “deceivers” and “antichrists” that John abhors in 2 John 7-8
 - 2Jn 1 ⁷ For many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist. ⁸ Look to yourselves, that we do not lose those things we worked for, but that we may receive a full reward.

Admonition (Call to Action)

7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will give the right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

- Then He promises that if they do they will be rewarded with fruit from the “tree of life that is in the garden of God” (2:7)
 - We saw this tree in Genesis 2:19 and 3:22
 - We will see it again in Revelation 22:2

Church History (33-170)

The Church Ages - Ephesus, The First Age, 33 AD-170 AD

The early church was born supernaturally, with no man elevated between the believers in the upper room and God. The Holy Spirit came down directly into each of the individuals and filled the whole house as tongues of supernatural fire appeared on their heads. Thus the New Testament church was born in a house.

ACTS 2:1 And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.

:2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

:3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

:4 And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

The seven branched candlestick represented the seven church ages that would occupy 2 000 years of human history. The first church age of Ephesus was launched on the day of Pentecost when God ignited the central candlestick. This first church was the church at its best. This is the only guaranteed example of what a true church should look like, and the beliefs of the New Testament should be central to all our Christian thinking. Anything different to the New Testament beliefs means that we are deviating either to the left or to the right. Deviation is not a good space to be in. The first four letters of deviation are also the first four letters found in the word devil. Satan is the author of any movement away from the written Word.

Let us follow the example of that superb child king Josiah.

II CHRONICLES 34:1 Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem one and thirty years.

:2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father, and declined neither to the right hand, nor to the left.

What God did to the first church on the day of Pentecost, He also did when He anointed Solomon's temple in the same way with a supernatural fire that consumed the sacrifices.

II CHRONICLES 7: 1 Now when Solomon had made an end of praying, the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices; and the glory of the LORD filled the house.

:2 And the priests could not enter into the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD had filled the LORD'S house.

But the Jews had an Aaronic priesthood of elevated human leaders above the congregation. The people could only worship God by having the priesthood between them and God. As time went on this elevated priesthood that stood between the people and God failed miserably. Anything that depends on humans will fail. God finally tore up the Temple veil during the crucifixion signifying the end of the Temple worship and its failed priesthood in AD 33. But those self-centred priests desperately continued to cling to their tithes and their power over the people, which was their only interest in life. They continued to dominate the Jews, successfully fooling them as they carried on with a form of godliness that no longer had any reality, until God destroyed the Temple in AD 70, together with the self-seeking priests who had maintained their empty farce of uninspired religious leadership down the wrong path when God had turned a corner.

The New Testament church was to be different.

There must be no human leaders between the people and God.

God then ordained all Christian believers to be priests as they carried the Gospel to a sinful world, spread out in space in all directions, but looking back in time to its apostolic founders. As sinners repented, so they also joined the priesthood. Thus no Christian was ever standing between God and another Christian. "See how these Christians love one another" was the typical pagan comment. A Christian can stand between God and the unsaved, pointing them to their Saviour. But when the sinners have repented, they are equal to other Christians as members of the royal priesthood.

I PETER 2:9 But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood.

Brotherhood is based on equality. We can all learn from each other. No one is better than another.

I PETER 2:17 Honour all men. Love the brotherhood.

I PETER 5:5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

We submit to each other by acknowledging the Scripture that anyone refers to. We do not try to prove that we are right, we simply establish that we are Scriptural. If you have a better gift or ability than others, God gave that to you. So it does not make you better than them. You are just better off because of what God has given you. Whatever gift God has given you, He expects you to use it by serving others, and not dominating others. Equally, when anyone else points out a Scripture that is different to what we do or believe, we immediately submit to the Scripture, irrespective of who pointed it out.

Two vines were growing in the Christian church right from the beginning.

One vine was the Christians who felt that they had to develop their own relationship with Jesus and believe the Bible and not have their thoughts controlled by what other people say. This freedom to worship God according to what was written in the Bible and according to the conscience of the individual was a flame that could not be organized. It flared up in different places, and if it died down somewhere it would flare up somewhere else. Often, like the 7 000 who secretly worshiped God in the days of Elijah, it was hidden from public view. Endless persecutions forced Christians to keep a discreetly low profile. But whatever the circumstances, there were always people that God raised up who desired to obey only what was written in Scripture. These were usually an unnoticed, humble group who desired in quietness to serve God and do good works as they took the Sermon on the Mount to be their rule for living.

No authority of any man, however eminent, was allowed to set aside the authority of Scripture.

This vine continues to this day. They may fellowship in a church, but they do not "belong" to that church as they belong to Jesus and seek only to obey His Bible, even though this may make them unpopular and unwanted. They need the freedom to think for themselves, and be convinced that an idea is Scriptural. Then they believe the idea because the Bible says so, not because some man says so. They feel very uncomfortable having a man stand between them and God, especially since all men have their flaws. No bride wants some man standing between her and her husband. No bride wants to be in submission to what any man says, but rather to what her husband says. In the same way God's bride are subject to the Lord Jesus Christ.

ROMANS 3:12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

JEREMIAH 17:5 Thus saith the LORD; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD.

When Christians trust their leaders, they take their eyes off God. Then we think we serve God, but we are actually cursed. The great curse of the last church age, our present age, is when we end up in the great Tribulation. Then we will realize that we are truly cursed.

Then another false vine started which would become the dominant church. The leaders of this humanly organized church fed their interpretations of the Bible and their clever human opinions to the people. This false vine consists of people who want to look up to some holy man, and have him tell them what to believe. Satan would endlessly try to use leaders to dominate people, and tell them to believe something that deviated from the New Testament. Their security lay in belonging to the church, rather than in belonging to Christ. Today there are more than 45 000 different church organizations or denominations, all claiming to be right, but all described as blind. The Roman Catholic church is easily recognized as the oldest and biggest of these centralized organizations. It boasts the longest line of absolute rulers in the world. The people have to submit to their infallible human leader, now called the Pope, even if he disagrees with what previous Popes said.

Both vines were impressive in terms of the practical acts of charity that Christians performed. This charity was a potent weapon in making Christianity successful. They cared for orphans, widows, and the poor and needy. Their social actions were seen in times of calamity like famine, earthquake, plagues, and war. They were generous in giving their money, goods, or time.

Once the apostles had established the early church, and the New Testament was written, the apostles left the scene. They had tried to establish churches that were ruled by groups of elders that held to what the apostles had said, and written in the New Testament. All saved Christians were priests, and in this equality of brotherhood there was no elevated Aaronic priesthood of special men. Like John the Baptist, the preachers pointed the people to Christ and the written Word, not to themselves.

JOHN 1:35 Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples;
:36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!
:37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus

If a great man of God speaks, you have not heard him speak just because you listened to his words. You have only heard him speak when you follow Jesus through the pages of the written Bible.

But where there is light, there are also shadows. The Devil has endlessly labored to elevate a human priesthood of the five-fold ministries between the people and God. According to Satan, there must be someone between you and the Word. These ministries, once they succeeded to become accepted as the head of each church, gradually led the people away from what was written in the Scripture. When the Christians stopped being Scripturally vigilant, and relaxed their guard, the weeds of human opinion and human domination were sown amongst the seeds of God's Word. It is much easier to agree with a dominating personality who is the church leader, rather than trying to oppose him. When you agree with him, he makes you feel very popular. When you disagree with him, he makes you feel very unwanted. So he rules us by emotions and our longing to belong to a church, not by Scripture.

Pagan religions usually had a professional priesthood.

Alexander the Great, by his amazing achievements, was readily worshiped as god in the east, and won a reluctant godhood from the West. The east, where Cain went, worshiped their rulers as gods. This was not a habit in the west. Alexander was the first western man to go east from Greece and get accepted in Egypt as the "son of god". Their god was Amun Ra, because of his incredible military successes. He conquered Persia, went to Afghanistan, and by his sheer brutality and mass extermination of men, women, and children, plus his genius in marrying the daughter of a powerful Afghan warlord, he became the only man to ever conquer and pacify Afghanistan. He then proclaimed himself as "god", even to his western followers. Though western Greeks were forced to worship him, he never returned to the west. Within four years of declaring his godhood, he was dead in mysterious circumstances in Babylon. Jesus, who was both God and the Son of God, only had a ministry of three and a half years. So Alexander's claim to be god, because he was the most famous of western conquerors and wanted the people back in Greece to worship him as god, limited him to less than four years of life. You cannot be greater than Jesus Christ. No man should ever be compared to Jesus, as it will cost that man his life. God wants no human competition. We humans are simply too insignificant to compete in that League.

Four of Alexander's generals took over his mantle, but could not conquer the west, although they also claimed their godhood as Alexander's successors. This idea of a deified king in the west tended to fade after the four generals died, except for the city of Pergamos. When Cyrus conquered Babylon the pagan priesthood of Babylon had fled to Pergamos under their high priest or Pontiff whose name was Attalus. After Alexander's death, his general Lysimachus ruled Pergamos, and claimed to be a god like Alexander. The kingdom of Pergamos flourished. When Lysimachus was killed, the Babylonian high priest of Pergamos became the king, and also claimed to be god, like Lysimachus did, and the Attalid line of deified kings was established. These human god-kings only had local acceptance.

Unlike Alexander they performed no great exploits to attract wide spread attention. The Greeks were brilliant and eloquent in defense of error, with their cunning philosophy and clever interpretations. Their clever thinking polished up and spread the mysteries of Babylon, and then these mysteries and their idea that their human leader was god, were handed over to Rome in 133 BC when the last god-king of Pergamos, Attalus III, died. The Babylonian mysteries had great status among the pagans, but were rather unnoticed in Rome because no high priest or Pontiff ever won any fame. Then Julius Caesar borrowed heavily to bribe his way into being elected high priest or Pontiff of the Babylonian mysteries in 63 BC in Rome. The impressive robes of the Pontiff, and the elaborate Babylonian ceremonies, gave the high priesthood great status amongst the heathen. Under the fame of Julius Caesar, that most famous of the Roman rulers, the eastern Babylonian mysteries gained prominence and authority. The city of Pergamos deified Caesar in 29 BC, shortly after his death. Julius Caesar thus became the first man in Rome to be worshiped as god. His initials, J C, are the same as those for Jesus Christ. Caesar adopted his sister's grandson Augustus to succeed him. The emperor Augustus was worshipped as god in Pergamos while he was still alive. The cult of emperor worship, since he was the Pontiff of the Babylonian mysteries, swept through the empire as a means of uniting all the different nations. By 400 AD, the bishop of Rome had taken over this title of Pontiff, which made the Pope the high priest of the Babylonian mysteries. The mysteries of Babylon thus officially entered the Roman Catholic church, to turn her into Mystery Babylon. The Roman Catholic church now had a professional priesthood that was elevated above the congregation, just like the pagans.

Satan inspired the Roman Catholic church to ordain priests above the people, thus taking the Roman Catholic church back to the Old Testament Aaronic priesthood. They then modified the system to have bishops above the priests.

The structure of the Roman Catholic church generally followed the Roman Empire imperial practice, with one bishop ruling each city and its surrounding territory. The bishop of the provincial capital, the metropolitan, enjoyed certain rights over other bishops in the province. Metropolitans became archbishops who ruled the bishops of a province. Around 700 AD Cardinals appeared in the hierarchy above the archbishops.

Thus was built up an elaborate church hierarchy based on the dictatorship of the Pope who had supreme power over the centralized organization. The growth of this colossal organization did not have a pre-planned blueprint, but proceeded in unexpected bursts as the church reacted to unforeseen events, and the papacy fell alternately into highly capable hands, who pushed for domination over all Christians, and very incapable hands who often hindered or reversed this progress.

This centralized church organization of the Roman Catholics, that had such impressive abilities to survive the chaos of the disintegrating Roman empire, was imitated amongst the non-Catholic churches with an elevated five fold ministry to stand between the Christians and God. Efficiency required one man to be the head of this five fold ministry, and so "pastor", only mentioned once in the New Testament, was sufficiently vague as a ministry to slip through unchallenged as head of each church. Then bishops rose above pastors in the cities. Then archbishops and patriarchs later appeared as these religious organizations grew. Instead of the church being run as a democracy of elders, it submitted to centralized one-man authority. Freedom in the Spirit gave way to rigidity.

God chose the Jews to be separate from other nations so that they would be uncorrupted by heathen influences. The Jews were called to be the people of the Book. No other ancient religion was strictly bound to one Holy Book. Those Christians who stayed strictly with the New Testament, and developed no church hierarchy, were usually unnoticed. The growing ranks of organized religion took the lime light and the attention of historians.

For certain Gentiles, the main attraction of the Jewish faith was their belief in monotheism, one God. For other Gentiles the main attraction of the pagan beliefs was their various trinities. So issues surrounding the nature of the Godhead would rip the churches apart, as it still does today.

The Jews were not chosen because they had any merit. This choice was the will of God. And we humans do not have the brain power to understand God's will. The mistake of the early church was to not remain submissive to the will of God. They could not trust themselves to the leading of the Holy Spirit. They wanted a human leader to tell them what to do.

The true vine regarded the revealed will of God as a matter that required the most intense seriousness. The Bible became their spiritual compass, which guided them in the direction that they should go. The course of history would be shaped by the Bible's divine doctrines, and the cunning and ruthless attempts of the Devil to oppose the spread of the written Word in the turbulent centuries that lay ahead.

The early church was a close-knit body that practiced property-sharing, and distributed money in accordance with individual needs. Clothes were often worn until threadbare. Extra clothes that were owned by people were dished out to those in need. Goods were shared. Their lives were frugal. Christ had not only broken down the barriers between sinful man and God, but also the barriers between one man and another.

Christians had to face adversity and persecution. But oppression only strengthened their faith. Persecution scattered them, and extended the boundaries of the church. An initial flood of missionary activity characterized early Christianity, as it was a faith that men and women were willing to die for.

Early Christianity was not for sissies. No one would dare join them unless called by God. Their standards were too high. Their challenges were too great.

ACTS 5:13 And of the rest durst no man join himself to them: but the people magnified them.

These were not comfortable churches where people were complacently self-satisfied.

The expansion of Christianity seemed to be an extraordinary chain of improbabilities and strange co-incidences that were far removed from human expectations. God was working out His own will, which did not depend on any human organization. Forgiveness of sin by repentance, and public association with a Saviour through water baptism in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ, attracted people who in difficult and dangerous times were tired of living, and scared of dying. The ideal of a sinless life and high moral standards enabled them to live by their consciences in their pursuit of God. This gave them inner peace.

Baptism was a public act that separated Christians from the world.

ACTS 2:38 Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

:39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

Peter had the only key that could loose us from our sins so that we can enter Heaven. That key was the doctrine of repentance. Repent to get rid of sin, and then get baptized in water so that you know the human Name of God. The Jehovah of the Old Testament, with His numerous other Names that indicated His various spiritual attributes, had now become a Man, and we only needed to know Him by His human Name, Jesus Christ.

MATTHEW 16:19 And I (Jesus) will give unto thee (Peter) the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

Peter loosed us from our sins by opening a door to Heaven for the Bride, that we can only go through if we repent and get baptized in the Name of Jesus Christ. In the process he locked the door to Heaven that John the Baptist had opened with his baptism of repentance. John baptized before he knew the Name of the Saviour.

Baptism was symbolic of death, burial, and resurrection. This had not yet happened to Jesus while John was alive.

ROMANS 6:3 Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?
:4 Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.
:5 For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

Thus Peter turned the key, and closed off or bound John's baptism that no longer worked, as it had been a temporary measure.

It was crucial to understand this point when the first church age doctrines were being established by Paul, who was the most effective apostle towards the Gentiles.

So Paul, as the messenger towards the foundation Ephesian church age, confirmed what Peter had done, by also binding John's baptism and loosing Peter's baptism.

ACTS 19:1 And it came to pass, that, while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,
2: He said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.
:3 And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.
:4 Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus.
:5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

These disciples in Ephesus had been baptized by John's baptism. Paul basically said to them, "If you have not been baptized like Peter baptized 'in the Name of Jesus Christ', then your baptism is not valid, and you must get re-baptized properly". This is part of the doctrine of the apostles that we must be restored back to.

COLOSSIANS 3:17 And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

Baptism is a deed of submerging someone under the water, and the words of Peter are spoken over the person who is being baptized. So it is essential to baptize in the Name of the Lord Jesus.

But, since repentance and baptism in the Name of Jesus is the key that opens the door to Heaven for the Bride, it is going to be attacked by the Devil. Churches would emerge that do not preach about a heartfelt repentance of sin that leads to a born again experience, where Jesus is accepted as a personal Saviour Who turns the individual away from sin, and then controls the person's life. Then the human Name of God, Jesus Christ, would be attacked by reducing Jesus to being only the Son of God. Thus the Name of Jesus Christ would be removed from the water baptism. Soon three titles would replace the Name of Jesus in baptism.

MATTHEW 28:18 And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Jesus is Almighty God

MATTHEW 28:19 Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost:

:20 Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Amen.

Jesus has all power. Twice He says that we have to be taught. So there is a deep mystery here.

Baptize in the Name (singular) of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

If God is three Persons, then the Name of the Father is Jehovah. The Name of the Son is Jesus. The Holy Spirit has no Name in Scripture. Thus we have only two Names for three People. This is not a good fit. To make it worse, Jesus said we must have only one Name for all three Persons. This is not possible.

"Trinity", "three-in-one", "of the same essence", and "of the same substance" are statements we find in Greek philosophy, not in the Bible.

So Peter realized that the fulness of the Godhead dwelt bodily in Christ.

COLOSSIANS 2:8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.

:9 For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

The Father was the Spirit of God that dwelt above the Jews. This Spirit dwelt bodily in Christ, making Him Emmanuel, which is God with us. This physical Man was the Son of God. The Spirit in Him was the Father.

MATTHEW 1:23 Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

God was above the Jews as the Father. Then He was with the Jews as the Son, to pay the price for sin by dying. Then only could the Holy Ghost, that left His Body in death, return into us as repentant sinners and thereby dwell in us.

JOHN 14:17 Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

The Christians made the fatal mistake of saying that Peter in Acts 2: 38 contradicted Jesus in Matthew 28: 19, and therefore they stayed with what Jesus said. But Jesus said they must have one Name in the baptism, not three titles. So the Christians lost the Name of God, because there is no one Name for the three People who comprise their Trinity Godhead. They also reject as a mistake the Heavenly key of repentance and baptism in Jesus Christ's Name that Peter used to open the Door for the first church age Christians. Trying to correct the apostles is a bad situation to be in. We need to be restored back to them.

After all, the Father and the Holy Spirit never died for us. They were never buried -- How do you bury a Spirit?-- and thus never rose from the dead. So baptism has no reference to them as it refers to the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus.

The fulness of God's Spirit was in Christ and left Him when He died. It was the corpse or body of Jesus that had died which was buried. Jesus is the human Name of God. He died like us, as a Man.

ROMANS 6:3 Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?

The first Christians were mainly Jews, and thus Christians were classified as Jews at first. In AD 50 Roman emperor Claudius expelled the Jews from Rome, and the Christians were expelled with them. This opened the way for an alternative Christian concept of Roman Catholicism to rise up free from any opposition or correction. When the expelled Christians were allowed to return when Claudius died in 54 AD, there were two branches of Christianity. One followed the apostolic teachings of Paul, while the other modified the Gospel to become Roman Catholicism. It was this branch that became pre-eminent in Rome.

ACTS 18:1 After these things Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

:2 And found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla; (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome;) and came unto them.

The emperor Nero began a murderous persecution of Christians between the great fire of Rome in 64 AD and his death in 68 AD. Most of the original apostles were either dead, or had moved beyond the borders of the Roman empire by the time Nero died. During the Neronian nightmare of persecution, in 66 AD Nero ordered the general Vespasian to conquer Jerusalem, where James the apostle had been killed many years before. The Christians in Jerusalem fled. According to early Christian historians, some went to the nearby town of Pella. The final destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70 removed the main Christian church that could be seen as more important than the church in Rome. Thus it became easier for men to rise up and lead the churches into error by slowly moving away from what was written in the Bible.

Persecution united the early Christians. They worshipped in secret for fear of arrest. Publicity was dangerous. The earliest churches were simply private homes that were gradually modified inside if the congregation grew big enough. Only after 312 AD did churches become public buildings that were easy to recognize. This was when the emperor Constantine stopped persecuting the Christians.

CHURCH AGE BOOK EPHESIAN CHURCH AGE

All you have to do is recall this last move of God in the Spirit..... They worshipped in homes or old store buildings. They had reality. But it wasn't too long a time until they began to get enough money to build fine new churches. They organized a movement and ran it by man.

A Christian movement happily started in private homes. "Church" buildings were never a requirement in New Testament days. Organizing people in a church building leads to one-man human leadership and man-made rules and beliefs. The Devil has always used this very successful tactic, especially in our modern age. He brings in slow gradual changes that are unnoticed by those who are not very alert.

To establish the Ephesian church, which not only represented the first church age, but was also the foundation of all the future church ages, Paul called the elders of Ephesus to the city of Miletus. Miletus was the first city in that region to be laid out on a blueprint with streets in a grid that cross at right angles to each other, like a modern city. So this was the best place for Paul to lay out his blueprint for running the church in the Ephesian age, and all the church ages to follow.

ACTS 20:17 And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

ACTS 20:27 For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

:28 Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.

:29 For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

:30 Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

Human leadership would be creeping in with men saying, "Follow me" -- One man, as the head of the church, not a group of elders.

From Strong's Concordance :

"overseer" in the Greek is episkopos which also means 'bishop'.

So the elders are the bishops or overseers of the church.

From Strong's Concordance :

"presbuterion" is the presbytery or the body of elders.

So presbyter, overseer, and bishop are simply alternative words for an elder.

PHILIPPIANS 1:1 Paul and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons:

There were many bishops in the city of Philippi. These men were the elders or overseers of the church there.

Peter confirmed that a group of elders should feed the flock. Peter calls himself an elder, rather than an apostle. He did not stress a superior rank or ministry. He focused on the equality of the leadership, not on the elevation of one man above the others, which is what the Roman Catholic church would do by putting a priest as head of the church, and then a bishop as head of the priests. This is nicolaitanism -- the elevation of a holy man above the people.

I PETER 5:1 The elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed:

:2 Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind;

Peter does not say that the tithes belong to the pastor.

Look at the ministries that Paul said should run the church.

I CORINTHIANS 12:28 And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues.

Only three ministries are mentioned. The apostles established the truth, and are the most important ministry. Before they died, their teachings were written as the New Testament. By reading the New Testament, we are actually consulting the apostles.

God speaks directly to a prophet, but the prophet comes second because if he speaks on doctrine, the prophet can only bring us back to what the apostles wrote in the Bible. He has to agree with Scripture.

Teachers come third. The teacher gets the revelation or picture from the prophet, and then has to prove this revelation from the Bible, which the apostles wrote. Neither the prophet, nor the teacher, can disagree with what the apostles wrote.

Note: Paul does not even mention pastors here.

ACTS 15:6 And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

This method should always have been continued. We still have what the apostles wrote down in the New Testament. So if today the elders of a local church consult the New Testament that the apostles wrote, then they are still consulting the apostles.

Nowhere in the New Testament was a pastor ever called the head of the church.

The word pastor is only mentioned once in the New Testament as part of the five ministries. Thus there is no Scriptural authority for a pastor to dominate a church. A pastor is simply part of a team of different types of preachers, that are part of the group of elders who oversee the church.

I TIMOTHY 5:17 Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine.

Thus not all elders are preachers. But all elders are equal to each other. Peter, an apostle, called himself an elder when speaking to the elders. An elder, who is not part of the five fold ministry, can still offer wise advice to the congregation.

I TIMOTHY 4:13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

Here it seems that exhortation can be separated from doctrine, and thus may, for example, be just a word of encouragement or advice. Any elder can do this, even if he is not a preacher.

After the apostles died, God wanted groups of elders to oversee each local church and keep each church faithful to the doctrines of the apostles. But slowly the word “bishop” began to be mentioned more and more as the head of the church.

Historians say that within two generations after the apostles died, in a manner that is shrouded in secrecy, the bishop somehow emerged as the head of the church. All pagan temples had one man, a priest, as the head of the congregation. Christians slowly began to follow this pagan example. Antioch was a city whose church history was held in high regard. Ignatius of Antioch, who died sometime before 117 AD, claimed to be bishop of Antioch, and stated that the local bishop of a city was God’s representative on earth and said, “We ought to regard the bishop as the Lord Himself”.

A bishop being the head of the church in a city was a new idea that captured the imagination of the Christians. This was the way that the majority would go. This was an unscriptural elevation of a man to be the head of the church. Making a man the head of the church was unscriptural, and then comparing him to God was completely wrong. Christians, thinking that this was the best way to combat error, were promoting nicolaitanism which is the elevation of a holy man above the church. Bishops were now classified as above the presbyters or elders. An Aaronic priesthood was beginning to form that stood between the congregation and God. The church was too relaxed to take this error seriously and stamp it out. Christians became careless about keeping the details of their faith strictly in line with what the apostles taught. This stress on human leadership entered slowly, but surely. After a while, having forgotten what the apostles had said, (or being too relaxed to research the truth from Scripture) the churches submitted to having a man as head of the church. Just like it is today.

Choosing a bishop could be difficult at times for a local church. Fabian of Rome was elected because a dove landed on his head. The church assumed this was the choice of the Holy Spirit.

But by the time the first church age ended around 170 AD it was common to have a bishop as head of the church in a city. Presbyters were then regarded as an inferior rank to the bishop. Elders were losing importance. Rank and titles were taking over the leadership of the church.

The church began to see itself as a world wide organization like the Roman empire was.

The church allowed its environment to determine its line of growth. It became a practical organization for social duties. An organization obeying human rules, not a collection of individuals who loved Jesus, with no bond of union beyond certain practices like baptism, communion and foot washing, and their beliefs in the written Word.

Romans were skilled administrators, and all organization tended to this highly efficient and effective system.

The church became more and more Roman in its practical organizational methods like feeding the poor.

Different areas in different cultures had to be kept the same. So officials were needed to travel between groups to maintain common policy.

By 170 AD every community was ruled by officials who had certain ranks, at whose head was a bishop, and the bishop represented the community. All the communities were part of the same universal or Catholic church (so-called by Ignatius who was the first to use this word “Catholic”). Councils of bishops were called up and determined and expressed the common views of a number of communities. Slowly the edicts of these councils began to deviate from Scripture.

The bishops were the ruling heads of the different parts, so that the different places would have the same beliefs. The bishops soon became directors of the church as a party struggling against the state.

The officials who maintained communication between the churches became important as the guardians of unity, first in the universal church, and then as heads of their local churches.

They also learned something about that organisation by which Rome ruled the world, and they appreciated the fact that the Church could fulfil its destiny and rule the Roman Empire only by strict organisation and rigid discipline. Without the hand of a vigorous organiser there was extreme danger that "heresy" would triumph.

This was the downfall of human wisdom. Trying to combat heresy or doctrinal error, which would always be around like weeds in a garden, the church introduced a major error -- nicolaitanism or human leadership by a man.

With this process established, and good Christians thinking that a bishop must be in charge of the church, this unscriptural form of church organization set the stage for further doctrinal errors to take over the church. The original light of the apostles was getting dimmer.

Who does the Bible say is the Head of the church?

EPHESIANS 5:22 Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.

: 23 For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and he is the saviour of the body.

: 24 Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing.

SEVEN CHURCH AGES BOOK CHAPTER 5 PERGAMOS AGE DOCTRINE OF NICOLAITANES

You will recall that I brought out in the Ephesian Age that the word, Nicolaitane, comes from two Greek words: Nikao which means to conquer, and Lao which means the laity.

Nicolaitane means, "to conquer the laity".

Now why is this such a terrible thing? It is terrible because God has never placed His church in the hands of an elected leadership which moves with political mindedness. He has placed His church in the care of God-ordained, Spirit-filled, Word-living men who lead the people through feeding them the Word.

He has not separated the people into classes so that the masses are led by a holy priesthood.

It is true that the leadership must be holy, but then so must be the whole congregation.

Further, there is no place in the Word where priests or ministers or such mediate between God and the people, nor is there a place where they are separated in their worship of the Lord. God wants all to love and serve Him together.

Nicolaitanism destroys those precepts and instead separates the ministers from the people and makes the leaders overlords instead of servants.

Now this doctrine actually started as a deed in the first age. It appears that the problem lay in two words: 'elders' (presbyters) and 'overseers' (bishops). Though Scripture shows that there are several elders in each church, some began (Ignatius among them) to teach that the idea of a bishop was one of preeminence or authority and control over the elders.

Now the truth of the matter is the word 'elder' signifies who the person is, while the word 'bishop' signifies the office of the same man. The elder is the man. Bishop is the office of the man. 'Elder' always has and always will refer simply to a man's chronological age in the Lord. He is an elder, not because he is elected or ordained, etc., but because he IS OLDER. He is more seasoned, trained, not a novice, reliable because of experience and long standing proof of his Christian experience.

.... But no, the bishops did not stick to the epistles of Paul, but rather they went to Paul's account of the time he called the elders from Ephesus to Miletus in Acts 20. In verse 17 the record states, "elders" were called and then in verse 28 they are called overseers (bishops). And these bishops, (no doubt political minded and anxious for power) insisted that Paul had given the meaning that 'overseers' were more than the local elder with official capacity only in his own church.

To them a bishop was now one with extended authority over many local leaders. Such a concept was neither Scriptural nor historical, yet even a man of the stature of Polycarp leaned toward such organization.

... In organizing they separate themselves from the Word of God, and bring themselves into spiritual adultery.

PERGAMEAN.CHURCH.AGE - CHURCH.AGE.BOOK CPT.5

That is what has happened in every age since. God delivers the people. They come out by the blood, sanctified by the Word, walk through the waters of baptism and get filled with the Spirit; but after awhile the first love cools off and someone gets the idea that they ought to organize in order to preserve themselves and make a name for themselves, and they organize themselves right back in the second generation and sometimes even before then. They no longer have the Spirit of God, just a form of worship. They are dead. They have hybridized themselves with creed and form and there is no life in them.

REVELATION 2: 1 Unto the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

Paul is most important as the angel or messenger to the Ephesian church age. But before we get too impressed with this great star, Jesus reminds us that there are six other stars, and all seven of these great men only have their great power and influence because they are held in His right hand of power.

MATTHEW 26: 64 Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

However great a messenger to a church age is, and they were all very great men, in comparison to Jesus they are just a star in His hand. Thus He is so much greater than any or all of them. The brightest stars fade when the sun rises. The brightest star or messenger fades in the light of the Word of God, which alone is the truth, as Jesus, the Sun of righteousness, arises in the hearts of His people.

MALACHI 4:2 But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

Thus all the messengers can do is point people to the written Word of God, in the same way that John the Baptist pointed two of his disciples towards Jesus.

JOHN 1: 35 Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples;
:36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!
:37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus.

The only exception was the first messenger Paul, as he had the great responsibility of writing the Word of God. And no one must dare to disagree with Paul.

GALATIANS 1:8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

: 9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

:10 For do I now persuade men, or God? or do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

Paul would never try to please some human leader. It was the Scripture that he wrote or nothing.

Jesus alone is seen walking amongst the candlesticks. No other human being.

Each messenger influences his age. Jesus is there throughout all seven ages. So each messenger or star was to point people to Jesus, because Jesus alone could sustain the Christians throughout each church age.

A messenger is a sign post pointing to the destination. The destination is Jesus, Who is the written Word.

Your personal experience with Jesus as your Saviour and Lord, and the extent to which you believe and follow the written Bible, determines your spiritual future. It does not depend upon the church you belong to.

PHILIPPIANS 2:12 ... work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

There is no group salvation of a church. Salvation is a personal issue between you and God. This verse does not speak of people being complacently happy in a church.

ROMANS 14:12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

Your church may help you or hinder you but it cannot save you. You alone answer to God for your own lifestyle and beliefs. He in turn judges you by His Word, not by some man's quotes.

JOHN 12:48 He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

Hard work was a feature of the early church.

ACTS 17:10 And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither went into the synagogue of the Jews.

:11 These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

They checked everything they heard against the written Word. No error would sneak past this quality of believer. They trusted no man and checked what was said against the Scriptures.

REVELATION 2:2 I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

The church started well. They climbed in with enthusiasm, not counting the cost. They were not scared of hard work and hard circumstances. They labored to spread the Gospel, and were patient when persecution and misfortune undermined their efforts. Thrown to the lions to die a brutal death, they stunned the pagans by their singing of praises to God as they awaited their fate, though their songs were sometimes cut short by their involuntary screams of agony which testified to their humanity. They were ordinary human beings who had found a cause that was worth painfully dying for. The pagans realized that their attachment to their false gods was extremely shallow in comparison. These brave martyrs thus turned many pagans to Christ.

The word labour creates a picture of weariness through oppression. They labored hard to stop the teachings of the apostles from being corrupted. The Bible was their Absolute. But all around them were people obsessed with their own clever opinions that deviated from the written Word. It was a case of choosing to believe the quotes and statements of some uplifted leader, or choosing to just simply stay with the written Word of God.

At first the Christians were very strict. They would only believe what the apostles said. These words formed the New Testament. When the apostles died, the early Christians would only believe what was written in the New Testament. If any leader said anything different to the New Testament, they would simply call him a liar.

Persecution scattered them, but wherever they ended up, they taught what the apostles had written, and so the Word of God spread, and people developed an intense relationship with Jesus which made Him the Head of the church. Early preachers had to be careful. If you said what the apostles said you were well regarded. If you said anything different, you were a liar. There was nothing in between.

For the early Christians Jesus was their main love, and His Word was their Absolute. As a Bride they were in complete submission to their Husband. No one else could tell them what to do. They had a great reverence for every word that was written in the Bible. For the Bible was Jesus, in Word form.

EPHESIANS 5:31 For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

:32 This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

:33 Nevertheless let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself; and the wife see that she reverence her husband.

The early church had no desire to follow men. Once you fall in love with Jesus, any other man has little influence on your beliefs. Only the Bible verses stick in your brain.

REVELATION 2:3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted.

In the previous verse they had labored hard to keep the apostolic beliefs of the New Testament. Now they also had to labour hard to keep the Name of Jesus. The Jews of the Old Testament could not believe that Almighty God could become a Man. Thus the Jews could not believe that Almighty God had come down to live inside a Man, and become manifest in the Man Jesus. Then the reverse problem occurred. After the apostles died, within one or two generations, the Gentile Christians were struggling to believe that the Man Jesus could be Almighty God. It was easier for the human mind to see Him as the Son of God. Slowly the idea was gaining ground that, if Jesus was the Son of God, then there had to be another Person in Heaven, who was God the Father. At first this concept was very fuzzy, but it opened the door to human speculations about the nature of God. Slowly these Christians moved away from what was actually written in the Bible. They began to use arguments from Greek philosophy, and introduced the word "triad" which the Greek philosopher Plato had invented. This would slowly evolve into the Word "Trinity". Unscriptural words were slowly creeping in, which would result in a "Godhead of three Persons" (an unscriptural statement) that could no longer be described by the Name of Jesus.

There were now two vines in the church -- the true vine that held onto the Name of Jesus and only believed the Bible, and the false vine.

CHURCH AGES BOOK THE EPHESIAN CHURCH AGE

"... And for My Name's sake has labored". These believers weren't laboring for Paul, or for an organization. They weren't committed to programs and institutions whereby they built up holdings of value. They worked for the Lord. They were His servants, not pawns of organization.

No representative of an organization can give an honest personal opinion. They can only say what the organization permits them to say, or expects them to say.

Then a false vine was developing that was happy to accept ideas from outside the Bible, and was keen to develop a multi-Person Godhead that was not described by the Name of Jesus.

The war was on. The two seeds had been planted.

REVELATION 2:4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

Somewhere down the line the true vine grew careless. They were too relaxed. Vigilance was undermined by success. Things would go well for a while. Persecutions would ease off. And slowly there developed an attitude that there was no need to be strictly Scriptural. Their intense love of the Bible began to slack off. A bit of compromise began to creep in. The pressure to conform to the manners and beliefs of the surrounding society would grow intense. Their first strong love for the Bible was fading. They no longer demanded that a doctrine had to be written in the Bible.

One important idea that was starting to take over was the efficiency of having one man as a church leader, who tells us what to believe, as that makes our lives so much easier. We no longer have to think for ourselves.

It is so much easier to follow a human leader than to follow the leading of the Holy Spirit.

But the tiny seeds of error that were planted in the first church age would grow up until they became a universal world-wide form of unscriptural "churchianity" (called denominationalism), that would swamp the truth, until in the end hardly anyone would believe that the Bible is infallible. As happened with Eve in Eden, even if one Scripture is not believed, that is sufficient to ruin the church. Try finding a Christian today who believes that every word of the Bible is true. You will have to look hard.

Science claims that the Theory Of Evolution (TOE) is true, so millions of Christians regard the first Chapters of Genesis as a fable.

Remember the Gentile image in Nebuchadnezzar's image? The Rock smashed into the feet of the image and broke the TOEs of the image. Try finding a Christian who adds no human opinion to the Bible. They are very scarce. Science claims the theory (or guess) of the Big Bang is true, so we do not need God to create us. The scientific world is desperately trying, although unsuccessfully, to combine the theories of the four forces of nature into a Theory Of Everything that they call a TOE. (So it will also be smashed by the coming Rock, which is the Coming of the Lord Jesus.) Thus scientists claim we do not really need God, nor must we take the Bible too seriously. Countless millions fall for this idea. Church preachers endlessly proclaim that various verses in the King James Bible are wrongly translated from the originals. To modern Christians the Bible has become the "opinions" of the Bible writers. Christians are convinced that the Bible is full of contradictions. The seed of doubt sown in the first church age is now reaping a deadly harvest.

PROVERBS 30:5 Every word of God is pure:

MATTHEW 4:4 But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God

II TIMOTHY 3:16 All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:

Every Word needs to be believed and obeyed. God gives us no permission to pick and choose the Scriptures we like. If there is any Bible verse that disagrees with your beliefs, then your beliefs are wrong.

REVELATION 2:5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

Many in the early church were responding to peer pressure from important people, to conform to human leaders in their cities and towns. Because the people were listening to human leaders instead of the teachings of the apostles, God removed virtually all the apostles, except for John, by the year 70 AD and thus the trend to follow human leaders increased. If we want error, God will give us error. The Jews had also wanted a human leader, a king, and God gave them king Saul, who did them a lot of harm because a king was not God's perfect will for the Jews.

REVELATION 2:6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

"Rome" can also be pronounced "Roam", which means to wander about. When the Jews believed that they could not conquer the promised land, God made them wander in the wilderness for 40 years.

NUMBERS 14:33 And your children shall wander in the wilderness forty years, and bear your whoredoms, until your carcases be wasted in the wilderness.

Christians ignore and drift around the difficult Bible verses, wandering around spiritually as they do not know the deeper meanings of so many Scriptures. They tend to regard these Scriptures as mistakes, or else as being unimportant. That is the easy way out, so we do not have to seek for a deeper meaning.

- Why did Jesus twice write with His finger in the dust when challenged about a woman taken in adultery? Most Christians do not know enough to answer this question, and many similar questions. They were questioning Him on the Law and He used this technique to give them an in depth lesson on both the Godhead as well as law and grace.

- Why does Luke have a different bloodline of ancestors for Jesus between David and Joseph, compared to Matthew? One is the line of Joseph. The other is the line of Mary. Why was it necessary to have two lines?
- Why do only those two Gospels trace the ancestry of Jesus?
- Why does Luke have thirteen generations more than Matthew does between David and Joseph?
- Six of the seven churches in Revelation have the proper names of their cities. But the third church has a Greek ending, Pergamos, instead of its proper name Pergamum. Why? This question was first asked in 1850. Do you still know as little about the Bible as what they did then? Scientific knowledge has rocketed up in the last 40 years. Bible knowledge crawls along like a tortoise. Christians today only know as much about the Bible as what they knew 40 years ago. Something is wrong.
- Matthew and Mark only mention one angel at the tomb of Jesus. Why? Luke and John mentioned that there were two. What are the four Gospels trying to tell us here?
- When Mary came to the tomb, John mentions that Jesus told her not to touch him.

JOHN 20:16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

:17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not Yet Matthew says that the women were allowed to hold Jesus by the feet.

MATTHEW 28:5 And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

:9 And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.

The Bible is full of such mysteries which most Christians cannot answer. Skeptics use these verses to claim that the Bible is full of contradictions. Thus skeptics win the argument against these Christians. Why cannot so many Christians, including 'Message believers', answer these questions? The simple answer is that they have been kept in the dark by their church leaders, who do not know the answers either.

So right at the beginning, church leaders took over, and guided the church down a path that would obscure the truth until it was forgotten.

Nicolaitanism comes from “nikao” which means “to conquer”, and “laos” which means “the laity”, in other words the congregation. The conquering of the laity was most effective in Rome. The Roman Catholic church would grow to be the world’s largest denomination, dominated by a Pope, who rules the church as a supreme dictator. Today, the Pope is the only dictator in Western Europe. But Rome is in Italy. Take the word ITALY and rearrange the letters -- You get LAITY. So conquering the laity was at its most effective in Rome, to produce the Roman Catholic church.

REVELATION 2:7 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

You can see a picture immediately when you look at it. At one glance. But you cannot hear a lesson immediately, as speech requires time before the words are all said. So the Spirit puts the emphasis on the ear, so that we can hear the unfolding of what God wants to tell us about each church age. 80% of our contact with the visible world comes from our eyes, but only 15% comes from our ears. So God gives the Devil the advantage of using our eyes. Satan fools us with the lust of the eyes, the glamour and glitter of the world, and its big and impressive looking churches and luxury lifestyle. The lure of wealth that makes us greedy for gain.

God moves in a humble way by asking us to hear what is written in the Bible. Then we have to wait patiently until God decides to reveal the mysteries of His Word. Truth takes time. Plants grow at their own pace. Fruit has to ripen slowly.

Today Message preachers try to rush future events into the past. But events will unfold in their proper time. All we can do is try hard not to be fooled by this reckless preaching. Running ahead of God's timing is a waste of time.

God speaks to all the churches, plural. Each age should be the same as the first church age, as God has no other blueprint. Each age will be judged in terms of its deviation from the first age. Our church age, Laodicea, is the critical age. God expects us to be fully restored back to the first church age, and to be just like them. Then our church age is going to be viciously cut off by the great Tribulation. Those who are not identical in belief to the New Testament church, are going to learn the harshest of lessons. The holocaust of the Jews during the second World War, when 6 million were killed by the brutal Nazis, was a preview of the Tribulation, as was the vicious destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in AD 70 when just over a million Jews were killed.

But to the individuals who will combat the growing trend of denominationalism, with its rejection of Bible truth in order to elevate a human leader as head of the church, the future rewards in Paradise far outweigh the rejection and unpleasantness that they encountered on earth. Jesus Christ is the Tree of Life. He alone gives eternal Life. He is the Bible in Human form. So if you want to stay with the Bible on earth, you can only do that if the Spirit of Christ is in you. Then your portion of the Holy Spirit will take you into paradise, as you will be part of the great Holy Spirit, part of Jesus. If you stood for Him on earth, you will stand with Him in Heaven. There can be no better destination.

But each age has to overcome the error of the age.

The fault with the first age is they began to believe that they did not have to stay strictly with the Bible. They began to think that obedience to the will and opinions of human leaders, who claimed to be serving God, was how God wanted to be served. The idea of loyalty to a church and safety in church membership and church attendance was born. None of these things seem bad in themselves, but what they were doing was taking peoples' eyes off the Bible so that Christians no longer quoted Scripture when they defended their church leadership. "The pastor is the head of the church", "The tithes belong to the pastor", and "Your pastor will see you through" are all unscriptural statements that we still have with us today. So an unscriptural organization was starting to form which would take people further from the Bible. At first it seemed harmless. So these ideas slipped into the church, under the radar. People were too relaxed to check that the word "pastor" only appeared once in the New Testament, and thus had no Scriptural authority to be the head of the church.

The beliefs that the apostles had died for, were no longer being taken that seriously.

The apostles said Jesus was the Head of the church and that the church should be run by a group of elders. The spiritual watchmen were no longer at their posts to check that these new ideas were not written in the Bible. Vigilance slackened, and people focused on enjoying themselves and prospering in the material world, just like they did at Belshazzar's feast when they thought they were secure. It was much easier for the church to have one man as a human leader, who could tell them what to believe.

Paul had been stamping on this human love of human leadership right at the beginning. It is a weakness that is built into our human genes.

The group of believers, or church, that met in the house of Chloe complained to Paul about the competitive Christianity of other believers who called themselves Paul's church, Apollos' church, Cephas' church -- as if the church belonged to some man and thus gained pre-eminence if the head man was more important than other head men. Today we still have Luther's church, Wesley's church, William Branham's church, the Message church. Tom's church. Dick's church and Harry's church. Churches are named after their pastor's name. This sad error has survived 2 000 years. It sure is a tough virus, and is very infectious. Hanging onto human leadership at all costs is the downfall of the church.

I CORINTHIANS 1:11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

:12 Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of Apollos; and I of Cephas; and I of Christ.

:13 Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

Paul was horrified that someone could be baptized in his name. Today this has actually materialized as some people get baptized in the name of William Branham, or Lord Branham Christ. So the errors of the first church age began with one-man human leadership of the local church, and that error has never been effectively stamped out.

There is great danger of over-emphasising one aspect (one man promoted up to efficiently lead the church), and omitting others entirely (what the Bible says about a group of elders running the church).

Over-emphasizing a big church building where a large congregation meets to be guided by one man. It is efficient, but then traps the whole group in error. But we omit that the early churches met in houses, where no one man could thus dominate a big group, because each house could not contain a very big group. There they could read and discuss the Bible, and live Scriptural lives, free from the domination of an ambitious leader.

So true believers in the first church age had to combat that error of elevated human leadership, which God hates. Today we also have to combat that error, just like they had to. But our problem is more tricky. We not only have to oppose the errors of the first church age, which like snakes could slither in under a small gap in the Scripture that was no longer obeyed, but we have to also combat the errors from six other church ages where bigger gaps of unobeyed Bible verses allowed bigger snakes to slither in.

PHILIPPIANS 2:12 Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling.

If you are comfortable and complacent in your church, you are missing something. Beware.

LUKE 21:34 And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares.

:35 For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

:36 Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man.

A snare is a hidden trap. If God does not reveal the errors to us that blind us from seeing the truth of the Bible, then we are in serious trouble.

By listening to human opinion the church proved unfaithful to its trust, and ceased to adhere to the principles with which it started. We make the same mistake today. The city of Ephesus faded away as a port when the silt from the river that flowed into the harbor filled up the harbor, and the sea shore moved away from the city. So, gradually, human leadership and ideas filled up the minds of the people in the early church as they drifted away from the written Bible. The main error of the first age was that a presbyter was called a priest, and he was established as the head of a local church. Then this system was compounded by a bishop being established as the head of the local churches in each city and its surrounding areas.

Thus the stage was set for the next errors that entered during the second church age.

Some people hold the view that the most important cause of the decline of the Roman Empire came during the reign of a basically good Emperor: Marcus Aurelius. Except for his mad compulsion to persecute Christians. It was the Antonine Plague, one of the most devastating plagues in history, that swept through the Empire between 165 AD - 180 AD. This plague came when Rome was at war, so the army was gathered together. It swept through their ranks, removing their numerical superiority. It also created a population problem. Less people in the Empire meant less people to produce food, which led to a decrease in urbanization (because cities need large agricultural production to survive) and less population growth overall. In short: Rome no longer had enough manpower to garrison all of its Empire at the same time.

This laid the seeds for the later collapse of the western Roman Empire when there was neither the money nor the manpower to defend their borders.

Thus in the midst of this great plague we can probably draw a line around 170 AD to indicate where the first church age ended and the second church age started.

Life was tough. This was the consequence of the church moving away from the example of the apostolic church of the New Testament.

Smyrna (2:8-11) – The Persecuted Church

The Persecuted Church

⁸“And to the angel of the church in Smyrna write,

‘These things says the First and the Last, who was dead, and came to life: ⁹“I know your works, tribulation, and poverty (but you are rich); and I know the blasphemy of those who say they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan. ¹⁰Do not fear any of those things which you are about to suffer. Indeed, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison, that you may be tested, and you will have tribulation ten days. Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life.

¹¹“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who overcomes shall not be hurt by the second death.” ’

- The name Smyrna means “myrrh”
 - The name Smyrna – comes from the Greek word Smurna – from the Hebrew root that is translated myrrh
 - Myrrh is closely associated with death in the Bible
- History
 - Began as an Aeolian (Greek) settlement in the 11th century B.C.
 - Smyrna was inhabited by the Asiatic Lelegez until about 3000 BC
 - According to Herodotus, the area then fell into the hands of the Ionians from Colophon
 - Began Smyrna’s most glorious phase in history
 - During this period, the poet Homer was born, lived, and died in Smyrna
 - Born sometime between the 12th and 8th centuries BC
 - Smyrna was captured and destroyed by the Lydians in the 7th century BC (Alexander the Great’s conquests)
 - 3 centuries of greatness ended with the attacks of the Lydians
 - In the 4th century, on order from Alexander the Great, the “New City” developed
 - Smyrna was built into a strong, well planned city – the most beautiful in Ionia
 - It became known as the flower of Ionia
 - It prospered into one of the greatest cities of that time
 - Smyrna came under the control of the Romans in 27 BC
 - In New Testament times, Smyrna vied with Ephesus & Pergamum for the title of “First City of Asia”
 - Paralleled Ephesus in wealth, beauty & commerce – It was a truly beautiful & influential city
 - It became known as the most beautiful city in the world over the years
 - Although a free city, it gave full allegiance to the Roman Empire
 - Famous for its superb school of medicine
 - Ancient Smyrna was known for its many temples and splendid buildings
 - Center of pagan worship
 - Temples of Zeus, Apollo, Aphrodite, Asclepius, Cybele, Poseidon and Demeter
 - Smyrna was demolished by several earthquakes and rebuilt, but never attained its former glory

- Smyrna is today's Izmir
 - 3rd largest city in modern-day Turkey
 - 3.3 million people
 - Exports tobacco, grapes, figs, cotton, olives, and olive oil
- Geography
 - 35 miles north of Ephesus
 - Smyrna has an excellent harbor
- Smyrna = myrrh = death
 - The name Smyrna – comes from the Greek word Smurna – from the Hebrew root that is translated myrrh
 - Myrrh is a bitter gum and costly perfume which exudes from a certain tree or shrub in Arabia and Ethiopia or is obtained by incisions made in the bark
- Uses of myrrh
 - It was an ingredient in perfume
 - Ps 45 ⁸ All Your garments are scented with myrrh and aloes and cassia, Out of the ivory palaces, by which they have made You glad.
 - It was prominent in song of Solomon
 - SS 1 ¹³ A bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me, That lies all night between my breasts.
 - SS 4 ⁶ Until the day breaks And the shadows flee away, I will go my way to the mountain of myrrh And to the hill of frankincense.
 - SS 5 ⁵ I arose to open for my beloved, And my hands dripped with myrrh, My fingers with liquid myrrh, On the handles of the lock.
 - It was an ingredient in holy anointing oil for priests
 - Ex 30 ²² Moreover the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²³ “Also take for yourself quality spices—five hundred shekels of liquid myrrh, half as much sweet-smelling cinnamon (two hundred and fifty shekels), two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling cane, ²⁴ five hundred shekels of cassia, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, and a hin of olive oil. ²⁵ And you shall make from these a holy anointing oil, an ointment compounded according to the art of the perfumer. It shall be a holy anointing oil.
 - Used in the purification of women
 - Esther 2 ¹² Each young woman's turn came to go in to King Ahasuerus after she had completed twelve months' preparation, according to the regulations for the women, for thus were the days of their preparation apportioned: six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with perfumes and preparations for beautifying women.
 - It was a gift of the Maji at Christ's birth
 - Mt 2 ¹¹ And when they had come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshiped Him. And when they had opened their treasures, they presented gifts to Him: gold, frankincense, and myrrh.
 - Gold = royalty
 - Frankincense = deity and priesthood
 - Myrrh = suffering and death
 - At the 2nd coming, gold & frankincense are offered, but no myrrh, since his death is now behind Him
 - Is 60 “Lift up your eyes all around, and see: They all gather together, they come to you; Your sons shall come from afar, And your daughters shall be nursed at your side. ⁵ Then you shall see and become radiant, And your heart shall swell with joy; Because the abundance of the sea shall be turned to you, The wealth of the Gentiles shall come to you. ⁶ The multitude of camels shall cover your land, The dromedaries of Midian and Ephah; All those from Sheba shall come; They shall bring gold and incense, And they shall proclaim the praises of the LORD.

- It was offered to Christ at the cross
 - Mk 15 ²² And they brought Him to the place Golgotha, which is translated, Place of a Skull. ²³ Then they gave Him wine mingled with myrrh to drink, but He did not take it. ²⁴ And when they crucified Him,
- It was used in embalming
 - Jn 19 ³⁸ After this, Joseph of Arimathea, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly, for fear of the Jews, asked Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus; and Pilate gave him permission. So he came and took the body of Jesus. ³⁹ And Nicodemus, who at first came to Jesus by night, also came, bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds. ⁴⁰ Then they took the body of Jesus, and bound it in strips of linen with the spices, as the custom of the Jews is to bury. .
- Note the death theme through this letter
 - Myrrh yields fragrance by being crushed
 - The church of Smyrna went through tremendous suffering and persecution from the Roman government – It was estimated that 6 million Christians were martyred during this period of time. They were crucified by the hundreds as the Roman emperors at various periods sought to stamp out Christianity.
 - Fed to the lions
 - Stretched on the racks
 - Polycarp (A.D. 69–155) – The pastor/bishop of the church at Smyrna
 - He was the last man personally discipled by John
 - As a young man living in the city, Polycarp may have heard Revelation read from the actual manuscript in John’s handwriting, delivered fresh from Patmos.
 - Martyrdom of Polycarp
 - The church historian Eusebius recounts the martyrdom of Polycarp
 - Polycarp martyred in Smyrna in A.D. 155 – at 86 years old – amidst one of the numerous waves of persecution
 - Polycarp was ordered to burn incense at the altar of Caesar.
 - The Proconsul said “Take the oath and I will let you go. Revile Christ!”
 - To which Polycarp is said to have replied “For 86 years I have been his servant, and he has never reviled me; how can I revile my king and my savior? How can I deny him who has been faithful to me these 6 and 80 years”
 - He asked consequently he was sentenced to burn at the stake
 - When the fire failed to come near him, however, a frustrated guard pierced his shoulder with his sword – Inadvertently drawing blood which put out the flame.
 - At times, the only substance powerful enough to extinguish the fire of persecution was the blood of the saints
- Pagan Religions
 - Pagan temples of Zeus, Apollo, Aphrodite, Asclepius, Cybele, Poseidon, Demeter and Emperor Tiberius
 - The Temple of Athena dated back to the 7th century – it was one of the most important buildings of that period
- The church at Smyrna
 - Founded during the first century A.D., but we don’t know by whom – probably one of the believers from Ephesus.
 - To this church that was going to experience much tremendous suffering and persecution, the message of Jesus is one of a different nature – It is a message of comfort, a message of hope...

- Excavations of “New Smyrna” in Izmir began in 2002
 - They are sponsored by the Izmir Archaeology Museum and the Metropolitan Municipality of Izmir
- A vast network of vaulted Roman arches created a multi-level “shopping mall,” both below and above ground.
 - The arch network also reduced the impact of frequent earthquakes.

Greeting

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Smyrna (2:8-11) Persecuted, suffering	Persecuted – Endured afflictions; Endured poverty; Endured slander; Faithfully coped through many trials	-- (none)	Remain faithful, even when facing prison, persecution or death	The crown of life – You will not be hurt at all by the second death

*8 "To the angel of the church in Smyrna write:
These are the words of him who is the First and the Last, who died and came to life again.*

- Ephesus – “These are the words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand and walks among the seven golden lampstands”
 - Rev 1 ¹² Then I turned to see the voice that spoke with me. And having turned I saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³ and in the midst of the seven lampstands One like the Son of Man ... ¹⁶ He had in His right hand seven stars
- Smyrna – “These are the words of him who is the First and the Last, who died and came to life again”
 - Rev 1 ¹⁷ And when I saw Him, I fell at His feet as dead. But He laid His right hand on me, saying to me, “Do not be afraid; I am the First and the Last. ¹⁸ I am He who lives, and was dead, and behold, I am alive forevermore.
- In both instances the greeting recalls attributes of Christ that were mentioned previously in the prologue of chapter 1

Commendation ☺

9 I know your afflictions and your poverty—yet you are rich! I know the slander of those who say they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan. 10 Do not be afraid of what you are about to suffer. I tell you, the devil will put some of you in prison to test you, and you will suffer persecution for ten days. Be faithful, even to the point of death, and I will give you the crown of life.

- I know your afflictions and your poverty—yet you are rich!*
 - This period for the church in Smyrna was a time of oppression, affliction and distress.
 - I know your works – nothing is hidden from me
 - I know your poverty and how you were persecuted through confiscation
 - I know your persecution by these ‘religious men’ that claim to be Jews but were not
 - In the midst of much affliction it is easy to think that God has forgotten all about you – but I know, I have been there, done that, says Jesus.
- you will suffer persecution for ten days*
 - Persecution
 - Diseases brought back from the Parthian wars devastated much of Rome.
 - Inundation from the Tiber put much of the grain storehouses under water
 - Famine and pestilence followed.
 - The Christians were a convenient scapegoat, and Christianity became a crime.
 - In the years 100 through 313, there were 10 Roman emperors who correspond to the 10 days spoken of here
 - They launched such massive attacks against the believers that between 5 and 7 million Christians would be killed during their rule

- 10 rulers total over 250 years
- In Foxe's Book of Martyrs, it said 5 million believers died for Christ during this period

1. Nero (54–68) – Paul was beheaded and Peter was crucified upside down
2. Domitian (95–96) – John was exiled
3. Trajan (104–117) – Ignatius was burned at the stake
4. Marcus Aurelius (161–180) – Polycarp was martyred
5. Septimus Severus (200–211) – Killed Irenaeus
6. Maximinus (235–237) – Killed Ursula and Hippolytus
7. Decius (249–251)
8. Valerian (257–260)
9. Aurelian (270–275)
10. Diocletian (303–313) – He was the worst of all!

- Smyrna was a wealthy, influential city in John's day, but the church felt the brunt of persecution
 - Arrest, punishment, confiscation of property and the poverty that followed
 - Yet, the Lord reminds them, they are spiritually rich, even as they suffer persecution
- Judaism as an ancient indigenous religion, and it was protected under Roman law
 - The Roman Empire recognized Judaism as an ancient indigenous religion, and it was protected under Roman law
 - But when tensions between Judaism and Christianity worsened, Christians lost their protection as a minor sect under the umbrella of Judaism.
 - Apparently, the large Jewish population in Smyrna actively persecuted the church, as well.
- Both the civil authorities and the Jews persecuted the church in Smyrna
 - Ultimately, it was Satan working behind the scenes
 - Some people will be imprisoned and their faith will be tested severely for "ten days"
 - Ten is a number signifying a transient period, not finality, not "to death."
 - Translated as "persecution" or "ordeal"
 - Means "tribulation," "affliction," or "anguish"
- The Lord encourages those in Smyrna to remain faithful, even if it means unto death, for "the crown of life" awaits them

Condemnation ☹️

--

- Notice, there are no words of condemnation for the church at Smyrna, perhaps because the Lord saw Smyrna as a martyr church, one that was shedding its blood for him.
 - "witness" – One whose death for Christ spoke boldly and with ultimate conviction
 - "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church,"
 - Written by the 2nd-century church father Tertullian
 - Implies that martyrdom is the strongest witness one can make to lead others to Christ
- In Revelation 6:9 we will meet an army of such martyrs beneath God's altar in heaven, "those who had been slaughtered because of the witness they bore to the word of God."

Admonition (Call to Action)

11 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who overcomes will not be hurt at all by the second death.

- As in his letter to the church in Ephesus, Jesus encourages those in Smyrna to pay attention to what he has said, and provides an assurance for those who persevere to the end
 - “he who overcomes” or “victors” means one who “overcomes” or “prevails”
- He who overcomes will not be hurt at all by the second death.
 - What is the “second death”? Hell – the “lake of fire”
 - It is called the “second” one because it follows physical death.
 - Where those who are separated from God by their sin will dwell for eternity
 - This judgment was recorded in Scripture as a warning to unbelievers to seek the salvation that Jesus Christ provides.
 - The coming judgment should also challenge believers to share their faith. There is a vast difference between the final destination of those who know Christ and those who do not.
 - Rev 20¹⁴ Then Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. ¹⁵ And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire.
 - At the end of time, even death and the grave (Hades) will be thrown into the lake of fire.
 - In addition, every person not included in the book of life will be thrown into the lake of fire.
 - This condition will be final; the destination is permanent.
 - Rev 21⁸ But the cowardly, unbelieving, abominable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars shall have their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death.”
 - Great White Throne judgment – At the end of the millennium, the unbeliever will be resurrected to stand before the Lord at the Great White Throne judgment
 - There, his failure to believe on the Lord and his refusal to accept God's payment for his sin will condemn him to outer darkness
 - Mt 25²⁹ ‘For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have abundance; but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away. ³⁰ And cast the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’
 - It is a “death” in that it is a separation from God, the Giver of life.
 - But for those who (like the church at Smyrna) stay true, the 2nd death will have no effect
 - For those who overcome the threat and acts of violence from Satan, they will never be hurt by the 2nd death
 - Death is conquered for these overcomers
 - Rev 2¹¹ “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who overcomes shall not be hurt by the second death.” ’
 - Jesus promises that believers will not experience the lake of fire. The second death is exclusively for those who have rejected Christ. It is not a place that believers in Christ should fear.
 - “overcomers” – 1Jn 5⁴ For whatever is born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our faith.
 - Revelation 20:6 speaks of the second death in relation to a future period called the Millennium
 - Rev 20⁶ Blessed and holy is he who has part in the first resurrection. Over such the second death has no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years.
 - This verse notes three important facts.
 - First, those who die for their faith in Jesus during the Tribulation will later be resurrected to enter the Millennium and live with Him.
 - Second, these martyrs will escape the lake of fire or second death.
 - Third, they will reign with Christ.

Church History (170-312)

The Church Ages - Smyrna, The Second Age, 170 AD-312 AD

Smyrna comes from the word myrrh, which means bitterness and death.

This was a very uncertain and unstable age with many assassinations, as about 80 men declared themselves to be Roman emperor in some part of the empire or in Rome during this interval of 142 years. In the 23 years from 247 – 270 AD thirty men proclaimed themselves as emperor. In the year 238 AD seven self-proclaimed emperors were killed. This totally unstable situation regarding the succession of emperors paralysed the Roman Empire's defence system, which also undermined the economy. The costly civil wars as ambitious men fought to kill the existing emperors and replace them, drained soldiers away from the frontiers leaving them open to invasion by ferocious German barbarians, and the increasingly powerful Persians.

The Roman empire had a leadership crisis which reflected the growing leadership crisis of the church. Each of the early churches that were established by the apostles had to be run by a group of elders, according to the permanent pattern and principles of the New Testament that needed no modifications or additions to meet the changing circumstances of the ages. The Scriptures were for their unchanging guidance, as Jesus made Himself the centre of each church. That is why Jesus is seen in the midst of the candlesticks. The Christians of this age were scattered much by persecution, civil war, and barbarian and Persian invasions. It was the gathering of the people around the Scriptures as their centre that preserved the genuine believers. Death was a constant companion. This scattering of the persecuted Christians minimised the damaging effects to the true believers caused by the imposing of human leadership over the church.

MATTHEW 18:20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

Small scattered groups did not need a religious organisation to bind them to some man.

But church organisation was quickly growing as they developed a succession of man-made bishops to rule the church in each city. This "official" church was also becoming bitter towards those who wanted to be Scriptural. A succession of bishops seemed to be the right answer as it gave some stability and order in an age that was extremely unstable. This age is rather obscure, as a thick darkness still envelops much of its history. The fifty years between the years 235 – 284 are particularly poorly illuminated. Fifty years of convulsions caused by civil war and 20 years of invasion by Germanic barbarians (around 245 – 265 AD) made this a time of chaos. Also, the Persian leader Shapur, who was the most dangerous enemy Rome had except for Hannibal, also launched three major campaigns between 242 - 260 AD against Rome. In between the campaigns, he organised annual raids into the Roman provinces.

To combat these uncertain and changing circumstances in these dangerous and hostile times, the churches made a huge mistake by establishing "apostolic succession" in certain select cities in a frantic attempt to defend truth and provide stable leadership. They said that only those churches who were "started" by an apostle could claim to have the truth. This was the lie that was developing and taking over the churches.

249 -260 AD was a particularly vicious eleven-year persecution of Christians amid pestilence and the loss of value of their money as inflation became rampant. Increasingly the Christians got blamed for all these catastrophes, and the empire tried to eliminate them. By 266 AD the Roman empire had split into three sections due to civil wars. At the cost of tremendous resources, and the cost of much human happiness, the emperor Aurelian with great military skill and cruelty, especially towards Christians, reunited the empire in 274 AD before falling to an assassin's knife in 275 AD. This was an age of drama and violence.

Irenaeus, Bishop of Lyons from about 178 AD to when he died just after 200 AD, (many dates are a little vague in this age) was the greatest Bible teacher of the age. He became bishop two years before the semi-mad, depraved, and evil Commodus became emperor from 180 -192 AD. Cruelty, vanity, power mania, and fear formed the toxic character of this emperor. The lazy, pleasure-seeking Commodus promoted a man Cleander to run his government, and historians say that it was the most corrupt Roman government of all time. Such was the leadership chaos at the time that Irenaeus became bishop of Lyons. He was the brightest Scriptural light of his day, but he lived in a time of weird political leadership. Marcus Aurelius, the father of Commodus, was rated as a brilliant Emperor, but he launched excessively cruel persecutions against the Christians. He had them viciously tortured before killing them. This sadistic streak in a man who was a great philosopher was really puzzling. Marcus Aurelius had the bishop of Lyons killed in 177 AD during a cruel persecution. This was the bishop that Irenaeus replaced as bishop of Lyons.

So everyone was desperate for some stable form of church leadership, which would help them endure the shambolic political leadership with its uncertainty and violence. In those troubled times, because the Roman emperor Commodus was so corrupt, and his father Marcus Aurelius had been so murderously cruel towards the Christians, Irenaeus leaned towards making the bishop of Rome, a far more reasonable man than either of those emperors, an example of a defender of truth. But he only mentioned Rome, no other city. Thus it sounded like he said that the Roman bishop is the religious authority. Thus, sadly, the messenger to this second age deviated from Scripture on the issue of recognising the authority of the Roman bishops who "descended" from the Apostle Peter. Remember that this was a very confused and heavily persecuted age as the churches drifted towards human leadership, by claiming that the various bishops who succeeded each other in certain cities where the apostles had established the churches, were the only people who were guaranteed to have the truth.

Ironically, Irenaeus had the most truth for his age, yet he was bishop of the city of Lyons which had no apostolic founder. The folly of this approach was that Martin of Tours, Columba of the island of Iona, Luther of Wittenburg, Wesley of England, and William Branham from Jeffersonville in America would all rise up to restore truth from cities that never saw an apostle, and had no continuous link of bishops over the ages. Irenaeus was human and messed up badly on this point. Never trust a clever human opinion. Stay with what is written in the Bible.

This apostolic succession seemed a great idea at the time as Rome, Antioch, the rebuilt Jerusalem, and Alexandria gained pre-eminence amongst the Christians. The churches in smaller cities could learn from them. One of these important churches could act as a counterweight to another important church. These few important churches could thus keep each other in check. But the Muslim Arabs wrecked that plan when they swept out of the Arabian deserts in 634 AD and conquered Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria by 641 AD. Those churches were then lost prominence for the Christian cause, and Rome gained even more prestige as the only western church that was started by an apostle. Greece had churches that were started by apostles, but Greece was part of the eastern empire. This is a classic illustration of why we must never depart from Scripture. We cannot predict the future, so the plans that sincere men made to deal with the hectic problems of their age merely ended up eventually boosting the wrong church and making it even more powerful. So much for truth was being entrusted to the "succession of bishops". This whole concept was very short-sighted and very unscriptural.

Irenaeus wrote, "That tradition derived from the apostles of the very great, the very ancient, and universally known church founded and organised at Rome by the two most glorious apostles, Peter and Paul; as also [by pointing out] the faith preached to men, which comes down to our time by means of the successions of the bishops. For it is a matter of necessity that every Church should agree with this Church, on account of its preeminent authority".

Irenaeus said that Peter founded the church in Rome. This is completely wrong. Peter never was in Rome.

He then stated that the succession of the Roman bishops was true to the apostolic faith and should be held in preeminent authority. But Rome was the church that Scripture would classify as the mother harlot.

This also indicates how the rumours of Peter being in Rome had been repeated so often that everyone now believed them. So much for human opinions and advice. Even the best leaders get things wrong. So do not rely on your pastor and his opinions, but rather rely on what is written in Scripture.

Irenaeus maintained that the bishops in different cities are known as far back as the Apostles and that those bishops provided the only safe guide to the interpretation of Scripture. His writings, with those of Clement and Ignatius, are regarded as among the earliest attempts to develop the doctrine of the primacy of the Roman church. This doctrine which made the Roman bishop the boss of all the other bishops was soon to be a disaster.

Irenaeus mentioned the Roman church as an example of the unbroken chain of authority. This doctrine meant that certain cities would always be more important than others. This is the key to Nicolaitanism, having a more important bishop elevated above a less important bishop.

With the lists of bishops to which Irenaeus referred, the doctrine of the apostolic succession was firmly established in the Church at this time. This succession was important to establish a chain of custody for what they thought was the truth. Irenaeus felt it important, however, also to speak of a succession of elders (presbyters). But this last suggestion was not taken as seriously as his comments about the chain of bishops.

The Carthage bishop Cyprian, a very influential church writer who died in 258 AD, wrote in favour of increasing the authority of the bishops over the church. He said,

"No one can have God for his Father if he does not have the church for his mother".

The church could only be your mother if you obeyed the bishop of the church.

Irenaeus also claimed that the Nicolaitanes were the followers of that Nicolas who was one of the seven deacons first ordained by the apostles. He said that they lead lives of unrestrained indulgence. On this point, he completely missed the mark. Christians are easily fooled by plausible rumours.

The succession of bishops, as elevated leaders above the congregation, was the Nicolaitans. Thus the church in the second church age was deviating away from the apostolic pattern of the New Testament. The original light of the apostles was dimming.

The second candlestick had been lit. The light of this age was becoming different to the first age and dimmer.

Savage persecution by Roman emperors saw the church, most surprisingly, grow more rapidly than what the outside forces of the Roman empire were able to destroy it. The persecutors and witnesses of the Christian sufferings often became converts which swelled the Christian ranks. About ten brutal and murderous persecutions by the Roman emperors, starting with Nero in 64 AD, finally ended in 312 AD. About three million Christians had been killed. Many of these cruel Roman emperors ruled during the second church age. By 312 AD Satan had learned a harsh lesson: no brutal earthly power could crush Christianity by attacking the church from without.

The Roman empire had been gradually drawn into an attack on the churches which grew in intensity until the Empire's whole power and resources were put forth to crush and destroy the churches, who now desperately needed help and safety. The Roman church had the resources to help many of the persecuted, and these Christians naturally looked up to the Roman church as being a caring mother church.

REVELATION 2:8 And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive;

This was an age in which it was easy to die. Fifty years of civil war. Twenty years of invasions and border wars against the German barbarians and Persian armies. Many vicious persecutions by the Roman emperors.

Smyrna comes from the word myrrh -- a bitter oil from a tree resin that was used to embalm the dead.

So Jesus comforts the many who will be killed in this age by starting with His death and then pointing to His resurrection where He showed Himself alive again. Death must not scare the Christian because death opens the door to Heaven and eternal life for the believer who has repented. Jesus is first and last which means that when the persecutions hit, Jesus is the first to enter the killing fields and strengthen the Christians for their ordeal, and then He is the last to leave. That way there is no Christian who has to die alone. Jesus' secret Presence is always with us.

He is the first and the last. He wants the last Christians to be like the first Christians because He never changes.

HEBREWS 13:8 Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.

But this second age was not to be the last age of the Christians because they were moving away from the New Testament church.

REVELATION 2:9 I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

These Christians were poor in this world's goods, but they were rich in faith because they stood for God's Word even if they had to die for it. In this life, they suffered for a while, but in the next life, they have treasures beyond counting for all eternity. Thus they had no regrets for their temporary losses on earth as their rewards in Heaven are so fantastic. Just like a woman who struggles to give birth, but somehow the memory of her pain and suffering fades as she holds that precious little bundle in her arms.

These Christians were very sensible. If they had built up treasure on earth, the greedy Roman emperors would have robbed them of it, and they would have nothing anyway. So they ignored earthly success and stood for Scripture. The treasures of their faith were thus far beyond the grasping hands of the emperors. When they were killed, they simply went to join their treasures that were eternally safe in Heaven. This age knew how to think. They had few goods, but an abundance of insight into what really matters.

They were poor, but God never criticised them. There is an important lesson in that. In contrast, the last age, Laodicea, is rich, but God never compliments them. So what are we doing wrong at the end time?

A synagogue is an assembly or gathering. Satan assembles people when the assembly is done in an unscriptural manner.

ISAIAH 54:15 Behold, they shall surely gather together, but not by me:

So the Devil first focused on setting up an unscriptural church system.

The original twelve apostles who had the truth were Jewish. Claiming to be a Jew meant that these people claimed that they had the original truth. But the Bible says that they were liars. Tell a lie, and stick to it for long enough, and eventually, people will believe you. So the Roman Catholic church was going to rise up to power on the basis of lies.

The first church age ended when the Christians accepted the lie of Nicolaitanism, the elevation of a holy man above the congregation, who imposed human leadership and opinions on the church. This lie claimed that each church had to have a priest or presbyter in charge of the church, and then each city had to have a bishop in charge of all the priests. Thus even Irenaeus, the great saint of that age, was fooled into becoming the bishop of the city of Lyons around 178 AD. No such office as the bishop of a city was ever held by a man in the New Testament. But that tradition had been started by Ignatius who called himself bishop of Antioch, soon after the apostle John died around 100 AD.

Error was springing up all over, and Christians decided to combat these errors with another even bigger error called "apostolic succession". The Orthodox faith was claimed to be held by a bishop of a city who could trace a succession of bishops back in time that linked them back to an original apostle who had started the church in that city. This man-made system seemed clever but was seriously flawed. Many cities like Lyons and Tours in France would make a strong stand for truth, despite never being visited by an apostle. Rome was where the apostle Paul stayed for a while, yet it would later become the mother harlot. Some cities, like Ephesus, were by 170 AD already disappearing off the map because the great harbour had silted up.

This doctrine of apostolic succession gave the cities of Rome (where Paul had ended up), Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria (who claimed that Mark had gone there) great pre-eminence over other churches in smaller cities because these cities were big and wealthy. This prestige that elevated one bishop above another bishop was unscriptural. The fallacy here was that the future emperor Constantine would build the city of Constantinople. The bishop of Constantinople would have just as much prestige as Rome, Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria because it was the capital of Eastern Roman Empire, which was wealthier than western Rome, as well as having the backing of the emperor who lived there.

Yet no apostle had visited Constantinople as it was only built around 330 AD. Worse still, when the Arabs burst out of the Arabian deserts around 634 AD, after the death of Muhammad, they rapidly conquered Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria. Those important churches disappeared as the Muslims took over. Then only Rome and Constantinople were left. So now everyone in the west had to look to Rome as it was the only church that could claim apostolic succession. In those chaotic times, the true churches would appear and disappear and then reappear elsewhere as the Holy Spirit worked in the hearts of individuals. But for the false vine, Rome was the great survivor. The Roman Catholic church was the only Roman institution that survived the breakup of the Roman empire. Apostolic succession gave Rome great credibility in the eyes of the world. The Roman bishop, who around 400 AD became the Pope, began to enforce his domination over other bishops. By 606 AD he would declare himself Universal Bishop because he was the only man in the West who could claim an unbroken succession of previous bishops in Rome, who linked him back to an apostle who was in Rome. Thus the doctrine of apostolic succession, started in the second church age as a clever idea to protect truth against the many doctrinal errors that sprung up, had now bred out a monster church organisation called the mother harlot by Scripture. So much for clever human thinking. We must learn to just stay with Scripture. When we cook up bright ideas to help God, we are no better than Abraham was when he produced Ishmael. From him came the Muslim Arabs, and some of today's endlessly violent Muslim extremists. Error will always be around. Today there are approximately more than 45 000 different kinds of denominational and non-denominational church systems that flash their various lights onto the stage. The net effect of all these flashing lights is simply to blind us with their glare. So we are in a Dark Age, because of too many conflicting lights and opinions, while we think we are enlightened. The only way to establish truth is from the King James Bible. The chances of your church being right is one chance in 45 000. It is safer to believe that all our churches are blind, as that is what the Bible says about the last church age Laodicea.

REVELATION 3:14 And unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write;

:17 Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

The claim of the Roman bishop, that he had authority over other bishops, developed slowly. This was the spirit of Rome, the urge to domineer and crush dissidents until they became submissive to her iron rule.

Clement (91 – 100 AD) wrote to the Corinthians in the name of the Roman church with no hint of papal authority over them.

Bishop of Rome Anicetus (154 -168 AD) was unsuccessful in persuading Polycarp to change the date of the Easter from 14 Nisan, the day of the full moon.

Bishop of Rome Victor I (190 – 202 AD) threatened to excommunicate the eastern churches for not changing the date of Easter from 14 Nisan. The Roman church was calling the Jews “Christ killers”, and refused to have Easter on the Jewish date of 14 Nisan. They wanted to enforce this on other churches too. (Even today we hardly ever have Easter on the day of the full moon). But then Bishop Irenaeus of Lyons rebuked Victor for trying to dictate to other churches.

Roman bishop Stephen I (253 – 257 AD) tried to intervene in a North African dispute over baptism, but Bishop Cyprian of Carthage told him to stay out as each bishop was supreme in his own diocese.

So in this second church age, the Roman bishop established his credentials by claiming apostolic succession from Paul and Peter. By the time the second church age had started, virtually everyone believed the lie that Peter had been killed in Rome. Even Irenaeus recognised the Roman bishop as an authority for holding the truth, which was a bad mistake.

So in the second church age, the Roman bishop was struggling to impose his authority over other bishops.

But soon after 400 AD, the barbarian Vandals overran Carthage in North Africa, and in 476 AD the last western Roman emperor was deposed by the barbarians. In the chaos and uncertainty that followed, Christians were happy to look up to the Roman bishop for leadership and financial support. At that time they would accept anyone's human and material leadership. The church as a whole had lost confidence in the New Testament teachings. Small, scattered groups of Christians gathered around the Scriptures, but the majority went for the large visible church organisation that was increasingly centralised around the control of the bishop of Rome.

Another dramatic lie was surfacing which would give the Roman bishop great power over the barbarian tribes who had destroyed the empire.

Roman bishop Calixtus I (218 – 223 AD) was the first to claim that Peter was the “Rock” of the church and that this applied also to the Roman bishop. Tertullian, a famous Christian writer and bishop of Carthage, then called Calixtus a usurper.

But as the chaos, murderous violence, and financial uncertainty of the second church age grew worse, so more and more churches and bishops were helped by the resources of the Roman church, and were then obliged to look up to the Roman bishop as their leader.

Thus the Roman church developed what was going to be one of their most spectacularly successful lies -- "Peter had the keys to open Heaven's door, and he had passed on this authority to the bishops of Rome, who now have control over those who will and who will not get into Heaven." This gave the Roman bishop huge clout.

The Roman church had gradually built up this clever idea that enhanced their fame, especially among the pagans.

Petr was the Egyptian word for a priest or "interpreter" of the mysteries of the gods.

Petr Roma was the sacred book used to celebrate and interpret the Eleusinian mysteries of the ancient Greeks, which were highly regarded by many pagans. Eleusis was a city close to Athens. So the Roman Catholic church began to develop the rumour that Peter was the first bishop of Rome.

This was based on a magnificent fluke that "Peter of Rome" sounds very much like "Petr Roma". So the pagans could easily be persuaded that Peter was the great interpreter of their hidden mysteries.

Peter himself is last mentioned in Chapter 12 of the Book of Acts. After that, he fades from our view and there is no definite history of him other than his two letters that were written from Babylon, as he was the apostle to the Jews.

Mystery Babylon was not a reference to pagan Rome.

The scarlet woman, who was mystery Babylon, was the Roman Catholic church that first had to rise to sufficient power so that her bishop could dominate the Christians of the city of Rome. This would only happen around the year 250 AD. Then to become Mystery Babylon she had to begin to accept the mysteries of Babylon as her official belief, which started at the Nicaean Council in 325 AD. Then followed a century of uniting Christian words with pagan beliefs, like the birthday of the sun god on 25 December becoming the birthday of the Son of God, Jesus. The eggs and rabbits of the Spring fertility celebrations of the goddess Ishtar became Easter eggs and Easter bunnies. This marriage of faith and paganism resulted in Pope Leo I, around 450 AD, claiming the title of Pontiff -- the high priest of the Babylonian mysteries.

Then to qualify as the woman who rode on the beast and had authority over the beast, the Pope had to gain political control over the city of Rome which could only happen after the western Roman emperor was deposed in 476 AD. Only then could it be justified in saying that Rome was Mystery Babylon.

We know that Jesus prophesied that Peter would be killed. Legend claims that this was probably by crucifixion. Some claim that he asked to be crucified upside down, but historians don't seem to be able to prove this. Unfortunately, concerning Peter's later life, facts are about zero, and legends are abundant. Historian John Julius Norwich in his book 'The Popes, a history' says on page 4 "All that can be said for sure is that by the middle of the second century (around 150 AD) -- which could well be during the lifetime of the grandchildren of people who had actually known them - it was generally accepted that Peter and Paul had both been martyred in Rome".

There are no historical facts to support this statement that Peter was killed in Rome. It was simply an untruth that became believed because people endlessly repeated the idea. Even today, Christians endlessly repeat that the wise men went into the stable. The Bible says in Matthew they went into a house. But because everyone keeps repeating that they were in the stable, that untruth has now become accepted as the factual truth. All propagandists know that if you repeat a lie often enough, it will finally be accepted as the truth.

MATTHEW 2:11 And when they (the wise men) were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother,

So why this obsession to insist that Peter was in Rome? It does not really fit the facts.

Paul greets at least 28 people in the last chapter of his letter to the Romans. Yet there is no mention of Peter. Thus Peter obviously was not there, much less being in charge as a bishop. There is no Scripture that says Peter was a bishop.

MATTHEW 8:14 And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever.

Peter was married. The Popes are not allowed to be married. So claiming Peter as the first Pope is wrong.

Enemies of Rome were executed and their bodies were thrown into the fast flowing river Tiber. The chances of any “criminal” apostle, especially an unsophisticated fisherman from a remote province called Palestine, getting a proper burial were highly unlikely. Since Peter never was in Rome, he obviously never died in Rome.

Thus trying to make Peter the first Pope in Rome does not fit the facts.

But there was a special mystique to Rome as events conspired to make her a natural leader in times of trouble and persecution. This second church age would see the Roman emperors launch ferocious persecutions against the Christians. The Roman church had the resources to help others, and she seized the opportunity to make her mark.

After he had approved the final choice of Books for the New Testament the Apostle John died around 100 AD, and various city churches began to compete for leadership of the Christians churches. Local churches were supposed to be run by groups of elders, who kept them true to the New Testament pattern of the Apostles.

A treatise known as the Shepherd of Hermas, written in Rome shortly after the year 100 AD, always speaks of ‘the rulers of the church’ or ‘the elders of the church’.

In terms of historical facts, though slightly fuzzy, the first bishop of Rome appears to be Anicetus from about 155 – 166 AD. But Rome had many different church groups, and it was only around the year 250 AD before any real claims could be made for one man to be regarded as the supreme bishop of Rome.

By AD 70 most of the apostles had been killed or had moved beyond the borders of the Roman empire, and Jerusalem had been destroyed by the Roman army who killed over a million Jews. There was then no obvious centre for Christianity. But ambitious church leaders were also slowly growing in power.

The Roman church, owing to its prestige as the church of the capital of the Roman empire, found that it naturally had a pre-eminence amongst the churches.

After 180 AD, insecurity and anxiety were more acute and desperate than ever before. The Roman government relied on ruling by autocratic force. Increasingly formidable German tribes forced Rome into expensive wars on the river Danube frontier, which produced a grimmer age of intensified and forcibly collected taxation that kept increasing. Rome’s eastern enemy Parthia had been replaced by the far more dangerous Persians. Pestilence and 50 years of civil war added their stress. Barbarian German invasions intensified around 240 – 260 AD. Currency collapse and price inflation followed. Christians were blamed for all these calamities, so they were punished and killed in many persecutions. The empire then briefly split into three portions thanks to civil war. Aurelian, a brilliant cavalry commander, became emperor and reunited the empire. To celebrate, he named 25 December as the birthday of his sun god in 274 AD. Sun god worship helped to produce a revival of official paganism. Diocletian became emperor in 284 AD. He built palaces of unprecedented splendour and expense, expanded the civil service, and doubled the size of the army. All this required a crushing toll in taxes. Diocletian established a totalitarian state with complete political, social, and cultural control over the people. To all this, he decided to add religious control by exterminating all Christians and uniting the people around the pagan gods. Around 303 AD he launched the cruellest of all persecutions, as well as an empire-wide program to destroy every Bible. After two years, in 305 AD, he abdicated, but the vicious persecutions continued for a further eight confused years until 312 AD.

During this violent age the Roman church was very generous in helping those churches that were ravaged by the barbarians, the civil wars, or the horrific persecutions. These circumstances encouraged many churches to look up to the Roman church as their sponsor, and thus leader. If anyone gives us money when we are in need, then it is very easy to accept that person as our boss, and we are more inclined to obey that person without arguing.

Greek philosophers explored the “mysteries” that lay behind the outward forms of the pagan religions. Christians began to use Greek philosophy to blend pagan ideas into Christian doctrine. The church, in its attempts to combat this error, introduced a system of human leadership that affected the church negatively, even more than the errors that they were trying to combat. Nicolaitanism was the system of elevating a holy man above the congregation, which soon began to seriously modify the character of the churches. Priests were put in charge of each church, and then bishops were put in charge of the priests. By 170 AD, when the first church age ended, a church hierarchy was established with a bishop in charge of the churches of each city and its surrounding areas. Then came the idea that truth was only really held by a succession of bishops in a city where the church was started by an apostle.

By 250 AD the resources of the church of Rome had grown very big. They supported 1 500 widows and needy people, which was good. They supported the bishop who was the head of the church, 46 presbyters, 7 deacons, 7 subdeacons, 42 acolytes, 52 exorcists, readers and doorkeepers. An unscriptural organisation was starting to grow apace.

Emperor Decius, who had a short reign full of disasters, in 250 AD launched a savage persecution against Christians. Many refugee bishops from various cities fled to Rome, where they could hide in the vast city and be supported by the Roman church. The Roman church granted much charity to believers and non-believers who were in need. This greatly strengthened the reputation of the Roman church.

260 AD saw emperor Gallienus make an edict of toleration towards Christians. Money and land started being bequeathed to the Roman church in people's wills. The wealth of the church kept growing. Thus they were able to help more churches in the Empire, and these churches looked up to Rome as a leader, especially in these times of trouble, persecution, and financial shortage.

Meanwhile the Roman church was seeking for some justification for the natural pre-eminence that its status and circumstances were granting it. A possible Scripture was at hand if they could just fool people into thinking that Peter had been in Rome.

MATTHEW 16:18 And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

:19 And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

Rome was a pagan city. Peter having the keys to Heaven opened the door to immense possibilities amongst the pagans. They would happily serve Peter if he would open the Door to Heaven for them.

With the error of apostolic succession being established by great men like Irenaeus, the bishop of Rome could then claim to be the successor of Peter, and have the authority to use his keys. No other apostle had the keys to Heaven. The Roman bishop, as Peter's successor would be the top bishop. Salvation would then depend on the Roman bishop, who could open the door to Heaven, not on Jesus. It would be a brilliant fraud.

Petr Roma (which sounds just like "Peter of Rome") was the sacred book used to celebrate the Eleusinian mysteries, associated with Artemis - who is called the goddess Diana. These were the ancient rites of Greece from about 700 BC, that later went to Rome. These mysteries were widespread amongst the pagans, and if they believed that Peter was in Rome, they would accept him as the interpreter (or Petr) of the pagan mysteries that opens the door to Heaven.

In addition, the words of Jesus made Peter the man who opens the door to Heaven for the Christians too.

So if Peter could be hijacked by the Roman church, it would give them have a superlative asset. The interpreter (notice the word 'peter' hidden in the word 'interpreter') of pagan Greek mysteries in Rome was also the man who has the keys to the Christian Heaven.

Greek philosophy was brilliant. So once the Greek philosophers had polished up a pagan mystery, it was far more captivating and convincing. Now the Romans had all these Greek mysteries to interpret to the pagans. And Peter, the only man in all history who had the keys to Heaven, was the great interpreter.

In addition, Jupiter was the chief Roman god. And his name was pronounced Ju-peter. Peter again.

So the propaganda machine swung into action. Peter was dead and could not refute their arguments. After Acts Chapter 12 Peter had faded from view. The next generation was fuzzy on the facts of his life. The grandchildren knew even less of the facts of his life, and as persecution made churches look to Rome for help, those Christians who needed Rome's help would not oppose the claims of Rome that Peter had died in Rome. Around the year 250 AD, the Roman Catholic church was dominant enough to claim their leader as bishop of the city. Once their man was the bishop in charge of the Rome, then Peter's position was backdated to be the first bishop of Rome. Before AD 70, while Peter was still alive, there was no single bishop in charge of a city. A bishop or overseer was simply an elder. Every church had a number of elders - also called bishops. In the city of Philippi:

PHILIPPIANS 1:1 Paul and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons:

Once people believed that Peter was the first bishop of Rome, a hierarchy of bishops was invented to link Peter to the existing bishop of Rome. This was apostolic succession. There are different ancient lists of Roman bishops that disagree with each other, so the succession of bishops gets off to a bit of a fuzzy start.

But as time went on, this chain of bishops that started with Peter developed into the spectacularly successful doctrine of 'apostolic succession'. The existing bishop of Rome then claimed that Peter's authority to open Heaven's door was passed on to Peter's successors, who were the bishops of Rome.

This idea immediately gave the bishop of Rome incredible pre-eminence. He was the only man on earth who could open Heaven's door to you. But he would not do that unless you were in submission to his beliefs. But worse still, if he did not like you or your beliefs, he would close the door on you and then you could not enter Heaven. How was this possible? The bishop of Rome claimed to be Peter's representative on earth, and thus Peter only opened the door to Heaven for those who the Roman bishop approved of.

The Roman bishop now had incredible authority. Your final eternal fate was in his hands. This was a scary thought.

After 400 AD when the bishop of Rome had got powerful enough to call himself Pope, then the title of Pope was backdated, and Peter was called the first Pope.

Thus the Popes are now the longest line of dictatorial rulers on planet earth.

REVELATION 17: 8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.

The Pope is the figurehead of this big powerful Roman Catholic political-religious system or beast. At any time in history a Pope was ruling the church, then he dies, and is not, and yet is because a new Pope is elected to take his place. So the succession of Popes continues. The whole basis of their power is the claim that they are Peter's earthly representative with his keys which gives them power to open or close Heaven's door.

The blue figures represent the Popes from the past when each one was Pope. The red figure represents the Pope who is not as he has just died. The black figure in front represents the Pope who yet is because he has just been elected. The succession of Popes looks just like the Trail of the Serpent which is awaiting its head, the final superman antichrist Pope of the great Tribulation. Maybe he will call himself Pope Peter II.

Notice the departure from Scripture. Jesus is the Door to Heaven, but Peter has the keys and decides whether to open the door or not. And Peter will only do what the Pope tells him to do.

So Jesus is no longer the Saviour. Peter holds your fate in his hands as door keeper. Actually, the Pope holds your fate because he tells Peter what to do. Satan had pulled off a masterpiece by effectively removing Jesus as the Saviour.

So what did Jesus mean when He gave Peter the keys to bind and loose in Heaven?

ACTS 2:38 Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

:39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

Repentance opens the door to Heaven. Then we get baptized in the Name of Jesus Christ to become a member of His Bride because a bride takes on the name of her husband.

Peter then locked the door of John's baptism because that no longer applied.

But, since repentance and baptism in the Name of Jesus is the key that opens the door to Heaven for the Bride, it is going to be attacked by the Devil. Churches would emerge that do not preach about a heartfelt repentance of sin that leads to a born again experience where Jesus is accepted as a personal Saviour Who turns the individual away from sin, and then controls the person's life. Repentance is the key that opens Heaven's door.

But there are a Bride and a sleeping virgin, both of whom are saved.

But only the Bride is ready for the second Coming of the Lord, because only the Bride takes on the Name of Jesus Christ in baptism. Mr Jesus Christ will only go home with Mrs Jesus Christ. Mr Jesus Christ will not go home with Mrs Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. So Satan would attack the human Name of God, which is Jesus Christ. Satan set out to reduce Jesus to only be the Son of God. Thus the Name of Jesus Christ would be removed from the water baptism, and be replaced with three titles.

An ultimate irony is that the Roman Catholic church claimed Peter as their first infallible Pope, yet they refuse to follow his baptism in the Name of Jesus Christ.

They claimed to tell us the truth, but they lied. Truth only comes by quoting Scripture, not modifying the Bible verses.

JOHN 17:17 Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.

REVELATION 2:10 Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

This church age, in God's big picture, had a mission to accomplish. They had to keep believing in Jesus no matter what cruelties were imposed on them. They were not on earth to enjoy a prosperous life. Their enjoyment would come in the next life. They had to prove to Satan that death, destruction, and suffering could not destroy Christian faith. Satan went berserk with a murderous intensity to eliminate them. Wave after wave of persecution and distress swept over them, but as each wave subsided the true believers were still standing on the real Rock, which is the personal revelation of who Jesus is to the individual. Jesus living in a Christian heart that is centred on the Word of God will take that person through any outside attack. As each wave of terror subsided, Satan saw to his horror that the remnant that was still standing was actually stronger than when the attack started. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church that kept sprouting up.

These Christians understood that Death was simply the open door to a much better life in Heaven. They went to their fate with incredible courage and faith, based on their love of Jesus and His Word.

The ten-day tribulation was the final devastating ten-year persecution launched by Diocletian from 303 – 312 AD. A day can represent a year in Scripture.

GENESIS 29:27 Fulfil her week, and we will give thee this also for the service which thou shalt serve with me yet seven other years.

A week is seven days which represented seven years of service.

Jacob had served seven years and gained the older sister. Now he had to serve seven more years for the younger sister.

What did this represent?

In the Old Testament God guided the Jews through seven ages, starting with Abraham who left his first love when he handed his wife Sarah over to another man to marry her. The second age was when Joseph was afflicted of his brothers and sold as a slave and sentenced falsely to years in prison. Everything went against him as he stood up to the tests and tribulations that life threw at him.

Then Moses had to combat the love of money as the religious leader Aaron built a golden calf (sound familiar?). Then he had to fight the doctrine of Balaam who corrupted the Jews by using Moabite women (symbolising churches) that were similar to, but not the same as Jewish women. Balaam was told what to do by a politician, the king Balak. Constantine, a politician who became emperor, corrupted the church at the Nicaean council in 325 AD, and made them intermarry with politics and paganism. Pergamos means thoroughly married.

Then Elijah came in the dark ages of Israel, who had sunk low when the evil king Ahab ruled and was dominated by his even more evil wife, the painted face Jezebel (symbolic of the dominating Catholic church in the Dark Ages). Thyatira means a dominating woman.

Ezra restored the treasure to the rebuilt temple. Symbolic of Martin Luther who restored salvation, our real treasure, by faith in Jesus Christ to God's Temple, His church. Thus the Protestants escaped from the grip of the Roman Catholic church. Sardis means the escaped ones.

Nehemiah rebuilt the city walls which made the city of Jerusalem strong. The strength of Christianity is holiness, and outreach based on brotherly love (Philadelphia). John Wesley in England led this movement that laid the foundation for the great missionary age.

Then John the Baptist came in the seventh Jewish age, and introduced the Messiah who was to marry the Jews. But they rejected Him and killed Him. The Jews were the older sister (a woman symbolising a church) that God had worked for in the Old Testament. Now He had to start all over again as He worked for His Gentile bride, the younger sister or church. God would finally guide the Gentile church through seven church ages until He could restore them back to the original New Testament doctrines.

REVELATION 2:11 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death.

Every age is told to hear what the Word says. Don't change Scripture to suit your present circumstances, because you then create even bigger errors. Just stay with Scripture, despite any circumstances that you find yourself in. The worst that can happen is that we die. But this second church age is all about death, and the fact that it is part of God's plan. Jesus has the keys of death and hell. No Christian can die unless Jesus gives permission. When Jesus does give permission, then our deaths are in His will, and thus they are the best thing that can happen because His will must always over ride our selfish little wills.

The second death in the lake of fire is too awful to contemplate. I would rather die now and be in Heaven later, than live now and be in the lake of fire later. Compared to the future lake of fire, the second death, we have a much easier option when required to die for Jesus in this life. If you die to yourself and are born again, then when you die physically you can call that your second death. Thus you can't go into the lake of fire as that would be your second second-death which is unscriptural.

We all have to die twice.

So if we are born once, we die twice. Physically (our first death) and in the lake of fire (our second death).

If we are born, and then die to self (first death) so that we can be born again, then when we die physically, that is our second death.

This second church age emphasised the second death.

Those who had died to themselves (first death) and were born again then faced their second (physical) death bravely as they knew it could not hurt them. Their second death merely opened the door to Heaven for them. Thus they would also never face the lake of fire which is the second death for the unbelievers.

This second church age was one of suffering and death. There was no chance of a complacent, comfortable lifestyle. To be a Christian was hard. Personal ambitions were all too often shattered in the convulsions and hardships of the age. But please notice something very important. Jesus does not criticize this age in any way.

Those Christians were just like us, fallible human beings. They also made mistakes. But they got something right that was essential. They died to their self-will. Self-will centres on material success and comfort. These Christians focused on suffering for Jesus, even if His will demanded their deaths. They did what He wanted them to do, not what they wanted to do.

Millions died for Him, and He never even mentioned any mistakes they made. Putting God's will first is the key ingredient to impressing God.

Who cares what happens to my life, as long as I can faithfully submit to His will. That is the secret of Christianity.

Satan had failed to destroy the church by an outward show of force.

He had learned a hard lesson, and in the next age decided to change his tactics to the infiltration of the church with a counterfeit gospel.

Pergamum (2:12-17) – The Compromising (Worldly, Political) Church

The Compromising Church

¹² “And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write,

‘These things says He who has the sharp two-edged sword: ¹³ “I know your works, and where you dwell, where Satan’s throne is. And you hold fast to My name, and did not deny My faith even in the days in which Antipas was My faithful martyr, who was killed among you, where Satan dwells. ¹⁴ But I have a few things against you, because you have there those who hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed to idols, and to commit sexual immorality. ¹⁵ Thus you also have those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. ¹⁶ Repent, or else I will come to you quickly and will fight against them with the sword of My mouth.

¹⁷ “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes I will give some of the hidden manna to eat. And I will give him a white stone, and on the stone a new name written which no one knows except him who receives it.” ’

- The name Pergamum means "married"
 - From the Greek word pergamos, which is a combination of two Greek words: pergos and gamos. These words combine to mean either "citadel" or "united by marriage."
 - Pergamos is the feminine form
 - Pergamum is the neuter form
 - Both forms are used
- History
 - There are evidences that it was occupied during the stone (8700-2000 BC) and bronze (3000-1200 BC) ages.
 - But prior to Alexander the Great, Pergamos was little more than a castle on top of a Hill
 - Founded in the 399 BC
 - It was the capital of the Kingdom of Pergamum during the Hellenistic period (323 BC – 30 BC)
 - Became the capital city of the Roman province of Asia for a while
 - Gave the traveler the impression of a royal city, the home of authority
 - Center of learning, medicine and religious books
 - Boasted 1 of the 3 great libraries of the ancient world, along with Alexandria, Egypt and Ephesus
 - The library rivaled the Alexandrian library and drew many princes, priests and scholars
 - Known more than the others for its architectural beauty, especially the marble carvings
 - Pergamum was home to 200,000 people
 - The present city of Bergamo has a population of only 20,000
- Geography
 - Located 16-18 miles inland from the Aegean Sea on a promontory on the north side of the Caicus River
 - 60-80 miles north of Smyrna

- Pergamum boasted two theaters. This one is the steepest theater in the Greco-Roman world.
- Asklepion – Healing center
 - Sits at the foot of Pergamum's Acropolis
 - An acropolis is a settlement, especially a citadel, built upon an area of elevated ground—frequently a hill with precipitous sides, chosen for purposes of defense.
 - The most famous healing center of its day
 - Hippocrates is said to have received his medical training here
 - Galen, the famed physician and philosopher, studied and worked here
- Pagan religions – the great religious center
 - Many temples – these temples were to provide a venue for the religious cult of both rulers as well as Zeus
 - Temple of Zeus Olympus – the savior god, patron god of the city
 - Zeus is said to have been born there
 - Stunning altar to Zeus –
 - Platform was on a foundation 125'x115', over 50' high, set in a colonnaded enclosure
 - The great Altar of Zeus sat on this platform, “where Satan's throne is” (2:13)
 - It was one of the most beautiful altars of the ancient world.
 - Today the “Altar of Zeus” is in the Pergamum Museum in Berlin.
 - It was removed in the 19th century from it's original site by Carl Humann, a German archaeologist, and reconstructed in the Pergamon Museum in Berlin.
 - Temple of Athena – patron goddess of Athens
 - Temple of Roman Emperor Trajan (A.D. 98 to 117)
 - Attests to the strength of the Roman imperial cult in the city
 - Three times Rome honored Pergamum as the temple-warden of the imperial cult
 - Temple of Dionysius – god of vegetation
 - Temple of Asclepius – god of healing
 - At the Asklepion, the most famous medical center in the world
 - Animal cult worship of the god-serpent ad god-bull
- Church of Pergamum
 - Some scholars believe that Gaius, addressed by John in 3John was the first Bishop of Pergamum

Greeting

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Pergamum (2:12-17) Compromised, worldly	Remain true to my name; Loyalty to Christ; Remained faithful - refused to deny Him	Sexual immorality; Follow false doctrines; Compromised; Tolerates cults, heresies, idolatry and immorality	Repent!	Hidden manna; White stone with a new name on it

*12 "To the angel of the church in Pergamum write:
These are the words of him who has the sharp, double-edged sword.*

- Once again the Lord's greeting refers to attributes of Christ from the prologue
- This time to the sharp, two-edged sword coming from his mouth, the sword of commendation and condemnation.
 - Rev 1¹⁶ He had in His right hand seven stars, out of His mouth went a sharp two-edged sword

Commendation ☺

13 I know where you live—where Satan has his throne. Yet you remain true to my name. You did not renounce your faith in me, even in the days of Antipas, my faithful witness, who was put to death in your city—where Satan lives.

- Where Satan has his throne – The great Altar of Zeus sat on a platform in Pergamum
 - Today the “Altar of Zeus” is in the Pergamum Museum in Berlin.
 - It was one of the most beautiful altars of the ancient world.
 - We know that Satan is in control of the world today
 - 1 Jn 5:19 We know that we are children of God, and that the whole world is under the control of the evil one.
 - 2 Ti 2:25 Those who oppose him he must gently instruct, in the hope that God will grant them repentance leading them to a knowledge of the truth, 26 and that they will come to their senses and escape from the trap of the devil, who has taken them captive to do his will.
 - 1 Pe 5:8 Be self-controlled and alert. Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour. 9 Resist him, standing firm in the faith, because you know that your brothers throughout the world are undergoing the same kind of sufferings.
 - What does it mean that they lived where Satan's throne is
 - Pergamos was a stronghold of Satanic power
 - What made it such a Satanic stronghold?
 - It was a pagan religious center
 - It had a huge thronelike altar of Zeus
 - Also it was the political center of government which demanded worship
- The Lord commends Pergamum's Christians for not denying their faith and accommodating themselves to the very attractive pagan culture of the city
 - Despite the fact that they live in such a difficult place, they are holding fast in a difficult setting. Jesus praises them because they did not deny His faith.
 - We must take great pains that the faith we hold on to is the faith that comes from Jesus.

- Antipas (perhaps the church's leader) was martyred
 - Name means 'against all'
 - According to Christian tradition:
 - John the Apostle ordained Antipas as bishop of Pergamon during the reign of the Roman emperor Domitian.
 - Antipas was martyred in 92 AD by burning in a brazen bull-shaped altar used for casting out demons worshiped by the local population.
 - Antipas receives a precious title – 'faithful martyr'
 - A title which was held by Jesus also
 - Rev 1⁵ and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler over the kings of the earth.
 - He was truly a Christ like man
 - Where is Satan's throne? It is in the world
 - Here is a church that was trying to dwell in the world – It never works
 - Church system trying to join with worldly system – 1 foot in the world, 1 foot in the church
 - A church-state system – the legislating of righteousness, the legislating of religious issues – It can't be done
 - Good behavior has to come from the heart
 - It has to be within a person's heart to do it – you can't make laws that will make people righteous or cause people to live righteous lives
 - That has to be a work of God's spirit within a person's heart

Condemnation ☹

*14 Nevertheless, I have a few things against you: You have people there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to entice the Israelites to sin by eating food sacrificed to idols and by committing sexual immorality.
15 Likewise you also have those who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans.*

- The rebuke is not only of these specific groups – those who hold the doctrines of Balaam and those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans – but of the church who allows them to continue in their midst.
 - This is a church soft on doctrine and living – adopting a 'live and let live' attitude within the church
 - What Satan couldn't accomplish by persecution – many did hold fast like Antipas – he was accomplishing with deception – using first violence, then alliance.
 - A difficult environment never justifies compromise
 - It's easy for a church in such difficulty to justify this compromise in the name of 'we need all the help we can get', but no church needs that kind of help

Teaching of Balaam (Numbers 22-25)

- Baal
 - Balaam's name derives from the word Baal, which means 'to conquer the people'
 - The name Baal appears about 63 times in The Bible referring to the kind of pagan worship
- Israelites are camped on the plains of Moab opposite Jericho
 - The king of Moab is terrified & seeks the help of the famous prophet Balaam to put a curse on them
 - After several tries, Balaam fails and the king of Moab fires him. But rather than returning home, Balaam initiates "Plan B": if you can't beat the Israelites, join them!
 - We read that the Israelite men began "whoring" with the Moabite women, eating with them and worshipping their gods.
 - See in depth description in Baalam \(Nu 22-25\)
- "Teaching of Balaam": accommodation and assimilation into the dominant culture

Teaching of Nicolaitans

- Note that it was the ‘deeds’ of the Nicolaitans, not the Nicolaitans themselves
- “Nicolaitans” are possibly followers of Nicholas
 - It’s not absolutely certain who he was or what he taught
 - Thought to be a Gnostic sect, founded by Nicholas of Antioch
 - Known for their unbridled and excessive lusts
- Deeds of the Nicolaitans
 - ‘Nicholaus’ or ‘nikos’ – Priest or priesthood
 - ‘Laos’ – laody, the common people
 - Literally means ‘to conquer the people’
 - It is the establishing of a spiritual hierarchy, where a man comes between you and God (Catholics)
- The church at Ephesus is also infested with “Nicolaitans”
 - Rev 1 ⁶ But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.
- Whatever the teaching was, it falls into the same category as that of the “deceivers” and “antichrists” that John abhors in 2 John 7-8
 - 2Jn 1 ⁷ For many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist. ⁸ Look to yourselves, that we do not lose those things we worked for, but that we may receive a full reward.

Admonition (Call to Action)

16 Repent therefore! Otherwise, I will soon come to you and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. 17 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will give some of the hidden manna. I will also give him a white stone with a new name written on it, known only to him who receives it.

- Repent
 - What Jesus wants them to do is repent
 - 5 of the 7 churches are commanded to repent, yet this is all too often a missing word among Christians
 - Jesus may first come against them with his word – His means of correction often begins by confronting us with his word
 - Unless they do repent they will have to deal with the Jesus of the 2-edged sword. Judgment will begin at the house of God.
 - The Christian’s bar of soap 1Jn 1 ⁹ If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. ¹⁰ If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.
- 17 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
 - This is a word to everyone who will hear it
 - Each one of us must guard against compromise – especially in the name of being nice
- Hidden Manna
 - The one who overcomes this spirit of accommodation to false teaching and living will be given hidden manna, God’s perfect provision, the true bread from heaven
 - Jesus is the genuine manna
 - 1Jn 6 ³³ For the bread of God is He who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world.” ³⁴ Then they said to Him, “Lord, give us this bread always.” ³⁵ And Jesus said to them, “I am the bread of life. He who comes to Me shall never hunger, and he who believes in Me shall never thirst.
 - Eucharistic implications
 - Jesus promises to those who keep the faith that he will provide a deep, spiritual food to nourish their souls: the Eucharistic implications of Jesus’ statement are clear.

- White stone

- The use of a white stone had many associations in that day. It could be:

- A ticket to a banquet
 - Perhaps a type of admission ticket to “the wedding feast of the Lamb” (Rev 19:9)
- A sign of friendship
- Evidence of being counted
- A sign of acquittal in a court of law

- The white stone was a stone of acceptance, the black stone was a stone of rejection (black-balled)

- I will give them a white stone - I will receive him, I will accept him

- Urim and Thummim

- The Urim ("lights") and Thummim ("perfections") were gemstones that were carried by the high priest of Israel on the ephod / priestly garments.
 - It is unclear whether the Urim and Thummim were on, by, or in the high priest's ephod.
- They were used by the high priest to determine God's will
 - Some propose that God would cause the Urim and Thummim to light up in varying patterns to reveal His decision.
 - Others propose that the Urim and Thummim were kept in a pouch and were engraved with symbols identifying yes/no and true/false.
- No one knows the precise nature of the Urim and Thummim or exactly how they were used. The Bible simply does not give us enough information.

- New Name

- Refers to a believer's new identity in Christ.
- Colossians 3:3 For you died, and your life is now hidden with Christ in God. 4 When Christ, who is your life, appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.
- Whatever its exact meaning, at the least here it is used as an assurance of blessing
- The believers new name and the name itself is likely more important than the stone itself
 - The revelation of this new secret name has an emphasis on intimacy and knowledge – as in a relationship, like the special pet name for your spouse, or that special nickname for your best friend

Church History (312-606)

The Church Ages - Pergamos, The Third Age, 312 AD-606 AD

From 64 AD to 312 AD, Satan launched about ten vicious and murderous persecutions against the church by the cruel and brutal Roman empire. But despite losing three million martyrs, the church grew faster than it was destroyed. Realizing that brute force from outside could not crush the church, Satan's next tactic was for Emperor Constantine to stop the persecution in 312 AD and then launch an attempt to smother the true Bible-believing church at the council of Nicaea in 325 AD with a counterfeit that looks genuine to the eye that is not trained to look through the lens of Scripture.

This vicious behaviour on the part of the Roman empire saw Daniel describe the pagan Roman empire as a real monstrous beast, that only had one head, and that had ten horns with another little horn amongst them.

Having destroyed other nations, this formidable Roman beast would be broken up by ten barbarian horns or kingdoms that would also cause another horn, a spiritual church power, to rise up in their midst.

DANIEL 7:7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts that were before it; and it had ten horns.

DANIEL 7:20 And of the ten horns that were in his head,

(one head, singular)

Daniel 7:8 I considered the horns, and, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things.

Eyes speak of intelligence. A spiritual power was rising that was based on the "eyes of man", a religion that was built on human intelligence and not on the Word of God.

This pagan Roman beast represented a brutal pagan spirit that crushed everyone into submission to a one-man dictator or emperor and forced them to obey a common Roman law of government and a common Roman religion which was a compromise that embraced all the pagan gods of the people that they had conquered. This left the masses undisturbed in their false beliefs, making it easier to control them.

Religious unity was the aim of the leaders, not religious truth. Persuade or force people to toe the official line. Crush any dissenters. Repeat the official line even if you do not believe it yourself.

So pagan religion and politics combined to produce this awful hybrid monster.

A horn represents power as we are all scared of the horns of a bull or a buffalo. A horn can do much damage. Many barbarian tribes were involved in the breakup of the Roman empire. The ten horns represented ten barbarian tribes that were involved not just in breaking up the physical Roman empire but in establishing the Roman Catholic church so that it could rise to power on the ruins of the Roman empire and then spread world wide. The Roman Catholic church was the only Roman institution that survived the break up of the Roman empire.

The Huns from Asia were probably the worst and most feared of the barbarians, and they really got things going. They pushed from the east against the German tribes that were on the Roman border and pushed them into Roman territory.

Thus the breakup of the Roman empire began with a severe refugee problem.

Small groups of barbarians could be absorbed into the empire if the men joined the Roman army as mercenaries to fight for Rome. But floods of refugees, driven on by the fierce and murderous Huns, was more than what the empire could withstand. Historians do not know what started this Hunnic avalanche out of Asia. So when God decides to pull the strings, we humans are helpless to resist. Events just go out of our hands. God has control over the good and the bad.

The barbarian invasions were triggered by the destruction of the Gothic kingdoms that were on the Roman borders, by the Huns in 372 -375 AD. The Huns invaded and sacked many Roman cities. Pope Leo 1 spoke to Attila who then turned away from attacking Rome. This greatly increased the reputation of the Pope as the protector of Rome because the western emperor would not protect Rome. In 476 AD Odoacer, a barbarian general from the Heruli tribe deposed the western emperor.

Odoacer, a non-Trinitarian, ruled Italy for a few years until the eastern emperor in Constantinople sent in the Ostrogoths to eliminate the Heruli and rule Italy, which they did. But the Ostrogoths were also non-trinitarian so the Trinitarian Pope was very unhappy.

The map shows the ten tribes whose history we will follow.

The Huns disintegrated when Attila died in 453 AD. But they had pushed the other tribes into the Roman empire. After speaking to Pope Leo they retreated from Rome and this really made Pope Leo famous. People now looked up to the Pope as the effective ruler of Rome. The Heruli entered Italy under the general Odoacer (the black spot) in 476 AD and deposed the western Roman emperor. They ruled Italy until the Ostrogoths eliminated them in 493 AD and then the Ostrogoths ruled Italy. Then the eastern emperor Justinian in Constantinople decided to conquer Italy. First he had to conquer the Vandals in 534 AD in North Africa to stop them attacking him with their strong navy.

The Vandals were eliminated. By co-incidence, they also happened to be non-trinitarian.

Then Justinian's army attacked Italy, and a twenty-year vicious war devastated and depopulated Italy leading to plague and famine. The Ostrogoths were eliminated from Italy by 553 AD. Millions died from the famine and plague which plunged Italy and Europe into the Dark Ages. Thus the non-trinitarian Heruli, Vandals, and Ostrogoths disappeared from the scene to establish the Trinitarian Pope as the strong man of Rome.

Three horns had been plucked up by the roots.

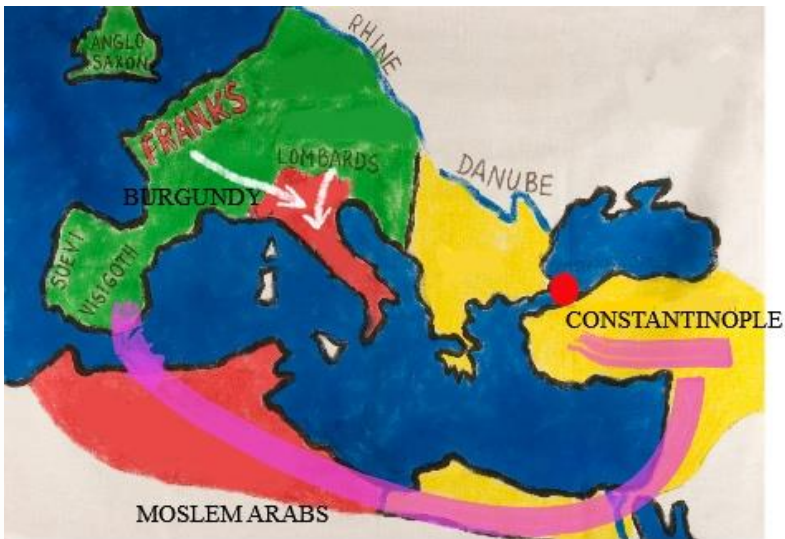

The three non-trinitarian tribes disappeared from history, so there was no effective opposition to the Trinity doctrine. Luther's Reformation would only come almost 1 000 years later. So for close on 1 000 years the Popes preached Trinity and there was no-one of great importance to argue against them. In that time the belief in Trinity was thoroughly established by its endless repetition. Thus the Protestant reformers would leave the Roman Catholic church but take the Trinity doctrine with them. Today, in the last church age of Laodicea, the Trinity doctrine is one of the very few doctrines that unite the vast majority of the churches with the Roman Catholic church.

Then in 568 AD the Lombards invaded Italy. Thus a whole new church age would start soon afterwards with the Pope getting involved with the barbarians. Slowly the Lombards began to be more of a threat to the Pope.

In 634 AD the Muslim Arabs erupted out of the Arabian desert and conquered the Middle East and North Africa and Spain. The eastern emperor at Constantinople was too busy blocking the path of the Muslim Arabs and was unable to defend Rome, so the Pope was forced to revert to a very cunning trick of political involvement amongst the barbarian tribes. The Pope claimed that he had the power to anoint a man as king. This became known as the divine right of kings whereby they claimed that God wanted them to rule as kings. The Pope would anoint a man as king so that only his family could be legally kings after him, and in return, he would defend Rome against the other barbarians. Very cleverly, the Pope chose the strongest barbarian tribe, the Franks who were in the north of Germany and France.

Pepin, who was mayor of the Franks, then forced Childeric, king of the Franks, into a monastery and had himself proclaimed king of the Franks with the support of Pope Zachary in 751 AD.

In return king Pepin came into Italy and beat up the Lombards who were threatening Rome.

Peppin then gave a lot of Italian territory to the Pope which was called the Papal States. This is shown by the beige colour on the map below.

The Pope was now a king-maker amongst the barbarians and a land owner. This gave him great political clout and prestige. The military power of the Franks enabled him to defeat his opponents.

Three horns had been eliminated and the little horn of papal power was growing.

A huge mistake of this age was thinking up survival doctrines in order to cope with a society that was collapsing.

The dominant Roman Catholic church leaders kept modifying Scripture and adding to the Bible to combat their rapidly changing circumstances and meet the needs of the changing times. They often achieved short term gains which later became long term disasters as far as Bible truth is concerned, as they kept having to move further and further from the teachings of the apostles in order to hang on to their political power and their control and influence over other churches and people.

But there were always lesser known Christians in various places and at different times who depended on their deep personal relationship with Jesus and did their best to regard the New Testament as a permanent pattern for the churches. Departure from this pattern had disastrous consequences, and the strength of this true church was their ability to remain true to the pattern and principles contained in the Scriptures. These churches at times were dispersed or degenerated, but similar ones then appeared in other places. Thus the true witness to the saving power of Jesus was always to be found somewhere as there was no organised union of these churches since there was no suggestion in the Bible that one church should control another. Their unorganised unity and mobility enabled these churches to survive persecution. Gathering the people around the written Bible as their centre of unchanging guidance enabled truth to disappear in one place and time and then re-appear in another place at another time as God's Spirit revived new believers.

The size of these churches were unimportant to them.

MATTHEW 18:20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

But the Roman Catholic church put their emphasis on having the biggest church and being the most important church. Bishop Siricius (384 – 399 AD) had been the first Roman bishop to assume the title of Pope which in Italian and Latin is “papa” and in Greek is “pappas” which all mean “father”. But Jesus said we must call no man “father”.

MATTHEW 23:9 And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

By 400 AD the bishop of Rome was taking one-quarter of the money collected by the Roman church.

By the time of Leo I (440 – 461 AD) the bishop of Rome had adopted the title of the pagan chief priest Pontifex Maximus (also called Pontiff). Leo wanted the bishop of Rome, now also called the Pope, to be the supreme bishop of all the churches. Leo regarded Papal authority was being the authority of Saint Peter himself. As Pope he claimed he was Peter's representative and spokesman. He alone claimed to be the guardian of orthodox religion.

In 452 he somehow persuaded Attila the Hun not to attack Rome. So the retreat of the Huns gave a great boost to the Pope who was the only man who could save Rome from the murderous Huns.

But three years later Gaiseric the Vandal plundered and sacked Rome for 14 days. Pagan Rome was dying but the Roman Catholic church was becoming more and more important. Getting no help from the western Roman emperor, the Pope was getting more involved in running the city of Rome.

Augustine (354 – 430 AD) was probably the most influential Christian writer of his time. He was appointed the bishop of Hippo in North Africa in 395 AD. The fall of Rome to Alaric the Goth in 410 AD when the Goths plundered the city alarmed Augustine, and he reacted with a book called “The City of God”. If the greatest city on earth (Rome) could fall, he felt obliged to point people to some definite earthly institution that would survive and he chose the Roman Catholic church that people could cling to in chaotic times. His choice seemed justified because the Roman Catholic church was the only Roman institution that survived the breakup of the Roman empire. For instance, the centre of Roman life and entertainment for 390 years was the Colosseum, the world's largest amphitheatre, built between 70 - 80 AD and today it is a ruin. 400 000 people and a million animals died in that blood drenched structure which is a sad legacy of Rome's great engineering skills. This awful slaughter, for the spectator's amusement, justified Daniel's description of the Roman empire as an awful beast. But the Lateran palace, given to the bishop of Rome in 312 AD, remains the official residence of the Pope to this day.

To really make his case that the Roman Catholic church was the world's greatest church, Augustine developed the doctrine of salvation by the Roman church only. Only the Roman church offered the sacraments that can save people.

Augustine took salvation out of the hands of Jesus as our Saviour, and put salvation into the hands of the Roman Catholic priesthood and bishops.

He elevated a system of human religious leaders between the sinner and the Saviour. This was a return to the failed priesthood of the Old Testament.

Nicolaitanism, the elevation of a holy man above the congregation, was developed into a doctrine by Augustine.

Then they put idols in the Church, put a priest in a confession box who you must confess your sins to, and then they ordained a Pope to be the head of Christianity. That is the Gospel of Judas. Then after that, they built schools and educated the preachers instead of having them inspired by God. Then they gave them doctorates, PhDs. The early apostles never built a Bible school.

In his zeal for church unity, Augustine demanded that there be no differences in doctrine or rituals. He saw the Roman Catholic church as an earthly organisation that alone could save people.

He thereby outlawed every other religion.

Thus he was happy that force, pain, and punishment should be used to compel dissenters to join the church.

His intentions were good but having departed from Scripture in his methods; he gave rise to a vast and ruthless system of persecution, torture, and murder. Some historians refer to him as the apostle of persecution. The harmful effects of the error that he taught gave rise to unspeakable misery and cruelty. Tens of millions of people who opposed the Roman Catholic church would be brutally murdered in Europe as well as 15 million Indians in South America, Mexico, and Cuba where the Spanish conquerors landed in the 1500s.

In 321 AD the Roman emperor Constantine legalised donations of land to the church in people's wills. The church soon became a considerable property owner.

Wanting to make Constantinople (built between 225 and 330 AD) a Christian city, Constantine confined the imperial title of Pontifex Maximus (Pontiff or high priest of the Babylonian mysteries) to pagan Rome. This title was finally transferred to Pope Leo I around 450 AD.

Constantine was convinced that God would punish him if there were any splits in the Christian church that disturbed the unity of the church. Thus he felt obliged to use his political power to punish any dissenters and enforce what he claimed were God's laws. The church and state were marrying in an unholy bond. The emperor decided which doctrine was the official religion, even though this required changing what was written in the Bible. Then the iron force of the Roman empire would impose these beliefs on to the people who only had one option, and that was to submit to the Roman Catholic church. Constantine gave the beautiful Lateran palace on the Caelian hill to the bishop of Rome as his official residence together with huge grants of money which made Roman Catholicism a heavily state subsidised church, with the emperor as its head.

This was the next big mistake. Jesus, the Word, was no longer the Head or Absolute authority of the church.

The politician Constantine took over the headship of the Roman church which became the official church of the Roman empire. With the approval of the church majority, he took upon himself the authority to punish and exile anyone who disagreed with the official Roman church. This was a key decision. The church that had been persecuted for about two and a half centuries now took the first step towards becoming a persecutor.

After the Nicaean council of 325 AD, Constantine ordered a severe persecution of those who continued to observe the Christian Passover on the 14th of the first month when it is full moon. Even today it is very seldom that Easter gets celebrated on the full moon.

Constantine banished or exiled those who disagreed with the Nicaean council's decisions.

Men sharpened their ideas to justify themselves for persecuting others.

Theodosius became emperor in 378 AD and issued laws to persecute pagans, and then later his laws condemned anyone who disagreed with the Roman Catholic church. The official Roman Catholic church was indulging in persecution, less than one hundred years after being persecuted. This was the fruit of the church merging with politics.

St Augustine (AD 354-430) taught that error has no rights. According to Augustine, coercion using "great violence" was justified.

He made a distinction between unbelievers who persecuted because of cruelty as against Christians who persecuted because of love. You could kill and torture Christians as long as you loved them.

He also found a way to avoid churchmen getting blood on their hands: dissension against the Church amounted to dissension against the state, so anyone condemned by the Church should be punished by the state.

In 385 AD the Spanish bishop Priscillian was executed for heresy by emperor Maximus at the request of the Spanish bishops. This opened the floodgates of murder.

Pope Leo I (440 -461 AD) commended the Emperor for torturing and executing heretics on behalf of the Church.

The Christian Emperor Justinian issued severe laws against heretics in AD 527 and 528.

From St Augustine onward for well over a thousand years virtually all Christian theologians agreed that heretics should be persecuted, and most agreed that they should be killed.

St Thomas Aquinas (1225 – 1274 AD) thought it virtuous to burn heretics and favoured the option of burning them alive. He also wrote,

“With regard to heretics two points must be observed: one, on their own side; the other, on the side of the Church. On their own side there is the sin, whereby they deserve not only to be separated from the Church by excommunication, but also to be severed from the world by death. For it is a much graver matter to corrupt the faith which quickens the soul, than to forge money, which supports temporal life. Wherefore if forgers of money and other evil-doers are forthwith condemned to death by the secular authority, much more reason is there for heretics, as soon as they are convicted of heresy, to be not only excommunicated but even put to death”. Saint Thomas Aquinas

The murder machine was building up speed.

So the seed of persecution, planted by Constantine and watered by Pope Leo I would grow into a murderous torrent during the Dark Ages and the Counter-Reformation that opposed Martin Luther.

From around the turn of the millennium executing heretics became ever more common, and the grounds for doing so ever more unlikely. A group of Christians at Goslar in Germany who declined to kill chickens were executed for heresy in 1051.

People thought Constantine was wonderful for “bringing all of the pagans into Christianity.” But Constantine was a sun worshipper who was only baptised on his deathbed and who only “succeeded” in “converting” the pagans by putting Christian labels on their unbiblical customs and observances.

The church means “called out” of the world as she separates unto Christ.

The union of the Roman Catholic church with the State gave the church political power.

No longer subject to her Lord, the Roman Catholic church exchanged spiritual power with Jesus for earthly authority. Her short term advantages were great as the Roman church gained wealth and civil political power as well as being able to persecute her religious opponents. But the Roman Empire to whom the church had sold her soul was in decay and would finally disintegrate in chaos in 476 AD.

Tertullian (about 160 -225) first used the word Trinity (“trinitas” in Latin) to describe three separate persons who shared a common “substance”. But according to him, only God the Father was properly God. The Jehovah Witnesses have a similar doctrine for the Godhead.

Constantine called a Council in the city of Nicaea (just north of Pergamos) to finalise the church viewpoint on the Godhead. The church was now trying to see all three Persons of the Godhead as being equally God.

Constantine introduced the unscriptural word “essence” from Greek philosophy. This is a nice fuzzy word that has no precise meaning. The three Persons were each God because they had the same essence (whatever that means). The 318 bishops were trying to describe an invisible Spirit in human terms. This was impossible since no-one knows what “spirit” is. We all have a spirit of life in us but we have no idea what it is or how it works. This unknown spirit of life gives us each personality, but we still have no idea what personality actually is.

We cannot describe the higher dimensions of the Spirit in terms of our human vocabulary which just does not have the words to describe it.

II CORINTHIANS 12:4 How that he was caught up into paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter.

I CORINTHIANS 2:9 But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

Thus we cannot even imagine what Heaven is like. How much less can we begin to imagine or describe what God is like?

So trying to describe God is beyond any human ability. God is a Spirit and we do not know what a Spirit is nor do we know how a Spirit works.

So Constantine, inspired by Satan, forced the church into the realm of deep mystery by telling them to describe God. In their arrogance, the bishops thought they could do this. Some mysteries can be solved by hiding the truth behind a symbol.

A woman symbolises a church. So the woman on the beast in Revelation 17 is a church. If we have the correct interpretation of the symbol, then we reveal the mystery.

But other mysteries cannot be solved by us. What the seven Thunders uttered in Revelation Chapter 10 was not written in the Bible. So we have no symbol to interpret, and thus we cannot reveal this mystery because it is not written in the Bible.

Thus the only mysteries that man has a chance of revealing are those that are written in the Bible.

The extremely cunning trick, perhaps his most successful fraud of all time, that was pulled off by Satan was when Satan used Constantine to force the church bishops into describing the invisible God by means of unscriptural words that were borrowed from Greek philosophy.

As an illustration of this point let us consider energy which is invisible. So scientists have absolutely no clue what energy is. All they can say for sure about energy is that it is a number that comes out of various calculations. We can calculate energy. We can develop a formula to tell us how much energy is present. But what is that energy? We have no clue.

Trying to describe the invisible is humanly impossible and leads to mistakes. We speak of “forms” of energy. But the word “form” implies some shape. However, invisible energy has no shape. So it is wrong to speak of a form of energy. Energy is just formless energy. No other word can really describe energy.

God is a Spirit, and we do not understand spirits. We cannot see spirits. So we should just stay with what the Bible says about God.

But in trying to describe the invisible God the bishops referred to the cleverest of people, the Greek philosophers, to get some ideas. The Greek philosophers, being pagans, had picked up various ideas from the two most ancient pagan civilisations, Babylon and Egypt, whose ideas had influenced all the other pagan civilisations. These were bright people with very brilliant ideas. But being clever does not mean that an idea is either good or true. Clever men invented the atomic bomb but atomic bombs are not a good invention and humanity would be better off without them.

Divine threesomes abound in the religious writings and art of ancient Europe, Egypt, the near east, and Asia. These include various threesomes of male deities, of female deities, of Father-Mother-Son groups, or of one body with three heads, or three faces on one head.

Babylon and Assyria are in the same area and shared many common beliefs. Babylon conquered Assyria just before Nebuchadnezzar, the head of gold in Daniel’s Gentile image, came to power. So Assyria with its pagan ideas was then part of Babylon. The head is where we think. Nebuchadnezzar combined Babylonian and Assyrian thinking into one clever religious scheme.

The next map shows Assyria being close to Babylon. The green portion on the map was the kingdom of Babylon.

The earliest carving that refers to a trinity of gods was found in Assyria. It shows a dominant god as father with two other heads representing two other persons in the godhead. The godhead itself is symbolised by the shape of a bird.

There were many kingdoms before the Babylon of Nebuchadnezzar.

Why did Daniel's image start with that Babylonian kingdom? Because the Babylonian priesthood absorbed the Assyrian trinity and the high priest of the Babylonian mysteries was now infected with this pagan superbug or infectious religious virus. Daniel felt that this pagan trinity belief was the most dangerous idea to germinate in the Old Testament and like any good doctor, he planned to follow the infectious path of the Babylonian mysteries with this trinity-concept, that was still pretty rough and not yet well packaged for distribution. But it was still early days, and the Greeks were still to come a few hundred years later, and they would polish up the idea and make Trinity an acceptable Godhead for Christians to believe.

Until then the Pontiff or high priest of these Babylonian mysteries needed a place to lie low when Persia conquered Babylon, so the high priest Attalus fled to Pergamos. Pergamos thus gives its name to this third church age. By 323 BC Alexander had conquered the Persians and called himself god. Then Pergamos was taken over by one of Alexander's generals called Lysimachus who also claimed to be a god-king. His successors in Pergamos were the high priests with their elaborate robes and Babylonian ceremonies, who now also claimed to be god-kings.

The last god-king-high priest of Pergamos, Attalus III, gave his kingdom to Rome in 133 BC. Only then were the mysteries able to infiltrate the church when Pope Leo I, around 450 AD, began to be called Pontiff or high priest of the Babylonian mysteries.

Daniel's vision of the Gentile statue tracked the mysteries of Babylon through the Old Testament. John the Revelator would then, in the New Testament, track their infiltration into the Christian church which would finally be labelled as Mystery Babylon with her harlot Protestant daughters.

Plato, the famous Greek philosopher, invented the word Triad. He claimed that there is a “threesome” quality about nature.

Sky, Earth, Water Sun, Moon, Stars Create, Maintain, Destroy

Thus Plato wanted to describe the pagan idea of god in a three-fold manner, called a triad which Tertullian (about 155 – 240 AD) in Carthage translated into Latin as “trinitas”.

Greek philosophers used the unscriptural expressions “one-in-three” and “three-in-one” which grew into the unscriptural “one God in three Persons”. Constantine, again referring to the Greek philosophers, added the unscriptural word “essence”. Father and Son were of the same essence. This is actually meaningless since we have no idea what a Spirit is. We cannot even say accurately what “essence” means. Jesus then became the unscriptural “second Person of the Godhead”. The bishops simply abandoned Scripture as they added more and more unscriptural statements in their attempts to describe the invisible God. The Trinity doctrine was endlessly modified as the Roman Catholic bishops developed the idea over several centuries.

But they had plenty of illustrations from pagan trinities.

Egypt developed many trinities usually shown as three people on one throne. Three-people-in-one-god.

Isis, Horus (or Osiris) and Seb (or Set) was one Egyptian trinity.

Amon Ra or Amun Ra, Ramses, and Mut was another Egyptian trinity.

This is not a good model for Christians to follow. We are not allowed to picture God sitting on a throne and then have a Saviour (Who is Jesus) either sitting or standing beside Him.

ISAIAH 43:11 I, even I, am the LORD; and beside me there is no saviour.

But the next picture is a church painting to represent the Trinity. It copies the Egyptian style. Yet this is how most Christians today picture the Godhead.

Three heads on one body was another attempt to describe one-god-in-three-persons, as is seen in this Hindu carving.

Babylon : Anu Enlil Ea
Hindu : Vishnu Brahma Siva

So what the Roman Catholic church developed was this pagan idea, brilliantly clothed in Christian language. Christianised paganism.

The Roman Catholic church became known as baptised paganism.

JOHN 1:18 No man hath seen God at any time;

So our paintings of God are a waste of time.

The celebrated artist of the Chick tracts describes the Godhead this way:

Notice, like the bird shape in the Assyrian trinity, the use of a dove to describe the Holy Spirit.

God the Father has no face which is very awkward for a Person.

A dove is not a person. This picture looks like two Persons. Thus attempts to show the Trinity are very unsatisfactory.

JOHN 5:37 And the Father himself, which hath sent me, hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, nor seen his shape.

Imagining God, who is a Spirit, as having some shape is contrary to Scripture. We must not do that.

Then Chick uses a bit more sense and goes for three lights to symbolise the Godhead, with an angel standing behind them. But the Bible says God is Light, not three lights. So the Trinity just does not fit into the Bible.

I JOHN 1:5 This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light,

This triple light of the Chick picture represents a single light that is blurred and out of focus. Out of focus with Scripture that does not say that God is three lights.

So however you picture the Trinity, it just does not fit into Scripture. Thus it became a brilliant mystery to inject into the Christian church at the council of Nicaea. No-one could explain the Trinity then, and no-one can explain it now because all the statements like “God the Son” or “God the Holy Ghost” are unscriptural and yet “God the Father” is Scriptural. But the Trinitarians cannot tell us why this is so.

By this time the bishops were arguing that Father and Son must be two separate Persons but somehow still be one God. This is a concept that has never been resolved nor understood to this day and still remains a mystery. Thus the name Mystery Babylon began to be applied to the Roman Catholic church.

The great historian Gibbon said, “Christianity conquered paganism, but then paganism corrupted Christianity”.

In order to describe the doctrine of the Trinity, the Catholic church had to develop her own words and vocabulary with the help of certain ideas of philosophical origin. Catechism of the Catholic Church.

According to the Trinity doctrine, Father and Son are co-equal in the Trinity.

But the Bible contradicts this statement.

JOHN 14:28 ... for my Father is greater than I.

According to the Trinity, God the Father is a different Person to the Holy Spirit.

MATTHEW 1:20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

The person who places the male seed in a woman's womb is the father of the child.

Thus the Holy Ghost, who created the Seed in Mary's womb, must be God the Father. The Child, Jesus, as a Human being, cannot have two fathers.

The Trinity doctrine claims that Christ dwells in the Godhead as the second Person of the Godhead.

But the Bible contradicts this by taking the fullness of the Godhead and placing all of God in Christ.

COLOSSIANS 2:8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.

: 9 For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

Paul also warns us not to be led astray by philosophy as he could foresee the devastating effects of Greek philosophy on Christian thinking as it leads us away from what is written in the Bible.

If God is three separate Persons, then what is the Name of God?

In other words, What is the one Name of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit?

If you believe that Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are three separate Persons, then you cannot find one Name for all three of them. Thus effectively you have no Name for the Christian God.

That is one of the reasons that Muhammed rejected Christianity and stressed that the name of the Muslim God is Allah. His logic was obvious. God must have a Name.

It is 1 700 years later, and the church has still been unable to find one name for God.

"The second Person of the Godhead" is an unscriptural statement.

"The third Person of the Godhead" is an unscriptural statement. This third Person is the Holy Ghost and He has no Name in the Bible. Three Persons described by only two Names, Jehovah and Jesus, is not a good fit.

But there is no one Name for all three of them. Thanks to the Trinity, the Christian God has no Name.

This was a big mystery when the mysteries of Babylon entered the church. It remains a big mystery 1700 years later.

A Trinity picture from France. There is no one Name for this Christian God made up of three Persons. Notice the triple crown of the Pope that is worn by God the Father.

Rubens (1577 -1640), the great artist, painted a dramatic picture of the Trinity. God the Father looks like an old man. How long can He last if He shows signs of ageing?

Part of the fuzziness of the Trinity concept is that this picture only represents two Persons as a dove does not represent another Person. The Bible tells us nothing about what the Holy Spirit looks like. Nor what His Name is. So any picture of the Holy Spirit is sheer guesswork. And to represent Him as a dove deprives Him of being a separate Person. Thus the mystery of the Trinity continues to confuse us and confound us. The Greeks loved arguing, whether in defense of truth or in defense of error was immaterial. As long as they could argue. So the Trinity arguments have continued for seventeen centuries and will never cease to be a mystery, but they have successfully lured millions of Christians to believe what is not written in the Bible. As such, the Trinity is probably the single most successful doctrine that Satan has captured the minds of men and women with. And it is all based on Greek philosophy which polished up the pagan Babylonian and Egyptian gods so that they could slip into the mainstream of church thinking.

This Council of Nicaea was probably the biggest mistake in church history.

They adopted a Trinitarian godhead that was based on pagan superstitious religions (For instance Isis, Horus, and Seb were an Egyptian trinity).

They allowed a politician Constantine to assume the leadership of the church by calling a council and then dominating the council.

They allowed this politician to add an unscriptural word “essence”, which had been obtained from the Greek philosophers, to the Christian belief of the Godhead.

Greek philosophy became the foundation of church truth.

This opened the door to more unscriptural words from Greek philosophy like Plato’s Triad, three-in-one, One God in three Persons, God the Son, Second Person of the Godhead etc. Constantine spoke Latin so he translated the Greek word Triad as the Latin word Trinitas, which we call Trinity. The western empire spoke Latin so Trinity became the popular word.

Having decided that God was three Persons, it became impossible for God to have one Name for all three Persons. So the Name of God was discreetly dropped in favour of three Titles, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. But no Trinitarian can tell us what the one Name of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost is.

So the Triune Christian God effectively lost His Name.

That is also why virtually no churches baptise in the Name of Jesus Christ, the way Peter told us to do. He had the key to Heaven, not us.

Blasphemy is to take God's Name in vain by using the Name as a swear word. No sinner has ever sworn in the Name of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Jesus Christ is the unfortunate swear word that we hear daily. I have even heard a Muslim man swearing in the Name of Jesus Christ. So the sinners know that Jesus is the human Name of God, when God became a Man. The Christians remain ignorant of this fact.

The most far-reaching mistake from the Nicaean council was that from then on the Bible was officially not the only source of truth. The church was free to add in any extra ideas. Even today Bible lecturers teach doctrines that are not in the Bible. When challenged, they ask if the Trinity doctrine is true? "Yes", reply 99 % of today's Christians. Then the lecturer happily says that Trinity is not written in the Bible and you admit it is true, so now you must accept as true other doctrines that are also not written in the Bible. The Pandora's box of error has opened.

Paul said this process was accursed

GALATIANS 1:8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

The unscriptural mysteries of Babylon were entering the church. People would argue about the Trinity for centuries and emerge none the wiser. But the main damage that it did was to get people to believe a doctrine that was not written in Scripture. This would open the door to all sorts of other doctrines being believed that are also not in the Bible.

Basically, the door was opened for a flood of paganism to enter the church. To attract the pagans the church gave a veneer of Christianity to the pagan customs. The Chaldeans believed in 40 days of Lent where you gave up something that you liked for 40 days, just before the spring festival of the goddess Ishtar. This was copied by the church who neatly changed Ishtar to Easter. If you perform a pagan rite under a Christian name, then it is fine. So they claimed. Millions still believe them.

Pagans had incense and flowers in their temples. This was copied by the church. It looks so nice, God must be impressed. So they claimed. But they failed to provide a single New Testament example of flowers in a church. Actually, and this is very awkward, try to find an example of a church building that Christians built in the New Testament. They met in houses. The Temple was built long before the New Testament started.

When Constantine stopped the persecution of Christians he gave many buildings and pagan temples to them. Pagans, who invariably look back to Nimrod and his tower of Babel for their inspiration, put a steeple on their temples so that it pointed high into the sky in the direction of where their gods lived, just like the tower of Babel did.

Because the pagan temples that they took over had steeples, when the Christians began to build their own churches, they copied the idea of steeples.

Christians decided to meet the pagans half way by giving Christian names to pagan festivals.

The spring festival celebration of the goddess Ishtar who came down in a large egg onto the river Euphrates and hatched out. Pagans boiled eggs and painted their shells. Their sex orgies were represented by rabbits because rabbits are the fastest breeders. This festival was easily developed into the habits of Easter eggs and Easter rabbits.

These pagan symbols are still the main advertisement, world wide, for the Christian Easter weekend.

Mother and child worship was borrowed from the Babylonian mother Semiramis, wife of Nimrod, and her son Tammuz.

This became Isis and Osiris or Isis and Horus in Egypt. Isi and Iswara in India. Venus and Jupiter in Rome.

Mother and Child statues of Mary and Jesus are still found world wide.

This statue shows Mary with a crown as the Queen of Heaven. A pagan title for a pagan goddess.

Semiramis was the original Queen of heaven. The church endlessly copies the pagans.

Semiramis was the Queen of heaven and worshipped as the moon goddess by means of a round bun.

A strip of pastry forming a “T” or “+” was baked onto the surface of the bun to stand for the initial of her son Tammuz. The Roman church chose the “cross” symbol which became the Christian hot cross bun.

The 25 December celebration of the sun god’s birthday (started in 274 AD by the Roman emperor Aurelian) became the Son of God’s birthday. Celebrations in the Roman Catholic church were known as a mass. So the day became known as Christ’s mass. This became shortened to Christmas. After a while many people realized that this had nothing to do with Christ, so they crossed out His Name with a big X and Christmas became Xmas as we know it today.

Then we have the decorated Christmas tree.

JEREMIAH 10:2 Thus saith the LORD, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them.

:3 For the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the axe.

:4 They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and with hammers, that it move not.

:5 They are upright as the palm tree, but speak not: they must needs be borne, because they cannot go. Be not afraid of them; for they cannot do evil, neither also is it in them to do good.

We are told not to learn the way of the heathen. But the date of Christmas and the decorated tree come from heathen traditions.

GALATIANS 4:10 Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years.

:11 I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

Every year there is Christmas time on the 25 th day of the 12 th month. Paul would not be impressed with this festival which entered the Roman church sometime after 350 AD.

The Bible never required us to celebrate birthdays. Only two birthdays are mentioned, those of Pharaoh and Herod. Both committed murder on their birthday. Now we guess a wrong day for Christ's birthday in midwinter when shepherds cannot be out with their sheep because it is far too cold in Palestine with its winter snow. Do you really think that God is impressed?

But this pagan birthday is the best known church celebration of the year. Christians are so in love with it that they cannot leave it. They even change the Bible to have the wise men coming into the stable to give presents to Jesus. That is the excuse for all the present buying.

The wise men actually went into a house two years later when Jesus was a young child, not a baby. But most Christians reject this Scripture because it contradicts their habit of Christmas presents at the birth of Jesus.

MATTHEW 2:11 And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

Thus the Babylonian mysteries that officially entered the church in 325 AD at the council of Nicaea have most successfully infiltrated the Christian church and are still with us today.

The candlestick represents the state of the church during the third church age. The true light is getting dimmer. Married to politics and paganism, the false church moves further away from the example of the New Testament church that was set up by the apostles. Human leaders dominate the church.

REVELATION 2:12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

A sword combines two sharp edges. The Bible combines the New Testament and the Old Testament. Natural light combines the contradictory behaviour of both a wave and a particle. Jesus in the flesh is a Man, but the indwelling supernatural Spirit within Him is God.

The seven churches in Asia are: Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamos, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, Laodicea.

Six cities have their usual name. But Pergamos has a Greek name. Its usual name is Pergamum. Around 1850 the archbishop of Ireland asked why Pergamos was singled out as the only city to have a Greek name? The answer is that in the third church age (312 – 606 AD) Greek philosophy would enter the church thinking at the Nicæan council of 325 AD and after about 200 years of debate and adjustment, finally produce the polished up and super mysterious Babylonian Trinity doctrine that would most successfully take the church outside the Bible.

COLOSSIANS 2:8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.

:9 For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

Vain deceit. We are deceived by our vanity thinking that we can puzzle out an invisible God by means of clever Greek philosophy. “Vain” means we have far more conceit than what we have mental capacity.

I TIMOTHY 3:16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit,

God made a Human image of Himself and God, as an invisible supernatural Spirit, dwelt inside that perfect Man.

JOHN 14:10 Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

A man cannot walk on water. Yet Jesus did walk on water which proved that He was more than a Man. The fullness of God dwelling in Him, made Him the Son of God.

A portion of God dwelling in you is thus the only way that you can be a son or daughter of God.

The physical Man Jesus with His Human spirit (which combine to form the flesh) was not all of God, that is why Jesus is called the Son of God and never God the Son.

REVELATION 2:13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

When Cyrus conquered Babylon, the high priest or Pontiff of the Babylonian mysteries fled with his priesthood and treasure to Pergamos. In the east, a king was readily worshipped as a god, but this was not usually the case in the west. Alexander the Great conquered Persia and was regarded, reluctantly by the Greeks, as being a god-king who was to be worshipped because of his brilliant military success. He died and his general Lysimachus took over the kingdom of Pergamos, also claiming to be a god-king. When he died the Babylonian Pontiff took over and became the god-king. Because the original Pontiff who had come to Pergamos had been at Belshazzar's famous last party where the sacred vessels of the Jewish Temple had been desecrated, this Babylonian high priest was regarded by all the pagans as the most authentic Pontiff of all the pagans. The god-kings or Pontiffs of Pergamos were the only legitimate Pontiffs because they alone descended from the last high priest of Babylon. The last god-king of Pergamos, Attalus III, left his kingdom to Rome in 133 BC when he died. Thus Pergamos had been established as the seat of authority for Satan's Babylonian mysteries for about 400 years. The Babylonian mysteries had come to Pergamos to be hidden from the Persians but when the Greeks conquered the Persians, the Babylonian mysteries then had been refined by the cleverness of Greek philosophy. Then these polished up mysteries of Babylon had been handed over to Rome. But no Roman who took the office of Pontiff was very important until Julius Caesar bribed his way to win the election as the new Pontiff in 63 BC. The elaborate robes and ceremonies from Babylon gave Caesar added prestige. His military fame gave the Babylonian priesthood prestige.

But what stayed in Pergamos was the strong desire to worship a man as god.

This was Satan's real seat of authority over human beings, the strong desire in mankind to hero worship some famous person, and then elevating that person to be equal with God as the "voice of God" or the "mouth of God". A man's quotes replace the Word of God. This worship of a man was common in the east, but not in the west.

ACTS 12:21 And upon a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

:22 And the people gave a shout, saying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

:23 And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

I THESSALONIANS 4:16 For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first:

In the last church age the Message of William Branham is the shout to wake up the sleeping virgins. His followers also interpret this shout as being the "voice of God" (like Herod was claimed to be the "voice of a god") instead of being the voice of the seventh angel or messenger. They claim that William Branham is infallible.

The Roman Catholics meanwhile believe that the Pope is the infallible voice of God.

The true Bride believes that the Bible is the Word, that God has spoken.

Caesar died in 44 BC and in 29 BC Pergamos got permission to worship him as god. Caesar was thus the first man in Rome to be worshipped as a god. While he was still alive, the Roman emperor Augustus who was the next Pontiff gave Pergamos permission to worship him as a god.

Gratian (reigned 375–383 AD) was the Roman emperor who stopped using the title Pontiff.

From the time of the Roman bishop Leo I (440 – 461 AD), the title of Pontiff or high priest of the Babylonian mysteries had been absorbed into the Roman Catholic church.

"Holdest fast my Name". The true believers either stayed away from the Nicaean council or walked out at some stage.

They knew that all those unscriptural words were not the way to find truth. They stayed with the example of the apostles and baptised in the Name of the Lord Jesus rather than in the three titles of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

"My faithful martyr". The false vine, the official Roman Catholic church was starting to persecute the true believers who disagreed with them. Pope Leo 1 complimented the emperor for killing people who opposed the Catholic church.

Denying the Trinity was starting to cost people their lives.

"Antipas" sounds like it comes from Anti pappas. That means anti the Pope as the Pope is called Holy Father. And pappas is the Greek word for father.

MATTHEW 23:9 And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

Opposing the Pope was dangerous. The father is the head of his home. So the Pope, being called father, was claiming to be the head of the church. But Christ is the Head of the church.

EPHESIANS 5:23 For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church:

REVELATION 2:14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

Idols or carved statues were entering the church. Pagan temples became churches but kept their paganised spirit as they corrupted Christianity into paganised churchianity. Statues of gods and goddesses were renamed after Christian saints. A black marble statue of Jupiter became Peter.

The church is a woman. Fornication is a sin committed by an unmarried woman. Adultery is when she is married and commits sin. So fornication means that the Roman Catholic church was not married to Christ. She had no husband. Spiritual fornication means she is involved with men's ideas which plant a seed in her mind, which is the spiritual womb. This seed would grow into a monstrous church organisation during the Dark Ages. Babylonian pagan mysteries had been polished up by clever Greek philosophical ideas. The great pagan-Christian feast was the Nicaean council of 325 AD where the church accepted pagan ideas and gave them a veneer of Christian names. This process would continue as clever men kept on paganising Christianity until Trinity, Christmas, Christmas tree, 25 December birthday of Jesus, Easter eggs, Easter rabbits, fancy ceremonial robes of the Babylonian priesthood and bishops with a mitre on their heads that copied the fish god Dagon.

Pope, Pontiff, triple crown, church steeples, roosters on church steeples, cardinals, archbishops, metropolitans, indulgences whereby people buy forgiveness for sin, prayers for the dead, baptism of babies, God's Name becoming Father, Son, and Holy Ghost and so the list of unscriptural ideas kept growing.

Balaam was a king, a politician. He got Balaam to unite the Jewish men with Moabite women at a feast of Baalpeor. The Moabites were not proper Jews so the Jewish men should not have got involved with the Moabite women. It was totally immoral. God slew twenty-four thousand Jews. Balaam sold out his gift of prophecy for money and destroyed thousands. Under the lavish money gifts of Constantine, a political emperor, the Roman church sold out their birthright to be Scriptural and fooled around with man-made ideas. These false beliefs would cause millions to lose their souls.

At Nicaea a Trinity doctrine was invented that is not properly in Scripture. It uses all sorts of man-made expressions to justify it. Bible believing Christians should stay away from it. It brings spiritual death to the church as they learn to believe things that are not written in Scripture. Paul never used the word Trinity. He said if we taught anything different to him, we would be accursed. The Roman Catholic church at Nicaea took their first big step along the path towards the Dark Ages. If you fool around with a light, the light will go out. They were now officially corrupting the Bible.

REVELATION 2:15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.

Nicolaitanism is the elevation of a holy man. A priest or pastor is elevated to be in charge of a church. Then a bishop is elevated even higher to be in charge of a group of pastors or priests. The Roman bishop was then elevated to be in charge of other bishops. An organisation was growing.

The five-fold ministry was elevated above the congregation to form a New Testament Aaronic priesthood. God hated all this human importance. It would ultimately elevate a man to being the "Voice of God" or the "mouth of God" so that a man's quotes would be equal to Scripture or even greater than Scripture.

Constantine lavished money and buildings on the Roman Catholic church which made them submissive financial pawns. A religious organisation was built up with the Roman bishop at the top. Just over one hundred years later this Roman bishop would be called both Pope and Pontiff of the Babylonian mysteries. In addition, as the big boss of the church he would be in favour of persecuting and killing anyone who opposed the Roman Catholic church.

The true believers did not want to be part of this awful Nicolaitan system that dominated the scene and sought the lime light. True believers served God in their own scattered communities, often unnoticed by historians. Occasionally a great man like Martin of Tours was so used of God in his attempts to bring the people back to the original simplicity of the New Testament church that his selfless life and inspirational achievements had a hugely beneficial influence on this age. Satan was building up a centralised, cruel, and despotic church organisation but the Holy Spirit could still work freely in the lives of inspired individuals who centred their lives around the written Bible.

REVELATION 2:16 Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

Nicolaitanism was rapidly building up a false church with the emperor's help. If believers tried to stay in this church, they would get swept along in the flood of error that was drowning truth. The sword that comes from the mouth of God is the Word of God, which is the written Bible. It is a two-edged sword, combining the Old Testament with the New Testament. Bible truth will always oppose human opinion. Jesus defeated the Devil by always quoting, "It is written". In this age the Nicaean council took the people away from Scripture by introducing unscriptural ideas. The only way to please God is to get back to Scripture. The church joined in with politics for the worldly advantages of gaining money and power. As a result the church lost its spirituality. This was the crucial loss because the Bible is God's spiritual sword which means that God prizes the spiritual truth far more than any earthly benefits or ideas. Staying with the Bible is far more important than following clever human wisdom.

True believers saw the lack of spirituality and Scripture in the Roman church and they left. History lost sight of most of them but God did not. True believers are often not in the public eye as their aim is to be faithful to the Scripture rather than to be popular and noticed.

REVELATION 2:17 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

The one common sentence to each age is that the church must listen to the Bible. The church must not develop different ideas in order to cope with the changing circumstances of each age. God wants to prove that the same Bible, just the way it is written, can cope with each age and its different challenges. A stone is strong and constant and survives unchanged in buildings, roads, and bridges over the ages. Stones last. Thus a stone symbolises unchanging valour and faith.

God has a new name for each overcomer. These Christians were pushed aside by the official Roman Catholic church. Shunned, and often persecuted and exiled with their possessions confiscated they lived a hard life. Many were killed by the official church. There was often no record of their humble lives and it would seem that they had lived in vain as so often their earthly hopes were just trampled on by the ambitious official church. But then on the other side, they realise that God always has His eye on them. The world forgot their names, but each one got a new name as a white stone was a trophy for the victor in a struggle. Their new name will be a trophy of their courage to remain faithful to the Bible when all around them the church was just heading into paganised Christianity. They stayed true to the baptism in the Name of Jesus Christ. They did not follow the crowd that was fooled into thinking that Father, Son, and Holy Ghost was a name. They ate of the hidden manna, the great mystery of God. They knew that Almighty God who had been a Spirit in the Old Testament had now come down to earth and wrapped Himself into a perfect human Body, the Man Jesus.

JOHN 14:10 : but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

Jesus Christ is the Human Name of God. That a Man could be God was a hidden mystery. Einstein taught us that light can be a wave (moving like ripples in all directions if you drop a stone in a pond) and a particle that just moves in one direction only (like a bullet). This is a great mystery of Nature.

So Jesus is the Light of the world, as only He can be a Man (limited to one place) and yet the fullness of the Godhead dwelt in Him bodily as a supernatural Spirit (so He can also be completely unlimited in both space and time).

Thus He is truly eternal Light.

Thyatira (2:18-29) – The Corrupt Church (Poison in the Pulpit)

The Corrupt Church

¹⁸ “And to the angel of the church in Thyatira write,

‘These things says the Son of God, who has eyes like a flame of fire, and His feet like fine brass: ¹⁹ “I know your works, love, service, faith, and your patience; and as for your works, the last are more than the first. ²⁰ Nevertheless I have a few things against you, because you allow that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, to teach and seduce My servants to commit sexual immorality and eat things sacrificed to idols. ²¹ And I gave her time to repent of her sexual immorality, and she did not repent. ²² Indeed I will cast her into a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her into great tribulation, unless they repent of their deeds. ²³ I will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that I am He who searches the minds and hearts. And I will give to each one of you according to your works.

²⁴ “Now to you I say, and to the rest in Thyatira, as many as do not have this doctrine, who have not known the depths of Satan, as they say, I will put on you no other burden. ²⁵ But hold fast what you have till I come. ²⁶ And he who overcomes, and keeps My works until the end, to him I will give power over the nations—

²⁷ ‘He shall rule them with a rod of iron;
They shall be dashed to pieces like the potter’s vessels’—

as I also have received from My Father; ²⁸ and I will give him the morning star.

²⁹ “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’

- The name Thyatira means "sacrifice"
 - A Greek word meaning "the castle of Thya."
 - An alternative meaning of "sacrifice offering" was suggested by "Hitchcock's New and Complete Analysis of the Holy Bible" and by Dr. Arnold Fruchtenbaum in his book "Footsteps of the Messiah."
 - The first part of the word means continual, unwary, never tiring.
 - The second part means sacrifice.
 - Put them together and this is a place where they never tire of sacrificing something over & over again.
 - This represents the Mass of a Catholic church service.
- History
 - It was originally a Lydian town, bearing the name of Pelopia, then Semiramis, and then Euhippia
 - It was taken by the Persians, and then Alexander the Great, and is ultimately passed to the possession of Lysimachus, one of Alexander's 4 generals.
 - In 301 BC, Lysimachus was defeated by his rival Seleucus I Nicator and it became part of Syria.
 - When Alexander the Great died in 323 BC, his empire stretched from Macedonia to India
 - Seleucus I Nicator was at war with his rival, Lysimachus, in 290 B.C. when he learned that his wife had given birth to a daughter
 - Seleucus I renamed the ancient city of Pelopia in honor his new baby
 - Thyatira is from the Greek word meaning “daughter”
 - Became a Roman city in New Testament times
 - Became an important military city
 - The city was converted into a frontier fortress to guard the way to Pergamos
 - The city which was noted for commerce and guilds (tanners, coppersmiths, potters, and purple dyers)
 - Modern town of Akhisar (population 30,000) – small and unattracted town
- Thyatira was the smallest and least important of the 7 cities

- It had no noticeable presence of political or religious persecution
- Unlike the earlier churches, Thyatira was really more like a large town in its time
- But it was notable as a commercial or business center with many active trade guilds each having their own sponsor God
- The road from Istanbul to Izmir runs through the small and unattracted town of Akhisar (population 30,000) which now occupies the site where once stood the important military city of Thyatira
- In New Testament times, Thyatira stood at the Junction of 3 main roads leading to Pergamos, Sardis, and Smyrna
- The empire had designated it as a military supply post for the Eastern Roman Empire!

- There was a large settlement of mercantile Jews there.
 - When Paul travels to Philippi on his 2nd missionary journey in 50 AD, he meets Lydia – a dealer in purple cloth from the city of Thyatira (Acts 16:14), who is a ‘worshiper of God’ or ‘God-fearer’
 - Since we know from Acts 16 that there was no synagogue in Philippi, Lydia probably came in contact with Judaism in her home town of Thyatira
 - Acts 16:13 On the Sabbath we went outside the city gate to the river, where we expected to find a place of prayer. We sat down and began to speak to the women who had gathered there. 14 One of those listening was a woman from the city of Thyatira named Lydia, a dealer in purple cloth. She was a worshiper of God. The Lord opened her heart to respond to Paul’s message. 15 When she and the members of her household were baptized, she invited us to her home. “If you consider me a believer in the Lord,” she said, “come and stay at my house.” And she persuaded us.
- Thyatira was the center of the textile industry in Asia Minor
 - Center for cloth dyeing in New Testament times
 - Known for its dyes, particularly its purple (which was scarlet, rather than purple)
 - It was the heart of the indigo trade. It was one of many color dyes produced in Thyatira.
 - Indigo — the color of blue jeans — was made from an organic compound of plants and was quite rare and very expensive in the ancient world.
 - πορφυρόπωλις [porphyropōlis, por-fu-ro’-po-les] Greek word for “purple cloth”
 - Means “purple” or “red” fabric
 - The colors worn by Roman military officers and the upper classes
 - Produced in one of three ways
 - Caries insect – Produced a dark rose shading into purple
 - Amethyst – Produced a violet into purple
 - Tyrian murex (mollusk) – The highest quality purple dye
 - Has a small bladder containing juice that when extracted is purified and made into varying grades of purple dye
 - Madder root (which is prolific in the area)
 - Fabrics were then double-dyed for consistency, making them quite expensive
 - Thyatira became a well-known center for trade guilds
 - It had become famous in the 1st century for its Trade Unions and Local Guilds
 - Membership in these was compulsory and essential if one was to pursue a trade
 - These were well organized corporate bodies providing specific benefits and taking actions to protect their interests, often owning considerable property
 - Each Guild was under the patronage of some pagan deity and all proceedings and feasts commenced with paying homage to the patron God or goddess.
 - The city which was noted for commerce and guilds (tanners, coppersmiths, potters, and purple dyers)
 - Among the archaeological remains of Thyatira are inscriptions relating to the guild of dyers, as well as inscriptions relating to wool-workers, linen workers, makers of outer garments, leather workers, tanners, and others

- Compromise - the dilemma of the Christian continues in our own day. Almost every day we have to make a choice between Christ and the world

- Geography

- Small town about 35 miles SE of Pergamum
- Located on the Lycus River

- Objects of worship

- The Emperor
- Tyrimnos - the Thyatiran war hero
- Trade guild gods
 - Ex – Pallas Athena – goddess of war worshipped by the bronze smiths

- Church in Thyatira

- How the church was established is unknown
- The big problem with this church was from within – the development of the Roman Catholic system
 - Thyatira portrays the medieval Papacy from 600 to 1500 AD
 - The goals to establish and enforce the pretensions of the Roman church constitute the major part of the history of the middle ages
 - The Chaldean priest who interpreted the esoteric doctrines of the Babylonian mysteries was called Peter – that is, the interpreter
 - He wore an insignia of the 2 keys of Janus and Sibyl – these 2 keys still appear on the Papal Arms as symbols of spiritual authority
 - The danger to the church at by a tyrant did not arise from the persecutions of Imperial Rome, or from the animosity of Jewish attitudes – Instead it arose from within the church itself, which was even more serious and dangerous to deal with
- “What the Spirit says (is) to the Churches
 - The Nature of the Church Universal – united, yet differing from one another!
 - The Nature of the Church Nationally – united, yet differing from one another!
 - The Nature of the Church Locally – united, yet differing from one another!
 - The Nature of the Church Personally – united, yet differing from one another!
 - Cultures Differ. National Traditions Differ. Race Differs. Demographics Differ – But the Holy Spirit of God Unites !

Greeting

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Thyatira (2:18-29) Misguided; Wrong doctrine	Deeds, love, faith Patient endurance; Faithful service; Constant improvement	Tolerates cult activity, idolatry, and immorality; In darkness; Misguided	Judgement is coming – Repent! Hold fast until I come - keep the faith.	Authority to rule over the nations; gift of the morning star

*18 "To the angel of the church in Thyatira write:
These are the words of the Son of God, whose eyes are like blazing fire and whose feet are like burnished bronze.*

- In his greeting the Lord calls himself the “Son of God”
 - He draws attention to his eyes “like a fiery flame” and his feet “like polished brass,”
 - Rev 1¹³ and in the midst of the seven lampstands One like the Son of Man ... His eyes like a flame of fire; ¹⁵ His feet were like fine brass, as if refined in a furnace
 - Stresses his divine authority over all any pagan gods.
- eyes are like blazing fire – Speaks of God’s active holiness and purity
- feet are like burnished bronze – Speaks of God’s active judgment and righteousness
- The Collective Meaning Is This; That God is warning the church at Thyatira against its allowance of sinful conduct within the “fellowship of the saints”
- Fasti by the Latin poet Ovid (Published in A.D. 8)
 - A 6-book poem in elegaic couplets, in which the poet interviews numerous Roman gods, who explain to him the origins and customs of various religious festivals, often noting the trade guilds associated with them.
 - For a craftsman in Thyatira, membership in a trade guild was essential to both economic and social life

- Trade guild members (both pagan and Christian) were expected to take part in the religious festivities associated with their guild

Commendation ☺

19 I know your deeds, your love and faith, your service and perseverance, and that you are now doing more than you did at first.

- Jesus names 5 positives and tells them they are improving
 - your deeds, your love and faith, your service and perseverance
 - Works grk: ergon; works, deeds, doings.
 - Love grk: agape; pure affections, pure devotions, pure love.
 - Faith grk: pistis; pledge, proof, continuance.
 - Service grk: diakonia; ministry, care-given, mission
 - Patience grk: hupomone; a remaining behind, a patient enduring: perseverance, steadfastness
- Love and faith are praised in every book of the New Testament.
 - Hope finds its expression in 'endurance'
 - Service is an expression of love
 - We have a subtle allusion to Paul's Corinthian trio of faith, hope and love
- The faith of this church produces good works in them.
 - They don't just claim to be Christians, they do works out of love for Christ and these works are the outward evidence of their true faith.
 - It is believed, from the Greek meaning that the phrase "last to be more than the first" relates to the works of Thyatira. Which means that this church experienced spiritual growth. Their faith and works grew stronger (last works more than the first works) as opposed to that of Ephesus, which experienced a spiritual fall.
 - So how is your walk with Jesus going? The Christian faith is a progressive faith and we grow with each step we take. Are you growing in Christ? Are your works of love and service to God improving and becoming more and stronger?
- Jesus took note of their charity and service.
 - During the dark ages, times were hard. Many times when a person was sick, the only people who would care for them were nuns. These were women who dedicated their lives to God and lived to care for the injured, sick or orphaned. To this day many around the world have benefited from Catholic charities and Catholics who genuinely love God. Christ pays attention when people take care of people.

Condemnation ☹

20 Nevertheless, I have this against you: You tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess. By her teaching she misleads my servants into sexual immorality and the eating of food sacrificed to idols. 21 I have given her time to repent of her immorality, but she is unwilling. 22 So I will cast her on a bed of suffering, and I will make those who commit adultery with her suffer intensely, unless they repent of her ways. 23 I will strike her children dead. Then all the churches will know that I am he who searches hearts and minds, and I will repay each of you according to your deeds.

- Even though Jesus commands them for some good characteristics, they had become guilty of not confronting sin within the church and most likely even promoting it.
- 20 Nevertheless, I have this against you: You tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess.
 - Against grk: kata; listed, marked, itemized, recorded
 - Allow grk: eao; to let alone or leave alone. to leave to itself.

- Jesus rebukes Thyatira for "suffering" Jezebel.
 - That word suffering actually means "putting up with".
 - So Jesus is accusing Thyatira for putting up with Jezebel and her teachings.
 - The chief sin of this church – which was fatal – simply consisted of failing to raise a protest against this woman who claimed to be a prophetess who led them into idolatrous doctrines and practices
 - Jezebel brought aberrant leadership and false doctrine – they were playing with fire but couldn't tell that they were getting burned.
- In Bible prophecy, a woman is a symbol of a church
 - The woman in white in Revelation 12 represents God's true church
 - The harlot woman in Revelation 17 and 18 represents an apostate fallen church
- By her teaching she misleads my servants into sexual immorality and the eating of food sacrificed to idols.
 - Whoever and/or whatever she was, she was a woman in the church at Thyatira that assumed a position of spiritual authority contrary to God's pattern.
 - The name "Jezebel" represents the IMPORTED, corruption from the outside world brought into the church.
 - The Pastor allowed, permitted, looked the other way so she could introduce (slip in, add to) a compromised worship system of prayer, music, studies, activities that are not "God-Approved".
 - This had infiltrated the church in Thyatira. She is not of the servants of God nor the Family of God. This is a Carnal, Messed Up Church and is in a State of Rebellion. (why? because Thyatira had departed from Orthodox Christian Conduct.)
 - "So why is the violation of those boundaries such a big deal? "ONE FLESH", sexual immorality
 - There is great unifying power within the sexual union between the male and female.
 - God designed it to involve not only bodies but hearts and lives.
 - Sex was designed to consummate the lifetime union between a man and woman.
 - Jesus said, "What God has joined together let no one separate."
 - He designed the male / female physiology so that two of the same, yet different could literally "come together" in an act of physical intimacy that joins them together for life as ONE. They "are no longer two, but one flesh."
 - According to God, the act of a male and a female uniting creates a new entity: a family!
 - This results in the recreation of another human that bears the image of God.
 - The human race can only be propagated by the coming together of a man and a woman, male and female and God has said that that is to be within the bounds of marriage
 - Sex is a gift to a husband and wife to not only make their relationship unique among all other relationships, but to be the intimate ministry possible between one to another."

Jezebel

- Jezebel was the daughter of Ethbaal, king of Sidon
 - 1Ki 16 ³¹ And it came to pass, as though it had been a trivial thing for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, that he took as wife Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Sidonians; and he went and served Baal and worshiped him.
 - The name 'Ethbaal' means 'Baal is with him'
 - He was a high priest of Astarte, Babylonian mysteries in the Zidonionite Kingdom
 - Became king by murdering his predecessor, and ruled for 32 years
- Jezebel and her family were devoted Baal followers
 - Jezebel aggressively promoted worship of the Canaanite god Baal during the time of Elijah and Elisha in 1 & 2 Kings
 - Jezebel was a prophetess of Baal, the sun god
 - She was a temple prostitute - and she loved those pleasures.

- She had 450 Baal prophets of Baal and 400 prophets of Asherah (both started in Babylon)
 - 1Ki 18 ¹⁹ Now therefore, send and gather all Israel to me on Mount Carmel, the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal, and the four hundred prophets of Asherah, who eat at Jezebel's table."
- She also killed many of the prophets of the true God (1Ki 18:4)
 - 1Ki 18 ⁴ For so it was, while Jezebel massacred the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah had taken one hundred prophets and hidden them, fifty to a cave, and had fed them with bread and water.) ... ¹³ Was it not reported to my lord what I did when Jezebel killed the prophets of the LORD, how I hid one hundred men of the LORD's prophets, fifty to a cave, and fed them with bread and water? ¹⁴ And now you say, 'Go, tell your master, "Elijah is here." ' He will kill me!"
- Jezebel married king Ahab to seal a profitable trade alliance between Israel and Phoenicia (now Lebanon)
 - According to law, a king was never supposed to marry a pagan priestess
 - When she came into Israel, she brought all that paganism with her.
 - Jezebel was intent in enforcing Baal upon all of Israel
 - She set up temples of Baal and started child sacrifices to Baal
 - Little girls were put up as prostitutes in the Pagan temples – these people were child molesters and murderers
 - She and king Ahab usher in the worst period in Old Testament history.
 - Children – Ahaziah, Jehoram, and Athaliah
- Jezebel and all the males of Ahab's family are killed by Jehu at the command of God
 - See 2Ki 9 and notes on Israel's kings 10. Jehu \(841-814, 12 years\) – Anointed by God
- Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel
 - She married Jehoram – son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah – and corrupted all of Judah as well

2Ki 8 ¹⁶ Now in the fifth year of Joram the son of Ahab, king of Israel, Jehoshaphat having been king of Judah, Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat began to reign as king of Judah. ¹⁷ He was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. ¹⁸ And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, just as the house of Ahab had done, for the daughter of Ahab was his wife; and he did evil in the sight of the LORD. ¹⁹ Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah, for the sake of His servant David, as He promised him to give a lamp to him and his sons forever.
 - She was the mother of Ahaziah, King of Judah, who was killed by Jehu at the command of God

2Ki 11 ¹ When Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she proceeded to destroy the whole royal family. ² But Jehosheba, the daughter of King Jehoram and sister of Ahaziah, took Joash son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the royal princes, who were about to be murdered. She put him and his nurse in a bedroom to hide him from Athaliah; so he was not killed. ³ He remained hidden with his nurse at the temple of the LORD for six years while Athaliah ruled the land.

¹³ When Athaliah heard the noise made by the guards and the people, she went to the people at the temple of the LORD. ¹⁴ She looked and there was the king, standing by the pillar, as the custom was. The officers and the trumpeters were beside the king, and all the people of the land were rejoicing and blowing trumpets. Then Athaliah tore her robes and called out, "Treason! Treason!"

¹⁵ Jehoiada the priest ordered the commanders of units of a hundred, who were in charge of the troops: "Bring her out between the ranks and put to the sword anyone who follows her." For the priest had said, "She must not be put to death in the temple of the LORD." ¹⁶ So they seized her as she reached the place where the horses enter the palace grounds, and there she was put to death.

 - Killed all of her grandchildren, who were heirs to the throne, to become queen
 - Jehosheba – Joash's aunt, Athaliah's sister – saves Ahaziah's baby Joash and takes him to the Temple

- She was the only female king in all of Judah and Israel
 - She has a reign of terror for 6
 - She is the absolute worst of the bad girls of the Bible
- Athaliah is killed by order of Jehoiada the priest when Joash became king
- Of all the women seen in the Old Testament, none was more cunning, or more daring, or more scrupulous.
 - She obtained lands through inquisition (Naboth's Vineyard, 1Ki 21:7-16)
 - When the prophet Elijah took a sword and slew all 450 of the Baal prophets, he was only doing what king Ahab should have done
 - Any man that committed idolatry, prostituted a girl, or murdered a baby had the death sentence on his head
 - But in these pagan temples, it was ritualized and embraced by Jezebel
 - She polluted the whole nation of Israel
- The reign of Jezebel corrupted both Israel and Judah

Jezebel spirit

- Jezebel spirit
 - Her name is Phoenician for 'un-husbanded' – Even if married, she is the boss!
 - Her spirit is rebellious, self-loving and devoid of empathy
 - Jezebel loves what God hates and hates what God loves
 - Her spirit seeks to use, manipulate and destroy lives
- You tolerate the woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, who teaches and misleads my servants
 - "Jezebel" is probably not the woman's literal name, but an allusion to king Ahab's wife, Jezebel (a vile, loathsome and despicable woman!)
 - Thyatira's "Jezebel" claims to speak on behalf of God, but she is simply another "deceiver" or "antichrist" who is leading people astray.
 - From Revelation's perspective, such teachers cannot be allowed to roam the community anymore than a ravenous wolf can be allowed to roam the village streets.
 - The Lord promises a dreadful judgment on "Jezebel" and on any who follow her.

Jezebel = Sambatha

- Her real name was Sambatha.
- She was a sibyl in the pagan temple of Thyatira.
 - A sibyl is an oracle or "fortune teller".
- She was very well respected in her city. She decided however, to become a Christian and joined the Thyatira church.
 - Then it was a very simple church with no statues or idols.
 - When she came to the church the people were awed by her allure and presence. They knew she would be a lucrative addition to their congregation because she made a fortune telling people their future. They thought her money and influence would really help to win the town to God. She told the people she was no longer a prophetess for the devil, but a prophetess for God.
- The Pastor did not have the courage to resist her. She brought idols into the church by telling people they were to be reminders of Mary. She brought many other mysteries of the temple into the church. Historically this happened. This woman brought pagan influence into the church in this time period.

Jezebel = Roman Catholic Church

- Jesus rebukes Thyatira for "suffering" Jezebel.
 - That word suffering actually means "putting up with".
 - So Jesus rebukes His people for putting up with the abominations that infiltrated the church.

- Many openly submitted to Roman Catholic apostasy and no earnest effort was made to rebuke and stop the tide of evil flooding God's church.
 - In the Thyatira church age, apostasy was openly and defiantly rampant, even more so than in the Pergamos church age.
 - And just as Jezebel in the Old Testament slew the prophets of God, the Roman Catholic Church slew the true Christians who would not go along with her false teachings.
- The chief sin of this church – which was fatal – simply consisted of failing to raise a protest against the apostasy that led them into idolatrous doctrines and practices
- Jezebel – queen of Israel – Babylonian priestess that introduced Babylonian practices
 - It's interesting that Christ says this woman Jezebel calls herself a "prophetess".
 - So this church would be claiming to be doing God's work, but in truth it would be a fallen church, doing the work of Satan. She isn't a prophet of God, she is a prophet of the evil one.
 - The Roman Catholic Church claims to be doing God's work, but in reality, as we can see from her false teachings and her history of killing God's people, she is doing the work of Satan.

Babylonian practices still in the Catholic church today

- Rome claims that she is the only true church – she is the spokesman and the Pope is infallible
- But when you begin to study Rome, you will find that the heart of Catholicism is none other than Babylonian worship
 - God wants you to understand that, in the middle of Thyatira, there is a pagan worshipper who claims to be a prophetess of God that lead the church very far astray – with traditions that are still practiced today
- See extremely important detailed notes on Roman Catholicism roots in Babylonian practices
 - Mystery
 - Eucharist – Round, IHS, Transubstantiation

- The Thyatira name means continual sacrifice.
 - The first part of the word means continual, unwary, never tiring.
 - The second part means sacrifice.
 - Put them together and this is a place where they never tire of sacrificing something over & over again.
 - This represents the Mass of a Catholic church service.
 - We have established this name comes from continual pagan Mass introduced by Jezebel.
 - The early church, due to pagan influences, warped the celebration of the Lord's Supper into a re-sacrifice / re-offering of Christ's once-for-all sacrifice.
- The Mass was the centerpiece of the Thyatira church.
 - The bread represented the body of the Lord Jesus Christ and His finished work on the cross. The Catholic view is the bread is a real Christ.
 - The offering of the Mass is to crucify Jesus on a daily basis for the sins of man.
 - Any time a Catholic priest conducts any kind of service (marriage, funeral, christening, etc...) he has a Mass. Ultimately, what happens at every Mass, is the priest takes the bread prays over it and it becomes the living Christ. The appearance of the bread remains unchanged. People are told the bread is Jesus Christ dying again for the sins of the world. This is repeated more than 200,000 times a day.

- The Catholics believe after they have prayed over the bread it becomes the living Lord Jesus Christ – the same Christ who walked on the Earth and died on the cross. Protestants say however, the bread is only a symbol of Christ. They believe Jesus has already paid the price for sin and it was only necessary for Him to die once.

- Eucharist – Round IHS communion

- On the Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser III, there are priests. One holds the wine and one holds a plate with three round cross buns. Have you ever wondered why they use round wafers for communion?
- At Passover unleavened, rectangular bread with holes and baking stripes was used.

- The entire Passover meal is a description of the Lord Jesus Christ.
- The bread is unleavened. Leaven represents sin. The bread or Christ is without sin.
- The baking stripes represent the stripes inflicted upon Jesus during His beating before the crucifixion – the stripes by which the Bible says we are healed (Isaiah 53:5).
- The holes represent the piercing Jesus received in His hands and feet from the nails, the thorns on His brow, and the spear in His side.
- The wine represents the blood shed as the covering for all sin.

- So why do they use round wafers?

- They mixed pagan mass with Christian communion and the wafers took the place of the bread.
- They are images of the sun god, Baal.
 - A Catholic communion wafer – See the sun god surrounding the wafer?
- The Babylonians worshipped Baal using the small, thin, round wafers as a symbol of the sun god.
 - People in Egypt worshipped sun. On the altars of Egypt were circular sun shaped wafers made from unleavened bread.
 - This bread represented the body of sun god and in middle were initialing IHS (Isis, Horus, Seb – Egyptian trinity).

- Transubstantiation

- (especially in the Roman Catholic Church) the conversion of the substance of the Eucharistic elements into the body and blood of Christ at consecration, only the appearances of bread and wine still remaining.
- Egyptians priests prayed above their round wafers, to make them as holy. Then they told to the people, that miracle had taken place. They said that wafers have changed for the flesh of sun god Osiris. And after the change, the nation ate its god.
- This Egyptian bread god ritual points out perfectly Roman Catholic Church Eucharist, in which catholic priests pray over the bread and changes the wafer to Jesus Christ.

- IHS

- Catholic church of Rome says these letters is for the Latin: "Iesus Hominum Salvatore", which mean Jesus Saviour of the people.
- The letters I H S stand for the Egyptian unholy trinity of Isis, Horus and Seb.
- Because teaching of Roman catholic Church is exactly similar as in heathen religions, so maybe IHS letters are "dedicated" also to Egyptian trinity?

- Pope Francis Coat of Arms

- Note the sun and IHS designation

- The main reason that this website is here, is because of the great error and apostasy found within "Christianity" around the world. The Roman Catholic Church has the largest number of members with over 1 billion, and yet the Bible reveals this church to be apostate. And we now also have many of the Protestant churches heading back to Rome, back to the "mother" (Mother of harlots). So while the world is preaching ecumenism, driven by the Catholic Church, we remain steadfast upon the truth, upon the Rock which is Christ Jesus, and we say, come out of her and stay separate, because God is going to pour out His wrath upon her and anyone who continues to commit fornication with her. Please study the truth for yourself and find out about God's end time remnant church. Follow Jesus, not Jezebel! To those who overcome, God will grant them to rule over the nations with Jesus.

Repentance

- 21 I have given her time to repent of her immorality, but she is unwilling. 22 So I will cast her on a bed of suffering, and I will make those who commit adultery with her suffer intensely, unless they repent of her ways. 23 I will strike her children dead. Then all the churches will know that I am he who searches hearts and minds, and I will repay each of you according to your deeds.
- In His great mercy, Jesus gives Jezebel (this apostate church) time to repent, but she would not
 - In open defiance, Catholicism continues to reject the truth of God's Word and cause many to commit fornication with her and leads them into apostasy. The Roman Catholic Church openly rejected the Word of God and exalted the Popes in place of Christ Jesus and led their followers down the path of great apostasy.
 - It is evidenced Rome never repents. As we look further into Revelation 17:6 we will see Rome continue to be drunken with the blood of saints.
- This church age is the longest. It has lasted from its inception through today. And it has remained corrupt.
 - Thyatira is a vivid picture of the medieval church for a 1000-year period, including the dark ages
 - Within its ranks God has raised pure people to preach the Gospel to her.
 - History tells us what the Catholic church has done with them.
 - She has pulled their fingernails out
 - Tortured them
 - Kept them in dungeons
 - Killed them in any way they could including burning at the stake
 - Catholicism corrupted The Holy Bible to fit her own corrupt doctrine (inclusion of Apocrypha).
 - The Catholic Church murders the protestant.
 - There is a book available called the Foxe's Book of Martyrs. This book gives vivid details of what has happened to Christian's throughout history. Many have been martyred protecting the Christian faith. It is sure to be an eye opener for the reader.
 - If you didn't do what the church wanted, they simply buried you alive
 - The Mexicans did not receive their freedom from European powers until they removed the Catholic church from Mexican politics.
 - Mexican statesman Juarez Benito, a lawyer of Native American descent, helped to overthrow Santa Anna's dictatorship. He limited the privileges of the church and army. He led the liberals to victory in the War of Reform (1858-61). As President (1857-65, 1867-72), he oversaw the transfer of political power in Mexico from the Creoles to the Mestizos. Juarez defeated France's attempt (1864-67) to establish a Mexican empire. He closed all Nunneries & Monasteries because they were used to cloak the European Kings' spy rings. They did however, leave the churches open. One of the churches had a very interesting way of making money. Due to weather and atmosphere the remains of the nuns had mummified. They were showing the remains for a fee of .25. I figured that was worth a quarter. I paid the money and went down into the crypt to the display. One of the nuns caught my attention because her hands were tied and her mouth was open as if she were screaming. I got the impression she had been buried alive. When I asked the guide he said that she was. He continued, "that was 400 years ago - if you didn't do what the church wanted you to they simply buried you alive."

Great Tribulation

²² Indeed I will cast her into a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her into great tribulation, unless they repent of their deeds. ²³ I will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that I am He who searches the minds and hearts. And I will give to each one of you according to your works.

- In the context of the letter to Thyatira, it seems best to understand the phrase in its non-technical sense – as denoting a personal time of great trouble for the unrepentant prophetess and her followers
- There are also reasons to take the phrase in its technical sense – meaning the Great Tribulation of Revelation
 - This exact phrase appears both in Matthew's gospel and later in Revelation
 - Great tribulation - This exact phrase occurs only 3x - Mt 24:21, Rev 2:22, and Rev 7:14. In Rev 7:14 the Greek literally reads "the tribulation, the great one."
 - Mt 24 ²¹ For then there will be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until this time, no, nor ever shall be.
 - Rev 7 ¹⁴ And I said to him, "Sir, you know." So he said to me, "These are the ones who come out of the great tribulation, and washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.
 - Since the encouragement to the faithful in Rev 2:25-26 refers to His second advent, the case for a technical eschatological meaning is valid.
 - In consideration that the main body of the Apocalypse (Rev 4-19) includes a detailed description of this future period, it is exegetically sound to conclude that the threat to the followers of Jezebel is that of being thrust into this period of unparalleled misery.
 - Even if the Tribulation relates specifically to the woman Jezebel in the church at Thyatira, it does not preclude understanding the passage as a type denoting the fate of the apostate church. The apostate church of the last days, which does not participate in the Rapture, remains on earth to enter the Great Tribulation.
- Here is the indication that the Catholic Church would exist right up until the coming of Jesus Christ and the rapture of the church – because he talks of them being allowed to go into the great tribulation. So this church will exist till the end.
 - Other churches no longer exist
 - Ephesus existed into the 1st century – then its lampstand was removed
 - Smyrna existed into the 2nd and 3rd century
 - This church system, joined by Constantine, became divided into Eastern and Western
- I personally see three (3) types of people being addressed here.
 - This is in relation to God's judgment upon the false believers among us.
 - ²² Indeed I will cast her into a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her into great tribulation, unless they repent of their deeds.
 - This is in relation to God's condemnation upon the sinning-professor of faith.
 - ²³ I will kill her children with death
 - This is in relation to God's discipline upon the true children of God.
 - ²³ ... and all the churches shall know that I am He who searches the minds and hearts. And I will give to each one of you according to your works
- Kill her children
 - ²³ I will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that I am He who searches the minds and hearts. And I will give to each one of you according to your works.
 - The teaching that this portion of Scripture suggests that there is a group of people within the church that will go through the Great Tribulation Period.
 - This is unnerving truth that shock us.
 - These are letters written in red – these are the red-letter words of Jesus Christ
 - Jesus isn't saying that He is going to kill everyone who was and is a member of this apostate church.
 - There are many who were living in complete ignorance and the truth had not been shown them.
 - God will judge these people according to how they lived up to the light they had.

- The children who Jesus is talking about are those who, after the truth has been shown them, continue to reject the truth in rebellion against God and continue to follow Jezebel in apostasy. Then God's mercy will come to an end for them and they will be killed.
- God's mercy is conditional upon our repentance of our sinful ways and turning to the truth and living by it, through the power of Christ's righteousness. God still has some of His people within the Roman Catholic Church and any other fallen church, which is why He is telling His people to COME OUT OF BABYLON.
- I'm not saying Catholics won't be raptured – all true believers in Christ will be raptured.
 - But sadly, in all Christian denominations and on denominations there will be those left behind because they really did not believe
 - If they do repent, they can escape the great tribulation.
 - The great tribulation will be judgment for their failure to repent – which means that repentance would bring you deliverance or escape from the great tribulation.
- What Jesus wants the Christian in Thyatira to do is repent and hold fast
 - Those in the Jezebel group are committing adultery
 - This probably has the sense of both spiritual adultery and sexual adultery
 - God promises to chasten them, cast her into a sick bed, and those who committed adultery with her into great tribulation.
 - Unless they repent, they will be cast into the great tribulation.
 - I will kill her children with death – with the goal of bringing them to repentance and restoration, but also with the purpose of glorifying himself
 - All the church you shall know that I am He who searches the minds and hearts
 - To the faithful in Thyatira, God simply says hold fast. They must not stop doing what is good.
 - But to Jezebel and her party, there is no other word then repent – that comes before anything else.
- What can we learn from this today?
 - It is clear that God is not happy with us "putting up with" false teachings and doctrines within our churches.
 - We MUST stand up for the truth and expose any error.
 - And we certainly must not "commit fornication" with apostate churches like the Roman Catholic Church or any other fallen church.
 - There is a great drive to unite the churches today, but we MUST stay separate and not join in.
 - Rev 14 ¹Then I looked, and behold, a Lamb standing on Mount Zion, and with Him one hundred and forty-four thousand, having His Father's name written on their foreheads. ... ⁴These are the ones who were not defiled with women, for they are virgins. These are the ones who follow the Lamb wherever He goes. These were redeemed from among men, being firstfruits to God and to the Lamb. ⁵And in their mouth was found no deceit, for they are without fault before the throne of God.
 - The spirit warns all who practice or permit such corruption in the churches
 - We must allow the searching judgment and purity of Jesus to confront all such corruption in our midst

Admonition (Call to Action)

24 Now I say to the rest of you in Thyatira, to you who do not hold to her teaching and have not learned Satan's so-called deep secrets (I will not impose any other burden on you): 25 Only hold on to what you have until I come. 26 To him who overcomes and does my will to the end, I will give authority over the nations—

27 'He will rule them with an iron scepter;

he will dash them to pieces like pottery'— just as I have received authority from my Father. 28 I will also give him the morning star. 29 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

- hold fast grk: krateo; to seize or arrested by clinging on to, to grip or strangle. implying that the environment, the atmosphere, the age will become harder and harder
- keeps grk: tereo; to “keep” watching over, to keep guarding, to keep keeping, to keep until it's kept or finished.

- When Jesus said "to the rest in Thyatira" who have not known the "depths of Satan", He is talking about the small groups of people throughout the Middle Ages that sought to remain loyal to true apostolic Christianity.
 - Such people were found both within and outside the Catholic Church.
 - Waldenses and Wycliffe – Particularly important were such groups as the Waldenses on the continent of Europe and the followers of Wycliffe in England. Neither of these groups had the measure of truth that was revealed and proclaimed later in the Protestant Reformation, but they truly lived up to the light that had been revealed to them, and the message "unto the rest in Thyatira" was appropriate to them. Upon them God put no further burden than to be faithful to the light that was theirs, and Jesus says "HOLD FAST" that truth which you have!
 - 2 Timothy 2:19 But God's truth stands firm like a foundation stone with this inscription: "The LORD knows those who are his," and "All who belong to the LORD must turn away from evil." (NLT)
- 26 To him who overcomes and does my will to the end, I will give authority over the nations—27 'He will rule them with an iron scepter; he will dash them to pieces like pottery'—just as I have received authority from my Father.
 - A promise of reward to he who overcomes the threat of this corruption in the church – who do not follow "Jezebel's teaching"
 - 1Jn 5⁵ Who is he who overcomes the world, but he who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?
 - Jesus offered a place with Christ in the Messianic Kingdom
 - Rev 1⁵ ... To Him who loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood, ⁶ and has made us kings and priests to His God and Father, to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever.
 - Rev 20⁴ And I saw thrones, and they sat on them, and judgment was committed to them. Then I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, who had not worshiped the beast or his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they lived and reigned with Christ for a thousand years.
 - "He shall rule (shepherd) them with a rod of iron; (he will nurture, tend, comfort his own)
- 28 I will also give him the morning star.
 - He also offers them the greatest of all rewards – Himself (He is the morning star)
 - Rev 22¹⁶ "I, Jesus, have sent My angel to testify to you these things in the churches. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, the Bright and Morning Star."
 - The Morning Star in the Eastern Sky Was and Is the Celestial Announcement that the Night is Nearly Over.
 - There is also a prophetic connection to the Reformation that is just about to dawn.
 - As you go through these messages they not only cover the subject, but they flow with time. This is a promise for something that will happen in the next age. The next age is the Renaissance or Reformation time period. In that age light comes back to the church.

Church History (606-1520)

- The Thyatira period of the church is thought to be during the church "dark ages" when the Roman Catholic Church reigned from about 538 A.D. to the start of the Protestant reformation in the 16th Century.

- Here are some of the major non-Biblical changes in the Roman Catholic Church with coinciding dates:
 - 607 AD - Boniface III made first Pope
 - 709 AD - Kissing the Pope's foot
 - 786 - Worshipping of images and relics
 - 850 - Use of "Holy Water" begun
 - 995 - Canonization of dead saints
 - 998 - Fasting on Fridays and during lent
 - 1079 - Celibacy of the priesthood
 - 1090 - Prayer beads
 - 1184 - The Inquisition
 - 1190 - Sale of Indulgences
 - 1215 - Transubstantiation
 - 1220 - Adoration of Host (Communion Wafer)
 - 1229 - Bible forbidden to laymen
 - 1414 - Cup forbidden to people at communion
 - 1439 - Doctrine of Purgatory decreed
 - 1508 - The Ave Maria approved
 - 1534 - Jesuit order founded
 - 1545 - Tradition granted equal authority as the Bible
 - 1546 - Apocryphal books put into the Bible
 - 1854 - Immaculate Conception of Mary introduced
 - 1864 - Syllabus of errors proclaimed
 - 1870 - Infallibility of the Pope declared
 - 1930 - Public schools condemned
 - 1950 - Assumption of the Virgin Mary
 - 1965 - Mary proclaimed "Mother of the Church".
- As you can see most of the doctrines are fairly new, but the Catholic church acts as if they have always been. They are changing the Word daily to suit their own desires and to manipulate themselves into a place of power. We will see this power in future chapters. The Roman Catholic Church will gather all religions under her, she will be lead by the false prophet, and she will hand the world's religion to the Antichrist. This will unfold in the coming chapters.

Columba died before the 4th church age started. Yet he was the messenger.

Paul taught Timothy how to present the Truth. We aim to present this study with that same attitude.

2 Timothy 2:24

And the servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient

Columba, the messenger to the fourth church age, died in 597 AD. But the fourth church age only started about 606 AD. How can he be the messenger to that future age?

There are 7 churches mentioned in Revelation chapters 1 – 3. If they only refer to those 7 local churches then they tell us about the good points and personal faults that those people had. Today we obviously have similar good and bad points. However, if these churches refer to 7 church ages then we gain not only an insight into peoples' faults and good points but also gain an impressive panorama of an awe inspiring sweep of church history, told in advance. An insight into the growth of denominational church error as well as God's plans to protect Biblical truth. Quite incredible.

The fourth church age, Thyatira (the name meaning "a dominating woman or church") is the middle age of the seven ages. The middle ages are described by historians as being the Dark Ages. At this time the Roman Catholic church dominated Europe. This was the fourth church age during which the Light of the Gospel went out. Why?

God hates the doctrine of elevating up a holy man, however good he is, in order to for him to be the head of the church.

Thereby the people, the laity, become enslaved to the commandments of man. Jesus Christ alone is the Head of the church. As time moved on the church always fell into the trap of elevating a human leader between the people and God.

The following Scripture summarises the fourth church age.

ECCLESIASTES 7:26

And I find more bitter than death the woman, (a woman represents a church) whose heart is snares and nets, and her hands as bands (the church promises freedom but forces us to conform to her man-made traditions and binds us to her religious opinions): whoso pleaseth God shall escape from her (Columba and his converts); but the sinner shall be taken by her (Pope Gregory the Great and his Roman Catholic followers).

The Roman Catholic church had a subtle plan to bring the world into subjection to her human traditions, which are man-made religious ideas. They were able to produce an inspiring leader, Pope Gregory I, who could command respect in a chaotic world ruined by endless warfare, plague and famine.

From 590 – 604 AD Pope Gregory the Great established the Roman Catholic church on a very firm base which enabled it to survive financially in those troubled times. He was an incredible man with great skills and tremendous energy and compassion for the poor and suffering. All the land which had been donated to the church by wealthy Romans (rather than have the Barbarians confiscate it) was welded together and controlled by him so that its income and agricultural produce was efficiently collected. This saved Rome and paid her debts. Friend and foe held him in high respect. He was a heroic figure who captured the imagination of the Romans as Europe slid into the turbulent dark ages. He died just as the fourth church age started. It was easy to follow such a great and selfless leader.

But, once you follow a man, however great he is, your worship is in vain. Why? Because you have taken your eyes off Jesus Christ and His Bible.

MARK 7:7

Howbeit in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

Our biggest mistake is when we take our eyes off Jesus. We do that when we elevate some great man so that we are sufficiently impressed with him, and then desire to follow him and obey him.

REVELATION 2:6

But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

REVELATION 2:15

So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.

Harmless looking deeds in the first church age like looking up to the church leader and following his opinions became binding doctrines by the time of the third church age. By then people were too scared to argue with the leader of the church, and were also too terrified to leave his church. They trusted in the leader and the church for their salvation. So they preferred to simply remained submissive souls, enslaved in a system of man-made ideas.

Nico means to conquer. Conquer the laity. The people are brought into subjection to the preachers.

A human man claims to be the head of the church. Everyone must believe and obey his opinion. This is false.

EPHESIANS 5:23

For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and he is the saviour of the body.

The true church only has one Head, namely Jesus Christ. No man must stand between you and God. Only the Man Christ Jesus. A preacher claiming to be the head of any church is simply a mini-Pope.

This was Pope Gregory's first big mistake. He insisted that he, a man, was the head of the church.

This mistake set the scene for the awful Dark Ages. Gregory was a brilliant and dedicated church leader, yet his ministry switched off the Gospel light and Europe plunged into darkness, because he established human leadership as the key to church growth. So the church did grow, but in the wrong way. Though its increase in numbers made it seem successful from a human point of view, its doctrines were not based on the Bible. So it was a spiritual disaster.

Competent though he was, his self-elevation to rule the church just because he was Pope, established a tradition which meant that after him would come many Popes who were far inferior to him in ability, integrity and morality. Some Popes were incompetent non-entities and others were extremely odious and corrupt. But they would all demand the right to rule the church like Pope Gregory I did. Darkness closed in after Gregory's death, partly because of the declining caliber of the successor Popes.

From 590 to 604 AD this best of Popes, Gregory I, became a legend with his ingenious administrative skills and charitable kindness. But despite his impressive good works he effectively set up a system that switched off the Light because he insisted that the Roman Catholic church was the world's most important institution, and the Pope was its supreme and absolute head. Human policies then guided the church into the cold and dirty Dark Ages.

The Gospel light was virtually extinguished as human leadership was exalted and enforced.

Nicholas I, a tough and competent man, was Pope from 858 – 867 AD. He was one of the first Popes to wear a crown to show that he was the equal of kings. This later became a triple crown in the early 1300s to indicate that the Pope was now exalted to rule Heaven, Earth and Purgatory.

REVELATION 6:2

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

The white horse represented the power of religious deception, because the Bowman had no arrow (he was bluffing). His deeds began as a "harmless" elevation of the preachers above the church members or laity, and this antichrist spirit then grew into a dictatorial rule of the church by its leader, until finally the elevated leader received a crown to indicate the Pope's pre-eminence.

III JOHN 1:9

I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

Church leaders who love preeminence do not welcome the apostles or their teachings.

After all, which pastor wants to discover that the word "pastor" is only mentioned once in the New Testament? Thus a pastor has no Scriptural grounds for being the head of the church. There is also no Scripture that says a pastor is a shepherd. So our modern churches are not run on Scriptural grounds.

The preeminence of man impresses us humans, but does not serve God's will.

III JOHN 1:10

Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the church.

No wonder people are scared to disagree with the pastor. He simply kicks you out. The Catholic church calls this excommunication.

It seems that our churches have taken their example from the Catholic church in the Dark Ages. Does not the Scripture say that the Laodicean church is blind? Blind means we cannot see the Light of Scripture.

REVELATION 3:14

And unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write;

:17 Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

Pope Gregory's second big mistake was to grant salvation only to those loyal Catholic churches which were in subjection to him.

We humans always feel that "My church is right". But since there are so many differences, not all the churches can be right.

Thanks to Gregory, people did not feel the need to be saved by faith in the Bible anymore, but found it easier to elevate up an important man like himself and then to be obedient to this leader. Then the important leader reassures them that as long as they are obedient to the leader, he will guide them into heaven. Just like today, where we do not argue with our home church leader. If we follow him, he will see us through. Our regular attendance at the "right" church becomes the key to our being "in the truth". Salvation by such works is how we humans fool ourselves.

The philosophy of the Dark Ages was summarized as "No salvation outside the church of Rome." Quite simply, this made spiritual slaves. People who did not know enough about the Bible to realise that their beliefs were actually unscriptural. The blind led the blind. No-one saw the ditch that the church world was falling into.

The Pope was the head of the church, taking Christ's place. He was the final authority, taking the Bible's place.

The Catholic church grew in the Dark Age because Pope Gregory I implemented a brilliantly effective, but totally wrong doctrine.

Jesus gave Peter the keys to open the door to the kingdom of heaven. Peter did this by telling people to repent and be baptised.

ACTS 2:38

Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

The Pope claimed that Peter could open the door to heaven and let in whoever Peter wanted to. Basically, Peter decides who goes to heaven. The Pope then made the false claim that Peter had lived in Rome and was the chief Apostle as well as being the Bishop of Rome. There is no history to prove this claim that Peter was ever in Rome. In addition, the Pope, as Bishop of Rome, was Peter's successor and was thus the only man who could wield the power of Peter's keys. If you followed the Pope and gave money or land or military protection to the Roman Catholic church, then Peter would open the door to Heaven for you. The barbarians fell for this belief - hook, line and sinker. This was the single major reason for the barbarians accepting submission to the Pope. So when this highly competent administrator, Pope Gregory I, died in 604 AD he left a legacy of pre-eminence which was based on his integrity and incredible organizational skills. But the Popes who followed him were far less competent and far less worthy than he was, and since they also claimed to be the supreme head of the church (so you can't argue with them) these human leaders, corrupted by all this power, led the Roman Catholic church into the unbelievable sin and corruption of the Dark fourth church age that followed Gregory's death.

Boniface III was elected Pope in 606 AD. He died in 607 AD. But in that short time, building on the reputation of Pope Gregory the Great, he got himself as Pope declared to be the "Universal Bishop". One man now ruled the entire church. Nicolaitanism (elevation of a holy man above others) was now established. This signified the start of the fourth church age, the Dark Age.

REVELATION 2:24

But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden.

"The depths of Satan"-- The Roman Catholic church left the Bible, followed human leaders and got into a real mess.

Pope Gregory I was the first monk to become Pope. This enabled him to develop an extremely efficient technique to keep the people away from the Light of the Bible. He encouraged the spread of monasteries. Rules for monasteries were organized by the monk Benedict around the years 530 to 543 AD. Monasteries were to be a very useful means of spreading the teachings of the Catholic church through Northern Europe.

The vicious twenty year war from 535 – 554 AD in North Africa and Italy had ruined both countries. The soldiers from Constantinople destroyed the barbarian Vandal and Ostrogoth tribes. Plague and famine followed this brutal destruction and killed millions. One third of Europe died in the chaos as Europe began to slide into the Dark ages.

Then in 568 AD the destructive barbarian tribe called the Lombards invaded north Italy and caused even more havoc. Monasteries became a safe haven where people could find some refuge from the panic and despair of everyday life. Monasteries became a very effective way to control the spread of Catholicism because the monks alone had access to learning and the Bible. The people outside the monasteries were busy farmers who were largely illiterate, and were totally dependent on the monks for what they knew about God. The Catholic church provided a Latin version of the Bible which only the priests and monks could understand. The people were thus left Scripture-less. By controlling the monasteries, the Pope was able to control the religious beliefs of the people and make sure that they were taught Catholic doctrines and not Scripture. Accordingly, as far as the people were concerned, the Light of God's Word was effectively switched off. Each Latin Bible had to be laboriously written out by hand by the monks. Thus few Bibles were in existence, and those few were mainly in monasteries. Even there they were hidden from the ordinary people because they were written in the unknown language of Latin. Ignorance of the Scripture caused the fourth church age to rapidly sink into a mire of superstition and myth.

Then even more darkness entered.

From about 632 AD onwards the Light of the Gospel went out in the middle East and North Africa (Jerusalem, Antioch, Egypt etc) as the Moslems swept through those areas. The Visigoths who occupied Spain converted to Roman Catholicism around 600 AD so all of Spain also fell under the darkness of the Pope and his Roman Catholic traditions.

So what was God doing as the Roman church led Europe into darkness?

From 563 – 597 AD the Irish missionary Columba established himself on the western Scottish island of Iona or Hy. He had an immensely powerful ministry and thus could not operate in the actual fourth age as his ministry was far too much of a bright and a shining light to the people. He founded 300 churches throughout Scotland where the people became distinguished for their love of God and purity of life.

No dark age would be very dark while this incredible man was preaching and spreading Bible truths. His preaching was like high powered floodlights that really illuminated the darkness. While he was preaching the darkness of the fourth church age was held back as the darkness could not start. Columba was switching on the Light of God's Word.

A light cannot be on and off at the same time. Only when he died could the Catholic church begin to switch off the light.

His teachings spread over Scotland, Ireland, northern Europe and after his death into central England (which was then called Mercia). Small remnants of his followers struggled on through this awful fourth church age. Persecuted and oppressed, they valued the truth more than they valued their lives. But they hung on and laid the groundwork for that formidable and bravest of reformers, Martin Luther, who ignited the fifth church age fire that got people saved by faith and not by works. This one man took on the Roman Catholic church that ruled Europe in a grip of iron.

The fourth church age was a time of darkness, of the Light going out. Thus the fourth church age could obviously not start until the bright light with which Columba illuminated the Bible was finally put out by his death.

In 597 AD, the year Columba died, Pope Gregory I sent Catholic missionaries to England under the monk Augustine. They landed in Kent where queen Bertha, a Catholic princess of the Franks, persuaded her husband to give them Canterbury as a starting place. Then the Catholic monks spent 66 years trying to undermine the work of Columba. In 664 AD, at the council of Whitby which was run by a woman Abbess, called Hilda, they finally converted the king of Northumbria away from Columba's influence because they told him that Saint Peter had the keys to heaven, not Columba. The English fell for this and over the next few decades the Roman church undid much of Columba's good work. By 700 AD the Light in England was mainly out. England then sent Roman Catholic missionaries to Holland and Germany to establish monasteries, and thereby keep northern Europe in darkness and in subjection to the Pope.

The Church Ages - Thyatira, The Fourth Age, 606 AD-1520 AD

The first church age produced churches with a priest or other human leaders.

The second church age produced a bishop who was in charge of the priests or human leaders of the churches in a city. Each city now had its own bishop.

The third church age saw about 318 bishops uniting together under the emperor Constantine as head of the church. Constantine moved east to Constantinople and gave power and wealth to the bishop of Rome which set the Roman bishop on the path to being the main bishop in the western Roman empire.

By 400 AD he was calling himself Pope or Pappas which means Father.

MATTHEW 23:9 And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

With the Roman empire collapsing, the Pope by 450 AD called himself Pontiff or high priest of the Babylonian mysteries so that he could make inroads amongst the pagan barbarians that were invading the Roman empire.

The fourth church age, since the Roman empire collapsed in 476 AD, forced the Pope to turn to the barbarian tribes who had taken over the Roman empire. This fourth church age saw the Pope first rise to power in Europe and then begin to persecute all those who disagreed with him.

He rose to power by claiming the authority to crown the barbarian kings and convincing them that Peter had the keys to heaven. Since the Pope claimed to be Peter's successor, it was essential for the barbarians to be subject to the Pope. If they disobeyed the Pope then Peter would not open Heaven's door for them.

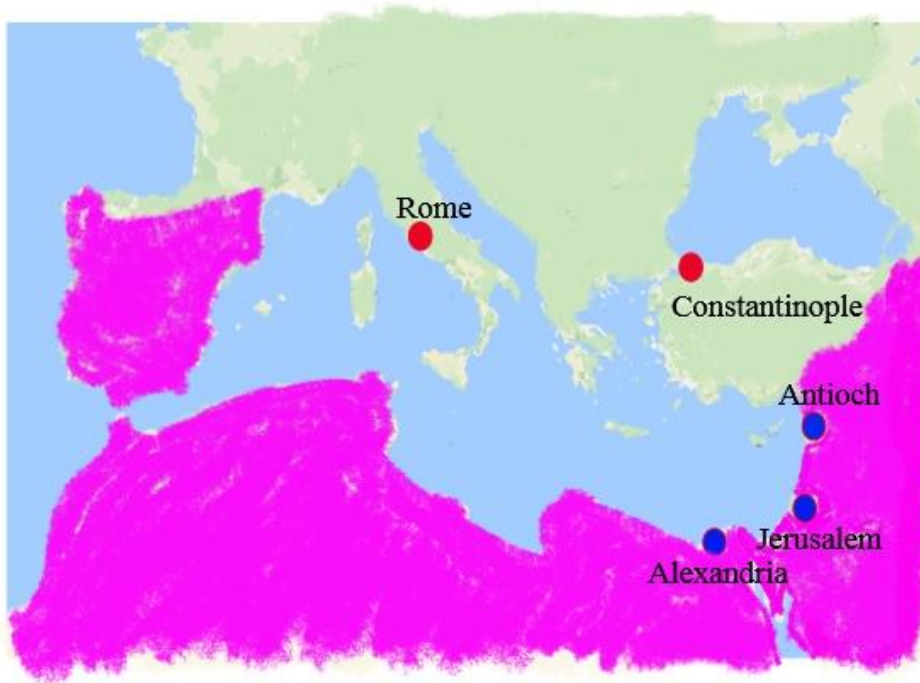

Having married into the political power of the Roman Empire at the Nicaean council in 325 AD to gain political power over her opponents, the Roman Catholic church never realized that the Western Roman Empire was actually crumbling and would disintegrate under the pressure of the barbarian invasions and the stresses of civil wars and the incompetence of weak but cruel emperors. Cast adrift in a chaotic sea of circumstances, the twenty years of fighting in Italy between Greek mercenaries and the Ostrogoth barbarians between 535 and 554 AD, settled nothing other than to devastate the country of Italy which caused famine, plague, and poverty that brought on the Dark Ages. Historians say that tens of millions died. But it did eliminate the non-Trinitarian Ostrogoths from Italy, leaving Roman Catholicism without any real doctrinal opposition in Italy.

The Roman church reacted to its new and unexpected circumstances by very surprisingly clawing its way to political and religious power over the barbarian tribes.

Between 634 – 720 AD the Moslem Arabs conquered Syria, Palestine, Egypt, North Africa, and Spain. This destroyed the Roman control of the Mediterranean sea where their cities had developed due to sea traders.

The Slavs then cut off the land trading routes to the east.

The purple parts on the next map indicate the Moslem conquests.

There was no option for western civilization other than to move north, into Europe. The barbarian tribes had their own laws so the Roman empire, which had one law for everyone, broke up and started to form a nation of states as each barbarian tribe had their own laws. When they lost control of the Mediterranean sea to the Moslem Arabs between 634 – 720 AD, the cities that relied on sea trading began to fade and agricultural land became the main source of wealth as civilization moved north away from the Mediterranean sea. Monasteries (also called abbeys or priories or convents) with their schools and hospices became centres for farming and villages grew up around them. The monks were usually scholars who were also trained in certain trades or medical skills. They cleared the forests and began farming so that they attracted many peasants who followed their example. The first Roman Catholic monastery was founded by Saint Benedict at Monte Cassino, Italy in 529 AD. The monastery way of life attracted many believers who were repelled by the sin and corruption of the official churches and the turbulent social turmoil of the barbarian takeover.

When a monastery was developed, some of its monks would move on and establish a new monastery. In 754 AD the Pope crowned the first barbarian king, Pepin of the Franks. This gave the Pope great prestige and the Anglo Saxon monasteries in north Europe that were under the Pope gained prestige in the eyes of the barbarian people.

The Anglo-Saxons from England provided a burst of missionary activity in northern Europe. They established monasteries and churches that were in submission to the Pope. Two Anglo-Saxon men, in particular, gave a big boost to the prestige of the Pope and the spread of Roman Catholicism in northern Europe.

Willibrord a missionary to Holland and then to the Danes between 690 – 739 AD spread Roman Catholicism with its submission to the distant Pope in Rome. Thus the Anglo-Saxon missionaries and monks played the major role in boosting the prestige of the Pope in northern Europe at this time.

Boniface a missionary in Germany from 710 – 754 AD established the first organised Christianity in many parts of Germany. The Pope made him archbishop of Mainz, in charge of the German bishops. The independent Frankish churches had become badly backslidden, and Boniface played a major role in reforming them and bringing them into submission to the Pope. Having the distant Pope as the authority figure really impressed the barbarian Franks and they then submitted to Boniface and his Catholic doctrines. The Franks appreciated the chain of command. They obeyed the monks who obeyed the bishops who obeyed archbishop Boniface who obeyed the Pope who obeyed Saint Peter who had the keys to open Heaven's door. It was a nice snug system. This centralised authority was the key to the success of the monastery system of the Dark Ages. Orders were passed down, and everyone did what they were told.

Then in the territory taken over by the Burgundian tribe, from which the name Burgundy in France is derived, came the most famous monastery that was built at Cluny in 910 AD by Duke William in Burgundy.

Cluny monastery in Burgundy

The Cluny monastery (picture from Wikipedia) became acknowledged as the leader of western monasticism.

Responsible only to the papacy, which was in a state of weakness and disorder with rival popes supported by competing nobles, the monks from Cluny spread out north into the heartland of Europe from 950 – 1160 AD to build and control 1 200 new monasteries and Cluny became the most influential monastery in Europe. Their success was due to all these new monasteries being controlled by Cluny and Cluny being subject to the Pope of Rome. The distant Pope was highly regarded by the kings of the barbarians. The Pope claimed the power to anoint a man as king of a barbarian tribe. Thus they respected the monks and bishops who were obedient to the Pope. The Burgundian tribe, thanks to the influence of the monastery at Cluny, established Roman Catholic domination over a large portion of Europe.

The early Cluniac establishments had offered refuges from a disordered world, but by 1100 AD, Cluniac holiness permeated society. This is the period that achieved the final Christianisation of the heartland of Europe. The high standards of the monks impressed the barbarians at a time when the Popes were very depraved. The Cluny monastery in Burgundy saved the papacy by setting the standards while the Popes dropped their standards. The barbarians saw the monks from the monasteries that were started by Cluny. They were impressed with what they saw. Most barbarians never saw the Popes, so they were not switched off by the Pope's immorality.

The messenger to the age was Columba who studied under some of Ireland's most prominent church figures and founded several monasteries in the country. Around 563 AD he and his twelve companions crossed to Scotland before settling on the island of Iona near Scotland. Most of his missionary work was amongst the pagan Scots. He set up independent monasteries where the people were encouraged to live as close to the New Testament teachings as possible.

The most famous monastery of his followers was set up on the island of Lindisfarne.

Columba was such a bright light for Bible truth that he had to die in 597 AD just before the fourth church age was starting in 606 AD because Thyatira was the church age where the Gospel light almost went out and this could not happen until his bright light had ended.

The third church age ended with a determined attempt by Pope Gregory, one of the strongest Popes, to eliminate Columba's influence in England by sending Roman Catholic missionaries to Kent in England.

In 597 Augustine landed in Kent as a Roman Catholic archbishop. He converted Anglo-Saxons and appointed bishops over them. From Canterbury, he ruled over these bishops. This was the secret to Rome's success in England. The archbishop of Canterbury was the head of the organised denomination and all the bishops that were trained up and sent out as missionaries were subject to Canterbury and the archbishop was very submissive to the Pope.

There was an obvious clash between Columba's independent missionaries, with their big monastery on the island of Lindisfarne, and those of the Pope, especially in the kingdom of Northumbria.

This century (600 – 700 AD) also saw the beginnings of Christian culture in England with its chief center in Northumbria, which was the leading English kingdom of the age, as shown on this map of England.

Here the Celtic missionaries of Columba from the north and west, (Scotland and Ireland) and the Roman missionaries from the south and east (Kent) now met to decide the fate of the fourth church age.

So in England, Abbess Hilda organised a synod in 663 AD at her Whitby monastery so that King Oswiu of Northumbria could decide who was right. The Roman Catholic archbishop said that Peter had the keys to Heaven. So if you obeyed his representative on earth, the Pope, then when you died Peter would open the door to Heaven for you. Columba's followers admitted that Columba had no such keys. Thus the king decided in favour of the Catholics because he wanted Peter to open the door for him. It was a very clever argument. Jesus was the Door to Heaven, but they claimed that Peter had the keys and could decide whether to open the Door or not for you. Peter only opened the Door for those who were in submission to the Pope. Peter being the doorkeeper who decided if you could go in became the Catholic's single most powerful argument amongst the barbarian tribes. This lie brought them into submission to Peter's representative on earth, the Pope. This doctrine of Peter enabled Catholicism to spread throughout Europe. But because Peter decided if you were saved or not, Jesus was effectively sidelined as Saviour, and Europe slid into a gross unsaved darkness. Wherever this doctrine was believed, the Light of the Gospel went out.

The monks from Lindisfarne, who would not accept this doctrine of Peter deciding who is saved, withdrew to the island of Iona, and later to Ireland. Columba's followers, like Columbanus and Catald, went as missionaries and set up independent monasteries in France, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy during the early middle ages. Thus the Gospel light just flickered here and there amongst small groups that continued to be influenced by Columba's missionary followers as they encouraged people to live Scriptural lives.

This is what the church lampstand looked like during the fourth church age. There was hardly any light left. The word “EVIL” indicates that the church had moved away from the simple doctrine of the apostles who wrote the New Testament. A huge Roman Catholic church organisation was rising to power. This was not God's will.

This was the age for building monasteries. The Roman Catholics won over the barbarians using Peter's keys by claiming the Popes were the successors of Peter, even though Peter had never been in Rome.

But if a lie is told often enough, it becomes the truth in people's minds. So the Popes guided the world into the Dark Ages with their Anglo-Saxon missionaries to northern Europe. Then the Roman Catholic Burgundians, who were very subject to the Pope, spread 1 200 monasteries around Europe. The whole of Europe was now in the grip of the Pope.

With the Roman Catholic church ruling Europe, they stamped out the Light, and nine hundred years of Dark Ages engulfed Europe. Life was cold, dark, dirty, and superstitious. People did not even bath. Disease and famine were rife. The average lifespan was less than 45 years. Life was at its worst when the church was in charge of Europe. Politics and religion make a toxic brew.

Why was Rome the dominant church in Western Europe?

Initially, there were four major cities who claimed to have important churches, descended from the apostles.

Constantinople was important because that was where emperor Constantine built his capital. Thus Rome was just one of five important churches.

Then the Moslem Arabs exploded out of the Arabian desert in 634 AD, two years after the death of Muhammad, and captured Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria by 641 AD. They moved across North Africa and captured Spain by 720 AD. The Moslem conquests are shown in red on the next map.

Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria were now Moslem cities. Only Rome and Constantinople remained. So Rome became the only important city church in the West. The Arab fleets then controlled the Mediterranean sea which destroyed Rome's sea trade. Constantinople was threatened by the Arabs and could not afford to send soldiers to protect Rome.

With the sea trade gone, people began to look to the lands of North Europe to develop an agricultural economy. The Franks lay to the north of Italy and they would play a major role in elevating the Pope.

Civilization moved north away from the Mediterranean sea towards the Atlantic ocean. France, Holland, and Germany would grow to economic power when they learned to sail the Atlantic ocean in the 1500s.

Monasteries flourished as centres of agriculture and learning in northern Europe.

Then the Lombards in northern Italy (today called Lombardy) began to move down towards Rome. The Lombards had played a role in the breakup of the Roman empire. They occupied Lombardy in the north of Italy. But their main role, in God's big picture, was when they moved south into Italy and began to threaten Rome.

This threat forced the Pope to look for help. Constantinople was pre-occupied trying to keep off the Moslem Arab threat. So the Lombard menace forced the Pope to decide to ask the barbarian Franks for help.

This was possibly the most significant change of policy that the Pope made in the Dark Ages.

He turned away from the emperor in Constantinople and turned to a barbarian for help. The timing was perfect. Pepin was the powerful mayor of the palace and Childeric III was the very weak king of the Franks.

An alliance developed between Pepin and the Pope. Pepin deposed the existing weak Frankish king and Pepin got Pope Zachary to agree to make him the new king in 751 AD. Then in 754 AD Pope Stephen II went to Paris to crown Pepin as king. For the first time a Pope had crowned a barbarian king. This made Pepin change from a usurper to a God-ordained king so that only his children could succeed him.

The Pope also took a forged letter which he claimed was from Saint Peter asking Pepin to defeat the Lombards who were threatening Rome and telling Pepin to give the Pope some territory. Because Peter held the keys to let people into Heaven, Pepin was obligated to help the Pope and the Franks went down to Italy and defeated the Lombards. He then gave some territory to the Pope which was called the Papal States.(Shown on the map in a light brown or beige colour). Pepin's son Charlemagne finally conquered the Lombards and enlarged the Papal States. Pope Leo III then crowned Charlemagne, the greatest barbarian king, as emperor in 800 AD, giving the Pope great prestige.

He was now, by far, the most important Christian.

Unfortunately, the East, which regarded the Emperor at Byzantium (Constantinople) as the sole Emperor, resented Charlemagne's assumption of the title of Holy Roman Emperor, and this hardened their opposition, thus contributing to the rift between East and West. Rome and Constantinople became rival churches, each trying to be top dog.

Roman Catholicism was becoming the dominant religion in Northern Europe where Constantinople had very little influence and then, sadly, Rome set out to eliminate all opposition.

But in order to kill people you needed to have kings with their armies who would obey the Pope and kill the Pope's enemies. The Pope was the only man who claimed that he could crown kings and this gave him leverage over the barbarian tribes. The Pope developed a powerful weapon called excommunication. This banned a king from heaven because Peter would never open the door for an excommunicated king. Kings became scared of the Pope and were thus ready to obey him.

Tens of millions of people died in the Dark Ages during the Counter-Reformation that the Roman Catholics launched to stem the tide of Luther's Reformation. Politics and religion combined to produce a bizarre dance of death. This study will just look briefly at two of the regions where religious massacres occurred.

The Waldenses, who started in the city of Lyons, loved their children too wisely to accustom them to self-indulgence. Before them was a life of trial and hardship, perhaps a martyr's death. They were educated from childhood to endure hardship, to submit to control, and yet to think and act for themselves

They were hunted to death, yet their blood watered the seed sown, and it failed not of yielding fruit. Thus the Waldenses witnessed for God centuries before the birth of Luther. Scattered over many lands, they planted the seeds of the Reformation that began in the time of Wycliffe, grew broad and deep in the days of Luther.

From A.D. 1173-1560 the Waldensians which dwelt in the Italian Alps were visited with 36 different fierce persecutions. They were almost completely destroyed as a people, and most of their literary record was erased from the face of the earth. To survive, they retreated far into the Italian Cottian Alps. Despite the constant fear of death, they sent missionaries into Europe. The map below shows the areas where they had spread to. They paid a great price as more than one million of them were killed.

Through ages of darkness and apostasy, there were Waldenses who denied the supremacy of Rome. In Turin in 2015, Pope Francis apologised for the inhuman treatment of the Waldensians.

A second tragic region where the Catholic crusades against the Albigenses in Southern France (from 1209-1229), under Popes Innocent III, Honorius III, and Gregory IX. This was one of the bloodiest tragedies in human history. The number of Albigenses that perished in the twenty years of war is estimated between one to two million. The prosperous and peaceful area that they lived in was totally devastated and ruined.

When Languedoc, the province in southern France, was invaded by these Catholic crusaders, one hundred thousand Albigenses fell in one day!

The Duke of Alva is said to have slain 100 000 heretics.

The 350 years of the Spanish Inquisition in Spain with its fire and tortures left a scar across history.

Martyrs died of the sword, at the stake, in dungeons, and of starvation because of the confiscation of their earthly possessions.

The record of Christianity from the days when it first obtained the power to persecute its opponents is one of the most ghastly in history.

During its rise to power, the Papacy also essentially exterminated the Heruli shortly after 493 A.D., the Vandals soon after 533 A.D., and the Ostrogoths in 554 A.D, all of whom were asserted to hold to the Arian non-Trinitarian belief. Having begun with religious violence the Gospel was further distorted until armed Crusaders thought that they could gain redemption from their sins by killing Moslems in Palestine. In 1099 AD they conquered Jerusalem and slaughtered the inhabitants who were Moslem, Jew, or Christian. The fourth Crusade, launched by Pope Innocent III, was a religiously distorted mockery. Cruel reality saw them sack the wealthy Christian city of Zara, which was under the Pope's protection, out of "necessity" because they needed money. They then razed the city to the ground, only sparing the churches.

Then they sailed on and these ruthless "Christian warriors", claiming that they were representing the Pope, sacked the city of Constantinople with rape and murder in their bloodstained religious zeal (and insatiable greed for wealth), despite the fact that it was one of the main Christian cities and massacred their fellow Christian Greek inhabitants of the city.

The Crusades generally refers to the set of seven distinct campaigns over a 150 year period (A.D. 1099 to 1254) that were enacted to liberate the Holy Land from Muslim control.

Money. Murder. Power. This was a time of religious perversion, dominated by lust and greed. Yet all this was done in the Name of Jesus Christ. It was a complete mockery and merely indicated that the love of God had died out of their human hearts.

They painted a red cross on their shields but that did not hide the Devil in their hearts.

Thus far had the official church deviated from the original Gospel of the Prince of peace.

The following lampstand represents the condition of the church in these dismal Dark Ages.

EVIL means moving away from the simplicity of the New Testament teachings of the first church age.

The light of God was hardly visible anymore, but it never died out completely. There were always some survivors who refused to bow the knee to Rome. A spark carried on through the Dark Ages that would be blown into a larger flame in the next church age as the Reformation started.

Meanwhile great men like Wycliffe who died in 1384 and Jan Hus who was executed in 1415 AD kept alive the evangelical zeal of repentance and the fact that we are saved by grace, through faith in the atoning works of Jesus Christ, and not by our own works.

These men, and others like them laboured on through those endless years of the Dark Ages until it was God's time for the glorious Reformation to remove the stranglehold of Catholicism from much of Europe.

The first four churches are covered in Chapter 2 of the Book of Revelation which deals with the falling away of the church from the original teachings of the apostles.

Chapter 3 deals with the last three church ages during which God laboured to restore the church back to the original faith of the apostles.

EVIL is just LIVE in the wrong direction, moving away from the first church rather than towards it.

REVELATION 2:18 And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write; These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

Thyatira means a dominating woman. A church represents a woman because Jesus calls His true church His Bride.

A dominating woman is the biggest curse on planet earth. When the church controlled and dominated Europe it was the time in church history when Christianity hit its lowest ebb. A dominating church is going to lead the world into the Great Tribulation and is thus the major cause of human damnation on the Day of Judgement. The Judge looks at her evil deeds with flaming eyes. Every horrible deed has been recorded and God will have His vengeance in due time.

Brass speaks of judgement. Fine brass means that not even the smallest error is overlooked. So if we are not repentant and washed in the Blood of Jesus, we are doomed.

LEVITICUS 26:14 But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all these commandments;
:19 And I will break the pride of your power; and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as brass:
 The mistake of the Dark ages was churchianity, the doctrines of man.

These human traditions were spread by force. Iron was the strongest metal in Daniel's Gentile image.

Iron is a symbol of brute force.

Iron was Daniel's symbol for Rome. But force follows uncertain paths and produces unintended consequences.

When Satan used the Roman empire to savagely persecute the Christians of the second church age of Smyrna between 170 - 312 AD, he killed millions but produced a purged church that God never criticized in any way.

REVELATION 2:19 I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last to be more than the first.

In a brutal age where the Bible was suppressed and most people could not read, the good works of the true saints reflected the Word of God to the people. "Works" is followed by the word "charity" or "love". Their works were based on loving God's Word and wanting to serve Him by loving their fellow man. They did good works as a natural consequence of being saved. They did not, like the false vine, do good works in order to get saved nor in order to get men to admire them.

Their good works were based on charity, on giving.

The false vine was working to get rich and receive wealth and power. In 774 AD Pope Hadrian I presented the greatest barbarian king, Charlemagne, with a forged document called the "Donation of Constantine". Constantine had been dead for more than 400 years but this document claimed that he had given the Roman Catholic church immense possessions and vast territories, in fact all the lands in the West. The wealth of the church really grew after that.

"Faith" was what God noticed, not the increasing wealth and possessions and political power of the church.

ROMANS 10:17 So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

God is not focused on material benefits, He wants to see how closely people stick to Scripture. Poor believers, many of them hiding in remote valleys in the Alps where they were known as the Church in the Wilderness, stayed with God's Word rather than Rome's doctrines that were enforced by political power. This was the faith that God noticed.

ROMANS 5:3 And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience

They learned patience the hard way. So many of them were killed. Their earthly hopes were often shattered.

They did not know it, but the long night of the Dark Ages had to endure for about 900 years before things would change. They just had to endure and endure and trust God because their human wisdom could not grasp His Big Picture. The Dark Ages were the dirt that buried the true seed of the apostles' first church. It takes time for a seed to germinate in darkness. But eventually the buried seed rots and a new life miraculously starts to emerge. The Roman Catholic church in the Dark Ages was the dirt that buried the true seed of the first church age so that it could germinate.

"and thy works; and the last to be more than the first". The influence of Columba and his followers was destroyed over the centuries where ever possible but after 1300 AD new names emerged like Wycliffe and Jan Hus who attracted much attention. Their opposition to the Catholic church generated a strong movement amongst many people who resented the corruption and worldliness of the Roman church.

Then much later a Catholic monk Savonarola rose up in Florence who denounced the growing wealth and corruption of the clergy, their despotic rule and their exploitation of the poor. Revolt against the Roman church was gathering. Rome was very busy stamping out these fires of protest.

They executed Hus and Savonarola.

The church retained its brutal magnificence with an emphasis on spectacular cathedrals and elaborate ceremonies. Churches were smothered in gold and jewels, draped in lace, clouded with incense, ablaze with lighted candles, huge altars, splendid robes, large organs, beautifully painted walls and ceilings, and vast choirs.

But the winds of change were blowing. What Wycliffe and Hus lacked were the technological miracle of a printing press and cheap paper.

More and more people were listening to the idea of salvation through personal faith in Jesus Christ, rather than by achieving salvation through church membership and church rituals in what was a rough and pitiless world. The sale of indulgences to buy forgiveness for sin, the useless life of monks, the trade in relics from the past, and the corruption in Rome were causing more and more resentment.

Rome was suppressing all this protest, but there was also a growing love for God's Word that was building up pressure like a volcano that was preparing to explode.

In 1455 Gutenberg in Germany produced the first printed Bible.

Printing underwent an industrial revolution as its use exploded over Europe. Printing spread extraordinarily rapidly throughout Europe.

After the Turks captured Constantinople in 1453 AD, scholars and refugees brought ancient Bible manuscripts to the west. Now the Bible could be put together from all these ancient documents. These Greek and Hebrew scholars gave a real boost to scholarship in the west.

These ancient texts could be translated into the common languages of the people, instead of always having to be in Latin which the common people did not understand. The development of printing was a key issue for the success of Luther's Reformation.

But the Roman church was also increasing their works of killing opponents and gathering wealth.

Pope Innocent III (1198 – 1216) launched one of the biggest religious massacres in history when the Albigenses in southern France were wiped out. The fourth crusade in 1204 destroyed the city of Zara to raise funds and then sacked the Christian city of Constantinople.

Pope Gregory IX (1227 – 1241) began the Inquisition, a church Gestapo that could torture, mutilate, and kill by fire any suspected heretic.

Violence was just becoming part of religious life.

From 1200 – 1300 the Waldenses were eliminated or driven out of many regions. By 1400 they could only find safety deep inside the rugged mountains of the Cottian Alps where many died of cold and exposure.

Rome got her power from the god of force who is Satan.

People thought the world would end in the year 1000 AD and gave all their lands and possessions to the church. Rome grew considerably richer. Then the church made voluntary donations compulsory. In 1081 AD Pope Gregory VII made every house that had a baptized Catholic living in it pay an annual tribute to the Blessed Peter. Gregory, of course, collected on behalf of the long dead Peter. A 33 % death tax on a person's estate went to the church. Wealthy people condemned for heresy had their estates confiscated and these were divided between the church and the state. The church's immense wealth was an economic stranglehold on many countries. When king Francis I ruled France (1515 – 47) a group of 600 abbots, bishops, and archbishops controlled so much land throughout France that their income equalled all the taxes that the king was able to collect.

Then the Popes introduced indulgences. By paying money you could buy your forgiveness for sins.

They invented Purgatory which is where the dead went to suffer for their sins before going to Heaven. Then by paying money, you could get your dead relatives out of Purgatory with immediate effect. This was a great money spinner. The church was making money out of the living and the dead. Business was good.

But now an unintended effect was threatening Rome. Jealous eyes of the political leaders were looking at her vast wealth. When Hus opposed Rome he did not have enough support to break Rome's stranglehold. When Luther opposed Rome, many powerful figures supported him because that would enable them to grab their share of the church's wealth. Ironically, the wealth of the church thus played a big part in their downfall when the Reformation started.

PSALM 76:10 Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee:

Many who joined Luther's reformation did it for the wrong motive, financial gain. But their support suited God as it enabled Luther to withstand the onslaughts of the Pope.

REVELATION 2:20 Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

Jezebel, the Roman Catholic church, started with Nicolaitanism, which means an elevated human leader. It began as a convenient idea or deed for growing a church and then became a doctrine that cannot be opposed. They embraced the power of the state and then introduced paganism. The Roman church in this age is a prophetess to tell people that she is predestined to rule the world because her leader, the Pope, is the earthly successor of Peter who alone decides who will enter Heaven as he has the keys to Heaven.

In 1302 the Pope issued a statement called "Unam Sanctam".

It states that salvation is only possible if you submit to the Pope in order to belong to the Catholic church.

She was a false prophetess as she took people away from Scripture by her organisation that became a denomination which then relied on false teaching. Idols are lifeless statues. There is no life in the doctrines of man.

MATTHEW 15:9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

Jezebel got the political power of her husband Ahab behind her and then forced her pagan beliefs onto the Jews. In the Dark Ages Roman Catholicism was forced onto the people of Europe by sword and fire.

Fornication is linked to idol worship. The Catholic churches were filled with carved statues of Christ, Mary, the apostles, and numerous saints.

Pope John Paul II, a brave and great leader, was dedicated to praying to statues of the virgin Mary.

REVELATION 2:21 And I gave her space to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

This age lasted long, about 900 years. There were so many disgusting excesses committed by the Roman Catholic church that it was obvious that they needed to repent. But they hardened their hearts and did not. Even Pope Francis was disgusted with their inhuman treatment of the Waldenses and he publically apologised in Turin in 2015 AD. But the Pope's of the Dark Ages never repented or apologised. Instead of repenting for all the Dark Ages murders, when the Reformation started they then turned their murder machine against the Protestants in Europe and the Indians in central and South America and if anything, they stepped up the murder rate.

REVELATION 2:22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed (hell), and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

The official Roman church, having lost her spiritual vision, would now focus on temporary wealth, political intrigues, and the comfort of worldliness. Luxury murdered her spiritual zeal but walked grinning in her funeral. But the great tribulation is the final end of the apostate church. Spiritual adultery is to receive a man-made doctrine into the womb of the mind where it grows from being the seed of an idea into a deed that dominates our actions and then hardens as a habit into a doctrine that dominates our thinking. The mark of the beast in the hand (our works) and in the forehead (where our brain is that thinks). Thus the mark of the beast is brainwashing or mind control. Believe anything that is not Scriptural. Just do as the church says, do not worry about what the Bible says.

But church leaders were too often chiefly interested in accumulating wealth, power, material possessions, and a privileged lifestyle.

REVELATION 2:23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

Who are the children of the Roman Catholic church? The Protestant churches that would come out of her. Rome had built up such a strong denominational spirit based on human leadership that the Protestants would go down the same path. The only difference is that they would call their human church leaders “pastors” instead of “priests”. Then each Protestant movement would denominate around their man-made doctrines.

Spiritual death is separation from God. The Roman church had moved away from the New Testament teachings of the apostles, so now God moves His Spirit away from the church and as a result, there is no check on the disgraceful, self-enriching, and disgusting lifestyles that the church leaders sank into. They were still alive physically, claiming to be Christians but inwardly God had left them and they were spiritually dead.

Death is simply organised religion which is a substitute for a personal experience with Jesus Christ.

Organised religion is denominationalism. This thrives under human leadership which is Nicolaitanism.

A typical example was the Crusaders.

They claimed to kill in the name of Jesus, but also robbed, raped, and destroyed in their greed for land and loot. Their desire to kill was the evidence of the evil in their hearts. “Christian killers” are the warped fruit of the poisonous hybrid formed by mixing religion and politics. Just look at the track record of ISIS who are from the Moslem religion.

The above verse clearly speaks of different churches. One branch of these churches does not know the truth. This false vine is unaware of the personal relationship of the believer with Jesus. Jesus searches the “reins” and “hearts”. From the heart we express our innermost feelings and deepest love. The reins of a horse are used to guide the horse. So our reins are the motives that we use to guide our hearts’ deepest choices.

Men loved their church more than they loved the Bible.

Men were greedy for gain. They served God for personal benefit or to enrich themselves.

God knows our motives and rejects any desire for gain or reward. He wants us to serve Him purely out of love for His Word.

“and I will give unto every one of you according to your works”. This was a dark and ignorant age. Evil was rampant. Life was cheap. Yet there were those who tried to live by the Bible. Their good works reflected their inner faith. They were the minority and usually unnoticed. Yet their lives set a high standard that was a rebuke to the majority who lived in sin without any fear of God.

REVELATION 2:24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden.

The official Roman church in the Dark Ages sank to such depths that one hesitates to offend the eye by remembering all this evil. However hard you try, you would struggle to find a more depraved person than the Borgia Pope Alexander VI (1492 – 1503). He finally died at a meal by drinking an arsenic-laced drink with which he had hoped to kill his invited guest. His servants somehow had muddled up the glasses.

This age was such a long, horrid, and violent period. God was happy if Christians could just believe in Scripture and personal salvation through faith in Christ’s sacrifice for us, because very few believed that. They had stood the test of patience and endurance. They had kept the flame burning, even though it was small. They had played their part with longsuffering and dogged determination.

The harsh and hard work of breaking Rome’s stranglehold over Europe would be left to others in the next church age.

Revolt was simmering under the surface, especially in northern Europe. Thanks to the protests and martyrdom of Jan Hus the state of Bohemia, the region around the city of Prague in Czechoslovakia, was strongly anti-Catholic. By 1384 when he died, Wycliffe’s Bible translation into common English was starting to break the power of the use of the Latin Bible, which ordinary people did not understand.

In 1378 the cardinals, rather foolishly, chose two Popes. This two-Pope fiasco or “Great Schism” continued for forty years until 1417 and really weakened the prestige of the Pope.

The Waldenses, their numbers reduced by numerous crusades or murder campaigns against them, were still holding out against the Roman Catholic church in the Cottian Alps in southern France.

From 1450 onwards the different regions of Europe were swept by a rising feeling of nationalism. Instead of all of Europe being subject to the Pope, they had a growing feeling of wanting to be separate distinct nations especially in the mountainous Alpine regions of Switzerland where towns or cantons united because it was difficult for outsiders to attack them. This league of cantons actually became independent in 1499. Here the reformers Zwingli and Calvin would defy Rome. The Renaissance, which was a revival of learning and new ideas, started in Italy which made people begin to think for themselves and start to question all the traditions of the Roman church. New ideas were circulating, especially with the discovery of the whole new world of the Americas in 1492 by Columbus. The Roman church ruled Europe through the Latin language which ordinary people did not understand. Gutenberg's printing press, invented around 1440 and spreading through Europe by 1500, enabled the rapid spread of religious literature in the common languages. No one would use this more effectively than Martin Luther. The map below shows some of the strongly anti-Catholic areas in Europe when Luther, as a single monk, stood up to defy the huge church system that owned about one-third of Europe and dominated the kings of Europe. A one-man David versus a colossus that was a Goliath-like church.

The stage was set for a spiritual seismic earthquake. All it needed was a rugged, rebellious, and fearless monk with a hammer, a church door in the German city of Wittenberg, and a document called the “95 Theses” which argued against Indulgences, the ability to buy forgiveness of sins from the Pope.

REVELATION 2:25 But that which ye have already hold fast till I come.

The true church clung onto salvation by faith. They practised their good works though they saw little earthly rewards for this as they were usually hunted down and persecuted. But they never gave up. The long night of the Dark Ages never seemed to end. But they carried the baton of faith and handed it over to the reformers who would hit Rome like an earthquake.

REVELATION 2:26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations:

This age taught us one powerful lesson. Never give up. However hopeless it looked, however badly they were hammered, however many were killed they nevertheless never gave up. God had planted them there and they served him faithfully, even when they went to an early and painful death. These saints had something that can only be described as spiritual toughness. Like a boxer who had been knocked down, they just kept getting up and carrying on with the fight of faith, serving God despite their earthly hopes being shattered. Satan hit them with everything he had, but they kept on coming. Endurance was the Christian virtue that testified of their tremendously rugged faith. This was not an age for Christian sissies. They lived in an awful age but never gave up on doing good works. That was their strong point, they never gave up just because their circumstances were awful.

Character is formed by difficulty and defeat. Their harsh circumstances produced strong and fearless characters which makes them fit to rule in the Millennium. God was training His future rulers.

REVELATION 2:27 And he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers: even as I received of my Father.

The survivors of Armageddon and the heathen who never heard the Gospel will be the nations that are ruled in the Millennium. These unsaved people will be given an extended life of almost 1 000 years. But on condition that they behave themselves. Then they can decide if they want to accept Jesus. Their children will live in this “first Heaven” which is the first taste of Heaven on earth when Jesus rules over the Millennium for 1 000 years. Righteousness will flow from sea to sea. All will be peaceful. But despite living under these conditions for hundreds of years, when Satan is released they will rush to him like a flood. This will disprove the favourite argument of unbelievers, "If only I had lived in a Christian home or Christian community then I would have accepted Jesus". These people will live in peace and safety and see Jesus, yet will abandon Him as soon as they get the opportunity.

The saints of this fourth church age saw sin at its violent and degraded worst so when they are in charge they will tolerate no evil. The nations that they rule will toe the line or else! The Millennium will be a wonderful place for the righteous but any evil or error will be met with zero tolerance. Here the Bride will judge the nations and rule them justly but very firmly. The iron rod speaks of strict discipline, not the brutal and vicious iron force of Rome. But those who refuse to obey will be demolished.

REVELATION 2:28 And I will give him the morning star.

The morning star appears in the east, just before the sun rises, for nine months and then it changes to become the evening star for nine months. 900 years of Dark Ages had to pass before it was time for God to move. For true believers it was an endless night. But finally, the stars begin to fade as the sun moves up closer to the eastern horizon, just before it becomes visible. Eventually, only one star is left shining, the brightest star which is the morning star. Actually, this is the planet Venus which lies between the earth and the sun. It reflects the sunlight towards us and this is the last sign we get before it too fades and the sun rises over the horizon.

The morning star means that the sun is about to rise. It means that the light is going to get brighter and brighter as the sun takes over from the morning star that was faithfully reflecting the sunlight on a small scale.

True Christians, each reflecting a bit of God's light had bravely held the fort and now God Himself was going to allow a glorious Reformation to burst on the scene and spread the dazzling light of salvation by grace through faith alone in Jesus Christ, far and wide. Over the centuries, this basic Gospel truth of repenting and accepting Jesus as Saviour would spread around the world.

The morning star, because of its closeness to the sun, shines brightly only when the sun is about to rise. Then it fades as the sun rises in its full glory. So these saints, in the darkest night of the Dark Ages, by just being able to shine for the Gospel were proof that Satan could not ultimately win because they were reflecting the Light of the Bible. Jesus, just like the natural sun, would illuminate the world with the Light of “Justification by grace through faith” and disperse the darkness. Satan can only triumph for a season. Then he meets his match and licks his wounds.

REVELATION 2:29 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

God repeats this to every age. God's Spirit will only tell us what is written in the Bible. Man will always seek some substitute so that he can modify the Bible in order to try to cope with his changing circumstances. God keeps saying that we must not deviate from Scripture just because of the changing world we are in. Staying with the New Testament church teachings was what God wanted even though this had not made much of an impression in terms of big numbers of believers.

The big numbers and the important people were in the Roman Catholic church. But God was not impressed with them.

God would actually shake up this huge church organisation by using an obscure monk in the unimportant city of Wittenberg.

Sardis (3:1-6) – The Spiritually Dead Church

The Dead Church

3 “And to the angel of the church in Sardis write,

‘These things says He who has the seven Spirits of God and the seven stars: “I know your works, that you have a name that you are alive, but you are dead. ² Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die, for I have not found your works perfect before God. ³ Remember therefore how you have received and heard; hold fast and repent. Therefore if you will not watch, I will come upon you as a thief, and you will not know what hour I will come upon you. ⁴ You have a few names even in Sardis who have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with Me in white, for they are worthy. ⁵ He who overcomes shall be clothed in white garments, and I will not blot out his name from the Book of Life; but I will confess his name before My Father and before His angels.

⁶ “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’

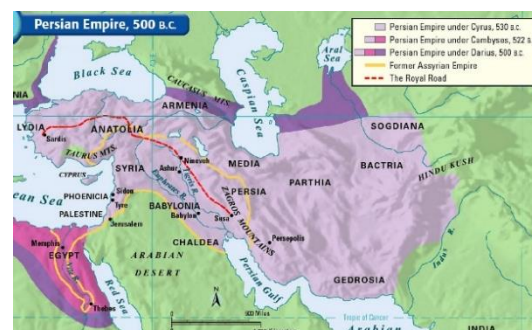

- The name Sardis means "escaping"
 - Three meanings have been proposed: "prince of joy," "that which remains," and "those escaping."
 - We relied on Dr. Fruchtenbaum's scholarship which supports "escaping."
- History
 - It probably dates back to before 2000 BC
 - In 1200 BC, Sardis was the capital of the ancient kingdom of Lydia
 - One of the important cities of the Persian Empire
 - Reputed to be one of the oldest cities of Asia and one of the greatest cities in the world
 - Mentioned by a number of Greek writers including Aeschylus and Thucydides as a city of renown
 - Defeated by King Cyrus of Persia in 359 BC
 - Defeated again by Antiochus III of Syria in 218 BC
 - The wealth of the Lydian kings arose from trade and commerce with the East
 - Became part of the Roman Empire in 129 BC
 - It was the seat of the Proconsul under the Roman Empire
 - The metropolis of the province of Lydia in later Roman and Byzantine times
 - Sardis was destroyed by an earthquake in A.D. 17 and completely rebuilt using its own wealth to do so.
 - When John wrote this, Sardis was a city that had seen its best days and was beginning a period of decline
 - It was a wealthy city, but was living on the glories of the past
 - Sardis was a city known for its softness, luxury, apathy and immorality
 - By 200 AD, Sardis lay in decay
 - Today, Sardis is a small village of Sart
- Earthquake of 17AD
 - Publius Cornelius Tacitus – “In the same year of 17 ad. twelve famous cities in the province of Asia were overwhelmed by an earthquake. Its occurrence at night increased the surprise and destruction. Open ground – the usual place for refuge on such occasions afforded no escape, because the earth parted and opened up and swallowed the fugitives. There are reports of mountains subsiding, of flat ground rising high up in the air, of fires bursting up and out among the debris. Sardis suffered worst and attracted most sympathy.”
- Geography
 - 45 miles northeast of Smyrna (Izmir today); 30 miles southeast of Thyatira

- Sardis was situated on a lofty plateau 1000' above the broad Hermus Valley at the foot of Mount Tmolus
- Sardis appeared to be impregnable. However, the sheer precipitous cliff was clay and suffered continual erosion. The untrustworthy mud left occasion of cracks which could be exploited.
 - The false confidence of the geology was reflected in the character of the inhabitants
 - False confidence
 - Appearance without reality
 - Promise without performance
 - Outward appearance of strength betrayed by want of watchfulness and diligence
- It had significant natural resources chief of them being Gold.
 - Gold was so plentiful there that the river (a creek) that flowed thru the city center would perpetually deposit gold dust at its bottom and shore.

- This is where coins were first minted in the ancient world.
 - In fact, from about 560bc to about 546bc Sardis was ruled by the King of Lydia, King Croesus, who was renowned for his great wealth until defeated by the Persians and made a slave.

- Persian Royal Road

- Began at Persepolis, capital of Persia (Iran of today)
- Sardis was the end station on the Persian Royal Road
- Like the other cities in the book of Revelation, its position on the trade routes made it an important city and a commercial powerhouse.

- Sardis was the center of the industrial arts in the ancient Lydian Kingdom
 - It was famous for its manufacturing and intricate dyeing of woollen objects and carpets, much like Thyatira.
 - Toward the end of the 1st century A.D.—at the time of Revelation—it was an extremely wealthy and prominent city.

- Synagogue

- Across a vast expanse of lawn opposite the gymnasium, Sardis boasted one of the largest and finest synagogues in the Roman Empire, built in the middle of the 2nd century.
- Moses seat on the left, Torah closet on the right.
- The synagogue's intricate mosaic flooring attests to the wealth of the city and to its prosperous Jewish population.

- Sardis was destroyed by an earthquake in A.D. 17 and completely rebuilt using its own wealth to do so. The rebuilt city included a vast gymnasium/bath complex.
 - Notice the extraordinary detail and exquisite craftsmanship of the gymnasium (picture on right).

- Pagan religions
 - Paganism flourished in Sardis. The Christian community was small and weak, and a lot of them returned to their original religions.

- There were Temples to Cybele, Artemis, Diana
- An impressive acropolis housed the twin temples of Artemis (Diana)
 - Built by the Emperor Antoninus Pius (A.D. 86-161), he dedicated this temple to his wife, Annia Faustina
- The goddesses Artemis and Cybele were commemorated on local coins
- Church at Sardis
 - How and when the church there was started are unknown

Greeting

	Praise	Criticism	Command	Promise
Sardis (3:1-6) Spiritually Dead; Alive in appearance only	-- (none)	The church is dead; Church in appearance only; Incomplete deeds; Form without substance	Wake up! Repent! Empower and strengthen what little remains. Turn to Jesus again.	The faithful will be honored and clothed in white. Their names will never be blotted out from the Book of Life but will be acknowledged before God and the angels.

*1 "To the angel of the church in Sardis write:
 These are the words of him who holds the seven spirits of God and the seven stars.*

- Once again the greeting recalls aspects of the Lord noted in Revelation's prologue:
 - the "seven spirits" (1:4) of God – Holy Spirit
 - the "seven stars" (1:16) – Leaders of the churches
- 7 Spirits
 - Rev 5 ⁶ And I looked, and behold, in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as though it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent out into all the earth.
 - Is 11 ¹ There shall come forth a Rod from the stem of Jesse, And a Branch shall grow out of his roots.
² The Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon Him,
 The Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
 The Spirit of counsel and might,
 The Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD.
- 7 Stars
 - Rev 1 ¹⁶ He had in His right hand seven stars, ... ²⁰ The mystery of the seven stars which you saw in My right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands which you saw are the seven churches.
- Jesus is introduced in terms which emphasize His character – as the Lord of all spiritual power and authority
 - He has the 7 spirits of God – the Holy Spirit – in Himself and He gives the Holy Spirit to the churches
 - He has the 7 stars – which represent the angels or representatives of the churches.
 - Jesus is in control over these churches and their source of spiritual life

Condemnation ☹️

I know your deeds; you have a reputation of being alive, but you are dead. 2 Wake up! Strengthen what remains and is about to die, for I have not found your deeds complete in the sight of my God. 3 Remember, therefore, what you have received and heard; obey it, and repent. But if you do not wake up, I will come like a thief, and you will not know at what time I will come to you.

- By reversing the pattern of words of commendation / condemnation, John draws attention to the negative, to the condemnation, placing it front and center.
- Unlike the previous churches, Sardis did not face persecution, nor did they suffer from false teachers.
 - The church in Sardis presented no significant threat to Satan's domain, so it wasn't worth attacking
- I know your deeds; you have a reputation of being alive, but you are dead.
 - Reputation
 - grk: onoma; you have a particular authority or reputation, a noted cause, you have a name, there are names among you. there are persons there. (a history).
 - As Jesus says to each church he also says to Sardis – I know your works
 - He knows what they've been doing – and what they've not been doing – in His name
 - We are not told how the works are incomplete, only that they are.
 - Perhaps they're being done for the wrong reasons - for self-gratification or for public display
 - That's often the danger in wealthy well-endowed parishes and communities. They have an expansive campus, beautiful buildings, state-of-the-art multimedia systems, fine furnishings, well paid staff and programs for every age group and demographic. But it's all for the wrong reasons. Like Narcissus, they have fallen in love with their own image.
 - Lk 8 ¹⁷ For nothing is secret that will not be revealed, nor anything hidden that will not be known and come to light.
 - Heb 4 ¹³ And there is no creature hidden from His sight, but all things are naked and open to the eyes of Him to whom we must give account.
 - To all outward appearances they seemed to be prospering! Yet, says the Lord, the church in Sardis is spiritually dead.
 - Greek word for dead – Nekros
 - “void of life”
 - “a corpse without a soul”
 - Jesus also knows that they have a name or reputation that they are alive
 - If you looked at this church, you would see signs of life and vitality.
 - In the church of Sardis, like the city of Sardis, everything seemed alive and good.
 - The verdict – they are dead.
 - Despite their reputation, Jesus sees them for what they really are
 - A good reputation is no guarantee of true spiritual character
 - Jesus saw them for what they really were despite, their good appearance
 - The church in Sardis is:
 - “A perfect model of inoffensive Christianity” (G.B. Caird)
 - “It was not scandalous wickedness, but decent death; the form retained, the heart gone.” (T.B. Baines)
 - “The church of Sardis was at peace – but it was the peace of the dead.” (William Barclay)
 - Dead Protestantism
 - If you don't believe it's dead, go to Europe – you'll go into a post-Christian era
 - It is dark – the church is dead – the protestant reformation in Europe is dead
 - You say you are alive, but you are really dead

- 2 Wake up! Strengthen what remains and is about to die
 - Wake up!
 - grk: gregoreuo, gray-gor-yoo'-o; to keep yourself awake, meaning literally or figuratively, to be vigilant, alert and watchful.
 - Failing to be a "Watchful" Church, Their Christianity had become Predictable and Mundane – no longer vigilant, no longer alert, no longer watchful
 - What Jesus wants them to do – wake up and get going!
 - Examine and protect, strengthening what they have
 - The city of Sardis had been easily conquered twice before – because overconfidence that had led to a lack of watchfulness.
 - Strengthen grk: sterizo; to go around and shore up, re-establish, re- confirm, make resolute.
 - Remain grk: loipoi; things that are needful, things that matter, things that last, things that are unshakable, things that cannot fall down.
 - You are ready to die
 - You have been slowly dying, you have been dying for a long time and you are in fact at the point of death. – you're mostly dead.
 - A dying or dead church is very; Self-Centered. Self-Impressed. Self-Content. Self-Promoting
 - That Church Has Lost It's Prophetic Voice – The Return of Jesus Christ is No Longer Taught. The Urgency to Reach the Lost is No Longer a Priority.
 - This is How You Spiritually Die – You stop being Watchful. You stop Strengthening. You stop Remembering. You stop Holding On. You stop Repenting.
 - Even though they were apathetic and asleep, they were not hopeless!
 - Jesus had not given up on them – it isn't too late!
- I have not found your deeds complete in the sight of my God.
 - I have not found your works perfect before God – shows that their works, though present, haven't measured up to God's standards
 - God doesn't accept all service directed to Him. He requires a particular intent and purpose in all our works.
 - His standards are internal - the state of our heart in ministering to Him makes all the difference.
 - Just because we are busy, does not mean that we are working acceptably before God
 - These dead churches are so comfortable that they are not open to change and to vision and to the generations that follow after them.
- 3 Remember, therefore, what you have received and heard; obey it, and repent.
 - Remember grk: mnemoneuo; to call to or up in the mind, to draw up as if from a well, to excavate - by taking what is on the bottom and bring it to the top and what is on the top and putting on the bottom.
 - Heard grk: akouo; to listen with the ear, to hear with attention, to have intentions to gather with the ear all that you can.
 - Hold Fast grk: tereo; to grasp, grab hold of, lay a firm grip to what is slipping thru your hands.
 - Repent grk: metanoeo; to make a course correction, to reverse course to correct or to reverse one's mind or purpose.
 - What they must do:
 - Remember how they first received and heard the word of God
 - Hold fast to those things
 - Repent by turning and restoring the gospel and apostolic doctrine as the authority over their lives
 - In other words, they needed to get back into the word of God!
 - 1st Thessalonians 2 ¹³ For this reason we also thank God without ceasing, because when you received the word of God which you heard from us, you welcomed it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which also effectively works in you who believe.
 - This is the kind of attitude that they needed to contemplate with regards to the word of God!
 - Like Ephesus, they are told to repent
 - Greek word for repent is metanoó
 - literally "to turn around" 180 degrees – to get back to where you were at the start

- But if you do not wake up, I will come like a thief, and you will not know at what time I will come to you.
 - This was a terrifying reminder the citizen of Sardis.
 - In the (2) two military campaigns that succeeded against Sardis – they both succeeded during the night while they were sleeping.
 - Jesus combines the 2 historical fears of those of ancient Sardis. He does this by reminding them of:
 - (1) that great earthquake and
 - (2) When their great city (the Impregnable) fell to the Persians under Cyrus and again to Antiochus III The Great.
 - This is where mainline denominationalism increasingly finds itself.
 - They do not believe in a rapture or even in a millennium
 - They teach that the promises of the Millennial Kingdom, the sayings of Isaiah, and the teachings of Revelation are simply allegorical and thus they will be totally caught off guard by Jesus return
 - Don't look for the rapture
 - Don't look for a real kingdom established on Earth
 - There is a great danger in failing to watch
 - Jesus will come upon them as a thief – at a time completely unexpected by them
 - This coming can refer to both an immediate judgment and Jesus unknown return (the rapture)
 - Because they have not been watchful, they will not be ready and prepared for His sudden coming
 - Ro 13 ¹¹ And do this, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep; for now our salvation is nearer than when we first believed. ¹² The night is far spent, the day is at hand. Therefore let us cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light. ¹³ Let us walk properly, as in the day, not in revelry and drunkenness, not in lewdness and lust, not in strife and envy. ¹⁴ But put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make no provision for the flesh, to fulfill its lusts.

Commendation ☺

4 Yet you have a few people in Sardis who have not soiled their clothes. They will walk with me, dressed in white, for they are worthy.

- Jesus is making it clear that not everyone who attends the church in Sardis are saved people.
 - It's a church but not everyone inside the church are of the church.
 - Let Me Tell You How God has Used this Global Quarantine
 - (1) It has broken the habit of going to church.
 - (2) When the church regathers, it will regather with those who want to be here, not because they should be here or ought to be here.
 - There is no greater energy on earth than the church when it is in love with Jesus – the world will never forget what hit them, Love Galore!!!
- Defiled grk: moluno; a prim. word; to stain, defile: —defiled (2), soiled (1).
 - (I did wash you – I'll wash you again)
- Worthy grk: axios; to be of solid weight, ie. like the coins of Sardis – valuable by weight.
 - (I did redeem you – I'll redeem you again)
- Clothed grk: periballo; to throw around or wrap around, to put on,
 - (I did cover you – I'll cover you again)
- Although the church as a whole is spiritually dead, there are still a few people who remain faithful, deeply engaged with Christ and living out their faith in a life of personal piety and active love.
- Even among the dead Christians in Sardis, there was a faithful remnant
 - In Pergamos and Thyatira, there were a few bad among the good
 - In Sardis, there are a few good among the bad

- ‘even in Sardis’ – May refer to the city's notoriously immoral reputation
 - Even in a city that wicked, there have been some who have not defiled themselves by joining in sin
- Why does Jesus refer to defiled garments?
 - In the heathen worship of the day, the gods could not be approached with dirty clothes
 - Here the symbol of purity is plain – He gives his pure ones white garments
 - The garments Jesus gives us are white
 - This was a color of triumph to the Romans
 - It is a universal association with purity
 - Jesus also promises that these pure ones will walk with me
 - This picture of close fellowship and friendship is reminiscent of Enoch who walked with God, and then was not for God took him
 - Ge 5 ²¹ Enoch lived sixty-five years, and begot Methuselah. ²² After he begot Methuselah, Enoch walked with God three hundred years, and had sons and daughters. ²³ So all the days of Enoch were three hundred and sixty-five years. ²⁴ And Enoch walked with God; and he was not, for God took him.
 - The greatest reward for purity is greater intimacy with God
 - This is ultimately a better motivator than the fear of punishment or calamity (though these also can motivate)
 - The pure can have greater intimacy with God – not because they have earned it, but because they are simply more interested in the things of God and interested with all of their life and will
 - Mt 5 ⁸ Blessed are the pure in heart, For they shall see God.

Admonition (Call to Action)

5 He who overcomes will, like them, be dressed in white. I will never blot out his name from the book of life, but will acknowledge his name before my Father and his angels. 6 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

- The promise of reward to overcomers
 - Jesus identifies the overcomers with those few names who have not defiled their garments – They are wearing the white garments received from Jesus
 - Jesus explained the absolute necessity of this being clothed by God with his garments of purity and righteousness in his parable of the wedding feast
 - Matthew 22 ¹¹ “But when the king came in to see the guests, he saw a man there who did not have on a wedding garment. ¹² So he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you come in here without a wedding garment?’ And he was speechless. ¹³ Then the king said to the servants, ‘Bind him hand and foot, take him away, and cast him into outer darkness; there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’ ¹⁴ “For many are called, but few are chosen.”
 - Real righteousness is receiving God's covering instead of trying to cover ourselves
 - The difference between the dead majority (imperfect works but good reputation) and the few names who were pleasing to God was purity and the closeness with Jesus (that is always related to purity)
 - The deadness and spiritual facade of most of the Christians in Sardis was related to their impure lives – and their embrace of the impurity and sin of the world around them
 - One must wonder if deadness comes before impurity or the impurity comes before deadness, but they are surely related
- The overcomers are assured of their heavenly citizenship
 - In the ancient world, death or criminal conviction could blot out the name of an ancient citizen from the city's book of the living (the city register)
 - Because Jesus makes reference to names being blotted out, some think that all human names are initially in the book of life and individuals are blotted out as they personally reject Jesus

- But we should not think that names are being constantly erased and then rewritten
 - The focus here is on assurance – not a fear of Jesus who sits in heaven with an active eraser
- Jesus promises the overcomer that He will confess his name before my father
 - I am not ashamed to confess Christ, but I am amazed that he is not ashamed to confess me!
 - Our acceptance of Jesus is important. His acceptance of us is far more important!
 - We must all hear what the Holy Spirit says to the church at Sardis
 - It is easy to drift in sleepy apathy towards spiritual deadness – especially when you have a good reputation
 - There's always hope for the dead church because Jesus specializes in raising the dead!

Church History (1520-1750)

The Church Ages - Sardis, The Fifth Age, 1520 AD-1750 AD

Nicholas V (1447 – 55) was the best Pope of the century. He realized that a desire for reform was sweeping Europe. He sent the great cardinal Nicholas of Cues to lead the reform movement in Germany. But he also permitted the Portuguese, who were exploring the west coast of Africa, to get involved in the lucrative African slave trade. Wrong ways of earning money was always the downfall of the church. Earning money in dubious ways is still a problem for Christians today.

After Nicholas the Popes did nothing to support and guide the strong local reform movements that were springing up all over Europe. The Popes focused shamelessly on collecting money to build St Peter's basilica or church and other Vatican monuments, using two and a half thousand loads of stone blocks from the deserted Colosseum which had been built by 60 000 Jewish slaves after the fall of Jerusalem. About 400 000 people had been killed in the Colosseum, including many early Christians who were thrown to the lions. Building St Peters as the biggest church in the world obsessed the Popes once building began in 1506. It took 120 years to build. They avidly collected money by any means.

The Catholic reformers, who were not interested in big building projects, began to look to political leaders for support. Individual churches initiated reforms inspired by middle class religious zeal as towns and workers began to unite together which gave them economic and political power.

Powerful religious forces erupted around the year 1500. People wanted reform, they wanted to get closer to God. The Popes provided no leadership as their obsession was for land, even if they had to go to war, as well as an endless greed for money. Pope Leo X (1513 -1521), desperate to build St Peters church, got one third of Rome's money by selling the offices of bishops and archbishops and cardinals as well as selling indulgences whereby you could buy forgiveness of your sins. A growing discontent with Rome simmered strongly under the surface. Europe needed a strong leader who could give direction by carving out a channel that these religious forces could flow through and sweep together to form an irresistible tide.

Historians admit that Luther preached little that was new. Jan Hus had preached much the same a hundred years before in Bohemia. But Luther's greatest quality was to satisfy the growing need of that time for a strong, determined, and faith-driven leader.

Luther and the other reformers became the first to skillfully use the power of the printing press to give their ideas a wide audience and kindle the enthusiasm of millions. No reformer was more adept than Martin Luther at using the power of the press to spread his ideas. Between 1518 and 1525, Luther published more works than the next 17 most prolific reformers combined. Luther translated the New Testament into German which demolished Rome's hold over the German people as church services previously had been held in Latin which people did not understand.

Luther's reform had three simple steps.

1. Man is saved by grace through faith alone.

EPHESIANS 2:8 For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God:
:9 Not of works, lest any man should boast.

The Catholics relied on faith combined with good works.

2. Truth is established by Scripture alone.

PROVERBS 30:5 Every word of God is pure:
II TIMOTHY 3:16 All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:
II TIMOTHY 4:2 Preach the word;

The Catholics relied on the Bible and church tradition.

3. There is no priesthood between the congregation and God because of the priesthood of all believers.

I PETER 2:9 But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood,

The Catholics depended on a Pope and a priesthood who alone could administer certain sacraments that were necessary for salvation. The Pope alone had the right to interpret Scripture.

In 1302 the Pope had declared that there was no salvation outside the Catholic church.

Slowly these Catholic beliefs crept back into the Protestant churches.

Before too long, as it still is today, many Protestants believed that they must get truth from the Bible as well as their leader's quotes.

Christians do not or cannot prove what they believe from the Bible, by linking its verses together. They always end up quoting what some person has said.

Many non-Catholics believe that salvation depends on accepting Jesus as Saviour and then also depends on regular church attendance in a specific denomination or church. Salvation, they are convinced, is only sure when you are in a certain denomination or church group and you do not argue with the church leaders.

1963 THE THIRD SEAL

"If it ain't connected with my organization, it is--nothing to it."

Non-Catholic leaders or pastors were, and still are, elevated to stand between God and the people.

There is a priesthood of the five-fold ministry that claims to have formed between God and the congregation.

A huge spontaneous following flocked to Luther carried along by the deep religious feeling of the age, long before any princes took a hand in the Reformation.

Printing and preaching spread the message of the Reformation. The first years were unorganized and spontaneous and salvation spread rapidly around Europe, guided by the Holy Spirit.

The corruption and immorality in the Catholic church had disillusioned many. Dante, a firm Roman Catholic and the greatest Italian poet of the Dark Ages, around the year 1300 put Popes Nicholas III and Boniface VIII in hell in his poem "Inferno". Reformers were fighting against entrenched corruption and unscriptural doctrines.

Thus Luther, Zwingli, and Calvin did not wish to reform the papacy they wanted to abolish it.

They wanted to abolish monasteries as unscriptural. They regarded the Roman Catholic church institutions as corrupt but were more concerned that the priests had corrupted the faith and were false teachers. The reformation was more of an attempt to restore Biblical Christianity which resulted in a full-scale attack on the Catholic church doctrines and rites. It took on the nature of a revolution.

MATTHEW 10:34 Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword.

In the corrupt and money-grabbing state that the Catholic church was in 1500, the reformation came not to reform but to destroy.

Luther's great success was to launch the doctrine of Justification by faith. No human merit can save a person. God does not accept us because of our good works. Human intellect is chained in darkness and can only choose between different degrees of sin. All we can do is accept Jesus because of His good works but it is only God's grace that enables us to do that. Salvation relies entirely on the merits of the sacrifice of Jesus at Calvary. Nothing we can do can in any way compare with what He did. All we can do is sincerely repent of our own sins and eagerly accept His sacrifice on our behalf. That way we accept Him as our personal Saviour. There was no way in which we could save ourselves.

Why did the Reformation start in Germany?

In France and Spain the king had great power over the princes.

But Germany was different with no strong centralized government. Seven electors from seven different regions elected the German king who was also called the Holy Roman emperor. The German kings had endlessly fought against the Popes, and this had weakened the position of the German kings. Thus the German electors were able to stand up to the German king. Charles V was elected as Holy Roman emperor (or German king) in 1519. He was also king of Austria, Spain, Netherlands, half of Italy and parts of France. As such, Charles V was the most powerful king in Europe.

He decided to give his full support to the Pope.

As such, Luther had a formidable rival to oppose him.

But Germany, as far as Charles V was concerned, was his weakest power base because it was not one kingdom but was broken into numerous smaller independent regions. Elector Frederick III of Saxony, though a Catholic, was able to protect

Luther because the great Dutch theologian Erasmus could not find anywhere where Luther contradicted Scripture. So Frederick III, being a just ruler, felt it was unfair to persecute him. This was a remarkable act of religious tolerance.

Charles V had another problem. His empire was too big. Communication and travel were slow in those days. So he put his brother Ferdinand, a cruel persecutor of Anabaptists in Austria, in charge of Germany and Austria. But the Ottoman Turks were moving up to Vienna in Austria so Ferdinand, who needed all the help and money that he could get from Germany, was not going to try to persecute Protestant Germans. The Ottoman Turks played a crucial role in tying down the resources of the Holy Roman Empire (basically Germany and Austria) and thus the military strength of Charles and Ferdinand was directed against the Turks and not against Germany.

The yellow in the above map shows the final extent of the Ottoman Turk empire by 1580.

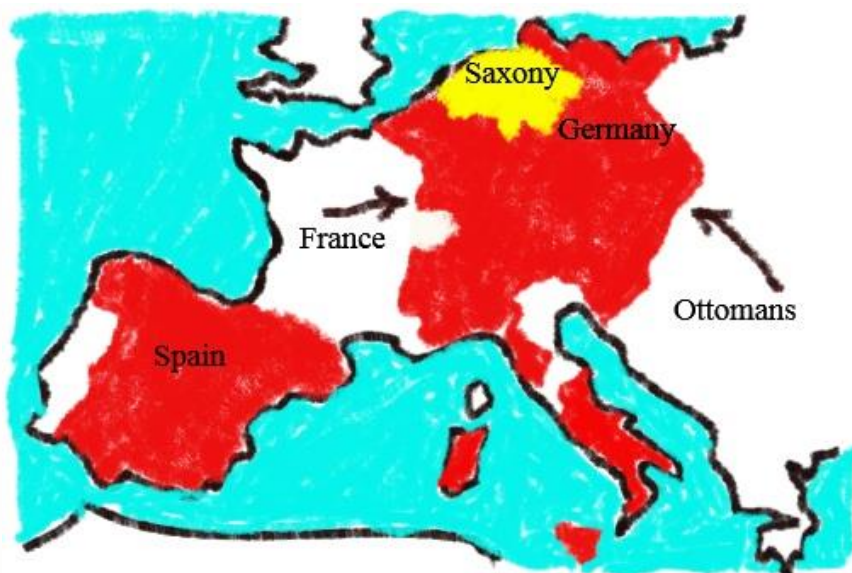

In addition, Charles V, a Roman Catholic, was endlessly fighting France, whose king was also Catholic. This tied up his resources and effectively took the attention of Charles V away from Germany.

This effective balance of power created a situation where the world's most powerful man was unable to silence a turbulent monk who in 1517 had nailed his 95 Theses to the church door in the city of Wittenberg in the German state of Saxony in protest against the selling of indulgences whereby people thought that they bought forgiveness for sins.

The world was electrified by this remarkable scenario.

Europe at last found a voice that had been raised to utter what most of them felt, that the whole system of indulgences was a fraud that had no place in the Gospel.

Europe watched in fascination as a poor monk now faced and fought the whole vast Papal religious and political power.

After the Ottoman Turks conquered Constantinople in 1453 they dominated a large portion of eastern Europe. As the Ottoman Turks pushed towards Vienna they became an alarming threat towards Europe. France, and at times even the Pope, would make an alliance with the Ottoman Turks in order to limit the power of Charles V. Thus Charles V was caught between two strong enemies, as is shown on the map above, who took up much of his time, effort, and wealth.

His complete empire in Europe is shown in red in the above map.

Saxony, where Martin Luther lived in northern Germany, was safely far away from Charles V even though it was part of his empire. God had performed an amazing balancing act of political power.

In Germany, certain of the seven electors combined to oppose Charles V which severely limited his power in Germany and thus Charles V was powerless to act effectively in Germany. In addition, due to his struggle against France, he spent most of his time outside of Germany, leaving Luther free to continue with his Reformation.

The Suevi and Visigoths had become the Portuguese and Spaniards and they had opened up central and South America where they looted huge amounts of gold and silver for the Catholic church and added vast new empires to the Catholic church making Charles V the most powerful king on earth. This was Luther's main political opponent.

The huge problem with this church age was that religion and politics were completely intermixed. And politics always puts the emphasis on money. Thus money played a dominant role in this church age.

The Popes wanted money for building up St Peter's church and the Vatican city.

Looting South American gold and silver made up for all the losses Rome suffered due to countries in northern Europe breaking away from Rome and becoming Protestant.

The poor wanted to reject Catholicism so that they could loot the monasteries and the houses of the rich.

The princes wanted to reject Catholicism so that they could seize all the valuable church properties.

The sheer wealth of the Roman church made it a tempting target for Protestants to loot.

Many became Protestants just for the financial gain. This was a very poor motive.

Philip of Hesse, one of the most important Protestant rulers in Germany, dissolved the monasteries and nunneries in his territories and although he was only able to keep 41 % of the money for himself, his financial gain was considerable. He had a good name because he refused to kill "heretics" or religious dissenters. By introducing Protestantism into his state, he also increased his control over the church. This was a big mistake as the reformed church became dependent on political power for protection and money.

By breaking with Rome the princes were able to achieve their ambition of usurping the authority of the Pope and the bishops. The princes now began to rule some of the Protestant churches.

The Reformation was starting to replace one set of elevated human Roman Catholic leaders with another set of elevated human Protestant leaders.

In the territories ruled by a prince the religion of the ruler was binding on his people.

We humans have an infinite capacity for self-deception to justify our decisions. The self-gain in terms of power and money was often the reason for a person's choice of faith.

In 1534 King Henry VIII broke from the Catholic church who refused to give him a divorce so that he could re-marry. Thus he broke with Rome and England, for all the wrong reasons, set off on the path where they would finally become Protestant in 1559 under his daughter Elizabeth I.

PSALM 76:10 Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee:

Such is God's power that he used the violent anger of the English king who wanted to divorce and re-marry (which is not allowed in the New Testament) to break Rome's hold over England.

MARK 10:11 And he saith unto them, Whosoever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her.

:12 And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

Tetzel was selling indulgences for the archbishop of Mainz and Magdeburg in the city of Wittenberg when Luther nailed his 95 Theses to the church door. The archbishop had borrowed money to buy more than one bishopric, so he needed the sale of indulgences to settle his debt. The Pope had a finger in the pie because he would get half the money for building St Peter's church in the Vatican in Rome.

Luther's indignation exploded in the form of his 95 Theses against indulgences and many other antiPope tracts.

At the Diet of Worms in 1521 when Charles V told him to recant and deny his teachings, Luther gave this classic answer which made him the leader of the biggest upheaval to hit the church.

"Unless I am convinced by the testimony of the Scriptures or by clear reason (for I do not trust either in the pope or in councils alone, since it is well known that they have often erred and contradicted themselves), I am bound by the Scriptures I have quoted and my conscience is captive to the Word of God. I cannot and will not recant anything, since it is neither safe nor right to go against conscience. May God help me. Amen".

Church unity, which for hundreds of years had been submissive to the Pope, was finally shattered.

82 words stated in three sentences, launched a new church age and changed Europe forever, religiously and politically.

North Europe went Protestant and starting with the Dutch Calvinists they developed the enormous power of a capitalist economy.

Central Europe accepted Protestantism but succumbed largely to the Catholic counter Reformation that started about 1540.

From the year 1540 to 1570 "it is proved by national authentic testimony, that nearly one million of Protestants were publicly put to death in various countries in Europe, besides all those who were privately destroyed, and of whom no human record exists" (J.P. Callender, Illustrations of Popery, 1838, p. 400).

Southern Europe remained a Catholic stronghold.

In mountainous Switzerland Zwingli, then Calvin picked up the Reformation fire. John Knox went to Scotland and uprooted Catholicism more effectively than it was done in any other country. Many were angry with the Catholic church in Scotland, which owned more than half the real estate and gathered an annual income of nearly 18 times that of the Scottish king. This was too big a financial prize for the Protestants to ignore.

Luther's big failure was to be involved in politics.

The tyranny of the monks who saw their position and privileges vanishing, were violent without measure. The Pope's authorities decided to use their old methods of cursing and killing to crush this new movement. Luther wrote about Freedom in Christ and the peasants and workers interpreted this as freedom from their lords and princes. They failed to grasp that Justification by Faith should lead to living a Christ-like life. Because Luther condemned the monasteries as being a perversion of the Gospel, the peasants felt that they could loot and ransack the monasteries. So the spiritual freedom that Luther preached became intertwined with the desire for political and financial freedom of the oppressed peasants. Between 1524 -1526, demanding freedom, 300 000 peasants and land workers rose up in revolt against their oppressive and despotic lords and princes, pursuing their material and financial aspirations with evangelical zeal. They hoped that this new Protestant religion would enable them to rob the houses of the rich and free them from paying taxes to the Catholic church. Luther, sadly, grew too dogmatic and backed the despotic princes against the people. 100 000 peasants were killed which cast a bleak shadow over the Reformation in Germany. This fatally tied the Lutheran church to the protection of the princes and as time went on the Lutheran church became a state church of the conservative upper and middle classes.

Luther also made the mistake of condemning the Jews. Hitler finally rose up to fulfill his condemnation of the Jews.

63-0318 THE FIRST SEAL

When Martin Luther made the proclamation that all Jews ought to be run off and their buildings burned down because they were antichrist... See? Martin Luther made that statement himself in his writing.

Now, Hitler just fulfilled what Martin Luther said. Why did Martin Luther say that? Because he was a reformer, not a prophet. God that... My prophet blessed Israel. He said, "Whosoever blesses you will be blessed, and who curses you will be cursed." How can one prophet stand and deny what the other prophet said? He can't do it. It's got to be in harmony.

After carrying out several brilliant reforms, Luther then continued with certain Catholic church traditions.

Luther carried over from the Dark Ages church of Rome the general practice of baptizing infants.

He also adopted the Catholic system of parishes where a priest was in charge of an area and then a bishop was in charge of a number of priests.

Another mistake that Luther made was to accept the Roman Catholic Trinity. He emphasized being Scriptural but ignored men like Erasmus of Rotterdam and Thomas More who pointed out that the words used to define the Trinity were not in the Bible. Zwingli and Calvin, the other two great reformers in Switzerland, also backed down from opposing the Trinity. When Servetus, a Spanish doctor, dared to take the great step of rejecting the Trinity as unscriptural, which all the great reformers were not prepared to do, the reformer Calvin had him burned at the stake.

The Anabaptists tried to restore adult baptism but the reformer Zwingli in 1525 approved that Anabaptists should be drowned. The reformers used a clause in the law of Justinian, the Roman emperor who died in 565 AD, which had demanded the death sentence for anyone who got re-baptized or who denied the Trinity. The Reformation, based on a return to the Bible, was grinding to a halt.

The reformers believed that the political security of a country meant that everyone must obey its laws, as passed by the government, as well as obeying the religious laws of the leader of the country. There had to be uniformity of belief. If the leader of the country was Protestant, you had to be Protestant. If he was Catholic, you had to be Catholic. Politics and religion had become too intertwined.

The union of church and state was maintained. Political leaders could punish dissenters.

The religion of a territory became identical with the religion of its prince. The only religious freedom of choice that you had was to emigrate to a country whose prince shared your beliefs.

The emergence of kings and princes as the ones to decide the religion of their dominions gave the religious struggle a new political violence. Except for England, the kings in Europe became Catholic. Provinces and cities resisted the power of kings to control them and they, especially in northern Europe, became Protestant so that they could gain their own political independence.

Then Calvin came up with a convincing explanation of predestination which reduced man to being a robot who was either saved or not saved purely by God's will. This extreme view demolished any form of human free will.

It would take a lot more insight before Christians would be able to grasp that free will and predestination could co-exist. The mistake of this age was not realizing that they only had part of the truth. With extreme bravery they had broken the Roman Catholic monopoly and dazzlingly presented Justification by Faith to get people saved. But instead of leaving the difficult and controversial ideas open until they could be resolved better when God revealed more truth in later years, they insisted on establishing viewpoints which were based on some Scriptures and ignored others.

Thus the Reformation slowly ground to a halt as the different groups in Europe formed denominations that entrenched their own ideas. They would ignore any further revelation of Scripture. So God would finally have to bypass them.

The reformers had made a good beginning, but then they stopped in their pursuit of what the original church believed. So the Reformation was a big step forward but it would be left to a later generation of men like John Wesley and the missionaries to take the Gospel further.

Wesley became famous for saying, "The world is my parish".

This laid the basis for the golden missionary age of Christianity where the technological development of big ships could carry missionaries over the oceans and railways could take them inland.

By 1500 the papacy was spiritually bankrupt but Luther's reformation forced the Catholic church to start reforming themselves which led to the establishment of the Jesuits in 1540 who preached total submission to the Pope ("If the Pope says white is black then I will believe it", said their founder Ignatius of Loyola) and the Council of Trent that met three times between 1545 and 1563. Then they established and were able to launch a very effective counter reformation against the Protestants which won back lots of territory in central Europe from the Protestants.

The Protestants declared that the Pope was the antichrist but the Catholics took the future prophecies back into the past and claimed that the emperor Nero was the beast and that the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 AD was the Tribulation. People who preferred this interpretation reverted back to Catholicism.

This was a clever tactic whereby future prophecies are neatly nullified. According to them, the Bible is a record of past events that does not tell us of the future.

Today Message believers consider the great Cloud that appeared in the past in 1963 near the city of Flagstaff in northern Arizona to be the fulfillment of the future Coming of the Lord or of the future coming down of the mighty Angel of Revelation Chapter 10. Thus they claim that the mysterious seven Thunders have already uttered. Placing the future into the past, thus repeats itself as a classic tactic of spiritual error.

The Inquisition in Rome established in 1542 rooted all Protestants out of Italy by tracking them down confiscating all their goods and lands, imprisoning them or killing them. The Spanish Inquisition established in 1478 had kept Protestantism out of Spain.

The great reformer Calvin had to flee persecution in France and go to Switzerland.

By 1560 a vigorous Catholic church was fighting back.

The fighting got literal. For almost a century the Catholics and the Protestants would be at each other's throats in a civil and religious war.

The ambition of the Catholic kings for centralized control over all their countries and the desire of Protestant cities and provinces to defend their own local liberties thus became a political power struggle with an added intense religious dimension. The certainties of faith were mixed inextricably with the passions of politics. The struggle became absolute, incapable of compromise.

This awful time ended in the 30 year's war in central Europe between 1618 and 1648. It was the deadliest and most destructive religious war in Europe where 6 to 8 million people died. Devastation, famine, and disease as well as mercenaries and soldiers looting and terrorizing the inhabitants became the standard conditions. The war ground to a halt as most of the countries involved became bankrupt. Territories lost up to a third or more of their inhabitants. The south-west of Germany had hardly one-third of their pre-war population left. Sheer exhaustion stopped the fighting. It took 100 years before some regions of Germany in 1750 got back to their 1618 population numbers.

The one exception was the Dutch Republic.

In 1648 they had fought the Spanish to a stand-still and finally ended their revolt against Spain and then enjoyed a time of great prosperity and development. They became one of the world's foremost economic and naval powers. The economic boom of capitalism was starting to take off in Protestant countries.

Sardis was a church that looked strong but was actually weak.

They began well but then reacted to the conditions of the age, the frightening waves of awful violence and like Simon Peter they took their eyes off the Bible that they had started returning to, and began to sink.

But despite their faults, this fifth church age turned a dramatic corner.

Thanks to them people now began to get saved. Luther was the first man to lead a revolt against Rome that actually enabled people to escape and form Protestant countries that could stay separate from Rome.

The seven-branched candlestick that had gone so far away from the early church in the Dark Ages of the fourth church age, now had a flame on the other side. Justification. The just will live by faith. Despite all the problems and errors of the age, this great truth had caught hold in people's hearts.

HABAKKUK 2:4 : but the just shall live by his faith.

The huge improvement was one of direction.

For the first time since the apostolic age, the church had taken a step of restoration towards the early church, rather than away from it. EVIL spelled backwards is LIVE. The church had rediscovered salvation by faith. There was still a lot to restore but they were starting to head in the right direction, back towards the first church age. The church was coming alive. The sun was starting to rise after the long dark night of the Dark Ages.

REVELATION 3:1 And unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead.

Sardis means "the escaped ones".

Luther, the great angel or messenger to his age, had managed to escape from Rome. But God has seven stars, seven messengers who were allocated to the seven church ages that would cover the 2 000 years of church history. There are still two more church ages to go. God manifested a different aspect of His Spirit to each of the seven ages because each age faced totally different situations and conditions. It looked like God was behaving in seven different ways. Seven totally different men would be raised up to guide each age in their seven different ways. Truth got lost in stages and now truth would be restored in stages, making each age and its challenges different.

But the followers of the reformers made a big mistake. They thought that they were the last church age and that the reformers had restored the full truth. The reformation churches built their doctrinal walls around themselves. The reformers tried to reveal the whole Bible, not realizing that enough truth had not yet been revealed. The reformers were the green leaves of the restored church that grew out of the dirt of the Dark Ages where the true seed had been buried since the council of Nicaea.

The works of these reformers were tremendous. Aided by the printing press they spread salvation far and wide. But their followers then called themselves by human and other man-made names like Lutheran, Calvinist, Anabaptists.

Thus the reform movement stopped and they built monuments of big church buildings.

Meanwhile, the life moved out of them as they denominated around the quotes of their leaders and the Life would go into the tassels that would blow the pollen over the field in the great missionary age that would follow. But the green leaves were drying up as time went on. They had carried the Life for a while but life moves on and sadly they did not, as they rejected further revelation.

Death by organization and denomination.

Each church believing that they had it all. So God had to raise up another church age of the greatest of missionaries to pick up the baton that had been dropped by the followers of the reformers.

REVELATION 3:2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God.

They had justification by faith. They had taught people the need to be saved. They had broken from many Roman Catholic beliefs. But in that cruel age, instead of focusing on what they got right which was salvation, Protestants began to persecute people that they disagreed with.

They also relied on the state for money, protection, and the enforcing of their doctrines.

They attempted to interpret all the Bible and in the process they established many wrong doctrines. Infant baptism. A church hierarchy of bishops and archbishops that was above the pastors. Each church was dominated by a pastor. Churches took on human or man-made names. Anglican church. Presbyterian church. Zwinglian church. Huguenots. Doctrinal errors were established like Trinity, Eve ate an apple, a seven-year Tribulation.

Denominational zeal replaced revelation of the Scripture. This age got off to a good start but was then unfulfilled.

They put their denomination first. It was more important to them than the Bible.

REVELATION 3:3 Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

Justification by faith was a great start. But then they moved on to state control of the church and forcing people to believe what the leader of the territory believed. Protestants even drowned Anabaptists just because they practised adult baptism. The great reformer Zwingli began preaching in Zurich in 1519 but was killed in 1531 because he tried to apply an unsuccessful food blockade against the Catholics in Switzerland. They attacked unexpectedly and killed him.
